

25805 Oxford
Dearborn, Mich.

July 10, 1962

Dear Louis,

(I hope that's not too informal -- you signed your letter so, so I assumed you wanted to be addressed that way.)

Well, here's a draft of my MSS. Pardon me for sending a mimeographed copy -- the thing is that I want to send copies for criticism to a number of friends and by sending you one of those I can get it to you much quicker.

This is, of course, pretty rough in spots -- some of the repetitions don't pay off, some of the language is awkward, and there may be

Transcription:

23805 Oxford

Dearborn, Mich.

July 10, 1962

Dear Louis,

(I hope that's not too informal -- you signed your letter so, so I assumed you wanted to be addressed that way.)

Well, here's a draft of my MSS. Pardon me for sending a mimeographed copy -- the thing is that I want to send copies for criticism to a number of friends and by sending you one of those I can get it to you much quicker.

This is, of course, pretty rough in spots -- some of the repetitions don't pay off, some of the language is awkward, and there may be some difficult words that I could get rid of.

But I think this is substantially what it will be like. I'm very serious in saying I want criticism or suggestions -- I don't or can't always ~~follow~~ <sup>take</sup> them -- but I really want them.

Hope all is going well with you. Everything here is monstrous, but I've just come back from a jaunt to San Francisco which should keep me going for some time to come.

All the best,

RL

P.S.

Forgive me for what might seem impertinent: I was very much touched by your story about the girl with the Catholic background; have you ever thought of writing about that?

Transcription:

some difficult words that I could get rid of. But I think this is substantially what it will be like. I'm very serious in saying I want criticism or suggestions -- I don't or can't always ~~take~~follow them -- but I really want them.

Hope all is going well with you. Everything here is monstrous, but I've just come back from a jaunt to San Francisco which should keep me going for some time to come.

All the best,
DE

P.S.

Forgive me for what might seem impertinent: I was very much touched by your story about the girl with the Catholic background; have you ever thought of writing about that?