Quay Makes Murray Chairman Of Senior Ball, Worster Of Senior Play

17 SENIORS ON COMMITTEES

Harvey Quay, president of the senior class, announces the selection of the Senior Week-end committees, with Robert Murray and Clayton Worster chairmen of the dance and play committees respectively.

Others on the Senior Ball committee are: Virginia Fenton, Katharine Wood, Ruth Seitz, Charles Wynkoop, Kenneth Wildonger, Paul Lauer, Sieber Pancoast, Herbert Griffiths and Elmer Gaumer.

The play committee includes: Ida Trout, Sarah Atkinson, Eleanor Bothell, Florence Roberts, Spencer Halberstadt, and Wilson Rahn.

Neither of these committees has done anything definite as yet, other than to consider various dance bands and dramatic productions for final selection.

GROUP OF ALUMNI, FACULTY FORM LIBRARY AID SOCIETY

Calvin Yost Jr. Is Elected Head of Small, Active Society

Following a rather widespread movement among colleges and universities, a local group of alumni and faculty members have banded themselves together into what is to be known as the Friends of the Ursinus Library.

At an organization meeting held last Thursday evening, the group of approximately twenty charter members elected the following officers: President, Dr. Calvin Yost, Jr. '30; vice-president, Dr. Jesse Heiges '98; secretary-treasurer, Miss Gladys Barnes '30.

This Association is an informal organization, with no constitution, no binding motive other than to help the library, to help to improve it, and to make it grow.

It is at present small, but enthusiastic, and the group does not intend to sacrifice activity and results for the sake of size.

All those alumni and friends of the College who are really interested in making the Ursinus Library a bigger, better institution of education are gladly invited to apply for membership.

The stipulation is that each member of the Association contribute two dollars and one new book to the library each year, so that its purpose may be carried out.

Deaths Of Three Related To Faculty, Alumni, During Week

Within the past week three persons related to either the Ursinus alumni or faculty died. The Weekly extends its sincere regrets to the bereaved.

Last Wednesday, W. Harvey Johnson, husband of Rhea Duryea Johnson, passed away at the Graduate Hospital in Philadelphia. Mrs. Johnson was graduated from Ursinus in 1908, and is the only woman alumni director of the College. Mr. Johnson was lately connected with the Franklin Fire Insurance and the Pennsylvania Lumberman's Insurance Companies.

Dr. Matthew Beardwood's sister, Miss Hannah Beardwood, died last Tuesday evening. Miss Beardwood resided with Dr. Beardwood before her death.

Mr. Orlando W. Old, father of Dr. Marcus C. Old and retired teacher, living in Allentown, passed away here last Tuesday.

CURTAIN CLUB TRYOUTS

Try-outs for the Curtain Club will be held Wednesday evening at 8, in Bomberger, instead of to-night as previously announced. All scholastically eligible students may compete.

CURTAIN CLUB TO PRODUCE TWO PLAYS FOR ROAD TRIPS

14 Ursinus Players Are Members of Alpha Psi Omega

At a meeting of the Curtain Club held on Tuesday evening, October 13, it was announced by Prof. Reginald Sibbald that plans will soon be under way for the production of several plays to be presented by the Club at various high schools in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

This movement is in line with the College administration's general program of placing Ursinus College before the eyes of high school boys and girls, prospective students at Ursinus.

The plays to be given have as yet not been decided upon. Among those being considered, however, are "The Ghost Train," which was presented on campus a few years ago, and a light English comedy called "Mr. Pim Passes By."

Prof. Sibbald also revealed that plans were being made to improve the stage and seating arrangement in the gymnasium. New spotlights have already been bought, and a new floor covering is to adorn the stage. In addition, a raised platform is being made to elevate the seats in the back of the gymnasium, so that the audiences in the rear at future productions can have a better view of the stage.

It was also decided at the meeting to issue a call for candidates for membership to the Club. The time scheduled for the tryouts is Wednesday evening at 8:00.

PRES. MCCLURE TO SPEAK AT DINNER AS GUEST OF HONOR

This evening Pres. Norman E. McClure will be the guest of honor at a dinner to be held at 6:15 p. m. in the ball room of the Valley Forge Hotel in Norristown. The dinner, which is being held under the auspices of the "Council of 100" of the Young Men's Christian Association, is in commemoration of the 115th Anniversary of the birth of the Founder of the Y. M. C. A. Dr. McClure will deliver his address following the dinner, his subject being "Youth and Tomorrow."

The Invitation Committee for the "Council of 100": Hon. Harold G. Knight, John S. Carter, Joseph L. Eastwick, Anson B. Evans and Herbert H. Ganser.

Rec Center Plans Near Completion

McClure, Bailey Announce Use Of Wrestling Room As Social Hall

RECEPTION ROOM IS PLANNED

Plans under the direction of President Norman E. McClure and Everett M. Bailey, instructor in physical education, are rapidly nearing completion to make the long talked-of recreational center a reality.

On several occasions during the past few years Ursinus bodies have agitated for such an improvement, but the matter never went beyond the planning stage. This time, however, the social room seems to be really on its way.

Tentatively, the plan is to use the room in the basement of Bomberger that has served for wrestling. The grapplers will be moved to the men's day study, and the male commuters will be expected to use the library for study.

Although details of administration and supervision have not been completed, the room will be used by both the men and women students of the College.

In line with this improvement comes an announcement from President McClure that the lobby of the upstairs dining hall in Freeland will be furnished to serve as a reception room. This solves the problem of where to rest or entertain campus visitors.

Vogue Magazine Has Career Contest For Senior Co-eds

Vogue Magazine is sponsoring its second annual Prix de Paris career contest, which is open to all girls enrolled in the senior class of all accredited colleges and universities of the country, and which will start November 1.

The winner of the contest is awarded a trip to Paris with all expenses paid, where, for at least six months, she will be identified with the Paris staff of Vogue. The remainder of the year, during which she will have a paying position with the magazine, will be spent in Vogue's New York office, reporting fashions from an American angle.

There is also a second major award, carrying with it six months employment on the New York editorial staff of Vogue. Other contestants may be selected for positions in other departments of the magazine.

The contest consists of a series

Fighting Grizzlies Stalemate Powerful Roses; Bears Click On All Eleven To Spring Upset

Diplomats Threaten To Score on Five Occasions But Bears Hold; First Approach Carries To One Foot Marker

VICTORY PUTS URSINUS ON TOP IN CONFERENCE STANDING

Continuing the brand of fight and heads-up ball that has characterized their four games this fall, the Grizzlies of Ursinus stalemated a powerful and highly-touted eleven on Williamson grid-iron, the home field of Franklin and Marshall's Diplomats, in the biggest surprise to date of the Eastern Collegiate Conference schedule.

F. and M. Threatens On Aerials

Though playing under clear skies, the field was soggy and slow, and on each of the five occasions that the Diplomats penetrated as deep as the Ursinus 15 yard line their advance was due mainly to their powerful passing attack. While the Bears were unable to click on a single pass, F. and M. aerials earned a total of 150 yards. As far as straight football is concerned, the Bears proved equal to the Diplomats as each team ran the ball for 125 yards. First downs were 15 to 5 in favor of the Nevonians. In the first quarter the Roses moved down to the Ursinus 1 foot marker where they were stopped by a powerful Bear forward wall. On other occasions they penetrated to the 9, 13, and twice to the 15.

Power's Punts Help

Bill Power, little, brainy quarterback, kept the home team back on its heels with his long accurate punts, and although Joe Medwick, tricky F. and M. safety, was spectacular in his return of punts, the Diplomats' big gun was effectively silenced on scrimmage plays by the hard-charging Bear line.

Midway thru the first period, a long pass from Royer to Hummer placed the ball on the Ursinus 5. Four plays fell one foot short of the goal. After Power kicked out to the 38, a pass from Ciliberti to Hummer placed the oval on the 9, where he was stopped by Padden. Four more plays resulted in a 4 yard gain for the Diplomats. Then, with Power back in kicking formation, the ball went to Smith who tore thru center for 14 yards to put the ball on the 19 for Ursinus' initial first down.

Turkey Day Games To Be Played At F. and M. For Five Years

Ursinus is to meet Franklin and Marshall, her traditional rival, in the feature spot of the football schedule for five consecutive years beginning in 1938.

The date, Thanksgiving Day, will emphasize the rivalry between the two schools, which rivalry is among the oldest in the state.

As Lancaster is rather centrally located as far as the majority of Ursinus alumni is concerned, all the games will be played there. The Diplomats are, however, scheduled to visit Collegeville for the 1937 game.

SOCIAL SCIENCE FELLOWSHIPS OPEN TO SENIORS AND GRADS

Research training fellowships for the school year 1937-38 have been announced by the national Social Science Research Council. These fellowships, for research in the social sciences, are restricted to beginning graduate students. They carry a stipend of $1000 a year plus tuition, and are renewable on the basis of performance.

The selection of candidates is made on a basis of preparation and capacity for research. The council also offers several research fellowships to advanced graduate students.

Application for these grants must be in by March 15, 1937. All seniors interested should consult with their group advisers.

CURTAIN CLUB TO PRESENT HEDGEROW PLAYERS IN SHAKESPEARE'S "TWELFTH NIGHT" ON NOVEMBER 14, The FIRST OF SERIES OF THREE PLAYS TO BE GIVEN AT URSINUS

On Saturday evening, November 14, an event of great importance is destined to take place on the Ursinus campus. For on that night the nationally known Hedgerow Theatre of Philadelphia, under the direction of its famous founder, Jasper Deeter, is scheduled to present the first of a series of three plays in the Thompson-Gay Gymnasium.

This famous theatrical group is being brought to this campus under the auspices of the College Curtain Club.

The play to be offered that evening by the players is the well-known Shakespearean comedy, "Twelfth Night." This has proven to be the most popular play in the Theatre's repertory.

Written as only that greatest playwright of them all, William Shakespeare, can write, the play is replete with many beloved characters and mirth-provoking scenes, and full justice is done to the English bard's work by Mr. Deeter, known as the master-craftsman of the theatre, and his skilled group of players.

The Hedgerow is the most famous group of its kind in the United States. At present it has a repertory of 121 plays on its list—a repertory that combines the best of past theatrical centuries with the outstanding plays of the modern era. Among the many plays in its repertory can be found those of such famous playwrights as Shakespeare, Ibsen, Moliere, Shaw, Milne, Barry, Glaspell, and O'Neill.

The idea in back of Hedgerow is repertory—which means playing a different play each night on a rotating system. Its benefits are in that it presents to the audience a wide variety of theatrical entertainment, and keeps a play running for years, by not wearing it out in a long run and then discarding it. One day the audience is treated to a melodrama, the next to a light comedy; and so the entertainment varies throughout the year.

The Hedgerow Theatre is unusual in that it is a cooperative group. Its home is in the Moylan-Rose Valley just outside of Philadelphia. There the players have their own theatre, and live in buildings situated nearby. Proceeds of the plays go into a common fund, from which is drawn money to feed and cloth the players and to pay for the upkeep of the theatre.

The players do more than act. They do their own cooking, wash their own laundry; they build their own scenery; make their own costumes. Each one at some time or another must perform all these duties. And so it is not at all unusual to find the leading character of the previous night's play washing dishes or performing some similar task the next day.

Each player gets his or her chance to enact a leading role. Each one at some time or another plays bit parts, and most important of all, each player is given every opportunity to try diversified roles and thus develop his art.

To the Ursinus campus comes this unique and talented group, under one of the leading directors of the theatre, namely, Jasper Deeter. It is a rare opportunity indeed, and one which Ursinus students should take advantage of. A well-trained cast in a well-known comedy by an immortal author is being offered on the evening of November 14.

Tickets for "Twelfth Night" will be placed on sale this coming week. Reserved seats will cost 75 cents, all others will be 50 cents. The committee in charge of all arrangements is as follows: Nancy Harman '38, Mildred Olp '37, Ruth Grauert '39, William Wimer '39, James Baird '38 and Paul Craigie '38.

Editorial Comment

MORE NEW DEAL

In line with the New Deal for Ursinus came the announcements of two long talked-of improvements—a recreational center and a campus reception room.

As soon as both become realities, the administration will have done its part. Then comes the Ursinus students share. The attitude and light in which we accept and use these rooms will determine how much cooperation we can expect from the College in anything else we want. We asked for these and got them. All that is asked of us by the administration, to whom go the proverbial orchids, is that we take care of them.

TO MUHLENBERG BY BUS

There were a lot of Ursinus rooters at the Franklin and Marshall game on Saturday, but still not enough. And we know of more who would have liked to go but had no means of transportation.

When F. and M. played Fordham, the Lancaster school ran a bus to the Fordham field. Why can't Ursinus do that?

The duty seems to devolve upon the Athletic Association, but if they can't do it, why can't the Men's Student Council? It's as good a thing as any for them to start on.

THE HIGHWAY PARASITE

Ever since we have been at Ursinus College, we have watched the College boys stand on the Reading pike in front of the Eger Gateway thumbing their way to their homes.

In the Philadelphia Inquirer of October 12, an editorial writer strongly admonishes the public against the "increasing menace of the hitch-hiker." He goes further, and ends up in our own backyard: "High school and college authorities also could take a firmer stand in this matter than now seems evident, judging by the number of student hitch-hikers observed in the vicinity of schools."

On whether or not the College could do anything about it we shall not long dwell. Just exactly what it could do does not immediately present itself to us. The jurisdiction of the school over college men goes only so far. The only fulcrum it would have is the state law, or perhaps parental cooperation.

What we are concerned with, however, is should the college do anything about it? Is the problem really as great as the Inquirer writer believes when he says that colleges "should more strongly emphasize the menaces to life and limb and self-reliance which begging or stealing rides offer young people"?

As for the safety angle, the way the college boy thumbs, it is to his best interests to watch the motorist and make himself seen. Under these conditions, it is almost impossible to be hit. Suffice it to say that in the past, from what we know of it, thumbing home from college has proven definitely not dangerous.

And as for saying that the college boy is in danger of losing his sense of self-reliance by thumbing home from college when he can't get home any other way, we can't see it.

Therein, that he can't get home any other way, lies the greatest of the slender justifications one might offer for thumb traveling, in the college boy's case. Certainly he does not feel exactly right about throwing himself on the public charity. But right now, it is a matter of expediency. Railroad connections for all points of the compass are undeniably poor in Collegeville. And there are men in this school who would not be able to get home from autumn until June if they had to pay several hundred miles of bus and railroad fare.

And in the end, we believe that a college boy has a well-balanced mind, strong enough not to be corrupted by the practice of hitch-hiking. No matter what they say about loss of social responsibility and of independence of character, we're willing to bet a plugged nickel that after he gets out of college and gets a job, he'll be only too glad to buy railroad tickets and an automobile.

THE PROFESSOR SPEAKS

by Harvey L. Carter
Associate Professor of History

A couple of years ago, when the Weekly was running a series of articles by faculty members, I had some things on my mind that I wanted to get off my chest. But I did not get a chance to ventilate my views at that time. Now that I have been asked to contribute something, it seems that I have not a thing that I seriously wish to say. So, if you do not mind, I will just join the gaffers, gleaners, and ramblers in this column.

After a year away from Ursinus, I find that it is swell to be back. During my year's leave, I read a lot of history and wrote a little of it. I enjoyed the luxury of a long and expensive illness, in the course of which I learned a lot about doctors and a little about disease. Some of you may have noted that my Republican ear has become a little deaf, but my Democratic one is still sound.

In my travels west and south-west, I do not believe that I was ever in anything but Democratic territory, except while crossing a corner of Kansas. This might be supposed to have been agreeable to me, since my political leanings are well known, and I take a good bit of friendly argument and kidding concerning them. But I proceed on the theory that it is more blessed to give than to receive, and endeavor to give as good as I get.

So it was a real treat to get back and hear students who receive hand-outs from the college, in the form of scholarships (academic dole) or waiter's jobs (work relief), criticizing the administration for handing out money to indigent families, or giving W. P. A. jobs to unemployed men. Then when I went to the Dickinson football game and walked about among the old timers, it was just like strolling through a garden of sun flowers. It is very comforting to the ego when one can feel that he is on the right track while most of his friends are chasing down a blind alley.

But I reckon the football team is Democratic. They scored one touchdown out of a possible three. This was following President Roosevelt's 1933 announcement that he did not expect to get a hit every time he went to bat. I know, too, that sometimes what I think are

RAMBLINGS

The other day I was sitting in my room alone, about four o'clock in the afternoon. There was a short knock on the door, and I called, "Come in," somewhat sharply because I was in the midst of an inspired and sustained period of study.

Nothing happened for a few moments, then the door opened tentatively, and in came the head of one of the faculty. There was a first feeling of surprise, and then one of importance and flattered gratification.

"Have a chair, Mr. Jones," I said. So he sat down, and it turned out that it was only a routine matter that he wanted to see me about.

But he didn't leave right away. We sat in the gathering dusk and talked about Roosevelt and Landon. Another student came in, and we talked about writing theses for Ph. Ds.

When it was time for dinner, he left. That night I told my friend across the hall about it, and he said, "Heck, I wish I had been here."

So you see the college boy isn't all wine, women, song, and rattle-brains after all. We had a good, serious, educational bull-session with the prof; the talk didn't even get near women. And the guy across the hall wished he had been there.

my drollest remarks fail to get a single smile. So perhaps a .333 average is not so bad, whether in football, statecraft, or teaching.

I may as well confess that whilst I was away, whether I was in the wintry wilds of Wisconsin or amid more familiar scenes along the banks of the Wabash, I frequently had a yearning for the Ursinus campus. When I finally found myself established in an adobe house, up an arroyo in Arizona, this feeling became a positive nostalgia. I yielded to a sentimental impulse and wrote a song. It is called "Ursinus Fair," and is intended especially for seniors and alumni. But it would come in handy for singing in the dining halls after dinner. Here it is:

Ursinus fair,
Shrine of our happy college years.
Thy wise guidance through the testing time of youth
Thy name to all our hearts endears.
May we revere thy name

GAFF from the GRIZZLY

Ode To Jean Ulsh

We know a little girl (maybe you know her, too)
Who has so many boys she can't say "boo".
She was took to Doc's by Sheely the Han'some
While back in his room languished Long Jack Sampson.

They can play a swell game of football, but when it comes to speeches—! That Worster boy took three times as long saying to the pep rally audience that he had very little to say as he did saying it.

And "Rodney" Tworzdylo, after his oratorical outburst, was so weak for some time that all he could do was mutter "Ho, ho, ho! Oh boy, oh boy!" to Miss McDevitt all the way to Doc's.

(Sorry, Mr. Lebegern, but it will always be "Doc's" to us old folks.)

Doc's, in case you didn't know, is now the College Drug, Inc. It is also the place where, what with a nifty new marble machine, and a nifty new gal back of the counter, the boys are flocking.

Gaff's Cheer of the Week

William Tells lauds Brodbeck this time, for "1-2-3-4-5-6-7!
Don't get tough with the Brodbeck eleven!

If you do—
Gosh help you—
We'll bust your nose
And your collar bone, too!"

Through all the long, long, later days.

May our hearts to thee still oft and oft return;

May we ever sing thy praise.

I have sung it for Professor Philip and he has promised to write the music for it. I had a tune in mind that we used to sing in college on Armistice Day, but which has passed into disuse because it referred to "the hated Huns." You can tell that the words are original, because only a professor would have written about "the testing time of youth." In view of that phrase, and the coming comprehensive examinations, I think it should be dedicated to the class of 1938.

I hope you will like it and sing it often.

ALUMNI COME BACK STRONG ON ANNUAL OLD TIMERS' DAY

Weekly Observers Tally 175 In the Dickinson Game Crown

In spite of the generally threatening weather which marked the Old Timers' weekend, and which culminated in the pre-game cloud-burst, a surprisingly large number of alumni were on hand. According to a close check-up made especially for the Weekly, no less than 175 sons and daughters of Ursinus appeared, prepared (in some cases) to "drown for Alma Mater.

The total number represents approximately one-tenth of the living alumni of the College, a very commendable turnout when it is considered that there had been no organized effort to induce them to come back. The Class of 1936 had the largest number—41—and the highest percentage—46.4, followed by 1935 with 35 persons and 40 percent.

These classes are especially to be congratulated for setting an example that might well be followed by some of their predecessors. The list of names following represents the combined efforts of a half-dozen scouts who were well acquainted with the various generations of alumni, and who were strategically located throughout the crowd. Anyone present but not accounted for must have been very well concealed.

Kellett's Freshmen Swamp Malvern Prep In First Cub Grid Tilt By 31 - 2 Score

Yearlings Click As McConnell, Lai, Taxis, Kurek Score

SHOULD BEAT PERKIOMEN FRI.

Displaying an offense that bewildered their opponents, the Ursinus freshmen ran roughshod over Malvern Prep on Saturday, 31 to 2. It was the first regular game for the cubs and indications are that Don Kellett has moulded a smooth working combination. The cubs displayed an excellent brand of blocking and tackling throughout the game. They limited their attack to groundwork, no passes being even attempted.

The Bears lost little time getting started. In the fourth play of the game, "Bucky" Lai crossed the goal line after a thirty yard run. The try for extra point was no good. After the kickoff, the Cubs again marched down the field and scored another six-pointer as "Albie" McConnell lugged the leather across. To finish the quarter's scoring, McConnell again broke loose and sprinted 80 yards for the third touchdown.

In the second quarter, the premen registered their two points when the slippery ball eluded the Bear backfield and was recovered in the end zone for a safety. The Grizzlies again tallied when "Bucky" Lai dashed seventy yards and Kurek plunged over for the extra point.

In the third period, both teams went scoreless. The Bears tallied in the fourth when Alk blocked a punt and "Taxie" Taxis carried the pigskin over from the twelve-yard stripe.

This Friday the yearlings tackle the Perkiomen Prep gridmen on the home field. As the Perks took a 28-0 trimming from the Albright frosh on Saturday, they will probably be on the "up-swing" and cannot be taken lightly.

The following line-up of the Malvern-Ursinus game is slightly one-sided due to managerial laxity:

Ursinus	18	7	0	6-31
Malvern	0	2	0	0-2

BRODBECK, DERR UNDEFEATED, LEAD INTRAMURAL FOOTBALL

During the past two weeks intramural football held the spotlight, and six games have already been played. The spirit this year is at a high pitch, and the standings thus far give evidence of keen competition in the league.

In the first game of the season, Brodbeck beat Curtis 12-0. Freeland, pressed by Day, managed to eke out a 7-0 victory, but lost to Brodbeck, who was on the rebound from their first defeat, 19-0. Stine, rather unexpectedly, upset the dope on Curtis emerging with a 12-6 triumph. In the other two games Derr won over Day 6-0, while Freeland once again came to the fore by defeating the Stinemen 14-0.

Although it is too early to make any forecast on the ultimate winner, the present standing shows Brodbeck and Derr tied for first place with Freeland in second. Stine has sole possession at third while Day and Curtis occupy the cellar position.

The standings:

Brodbeck	2	0	1.000
Derr	1	0	1.000
Freeland	2	1	.666
Stine	1	1	.500

SPORT NOTES

The "New Deal For Ursinus" spirit is proving contagious. The whole team, including the splinter boys on the bench, had plenty of the old gipper in there Saturday.

Saturday's game was the first in three seasons that Medwick, F. and M's coal-region flash, did not start. His appearance in the second quarter had a psychological effect as was expected, but it worked the wrong way—for the Diplomats.

No, those weren't brand new jerseys the boys flashed. It just happened that the black sleeves tangled with the white bodies and left the latter feeling blue.

Maybe we are outscored by 59 points for the past two years, but "Who's sorry now?"

Fats played awful rough with that other little boy from the swamps of Jersey. It's been going on for two years, and Ray, at least, hasn't said "Uncle."

If "Killer" Edwards, responsible for eight F. and M. casualties, continues his mayhem, the chances are that "Tiny" Knoll will be hard pressed for his heavyweight grappling post.

Russo: "Metzgar wasn't so big either."

Ask one of the soccer boys who voyaged to F. and M. in a bus on Saturday to tell you the story that went the rounds about Maples Hall late Saturday night after the Old Timers' Dance—about how the lights were all out.

Like the Ursinus gridders, the Ursinus band was much out-weighted by F. and M.—but like the football team, we were proud of them.

But why did the horn tooters and tooters have to play in front of the F. and M. stands more than in front of ours almost? The stuff musta been there.

So far the gridders, frosh and varsity, have done themselves proud. And whether you know it or not, so have the soccermen—because as far as the Diplomats were concerned on Saturday, it was a Phyrrie victory, what with the "Killer" in there.

How 'bout this—Andy Jakomas the inimitable Greek was in the stands at Lancaster—and he expects to return to Ursinus.

Fall Net Tourny Moves Toward Quarter-Finals; Progress Slow

Going into the last week of play in the Intramural Tennis Tournament many games remain to be played. This tournament began two weeks ago but due to the fact that many of the participants are engaged in other fall sports, it has progressed rather slowly. Thus far two matches must be played before the start of the quarter-finals, these two being between Worster and Hess, and Concello and Murray.

In the quarter-finals Van Tries will meet Flamish, Quay and Landis will tangle, as will Mackenson and Lummis. The winners in the aforementioned matches will complete the quarters.

The four winners in the quarters will be matched against one another in the semi-finals, from which the two champions will be determined for the play-off tilt.

Both the winner of the tournament and the runner-up will be awarded medals for excellence in intramural tennis competition.

BEAR BOOTERS BEATEN 5-1 BY F. AND M. IN THIRD TRY

Fenstermacher Scores Lone Goal;
Team Clicks on Passing

The Ursinus soccerites suffered their third setback of the season last Saturday at the hands of, or rather the feet of, the Franklin and Marshall booters, by the score of 5 to 1.

Though badly beaten in scoring, the goals do not tell the whole story. In every game so far, the Bear kickers have never been out-classed on the open field. And the F. and M. game was no exception. Easily holding their own in keeping control of the ball, the Grizzlies were on the leather as much as the Diplomats. But where they fell short was in front of the cage: their goal shooting is poor.

Doc Baker's proteges managed to keep the ball in F. and M. territory most of the first chukker, except for one brief moment when a lucky Lancaster boot sent the ball skidding through the uprights.

Early in the second period, F. and M. scored another goal, but "Pat" Fenstermacher cut loose and banged through a spectacular shot to rack up the lone Ursinus tally. The home boys scored another on a penalty shot later on to end the half, 3 to 1.

The second half was more or less a ding-dong affair, with F. and M. scoring on lucky breaks. Throughout these last two chukkers, the only damage done by the Grizzlies was the uncivilized treatment of the Diplomats by "Killer" Edwards: several of them went limping off the field.

Probably the most stellar playing on Baker's squad was the work of Fenstermacher, Griffiths, Ehret, and LeCron, who were always on their toes, and kept the ball consistently near the goal. And to goalie Sampson goes the credit of averting a still higher score, by several good saves in the opposition cage.

Next Friday afternoon Ursinus meets the West Chester soccer team at home. Because of the fact that the Teachers swamped F. and M. to the tune of 5-0, the Bears chances look rather slim.

MANY STUDENTS, MUCH SPIRIT AT BEAR-ROSES PEP RALLY

The campus Booster Committee led the second pep rally of the season last Thursday in preparation for the F. and M. fray, with virtually the whole school encouraging the team in one of the most spirited demonstrations this college has seen in many moons.

Line Coach Pete Stevens, Captain Ray Costello, Frank Tworzydlo, and Clayton Worster spoke the feelings of the football men, after which the Campus Song closed the meeting.

McAvoy's Bears, Julian's Mules To Meet At Allentown Saturday

Meeting for the twenty-first time in 30 years, the Ursinus Bears will growl their way into the stall of Muhlenberg's Mules for the renewal of the series which now stands at eight won, eight lost, and four tied.

Since 1927, when the series was renewed, Ursinus has five wins, two ties, and two losses. Last year the Grizzlies won by the score of 21-0 on Old Timers' Day.

This year Muhlenberg presents quite a different picture, and will give the Bears no end of trouble. "Doggie" Julian has taken over the coaching reins, and is really endeavoring to make the Lehigh Valley team produce.

On this year's squad are the following veterans: center, Bloom and Reppert; at guard, Young and Poast; tackle, Gutekunst and Hunsicker; Laing and Farrell in the backfield; plus a fine group of sophomores and experienced upperclassmen.

Although Julian has only twenty-two men on his squad, they are aggressive and fast. Forward passing is one of the Mules' strong points.

So far this year they have succeeded in conquering Ernie Nevers' Lafayette team in the season's opener, 19-6, and then lost to the Nittany Lions of Penn State, 45-0.

BEAR GRIDMEN SURPRISE BY HOLDING F. AND M. TO 0-0

played 60 minutes of good ball, Morocco slid off tackle for 16 yards to the Bear 16 where Todt, powerhouse guard, made the tackle. The advance was broken up, however, when Captain Costello snared an enemy pass on the 10 and fought his way up to the 35 before being downed. After an exchange of punts, Frank Tworzydlo, old reliable at end, slashed in and managed a partial block of Roeder's punt giving Ursinus the ball on F. and M's 48. On the next play, however, Medwick grabbed Costello's pass on the 35 and broke out into the clear, only to be brought down by a shoe-string tackle from the rear by "Hop" Porambo.

Power Loose on Fake Kick

The Nevonians received to start the second half and, after being stopped by successive tackles on the part of Knoll, Meklos, and Worster, kicked out on the Ursinus 13. Then Power faded back to kick, but on getting the ball the Ursinus quarter slipped thru the hole opened up in the Nevonian's line and raced 37 yards to mid-field before he slipped and was tackled by Medwick.

Heiges Breaks Thru

Following a blocked Ursinus punt, King Heiges, 150 pounds of fighting end, raced in and spilled Medwick for a 15 yard loss as he attempted to pass. On the exchange of punts Medwick was stopped in his tracks on the Ursinus 36 by Tworzydlo. An aerial placed the Diplomats on the 13, where James made the tackle,—first and 10 as the quarter ended.

To start the last period, Heiges and Pancoast spilled Hummer for a 12 yard loss. On the next play Todt broke in and dropped Medwick for an additional loss of 13 yards. Toot Wildonger, who was steady in the blocking back position, then knocked down two passes to give Ursinus the ball on their own 37.

Late in the fourth period Guryzinski recovered an F. and M. fumble on the Ursinus 15 to end the last scoring threat of the day.

It would be not only difficult but unfair to name any individuals as starring in the game that well repaid last year's 59-0 trouncing. It was just a case of a spirited team clicking on all eleven.

"It Is Really The Girl Who Makes The Conquest," Says Co-ed As Weekly Reporter Continues Survey on Collegii Amatoria

Two weeks ago the boys told us what's amiss with campus social life. This week we gave the co-eds a chance.

"I don't think anything is wrong," said one young thing. "I'm quite happy. My man is a mouse; he wanted to go to hear Hal Kemp at Sunnybrook tonight, but he retreated in favor of the Old Timers' Dance, at my request. All is okey-dokey."

We had hoped for a more serious answer; we turned to a senior girl for our next query. "This is for the Weekly, but your name will not be used. What is your opinion of the boys on the campus?"

"I have none, especially. What do you mean?"

Well, we told her, several fellows had complained to us, during our research, that many otherwise attractive girls seemed to steer clear of dates with would-be admirers. "Why is this?" we asked the senior girl. "Are the women afraid that the men will—well go native, that is, try to kiss on the first night?"

"I don't think so," she answered. "I've had dates, and no boy has ever made love to me yet."

How we wished we could give that item to W. T. to be put in "Gaff"—for the senior in question is a darn attractive girl. We thanked her, and interviewed a very popular sophomore miss who was leaving the library.

Much dated herself, she must know something. We urged her not to be modest.

She said, "Frankly, I think it's the fault of the girls themselves.

The ones who are most unpopular are the timid young things. They look on the boys as conquering males—and that's not the case at all; it is really the girl who makes the conquest. Don't you think so?"

She smiled at me sweetly, and started to finger (absent-mindedly, to be sure) the zipper of my sweater.

"What? Oh-yes, of course," I mumbled. "But what is your exact technique?" (We already knew, but we wanted her to put it in words for the benefit of bashful co-eds.)

"The main thing is to be interested in the boy," she answered. "If he's somebody on the campus, tell him you think he's wonderful. He will consider you very brilliant after that. And talk to him—be interested in the things he does. Do you see?" She smiled up at us coyly.

We saw, all right; we thanked her, wiped our forehead, and left hurriedly, while we were still in a reporter-like frame of mind.

Three girls told us at lunch that the dining room is an excellent place to foster acquaintances, but that it is often neglected by masculine diners. "The three freshmen boys we ate with before you came along did nothing but shovel in meat and potatoes the entire week we ate with them. Didn't speak a word."

We suggested that perhaps the boys had been hungry. And with that, your Social Reporter bent over his own soup.
