Abstract

Interfaith dialogue has become one of the most significant and interesting activities in contemporary socio-political and socio-religious global scenario due to its crucial role in the peace process and peaceful interfaith relations. Many groups of scholars, institutes, organizations, and even governments are promoting the activities regarding interfaith relations. Meanwhile, it is also assumed that Pakistan is one of the countries where interfaith dialogue activities are arranged officially on the state level. In this study, efforts are made to review statistically and to index the literature produced by Pakistani scholars and universities. A mixed-method research methodology is adopted for this study with a bibliometric approach to find out results. Almost 136 theses & dissertations have been produced by scholars in a wide range of Pakistani Universities on interfaith Dialogue, religious debates, harmony, and relations. The research produced by male scholars was 71 (52.21 %) and most 49 (36%) productive era was from 2011 to 2015. The majority of the research was for Master (38%) and MS/M.Phil (34%) level degrees and about one-fifth of the theses were on the theme of “Interfaith Dialogue in Pakistani context”. Therefore, it is suggested that the course on interfaith dialogue, harmony, and relations should be taught at M. Phil and Ph.D. Level in the discipline of Islamic studies and social sciences.

Introduction

The twentieth century is the most notable era for interfaith dialogue and other interreligious activities among the followers of different faiths across the globe (Yilmaz, I., & Barry, J., 2020). Several interfaith activities were launched to bring harmony, especially to the adherents of the Abrahamic faiths which are Jews, Christians and Muslims. Many Christian institutes and organizations have been actively involved in such activities (Farouk, M., et.al, 2015). Dialogue is the way by which human beings grow from childhood. Dialogue implies that each person is aware of his own limitations and richness. The movement towards truth and love, the way to change society, the way to establish a more just, harmonious and love-filled human society, depend on dialogue(Frede, 1986).

Moreover, since the existence of other religions is a fact, the dialogue must be adopted as a way of life in the global context (Iwuchukwu, M. C., 2020). It is the need of time to understand the already existing plurality of faith and the new pluralistic worldview created by Modernization and Globalization. Therefore, interfaith, and intercultural Dialogue has become an obligation in this global and multi-ethnic world (Srinivas, T., 2014).

Therefore, the present and the future generations should have to be more tolerant to pluralism in their attitude with regards to their day-to-day activities. The world has contracted in size and is still fast-shrinking through the rapid development of communication and interference (Seger, J., 2010). It means a new transnational society based on human and social ethics seems to be emerging and we need to understand this fact as soon as possible. In this way, we may use interfaith dialogue for solving the human common issues and problems (Basuki, S., 2018).

The importance of dialogue for integral development, social justice and human liberation needs to be stressed. There is a need to stand up for human rights, proclaim the demands of justice, and oppose injustice, independently of the religious allegiance of the Victims. There is also a need to join together in trying to solve the great problems facing society and the world as well as in educating people for Justice and peace(Puthiyadam, 1991). In addition, an authoritative issue is the commencement of interreligious dialogue in Muslim and Christian's perspectives. Both major partners of the interreligious dialogue, Muslims and Christians, have been claiming as the pioneer of interfaith dialogue (Leirvik, O., 2014).

In this context, both communities have valid arguments, but it is a fact, one may disagree that Christianity is proactive and recognized as the pioneer of the contemporary movement of the interfaith dialogue as well as Muslims (Islamic community) also have an extensive and persistent history in the field of interfaith dialogue (Kim, I. Y., 2015).

To pursue the view, this work primarily focuses on interfaith activities that are based on interfaith dialogue. During this study, the authors explored the interfaith organizations and individuals that were working in Pakistan, they conducting their work at many fronts that include: Women empowerment, education, poverty, media, human rights, policy advocacy, increasing literacy in rural areas, welfare work, minority's issues, interfaith harmony etc. This study is an important milestone to understand the views on interfaith dialogue. Therefore, efforts were made to statically analyse and indexed the Theses and Dissertations from Pakistani universities produced by scholars on interfaith dialogue, harmony, and relations.

2. Literature Review (Bibliometrics of Dissertations)

Pakistan is one of the countries which shows emerging trends in different fields of research. Some Pakistani scholars and institutes have done tremendous work in indexing and making bibliographies of journals, books and theses.

Dr. Saeed ur Rehman is also one of the famous experts on collection of theses in Pakistan. He collected more than 3000 MPhil and PhD theses from Pakistan and Indian universities in the subject of Islamic studies (Rehman, 2017). Mr. Sher Nowrooz Khan, ex-chief librarian, International Islamic University is also a renowned name in making bibliographies. He has produced more than twenty bibliographical articles on different subjects and also produced two books in the subject of Seerah of the Holy Prophet (Khan, 2009). Muhammad Shahid Hanif in-charge periodicals section, Muhaddis Magazine is renowned indexer and has developed indexes of thirty Urdu journals (special, 2013). As well as professor Tahira Bashart is also credible at MA (Master of Arts) level work on the collection of papers on interfaith dialogue and conference in Pakistan (Hanif, 2013).

A project-based series of paper which was published as a joint effort of Riaz Ahmad Saeed, Saeed Ur Rehman and Rauf Ahmed is also an important effort in this regard. One of them have been published in a research journal, Al-Milal: Journal of Religion and Thought (Saeed, Saeed-ur-Rehman, & Ahmed, 2020) and others are in publication process in research journal al-Uruj (Al-Uruj, 2020), Journal of Islamic Theology (Theology, 2020) and Zia-e-Tehqiq (Saeed, et al., 2020) etc. Allama Iqbal Open University (AIU), Islamabad, has produced twelve MPhil theses having a topic of the index of different journals and subjects (AIU, 2021).

Hussain, A., Jan, S. U., Ibrahim, M., Salam, A., & Saeed, S. (2019) Evaluated the theses at bachelor, Master and Postgraduates levels of the Department of Library and Information Science (DLIS), Sarhad University of Science and Information Technology, Peshawar from 2014 to 2017. The data was collected from the said department and quantitative tool “bibliometric” used in this research by the authors. This study aimed to explore the LIS research productivity of mentioned department. The majority 38 (58%) of the theses were produced by graduate students, followed by postgraduates 26 (40%). The male and female student’s ratio was 2: 1 respectively. Total 29 themes were addressed; however, the prominent topics were Library Resources and Services followed by Emerging Trends in Libraries in Pakistan.

Jan, S. U., Hussain, A., Ibrahim, M., & Khan, I. (2016), Analysed 269 articles published by the Dialogue- A leading multidisciplinary research journal being published by the Qurtuba University Peshawar, Pakistan. The primary aim of this research was to present a statistical sketch of the journal. For this purpose only original research articles from 2006 till end of 2015 are presented. The analysis shows that Khyber Pakhtunkhwa is on the top regarding rate of publications as compared to the rest of the provinces of Pakistan as well as abroad. The Citation pattern shows that book is the more cited document.

Hussain, A., Ibrahim, M., & Saeed, S (2016) Examined the year wise distribution of articles, authorship pattern, gender wise distribution, ranking of Authors, length of articles, cited documents per articles and country wise contribution of authors made in the research journal of “Islamic studies” from 2009 to 2011. The aim of this study was to evaluate the scholarly communication of research journal in hand. The results show that great contribution of the male authors and books were cited 67.36% followed by journals. Majority of the articles were single authored.

Hussain, A., et.al. (2019), studied the official resrech “Journal of Saidu Medical College” (JSMC), Swat. Bibliometric attributes were used for the published articles of Journal from 2007 to 2017. The printed version of the journal was consulted for this study. The primary objective of the study was statistical audit of the published article of the selected timeframe. The major results revealed that Male 823 (86%) contributors were dominant over female 134 (14%). More productive year was 2014 with 36 (16.74%) in JSMC, swat.

In all over the world researchers used statistical approach and methodology to know trend in research, for example in 1970, Jean PV Herbal, used statistical technique on research productive of the Department of Philosophy in Proudou University, United States of America (USA) (Herubel, 1991). Another study has been conducted by Okiy, R.B. using bibliometric approach on education department dissertation in the Dilate State University, Nigeria(Okiy, 2003).

Moreover, to know the different trends in inter faculty research, the statistical methods was used in Istanbul University, Turkey (Uçak & Al, 2009). In India in 2014 Mr. Devendra Kumar Mishra and Ms Manisha Gawde adopt bibliometrics research approach in the Vikram University on PhD research dissertations to know the gender trend in research(Mishra & Gawde, 2014).

Nishat, N., Chakrabarti, K., & Kirtania, D. K. (2019), studied a total of 136 dissertations using bibliometric attributes. The main objective of this resrech was to analysed theses of the department of Library and Information Science, University of Calcutta from the year 2004 to 2016. The year 2014 & 2016 was the most productive era of the selected period. The subject of Community Information Services, Information Communication Technology (ICT) and bibliometrics was the key research zone. A good number 6935 of valid documents has been cited by the scholars of library and Information science. The study shows the positive growth of dissertations in the field of library sciences.

Hsieh, P. N., Chuang, T. M., & Wang, M. L. (2013), examined seven hundred & sixty seven research theses and dissertations on information literacy, produced in the United States of America (USA), and Taiwan from 1988 to 2010. This study reveals that theses and dissertations on information literacy in Taiwan grew rapidly increase from 502(65.45%) to 265(34.55%), which were published in the instructions from the USA till the end of the selected period.

Angamma, A. M. S., & Jayatissa, L. A. (2016) examined the theses produced by postgraduate scholars for the partial fulfillments of the Master level degree from the departments of library & Information sciences of two universities known as “University of Colombo and the University of Kelaniya”. The aim of this research was to present a portrait of the research theses submitted by the students for the master degree. A total of 70 theses were analyzed. The major results revealed that a good number of 39% citations were consist on books followed by 34% of from the research journals. The journal titled “College and Research Libraries” was ranks as the first in list of sixty core cited research journals.

Gutierrez, Mikel Perez, and Carlos Cobo-Corrales, (2019) explored that 457 theses focused on Martial Arts and Combat Sports (MA&CS), published from 1951 till 2019 were indexed in the Bielefeld Academic Search Engine (BASE) database. It was founded that in the last decade great number 64.55% of studies were on the theme of Judo for the partial requirement of MA&CS degree. The research scholars and academics conceded a significant increase in the development of research on martial arts and sports during the last decade at the international level.

Paiva. et.al. (2020) analysed Master and PhD research theses published in Brazil by applying bibliometrics approaches for a decade till end of 2018. They studied theses and dissertations only produced by the academic scholars on the subjects of “Palliative Care and Chronic Diseases”. This is revealed from the analyses that most productive year was 2014 and more theses were produced by the Universidad Federal de Santa Cararina on the theme under study.

Research Methodology

The quantitative research method was used for this multi-dimensional bibliometric study. In this study the authors made efforts to collect all theses and dissertations from the universities in Pakistan on the specific subject of “Interfaith Dialogue, Harmony, Relations, and its related areas”. To achieve the desired goal a surfer mail with a covering letter explaining the purpose of the study and an open ended questionnaire was sent to the coordinator/Head of the Department of Theology/Islamic Studies/Comparative Religions of the universities which offering the degree level programs from Bachelor to Post Doctorate in Pakistan.

The questionnaire mainly covered name of the University and Department/Institute, Title of theses/dissertations, scholar & supervisor names, year of enrolment/completion and degree level with the request to provide all available information. The telephone calls were used as follow-up too. Some department telephonically responded that no theses have been produced on the given subject. A total of twenty eight universities departments responded with 136 useable records of theses and dissertations form all over the country.

The collection of relevant data was taken about six months from the date of dispatch till the end of 2020. The collected data with missing information was search on the official websites of university concern and Pakistan Research Repository (PRR)-A digital repository of PhD dissertations developed by Higher Education Commission (HEC) Islamabad, Pakistan. This study also reviewed the interfaith dialogue, harmony or interfaith relations-based theses and dissertations from Pakistan for the purpose of preparing a primary index of the same. The years of six theses were missing, and name of supervisor of twenty two were not found during analysis and data collection.

According the available litterateur this is clearly stated, dissertation and theses on interfaith dialogue, harmony and relations was not indexed or reviewed at all in Pakistan. This is the very first attempt in this regard to compile a primary index of the research theses & Dissertations from the Departments of Islamic Studies, Comparative Religions and Interfaith Studies from Pakistani Universities in English and Urdu languages. The titles of Urdu Language were translated into English language. A primary index of theses and dissertations were created, and then a Bibliometric review of theses and dissertations were presented.

The collected data was checked by using Microsoft Excel Sheets for duplication, filtering and eradication errors. The results derived were discussed and recommendations were made on the basis of the findings. Finally, conclusions were drawn for the sake of brevity.

These are majority of dissertations and theses which are written and produced on interfaith dialogue, relations and harmony from Pakistani universities by the scholars. From the above discussion it is clear that a good number of thesis contributed by the scholars in different universities of Pakistan. Some journals also give space to this important topic as well. But it's also observed that they do not have efficacy in this field because most of them were written for degree purpose, and become a part of the university library shelves and not published yet.

Therefore, it is suggested that the universities and scholars should try to publish and disseminate this work for social and religious impact on the subject of "Interfaith Dialogue, Harmony, Relations" of country and abroad.

Recommendations

During the analysis the author found lack of awareness about interfaith dialogue and the culture of positive interfaith activities at the university level in Pakistani academic spheres. Some important recommendations on behalf of the study are recorded here. There is a need to teach interfaith dialogue and relations as a compulsory subject at the level of M.Phil and Ph.D. in the discipline of Islamic studies, comparative religions, theology and social sciences. The Academic books on interfaith dialogue and harmony should be encouraged in Pakistani universities. The theses produced from universities should be published for the sake of their importance and academic need from universities and government authorities such as Higher Education Commission. Some reasonable steps should be taken to promote the culture of dialogue, harmony, and tolerance in Universities and on the social level collectively. There is a need to develop awareness by conducting conferences, workshops, and seminars in universities regarding interfaith issues in Pakistan and abroad.
