Deputies probe $800 program board office theft

A cassette recorder, tuner, amplifier and AM/FM radio, valued at $800, were stolen from the Program Board office (N-4) last Friday or Saturday. Elmer Rosin, DuPage's head of security, said that there are a "realm of possibilities as to who actually took the merchandise."

The DuPage County Sheriff's office was called and brushed the office for fingerprints Monday. Everyone who had possibly been at the scene was fingerprinted. The burglary apparently was between 10 p.m. Friday and 3 p.m. Saturday.

This was the latest in a series of stereo thefts reported on campus. A month ago two speakers were stolen from the same office.

Two months ago a stereo was taken from the office of Mrs. Betty Yackley, Psi counselor, in the Psi lounge. Again, a couple of weeks ago, a stereo was snatched from an open faculty members' office when he stepped out for a few minutes.

In the latest theft, a screen was cut. According to Rosin, there was not a forced entry. Asked if someone had a key, he nodded and said that was a possibility. The screen was obviously cut from the inside because of window latches that weren't broken, nor was there any other evidence of entry through the windows.

"I'm sure it was somebody who knew the equipment was there," said Rosin. He suggested that the person or persons bring the set back because any theft more than $150 is considered a felony.

Asked if the security around the campus would be tightened, Rosin replied, "It's always tight. If it was tight enough to prevent thefts no one would be able to attend college or work here."

Trip Throckmorton, adviser to the Program Board, said that no new equipment would be bought for this year or in the immediate future. The rest of the valuables have been locked up, and the office lock has been changed. Anyone connected with the office will have to check out keys, he added.

In order for the staff to listen to records and new groups, they will have to check out stereos from the LRC.

"Instead of having a free and loose system, we're going to tighten up on security," said Throckmorton.

Throckmorton related some of the events that happened after the theft was revealed.

"At 3:30 p.m. Saturday I received a message at home saying there was an emergency at the office. I drove from my home in Clarendon Hills and talked to the security police, who informed me that the sound system had been stolen. They said that nothing could be done and to carry on the activities as usual."

Monday Throckmorton was ordered to keep everyone out of the office until the police had finished and to round up the activities people for fingerprinting.

Len Urso, chairman of the Program Board, was the one who discovered the theft Saturday afternoon. He said when he came to the office he noticed the equipment was missing, and at first he thought Throckmorton had locked them up. After checking the cabinet, however, and seeing that they weren't there, he called security. He then noticed that the window was open and the screen was cut.

Urso said, "If it returns, there will be no questions asked."

Lucile Friedli, director of student activities, commented "It's a serious situation, it's very tragic." She also said that one key can open all three offices in the annex — the Student Government, Vets Club and the Program Board.

Referendum failure knocks out Theta

Theta college, one of the six original clusters, was dissolved Tuesday in a memorandum from Dr. Rodney Berg, college president, to all staff.

Dr. John Anthony, vice-president, programming, recommended the action because of the "present economic structure of College of DuPage as a result of the failure" of the April 8 referendum.

Included in Dr. Anthony's recommendation was the explanation of the situation. He said failure of the referendum: 1) Proposed no substantial increase in budget for 1972-73. 2) Allows for no real growth in student body. 3) Dictates reductions in every feasible area.

The retrenchment policy is effective Aug. 22, 1972, at the end of summer quarter. Steps will be taken immediately to transfer members of the Theta staff to the other five colleges.

The recommendation states that, "This in no way reflects upon the administration of Theta college. This group has been a solid staff working together to get things done for their college as well as for the total College. They have, despite limitations of size and diversity within their college, made a strong attempt to contribute to the overall effectiveness of the cluster college concept."

When contacted Tuesday afternoon, Dr. William Doster, provost of Theta, issued the following statement:

"The death, for whatever reason, of something one has worked very hard for is always a traumatic experience. With the budget situation as it is, however, I can only agree that the decision to dissolve Theta is the correct one under the circumstances.

"I'll grieve a few days about what might have been if Theta had continued through another year or two, but facts must be faced, money simply isn't there to support a small operation, and Theta, unfortunately, must go.

"Thanks to Mary Daly, Frank Hester and all the others within Theta who worked for the success of the kind of student-orientated program we organized and held for the past year. Maybe in some happier time when the budget is a little larger, we can get Theta and all that Theta meant to all of us started once more. Until then, long live College of DuPage."

14 talented people become 50 in 'Under Milk Wood'

By Maureen Killen

Watching Under Milk Wood is like reading Edgar Lee Masters' Spoon River Anthology . . . only better because you don't have to visualize the characters in Milk Wood. Director Craig Berger lets us see and makes us believe Dylan Thomas' characters.

The cast of 14 is small compared to the number of roles they must fill—50 in all. But what a job they do filling them.

The set is simple and effective. The directing is done with a deft and imaginative hand. And the costuming adds color and tone to the performance. But without a doubt it's the talented acting that makes the show a success.

The characters are the people of Milk Wood, a fishing town in Wales. Starting with music, singing and flowery narration, the play progresses by unrelated sequences that are confusing at first if you're looking for plot lines and deeper meanings. But my attention was soon drawn to where it rightly belonged . . . to the lives of the characters.

The actors all deserve recognition for numerous roles they each played so realistically. A few of the townspeople that highlight the show are: gore-loving Butcher Beynon played by Robert Jackson; the bitchy, nagging wife, Mrs. Pugh, played by Jennifer Owens.

And the flirty housewife, Mrs. Cherry Owen, who loves her husband when he's drunk or sober, played by Susan Yackley; the town organist Mr. Waldo, played by Harold Temple; Little Gwennie who plays kissing games—"gemme a kiss or a penny," played by Mary Ellen Lowderbaugh, and the meek and timid husband of Mrs. Pugh played by John Kiber.

The play is usually performed Reader's Theatre style but Berger used the stage and blocking to make the characters more alive and realistic. At the dress rehearsal Tuesday night the performance went smoothly and was wholly entertaining.

Under Milk Wood is better than Spoon River, Peyton Place or All The Family. Under Milk Wood is loaded with talent that oozes out all over in the form of 50 different characters—not bad for a college performance. And finally, we can't forget the man who made it all possible, poet Dylan Thomas. Bravo, Dylan.

Under Milk Wood, which opened Wednesday, continues today through Saturday in the Convocation Center. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. and general admission is $1.50. Students are admitted free.

DuPage students really showed a lot of enthusiasm for volunteering to help clean Lambert Lake on a cold, windy Saturday, April 22. An unsurpassed feat had to be made by the people who actually went into the icy water to retrieve old tires and lumber. One thing that could be counted on — your clothes would not remain spotless or mudless at the end of the days' labor!! Photos by Jeff Liebich.

Housecleaning day at Lambert Lake

Last Saturday Russell Kirt, biology instructor, and 20 of his students braved the cold winds and started to give "Lambert Lake" a facelifting.

The DuPagers took on the job of cleaning up the area in and around the water, with the help of two pickup trucks from the village of Glen Ellyn. The village plans to convert all of the area west of the Village Links Golf Course into a "Village Green" and park.

Kirt and his ecology-minded students offered their services as part of Earth Week's (April 17-23) activities.

"It's more of a launching project. We'll never get through the whole thing," said Kirt. "We'll do as much as we can."

There was a lot of refuse that could not be visible to the casual observer, Kirt pointed out, in the wide circular area the people were covering. Old tires, lumber, chairs, and any garbage that could be picked up, was gathered and heaped for the pickup trucks.

Besides the old junk, some nature was found undisturbed between the high grasses and cattails. A few duck eggs were located and marvelled at, but fortunately were not touched.

The students were in good spirits, considering the 40-degree temperature. Comments such as "It's fun", "Oh, we're having such fun", were heard.

Hip boots were used in getting junk out of the lake itself. Asked whether the water would be too cold for wading, one student replied, "What water, it's all mud and slime." He added that he was worrying more about getting stuck.

Steve Mann, a sophomore majoring in conservation, commented, "It should get better (the lake), because the Glen Ellyn Park District has designated it as a park."

Kirt mentioned the possibility of an annual project for Earth Week. "Every Earth Week we'll try to dig up an old eyesore," he said.

What they say in classrooms

(This is another in a series about what instructors are saying in the classroom. The reporter picks a class at random, asks the instructor's permission to sit in and then takes notes.)

By Don Doxsie

The Speech 100 class of Miss Sally Hadley is one which serves many different types of people in many different ways.

I was able to observe this as I sat in on Miss Hadley's class on the day of their introductory speeches.

The introductory speech is where each student stands before the class and gives a brief, unrehearsed speech about himself and why he took the course. No grades are given for this presentation. It serves only as a warmup, a chance for the student to get used to the idea of speaking before an audience.

Most of the speakers gave as a reason for taking the class that they needed it for their degree. Other reasons were also given though. Some said that they hoped the course would give them more confidence in things like job interviews or in discussions in other classes.

Another reason expressed by some students was that they wanted to speak more clearly and get their point across with more clarity.

Some of the class members thought that Miss Hadley's class could help them in their jobs. Several firemen, who are often called upon to speak before youth groups, felt that any experience they could gain from the class would help.

So unlike many courses which are required for an associate degree, Speech 100 can benefit you in life. Somewhere, somehow, sometime the experience of speaking to an audience will come in handy and when it does you'll be glad if you've taken Speech 100.

Semi-formal finish for Spring Week

By Fred Sullivan

Spring Week Finale, a semi-formal, girl-ask-boy dance, will wind up the many activities of Spring Week.

It will be held Sunday, May 14, at the Back Door in West Chicago. The Seven Seas will provide the music. Tickets are $5 a couple and will be limited to 175.

The Serendipity Singers will perform on Wednesday, May 10, from 11 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 2 p.m.

Beautification day will be Thursday, May 11. Students will plant flowers on campus.

Pot Liquor has been signed to perform with Juneau and Chubby Checker during the Friday night concert, May 12. The concert is free but tickets are required. The tickets can be picked up in Room K138.

All challengers are being accepted for the grease pole contest and the tug-of-war, which will be held over a pool. Persons can sign up in the Intramural Office.

There are 12 applicants and four faculty teams lines up for the "Little 500" who are seeking the tempting prize money, ranging from $30 to $10. There is still time to register in Room M139.

McGovern's the one in NYC

By Mike Hubly

Despite driving winds and rain, approximately 50,000 demonstrators walked a planned route through the center of New York City Saturday in protest of the Vietnam war and the problems in the world.

Although the rally held at Byran Park following the march was to protest the war, it appeared to be a giant gathering to promote Sen. George McGovern for the presidency.

Twenty speakers, ranging from representatives of The National Peace Action Coalition to sports writers, put down Nixon and every other possible candidate except McGovern.

None of the speakers came directly out and said "vote for McGovern" but the translation of the speeches read that McGovern was the man peace seekers want to run the country.

John Kerry, who spoke for the Vietnam Veterans Against the War was a good example. "Nixon acts like a man criminally insane and we don't need Tricky Dicky in '72. And we don't need a Muskie or a Humphrey, who had to lose an election before they realized that people are sick of war."

The other speakers all echoed Kerry and again not one word, good or bad, was mentioned about the man named McGovern.

The marchers all appeared to be McGovern backers as nearly half wore buttons supporting his candidacy. I didn't see a person participating in the march that wore a button or carried a sign that supported another candidate.

McGovern buttons were sold along with peace buttons to help support the demonstration. Donations appeared to be quite successful as many placed five and ten dollar bills in the barrels placed along the route marched.

The crowd was predominantly white college-age students who came from as far west as Chicago in large numbers. The liberation groups were in full force and the working class was represented by white collar workers, for blue-collar workers were conspicuously absent.

There were youths calling themselves the Attica Brigade and there were marchers who said they were representing labor unions, the Communist party and the Socialist Workers party.

The demonstrators all acted in a peaceful manner carrying signs and shouting slogans.

At one point, as the marchers were passing the moving sign atop the Allied Chemical Building in Times Square, the lights gave the news "that thousands of people were marching despite the rain." They also cheered the news that the Viet Cong had won another victory in Vietnam.

Policemen weren't out in large numbers and the weather controlled the crowds and only a couple of thousand hard-core demonstrators stuck to the end of the rally.

Throughout the rally the speakers were calling for a complete strike of all the high schools and colleges on May 4, when the peace moratorium is scheduled in Washington.

More than 200 colleges went on strike last Friday.

The only disgusting thing about the protest was the fact that the speakers were calling for the success of the Viet Cong.

I thought this was absurd because they were supposedly working for complete withdrawal of our troops and the return of our prisoners.

Several student strike leaders from Columbia University, which is located near the rally, spoke on the success of their strike.

They said that when all the students in the United States went on strike the country would realize that students can and will run the country.

I would have to consider the march a success despite the poor weather. It seems there is really a growing interest not only among the students, but also of all ages and classes of people.

The moratorium scheduled for Washington May 4 should climax the demonstrations that are being held across the country. If the people in Washington listen to the strikes and protests — then the cause that prompted 50,000 to travel and participate despite rain, will prove once again that peace is seriously being sought by the masses.

Demonstrators line streets of New York City

Letters

To the Editor:

During the third week of April, the counseling staff at College of DuPage conducted surveys in randomly selected classes. In a single day, I, unfortunately, was subjected to two of these stimulating surveys, the first one in my typing class. I and fellow typists grudgingly grasped the answer sheets and question booklets and began blackening in those little rectangles.

Meanwhile we became further behind in our independent study programs.

During the second exam, my ass fell asleep from the lack of circulation. This survey had over 200 questions. They ranged from those asking if students at College of DuPage often attended classes drunk and disorderly, to whether or not panty raids occurred in DuPage's nonexistent dormitories.

Other students and myself have the opinion that the counseling department certainly did its work for the 1971-1972 school year. It produced Xeroxed copies of challenging national surveys and tested our fortitude at blundering through 200 uninvolved irrelevant questions, many unanswerable because of our lack of knowledge on our teachers' religious habits.

—Rachelle M. D'Andrea

To Those Interested:

I feel compelled to write this letter with regard to the Instrumental Music Program at College of DuPage.

First, I wish to make a correction of a statement which appeared in Mike Hubly's "Jock Scraps" column of April 20th, 1971. Regarding the personnel of the Marching Band — it was a 75 piece band and there were NO high school students involved except for one twirler who was in high school and also registered at this school. They were all fine College of DuPage Instrumentalists. Also, we played for two (2) football games — not just one. I am hopeful Mike will make this correction in his column.

As for Diana Holzmacher's review (??) of our April 16th concert — to put it mildly (!!) It was shocking. Allow me to place a few items in proper perspective.

1. The concert did not begin one hour late. It was originally scheduled for four (4) o'clock and was printed on all of our publicity — including the ads in the Courier. The tickets were mistakenly marked 3:00 p.m. Various means were taken to get the proper information to the public and from my observation it was successful.

2. As for the attack on "sad participation" — I was not sure, because of the manner in which it was written, if this referred to the audience, or the band participation. For those not in attendance let me assure you — the audience was one of the largest and enthusiastic of the school year, and the band's participation was splendid.

3. As for the performance itself — I am puzzled and feel Miss Holzmacher lost contact with us someplace along the way. Concerto for Band was not the first number we played, it was the last number on the program!! For those in attendance who may wonder, the order of the music performed was as follows: March Symphonique, Overture for Band, Scenes from "The Louvre", Concertino for Percussion and Band, and finally Concerto for Band. Not mentioned in the review (??) was a fine performance by the College of DuPage Stage Band.

TRANSFER TALK

This week let's take a look at how our former students are doing academically when they transfer to a senior institution.

When talking with our students at senior institutions they related that the first term is one of considerable adjustment, but not mainly in the academic area because they felt they were well prepared in that area to transfer. Rather they felt they became involved in activities, intramurals, residence hall functions, etc., and most were no longer working or commuting to campus. They have concluded the greater amount of "free time" and the adjustment to such was their biggest problem area.

The following follow-up reports from senior institutions indicate that our former students are doing quite well at the listed transfer schools. Because of the time factor in the gathering of data by the senior institutions, all the reports, with the exception of Eastern Illinois University, are for the 1970-71 academic year. All the grade point averages (GPA) noted are based on a 4.0 scale.

Southern Illinois University, at Carbondale, reported the average GPA for 193 former students was 2.35 for the 1970-71 academic year. This compared to an average GPA of 2.48 for native students (students who started at SIU) for the same time period. At the end of the year, 144 (75 percent) of our students were in good standing, 26 (13 percent) were on probation, and 23 (12 percent) had been suspended.

At the University of Illinois (Urbana) our former students (18) had an average GPA of 2.55 at the end of the 1970-71 academic year, while the native students had an average GPA of 2.92. The average GPA of 2.55 for our students can be misleading. While 50 percent of our students were in good standing, 43 percent were on probation and 7 percent had withdrawn.

The average GPA for our students at Illinois State University was 2.33. No information was given concerning the GPA of the native students of the number of our students in good standing, on probation, or dropped.

In our own backyard, the 21 students who transferred to North Central College maintained an average GPA of 2.66 there. The average College of DuPage GPA, by the 21 students, at the time of North Central entrance was also 2.66.

The year-end results of a study by Western Illinois University revealed that of the 60 College of DuPage students who entered fall term, 1970, 48 completed the year. The average GPA for the 48 students at the end of the year was 2.33.

Eastern Illinois University provides us with quarterly follow-up reports concerning our former students' academic status. At the end of the winter quarter, 1972, the 23 students now at Eastern had an average GPA of 2.66. The GPAs ranged from 1.89 to 3.86 and 22 students were in good standing and only one student was on probation. I believe the above data indicates that if our students who transfer maintain good study habits and wise use of free time, they should be able to meet the competition at the senior institution.

4. As for the Concert Band sound Miss Holzmacher refers to — as the publicity states, it is a Wind Ensemble and that is the type sound for which we strive. I do not have any idea what Miss Holzmacher was expecting from the concert, but we obviously did not give it to her.

Now let me give you a review of the concert. This was an excellent program — presented in a professional manner. I feel extremely fortunate and privileged to be the Director of this talented group of great young people. This group has tremendous pride and we are proud of our accomplishments in two (2) short years. What should have been pointed out in the review (??) such as nice tone, fine technique, good intonation, and spirited group participation was never mentioned. WHY (?!?) To the fine group who represents Instrumental Music at COD — I salute you and in spite of what you were shocked to read — YOU ARE EXCELLENT. Oh yes Miss Holzmacher, because of our April 16th Concert we have been asked to play at graduation and also asked to consider a trip to Europe.

I wish to conclude by saying that I do not mind being criticized when it is due, but I cannot accept being criticized by an unqualified person in order to satisfy some personal vendetta when it is not justified. Why can't people who write for our school paper attempt to do so with a positive rather than a negative attitude?!!

Hoping future reviews (??) will be written by qualified people, I remain,

Musically Yours,
Robert L. Marshall

And it's all free! Other neaty keen things to look out for are the Moon Walk sponsored by Delta Cluster on the 10th and the Mini-Trike 500. Still looking for contestants in 500, the grease pole, and the tug-of-war contest. Sign up at student activities. Ugly man and queen will be announced Friday, May 8.

Reactions to this column would be appreciated. Send them in care of The Courier office. Not much else happening. Keep it cool. Hang in there until next time.

Lil' Abner' and Dogpatch come to stage May 18-21

The Performing Arts Department will present the Broadway musical, Lil' Abner, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, May 18, 19 and 20, and at 3 p.m. on Sunday, May 21, in the Convocation Center.

Lil' Abner is based upon the cartoon strip characters of Al Capp. The book is by Norman Panama and Melvin Frank. Music is by Johnny Mercer and Gene De Paul.

The plot tells how Dogpatch, home of Manny and Pappy Yokum, Daisy Mae and Abner, and their friends, is declared "unnecessary" by the government, and is slated to become a testing ground for the atomic bomb. The hilarious and touching adventures of the Dogpatchers in trying to save their hometown from such a fate form the backbone of the play.

The tuneful score includes such songs as Jubilation T. Cornpone and Love in a Home.

Daisy Mae will be played by Penny Piekarski of Villa Park. Penny played Queen Guenevere in the CD production of Camelot and has had many other leads at the college. She graduates in June and will attend Illinois State University.

Lil' Abner will be played by Barry McAvoy of Glen Ellyn. This will be his first lead in a college musical. Barry also graduates in June and hopes to attend Northern Illinois U.

The part of Marryin' Sam will be played by Paul Buehl of LaGrange. Paul is a real veteran of the CD stage, as he played "Pish-Tush" in the first musical ever given by CD — Gilbert and Sullivan's Mikado.

Mammy and Papp Yokum are Helen Frytz of Lombard and Jim Wright of Wheaton. Hazel is a newcomer to the CD scene, but Jim sings in the Community Chorus, directed by Dr. Carl Lambert.

Ned Turner of the CD speech department will direct the play. Vocal music is being prepared by Dr. Lambert, and Barbara Holous is doing the choreography. Robert Marshall will prepare the orchestra and conduct, and Richard Holgate will be in charge of technical matters.

CD coed wins state vet post

Charlene Smith, Veterans' Club secretary, has been elected public relations vice-president of the Illinois Federation of Veterans in College (IFVC).

Ron Leoni, president of DuPage's Vets, called it the most significant thing that happened at the conference.

The vote was unanimous at the conference, held at the Lake Tower Inn in Chicago last weekend. Some 22 clubs from all over the state participated.

The speakers included Rep. Roman Pucinski (D-Chicago); James Nolan, Gov. Ogilvie's running mate in the November election; and Marvin Gorshin, author of Why My Lai? and professor at the University of Illinois.

Fourteen members of the Veterans Club attended.

DLL mushrooms

By Jim Albrecht

The number of students using the DLL has increased 10 times since its 1969 beginning.

According to Mrs. Beverly R. Bogaard, director of the developmental learning lab, and Mrs. Marie DaHarb, lab assistant, there were 96 students using DLL facilities at its Roosevelt Road location in 1969. Now there are 965 students.

Because of the DLL's continual growth, its location had to be moved several times. It was first moved from Roosevelt to J Bldg. and now is located in M110.

Despite the increase in students and staff, Mrs. Bogaard noted the materials available in the DLL have only increased about three times. The technical equipment, such as video tape machines and tape recorders, have only increased about twice.

Mrs. Bogaard said the DLL purchases as much as its annual budget will allow, but because of the referendum cut-backs, it also has had to suffer.

The DLL's staff now includes four para-professionals. Mrs. Bogaard said they really need two more. There are also 21 faculty members working with the DLL. Some are College of DuPage faculty, and others are part-time off-campus faculty.

DLL offers 16 individualized, credited courses along with the noncredited DLL program itself. Another English course will be added this summer.

Students in the DLL work individually in connection with their instructors. They work and progress at their own ability and speed.

The DLL facilities are opened to all College of DuPage students and staff. The hours are Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m., Friday from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon.

WORLDS DEADLINE

The deadline for submissions to Worlds, College of DuPage's literary magazine, is May 3. The publication date of the quarterly issue is tentatively scheduled for the end of May or the beginning of June. For more information contact Ruth Pryzgoda, editor, in the Student Activities Office, K138.

Many students qualify for ISSC

Perhaps one-third of all full-time students at College of DuPage may be eligible for the Illinois State Scholarship Commission Monetary Award (ISSC), according to the Financial Aid, Student Employment and Placement Office, K157.

The estimate is based on the average family income in the area.

The deadline for filing an application for the award is June 1. The application, which can be obtained in K157, must be filled out by the student and his parents. Financial Aids urges immediate action for those considering application.

In 1969-70, 115 students here received the award. In 1970-71, 236 students received awards. This year more than 350 students are at DuPage with the help of ISSC grants.

Students now attending under an ISSC award should have already sent in their renewal applications for next year.

The Financial Aids office emphasized this is an "opportunity" for needy students.

For job help — see K157 . . now

Prospective June and August graduates of two-year occupational degree and certificate programs interested in placement and employment assistance should register in the Office of Financial Aid, Student Employment and Placement, K157, as soon as possible.

The Centralized Placement Service attempts to locate and place non-college transfer students desiring full-time, permanent employment in the metropolitan Chicago area, which includes DuPage County.

Students completing a two-year transfer program and seeking summer employment should be alerted to the Job Opportunity Bulletin, published weekly by the Office of Financial Aid, to enable transfer students to seek out and locate summer full-time and part-time employment. The Bulletin is available every Friday morning outside K157.

Survey shows that faculty wants F grade retained

By Tom Dougherty

More than half the faculty at College of DuPage believes the "F" grade should be retained, according to a recent questionnaire survey sponsored by the joint Grading Committee.

Some 165 of the college's 242 full-time faculty answered the survey. This represented a 68 per cent return.

Some 57 per cent favored keeping the present system and the "F", while 35 per cent felt the grading system should be revised to eliminate the failure grade.

Other faculty views shown in the survey:

1) 73 per cent indicated that abolishing the audit option would not be "instructionally detrimental."

2) There was no consensus on "withdrawing," but 43 per cent chose a time after six weeks.

3) 63 per cent believe that the

"N" grade serves a satisfactory service and it should be continued. Some 74 per cent said it should be used only to indicate non-attendance.

4) 65 per cent said they would like to allow students in their class to choose a pass-fail option while 74 per cent indicated they would allow students this option. A majority (64 per cent) felt that the number of pass-fail hours applied toward a degree should be limited and 55 per cent felt that the number allowed each quarter should be limited.

5) On Honors Recognition, 66 per cent of the faculty found the honors list important to the function of the college, while 67 per cent indicated that only full-time students should be considered for the honors list.

6) On incompletes, the responses varied, but 67 per cent said that it was not important that all students complete the objectives in the same length of time, while 77 per cent said the instructor should set a deadline.

The Grading Committee includes Charles Ellenbaum, Faculty Senate; Gene Hallongren, Instructional Council; James Heinselman, administration; Lucia Sutton, Faculty Senate, and Russ Lundstrom, Instructional Council and Committee Chairman.

The committee's recommendations will be sent to the Instructional Council Monday for approval or amendments. If approved, it will go to the Faculty Senate for its okay.

Classes planned for one-room in town hall

Next fall, DuPage will open a different type of satellite campus in the Addison Municipal Building. It will consist of one room, sharing space with the police, among other local organizations.

Through the cooperation of the Addison Switchboard, a service group, the college is surveying the educational needs of the people in the Addison, Bensenville and Itasca areas.

When the survey is completed, the college will offer courses to meet those needs. Some of the courses can be of an academic nature, and the people can choose from the course schedule or catalogue. Others can be in the form of short-term seminars.

The Addison Community Switchboard consists of citizens from business, education and religious groups. It offers services to the community-at-large. The office is in the Municipal Building.

Day classes will be offered at first and will compete with already established community educational programs.

"Education is bound inside one building," said Sharon Hunsberger, the student liaison for the Addison community, "This program is working toward the decentralization of education."

Mrs. Hunsberger is working 20 hours per week for the college while surveying the community "to find out if our assumption is valid, to see if they really want classes in their community," she said. Her title is Student Liaison with the Educational Community of the Addison Switchboard.

Mrs. Hunsberger, 21, of Naperville, has worked at halfway houses in Seattle, Wash. She and her husband moved here last fall. He attends the Evangelical Theological Seminary.

"We came to Chicago because it offers a lot in the way of culture and exposure to a wide variety of education," she said.

Sharon has attended DuPage since the winter quarter, and worked on the April 8 referendum. Commenting on DuPage's community involvement, she said, "We recognize that in order for a referendum to be passed we have to be part of the community."

"This is one of the ways people can become aware of an institution of higher education," she said.

"It (the program) should also be something that the community can do itself," she continued. "What I'm doing is basically organizing." Ladies' committees have been formed in Addison to help her with the surveys.

Sharon reports to Dr. William Doster and Jack Harkins, both of Theta college. She feels that they were the key people in getting the program underway.

"Any community would benefit from it, but they need a central organization like Switchboard for the making of a better community," she said.

Dr. Doster is hopeful that free baby-sitting can be provided for mothers wanting to take courses. There is a licensed child-care center now operating in the Addison Village Hall where the classes will be held. If the project is successful, Doster hopes to include the Elmhurst area.

Mrs. Hunsberger is at the Addison Switchboard office every afternoon between 1 and 5. The number is 543-4050.

7 delinquent in student loans

The following people are delinquent in payment of loans to the Student Government Office, Tom Schmidt, student comptroller, reported.

Those delinquent are: Garry T. Hansas - $17; Thomas Stauch, $10; Danny Bolton, $10; Pamela Miller, $5; Fred McElderry, $10; Connie McClinton, $10; and Bernard Murray, $10.

As part of the contract these people signed, they are having their names printed in The Courier as a reminder. The Student Loan Fund is not operating for the rest of the quarter, but it will start again at the beginning of the next fiscal school year.

It's faculty wives scholarship time

College of DuPage Faculty Wives are seeking qualified candidates for their 1972-'73 scholarship—one year's tuition here for a second year student.

To qualify, applicants must have maintained a 3.5 GPA during the 1971-'72 school year, attended the college full-time, be a resident of the college district, and attend College of DuPage next year.

Applications are available in the Financial Aid office and must be returned by June 7. The scholarship will be granted primarily on a merit basis, not necessarily need. The award will be made next September.

SOMETHING FOR EVERYBODY!!

Jock Scraps

By Mike Hubly
Sports Editor

I had a short talk with Joseph Palmieri this past week about the poor sportsmanship that was on display in college athletics this year.

He seemed very happy with the way the Chaparrals and their followers controlled themselves at all the athletic events. He attributes this fine work to my favorite members of student government Doug Schauer and John Hrubec.

"I think Doug and John did an excellent job this year at the sporting events. They were what one might call the school spirit leaders and we never had any troubles in the stands and I think it is because of them," said Palmieri.

I think the school should be proud of the fact that not once did a capacity crowd get out of hand. Of course we didn't have too many capacity crowds like they had in Minnesota that night Ohio State got killed on the court.

It seems like a poor time in the year to bring up sportsmanship, after all the Minnesota incident would have been the perfect time, but I do it now because the National Junior College Athletic Association has just made a ruling.

It reads like this. Whereas, the National Junior College Athletic Association strongly believes that ethical conduct, fair play and good sportsmanship are integral components of all athletic programs in each educational institution; and

Whereas, constant vigilance is called for on the part of those responsible for game management in order that these high ideals can be maintained; now therefore be it

Resolved, that all members of this association earnestly strive to guarantee that the rights of a majority shall not be jeopardized by the actions of a few, be it further

Resolved, that officials of each member institution of the NJAA review the Code of Conduct of this organization and familiarize participants, both athletes and spectators, with the principles therein, and be it further

Resolved, that violations be met with appropriate action according to the rules and procedures related thereto.

This ruling was written at the NJCAA annual meeting held in Hutchinson, Kansas. It has a lot of big words and to get the full meaning out of it you have to read the message they were trying to get across. Actually it's simple to understand if you remember what your mom and dad told you the first time you hit your little brother over the head with a baseball bat.

I think most of the athletes at DuPage control themselves excellently because they are just playing for the fun of it and there aren't big crowds to instigate gang wars. Besides our Jocks are too small to protect themselves.

So be it resolved that we remember what mom and dad use to say.

College Republicans start final membership drive

The College Republican club of CD announced it will start its final big membership drive next week. All drives so far have been very successful.

A new addition to the events will be a road rally to be held late in May. An added event will be a slalom at the end of the rally.

The annual camp-out will be at the Warren Dunes, at the end of the school year.

Two beer busts have been slated for July and two in August. The location has not yet been determined.

The social chairman has also slated a series of Sunday afternoon picnics, like last year, as soon as weather permits.

The costs for beer busts and picnics will be in the neighborhood of $1.00 for members and their guests and $2.00 for non-members. This price includes the food and all the beer you can handle.

The club also discussed campaign procedures of the local and national candidates for offices this fall.

Any questions can be answered by President Rich Schlessinger, the membership chairman, or via the C.R.'s mailbox in the activities office, K-138.

Intramurals

The College of DuPage Intramural soccer program began on Monday, April 24.

The soccer program will be run by Coach Bill Phersons, and coordinated by the Intramural Department.

Each team will consist of six man teams. The field will be smaller than in intercollegiate soccer (40 yds. by 60 yds.) and the goals will be 6' by 10'.

There will be substitutions allowed and each team roster may include eight players. There are currently six teams registered including an all-girls team which will participate against the boys team.

Anyone interested may still sign up in the intramural office in N-4.

DuPage leads N4C; DeAngelis reinjured

The College of DuPage baseball team slipped by Illinois Valley 13-7 to lead the N4C with a perfect record of 8-0. The wins pushed the Chaparrals past the old winning streak record of six.

Although the Chaparrals are off to the best start in DuPage's history, happiness was not over joyful as Hank DeAngelis was lost for the season.

DeAngelis, who was the most valuable player last season and was the leading hitter this year with a .450 average, broke his little finger for the second time this season and a full plaster cast had to be placed on his right hand.

DeAngelis had the same finger cracked on the opening day this year, but a small cast shaped to fit around the bat was sufficient and he continued to play in fantastic form.

He was considered to be one of the top ball players in the state and several pro scouts had expressed interest in signing him at the end of the year.

John Persons, DeAngelis' coach, said "there is no chance that Hank will get a pro contract of any kind this year. He will have little trouble getting a scholarship to any college because he has good statistics for both his freshman and sophomore years so the recruiters will be interested."

DuPage defeated Morton 3-2, Lewis College JV's 5-3, Oakton Community College 10-5, and Illinois Valley this past week.

Persons said he is pleased with the teams performance this season and that every phase of the game was adequate.

"Our hitting hasn't been too good this season. We are winning with only four guys hitting the ball really consistent. John Knudson is hitting 406, Dave Soominen 364, Dean Vaccarino is at 344, and we lost DeAngelis at 450. The rest are all around 200 so we have been fortunate this season to be winning every game," he said.

"It will have to improve if we are to go unbeaten. I think we will be 10-2 when the Region is played," said Persons.

DuPage's fielding has been excellent in the low scoring games and as many as five and six errors have been committed in the contests that DuPage was connecting with the ball.

The pitching has been surprising to many of the DuPage followers. They are all freshmen except Ed Boremaen and they are really getting the ball across the plate. Mike Ferrara got two more wins this week plus he had a save last week.

DuPage has four games this week including one Thursday against Morton, which should decide if DuPage will win or share the title this year.

Twelve advertising students from DuPage traveled to the Conner Sager Association, Inc., with instructor Roy Grundy last Tuesday. A tour of the entire operation, including copy and art work, was made through the Aurora office. —Photo by Jeff Liebich.
