Accidents Hit B.C. Hard As Death Toll Mounts 19

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
British Columbia has experienced one of its worst weeks in recent years with a series of accidents that have taken the lives of 19 people.

Seven men were killed in the waters of Kootenay Lake and lost three boats.

Three small children also died, trapped when a car fell off a ferry landing near Campbell River.

Three more children killed during a house fire in eastern B.C.

One man was killed during a house fire, one man killed in a fight of stars to his death and four persons were struck and killed in separate accidents.

As if to mark the end to a bitter winter that had taken the lives of a number of people, a violent storm struck over Vancouver and Victoria, knocking down trees and power poles but apparently causing no injuries.

Gordon, Kenneth and Debbie Fowler, aged nine, seven and five, drowned when the family car plunged off a ferry landing at Quadra Island. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Fowler, managed to get out of the car and escape.

At Blue River in eastern B.C., Robert Bennett, 3, his sister Susan, 2, and six-month-old brother Thomas died in a fire that swept their home while their parents were visiting friends across the street.

Mass Killings Of Asians, Arabs Reported In Zanzibar Revolt

ZANZIBAR (Reuters)—Tanganyikan police were helping to keep order here today while at home their own government struggled to deal with an uprising by part of its army.

More than 100 of the police were sent to the Tanganyikan government to maintain order while the new Zanzibar government reorganized its security forces, staged a presidential review Sunday.

Reporters and private citizens coming out of Zanzibar meanwhile told of severe casualties in the coup. Many of the victims' bodies were reported thrown in communal graves and covered quickly, indicating the true toll will never be known.

They were said to be Asians or Arabs.

The contingent marched past the balcony of the ex-sultan's palace where new President Aboud Karume and officials of his Peoples' Republic took the salute.

Absent from the parade was Field Marshal John Okello, who was reported in Dar es Salaam, Tanganyika, for a "few days rest."

THE EXILED SULTAN of Zanzibar landed in Britain at Manchester Sunday night and said he had set his heart on returning some day to his spiced island off the east coast of Africa. The sultan described as "very sad" the revolution which turned him out of his country a month after Zanzibar received independence from British rule.

ORDER NOW RESTORED IN DAR ES SALAAM Tanganyika Army Rebels

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika—President Julius Nyerere said in a radio announcement today that army mutineers who early today held this city to ransom had returned quietly to their barracks.

Nyerere said that a "misunderstanding" in the army had been settled at his intervention.

For 12 hours a few hundred armed Negro soldiers held the British officers, demanding better pay and conditions.

Before the mutinous soldiers returned to camp, there were reports of beatings and looting by residents who took advantage of the situation.

Several photographers at the city's new Africa Hotel were threatened. Photographer Bob Baker-Rider of The Associated Press was beaten by police who sided with soldiers when he was taking pictures.

SMASH CAR WINDSHIELDS
Reports reaching Nairobi,

Kenya, said a mob in the Asian quarter of Dar es Salaam was looting and smashing windows with shouts of "colonialists go home." The rioters were reported to be stopping cars, smashing windshields and then dancing on their rooftops.

The mutiny apparently started after soldiers realized they could take advantage of the fact that 100 Tanganyikan policemen had been sent temporarily for duty on revolt-torn Zanzibar, the island nation off this East African country.

For a few hours it was feared that the nationalist revolution that swept the sultan from his throne in Zanzibar had spread to Tanganyika, one of the most stable of the former British colonies in Africa.

TRAP OFFICERS
It was believed the soldiers first demanded that Nyerere should agree to better pay. He refused and told External Affairs Minister Oscar Kambona to negotiate with the mutineers.

In a lightning coup, the soldiers trapped their British officers and Negro non-commissioned officers at Colito Barracks, five miles north of the city, and sped to the capital in trucks.

They crashed the gates of President Nyerere's state house overlooking the Indian Ocean and for a time held him prisoner, informed sources said.

They also were reported to have apprehended Vice-President Rashidi Kawawa and then to have started a smooth operation to bring other ministers into the net.

Dar es Salaam woke to the sound of shots as the soldiers took over essential services and sealed off the city from the outside world.

The post office, cable office, banks, the airport and harbor installations were taken over without resistance.

Ottawa Revamps Pensions Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government has revised its proposed Canada Pension Plan in a way that slightly reduces pension benefits and at the same time builds up a large reserve of $2,500,000,000 to pay interest after 15 years of contributions.

The initial contribution rate—two per cent of all annual earnings of over $1,000—would not be changed but the government has set a new schedule for contributions.

Contributions starting at $4,500 a year, up from $4,000 in the original proposal.

Pension benefits payable to everyone at age 70 would be reduced to 70 per cent of the income coming from 50 per cent of the original proposal.

The effect is to reduce $25 a month of the original proposal that would have paid $115 a month pension after the plan has reached maturity of 15 years to those over the income ceiling.

SENT MEMORANDUM
The proposed pension plan was reviewed by a panel of the Prime Minister's Council on Tuesday. The panel's report was sent to the Prime Minister on Wednesday.

The panel's report was based on a confidential study of the pension plan by the Prime Minister's Council on Tuesday.

But at the same time, he said the government will go ahead with legislation to implement the plan. The legislation would be presented to Parliament at the session opening Feb. 18.

Pearson, Johnson To Sign Columbia Pact Wednesday

WASHINGTON (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson and President Johnson likely will provide at the completion of two agreements during their two-day meeting here: One on the Columbia River power project and the other on the use of Campobello Island, off the coast of New Brunswick.

The first formal talks between the two leaders, to open at the home of Canadian Ambassador Charles Ritchie and to be completed at the White House the following day, are being planned to continue the spirit of close friendship and informality established when Pearson met with the late President Kennedy at Hyannis Port, Mass., last year.

The prime minister will land at nearby Andrews Air Base Tuesday afternoon and then fly to the White House south lawn by helicopter. Johnson and Pearson will exchange a few brief words of greeting and then the prime minister will be escorted across the street, to Blair House, the presidential guest house.

On Wednesday, after Pearson visits the Kennedy grave and confers with Johnson at the White House, will come the formal announcements: Signing of the final agreements on the $100,000,000 Columbia River power project, to pave the way for Canadian ratification and the final exchange of instruments of ratification between the two countries.

President Appeals To Mr. K. For Broader Peace Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson has called on Soviet Premier Khrushchev to broaden his proposal for a world-wide non-aggression pact to outlaw "indirect" as well as direct aggression and provide greater security for West Berlin.

In a letter made public today, the president proposed four "guidelines" for international agreement which he said would be "even broader and stronger" than Khrushchev's proposed ban on the use of force in territorial disputes.

Johnson did not specify Berlin or its access routes across Communist East Germany in his reply to Khrushchev's Dec. 31 message. But administration officials said he had the Berlin problem in mind.

The president urged Khrushchev to join in taking concrete action both to end the nuclear arms race and bar the spread of nuclear weapons and to outlaw aggression and subversion.

Three Big Items On C of C Agenda

Balloon Granny Missing

SAN DIEGO (AP)—A large search is under way today as rescuers of planes and ships hunted an adventurous grandmother of 10 who vanished high above stormy Catalina Island in a motor balloon.

Red-haired Barbara Keim, 67, of Hartford, Conn., disappeared in rain clouds at 10,000 feet some 15 miles from land.

She was one of eight balloonists who took off Saturday to race from Avalon on Santa Catalina Island to mainland California. One fell nearby. Seven others were being and rain came down. Only one made it to the coast.

Boats returned the search, including a helicopter. But Mrs. Keim's compass-shaped balloon went higher than the others, caught a stiff breeze, and outdistanced its escorting boat below.

A widespread search found no trace of her at sea. Then balloonists consulted wind reports and decided that at 10,000 feet she might have hit gusts strong enough to push her across the coast near here before her four-hour fuel supply ran out.

Planes were ordered to search starting at dawn, as far south as Ensenada, Mexico, 70 miles from here, and for a distance of 40 miles inland.

Objectives Of Organization Reaffirmed By Leadership

Today is a big day in Kelowna for members of the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce. The president's duties include assuming the responsibility for the organization. This he cannot delegate, said Mr. Myers. He must provide leadership, develop a budget and a program and see that it is carried out. He must assume all responsibility for the future, and help the secretary, treasurer and membership personnel. Vice presidents should have more to do, Mr. Myers said.

The president's duties include assuming the responsibility for the organization. This he cannot delegate, said Mr. Myers. He must provide leadership, develop a budget and a program and see that it is carried out. He must assume all responsibility for the future, and help the secretary, treasurer and membership personnel. Vice presidents should have more to do, Mr. Myers said.

FIRST PANEL
The first discussion at the president's conference was on leadership.

Harold Myers, president of the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce, outlined the responsibilities of leadership.

J. Bruce Smith, past president of the Kelowna Chamber, chaired the discussion. The keynote address was given by Mr. Myers and he was assisted by Harold H. Mercer, past president of the Vernon chamber and T. C. McLaughlin, president of the Kelowna chamber.

GOING FIRST
A leader is one who is skilled in going first, said Mr. Myers. "He must have sound judgment, be far looking, and have the courage to carry out his ideas."

He outlined the responsibilities of a chamber leader as one who must have diligence, the ability to delegate responsibility, and the power to communicate to his club and to the community. He must be appreciative of the effort of others.

The responsibilities of the membership as a whole fell into three categories he said—the past, present and future.

"We must maintain traditions and guard our heritage yet not oppose orderly progress," said Mr. Myers. "This is our duty to the past. Our duty to the present is contained in our day to day activities. We must use more long term planning in our present plans. Look at them in the light of the future, and be alert at all times for future leaders. This is our duty to the future."

RECOGNITION
Harold Butterworth, Winfield president, said people need to be educated to the meaning of a chamber of commerce and what it can accomplish. There is a need for all to work together without petty fears and jealousies, he said.

The meeting will continue to 4:30 p.m.

Ruby Suffers "Brain Fault"

DALLAS (AP)—A Yale University psychologist testified today that in his opinion Jack Ruby is suffering an impaired functioning of the brain and should have a thorough examination.

Dr. Roy Schafer of the Yale department of mental health testified in Ruby's effort to obtain release on bond while awaiting his trial on a charge of murder in the death of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy.

Schafer said he examined the 33-year-old night club operator for 9½ hours in late December, giving him a number of standard psychological tests.

His testimony was permitted over objections of state attorneys, who contended it had no bearing in the bond hearing.

Defence Lawyer Melvin Belli told the court the testimony was essential to sustain the defence contention that Ruby could not tell right from wrong and lacked "conscious appreciation of what he was doing" when he shot Oswald on Nov. 24 in the basement of the city jail.

73 Charged In Klan Riot

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Seventy-three persons face trial in Atlanta today as a result of a melee and protest march on the city jail Saturday night.

The first group of 24 was arrested after Negroes picked a segregated lunch counter in which several members of the Ku Klux Klan were drinking coffee.

The others were taken into custody at the city jail when they protested the earlier arrests.

Vernon Accident Proves Fatal

VERNON (Staff)—A 52-year-old city works employee, severely injured Saturday when he was pinned between two trucks, died in Vernon Jubilee Hospital 13 hours later.

Dead is Louis Welsand, an employee of the city sanitation department. RCMP said the accident occurred at 8:15 a.m.

Mr. Welsand, with another city employee William Copan, was carrying out his regular garbage collection duties in the laneway of the 2900 block between 31st Ave. and 32nd Ave., when the accident happened.

A coroner's inquest will be held at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 29, with Coroner J. A. Illington presiding.

KELOWNA FIREMEN BATTLE BLAZE

Kelowna volunteer firemen brought a fire at Mrs. G. Nason's home, 930 Wilson Ave., under control in less than an hour Sunday. Here a fireman helps a colleague (see foot protruding from window) as smoke billows out of the burning upstairs room.

Mrs. Nason and her family were not at home when the fire broke out. Damage was caused by fire, smoke and water, but an exact estimate has not been made. Alarm was given at 9:45 p.m., and the fire out by 10:30. — (Courier Photo)

PEARSON SAYS FAREWELL AFTER FRENCH TRIP

Canada's prime minister, Lester B. Pearson, right, responds to a speech by French Prime Minister Georges Pompidou, left, in Paris last night. Pearson said he was leaving for a five-day visit to France and hoped to follow up on his talks in Paris last week on Canadian soil.

Prime Minister of France Invited To Visit Canada

Prime Minister Pearson has invited French Prime Minister Pompidou to visit Canada. It was learned Sunday Mr. Pompidou, in a message received from his aircraft to the French prime minister as he left France after a five-day visit, said he hoped they will have an opportunity to follow up on their talks in Paris last week on Canadian soil.

Thomas Mantley Crump, a man who always called himself a railroad laborer and watched his son rise to the top in the railroad business, died in Vancouver Saturday at 92. His son, N. M. Crump, now chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, was one of three who followed him into the transportation business.

Resources Minister Arthur Lewis predicted in Vancouver that relations between Canada and the United States will be closer than ever before. He said at the annual banquet of the British Columbia Liberal party the two countries are each others' indispensable friends and allies.

Informed sources said Sunday night that President Johnson does not plan to take any trips outside the United States this year and therefore would have to turn down any suggestion that he confer with French President de Gaulle in Canada.

A Slid Road variety storekeeper has been charged in Philadelphia with involuntary manslaughter in the death of 31 persons here last month.

Deaths: Douglas-Horne, 66, begins an extensive speaking tour at Swansea, Wales, one day behind Labour Leader Harold Wilson who began a national tour Sunday night by departing in Birmingham.

"Labor will replace the closed, exclusive society by an open society in which all have an opportunity to work and serve, in which brains will take precedence over blue blood and craftsmanship will be more important than caste."

The date for the election has not been announced but no one doubts that the campaign now is under way with Wilson, 47, an economist, seeking to identify the new prime minister, the former 14th Earl of Home, with an outmoded class structure.

At a press conference preceding his Birmingham speech, Wilson challenged Douglas-Horne to declare at Swansea today his policy regarding the Common Market, from which Britain was barred a year ago by President de Gaulle's veto.

"Will he give a pledge that no government of which he is the head will consider entering into the Common Market on any terms which would reduce Britain's existing freedom to trade with the Commonwealth?"

Weekend public opinion polls gave Labor a 10-per-cent edge over the Conservatives for the long-awaited election which may come as early as March.

Parts of the central valley are dead, and other sections are dying.

A shroud of black dust covers everything.

If the intense eruptions of Irazu persist, the continuing downpour of ashes may physically destroy San Jose.

The volcano's ashes also may destroy a goodly portion of the top-quality coffee crop, Costa Rica's major export. This could economically ruin the entire nation.

For 10 months, Irazu has been in constant eruption. Located about 17 miles northeast of San Jose, the volcano belches forth a mushroom-shaped cloud of ash and smoke which rises up to 40,000 feet.

And the prevailing winds from the Atlantic push the cloud of ash westward—directly over San Jose and its environs.

QUEEN MOTHER ... long journey

The program for Queen Mother Elizabeth's 30,000-mile, seven-week tour of New Zealand and Australia, beginning Feb. 1, was announced Sunday. The Queen Mother will fly to Mount real by jet airliner for a short reception by Governor-General Vandevelde before continuing to Vancouver. She is to spend a day on Vancouver Island with Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes in Victoria and a day in Honolulu. She is to arrive in Fiji Feb. 19, from where she will sail in the royal yacht Britannia to arrive in Auckland Feb. 24. Feb. 24 she flies from Christchurch to Canberra, the Australian federal capital. The Australian tour ends at Perth March 23 when she returns to Britain by jet liner via Singapore and Karachi.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said on his return to Ottawa he believes a general election will come soon because the government is so weak.

Swirling clouds of cinders, and gently falling rain of ash and gritty sand and underfoot have turned the once verdant central valley of Costa Rica into a vale of grey-black doom.

In ordinary times, San Jose, situated in a 3,800-foot high valley, is a clean, sunny and delightful place to live.

But for 10 months the almost 300,000 inhabitants of metropolitan San Jose have been living in the "valley of the shadow of death."

Since last March volcano Irazu (pronounced ee-rah-soo), an 11,200-foot monster, has been dumping thousands of tons of pulverized greyish-black, gritty volcanic cinders and ashes over this Central American capital.

National President, Elections, Highlight CofC Meet Tonight

Tonight Howard T. Mansel, national president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, will be the guest speaker at the Kelowna chapter of the organization's annual meeting at the Aquatic Club. Also included on the agenda are election of new officers and 1963 committee reports. The meeting starts at 6 p.m.

L. R. Stephens, chairman of the Kelowna chapter, said the chapter was able to have the national president recognize the Kelowna chapter's contribution to the organization of organized agriculture in the province.

The chapter worked closely with leaders of the fruit and vegetable industry and received active support for the marketing plan from other Valley chambers and boards of trade.

Interest in growing every year in the work of sponsoring the "R. C. C. Achievement Award" was high.

The chapter will sponsor the 1964 "R. C. C. Achievement Award" contest. It will award a prize to the grower who produces the highest quality fruit or vegetable in the province.

Members of the education committee helped in the organization of the higher educational conference held in Kelowna last spring, and some members met with Dean Stuffle in February.

The committee sought general support for a college in Kelowna. They are now working with the chapter executive to develop the new provincial vocational school here.

FUTURE PROJECT

Future plans are for a "Cereals Night" next spring.

H. C. Armstrong, chairman of the Kelowna chapter, said the chapter's activities are now confined to meeting prospective individuals or companies interested in moving to Kelowna.

He said the committee held meetings with customs officials about inadequate customs facilities here. "Now we have customs men in Kelowna instead of one and a half service is exceptionally good."

For the last year Mrs. Don Cameron of Vernon has been teaching speech facility to pre-school deaf children. She has been assisted by Mrs. Joyce Smart of Kelowna and they have worked with five or six children. Mrs. Green said.

Mrs. Cameron appealed to service organizations in Kelowna for more help for these children. At least four clubs have organized to help Mrs. Cameron to develop schools for deaf children. Service clubs in Vernon and Penticton have also expressed interest in the project.

"Once officers have been elected, a constitution can be drafted and a charter will be applied for," Mr. Green said.

He recommended in 1964 a spring membership drive was responsible for 30 new members. The year's total new members was 59 with losses totaling 49 giving a net increase of 10. Membership currently stands at 114," said Mr. Armstrong. This figure covers firms and individuals but not another 130 who are representatives of their firms as full members.

He said 266 attended the Christmas jamboree resulting in a net profit of $81.

NEW MEMBERS

B. L. Means, membership committee chairman, said the new members were 37 in 1963, 41 in 1964, 45 in 1965, 47 in 1966, 49 in 1967, 51 in 1968, 53 in 1969, 55 in 1970, 57 in 1971, 59 in 1972, 61 in 1973, 63 Canal Zone Conflict Difficult To Settle

The present trouble in the Panama Canal Zone is a reminder that the zone has been a major target for Panamanian nationalists ever since the 1930s, but despite four new treaties negotiated in 1936, the United States maintained its perpetual control over the area. There have been many flag incidents, with U.S. officials generally giving ground on this emotional issue.

At Washington, military officials are now saying openly what they long limited to private observation, that the zone is of no significant strategic military importance as a naval passage between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. In addition, the canal is a relatively easy target for a missile strike.

The zone is still a major American military centre, however. U.S. uniformed forces there number 9,750 men including a 7,000-man army combat brigade. These forces are there not solely for the protection of the canal but as a mobile force ready to cope with any contingency in Latin America.

The contrast between the canal's significance as a naval passage and its commercial importance is indicated in the difference between nearly 10,000 commercial transits a year and little more than 50 transits a year by U.S. naval vessels. Moreover, more than 85 per cent of the shipping tonnage of countries of the west coast of South America goes through the canal.

Under the terms of the treaty of 1903 Panama granted the United States perpetual sovereignty over the Canal Zone to the "entire exclusion of the exercise by the Republic of Panama of any such sovereign rights, power or authority."

In 1921 Colombia accepted $25 million compensation from the U.S. for the loss of Panama. In 1936 the U.S. agreed to pay Panama $430,000 a year, withdrew its guarantee of independence and agreed to bar all commercial enterprise with the zone except that directly concerned with shipping. Then in 1955 a new treaty between the U.S. and Panama was signed and was ratified by the U.S. Senate and by Panama. The principal among the concessions was an increase in the annuity to $1,930,000 yearly from $430,000. In addition the U.S. gave Panama about $24 million worth of real estate and buildings no longer needed by the Canal Zone administration. The U.S. also agreed to build the high level bridge over the Pacific entrance to the canal and this bridge was opened in 1962 as a link in the Inter-American highway. Under the treaty Panama is entitled to levy income taxes on Panamanian citizens and those of third countries employed in the Canal Zone, U.S. citizens and members of the armed services are exempt.

Latest reports on the negotiations to achieve some sort of an accord suggest that this is going to be very difficult. One's sympathies rest more with the American position as the Panamanians seem to be using their "nuisance value" in an attempt to force the United States into even further concessions through another renegotiated treaty.

While our sympathies may rest with the U.S., one cannot help wondering if there are not some sly smiles in Britain and France. The Americans are now in exactly the same position as were those two countries in the Suez Canal question. At that time the U.S. was definitely on the side of Egypt. Circumstances do alter em-

Still, while it continues the Panama situation can be nothing but a cause of embarrassment to the United States. The riots may not have been Communist-inspired but the Communists have lost no time in capitalizing on them for propaganda purposes. The Communists can claim the riots were the result of Yankee colonialism, that Panamanians have been killed and injured because they objected to the Stars and Stripes flying over their territory. This is an over-simplification and like most over-simplifications it is neither accurate or fair. But it is the kind of statement that is hard to counteract.

The "Christmas" That Was Blasts U.K. Highway Toll

LONDON (CPI)—One hundred and twenty men, women and children—each representing a dead person—formed up before the television cameras to spell out the words "Xmas, 1963".

With this macabre illustration of the death toll on British highways during the Christmas holiday, the TV program "This Week" opened a well-documented and ferocious inquiry into the cause of the deaths.

It was the opening shot in a verbal battle that was to develop into a public quarrel between two London newspapers and produce literally hundreds of letters of protest to newspapers.

This week, brushing aside sombre notices, flashed on the screen smiling family—album photos of some victims, showed horror film of auto wrecks and went into a London pub to interview drinking and even drunk drivers at a New Year's Eve party.

One man smilingly admitted he already had 16 shots of scotch and intended to drive five miles home after the party ended. Like almost all those interviewed he insisted, "I can hold my liquor."

There were some mild protests from viewers on the grounds of bad taste but the show received high praise from TV critics.

"The pictures came like a slap in the face," wrote Dennis Potter of The Daily Herald. "I applaud this week for the stark honesty and merciless efficiency of this wretched narrative."

EXPRESS DISAGREES

Later, The Daily Express took exception to the drunk-driving theory and produced figures showing that, throughout the year, most accidents were caused by bad roads and poor driving.

The Daily Mirror, in turn, charged that the attitude of The Express was not only "astonishing" but "irresponsible."

It dug up a 1959 report of the Road Research Laboratory which showed that in more than half the fatal Christmas accidents that year one or more people involved had been drinking and that drink was involved in eight of 10 fatal accidents in the party-time period after 10 p.m.

"Not even The Daily Express could claim that eight out of 10 was 'a trifling proportion,'" The Mirror added.

As expected, long-suffering Transport Minister Ernest Marples, who cut short a holiday in France as the toll rose, got much of the blame. He announced a full inquiry but critics reminded him there had been an inquiry in 1959 and no follow-up action was taken.

Most letters of protest said fines and other punishments should be tougher and that scientific tests to determine how much a person had imbibed should be introduced. Marples said he would introduce testing devices if ever a perfect one is developed. The Medical Research Council is working on the problem and "we think we are on to something reliable," he added.

DETERRED BY FINES

Many writers were impressed by the so-called "Draconian" laws of Norway and Sweden where motorists are literally too frightened of the high fines—based on the offender's income—and other penalties to risk drunk driving. They noted particularly that there were no highway fatalities in these countries this Christmas.

Despite all the upsurge, the 120 killed in Britain is not a record, 145 having died during the 1959 holiday. But it came at the end of a bad year for traffic deaths and figures just released showed deaths up nine per cent during last October.

Not is Britain's record high compared with many other countries. Comparisons are difficult, because of different populations, numbers of cars and miles of highway, but a recent government survey indicated Britain's record was considerably better than Europe—except for the Scandinavian countries—but not quite as good as that of the United States.

The report said Britain had one fatality for every 1,410 vehicles, the U.S. one for every 2,000 cars. Worst of all those surveyed was Italy—one fatality for every 375 vehicles.

'Feet-Across Sea' In Ball Challenge

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CPI) Mayor Harry Veiner says he and Lord Provost Maurice McManus of Dundee, Scotland, will compete in a football-kicking contest in Dundee, probably in February.

A firm date for the contest has not been set, Mayor Veiner says, adding that he may fly directly to Dundee and home again or may call in at Dundee on a European trip in February.

The Medicine Hat mayor rarely lets a month go by without challenging someone to some sort of contest, the proceeds usually going to charity.

He says the Lord Provost advised him he was willing to meet him in any sort of contest.

Both are grandfathers, Mayor Veiner, 60, weighs about 230 pounds; the lord provost, 58, weighs about 182.

Bona Fide Shrines

In Short Supply

By PATRICK NICHOLSON
Daily Courier Ottawa Bureau

We are very short of bona fide national shrines in Canada. So many Canadians will applaud the decision of the Historic Sites and Monuments Board to recommend the purchase of Bellevue House, in Kingston, Ontario.

"Bellevue is one of the few remaining houses associated with the life of Canada's first Prime Minister," said Canada's 14th Prime Minister, in announcing the government's intention to act on the recommendation. "The house will be refurbished not only in the style of Sir John A.'s time but with some of the actual furniture used by him."

The purchase price of the house will be about $35,000, with an additional $30,000 required for renovation and structural repairs.

This is not taxpayers' money well spent.

BEST AND PEACE

Sir John A. Macdonald was an immigrant from Scotland, who made his home at Kingston, where he set up in the practice of law in his young days. He lived in various houses in Kingston, most of which were in the area. In the summer of 1848, he decided to move out of the town, so that his aging wife Isabella could enjoy the rest and peace and fresh air of the rural surroundings. About a mile from the town, he found a 12-room house standing in more than two acres of garden sloping down to the waterfront of Lake Ontario.

This house had been built nine years previously by a retired government official, Charles Hays, who in his affluent old age had dreamed of buying an estate. He took William, the resident professional, was described as being in "Tudor Italian" style and Sir John Macdonald named this country villa "Peace Pagoda." The house, in tribute to the previous activities of its builder, irreverently dubbed it variously "Macdonald Cottage" and "Macdonald Hall" and, more commonly, "The Caddy Castle."

So Sir John rented Peace Pagoda, and in August 1848 he moved his family into it. Just 12 months later he moved out again, no doubt gladly, after what had been one of the unhappiest years of his long life. He had been there only one month when his infant son, John Alexander, died there. And for a long period his wife was confined to bed there suffering great pain.

MOVE TO OTTAWA

Nearly 30 years later, Sir John became the first Prime Minister of the new nation of Canada. He made Ottawa his home, and here in due course he bought "Peace Pagoda" on a cliff overlooking the Ottawa River and almost within the shadow of Parliament's Peace Tower. Here he lived and worked and ultimately died.

Today Peace Pagoda is the most famous and possibly the most impressive private home in Ottawa. It is used as the official residence of the High Commissioner of Britain, whose government owns it.

Peace Pagoda is the home which should be treated as the national shrine of our first Prime Minister. A former opponent of it told me that his government would certainly sell it if the Canadian Government wished to purchase it for this purpose.

Located in the centre of our capital, Peace Pagoda is the house where the furniture and belongings of the famous Sir John should be gathered, the whole being thrown open to visitors.

Why wish this possibility before it, and our government make the significant choice of Peace Pagoda to be a proud historical trust of the Canadian people to keep alive the memory of a very great Canadian?

Indonesia "Guard" Stirs Uneasiness

JAKARTA, Indonesia (API)—Southeast Asia's biggest military machine—the Indonesian Army—is claiming the role of the area's defender. The claim undoubtedly will cause more uneasiness among neighboring nations.

1st Gen. Ahmad Yani, young U.S.-trained chief of staff of the Indonesian Army, told students at the army staff command school recently that Indonesia's soldiers must be prepared to widen their responsibility for the security of Southeast Asia.

In line with government policy, Yani said, "a wider perspective is needed. Our political concept is to eliminate the direct confrontation of the two blocs (East and West) in Southeast Asia and relinquish the responsibility of security and stability of the region to Southeast Asian countries themselves."

Indonesia, he said, has all the necessary potential for this task—the region's biggest manpower reserve, the most strategic location and the richest resources.

Indonesian political leaders have made no bones about their conviction that their nation of more than 100,000,000 people, fifth most populous in the world, is entitled to a sphere of influence in Southeast Asia.

Whether Indonesia can do the job is another question.

Indonesia has about a third of a million men under arms, widely scattered among the 3,000 islands of the republic and equipped with a mixture of modern and outdated equipment. Most of its modern weapons, including jet fighters, medium-range jet bombers, and missiles, come from the Soviet Union.

Logistics, maintenance and communications are major problems. And aside from fighting rebel guerrillas at home the army has had no battle experience.

The Malaysia crisis provides a measure of how much Indonesian leaders oppose foreign military influence remaining in Southeast Asia.

Judging by official statements over the last year, Indonesia resents nothing more than the defence treaty between Malaysia, the new nation it has pledged to destroy, and Britain.

Under the pact, British troops and ships are still stationed in Malaysia, on the doorstep of the Indonesian archipelago. President Sukarno denounces this as "imperialist encirclement."

Jani said that under a "more sophisticated" defence policy, the Indonesian government is planning the following moves in the next four years:

1. Creation of an army strategic reserve command.
2. Completion of a retraining program for thousands of soldiers who served during the 1945-50 period of rebellion against the Dutch.
3. Improvement in organization.
4. Plans for the army to manufacture all of its light weapons and ammunition for them.
5. Preparations to put the army on a conscription rather than a volunteer basis.

Denmark Low In Traffic Toll

COPENHAGEN (Reuters) Traffic accident injury figures in Denmark in 1963 were the lowest in a decade.

Inspector E. Groen-Petersen, Copenhagen's traffic police chief, says the low record of injuries came in the face of the quadrupling of the number of vehicles on the road.

He says the main reasons for the improvement are better traffic discipline, intensive road safety campaign and denser traffic which forced motorists to drive slower and with greater caution.

The 1963 figure for traffic injuries was 4,552, a drop of 14 per cent from the 1962 total of 5,299.

There was much tighter control of traffic at intersections, where the most serious accidents occurred.

BETTER DISCIPLINE

Groen-Petersen says Danish motorists and pedestrians are "better disciplined" than their counterparts in many other European countries, such as Norway, Sweden, France and West Germany.

In Denmark, prosperity has brought a boom in the number of vehicle registrations during the last five years. The total number jumped from 170,408 in 1950 to 753,000 at the end of 1962. About 100,000 more vehicles were registered in 1963.

The Danish press has played a major role in making Denmark more traffic conscious. Serious accidents are major front-page news here.

Newspapers also print extensive reports of court proceedings in drunken driving cases. Last autumn they ran a "protect the pedestrian" campaign, reflected in higher penalties to motorists who failed to respect pedestrian crossings.

Police and road safety officials in Denmark point to drunken driving as their biggest problem. Drunken driving convictions show a gradual but regular rise each year.

There were 1,793 convictions in 1952 and 3,784 in 1962. Drunken driving was the cause of seven per cent of all accidents involving injury in 1962.

The Only Reason...

(Stillville, Ont. News)

Dear Sir:

In reply to your request for payment, I wish to inform you that the present condition of my bank account makes it almost impossible.

My shattered financial condition is due to federal laws, provincial laws, county laws, township laws, town laws, brother-in-laws, sister-in-laws and out-laws. Through these laws I am compelled to pay income tax, property tax, business tax, amusement tax, head tax, cosmetic tax, tobacco tax, gas tax, poll tax, inheritance tax, light tax, fuel tax, excise tax, car tax, garbage tax, sewer tax, water tax, transportation tax and hidden tax.

I am required to get a business licence, car licence, operator's licence, truck licence, trailer licence, bicycle licence, hunting licence, fishing licence not to mention a marriage licence and dog licence.

I am required also to contribute to every society and organization which the genius of man is capable of bringing to life; to women's relief, unemployed relief and the gold diggers relief. Also to every hospital and charitable institution including the Salvation Army, Community Chest, United Fund, Red Cross, White Cross, Blue Cross, Purple Cross and Double Cross, YMCA, YWCA, as well as the Wayward Stations for Wayward Girls, Boys' Ranch and Boys' Town.

For my own safety I am required to carry life insurance, health insurance, liability insurance, earthquake insurance, fire insurance, property insurance, tornado insurance, old age insurance, accident insurance and unemployment insurance.

My business is so governed that it is no easy matter to find out who owns it. I am inspected, expected, suspected, disrespected, rejected, defected, examined, re-examined, informed, required, summoned, fixed, commanded and compelled until I provide an exhaustive supply of money, for every known need, desire or hope of the human race.

Simply because I refuse to donate to something or other I am boycotted, talked about, lied about, held up, held down and robbed until I am almost ruined.

I can tell you honestly that, except for a miracle that happened, I could not enclose this cheque for payment. The wolf that comes to my door now-adays just had pups in my kitchen. I sold the pups, and here is the money. N.S.F.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Fungus Gets Under Your Fingernails

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Thank you for your article about fungus growths beneath the fingernails and toenails.

I took 500 units of Griseofulvin pills, four units a day, and used an ointment.

I had this infection for about 20 years and had been to hospitals and clinics with no luck and gave up hope of ever getting it cured until I read your article about Griseofulvin.

It really did the trick and I can be proud of my nails again. Pass the good news on to others who have this condition.—J.K.

This drug (which is available under a variety of trade names) has cleared up cases which have defied every other known treatment.

I don't suppose anybody ever died of fungus of the nails but it can be annoying, unsightly, embarrassing condition. To my way of thinking (shared, no doubt, by most doctors) it's the physician's task not only to save lives but to make lives happier and more comfortable. So I'm delighted that J.K. benefited, and I've had notes from others telling the same story.

It's important to let people know about the newer treatments that have come along since a few years ago when, like J.K., they quit trying because nothing then worked. You can't get Griseofulvin at the drug store without a prescription. The amount taken has to be rather carefully calculated by your physician.

Griseofulvin is an antibiotic which works on fungi rather than bacteria. It isn't a sensation-life-saver, and hence hasn't had the publicity that the "wonder drug" merited. In its way, it is just as remarkable a scientific achievement, though.

A word of caution: It doesn't control all fungi, but then, neither can the antibiotics control all germs.

It does do a remarkable job in the right cases, and has in a few weeks or months cured cases that had defied every formerly known treatment for years, and sometimes for decades.

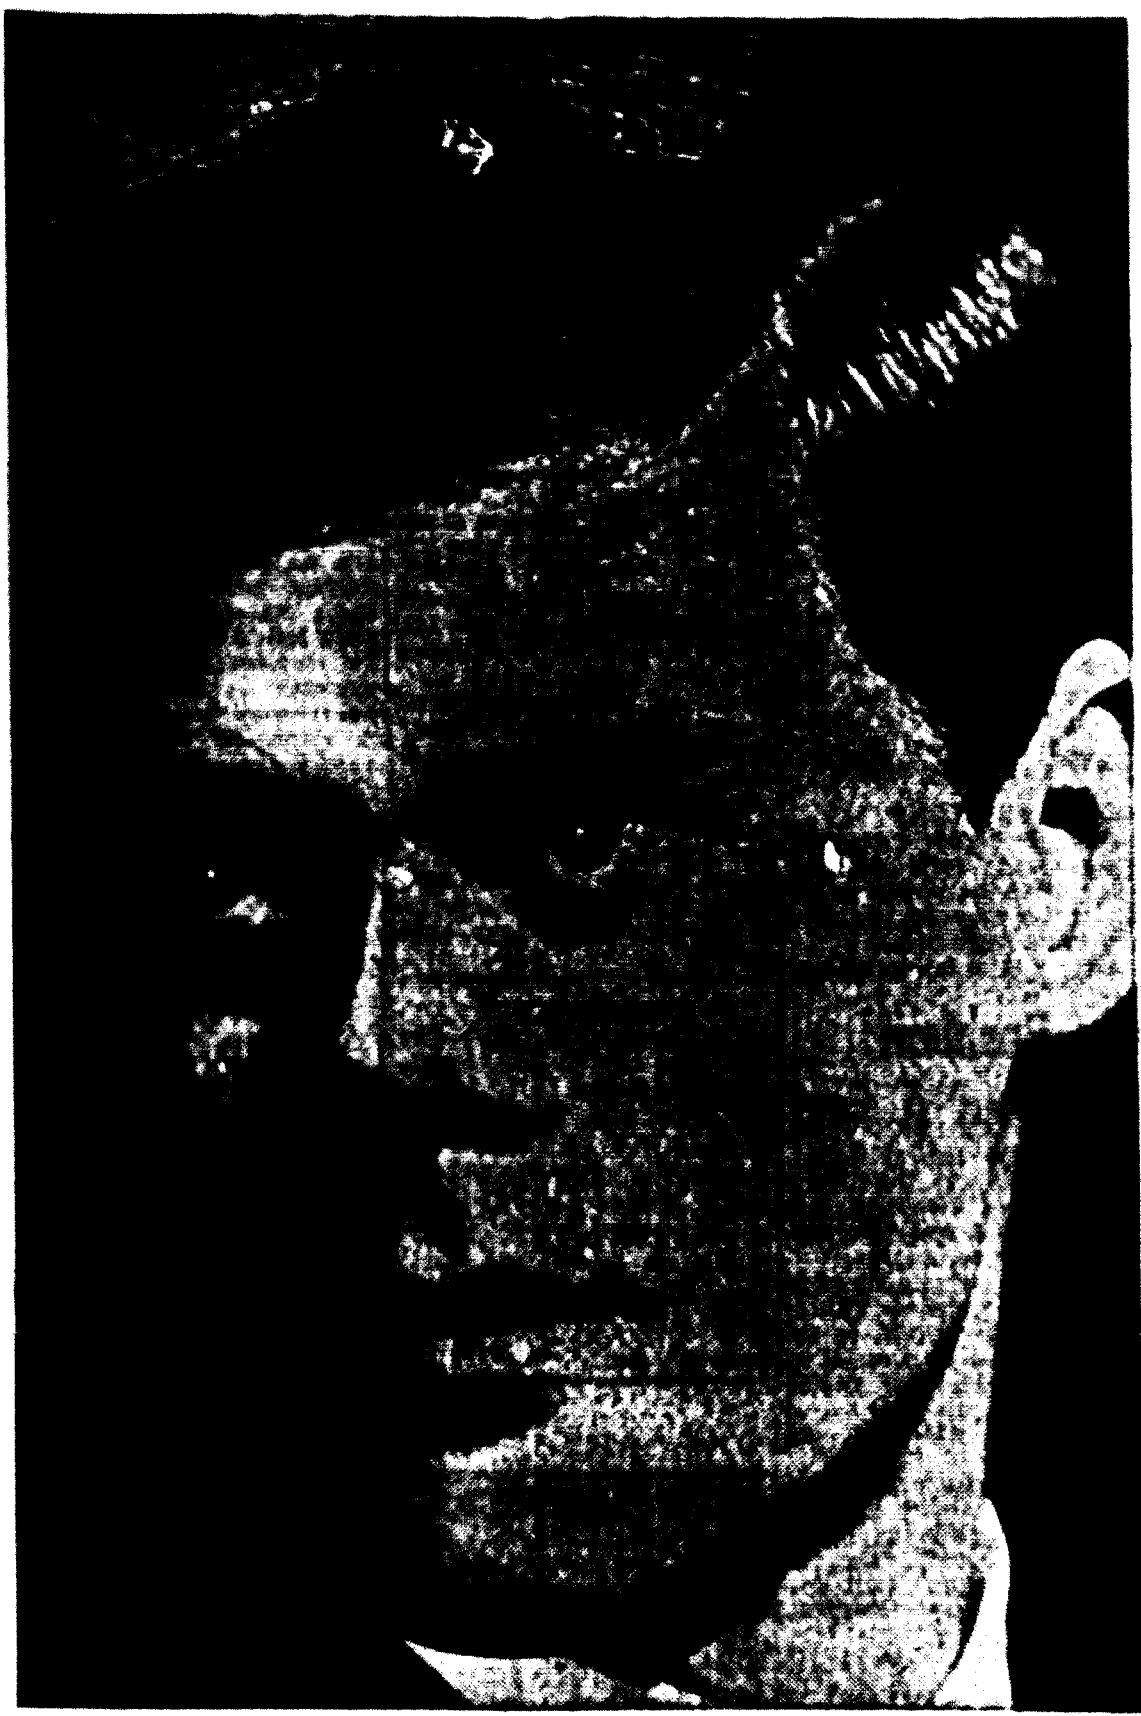

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 18 and have started getting migraine headaches. Is there any relation between them and an upset stomach? I enclose 20 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a copy of your booklet, "How To Tame Headaches."—J.W.

Yes, migraines very frequently are accompanied by stomach upsets which subside when the headache does.

Dear Dr. Molner: What could be the cause of loose bowels or diarrhea in a man aged 48? This has been bothering him for six months. Has anyone else had this trouble?—MRS. B.K.

It has happened many times before. The answers? Colitis, "nervous colon," some chronic infection or infestation of the intestine, cancer (the danger signal of "some change in bowel habits"), a partial obstruction yet non-cancerous. Shall I continue the list, or is this enough to persuade you (or him) that when this condition develops, there is only one thing to do. Have your doctor begin checking to see which of many possibilities is the cause. And the sooner the better.

NOTE TO G.S.: Yes, I see what it says in the ad you enclosed—that a "life-time assurance" is given for this non-surgical treatment of ruptures. That means about as much as the "moneyback guarantee" that we see so often. I have not to know anybody who got his money back, and I don't think anybody would be the loser if this phrase were to be abolished totally. There are several ways to limp along with a rupture (hernia) but the only dependable cure I know is surgery.

FAMOUS BARITONE TO SING HERE SATURDAY

Pictured above is Donald Bell, well known Canadian baritone who will open the 1964 season for Overture Concert Association members on Saturday, Jan. 25, at 8:15 (sharp) in the Kelowna Community Theatre. Mr. Bell has a strong and easy top notes and is also an accomplished artist who has already won acclaim throughout Europe and the U.S.S.R. Following the concert a reception will be held at the Capri Motel and all Overture Concert members are cordially invited to attend and meet the artist.

Kelowna Overture Concerts Present Canadian Baritone

The first Overture Concert for the Eugene Ormandy in a performance of Beethoven's "Christus" known young Canadian concert singer Donald Bell. The concert of the performance, which will be held at the Kelowna Community Theatre on Saturday, January 25, will commence on the dot of 8:15 p.m. and should certainly be a must for all the music lovers in the Valley in spite of the weather.

Donald Bell, who can sing so magnificently at the beginning of his career is, as surely as it is possible to foresee, destined to stride the very peaks of international fame. This prophecy, made by a Canadian newspaper in 1953, is now in the process of fulfillment.

Don of a Vancouver magistrate, Mr. Bell was born in South Burnaby, British Columbia, in 1934, and first came to the attention of the public at the age of 14 when he won a vocal class for singers up to 20 years of age in the British Columbia Music Festival in Vancouver. In 1952 he was awarded a three-year scholarship to the Royal College of Music in London and before long he became known as "the Canadian with the golden voice." He won the Arnold Bax Memorial Medal for the most outstanding student from the British Commonwealth in 1955.

FIRST SUCCESSES

Following his studies in England, Donald Bell was invited to join the private studio of Professor Carl Ebert at the Berlin State Opera and soon became a student of Professor Hermann Weissenborn, one of Germany's leading singing teachers. During the winter of 1957-58, Bell scored a notable success as one of the soloists with the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra in performances of the St. Matthew Passion. He also presented a number of recitals for the BBC and the RIAS radio. In April of that year he made a sensational recital debut in London.

As a result of this recital, Donald Bell was engaged to record Sir William Walton's "Belshazzar's Feast" with the Philharmonic Orchestra and Choir, conducted by the composer. During the summer of 1958, he made his operatic debut at the Bayreuth Festival. Although he had never appeared on the operatic stage before and was only 24 years old, he was entrusted with two small but important solo roles: the Night Watchman in "Meister-singer" and the second Knight of the Grail in "Parsifal." He was immediately re-engaged for three years.

CANADIAN TOUR

During the fall of 1958, Mr. Bell embarked on a most successful Canadian tour, which included debuts in nearly all the principal cities. He was enthusiastically acclaimed by the public and the critics.

BAYREUTH FESTIVAL

In the summer of 1959, Donald Bell sang 21 performances at the Bayreuth Festival, also appearing at the Lucerne Festival in a "Messiah" conducted by Sir Thomas Beecham, in company with such distinguished colleagues as Elisabeth Schwarzkopf.

TOURS U.S.S.R.

In January, 1963, Donald Bell made his first concert tour of the U.S.S.R., and Natalia Schiller, writing in "Soviet Culture," wrote: "Three Handel arias were sung by Donald Bell with great vocal mastery, particularly the aria from the opera 'Acis and Galatea.' With broad and deep and Nicolai Gedda. That fall he again participated in a 'Messiah' performance in Berlin, this time under the baton of Sir Malcolm Sargent.

NEW YORK DEBUT

Finally, in the fall of 1959, Donald Bell made his New York debut. On this most auspicious occasion he was a soloist with the Philadelphia Orchestra, displaying flexibility, fluency and expressiveness. His voice sounded with beauty throughout its range. Following his Russian tour, Mr. Bell went again to New York for a performance of the Richard Strauss opera "Intermezzo" at Lincoln Centre.

Then back to Europe for concerts in England under Sir John Barbirolli, and in the Soviet Union, followed by his debut in Zurich, where he sang the role of Speaker in a production of "The Magic Flute" at the Glyndebourne Festival, after which he made a flying trip to Montreal to sing the Beethoven Ninth under Zubin Mehta at the opening of Place des Arts, on September 21.

Bearing a striking resemblance to the late John F. Kennedy, Donald Bell is frequently mistaken for the late president—especially at airports and in the United States. Making his home in London, Mr. Bell enjoys his few free leisure hours with his attractive blonde family—Erika, his wife and Sebastian, their young son.

Please note the changes in programs and dates of future Overture Concerts. The interesting duo of Rolston and Moore, pianist and violinist will appear in Kelowna on March 9 and Richard Grenko, pianist will give his recital on March 19.

TEACHER TRAINING

Of 32,602 Canadian teachers in training in 1962-63, 35.7 per cent were enrolled in degree-granting institutions.

Social Items From Rutland

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kornze have returned from an extended holiday spent visiting relatives in California.

The W. A. of St. Aiden's Anglican Church held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Thomas Daniel on Tuesday last. Following the devotional period, conducted by the hostess, the study book "Kingdom, Power and Glory" was discussed. Mrs. E. S. Bush presented a report on the Gift Box, and on Social Service. Mrs. T. Daniel, "Living Message" convenor, reported that ten subscriptions were ordered. Tentative plans for a rummage sale, to be held at a date in February, were made by the meeting. The next meeting is to be held at the home of the president, Mrs. Ralph Ruffi. Refreshments were served to the members by the hostess, at the close of the meeting.

In the list of officers reported in connection with the Rutland Women's Institute, the name of the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. John Caljouw was inadvertently omitted.

Friends of F. L. Fitzpatrick will be glad to learn that he has recovered sufficiently, from the recent heart attack, to be able to return to his home at the beginning of this week.

ANN LANDERS Nurses Don't Crave Germ Prone Males

Dear Ann Landers: Two years ago my son married a girl who was beneath him socially, morally and intellectually. I don't know what Woodrow saw in Claudia. She certainly was looking to look at. I am not an interfering type, but when people ask for advice I offer it. Naturally when Woodrow was having trouble with Claudia he discussed it with me but I had nothing to do with his decision.

The divorce was granted Tuesday on Wednesday I received by special delivery messenger a beautifully wrapped orange cake — my favorite. It was from my former daughter-in-law. I thought this was an extraordinary gesture, since Claudia and I were never friendly.

Innocently I served the cake to my bridge club that evening. I was horrified when one of the guests almost choked on the wedding ring which that little snip had dropped into the batter.

What do you make of it? — DUMB-FOUNDED

Dear Landers: I think she was trying to tell you something.

Dear Ann Landers: The names which appeared in the fact of this letter are accurate. We are eight registered nurses — all devoted readers of your column, and all in sharp disagreement with some advice you recently handed out.

You told a complaining male (the one who carried a thermometer in his pocket and took his temperature several times a day) that he and some nice nurse would make a lovely couple.

We are all single, Ann, but we'd rather die single than marry a man who is looking for a nurse to take care of him. We see plenty of illness during working hours. When we are home we don't want to be the cap takers on and go back to work.

Please stop advising the getting-together to marry a nurse. We don't want to be EIGHT AT ST. MARK'S.

Dear Eight: Thanks for your letter. Please read the next one. It will be more effective than any comment I could make.

Dear Ann Landers: Where did you get the idea that a man who marries a nurse will get a wife who will take care of him for the rest of his life? I was married to a nurse for seven years and all she ever did was prepare on soup for a New Year's Eve Supper. Her standard phrase was: "Take two aspirins."

The expression, "The nurse's son go bankrupt" is true. My father was a photographer and my mother bankrupted him every evening for 10 years before he finally took a picture of the family.

My brother-in-law is a carpenter. After six years of nagging, the roof of their house fell in and my sister had to hire a carpenter to come in and do the repair work.

So please, Ann, don't tell your male readers to marry a nurse — or anyone else — with the idea of getting free services. It won't happen. BILL DILLON.

Dear Bill: And here's another letter from someone who learned the same old lesson.

Dear Ann: I married Bernie

I.O.D.E. Installs New Members

Two new members, Mrs. D. Land and Mrs. D. Munnery, were welcomed to the chapter by the Regent, Mrs. W. J. Knox, at the meeting of the year at the home of Mrs. P. C. MacPhail.

Reports from the various committees indicated activity on the part of all members. Reports from the annual general meeting to be held in February were discussed and distributed to committee heads.

Speaking for the education committee, Mrs. W. E. Haddad read letters of appreciation from the pupils of the chapter's adopted school at Brookmere who had received Christmas parcels from the members.

Money grants were passed to certain of the Provincial Chapter's projects. Among which were the Kelowna Children's Fund, the National Scholastic Fund, the Junior R. Scholastic Fund and the Mary (Cord) Memorial. The latter is a fund which maintains a room in the Queen Alexandra Sanatorium for children.

Mrs. W. R. Ross reported for her services committee that eye examinations had been authorized and that parcels containing knitting, sewing and quilts had been forwarded to Vancouver for transshipment and the last shipment had been valued at $294.15. Money was passed for the purchase of new materials for Mrs. Ross's work.

The Regent, Mrs. D. J. Kerr, was nominated as the chapter's representative on the local Centenary King as alternate.

Mrs. M. J. Gelfinger gave a very interesting current affairs talk on modern India, with special emphasis on the rise of national industries and various projects which were being undertaken to assist the people in their new state of independence.

An executive meeting was arranged to precede the annual meeting and committee heads are so advised to have all reports ready.

TORONTO (CP) — Vivian Wong, fashion editor of Style and Chatelaine women's magazines, predicted Monday that by the end of the year "waists will be back and we will have shape and full."

Miss Wong, speaking at the opening of the fashion salemen Ontario market week here, said 1963 was the end of a severe fashion cycle that went through waistless, the-mid-1950s, and shifts.

Here are some of her other fashion forecasts:

1. Dresses will be softer, added by blousing, ruffled or pleated in the chest and and flared skirts.

2. The over-the-shoulder coat or jacket will be the distinguishing feature of ensembles for the young adult, while children will be wearing dresses with more detailing.

3. Navy and white will be the major combination for little girls' outfits and muted tones in "delicious combinations" of blue and yellow, pink and blue will be popular.

4. A bold dress will be the most important print and will be seen in casual party clothes including long skirts with bare midriff tops.

Fashion Editor Predicts Softer Styling For '64

TORONTO (CP) — Vivian Wong, fashion editor of Style and Chatelaine women's magazines, predicted Monday that by the end of the year "waists will be back and we will have shape and full."

Miss Wong, speaking at the opening of the fashion salemen Ontario market week here, said 1963 was the end of a severe fashion cycle that went through waistless, the-mid-1950s, and shifts.

Here are some of her other fashion forecasts:

1. Dresses will be softer, added by blousing, ruffled or pleated in the chest and and flared skirts.

2. The over-the-shoulder coat or jacket will be the distinguishing feature of ensembles for the young adult, while children will be wearing dresses with more detailing.

3. Navy and white will be the major combination for little girls' outfits and muted tones in "delicious combinations" of blue and yellow, pink and blue will be popular.

4. A bold dress will be the most important print and will be seen in casual party clothes including long skirts with bare midriff tops.

and then bid five spades over five diamonds. Mathe boldly contracted for six, which Nail made for a score of 1,430 points.
The British could have taken a 100-point sacrifice by bidding seven clubs, but the slam had been reached in so uncertain a fashion that they thought there was a chance of defeating the contract.

When the British team held the North-South cards, the bidding went:
East pass, South 2 spades,
West 3 clubs, North 4 spades,
East 5 clubs, South 5 spades.
There was more to the bidding than meets the eye. What actually happened was that the British South bid five spades (a slam try) before East acted over North's four spade bid.

Since this was a bid out of turn, the bid was cancelled and the turn to call reverted to East, who then bid five clubs.
South was now on his own in the bidding, since North was barred for the rest of the auction as a result of the bid out of turn.

South could have changed his bid to six spades, but he decided to bid only five spades, and that became the contract.
He made six for a score of 680 points, and the British lost 750 points on the deal.

Whether the American East
West pair would have sacrificed at seven clubs had South chosen to jump to six spades, will never be known, but it does pose a question.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

A STIMULATING day! In your and or business matters, both old and new enterprises are started for gain and, where personal affairs are concerned, the stars favor social activities and romance. A good period too, for dealing with superiors and elders.

To Buy U.K. Planes

HAVANA (AP) — A Cuban

mission has left for London to negotiate with British manufacturers of planes used on international air routes. There was no published report of what the mission hopes to buy from the firm, the Bristol Company. It makes the Britannia plane, which Cubana uses on routes to Mexico and Prague.

Cuba recently closed a deal to buy 400 buses from another

British company.

you should find the year ahead

a most stimulating one. Both job and personal matters will be governed by generous aspirits and, if you set high goals for yourself and follow them conscientiously, years and should find your affairs in fine shape. Best periods for advancement: early February, late

March, mid-April, September and November. Good cycles from a monetary standpoint:

early March (a time in which to really think "big"), mid-June,

October and November. Be careful in fiscal matters in April,

May and September. No extra-

Opportunities for travel and some interesting social func-

WELCOME

delegates to the

75th ANNUAL BCFGA CONVENTION

JANUARY 21-22-23

An Historic Occasion

Seventy-five years ago a group of dedicated men met in Vancouver to lay the ground work for the organization of the British Columbia Fruit Growers' Association. That was in 1889 and the first transcontinental rail link had been finished but four years previously... settlement of Western Canada had only begun. From these early days has emerged a story of courage, hard work and dedication to successfully market the fruit products produced in the fertile lands of British Columbia. That the BCFGA has been a success is attested to by the glowing compliments offered by not only other marketing areas in Canada but by grower organizations throughout the world.

This success can only be continued through the constant determination of today's organization to keep on forging ahead with new ideas, new plans and new methods of marketing the area's increasing crops. To do this the annual BCFGA Convention is convened. The firms and organizations sponsoring this message do so in the faith and hope that the BCFGA will adhere to the well-established tradition of discussing their problems in open and constructive manner. With free and full discussion the admirable record of progress set by the organization will continue to be a decisive factor in the prosperity of the entire province. We extend a hearty and sincere welcome to all growers attending this historic 75th annual convention.
