OTTAWA DETECTIVES ACCUSED OF HELPING PLAN BREAK-IN

OTTAWA (CP)—Inspector of Detectives Borden Hobbs and two other senior detectives were suspended by the Ottawa Police Commission today pending an investigation into charges that they helped plan a break-in at the home of an Ottawa man.

Detective-Sergeant Carl Norton and Acting Detective Tom Beggan were the other suspended officers.

Magistrate Glenn Strike said a provincial police inspector will be in Ottawa sometime today to investigate charges that the three detectives helped plan a break-in at the home of Benjamin Ashbar.

The charge was made in magistrate's court Thursday by 33-year-old Royal Bard of South Hill, Que., who along with two others, was nabbed by police when he entered the Ashbar home. He was jailed for three years.

B.C. Extradition Wrangle Raises Tempers In House

OTTAWA (CP)—With the opposition claiming there has been an injustice, Justice Minister Chevrier accused three times in the House of Commons today to say opposition was the fault of the law. Chevrier said he couldn't read all details of a justice conversation with Mr. Perrault and then added:

"I'm sure I didn't make the statement."

The exchange developed as the controversial Wasylenchuk case burst on the House for the second straight day.

Wasylenchuk was surrendered Wednesday to FBI authorities to face robbery and murder charges in Seattle in connection with a 1954 bank holdup in which a policeman was killed. At the time, he was on parole under life sentence for a Canadian robbery conviction.

The Commons opposition contends that the Parole Act says a parolee still is under sentence, and that the Extradition Act says a person under sentence cannot be extradited.

Question of Accused Being Parolee "Not Raised Until Warrant Signed"

It was at this point that Mr. Diefenbaker asked what Mr. Chevrier had told Mr. Perrault—whether in fact he told him he didn't know about Wasylenchuk being on parole when the warrant was signed.

"I'm sure I didn't make that statement," Mr. Chevrier said.

STRESSES POINT
Mr. Chevrier stressed that the point about a parolee being extradited was not raised "until afterwards."

This was why, he said, his parliamentary secretary, Donald S. Macdonald (L—Toronto Rosedale), phoned the warden at Okalla Prison after the warrant was signed.

The minister said Mr. Macdonald got a phone call from Mr. Perrault who was speaking "on behalf of a legal committee" raising the point about parole.

Mr. Chevrier said Mr. Perrault also raised a question about the warrant being signed before the habeas corpus proceedings were completed. But Mr. Chevrier said, "This was not the case."

Mr. Chevrier said Mr. Perrault told Mr. Macdonald that execution of the warrant was imminent and asked Mr. Macdonald to phone the warden at Okalla.

Mr. Macdonald complied with that request, Mr. Chevrier said. Replying to Mr. Diefenbaker, the minister said Mr. Macdonald had not phoned border officials.

Mr. Douglas said it appeared that Mr. Macdonald tried to stop the extradition and, when this was unsuccessful, the legal opinion about extraditing a parolee was "concocted to fit the situation."

Frank Howard (NDP—Skeena) asked Prime Minister Pearson whether, in view of the "disclosures" today, he would "dispose with the services of the minister of justice or clean out the justice department."

Obviously angry, Mr. Pearson said it was a "most insulting" question and he would not honor or dignify it with a reply.

Nazi Guards Go On Trial

FRANKFURT (AP)—Nazi guards went on trial today in West Germany's biggest war crimes trial and testified that they had tried to dodge duty in Auschwitz concentration camp but were unsuccessful.

Twenty guards and an ex-try part in the death of millions of prisoners of the camp in Nazi-occupied Poland which became Hitler's most efficient death factory.

They were accused of murder or complicity in an undermanned number of gasings, shootings, hangings or fatal torture.

Christmas Star Achieves Orbit

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (AP)—The Christmas Star satellite has achieved orbit and should be visible at twilight over the holiday season—and four years later, it was announced today.

A U.S. space agency spokesman said both the 12-foot-diameter balloon and the canister from which it was ejected in space were sighted with binoculars at an optical tracking station in Australia.

The satellite was launched Thursday and until the sighting it was in doubt whether it had achieved orbit and inflated as planned.

SNOW CLEARED FOR BIG RUSH OF 30,000 WEST BERLINERS

A Happy Christmas For Berliners As Crowds Swarm To Red's Section

BERLIN—A great and joyful Christmas reunion was in full swing today as West Berliners streamed through the Communist wall to meet relatives in East Berlin for the first time in 20 months.

Nearly 30,000 persons and 307 autos had passed through the five crossing points in the wall some five hours after East German border guards lifted the steel, candy-strapped barriers an hour ahead of schedule.

There was no big crush for any reason. But heavier movement was expected later today when factories and offices close.

More than 20,000 West Berliners are expected to make the trip today. Officials estimate that as many as 800,000 may visit relatives in the East before midnight Jan. 5, when the Christmas crossing ends.

East German guards, who still have orders to shoot to kill if any East Berliner tries to escape to the West, were extremely courteous and West Berliners passed through the controls rapidly.

Clutching the precious one-day permits issued by the Communists after long negotiations with the West Berlin city government, men, women and children passed through to the East.

BRAZILERS WARM CROWDS
There were smiles and some tears of anticipation as hundreds trudged over the Oberbaumbrücke, a bridge over the border river Spree. A long row of braziers, glowing red with coals, lined the approach to warm the crowds in case of delays. Two giant, gaily lit Christmas trees flanked the Western end of the bridge.

At the Friedrichstrasse crossing station Communist officials handed the arrivals pamphlets which said "look around and see for yourself what progress we have made."

The main East German Communist newspaper Neues Deutschland said today East German refugees living in West Berlin can also apply for passes if they had crossed to the West before the Berlin wall went up.

This was providing they "have not otherwise violated the laws of the German Democratic Republic," the newspaper said.

It had been assumed by West Berlin authorities that no refugees would be permitted to cross since they had violated the law. It is a criminal offence to flee from East Germany.

About 40 West Berliners jumped the gun and saw their loved ones behind the wall for a few hours Thursday, although today was the official starting day. The early birds put Thursday's date on their applications for permits and the East German postal officials apparently didn't notice the date in the confusion of handling so many applications.

The Communists let them through the wall.

RECEIVES REPORT
Elliot said he had received a Soviet autopsy report on the dead student. He said it was still being translated.

The ambassador said Asare-Addo will be buried in Russia. No date was announced for the funeral.

The demonstrators were back at their studies at Patrice Lumumba University today.

About 100 Asian and Latin American students condemned the African demonstration.

The Asians and Latin Americans made known their feelings Thursday at a meeting which was also attended by about 10 African students.

The majority there, including Latin Americans, Indians and Portuguese, considered holding counter-demonstrations.

Soviet Army Made "Move" Toward China

LONDON (AP)—Russia has reinforced its troops on the frontier with Communist China, Western sources in Moscow report.

Informed officials in London and Paris say a "moderate" eastward movement of Soviet troops from central Russia was detected in October. The army units were understood to be moving toward China's Sinkiang province.

Sinkiang, on China's north-west border with Russia, has been the scene of serious trouble between the two powers during the last two years. In September, Peking charged Soviet agents with "enticing and coercing several tens of thousands of Chinese citizens" into Russia.

Moscow countered that the Chinese were attempting to colonize large tracts of Russian border territory.

Reports on the troop movements gave no indication of any new troubles, although Western officials believe the problems in Sinkiang are by no means resolved.

Victoria Customs Damaged By Fire

VICTORIA (CP)—A fire in a downtown ferry building sent thick smoke swirling through city streets Thursday night and caused damage to a customs office and an adjacent office.

The building is occupied by the B.C. Toll Authority, which runs the provincial government's ferries, and Black Ball Transport, a private company running a daily ferry to Port Angeles, Wash.

CINDERELLA STARTS AT 7:30 TONIGHT!

Charles Patrick, publicity director of the Kelowna Little Theatre today said he would like to remind people the curtain time is 7:30 p.m. tonight and Saturday for "Cinderella" in the Community Theatre.

"The committee set this time in mind primarily," he said.

TOUCHDOWNS FOR COMMONS

OTTAWA (CP)—Parliament, like a spirited football club, wards a cleanup.

The House will take only a 60-minute lunch break today—usually its 90 minutes—and members agreed that if prospects look good for a night prorogation, the supper hour may be cancelled.

As item after item of the estimates were stamped with Commons approval Thursday, these things happened:

REVENUE
Income tax inspectors who crop down claims for charitable donations took a hammering from some Quebec members.

Gilles Grogan (Credit-Liberal) said arrogant inspectors should be stopped from inquiring into the financial records of churches. Guy Marcoux (BC—Quebec Montmorency) said that when receipts are attached to a tax form, and the amounts are within the prescribed limits,

Ten Killed In Blizzard

HALIFAX (CP)—At least 10 persons died and two others were missing as a blizzard pounded with hurricane force a Newfoundland today after leaving the Maritime provinces virtually paralyzed.

Winds that reached a force of 100 miles an hour in gusts caused mountainous seas.

Six seamen died when the heavy seas overturned dories in which they abandoned the sinking freighter Mary Pauline outboard for Newfoundland, of North Sydney, N.S. Only one man was rescued.

Five other ships were in trouble, some of them aground, others with engine trouble in stormy seas.

Food supplies ran low today in some suburban and rural areas where roads were still blocked. Many scattered sections of northern Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island were without power and telephone service.

Two Nova Scotia men—Albert Dauphinee, 78, of Bridgewater, and Harold Alexander Crawford, 55, of Halifax—died of heart attacks while shovelling snow.

John Battle, 85, of Truro died, apparently from concussion, after being struck by a storm door blown back by the 85-mile-an-hour gale.

A CNR engine driver, Mitchell MacDonald, about 52, of Charlottetown, suffered a stroke in his locomotive cab while his train was fighting through the storm to Borden, P.E.I. He died while being taken to hospital.

Two Westport N.S. fishermen—Gerald Welsh and Donald McDermid—failed to return home in their 43-foot fishing dragger from a trip in the Bay of Fundy. An air search was launched at dawn today.

Hospital emergency wards in many Nova Scotia centres received many of patients suffering from heart attacks, over-excitation and various injuries.

Today as the storm moved on to Newfoundland, a blinding blizzard halted all air, rail and road traffic in that province except in the Avalon Peninsula in the east. Gusts of wind hit 100 miles an hour in western Newfoundland. Snow, still falling, piled in six foot drifts.

RIPS OFF ROOF
The winds ripped a roof off a house at Quidi Vidi near St. John's, leaving a family of 14 homeless.

Prince Edward Island highway traffic was still stalled today except in urban areas. The province received 10 inches of snow that piled into tremendous drifts before wind gusts of 100 miles an hour.

The eastern part of P.E.I. was without power. There was little hope it could be restored quickly because of blocked roads. Telephone circuits were disrupted in many areas.

Search began today in western Nova Scotia for two Westport fishermen missing in a 43-foot boat since Wednesday night.

The navy here began an air and sea search today for the 85-foot RCN auxiliary craft Glenside which broke loose Thursday while being towed here during the height of the storm.

There was no one aboard.

Pearson Reported Interested In Road Plan Made By B.C.

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Highways Minister Gagliardi of British Columbia said Thursday Prime Minister Pearson was "very interested" in a B.C. suggestion that the federal government should share the costs of all arterial highways in the province.

The minister said in an interview he met Mr. Pearson briefly in Ottawa Wednesday.

At present the federal government shares the cost of the Trans-Canada Highway with the provinces.

Mr. Gagliardi said Mr. Pearson was amazed to hear that B.C. highways cost between eight and nine times as much per capita than Ontario highways.

He said if federal cost-sharing could not be extended to all arterial highways it could at least be applied to the Northern Trans-Provincial Highway that extends eastward from Prince Rupert and the Yellowhead Pass route connecting B.C. a Alberta.

"I believe our talk Wednesday was just the start of further negotiations," Mr. Gagliardi said.

The next step would be an inter-provincial conference of highways ministers within the next two months.

Alabama National Guards Accused In Bombing Rash

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—Four Alabama national guardsmen have been charged with touching off minor explosions near the University of Alabama while on federal duty to uphold court-ordered desegregation of the school.

Authorities say more arrests are expected.

Three blasts occurred last month—two Nov. 16 and one Nov. 19. All were near a dormitory housing Negro student Vivian Malone, who was admitted under federal court orders along with James A. Hood last June. Hood later withdrew.

The men arrested Thursday were with the last units still on duty after President Kennedy federalized the entire Alabama guard during a showdown with Governor George Wallace.

All troops were demobilized Nov. 20, the day after the last explosion. No one was hurt in any of the explosions.

The men were rounded up during the late afternoon and night. The first man arrested was 2nd Lt. James T. Perkins, 27, of Holt, Ala., a suburb of Tuscaloosa. He later posted $5,000 bond.

Police identified two of the others as Sgt. Norman R. Daniel of Fairfield, Ala., a suburb of Birmingham, and Cpl. James T. Maxwell, 27, of Tuscaloosa. Maxwell also posted bond.

The name of the fourth man was not available immediately. Perkins and Maxwell were charged with the first Nov. 16 detonation. The warrant against them said they set off dynamite or some other explosive in or near the home of Revilla Burke, who lives close to Mary Burke Hall, where Miss Malone lives.

Daniel is charged with the Nov. 19 blast, which occurred about three blocks from the dormitory.

LABOR
Labor Minister MacEachen announced a two-month extension to the program under which the government shares payment of wages of unemployed persons over 45 who are hired for work. It now will extend to next March 31.

He also announced that the workers will no longer have to exhaust their unemployment insurance benefits before qualifying

BRAZIL SWITCH

Finance Minister Carlos Carvalho Pinto resigned Thursday night and President Joao Goulart (above) named a Conservative banker to replace him on an interim basis. Goulart's appointment of Ney Galvao, former president of the Bank of Brazil, obviously was designed to prevent financial panic at Pinto's resignation. Brazil's economy, by Goulart's admission, is near collapse. Galvao is expected to follow much the same policies as Pinto, who was noted for a tight governmental austerity program.

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (AP)—The Christmas Star satellite has achieved orbit and should be visible at twilight over the holiday season—and four years later, it was announced today.

A U.S. space agency spokesman said both the 12-foot-diameter balloon and the canister from which it was ejected in space were sighted with binoculars at an optical tracking station in Australia.

The satellite was launched Thursday and until the sighting it was in doubt whether it had achieved orbit and inflated as planned.

AFTER THE FLOOD CAME THE CLEARING UP

After Baldwin Hills, Los Angeles, reservoir dam burst sending a tidal wave into a residential area, the task of clearing up the mud and debris looked impossible. But a start has been made and here two workers pick away at a huge pile of shattered wood and wreckage in the hope of extracting the auto in not too bad condition. (AP Wirephoto)

NAMES IN THE NEWS

No One Will Look Over Our Shoulder Says Bennett On Columbia Finance

Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Thursday British Columbia will not have anyone "looking over our shoulder" in development of power on the Columbia River. Mr. Bennett was referring at a press conference to a statement by Northern Affairs Minister Laing that the United States may ask for supervision of the money it pays B.C. for downstream benefits under the Columbia development treaty. "There's a signed agreement between B.C. and Canada so we're not worried about this in any way," Mr. Bennett said.

Agriculture Minister Hays promised in the Commons Thursday to give a complete report on the sheep disease called scrapie. However, he told Stanley Korchinski (P.C.) Mackenzie that his personal opinion is that the disease is "not that serious" in Western Canada although he was aware that it was prevalent in the United Kingdom and the United States.

Cattle Industry On Prairies Takes Beating During Fall

EDMONTON (CP)—The cattle industry is a blip in the Prairie economy, but a beating this fall and experts hold little hope for a speedy recovery. Prices have declined steadily in the last four months and stockyard agents predict little or no change in the situation in the next six months. Ranchers were reported to be watching the market with little optimism.

The fall trend of the downward has been felt by inexperienced feeder operators who "bought at the wrong time—paid too much and had to sell for too little," said P. H. Young, a livestock officer for the Edmonton department of agriculture. "Some had to quit and all operators are feeling the pinch." Feeder steers are selling at $16 to $20 a hundredweight—still a fairly good price for the producer, said Mr. Young. Finished cattle sell 50 cents to a dollar higher.

Trading Stamps Charges Laid

LONDON, Oct. (CP)—Police say trading stamp charges facing 16 companies here were laid by direction of the attorney general's office.

Two of the companies under the Criminal Code have head offices in London, while the majority of the others have head offices in Toronto. The charges bring to 18 the number of firms here accused either under the lottery or trading stamp sections of the Criminal Code.

PROTEIN BEAUTY

TORONTO (CP)—A protein prep for aging faces is being used to gain sale in department stores here, is based on the knowledge that protein has a filling and tightening action on the skin. Among recent products used for cosmetics have been placenta and milk derivatives.

PRICES DROP

In the last four months, prices on finished cattle have dropped $5 to $4 a hundredweight. Mr. Young said some feeder operators bought at $24 and were forced to sell at $20— "there's the fellows that are under the gun."

JOIN DEFENCE FORCE

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Eighteen huge Titan II missiles formally joined the United States defence force Thursday. The Titans are spaced around Wichita, the farthest about 60 miles from the city. They have an all-internal guidance system, are invulnerable to enemy jamming and can be launched from underground silos in less than one minute.

At Lethbridge, where butcher steers are selling $5 lower than last year, observers considered the situation the worst in six years.

Dates for the other cases were left open until counsel arrive here from Toronto. All charges were scheduled to be read Thursday in court but were delayed when weather conditions prevented counsel from arriving in time from Toronto.

Soldier Sells Family Tree Of Hitler

LONDON (AP)—Adolf Hitler's bloodstained family tree was sold at auction Thursday for $100 ($300) to a red-haired young man who said he wanted to own it but quickly added "I am not a fascist."

The manuscript was rescued from Hitler's bunker in Berlin by a soldier who hid it, fighting for the Nazi further in the Second World War. He preferred to remain anonymous, saying only that he wished to buy an artificial leg with the proceeds of the sale.

The high bidder gave his name as John Francis McGowan, 24, and said he is an electrical engineer living in the Chelsea section of London.

"I have bought it for myself," the young man said. "It is the first time I have ever made a bid in a classroom. The manuscript is of historical interest."

"I am not a fascist or anything. I have no political attachment."

The manuscript, measuring three feet by 18 inches, traces Hitler's family for six generations. The Heiders (afterward Hitler) are on one side and the Schicklgrubers on the other.

The front bears a picture of a tree with accents and the swastika being like a sun in the background. A passage from Hitler's book Mein Kampf stressing the importance of racial purity, is below it.

Christmas Pantomime Brings New Zest

Unless this newspaper is very mistaken the people of Kelowna are in for a delightful treat this weekend. The party of it is many do not realize it. The Christmas pantomime "Cinderella" being produced by the Kelowna Little Theatre gives every promise of being a delightful experience for both young and old.

To say "pantomime" to the average Canadian conjures up for him a bit of acting on the stage without any spoken words. This of course, in the case of the English pantomime, is far from the case. Someone has described the English pantomime as a mammoth vegetable marrow of vaudeville with a touch of seasonal frosting in a bright ribbon bow for the children. Somewhere there's a vague resemblance to a nursery tale. If we watch and listen closely there is a plot—forgotten by the writer for half an hour at a time but usually rediscovered. It is all good fun.

We would describe the English Christmas pantomime as a free-wheeling musical comedy of very topical subjects held together by the sheerest thread of the plot based on some nursery tale.

It is a free-wheeling vehicle and frequently the various scenes have little relation to each other. The jokes and ballads are generally of a very topical nature and it would not surprise us at all if the Kelowna Little Theatre's production of "Cinderella" has some little cracks about several prominent city and British Columbia personages.

Basically in English pantomime the principal boy is always played by a girl. Don't ask why this is so, but it is. It appears to be just one of those English humorous quirks which are difficult for the rest of the world to understand. This novelty was introduced into the English pantomime about 1850 and it is now traditional.

This year the Kelowna Little Theatre has departed from this traditional aspect of the English Christmas pantomime. In "Cinderella" the principal boy will not be played by a girl. This step was taken by the producers this year after careful consideration. It was felt that until the Kelowna audience became a little more educated as to pantomime, it would be difficult for this aspect of English pantomime to be understood here. It is now considered that next year this traditional aspect of the pantomime could be introduced.

Since early eighteenth century this pantomime business has passed through so many transformation scenes, so many intricate manipulations, that it could only be said that pantomime as we know it simply "happened". During well over 100 years as extravaganzas, burlesque, elaborated nursery tale—in which every pigeon hole we care to put it—it has been the traditional Christmas entertainment of Britain. A constant surprise to other nations who have no idea what the thing is all about.

It is true that for a long while pantomime was indeed largely miming though it had incidental areas and choruses. The spoken dialogue of the so-called dramatic opening did not arrive until 1814 and it was some 16 years later before spoken pantomime, an apparent contradiction, grew general.

More and more the entertainment established at Christmas by general demand developed into what an endorsed authority, the late A. E. Wilson, described as "a melody of ballet, comic scenes, parade, comic songs, dioramas, knock-about business, specialty turns, sentiment and fairy business."

Between 1860 and 1870 when the new English musical was in full riotous surge, musical performers were recruited to do the usual acts. Presently pantomime turned to a more or less burlesque variety of entertainment with ballet as particular pageantry done-tail into a fairy story.

It is good to note that ticket sale reports indicate that there will be a near sell-out for every performance of "Cinderella". The Kelowna Little Theatre must be complimented upon its initiative in undertaking this departure from the normal theatrical presentation in Canada. The advance sale of tickets indicate that there is an eager acceptance of the idea among the public and that the Christmas pantomime may well develop into one of the permanent features of the Christmas season in this area.

We are quite confident that those lucky enough to obtain seats for "Cinderella" this year will be fully rewarded for taking a little time off from a normally busy Christmas season.

None For The Road

With the party season in full swing the classic phrase "None for the road" takes on drab overtones.

There will be many revelers throughout the country who will not live to enjoy Christmas with their families. Many more will be swathed in bandages as they listen to the Christmas carols from their hospital beds.

The price of hospitality and conviviality can be the death. Adding to the perils of the party bottle for the motorist is the treacherous conditions of the roads. Certainly this year more than the average snowfall has made driving a hazard for the soberest of drivers. Imagine the risk run by a man who has been too liberal with the Christmas spirit.

Roads are icy invitations to madness on the part of drunken drivers. They are slippery slopes to the grave for the man who is made careless by one drink too many.

It is estimated that there will be fewer people on the move by road this Christmas than usual. This is the effect of the harsh December weather and thus there is a possibility that the ted on the roads over Christmas and New Year's will be lighter than usual.

Christmas is a time of rejoicing. True, the religious celebrations have been joined by more material enjoyment, but nevertheless all who attend office parties, club socials and seasonal events should take care to stop short of their alcoholic limit. It is better to take one drink too few than one drink too many.

Driving generally at this time of the year is a tricky business. In addition to icy roads drivers find their visibility restricted by frosted windows. Much progress is made along the road by in-lit rather than safe driving habits.

Yet more caution is required these wintery nights. Speed should be reduced and all precautions taken to see that the driver and his passengers arrive at their destinations safely, even if the journey takes a few minutes longer than in better weather.

It is better to arrive in one piece than never to arrive at all.

It should be a merry season—and a happy one if we keep death off the roads this Christmas time.

Organized Canadian Labor Seeking New Deal From U.S.

OTTAWA (CP)—Organized labor in Canada is clamoring for a new deal from its big brother in the United States.

With national feelings on the upswing in Canada, many labor leaders are talking openly and seriously about the need for home rule in the Canadian trade union movement.

They want U.S. labor to recognize that Canada is a different country, not a 51st state, and to reflect this difference in the constitutions, structure and policies of trade unions that span the Canada-U.S. border.

Although most Canadian officers of international unions do not want to lose the benefits of business—the extra money and muscle available in times of emergency—they are demanding the right to rule their own roosts, without interference from the U.S.

"We must retain our right to make decisions concerning our own national affairs," plaintively Joseph Morris, executive vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress, told the AFL-CIO in November. "To do less would be to surrender our sovereignty."

He pleaded for an end to the "public name-calling and dirty linen washing" that erupted when the Canadian government, backed by the CLC and most Canadian unionists, decided to impose a trade embargo on the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (SIU) and four other maritime unions.

The problem of the SIU dominated the labor scene in 1953 and led to the unprecedented intervention by Parliament in the internal affairs of the five waterfront unions.

The trusteeship, empowered to clean out lawless leadership in the Seafarers' union, was bitterly opposed by the AFL-CIO and condemned as a threat to free trade unionism. Supporters of the SIU in the U.S. hurled abusive and vitriolic insults at the Canadian government and Canadian labor.

There were threats of a total boycott of Canadian shipping in the United States ports but they did not materialize.

The three government-picked trustees—Mr. Justice Victor L. Dryer, Judge René Lippe and Charles H. Millard—stepped into their assignment in mid-October, moving cautiously in the exercise of their authority to control and manage the five unions.

Yet as the end of the shipping season approached, they had assumed responsibility for all union funds under their care, and were effectively controlling all propaganda and international media in the hands of the unions.

For many labor men, the SIU affair seemed to be a black eye for the union movement generally. They were fearful that labor's public image, instead of being brightened by the CLC's insistence that the SIU be thoroughly cleansed of hoodlums, was actually tarnished by the cross-border wrangling and naive meddling of U.S. unionists.

The international future developed as a new, exclusively Canadian union was being formed out of a merger of two former rivals. The new union—the 20,000-member Canadian Union of Public Employees—injects a new factor into the internal hierarchy of organized labor in Canada.

The Public Employees, Canada's second largest union behind the international Steelworkers, already have served notice that they intend to press for greater autonomy for Canadian unions at the CLC's biennial convention in April in Montreal. This may provoke a convention debate on the merits of internationalism versus national unionism and stir some strong criticism of the AFL-CIO.

Meanwhile, the AFL-CIO has recognized one sore spot in its relations with the CLC—the question of jurisdiction over internal union disputes. The U.S. central labor body has agreed to let the CLC handle disputes between Canadian locals of international unions.

The CLC will likely seek a constitutional amendment at the April convention to set up machinery for investigating inter-union jurisdictional disputes and imposing settlements—by outside arbiters if necessary.

LETTER TO EDITOR

BIKE "REGIMENTATION"
SIR: On the front page of last Tuesday's Courier you state as follows: Owners (of bicycles) must have a license, must have it displayed, must carry a registration slip...

Having a tag on the bicycle can perhaps be enforced, although we do have children from Alberta and the Coast riding their own bikes here during the summer. It is certain that the tourists would not like to have their children questioned by the police or having to go to the City Hall to get a visitor's permit, etc.

But asking the children to carry a registration slip any time they ride their bike is impossible and therefore ridiculous. Let us think of a boy going to swim in the lake during the summer, riding his bike, wearing nothing but his bathing trunks, as so many do (not restricted as yet).

Even if he is a conscientious boy and thinks of the registration slip and how many boys would, how in the world would he carry the paper and what would he do with it while in swimming?

Teach the children safety by all means, but do not start to worry them and regiment them all during the bicycle riding days. This carrying a registration slip at all times smacks a bit of pre-war Germany discipline, it leaves a nasty taste. Also let us never put a bylaw on the books that is impossible or ridiculous to enforce.

The psychological effect of a bylaw not enforced is very bad for children. They will soon learn to ignore such a bylaw and later on in life will feel no qualms in ignoring an important bylaw.

OTTAWA REPORT

Redundant Verbiage Smothers Ottawa

By PATRICK NECHOLESON
Daily Courier Ottawa Bureau

Our parliamentary system of government is being assailed before our eyes, subjected to death beneath a moral blanket of irrelevant and unnecessary words. The murderers are our members of parliament who have collectively downgraded our once effective legislative assembly into an unseemly electoral hustings.

Future historians will trace the beginnings of this parliamentary disaster to the short-lived parliament of 1947-48, when the Diefenbaker government was in a minority position. That was a time of good government; in its brief life it enacted some excellent legislation. But it saw the Speaker's control weaken, permitting irrelevant speeches which were not debate concerning legislation, but the refiguring of the past election and the preliminary skirmishing for the next.

In 1950, the Diefenbaker tidal wave crashed and dissolved the Liberal party. But by 1950, the Grits had recovered their heart. Then for two years the "Four Horsemen," "Pick and Paul and Pearson and Chervier," adopted obstructionist tactics and, aided by the scrapping Tories, turned Parliament into a shambles.

PARTY BEFORE COUNTRY
Early 1952 saw both old parties primarily skirmishing for position for the forthcoming election; the nation's business took second place. The second part of the year brought another Diefenbaker minority government, and the skirmishing grew into total partisan warfare on the floor of the House. Canada didn't even get a budget that year.

Since the 1953 election, the positions of the Liberal and Conservative parties have been reversed, but the political guerrilla warfare has continued unabated. Meanwhile, the business of the nation, for which we elect our MPs, has been relegated to a minor significance in a House better part of which has attended than ever. The Liberals are clinging to their precarious minority position, trying to weather storms created by some inexperienced new ministers. The Tory Opposition seems to be motivated more by narrow partisan ambition than by a real desire to ensure good legislation. They act as if they are trying to create a favorable issue on which they could force Canada into another and unwanted general election.

The onlookers and surely many of the participants are well aware of this long downhill slide in parliamentary proceedings, which over six years has degraded the House of Commons into a brawl as shabby and unprincipled as a stocky meeting of the stall-holders of an unprofitable industry. But only an experienced outsider, with fresh eyes unaccustomed to the daily deterioration, can measure the full stature of this debasement of Parliament.

First United Church Scene Of Jensen-Gillman Ceremony

Lily-of-the-valley tied with white ribbons trimmed the jeweled and red roses and white chrysanthemums decorated the altar of the First United Church on Dec. 11 at 2 p.m. when Carol Ann Gillman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Gillman, became the bride of Hans George Eric Jensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jensen, with the Reverend Dr. E. H. Burdall officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the lovely bride wore a full length gown of white satin with a fitted bodice which was fashioned with a picture neckline and long lily point sleeves. Her full skirt, which was worn over a leop, had a front panel appliqued with embroidered orchids and fell into a graceful train at back and she wore a single strand of pearls. A corsage of pearls and crystals held her elbow length veil of French tulle net and she carried a bouquet of tropical roses.

Miss Wendy Spornitz was maid of honor and Miss Madeleine Heslop was bridesmaid. They wore similar dresses of deep pink tulle de sole matching the bride's bouquet, styled with fitted bodices, a length of sleeves and bell shaped skirts. Their bridesmaids wore small bow hats trimmed with French veiling and they carried bouquets of pink and white carnations.

Allan Gillman acted as best man and Fred Greenwood ushered the guests to their seats. A reception at the Royal Arms Hotel followed the ceremony where the mother of the bride received the guests wearing a brown brocade suit with turquoise accessories and a corsage of blue carnations. She was assisted by the groom's mother who chose a dress of blue brocade with a blue feather and hat and a corsage of pink and white carnations.

ANN LANDERS

This Child Needs Help Desperately

Dear Ann Landers: I married late last year and I had a baby five years later. I was shocked. Two doctors told me I would never have a family.

My son was a colic baby and cried for six months straight. My husband and I didn't know what a good night's sleep was until that boy was nine months old.

Reginald is now six and has caused us nothing but trouble. He broke up my friendship with three neighbors because he tore up their flowers, scratched their furniture with his toys and hit their children. They blamed me and said I didn't control him. Believe me, Ann, I spanked him repeatedly but it did no good. Last week his first grade teacher told me in her 23 years of teaching she has never seen a more difficult child. She suggested professional help. My husband says all the psychiatrists he knows are nuttier than their patients, and that our boy needs a military school. We know a school that will take him at age seven. It's expensive but it may be worth it. What do you say? EXHAUSTED

Dear Exhausted: I say the teacher gave you excellent advice and I hope you will take it. I could write five columns on what is wrong with your son and why - all based on the facts you have outlined in your letter. Run, don't walk, to the nearest doctor who specializes in disturbed children. Your child needs help desperately.

Dear Ann Landers: Something happened recently that made me realize the hazards of retirement - not so much for the man who suddenly finds himself with time on his hands, but for his poor wife.

I have belonged to a two-table bridge club for almost 20 years. We met every week at the home of one of the members, and all of us had a delightful time. Last month the woman announced rather mysteriously that the club was dissolving because there seemed to be so many other things to do. Our final meeting was held two weeks ago.

I heard this morning that the club has been reorganized and I was left out. The reason? Since my husband retired six months ago the women dreaded coming to my home because my husband insisted on hovering over the tables and offering suggestions on how to play their hands.

I cannot deny all they said was true. Frankly, he gets on my nerves, too, but what can I do about it? Please, please suggest something - NOT SO-GOLDEN-YEARS

Dear Not-So-Golden: Your husband needs an outlet for his time and energies so he will not need to hang around you and your friends.

You know where his interests and his talents lie. Get busy and direct them into productive channels or he'll drive you both out of your minds.

Dear Ann Landers: Our son is planning to marry a nice girl who comes from a family that has nothing. He is our only child and frankly we had hoped for something better for him.

The bride's mother phoned yesterday and asked me to send a list of our close relatives. She said she was sorry we could not invite any friends to the dinner because they are working on a limited budget and must keep the dinner list down.

My husband and I are heart-sick. We are well off financially and would like to foot the bill for the wedding and do it right. Please advise. - NOT HAPPY

Dear Not Happy: Send off the abbreviated list and show no sign of disappointment or unhappiness. The bride's parents should have the kind of wedding they can afford and you should go along with it graciously.

MAYBE THAT CARD IS STILL ON WAY

Letter carrier Bill Ishw, above, is one of Vernon's regular postal staff endeavoring to provide a maximum of postal service efficiency to the citizens of the area over the Christmas rush period. Mr. Ishw is seen here sorting city mail into the letter carrier mail for outside residential and business delivery on the letter carrier route. Postmaster A. E. Letroy advises all first and second class mail and parcel mail, received and dispatched at Vernon, has been cleared right up and no backlog exists. This is because bags of postage were received at the Vernon post office. Eight letter carriers and two postal supervisors are kept busy each day sorting the incoming mail for regular delivery, and it's still coming in so if you are expecting a card which has not yet arrived, there's still hope.

Last reading was given bylaw 11 which re-elected a former bylaw which permitted the village to collect municipal commercial vehicle licences.

Council unanimously supported a motion to send a letter of protest to St. John Ambulance where he had lived, except for a short period in Vancouver.

He is survived by his wife Irene, one daughter, Mrs. George Smith of Vernon, two sisters, Mrs. Alice Sherborne of Kamloops and Mrs. George Moncrieff of Vancouver. A brother, Nelson, predeceased him in 1954.

School's Party Great Success

ARMSTRONG (Correspondent) — The open-house held at the Kindale School last weekend was a tremendous success, and the generosity of the visitors to the tea and sale, along with proceeds from the Christmas contest, should mean a good start toward planned extension of the school next year.

Visitors to the tea were welcomed by Mrs. Don Levey, wife of the president of Armstrong-Enderby Association for Retarded Children.

Mrs. Jack M. Jamieson, wife of Armstrong's mayor, presided at the tea table. Mothers of the pupils provided the tea and served.

Attractions at the tea were a table of Christmas decorations in charge of Armstrong Kinetics, a home-cooking table, and a table of work done by the pupils.

Landowner Fenced City Street — Handed Warning By Court

VERNON (Staff) — Michael the property he was advised to fence off the 23rd St. entrance to 46th Ave. which the city has now claimed. Magistrate Smith showed the accused a photostatic copy of the general area which included his property and the property claimed by the city, and pointed out to him he had no claim to the street, but intended to fence off the property in question and the city removed this fence on Nov. 20. Mr. Matyko is alleged to have erected another fence on the same or following day.

The land is a rectangular piece of property known as 44th Ave. between 23rd St. and 25th St., which adjoins Mr. Matyko's parcel of land.

Speaking through an interpreter, Mr. Matyko told the court that when he purchased and business delivery on the letter carrier route. Postmaster A. E. Letroy advises all first and second class mail and parcel mail, received and dispatched at Vernon, has been cleared right up and no backlog exists. This is because bags of postage were received at the Vernon post office.

Carrying Loaded Gun In Car Costs Youth $50 Plus Warning

VERNON (Staff) — Carrying a loaded firearm in a vehicle cost a 19-year-old Vernon youth $50 when he appeared in magistrate's court here Thursday.

Ronald Magnus pleaded guilty to the charge and was given the fine and had the .22 calibre rifle confiscated to the Crown, although he told the court he did not own the rifle.

Conservation officer Alan Frisby of Vernon told the court the youth was charged after being checked at a check station near Kaledon on Dec. 1. Conservation officers at the check-point found the rifle inside the car, with live ammunition in the magazine.

Mr. Frisby also told the court the youth was unable to produce a firearms licence when checked, but he was not charged.

The accused told the court he had the rifle in the trunk of the car for quite some time but "never" used it.

In passing sentence Magistrate Frank Smith told the accused, "It's probably the easiest way of shooting someone else or killing yourself. The rifle is dangerous as long as it's loaded. This is the sort of thing that must be stopped right now."

Under the game act the minimum penalty is a $10 fine and the maximum penalty is a $300 fine and three months in prison, plus confiscation of the weapon.

CHRISTMAS BONUS

A $30,000 Christmas bonus to the Vernon district has been provided by the cutting and sale of 42,000 Christmas trees this year.

Farmers and other commercial interests have been shipping young Douglas Firs, mostly to the United States.

It is expected that this year's Christmas-tree harvest will equal that of last year when 785,000 trees were cut in the Kamloops forest area. Total value of these was about $600,000, district forest ranger Alex Kuly estimated.

OBITUARY

VERNON (Staff) — Funeral services will be held from the Vernon Funeral Chapel on Friday at 2 p.m. for Ralph Blakely Stevenson, 60, who died suddenly at the home of his daughter on Wednesday.

Rev. Blake Pritchard will officiate and cremation will follow in Vancouver. The family has requested no flowers be sent.

Mr. Stevenson was a former resort owner at Mabel Lake, and retired in Vernon four years ago.

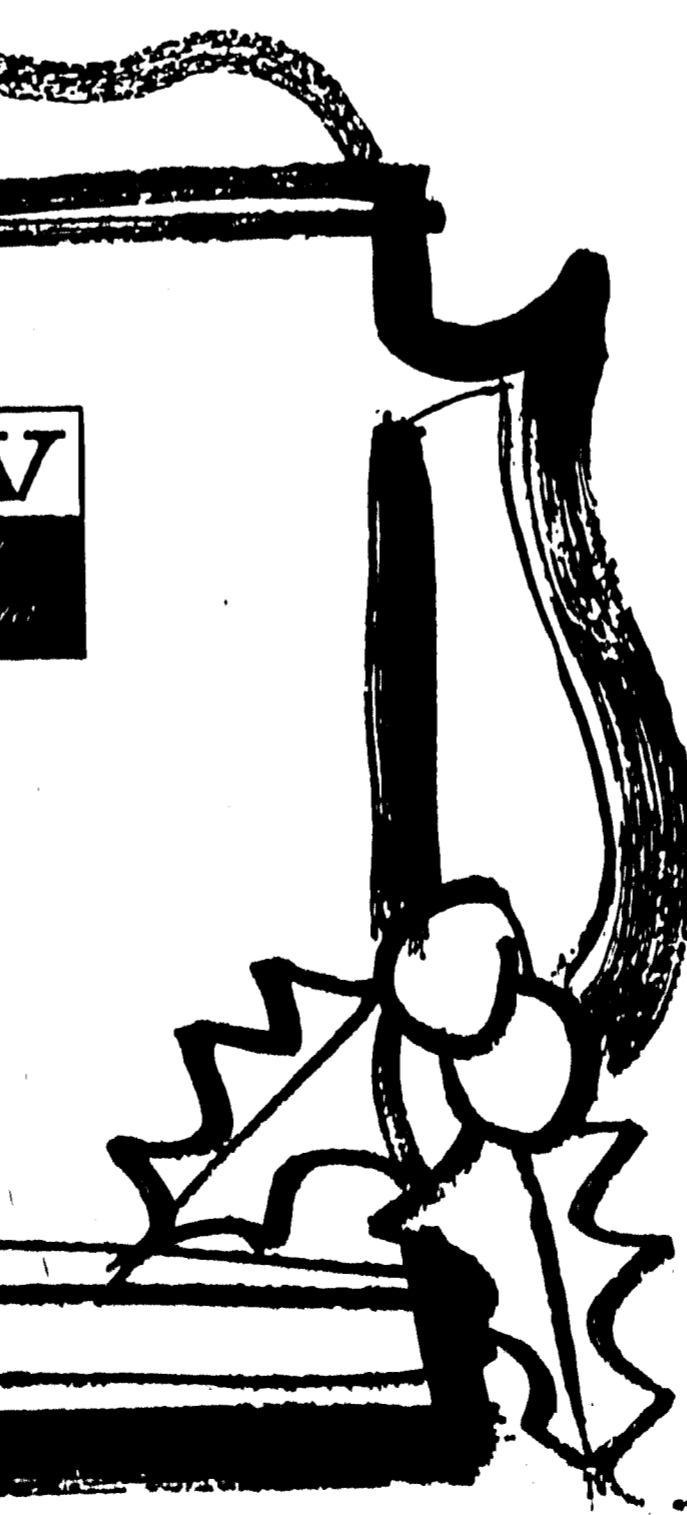

He was born in North Dakota on May 11, 1903, and came to Canada with his family at the age of two, settling at Kisbey, Sask. In 1920 he moved to Enderby where he had lived, except for a short period in Vancouver.

He is survived by his wife Irene, one daughter, Mrs. George Smith of Vernon, two sisters, Mrs. Alice Sherborne of Kamloops and Mrs. George Moncrieff of Vancouver. A brother, Nelson, predeceased him in 1954.

Furniture An Art Form Nowadays

The beauty of modern furnishings lies in the fact that today's designers borrow the best of yesterday and adapt it for current living. Among the most elegant and sought-after furniture which delights the sophisticated Canadian are the wrought iron groupings.

So different are these in concept from what used to be thought of as "furniture" that wrought iron has now moved solidly into living and dining areas in the home.

Not more than ten years ago, the position of wrought iron in home furnishings was restricted to a few inconspicuous pieces. Today, classical decorating schemes have emerged which lend themselves to unusual accessories and become a conversational piece for any decor and any room.

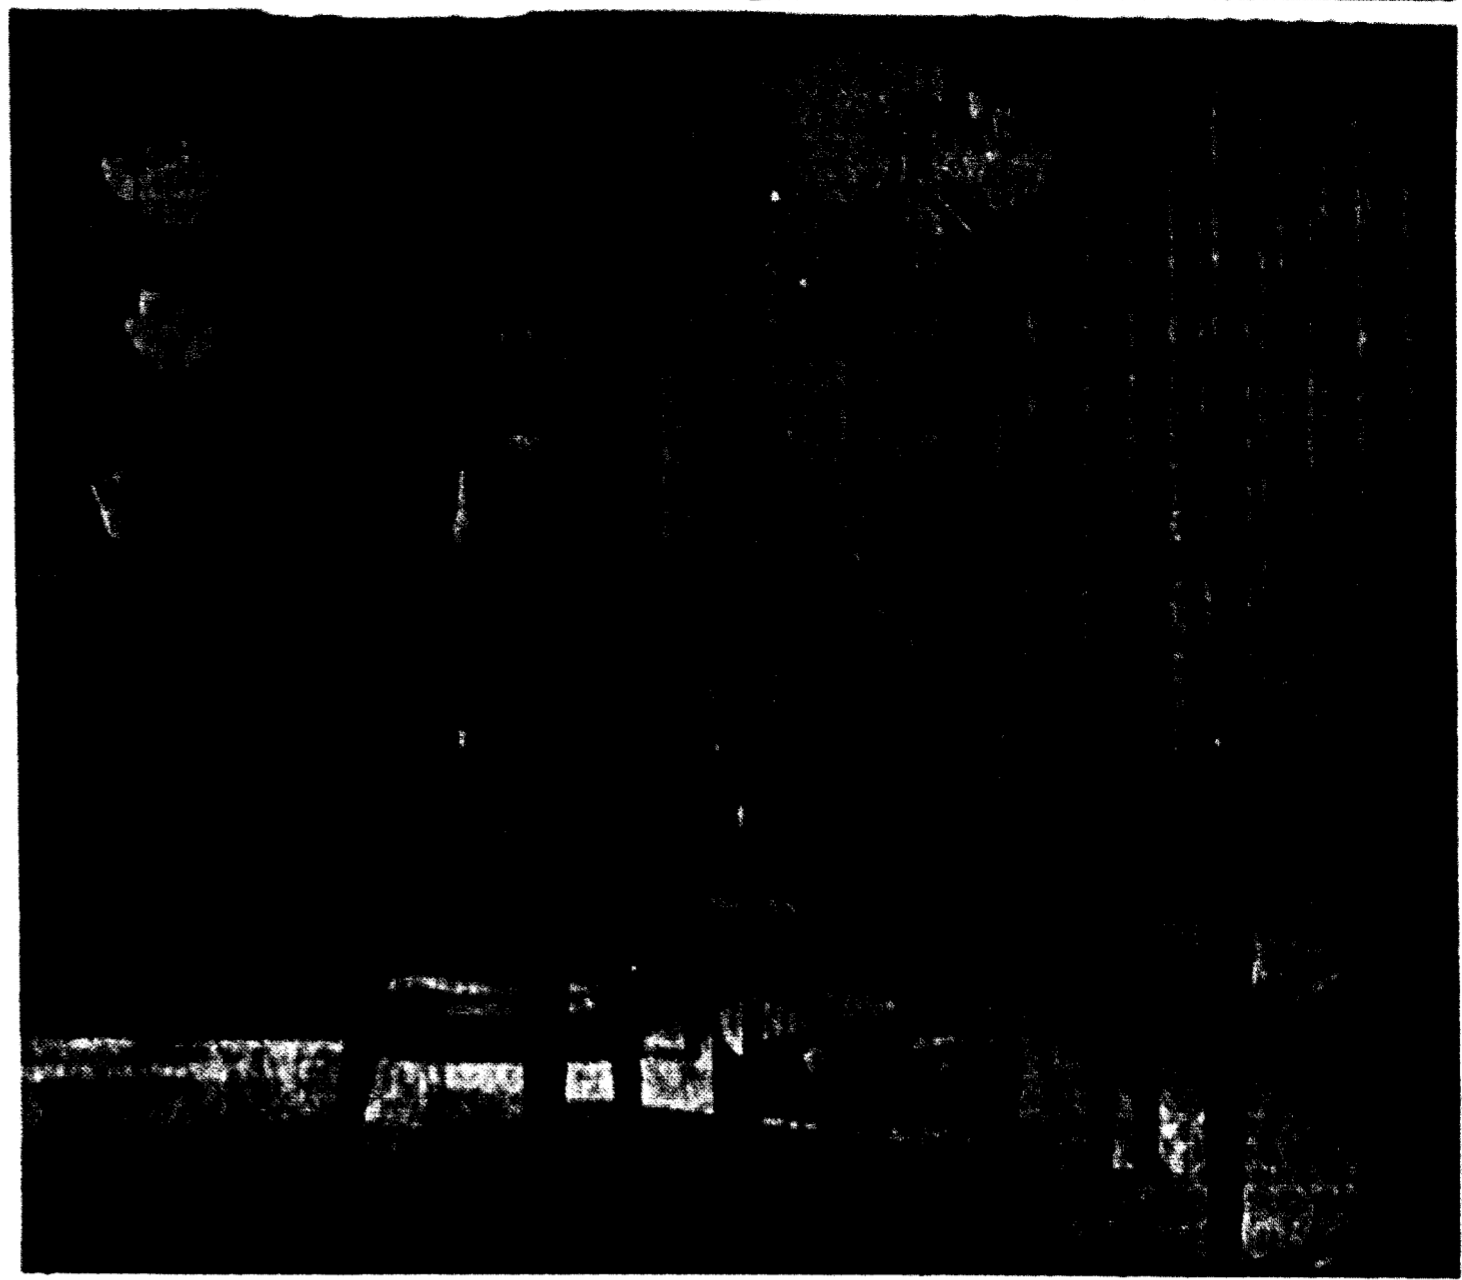

Wrought iron has created a new mood in stonings for the decor-conscious homemaker; her choice now may be between Spanish, Italian, traditional or modern lines. In a sense of having the strength of iron, the quality of steel and the grace of Greek. Some legs have all been introduced in wrought iron to match the decor of every home.

Well chosen fabrics of velvet, plastic or fiber appear in a color range of solid or floral patterns to complement the many finishes and designs.

Comfort has not been forgotten either. Beauty of form is accompanied to a degree of comfort not possible before. The latter, continuing to become an accepted fact, both iron and fabric, are durable for years of service.

Newly introduced would do well to think of wrought iron as a pleasing part in home purchases for that first apartment, because it would still be suitable for a dining or terrace setting in a future home.

The quest for originality and the basic desire of any homemaker or decorator toward versatility, can be expressed in the beauty of wrought iron. The metal that formerly was uninteresting and dull, has emerged like a butterfly from the cocoon into a new form of beauty for gracious living.

HELPFUL HINTS ABOUT YOUR HOME

Opening Windows Gets Rid Of Excess Moisture In House

Open your windows more often to get rid of excess water vapour and avoid condensation. Outside air in winter usually contains much less moisture than warm inside air.

Opening the windows for a minute allows this moisture-laden air to escape outside. What causes condensation? The living habits of the occupants of the house may be responsible to a large extent. Cooking, laundering and bathing all add moisture to the air in the house.

A certain amount of moisture is necessary for health and comfort. If the moisture content of the air gets too low, woodwork may also be damaged through excessive shrinkage.

Christmas Gifts For Berlin Soldiers

BERLIN (AP)—The citizens of West Berlin are giving a Christmas present to each soldier in the Western Allied garrisons, says an Allied spokesman. The gifts are in gratitude for the protection given the Communist-surrounded city by American, British and French troops. About 10,000 men of rank up to captain will get presents.

Sometimes Windows Go Before You Get Putty Off

QUESTION: Putty, three-fourths to one inch thick, was used in the window frames of my new house, and it is starting to crack. I tried to remove it, but it is very hard, and can't unless I break the window (broke two windows trying). Is there any way to soften the putty for removal?

ANSWER: The putty can be softened with a small soldering iron, then removed with a putty knife. If the weather is cold, be careful to keep the soldering iron out of contact with the cold window pane. Did you try scraping off the putty with a beer can opener? This is an effective tool for the purpose.

Before applying new putty, be sure to give the wood underneath a coat of linseed oil or this paint, to prevent the bare wood absorbing oil from the new putty (causing cracking and crumbling). Omission of this step, I'll wager, is the reason your new putty began to crack.

CHIPPED PLASTIC TOP
QUESTION: A heavy object was dropped on our laminated plastic topped dinette set and a small piece was chipped on the table. How can this be repaired without refinishing the whole top?

ANSWER: A seam-sealing material, in tube form, is available at laminated plastic dealers and some large hardware stores, for patching very small dents and holes. It is available in a variety of colors to match most standard finishes.

EAVERS PAINT PEELING
QUESTION: We have a problem with the eaves peeling. When we bought our home, they had been painted and were peeling. Two years ago my husband painted them and they have peeled again. Can anything be done about this?

ANSWER: Moisture is apparently collecting in the eaves, and forcing the paint to peel.

as it finds its way to the face. Eaves vents should be installed to permit adequate ventilation and air circulation.

IRON GRILLWORK
QUESTION: Iron from grillwork blisters and rusts. We have tried various paints, but none help. What would remedy this?

ANSWER: Scrape and wire-brush off all rust scale, loose rust and paint blisters (also any loose, flaking paint). Then apply a zinc chromate, instant-dry metal coat, followed by an instant-dry enamel, which is rust-preventive. Or apply a damp-proof primer, containing fish oil, followed by a rust-inhibiting paint made by the same manufacturer. Whichever products are used, follow label directions carefully. If in doubt, consult a reliable paint dealer.

BALLPOINT INK STAINS
QUESTION: How can I remove ballpoint ink marks from a white leather jacket? Soap and detergents don't remove them.

ANSWER: Ballpoint ink marks are difficult to remove. Try rubbing them with alcohol or acetone. Some supermarkets carry special cleaners claimed good for ballpoint stain removal.

DUSTY CONCRETE FLOOR

ANSWER: Our house is about a year old, but the concrete floor in our basement still has a powdery, dusty surface in spite of frequent sweeping. How can we overcome this? The floor has no cracks or water seepage through it and seems in good condition otherwise.

ANSWER: Dealers in water-

HOME HINTS

WHITE POWDER ON FLOOR
QUESTION: The bottom layer of cement blocks in the foundation of my house is going to powder and the floor has white powder in places. How can I stop this?

ANSWER: This is probably what is known as efflorescence which is the coming out of alkaline salts in concrete or mortar. Water working through the masonry evaporates these salts; the water evaporates and the salt remains on the surface as a white deposit or powder. Is there drain tile around your foundation? Moisture is working through from the ground around and beneath the foundation and floor. This should be corrected. Have a reputable builder make a personal inspection and recommendations.

To remove the white powder deposit, use a cleaning and etching preparation for brick and masonry surfaces; available at large hardware stores and masonry supplies dealers.

PLASTERBOARD
QUESTION: We are planning to convert a summer cottage to year-round use when we retire. There are plasterboard walls throughout the house. Can these be covered with plaster?

ANSWER: Yes, provided the present walls are firmly and solidly in place. Metal lath must be fastened to the plasterboard, then the plaster is applied.

VIEWS ON SPORTING NEWS

by BILL STAATS

A Calgary sportswriter has said the only shortcomings of the Czechoslovakian national hockey team are over-zealousness and a tendency to panic.

I think they could be put in the same pot and brewed up to a thing called lack of confidence.

The Czechs come to this country with the purpose of increasing their prestige among Canadians in relationship to their hockey skills and sportsmanship.

Perhaps they are trying too hard or are concerned that they may not create the right impression among Canadians and hence the laws mentioned above materialize.

Very shortly though I expect they will overcome these flaws and show us why they are one of the world's top hockey teams.

The Calgary writer also said there were four players who he thought were good enough to make the National Hockey League. Some other hockey experts said the same thing about three Swedish hockey players and the best offer to any of them was a five-game trial with the NHL club they practised with.

The influence of Canadian hockey and the slap shot appears to have settled the European teams into a rut. Our Calgary friend says the Czechs used the slap shot too frequently and their regular shots appear weak.

Outside these two points, the Czechs and their old country rivals are brilliant passers and fine shooters. With these skills so well developed, the goal scoring part would seem to naturally follow, almost as naturally as night after day.

But, when they learn how to shoot, look out NHL!

Meanwhile, south of the border, Russia's national team is rolling along in the form we expected. They won their first two encounters 12-3, 6-3 against Eastern League teams. I don't expect them to lose to any of the teams they play.

Included in their tour is a game against the University of Denver team. The score in that game will indicate, to a degree, how the American and Canadian teams will stand up to the Soviets come Olympic time.

Walter A. Brown, chairman of the U.S. Olympic ice hockey committee says he doesn't think the Americans will do better than a fourth-place tie in the Winter Olympics hockey field. But the team he has turned tied with is the irksome part—Canada.

I have great hopes for this Canadian team. They are a group of hockey players out to play a good game with a true desire to win.

These university men know what every Canadian is hoping for when they begin the hockey journey and probably feel stronger about winning and will put more into each game, than any team to ever represent this nation in an international hockey tournament.

On the Winter Olympics, this time with the ski team: six men were chosen to participate and have been dubbed as one of the top ski contingents from this country.

The members have been training since October and according to coach Verne Anderson, are in twice the physical condition of any ski team from Canada.

A Canadian male skier has never won a medal at the Olympics and this would be the best indication as to whether they ever will. Coach Anderson is very strong about this point, he wants gold medals or nothing. Perhaps a poor attitude for a group that has never done well.

Tonight - 8:30 - Final Chance For Kelowna To Do Or Don't

League leaders in the Okanagan Junior Hockey League, the Kamloops Rockets, invade the confines of Kelowna Memorial Arena tonight to battle with Kelowna Buckaroos with game time, 8:30 p.m.

Kelowna was tumbled out of first place by the Rockets last weekend and Kelowna will be doing everything in their power to topple the high and mighty Rockets.

The game has special significance because in the event that they lose tonight, regardless of the score, it will be curtains for them as far as winning the league pennant this year is concerned.

Until last weekend, Kelowna managed to keep pace with Kamloops but now the Rockets have pulled away and lead the Apple Capital crew by four points.

Terry Kasubuchi who missed the last two games with a hand injury has been working out with the team this week and is expected to return to action.

FINE DISPLAY
Predictions early this year indicated Kelowna would do well to win two games out of five, considering they started the season with nine rookies to junior hockey.

However, the Bucks have set everyone on their ear and are battling just under .500 on the road and moving at a hefty .800 pace at home. They're record to date is 13-8 and they could finish up with about 20 victories, or 50 per cent better than we expected.

Most of the credit for Kelowna's fast start and great showing has to go to Don Culley

Dual-Goalie Plan Success For Red Wing Coach Abel

The two-goalie plan seems to be working out well for Sid Abel's Detroit Red Wings. Abel decided some time ago the rigors of a National Hockey League season are simply too much for one goaltender.

So he's resting Terry Sawchuk and using Roger Crozier—and in front of the 21-year-old youngster the Red Wings have gone five games without a setback.

In the league's only game Thursday night, Crozier turned in a 17-stop performance for his first shutout in the big time as the Red Wings dumped Boston 3-0 in Detroit, beating off a challenge by the Bruins for fourth place in the standings.

A crowd of 8,748, lowest NHL attendance of the season, watched as a 50-foot shot by Pit Martin with less than five minutes remaining in the second period whizzed past Eddie Johnston and gave the Red Wings their first goal.

ULLMAN BACK IN FORM
Alex Delvecchio added the second goal in the final minute of the period with a 10-footer and Norm Ullman rounded it out in the final period.

Ullman was making his second appearance after missing nine games with an ankle injury.

The win gave Detroit 25 points and a four-point edge over the Bruins. It was Detroit's second win with Crozier in the nets. The other three games were ties.

One of Crozier's stops came on a breakaway by Murray Oliver in the opening period. In the final 20 minutes, he had just one shot to handle, the Red Wings tightening up defensively to preserve his shutout.

Five games are scheduled this weekend. Saturday night Detroit goes against the Maple Leafs in Toronto and the league-leading Chicago Black Hawks take on the Canadiens in Montreal.

Sunday night Detroit is at Chicago, Toronto at Boston and the Canadiens meet the Rangers in New York.

Diamond Finals Sunday At 1 p.m.

The Ladies' Diamond "D" Zone finals will be played at 1 p.m. Sunday in the Kelowna Curling rink.

The game will be between the D. Smith rink which also has D. Cameron, N. Snelson and A. Alston and the G. Donnelly rink with G. Johnston, G. Newby and U. Long on its ranks.

The winner will play in the zone championships being held in Kelowna January 18 and 19. Penticton, Summerland, Peachland and Princeton will compete also.

Tomorrow begins the holiday skiing season with all facilities at Big White open until Jan. 6.

Skiing conditions are excellent with six to eight inches of new snow this week. The base is four to four and a half feet. Weekend temperatures at Big White will be in the neighborhood of 25 degrees.

Edmonton Oil King Boss Calls Czechs Chickens

EDMONTON (CP)—Leo Leclerc, boss manager of Edmonton Oil Kings, finds himself in the midst of controversy today after suggesting Czechoslovakia's national hockey team lacks the courage to play his club under Canadian rules.

Both Art Potter of Edmonton, Canadian Amateur Hockey Association president and Jimmy Brown of Camrose, Alberta Amateur Hockey Association president, sided with the Czechs.

The tempest revolving around the two sets of rules began Thursday when the Czechs declined an invitation from Leclerc to play half an exhibition game here Dec. 23 against the Oil Kings under Canadian rules.

Czech officials said they regretted that they could not comply because all international matches must be played under IHF (International Ice Hockey Federation) rules and regulations.

Leclerc replied that this was "the most ridiculous excuse I have ever heard" and added he was sure neither the CAHA nor the IHF would object if the Czechs were to experiment a little with the game as played in Canada.

When the Czechs arrived in Calgary Saturday to open an 11-game tour of Canada, officials with the club suggested IHF standards would be broadened eventually to provide for body-checking in neutral zones.

THE RULES DIFFER
IHF rules differ from Canadian standards by restricting body-checking to the defending zone, prohibiting wing of the puck while a team is short-handed and providing that a player must serve an entire two-minute minor penalty and not return to play after the opposition scores a goal.

Leclerc suggested in a telegram to the Czech team that perhaps the Dec. 23 exhibition could be used as an experiment for both Canadian and Czechoslovakian players.

But when he received the Czech reply he let loose a blast: "I'm thoroughly fed up with towing and scraping to European hockey teams. . . . They come over here and demand that we give away half our game in the name of good sportsmanship."

"They refer to our type of hockey as bootlegging in Czechoslovakia and Sweden, but while vilifying our athletes on one hand, every nation in Europe is spending piles of money to study and copy Canadian hockey."

"If I invite someone to my house I don't expect him to pick up the fridge and take it home with him. That, in effect is what these people are doing."

DECLINES TO COMMENT
Potter declined comment except to say "It was fully understood before the Czechs arrived that all games on the tour would be played under international rules."

Brown said in Camrose that Leclerc's charges were unwarranted. He added that after watching the Czechs practice and play he felt they would be more than capable of holding their own under Canadian rules.

The Czechs opened their tour with a 1-4 victory at Calgary with a Big Six Hockey League intermediate all-star squad and then lost 3-2 to Canada's Olympic team at Victoria.

After the Victoria game, Jiri Anton, Czech coach, said he did not think Canada's team would have much success in Europe because it does not play clean hockey. He said the Canadians played a "tricky" game. "We have seen many good hockey players but we have yet to see a good referee."

The Czechs play their third game tonight in Trail, meet the Canadian team again in Vancouver Sunday then travel to Edmonton for their first game against the King of the Canadian junior hockey champions.

WHL Tigher Leaders Lose

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
The Western Hockey League race tightened a little more Thursday night as Los Angeles Blades edged league-leading Denver Invaders 3-2.

The victory pushed the Blades into a second-place tie with Seattle Totems, both nine points behind the Invaders. Only five points separate the second- and last-place clubs.

In the only league game Thursday, Blades snapped a four-game losing streak as they nipped Denver before 8,842 fans at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

The teams were tied 1-1 in the first period and Blades edged ahead 2-1 in the second.

Veteran Bob Solinger, defenceman Red Bowness and Stan Maxwell scored for Los Angeles. The Denver replies came from defenceman Bill Shvets and winger John Sleavey.

Los Angeles goalie Jim McMillar turned aside 26 in the lead stopped 29 shots, while Al Denver net.

Tonight Portland is at Denver and Seattle at Vancouver.

Probers Ferreting Out Source Of Senate Aide's Dollar Horde

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators said today they are trying to ferret out where Robert G. Baker got the thousands of dollars in cash a witness testified he kept in his Senate office.

To help them, President Johnson signed an executive order permitting the House committee, which is carrying on the inquiry to examine the tax files of Baker...

Senator Carl T. Curtis (Rep., Neb.) said he regarded the testimony about the money as "the big point" at the committee's first public hearing Tuesday in its investigation of Baker's business dealings and allegations of conflict of interest.

Michigan City Buried By Snow

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP)—Muskegon, buried under nearly three feet of snow, shovelled and plowed its way through a dying middle west storm today.

The Lake Michigan port city expected another one or three inches of snow fall today. This would bring the total accumulation to as much as 31 inches and set more weather records for December.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By B. JAY BECKER... Top Record-Holder in Masters' Individual Championship Play.

QUIZ... You are the dealer, both sides vulnerable, and have opened One Spade. Partner responds Two Hearts. What would you now bid with each of the following five hands?

- 1. ♠KJ853 ♣Q3 ♢AQ4 ♠AQ7
2. ♠AJ7643 ♣Q92 ♢AK83 ♠-
3. ♠AK9643 ♣K74 ♢73 ♠K82
4. ♠AKQ53 ♣A783 ♢K3 ♠42
5. ♠AKJ753 ♣K8643 ♢9 ♠4

1. Three notrump. The jump to three notrump in this sequence shows 17 to 19 high-card points, strength in the unbid suits, and, of course, no-trump distribution. It follows therefore that partner is in an excellent position to judge the best final contract for the combined holdings, since the rebid identifies so accurately the nature of the opening bid.

2. Three diamonds. There is a reasonable chance of a slam at this point, but the best trump suit and the level at which to play the hand are as yet uncertain. The intention is to show heart support next, and thus, by implication, identify the shortage in clubs.

3. Three diamonds. This is a strong bid, since the opener voluntarily climbs into the three level. It is roughly equivalent to jumping to three spades over two hearts, though it does show a different type of hand, of course. It would be wrong to jump directly to three spades—first, because the suit is not quite strong enough, and second, because the all-around distribution would not be properly represented.

4. Four hearts. Obviously, this is a much better hand in support of hearts than the preceding one, and the best way of showing the extra values is by leaping to four hearts. It can be reasonably assumed that partner has 10 or more points for his two heart response, which means that a game is practically certain.

5. Four notrump. For practical purposes, the number of tricks that will be made depends on how many aces partner has. The Blackwood four notrump bid commands partner to respond in terms of aces.

The intention is to stop at five hearts if partner responds five diamonds (one ace); to bid six hearts if he responds five spades (two aces); and to bid seven hearts if he responds five spades (three aces).

Perrault Strongly Denies Statement On Seized Parolee

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ray Perrault, leader of the Liberal Party in British Columbia, said Thursday he "categorically denies" a statement made by the Justice Minister Chevrier in the John Wasylechuk extradition case.

Mr. Chevrier told the House of Commons that he advised Mr. Perrault all points in the affair had been investigated and that he (Mr. Chevrier) had no alternative but to sign a warrant permitting release of the prisoner to U.S. authorities.

"That is untrue," Mr. Perrault said in a telephone interview. "At no time have I received from Mr. Chevrier any telegram or letter on this subject."

Mr. Perrault also contradicted the Justice Minister's statement that the warrant had been signed on Monday. He said the deputy warden of Oakalla prison farm where Wasylechuk had been held had seen the warrant and assured him it was signed last Saturday, Dec. 18.

The B.C. Liberal leader said further that Donald L. Macdonald, Mr. Chevrier's personal secretary, called Wasylechuk at 1:25 p.m. Wednesday in an attempt to stop action on the extradition warrant.

Mr. Perrault said he received a call today from Prime Minister Pearson, who proposed in a telephone conversation Wednesday night to investigate the matter personally.

Wasylechuk, 50, was to be arraigned today in Seattle on charges of robbery and murder in a 1954 bank holdup that left a police constable dead of gunshot wounds.

MONTREAL (CP) — The National Research Council and a Montreal pharmaceutical firm have announced a program of research on interferon, possibly the human body's first line of defence against virus diseases.

The program was announced at a press conference Wednesday by the council and the company involved, Frank W. Horner Limited.

Interferon was discovered and named in 1957. It is the substance produced by the body's cells in response to such virus infections as influenza.

The council will provide grants to the company of some $25,000 a year to cover the salaries of researchers in the project. This will continue for two or three years.

General costs over the same span will be split on an equal basis by the government organization and the Horner firm.

Little research has been done on interferon's actual effect on virus infections.

The new research program will concentrate on introducing virus into normal tissue and isolating the interferon produced by the tissue.

House Sits Back And Watches As Tories, NDP Fight It Out

OTTAWA (CP) — While the government watched, the NDP and the Conservatives staged a brief battle on the floor of the Commons Thursday over which of them — if any — was responsible for obstructing government business before the House.

The clash occurred after State Secretary Dickerson, government House leader, unsuccessfully sought unanimous consent to give up 90-minute lunch and supper recesses today for the Commons to sit continuously from 11 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. or later.

Gordon Churchill, who was House leader under the Conservative government, said his party agreed. So did the Social Credit party.

But NDP Leader T. C. Douglas said no good purpose would be served. It would be unfair to the House staff. "By a little exercise of self-discipline" the House would get just as much work done by adhering to regular hours. Creditiste Leader Real Caouette agreed. Besides, he said he had a meeting at lunch.

CLAIMS CREDIT
The spat developed when Mr. Churchill said Commons progress so far has been due to Conservative co-operation.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre), calling for progress on government business on "the basis of Christmas good will," recalled that the only vote this session on expression of greater operational control for the American advisers.

Meanwhile, more than 3,000 students staged a noisy anti-French demonstration in front of the French Embassy today. The students, possibly instigated by the military junta, protested President de Gaulle's support for a neutralized and reunified Viet Nam. The demonstration apparently was timed to give McNamara.

Student leaders handed to French Charge d'Affaires George Perruche an open letter to de Gaulle criticizing past French policy in the former French colony and calling for a halt to neutrality proposals.

Perruche replied that de Gaulle "wants only to help Viet Nam."

By this time it was strictly a Conservative-NDP battle.

Mr. Churchill said that night after night, when the regular Commons adjournment time arrived, the NDP had refused consent to sit a few extra minutes needed to clean up one piece of business.

He said the NDP was guilty of obstruction.

DOUGLAS GETS ANGRY
Mr. Douglas replied, angrily, that Mr. Churchill had no right to use that word. His party had "co-operated wholeheartedly throughout this session."

He reminded Mr. Churchill that he was no longer government House leader—"a position he occupied with all the diplomacy and finesse of a bull in a china shop."

Smiling, Prime Minister Pearson rose to say: "I'd like to wish all members a Merry Christmas."

Later, Mr. Churchill accused Mr. Knowles of making a false statement in stating the Conservatives blocked a government proposal for longer sitting hours. He had made an alternative proposal.

Mr. Knowles replied the alternative would have provided less time to debate government business and Mr. Churchill had recorded his opposition to the government proposal.

Majority Of Toronto Officials Oppose French Language Station

TORONTO (CP) — The majority of Toronto civic officials voiced objection Wednesday to the CBC's decision to convert CJBC into a full-time French language radio station.

Only about five of 21 civic officials interviewed gave approval to some aspects of the plan.

Controller Allan Lamport said the plan would "breed the spirit of separatism" and to have it enforced by government order is an injustice and an insult to French and English speakers alike.

Controllers Herbert Orloff and William Dennison see no need for an all-French station although they agreed some French programs could be used on all stations.

Mayor Philip Givens did not comment, except to say he believed the CBC might change its mind.

Some of the aldermen termed the idea "ridiculous" and felt if there was to be a departing from English it should be in several languages such as Italian, German, Hungarian and Ukrainian.

A few of the aldermen felt the 125,000 French Canadians in Toronto have a right to an all-French station.

A GOOD THING
"If it please the French and do anything to straighten out this schemozzle, it will be a good thing and I'm all for it," said Alderman Frank Clifton.

The publicly-owned CJBC started operation in Toronto in 1941 as a key station in the CBC Dominion network. It serves almost all of southern Ontario.

The station now has two-hour French broadcasts each evening.

Freed Hostages Recount Days With Bolivian Reds

By THOMAS M. MARTIN Jr. Written for The Associated Press

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—Throughout our detention all of us—the four Americans, the Dutch manager of the mines, a German engineer and 13 Bolivian engineers—maintained a solid front. Several attempts were made to divide us, the diplomatic persons from the technical people and the Bolivians from the foreigners. These attempts failed. At one point the Bolivians were told that if we Americans made a statement pleading for the release of two arrested Communist union leaders (Federico Escobar and Irineo Pimentel) we would all be set free. No such statement was ever made by any member of our group. As a daily basis, we all refused to make such a pact. We entertained ourselves playing cards and chess and reading. In between we made it a point alternately to debate Communist doctrine or the philosophy of our guards and play up to them. GUARDS RAN ERRANDS. Ultimately our guards became very sympathetic and would run errands for us to buy cigarettes and newspapers. Cornelius Hood, the Dutch mine manager, still maintained some authority even in his state as a hostage. When reports of troop movements reached the miners' underground they asked Rusk for permission to take 20 cases of supplies for combat purposes. Needless to say, Rusk refused them. But the miners took the dynamite anyway. Though our situation was very tense and dangerous, the arrival of the free press corps greatly contributed to lightening it. This was one of the matters we joked about frequently. The press corps was all over the place, riding out in the middle of the night to find army positions, bringing cigarettes and news to us hostages and in a sense acting as mediators for our release. A housewives' association, the Amas de Casa, maintained a 24-hour vigil over us at the union headquarters in 530 Veinte. The women were armed with machetes, kitchen knives and dynamite. Their leader, known to us Americans as Lady MacBeth, is the wife of one of the leading Communists of the area. Actually we were never officially released, but just given tired of waiting for Vice-President Juan Lechin, head of the miners' federation, to lay the groundwork at a miners mass meeting for the grandstand play of having rescued us. Bernard Rifkin started our movement with: "Let's get the hell out of here." He was promptly joined by Mike Kristula of the U.S. Information Service, Bob Ferguson of the Peace Corps and myself. BRUSHED ASIDE. Simultaneously the other foreigners and the Bolivians put on their jackets and we all just brushed past our confused guards, pushing their rifles aside and strode into a crowd of more than 500 persons waiting outside the union headquarters and at his own pace. To our surprise, it was a clearing crowd. They insisted on showing hands and congratulating us. Eventually six vehicles were rounded up to carry all the hostages, some reporters and the wives and children of the two arrested Communist leaders to Oruro, 30 miles to the north. We were met by Bolivian government officials and by U.S. Ambassador Douglas Henderson. Martin's American companions were Bernard Rifkin, 32, of Brooklyn, N.Y., a labor adviser for the U.S. Agency for International Development; Robert Ferguson, 36, of Houston; Fredrick Garg, volunteer, and Michael A. Kristula, 41, a former Chicagoan who is a U.S. Information Service officer.

DeGaulle List For New Year Names Red China Recognition

PARIS (Reuters)—President de Gaulle lists France's recognition of Communist China among his diplomatic objectives for the coming year, sources close to the French government said today. In a talk with U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk earlier this week de Gaulle went no further on a promise of non-recognition than the terms of a recent diplomatic note to Washington, this correspondent learned on good authority. The French note assured the United States there would be no immediate recognition by France of the Peking regime. Diplomatic sources here underlined that the operative word is "immediate."

branches of French production Edgar Faure, former prime minister and a strong thought discreet backer of de Gaulle, went on a semi-official mission to Peking last month. He came back, according to reliable sources, with an assurance from Peking that the Chinese would be willing to exchange ambassadors with France without insisting, as they have in the past, on France breaking off diplomatic relations with the Chinese Nationalist government of Formosa. De Gaulle plans to promote inter-allied consultations on the subject of recognition of Peking. But, should such consultations through diplomatic channels bring about no agreement, the president will then go ahead on his own and at his own pace, sources close to him indicated.

Secondly, France needs the potentially huge consumer market in East Asia. Her own population is steadily growing and the capacity of the European Common Market to guarantee France's further economic expansion is considered here to be about exhausted even if its continuation is still considered useful. Meanwhile, a private industry mission, headed by Georges Picot, is being strongly encouraged to set up a permanent organization in China with a view to preparing the way for long-term contracts for many
