Guerrillas Attack Base In Thailand For First Time

SAIGON (AP) — A guerrilla force attacked a U.S. Air Force base in Thailand for the first time in the Vietnam war Friday night, damaging two planes, killing a Thai guard and wounding two Americans.

Two of the guerrillas were reported killed and one captured during the brief assault on Udorn air base in northern Thailand, an area which the Bangkok government says is infested by North Vietnamese-backed guerrillas.

Udorn, with 6,500 airmen and 100 planes, is the largest of seven U.S. bases in Thailand from which most strikes are mounted against North Vietnam.

A combined Thai-American security force drove the guerrillas back as they tried to place explosives around the parked aircraft.

An F-4 and a C-141 Starlifter, a four-engine jet cargo aircraft fitted for medical evacuation, were damaged by fire.

The attackers also set off an ammunition and fuel explosion which was brought under control quickly.

In South Vietnam, Communist gunners zeroed in with rockets for the third straight night on the Da Nang fighter base, 375 miles northeast of Saigon.

One squadron from the 1st Marine Air Wing was temporarily grounded after a Russian-made 100-pound rocket scored a direct hit on a hangar housing several of the Marine A-6 all-weather jet intruders. One of the 48,000 aircraft was destroyed and another heavily damaged.

LOST TWO BOMBERS

The U.S. announced the loss of two more fighter-bombers during strikes over North Vietnam's southern panhandle. It raised to 872 the number of American warplanes reported downed in combat over the region during the war.

Three of four men aboard the two planes were listed as missing and a fourth was rescued after surviving 20 hours in enemy territory.

In the ground war, U.S. troops discovered a major Communist base camp that contained large field hospitals, quantities of medicines, narcotics and bandages. The outpost, known as base camp 114, is about 50 miles square and lies west and southwest of the old imperial capital of Hue.

An Australian patrol reported killing seven Viet Cong in three skirmishes 40 miles southeast of Saigon. There were no Australian casualties.

VISITOR OF THE WEEK

This week the honor of being Visitor of the Week in Kelowna, went to a Trail couple, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Doig. During a call at city hall, Mayor R. F. Parkinson, centre, presented the couple with a basket of fresh Okanagan fruit, on behalf of the Kelowna Retail Merchants' Association. Mr. and Mrs. Doig say they love Kelowna, have been here before and will be returning again to visit their son Ron who works at a city supermarket. They are enjoying golfing and swimming. They heard Okanagan Lake was polluted while they were visiting in Vancouver. "I don't believe it," Mr. Doig said, "it certainly didn't hinder my dip in the water." The Visitor of the Week program is sponsored by the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce. (Courier photo)

Details Clog Postal Talks

Cannon Salute For P.M.

PANGNIRTUNG, N. W. T. (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau landed in magnificent Pangnirtung Friday in an ancient Canso amphibian, visited for a while then flew 60 miles to Clearwater Ford to spend the night at a new Eskimo settlement.

Pangnirtung's 600 Eskimos fired their last half pound charge of gunpowder in his honor using a whaling cannon found in this area more than a century ago.

It is normally fired once a year on the anniversary of the Hudson's Bay Co.

The charge echoed from the 2,000-to-6,000-foot walls of the fjord, the higher ones clad with snow.

Mr. Trudeau was taken on a walking tour of the Baffin Island village by an Eskimo named Elijah and a black haired northern beauty named Meeka.

Mr. Trudeau spent Thursday night at Frobisher Bay and toured the community of 2000 early Friday, receiving a walrus ivory ring from an Eskimo.

Neither Side Commenting As Meetings To Continue

OTTAWA (CP) — Mediation talks in the national postal strike resume today with negotiators reported to be still bogged down in a mass of detail over working conditions.

The three participants met for just over three hours Friday night in the hotel suite of the federal mediator, Judge Rene Lippe.

"We have adjourned and will meet again tomorrow," the judge told reporters. "There is no more to say."

Romeo Mathieu, representative of the Council of Postal Unions, and Douglas Love from the government's treasury board would not comment.

The three men have been meeting almost continually this week, with time out for occasional conferences with their negotiating teams.

In formants say they are trying to work out agreement on working rules before tackling the sensitive wage issues.

The 24,000-member postal unions are demanding an increase of 75 cents an hour in a 14-month contract. Top rates now are $2.75 an hour for postal clerks and $2.63 for letter carriers. The government has offered 15 cents an hour.

In 1965 postal workers in Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia staged a one-week strike. A national walkout was narrowly averted by mediation in 1966.

The contract currently under negotiation would be the first under the government's new laws and regulations permitting collective bargaining in the public service. It would expire Sept. 30, so that most of the pay increases to be gained would be retroactive.

Government negotiations are taking the position that bargaining over wages will have to wait until working conditions are settled and the fringe benefits connected with them are assessed.

Vice-Presidential Picture With Democrats Wide Open

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic vice-presidential picture appeared to be wide open today following Senator Edward Kennedy's "final" decision against accepting nomination at next month's convention.

The names of Senators Eugene McCarthy and Fred Harris and Sargent Shriver, U.S. ambassador to France, were mentioned as possible running mates if Vice-President Hubert Humphrey wins the Democratic presidential nomination.

Humphrey, campaigning in Kansas when the Kennedy statement was released in Boston, said the decision by the Massachusetts senator "speaks for itself" and is "understandable."

But he declined, as he has all along, to comment on who might be under consideration.

McCarthy, Humphrey's chief rival for the nomination, had no immediate comment on either Kennedy's decision or the possibility of taking No. 2 spot himself which he has in the past rejected.

A Humphrey-McCarthy ticket would pose a problem since both men come from Minnesota and the U.S. constitution bars a state's electoral college votes from going to residents of the same state.

Shriver, Kennedy's brother-in-law who headed the Peace Corps and the anti-poverty program before becoming ambassador this spring, has never run for public office.

Humphrey aides have said that both McCarthy and Shriver are possibilities.

There is also support from within the Humphrey camp for Harris, 37, co-chairman of the vice-president's campaign. But an aide said the Oklahoma Democrat has given no thought to the possibility.

Czechoslovaks Tell Reds They Support Party Chief

From Reuters-AP
PRAGUE (CP) — Czechoslovaks today flooded Communist party headquarters here with messages of support for party leader Alexander Dubcek as a crucial Soviet-Czechoslovak summit meeting neared.

No date has been announced yet for the meeting which could decide the future course of Czechoslovakia.

Factory workers are asking to meet the Kremlin leaders; themselves to help convince them that Dubcek's liberalization reforms do not mean a betrayal of Communism.

Dubcek said Friday there was no need to fear the approaching talks with Russia and emphasized that there was goodwill on the Czechoslovak side to remove misunderstandings.

The Czechoslovak news agency Ceteke reported that he told workers: "We think that there is no need of fears and mistrust. On the contrary, a certain dose of optimism, strong faith in our good cause and confidence that the correctness of our new policy will be proved, is needed to help us finally to allay the fears of our friends."

Dubcek's meeting with the workers came as liberals warned Czech leaders that "the fate of our nation" is at stake in the impending showdown with the Soviet leadership, which is trying to blunt Czechoslovak moves toward liberalization.

"DEFEND THE PROGRAM" — Members of the ruling Soviet politburo are expected to hear talks in Czechoslovakia early next week.

Literarni Listy, a writers' weekly and sounding board for the top Czech liberals, urged the new leadership to defend to the death any attacks by the Soviets or their orthodox allies against the country's reformist program. An important part of that program is the lifting of censorship.

People lined up in the streets of Prague Friday night in a dramatic gesture to publicize demands that Russian troops stay out of the country.

Thousands turned out following an appeal first published in manifesto form by Literarni Listy.

Special Report From Vatican Due Monday

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — The Vatican announced today that a papal document on an unspecified subject will be published Monday, arousing speculation that it might be on the controversial issue of birth control.

A Vatican spokesman said the document would be issued at a news conference, but he declined to say what subject it would deal.

Until now the Vatican has maintained that the only permissible means of birth control is the rhythm method.

But there have been increasing demands among Roman Catholics for a relaxation, especially after the 1962-65 Vatican council which sought to update the church in relation to the world.

Last year a congress of 3,000 Catholic laymen here recommended that the problem should be left to the conscience of individual couples.

Algeria Frees Passengers Held After Plane Hijacked

ALGIERS (Reuters) — Algeria today released a portion of Israeli women and children detained since their airliner was hijacked and forced to land here last Tuesday.

Those released were among 22 Israeli nationals aboard the El Al Airlines Boeing 707 jet hijacked by Palestinian gunmen on a flight from Rome to Tel Aviv.

Non-Israeli passengers aboard the aircraft were released shortly after the hijacking.

The party of 10-seven women and three children included the three air hostesses.

They were taken to the airport in two cars which drove straight onto the tarmac.

They were to leave aboard a Swissair Caravelle bound for Geneva.

Their release left 12 men still in Algerian custody, seven of them El Al crew members.

Algeria has been under outside pressure since the hijacked plane landed in Algiers piloted by one of the hijackers.

The pressure includes demands by the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine that the Israelis be exchanged for Palestinian prisoners in Israel, informed sources said.

New Heart Pumping Well

LONDON (AP) — Gordon Ford's new heart was reported pumping efficiently today but surgeons said the condition of Britain's second heart transplant patient remains critical.

The National Heart Hospital issued this bulletin almost 24 hours after the operation on Ford:

"The patient remains seriously ill, although his transplanted heart is working satisfactorily."

"His present condition reflects his grave pre-operative state, which was characterized by recurrent bouts of coma from an inadequate circulation."

Alberta Cancer Patients Face Critical Situation

A critical situation may be developing among rural cancer patients in Alberta who have had medical supplies cut off because of the postal strike, a Calgary pharmacist said Friday.

Allan Ferman, chief pharmacist for the provincial cancer hospital board, said about 1,000 persons may be running out of medical supplies.

"In some cases it could be critical," he said.

He advised rural patients who normally receive medical supplies by mail to give their cancer clinic file number and last prescription number to a druggist who would then arrange for shipment of drugs.

And Able Okazaki, student awards officer at the University of Calgary, said many students may lose their chance to receive a cademic grants and scholarships because the deadline for applications is Aug. 1.

"There has been a steady flow of Calgary students delivering their applications by hand," he said, "but this is impossible for many students who live in the country or in Lethbridge and Medicine Hat."

Meanwhile, union leaders representing 600 striking Quebec postal workers Friday charged the federal government with strike-breaking by not stopping messenger services from delivering "mail."

Two local teachers said in Quebec City that "mail" is being handled by non-union personnel at what they describe as "semi-urban" offices.

In western Quebec, Roman Catholic priests are expected to use the pulpit Sunday to tell parishioners where to register for trades training courses this fall. The strike has disrupted the usual means of reaching prospective applicants.

John Anderson, Metropolitan Toronto Welfare commissioner, said Friday about 12,000 welfare recipients in the metropolitan area who usually receive cheques by mail, can pick them up at nine offices next week.

He said the cheques will be at the offices Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and people on the welfare rolls should watch for newspaper advertisements for instructions.

The welfare offices will be open for an extra half-hour in both morning and evening—from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Mr. Anderson said the pick-up system would continue as long as the strike lasts.

"Homebound people who can't come to the offices should call the welfare assistance number and we'll make some arrangements to deliver their cheques," he said.

Last week, the Workmen's Compensation Board set up 32 emergency offices in Ontario to distribute pension and compensation cheques.

Claims officer J. F. McDonald said disabled persons can obtain compensation cheques by sending someone with a letter of authorization.

New Campaign To Find Jobs For Students Now Underway

OTTAWA (CP) — Manpower Minister MacEachen today announced a "renewed publicity campaign" to help students find summer jobs.

A statement from Mr. MacEachen's office said the government is inviting businessmen, unions, provincial governments, communications media, community organizations and householders to assist unemployed students.

All potential employers will be asked whether they have jobs they could offer, even if small or temporary, and to report them to the closest Canada manpower centre.

Mr. MacEachen acknowledged that a "great many" students have failed to find work this year, although he claimed that more students than ever have been placed in jobs. The number unemployed is up because the post-war baby crop is of student age and entering the labor force each summer.

All federal departments and agencies which had asked for a lifting of the current freeze on hirings had been granted this relief and had taken on students.

Manpower centres had increased the number of students already working in their student placement branches in order to handle the additional work expected to result from the new appeal.

Wife, Baby Held Hostage By Husband

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) — A 21-year-old armed man today was holding his 17-year-old wife and a six-month-old baby hostage in a suburban house after a shooting incident in which his mother-in-law was killed.

Police armed with rifles and tear gas surrounded the house in the suburb of Revesby, about 10 miles southwest of Sydney.

"I've got seven guns and I'm not coming out until Monday," the man was quoted as saying on the telephone to a newspaper.

"I believe there are 200 police out there and I've got plenty of ammunition for the lot of them," he said.

Before the siege—the second in a Sydney suburb this month—five blasts from a shotgun were heard and the body of a woman was found in a car near the house. Neighbors identified the woman as the gunman's mother-in-law.

The gunman told the newspaper: "I realize now what I've done. I'm sorry."

"I'll walk out when I can go straight to a court. I'd rather not stay in jail overnight. I'm staying here until Monday."

The man is known to be armed with a .303-calibre Lee Enfield rifle and two shotguns.

NIGERIA AND BIAFRA

Canadians Urged To Help Needy

OTTAWA (CP) — The United Nations Association in Canada called on Canadians Friday to contribute emergency relief immediately to war-torn Nigeria and Biafra.

About 150 delegates from 31 association branches across Canada attending a four-day conference passed a resolution expressing concern about the "great human suffering" caused by the conflict in the federal republic of Nigeria and the eastern region known as Biafra.

A spokesman said contributions should be sent to the Nigeria-Biafra Relief Fund in Canada, 15 Wesleyley Street East, Toronto 5, or The Canadian UNICEF Committee, 737 Church Street, Toronto 3.

"During the postal strike, contributions could be sent by telegram or bank transfer."

The delegates also unanimously passed a resolution asking the government to fly the United Nations flag on Parliament Hill as a symbol of Canadian support for the world organization.

A recommendation for establishment of an international research and development centre for training peace-program volunteers was referred to the association's policy committee.

Senator Paul Martin, in a dinner speech to the delegates, warned that as the UN enters its 23rd year, there is some danger of the public taking it for granted, or regarding it with indifference.

The government leader in the Senate and former external affairs minister in the Pearson administration said that basic conditions governing Canadian foreign policy have not changed much over the years.

"The respect and confidence Canada has gained at the UN and elsewhere was in part based on the relations with many of the new states it had developed through Commonwealth membership and its French-speaking heritage.

Peacekeeping was still "unusually appropriate" to Canada's military and political situation.

As the nuclear stalemate was prolonged and the great powers began to look for ways of avoiding their own military involvement in the affairs of other countries, there was reason to think that the international control of conflict would become more acceptable and less difficult to organize.

Today the association is expected to discuss a major resolution asking for recognition of Communist China by the Canadian government, and its seating on the UN Security Council.

Two panel discussions, one on the status of Indians in Canadian literature and the other on hate literature and genocide, are also being held.

LAGOS (AP) — In the wake of the failure of the Niamey talks to produce an agreement on relief to breakaway Biafra, the secessionists appealed today for a massive airlift of supplies and accused Nigeria and Britain of sabotaging aid to the starving.

The secessionists said they would have no objection to Nigerian observers inspecting air cargoes of relief supplies, Biafra radio said.

The breakaway regime also sought relief routes through a sea corridor into the Niger Delta and a road corridor through a demilitarized Port Harcourt which now is in federal hands.

The proposals seemed to be the same as those which failed to win agreement in Niger after the week of talks which ended Friday night.

Business Ball Rolling Again Reports Skillings

The business ball was rolling again in British Columbia in the first five months of 1968, Waldo Skillings, minister of industrial development, trade and commerce reported Friday. In his department's monthly bulletin of business activity, Mr. Skillings said B.C. reflected a resumption of economic expansion in Canada indicated by the gross national product in the first quarter of 1968. "Mining and forestry provided the impetus for the general advance in the British Columbia economy." However, housing construction activity was reduced "moderately." Fish landings in May totalled $3,100,000, 60 per cent above the total in the same month of 1967 when the industry was experiencing labor troubles. Halibut landings accounted for much of the gain.

PEACHLAND COUNCIL

Five Tenders Received For Domestic Water Line

PEACHLAND (Special) — At the regular meeting of the Peachland Municipal Council this week five sealed tenders submitted for the construction of the eight-inch domestic water pipeline from 12th Street to Trepanier Creek, a line approximately 750' long.

Bids were received from contractors in Kelowna, Pentton, Westbank and Peachland. Alderman George Meldrum, in charge of the Peachland domestic water system, will study the bids and make recommendations at the next meeting of council.

Attending council to submit a brief complaining of the extension of a mobile home park at the Peachland Motel property which adjoins his newly-purchased residential lot, was a former Peachland United Church minister Rev. Cyril Warren of Turner Valley, Alta. Mr. Warren feels this mobile home park devalues adjacent property, and does not conform with municipal bylaws, having no buffer zone. Mayor Harold Thwaite explained that this property is zoned tourist facility, and that the owner had council permission to put in a mobile home park before the new zoning bylaws were passed. But agreed to this park bring the site up to a comparable standard before Nov. 1.

Neil Witt of Trepanier attended council to apply for rezoning of 9.1 acres of land adjacent to Trepanier Creek which he is in the process of purchasing. This is the piece of property which still is registered in the name of Lambly, though taxes have never been collected on it since 1932. After 1934 this property should have been up for tax sale, but it wasn't done and the land has never been on the tax roll since.

Ald. T. R. Stuart and Ald. J. H. Clements both stated that they feel this property should belong to the municipality, or at least taxes should be collected on it for 30 years. A motion was made that advice from the Union of B.C. Municipalities law department be sought before any rezoning application is considered.

BRIEFS
A. M. Moore of Beach Ave. attended council with revised plans for subdividing of property rezoned residential on Beach Ave. Approval in principle was given subject to signed agreement re municipal services.

Bylaw 453 a bylaw of the corporation of the district of Peachland to amend the Peachland gas bylaw 1955, No. 324 was given first reading.

Plans of subdivision was submitted by Ogopogo Investments Ltd., and Keloka Investments Ltd., Kelowna, for the former Art Garraway property into 11 lots. Approval in principle was given subject to approval from the regional planner and signed agreement re municipal services.

Approval in principle was given to subdivision plans submitted by C. O'Keefe, Highway 97, into three lots.

D. A. K. Fulks attended council regarding approval in principle given him at a former council meeting to operate a handronat from the former Peachland garage building. Mr. Fulks requested a change in wording of the motion passed by council to conform with a matter as it now stands and assurance from the council that they did not intend to pave 1st Street over his proposed tank

PGE Plans To Push North Unchanged By Yukon Survey

VANCOUVER (CP) — Frank Richter, provincial transport minister, says a federal rail and economic survey of northern British Columbia and the Yukon will not affect provincial plans to push the Pacific Great Eastern Railway north.

The federal survey will appraise mineral and lumber resources in the north and possibilities of local refining and processing.
Mr. Richter said the PGE is going ahead with a plan to extend its service north from Fort St. John to Fort Nelson, east south of the Yukon-B.C. border. However, Mr. Richter said the federal survey could lead to a link-up of all northern railways.

Big Publicity Organization Boosts Summer Hockey Game

The interest of dozens of people who form an impressive list of hockey personalities has turned Kelowna's annual summer hockey classic into probably Canada's most successful summer hockey game.

The list includes many outstanding players, who make the game a success on the ice and other influential people who work behind the scenes.

Again this year the Aug. 3 game is bringing Kelowna good publicity in many areas of North America.

Heading the list of players are Boston's Eddie Shack and Detroit's Frank Mahovlich. Other well-known people are connected with off-ice activities the day of the game.

The VIP list will be headed by Premier Bennett, well-known sports personality Annis Stukus and Boston's Johnny Bucyk, who spends his summers near Nelson, but won't be able to play because of a sore back.

The Bruins' super-star Bobby Orr will be here too, acting as guest referee, unable to play because of a recent knee operation.

Many players and guests will speak at a public reception at the Aquatic immediately after the game, including Jackie McLeod, coach of Canada's national team.

The list of stars who have participated in past summer games here reads like roll-call for the Hockey Hall of Fame: Babe Pratt, a member of the hall; Al Leader, president of the Western Hockey League; Toronto Maple Leaf goalie Johnny Bower; Chicago Black Hawk Bobby Hull; former Montreal Canadian goal-

Survey In 'Quiet Period' Indicates Hectic Weekend

One of the busiest sections of road in the entire Okanagan is narrow, twisty and less than half a mile long.

The oft-travelled piece of pavement leads people from Abbott Street in Kelowna into the City Park.

A survey conducted by the Courier Saturday morning gave an indication of just how popular the park is with city residents and visitors.

The traffic count was made between 9:50 and 10:50 a.m., long before the peak period arrived. The count showed 171 vehicles entering the park in the 60-minute period, plus 16 bicycles and six motorcycles.

The vehicle breakdown was 141 cars and 30 trucks, campers and station wagons. Excluding the bicycles and motorcycles and dozens of pedestrians, the vehicles carried 382 people into the park, an average of 2.2 per vehicle.

Again excluding everything except four-wheel vehicles, the home location breakdown was: B.C., 142; Alberta, 18; Saskatchewan, and Manitoba four each; and Washington, Ontario and the Yukon one each.

The temperature was in the mid-70 degree range, expected to hit at least 90 degrees later in the day.

The traffic flow was just beginning to pick up at 11 a.m., indicating the park was likely in for its busiest weekend so far this year. At one point 12 cars came in bumper-to-bumper, just after the survey ended.

Many drivers were dropping off children and of the 382 people about 100 were less than 10-year-olds.

More than half the park's 375 parking spaces were available at 11 a.m., but were filling quickly. Much of the 35 acres of grass and beach was open, with space expected to be at a premium by 2 p.m.

At times last year city traffic officers were needed to keep vehicles and pedestrians moving in the fine form this weekend when congestion hit at the park entrance. In cases such as this, which don't occur often, the officers close the park for a few minutes to allow some cars to leave, then re-open the gate—repeating the procedure until the traffic flow eases.

With the Okanagan sunshine expected to be in fine form this weekend the best advice for people planning to spend some time on the Hot Sands Beach, or other sections of the park is—get there early.

B.C.-QUEBEC EXCHANGE

Bricks And Jaywalking The Major Differences

Perhaps the French Canadian isn't so different in his way of life after all.

Four Quebec students, currently in the Okanagan, on the Dominion-wide high school exchange program, generally noted little difference in customs of the French Canadian compared to those of the average Okanagan resident.

Minor differences noted by the four Okanagan student hosts, who recently returned from a two week stay in Quebec, and the quartet of French students, were such things as jaywalking and the lack of brick houses.

Denis Arseneau, 16, a Grade 11 student in Quebec City stressed the lack of jaywalking in Kelowna, compared to that in the large Quebec centres of Montreal and Quebec City. His host, Terry Brunette, 16 year old Immaculata student, said he has had to restrain Denis several times from cutting across city streets.

Francoise Poliquin, 15, from Three Rivers, noted the number of brick houses as being much greater in Quebec. Miss Poliquin is staying at the home of Marcia Butler, 16, of Kelowna, a Grade 12 entrant at Immaculata in the fall.

The other students on the program are Jean-Claude Latour, 16, of Montreal and host Bernard Betke, 16, Grade 12 Rutland Secondary School student; and Monique Bonneau, 17, from Chicoutimi, hosted by Odette Graf, 16, another Grade 12 Rutland student.

The French students were admitted to being more bilingual than their English hosts. Miss Poliquin, who is bilingual, said she had taken English in school for seven years with as many as four hours a week of English in any one year. The informa-

No Immunity From Thieves

Two members of the Kelowna city council have found there is no "political immunity" from the work of thieves.

Mayor R. F. Parkinson and Ald. R. J. Wilkinson were the victims Thursday and Friday.

Gordon Smith, parks and recreation superintendent, explained the purpose of the ice is to provide a minor hockey clinic and a figure skating school for local minor players and skaters.

Mr. Smith stressed that the parks and recreation commission was jointly putting on the schools with the figure skating club and the minor hockey association. "The commission supplies the ice at a loss, but it provides a good service to local kids," Mr. Smith said.

This year, the hockey clinic is being run principally by the minor hockey association with former Okanagan Junior Hockey League most valuable player, Bob Gruber, the chief instructor. Other major contributing individuals are Granger Evans and

Carr Paintings Viewed By 500

The Emily Carr art exhibition, Wednesday and Thursday was a huge success.

More than 500 art fanciers reviewed the paintings in the Okanagan Regional Library brought here by the B.C. Centennial Cultural Advisory Committee in co-operation with the Vancouver Art Gallery.

Works shown represented the major steps in the painter's artistic development including examples of the chief media in which she worked.

The exhibit is travelling to areas in British Columbia with no gallery facilities, among them Pentticon, Vernon and Kamloops.

Attendance for this two day showing tripled any two days attendance at the library.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED

Murray Lowenburg, Kelowna, was given a six months suspended sentence Friday, on a charge of causing a disturbance by shouting in the City Park. He was placed on probation for six months and required to post a $200 peace bond on his own recognizance.

NOT weather is the forecast for the Okanagan Sunday. The low tonight and high Sunday should be 55 and 90. Light winds are predicted. The low and high recorded in Kelowna Friday were 55 and 92, compared with 57 and 91 on the same date a year ago.

Skaters, Hockey Players Hit Summer Ice Monday

The Kelowna Parks and Recreation Commission is providing ice in the Memorial Arena for the Kelowna Figure Skating Club and the Kelowna Minor Hockey Association for a three-week period, beginning Monday.

Gordon Smith, parks and recreation superintendent, explained the purpose of the ice is to provide a minor hockey clinic and a figure skating school for local minor players and skaters.

Mr. Smith stressed that the parks and recreation commission was jointly putting on the schools with the figure skating club and the minor hockey association. "The commission supplies the ice at a loss, but it provides a good service to local kids," Mr. Smith said.

Four Kelowna Wardens Will Attend Valley Camp

Sixty Junior Forest Wardens from the Southern Interior will attend a seven-day training camp at Wilson's Landing, 30 miles north of Kelowna on the west side of Okanagan Lake starting Aug. 3.

C. W. (Chic) Gray, regional supervisor for the Canadian Forestry Association of B.C. will be administering the camp training program. During the camp forest wardens will learn woods safety, hiking tips, care of axes, knives and chain saws, forest fire prevention, map and compass work, camp cooking, tree measurement and the principals of timber cruising, tree identification and weather instrument recording to determine the daily forest fire hazard.

During the week the wardens will spend a good deal of time on hikes and manoeuvres. Depending on the weather, some of the experienced campers will be given the opportunity to build lean-tops and sleep under the stars.

Wayne Jarvis, a professional forester for S. M. Simpson Ltd., will visit the camp for one day and give detailed instruction in forest measurement and timber cruising. Jim Burbridge from Kelowna will conduct a lesson on snakes and give the wardens a chance to view different species. The wardens will be shown proper practices to observe when confronted with a rattlesnake. Fire-arm safety will be taught by Eric Bateson. After the boys have participated in about five hours instruction, they will write a qualifying examination. Wally Maxon, a retired game warden will show the boys a few tips on fly casting.

Final plans are not confirmed, but other guests are expected to attend the camp to conduct a lesson or lecture.

Junior Forest Wardens from Kelowna who will attend the camp are Karl Nahm, Rodney Hicks, Curtis Chamberlain and Douglas Kerr.

Two Three-Vehicle Accidents Result In $1,700 Total Damage

Two three-car collisions in the Kelowna area Friday resulted in a total of $1,700 damage to the vehicles involved.

Vehicles driven by Gary Wayne Lyons of 770 Raymer St., Donald John Matary of 1239 Ethel St., and a juvenile from Kelowna, were involved in collision at the corner of Ethel and Harvey at 8:30 p.m. Total damage was estimated at $1,000.

At 10 p.m. two cars and a half-ton truck collided near the Traveller's Motel on Highway 97. Involved were Lloyd Albert Anderson of Summerland, Rodney Messer of 2044 Ethel St. and Edmond Wiebe of 560 Harvey Ave. The truck was driven by Messer.

Total damage was estimated at $700.

Grant Wood of Gibson Road and Thomas Glendonning of 481 Cadder Ave., were involved in an accident at the corner of Water and Bernard at 11:35 p.m. Friday.

Total damage was $100. There were no injuries.

Summer Program Of Films In The Park Begins Sunday

The Kelowna Film Council and the National Film Board will again present the summer film program in the City Park all day Sunday.

The films to be shown Sunday evening offer a variety of entertainment.

The program begins with the cartoon What On Earth which offers a marlin's view of earth and its inhabitants.

The second film, Sky, brings to life the sky over the foothills of the Rockies.

Miss Archibald (1953) will be shown as Miss Canada in the third film, The Lady of The Lake.

The fourth film will be on Ted Knight performing over Kelowna and Regatta Parade in 1966.

A magnificent view of the long-distance Heron—swans, geese and ducks as they pass over the Kootenay Valley will be shown in Valley of The Swans.

The final film of the evening will be the concluding half of Canada Between Two Wars. This episode, entitled Sunshine and Eclipse, shows Canada at its heights and depths of the years 1927-1934.

The entertainment free film program begins at dusk.

$10 Cost For Tickets

A Kelowna man discovered in magistrate's court Friday, ignoring parking tickets doesn't pay.

Second Lampann received three parking tickets—Feb. 19, Feb. 28 and June 13. Police arrested him at noon Friday and at 2 p.m. he appeared in magistrate's court and was fined $10 on each charge under the city's parking bylaw. He pleaded guilty.

The city's procedure is to attach a ticket to the car, write a letter if the $2.50 fine is not paid within a few weeks, and then a charge is laid, a summons delivered and if the voluntary penalty, now at $7, is not paid, a warrant is executed, a procedure which usually takes about three months from the time the ticket was first issued.

Former Kelowna Resident Dies

Word was received here today that Mrs. J. B. Lander, formerly of Kelowna, died in Victoria this morning.

Interment will take place in Portage La Prairie, Manitoba.

KELOWNA MAN FINED
TRAIL (CP)—Howard Grey, 28, of Kelowna was fined $200 Thursday in magistrate's court here on a charge of obstructing a police officer. He pleaded guilty. He will also appear in court July 31 on a charge of assault.

FOR REGATTA OPENING

Red Knight Roars In Valley With New Charger

An old knight with a new suit of armor will perform in Kelowna Aug. 7.

The old knight is the famed Canadian Armed Forces Red Knight, who has thrilled thousands of people in the Okanagan in previous years. The new armor is the Tutor aircraft, being used by the Red Knight for the first time this year, replacing the familiar T-33.

The Tutor aircraft were flown here last year at the Regatta by the Golden Centennaires.

The Red Knight's all new performance will turn eyes skyward at 8 p.m. Aug. 7, the first of the 62nd edition of the Kelowna International Regatta. The Kelowna show will be one of only 10 in Canada in 1968.

Following is information from the armed forces regarding the show and the aircraft.

During his 12-minute airshow

the Red Knight demonstrates manoeuvres normally flown by all Canadian military pilots in training. So spectators may easily observe each manoeuvre or sequence, the Red Knight keeps his plane at all times within a small area and at lower altitude than normal. During most of his show he trails white smoke.

The Red Knight starts with a Plan-View Pull Up. Here, he comes across toward the spectators and eases his aircraft straight up. The result is a dramatic view of the entire surface of the smoke-trailing aircraft. Reversing his direction over the top, he comes back down to pull the aircraft up into a Vertical Eight.

After a reverse of direction he describes a simple Loop to his audience. In flying the Loop he enters the show area at 250 mph and gradually eases the aircraft to a vertical position. He continues "over the top" until the aircraft is pointing straight down, then eases out to complete the manoeuvre at the same height and flying the same direction as on entry.

His next manoeuvre is a graceful Slow Roll—pleasing to watch. The Red Knight follows up the Loop and Slow Roll with a combination manoeuvre known as a Cuban Eight. Here he starts a Loop, with another Roll on the way down. The result, outlined in the trailing smoke, is a figure Eight lying on its side.

The Red Knight then demonstrates the high-speed turning capability of the Tutor by rolling into a turn at 300 mph and completing a full circle within the confines of the show area, in full view of the spectators. The centrifugal forces acting upon the Red Knight during this turn make his body weight seven times normal. He counteracts these forces by wearing a special pressure harness. The aircraft is especially stressed to withstand the forces.

To provide contrast to the high-speed precision manoeuvres, the Red Knight slows down to 250 miles-per-hour and pulls the old "barnstormer's trick" of flying upside down for an Inverted Pass. He follows with a Landing Loop, where he slows at the top of the Loop and puts his wheels and flaps down, and does a Dirty Pass—a pass before the spectators at slow speed with the undercarriage down. Because he is slow enough to be visible in the cockpit, he takes this opportunity to wave. Next comes a Dirty Turn and Climb—a breathtakingly tight turn and a steep climb at slow speed.

As he works up speed for his final manoeuvre, the Red Knight performs a Four Point Roll—a slow roll with a stop at four points.

His final manoeuvre starts with a sharp pull-up to a vertical position before the crowd. Trailing smoke, he "rolls" once going up, eases the aircraft "over the top" at 5,000 feet above ground and, still trailing smoke, points the aircraft straight down and "rolls" once. As he "pulls out" at entry altitude he eases the nose up again and rolls twice quickly on departure from the show area.

The Canadian Armed Forces' elementary jet trainer, the 500 mph CT-114 Tutor, has a Canadian airframe and an Orenda-built General Electric engine. All metal and pressurized, the trim Tutor is the first single-cent. Other high ranking Valley students are Brian McIntyre, Summerland, (90.75 per cent), and Beverly Weidman, Vernon (90.75 per cent).

Frank Addison is a busy man, spending many hours working on civic projects on a volunteer basis. But one thing he isn't is a city alderman, as reported in Friday's coverage of the Regatta association executive meeting.

Training command, with headquarters at Winnipeg, is responsible for all aspects of air and ground crew training up to, but not including, operational training.

'The Book' In Every Home Rather Like Post Offices

The current strike of postal employees all across Canada prompts the writing of this editorial. It is regrettable that such a nation-wide strike, affecting everyone in Canada and hosts of people all over the world, should have taken place; and it is to be hoped that an acceptable settlement will be reached with despatch.

In hundreds of post offices across our land there is a great variety of mail awaiting attention and delivery. All of it is important... to the sender and to the intended receiver. It may be a friendly letter, a word of family greeting, a word of comfort, a word of sorrow, a word of congratulation. It may be a letter of extreme business importance, or it may contain a cheque which is needed at this moment! There may be a parcel containing essential goods... or a birthday or anniversary gift. Every single piece of mail serves some purpose. But it is all piled up in our post offices, of no use to anyone, at least for the time being.

All this says something else to us, to Christians and also to non-Christians! There is a book, of which there is undoubtedly one copy (or more) in most Canadian homes. That book is too much like the post offices of Canada at the present time. There are a great number of messages, many of them letters, written by men inspired by God and all of them addressed to all men upon earth... to each one of us individually. But these messages are locked up because someone is on strike! Either the Christian fails to make known God's message to his fellowmen; or the unbeliever refuses to hear what God has to say to him.

These messages from God in the holy Bible are far more important than all the mail piled up in our post offices. If you don't care for the old King James version, get yourself or your children a copy of a modern translation, such as the New English Bible or the Living series written by Kenneth N. Taylor; or Good News for Modern Man which is the New Testament in Today's English Version. Literally millions of the latter, in paperback, have been sold in the past year.

God has a message that each of us—and all the world—needs to hear! Why keep it locked up when it could mean so much in the way of understanding, wisdom, peace, love, and eternal salvation, for all of us? Read the mail! Read God's message to you today.

GUILT COMPLEX

Canada's Mining Industry May Not Dazzle This Year

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada's $2,600,000,000 mining industry can look forward to a bright future, but for some sectors the profits picture may not be as dazzling as during the 1962-67 boom years.

This was the message delivered at a mining seminar here by two top mining researchers from Richardson Securities of Canada Ltd. Henry Reimer, research manager, and mining analyst Brian Backler told the seminar that from 1962 to 1966 the mining industry went through a period of rapid growth which strained production facilities and created shortages in some areas.

They said that last year, during which the value of mineral production excluding oil climbed to about $2,600,000,000, many metals were over-supplied, but the outlook for some of them is still bright.

The two experts gave the following breakdown of prospects for the major metals: —Nickel: Canada, the world's largest source supplying about two thirds of the Free World's requirements, can expect a demand of between 1,300,000,000 and 1,400,000,000 pounds by 1975. The rate of consumption, which grew about 12 1/2 per cent annually between 1963 and 1967, is expected to slow down to about 6 1/2 per cent by 1975. Prices should remain firm at 94 cents U.S. a pound.

—Iron ore: Last year, Canadian production reached 36,800,000 long tons, slightly higher than in 1966. Future Canadian expansion will depend on the outlook for the North American steel industry and only moderate expansion is predicted in the foreseeable future.

—Copper: Normally Canada's third biggest dollar earner, copper is currently in the number one spot among the metals because of higher copper prices, due to a lengthy copper strike in the United States. Future production is expected to grow about 4.38 per cent a year, though during the last five years Free World consumption has grown 5.5 per cent annually. Prices will drop to between 40 and 45 cents from the present 60 cents U.S. a pound with U.S. mines re-entering production. There is fear the price may drop to 35 cents for a short period next year.

—Zinc: Canada, the world's largest producer, has made production gains of almost 300 per cent since 1958. Prices could drop from the present 11.6 cents U.S. a pound by a cent. Average price for the next five years should be about 12 cents a pound.

—Asbestos: Canadian production dropped about six per cent during 1967 because of a levelling off of demands for certain grades. Due to a lack of known deposits, the country's share of world production is expected to decline further. Increased competition dictates the need for strong market connections.

—Gold: The outlook for the Canadian gold industry is not promising unless there is an increase in the price of gold by 1970. Industrial demand for gold—which accounted for 32 per cent of the total demand in 1966 and has been increasing annually at the rate of 12 per cent since 1951—will continue. By 1975, industrial demand alone could utilize all gold production.

—Lead: The metal has suffered from recent technological developments and a number of major markets were lost. Lead prices will probably soften below the present level of 14 cents U.S. a pound and could finish this year as low as 9.5 cents.

—Uranium: During the mid-1970s, uranium will rank among the top three or four minerals in dollar value. It is 10th now. Results of increased prospecting across the country have so far been disappointing, although many programs are just now gathering steam. Unless major discoveries are made within three to five years, there could be serious shortages during the late 1970s.

—Potash: Prices last year were weak because of poor weather last spring and over-production later in the year. Weak prices are expected to continue for three or four years. The current published price for standard grade is about $18 U.S. a ton, compared with peak $26-a-ton prices in 1966. There have been distress sales this year as low as $12 a ton. By the 1970s average prices should be from $16 to $18 a ton.

—Molybdenum: Canadian production has risen more than 30 times since 1963 and the country now is second only to the U.S. in Free World molybdenum output. About 80 per cent of the country's production has barely been able to keep up with demand and during 1967 prices went up about 3.7 per cent. No price weaknesses are likely in the near future. Current price for molybdenum is $16.62 U.S. a pound.

—Silver: The outlook is clouded. World production capacity—Canada is the third largest producer in the West—of about 235,000,000 ounces compares with industrial consumption of about 350,000,000 ounces. Supply demands about 110,000,000 ounces last year. It is generally estimated that production demands will increase. An average price of about $2 U.S. an ounce can be expected this year, and in the long term, prices could go higher.

New Tyranny Of Left

(Orillia Packet and Times)

It must be apparent to anyone who considers the matter that the greatest threat to the peace and order of our free society, and to the survival of those libertarian institutions which are its hallmark, is the growing anarchy in every aspect of human endeavor; an anarchy created by a revulsion throughout the free world against rules or standards or disciplines of any kind. By the nature of things, such a period of anarchy can be only a passing phase, a temporary vacuum; order must be restored if a creative society is to survive, and the growing authoritarianism of Africa, Asia, eastern and central Europe, show only too well the form this new order will take.

Yet if our civilization, the most enlightened and individually rewarding the world has known, is to perish, it will not be because of pressure from outside: Communism, mightiest of the absolutist creeds, is already a discredited force throughout much of the world. Rather will our demise be brought about by decay from within; our society will have lost faith in its creeds, trust in its codes and purpose in its goals. Most tragic irony of all, own downfall will be due to the destructive effects of a liberalism which was once the noblest element in an increasingly humanist civilization.

Blowing gently through the framework of a strong society based on the Christian ethic, with its emphasis on individual values, rights and responsibilities, liberalism was an ennobling and beneficent breeze, moderating outmoded concepts, softening harsh attitudes and cruel circumstance. Today that gentle breeze has become a howling gale, shrieking through every aspect of our life, eroding faith in the values on which the structure of our society was built and destroying alike our appreciation of our libertarian heritage and our will to preserve it. Liberty has become confounded with license, and in its name our liberal establishment would abolish the restrictions of old standards of morality, responsibility, ethics and taste. Throughout the western world, our most cherished institutions and ideals are under attack by a perverted liberalism which seeks, not to replace them, but only to destroy them, and which hails such destruction as progress. Tyranny serves a new master, in the name of liberalism the House of Lords is threatened with extinction if it performs its traditional function; in the name of liberalism students refuse to accord the right to be heard, won at such cost by liberals of bygone generations, to spokesmen of causes opposing their own. In the name of liberalism millions of Africans and Asians are cut loose from paternal colonisers to perish miserably under the heel of jungle tyrants; in the name of liberalism our religion is mocked, our tastes are vulgarized, our arts degraded, our youth debauched, our past discredited and our future dissipated. For the ultimate end of the unbridled envy and hatred of the past, and malice towards its institutions, which masquerades as liberalism today can only be a self-indulgent society bereft of pride or purpose, incapable of governing, unwilling to be governed.

No society can exist without rules. They may be altered or replaced, but if they are simply discredited or destroyed, as our are being today, society cannot possibly survive, save by the imposition of new rules. The senseless, so-called liberalism we endure today must inevitably lead to authoritarianism tomorrow.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Doctor Admits He's Hazy On This

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner: Lately I have been reading about vitamin therapy. Some near-miraculous results and cures have been achieved by detecting and correcting vitamin deficiencies.

If such positive results have been obtained—even for such diseases as heart disease, diabetes, hypertension, obesity, etc.—why is not more generally known about this method of treatment? Please comment on the pros and cons of self-initiated vitamin therapy and of the dangers, if any, of taking too much.—M.L.H.

Seems to me—I'm a bit hazy on it—that there were some claims being made by somebody that heavy doses of vitamins could cure a lot of things. That may be what you have in mind.

Well, don't believe everything you hear. Vitamins don't cure heart trouble. They have little to do with diabetes. They aren't a remedy for hypertension and are not a deterrent to obesity.

Don't get me wrong. In all these conditions one or another vitamin may be used as a dietary supplement when necessary. I have the highest respect for vitamins, and the discovery of vitamins was one of the classic advances in health care. But like anything else in this world, for the purposes which they can accomplish and not delude yourself by believing the impossible.

Some of the cures which vitamins can bring used to seem little short of miraculous—such things as scurvy cured by Vitamin C, pellagra (madness), beriberi (Vitamin B₁), rickets (Vitamin A and D). But keep in mind the fact that these particular vitamins make up only a tiny fraction of the total diet. The rest is made up of other nutrients. Making up deficiency was the correct treatment.

That's the one thing that must be kept in mind about vitamins. They are necessary to the proper functioning of the body, just as food and air and water are necessary. They are not medicine any more than water is medicine.

Like the other necessities, getting too much is not useful. One needs enough food to prevent starvation, but getting too much food never cures anything; it just makes you fat.

Of the various vitamins, only two become toxic when you get too much, Vitamins A and D, and it takes quite an overdose of them to cause trouble. But trouble with them is possible.

As for the others, once you have taken more than the body can use or store up, the rest is merely discharged from the body doing no harm except to your pocketbook, but doing no good.

Vitamins are catalyst, chemicals which assist or make possible body processes. They have to do with growth, lustre of the skin and hair, health of the eyes and various other membranes, and with intestinal function. The amounts have been tabulated as the "minimal daily requirement."

Vitamin deficiency results usually from dietary omissions or restriction (the one exception being pernicious anemia, which is controlled by B-12). Dietary omissions occur with faulty eating habits; peculiar likes or dislikes. Dietary restrictions may be imposed in conditions such as alcoholism, colitis, malabsorption, food allergy, and the like.

So much money is thrown away by people who routinely take vitamins "because they are good for you," that the most economical rule is to take them only if your doctor says they are needed.

LOOKING BACK WITH OLD STAGER

Summer Scene 60 Years Ago

By ART GRAY

In the early years of this century, residents of the relatively sparsely populated Okanagan Mission Valley and its budding little town of Kelowna, had perforce to make their own amusement. Some of their efforts in this regard were noteworthy at times, and of considerable merit under the circumstances, others bordered sometimes on the "corny" side, but they had a lot of fun anyway. One of the ventures in this latter category that took place in July 1908 was a comic "football" game, arranged between the two local teams, the "Thistles"—whose national origin should not be hard to guess, and the Kelowna city team. When the word "football" is used here it means what folks now usually refer to as "soccer". What is nowadays called football is a bone crushing modern development of rugby football, or rugger, as most called it, for short.

The Courier of July 23, 1908, tells of some of the preliminary plans for this comic football game, as follows: "Some rare amusement is promised for Monday evening next, when teams selected indiscriminately from the Thistles and Kelowna will play football as 'girls' and 'men.' The 'girls' will wear approved feminine togery (No mini skirts!) 'The men will each wear a hard felt hat which must be kept on under penalty of not being permitted to kick the ball while it is off.' (There was no mention of other clothing, but we assume they were otherwise properly clothed—possibly in football 'togs'.)

Times have changed indeed from 1908, for wearing feminine clothing to play football (soccer) would not be much of a handicap these days, as quick embarrassed glance at the passing throngs on a hot summer day in Kelowna will indicate. The Courier also informs us that previous to the match, due to commence at 7 p.m. in the city park, there will be a "parade" from Willis, led by the city band.

There will be an ice cream booth in the park and the band will supply music during the game. No charge will be made for admission, but a collection will be taken for the benefit of the funds of the football clubs. "Come along and have a good laugh, and chin in type, on four bits at least for the boys," is the closing invitation.

NO BAND
The Kelowna Courier and Okanagan Orchardist of the following week tells us that the "Comic football match was rewarded with a good attendance." There was one disappointing hitch at the start though, the band failed to show up.

However, the undaunted promoters summoned forth an organization known as the Kelowna Juvenile Tin Can Band. No reference to such a group appeared in any previous Courier, and I have waded through them all, but they seem to have been a readily available group, and we are told that "the motley parade of 'ladies' and 'gents' made a brave show as they marched down the street to the roll of the 'drums'." The game was much enjoyed by the spectators, who cheered the "ladies" on to victory, with the result that the heavily garbed, pseudo feminine soccer players defeated their opponents by a resounding 6-0 score! Maybe the masculine garbed players were too polite and kept raising their hats to the ladies and were penalized for it, or maybe they just had too much trouble keeping those hard hats on.

Actually, much of the "football" was burlesque and entertainment of the audience was the prime consideration. That the crowd enjoyed it and responded favorably is indicated by the report that the collection was liberally supported, "under the spell of the bewitching smile of a fashionably dressed and beautiful young 'lady', the exchequers of the Kelowna and Thistle clubs profited to the extent of $50."

That may not seem a large amount, but fifty bucks was a lot more important money in 1908 than it is today.

The city band, incidentally, that failed to turn up in time for the parade, was out in full force at the park, and played selections at the ground.

CRICKET COMEBACK

The same old Kelowna Courier that told of the burlesque football game, carried a short news item about cricket. This old country sport which had flourished in the very early days, seemed to have fallen by the wayside, in so far as the town of Kelowna was concerned.

There was a cricket team at South Okanagan as it was called, but soon to be changed to Okanagan Mission, though somewhat distant from the original Mission. The report told of a "very successful preliminary meeting being held in the Kelowna Club on Saturday evening, to resuscitate cricket in Kelowna." Some 14 years ago, the report stated, Kelowna had the premier cricket team of the Okanagan. A general meeting was called at the Lakeview Hotel on Saturday night, at which the following officers were elected: President, D. W. Sutherland; vice-presidents, J. Bowes, D. W. Crowley, T. Lawson, S. T. Elliott and R. A. Copeland; secretary-treasurer, R. H. Parkinson; committee, Hardman, Chick, Stillingfleet, H. S. Rose, A. Crichton and B. Johnston. Their first venture was a contest with the South Okanagan Cricket Club the following Saturday. At 10:45 the Lorna Doone left Kelowna with the members of the cricket team to play their first game, against the practices of South Okanagan club. To the surprise of probably both Kelowna and South Okanagan players and supporters, Kelowna was victorious. As a former baseball scorekeeper and one-time coach, I will try to give you a brief analysis of the cricket game.

In their first inning Kelowna scored 72 runs, which was a pretty respectable first effort. I can understand why they don't have nine innings in cricket, it's hard enough to get a game over in one day sometimes as it is. A. Crichton and Maguire contributed 18 and 22 runs respectively, and between them made up more than half the Kelowna score.

Bennett (14) and Mallam (10), were South Okanagan's best hitters—pardon me, top batsmen. The bowling analysis indicated that the home team used a lot of bowlers, Mallam, Thornloe, Pecker, Humphreys, Vernon and Mitchell for South Okanagan, and only Johnston and Crichton, for Kelowna. In addition to the ordinary runs scored by the batsmen, there were a lot of mysterious "byes" and "leg byes" got into the scoring column. Whatever they were it didn't affect the outcome, for each team scored 10 runs in this manner. Kelowna won the match, as their opponents were only able to obtain a mere 64 runs. Kelowna had already won the game, it would seem, but they went on to play another innings, in which they piled up a further 61 unneeded runs. They were "playing out time till stumps were pulled at 6:30 p.m." Oh well, since they hadn't a cricket team for 14 years, they could use the practice!

CANADA'S STORY

Louisburg Trade A Costly Affair

By BOB BOWMAN

Most hockey, football, and baseball clubs have traded players who came back to haunt them. Britain made one of the worst deals in history in 1748 by trading Louisburg, N.S., to France for Madras, India. The trade backfired in two ways.

Louisburg, had been captured by a force from New England in 1745, although it was supposed to be one of the strongest fortresses in the world. When the British gave Louisburg back to France in exchange for Madras, the New Englanders lost a great deal of confidence in Britain. The discontent was one of the factors that led to the American Revolutionary War.

Then in 1758, Britain found it necessary to recapture Louisburg as the campaign opened to drive the French from North America. A huge army and naval force was combined to do the job under Gen. Jeffrey Amherst and Admiral Edward Boscawen. The attack began on June 2 when the first of 39 ships carrying 12,000 soldiers arrived off Louisburg.

The landing was delayed until June 8 by bad weather, and then Brig. James Wolfe led the troops to shore in small boats. They came under heavy fire as they got close to land but Wolfe jumped into the icy water and waited to shore waiting his cue to encourage the troops to follow him.

Louisburg was not captured until July 27 after a great deal of heavy fighting. The fort was commanded by the Chevalier de Drucour, a brave officer who used every resource at his command. He had 2,000 cannon, 17 heavy mortars, 3,000 regular troops, 1,000 militia, and 500 Indians. Powerful units of the French fleet were also in the harbor.

Drucour's wife was also a fighter, and helped to man the guns.

Although Amherst commanded the army at Louisburg, he always gave Wolfe the credit for the success of the operation. It was his determination and dash that inspired the soldiers. Prime Minister Pitt then chose him to lead the attack on Quebec the following year.

OTHER EVENTS ON JULY 27:
1812—Upper Canada parliament opened session to provide for defence against attack by U.S.A.
1866—Atlantic cable was completed as "Great Eastern" arrived at Heart's Content, Newfoundland.
1891—Railway was completed between Calgary and Edmonton.
1898—First locomotive operated on White Pass and Yukon Railway.
1910—Captain Joseph Bernier made unsuccessful attempt to sail through Northwest Passage.
1927—World Political Congress opened at Ottawa.
1934—Finnish-Latvian Pact in Stockholm became the CCF.
1957—Prime Minister DeLoebaker conferred with U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles at Ottawa.

After reading Jeremiah's prophecy of Exile's end, Daniel donned sackcloth and ashes, fasted and prayed for deliverance of the people. —Daniel 9:1-4.

Daniel recalled the people's sins, their refusal to listen to the prophets and acknowledged the Exile as just and righteous punishment. —Daniel 9:5-15.

Daniel pleaded with God to forgive and deliver the people, that He might again be recognized as a God of mercy and power. —Daniel 9:16-19.

Before Daniel's prayer was ended the angel Gabriel appeared with God's answer, calling him "greatly beloved." —Daniel 9:20-23. GOLDEN TEXT: Daniel 9:19

Archbishop Of Canterbury Urges Christian Unity

CANTERBURY (AP) — Opening the 10th and biggest Lambeth Conference of the Anglican Church, the Archbishop of Canterbury today urged the achievement of Christian unity through reform and renewal. He cited the Vatican council as an example.

Addressing Anglican bishops assembled in the great medieval cathedral here, the archbishop said in a prepared sermon: "Christendom has begun to learn that unity comes not by combining this church with that church much as they are now, but by the radical altering of church in reformation and renewal."

And he added: "It is here that the Vatican council has had an influence far beyond the boundaries of the Roman Catholic Church."

Dr. Michael Ramsey, England's 63-year-old primate, was preaching in St. Augustine's Cathedral at Canterbury, ancient shrine of the Anglican world.

As Archbishop of Canterbury he speaks with no authority over the 462 archbishops and bishops before him. But, as primate inter pares (first among equals), he has a special position of honor in the Anglican communion and presides the month-long conference of its 19 member churches.

FEELS FIRST TREMORS

Speaking of church unity, he said Christendom was feeling the first tremors of a shaking.

Which would have seemed incredible a few years back.

"What has been shaken?" the archbishop asked.

He answered: "Much of the old contentment with our divided condition, much of the sheer ignorance of one another in theology and in practice, and above all much of the self-consciousness which gave absurdity to the dealings of Christians with Christians."

Now, as the work of unity advances, "there will come into existence united churches not describable as Anglican but in communion with us and sharing with us what we hold to be the unshaken essence of Catholicity."

"What then of the future boundaries of our Anglican communion?" We shall face that question without fear, without anxiety, because of our faith in the things which are not shaken. Perhaps the Anglican role in Christendom may come to be less like a separate encampment and more like a color in the spectrum of a rainbow, a color bright and unselfconscious."

Some 462 Anglican bishops made the pilgrimage to Canterbury for the conference opening. With the bishops and their theological advisers, 50 observers from other Christian denominations were invited into St. Augustine's Cathedral, hallowed shrine of the Anglican world. These included Roman Catholics from the Vatican Curia, Orthodox churchmen, Protestants ranging from Lutherans to Penitents, Presbyterians to Salvation Army.

The Archbishop of Canterbury has described these as consultant-observers.

The row dates back to 1963 when by coincidence another interim government under Leone exchanged formal notes with the Vatican agreeing to exempt it from taxes on its shares.

The government issued instructions to industries that no tax was to be deducted from Vatican dividends while the exchange was under consideration in Parliament.

But ratification of the exchange never came. Arguments raged for four years between the church-backed Christian Democrats, who supported it, and the rest of Parliament, who were against it.

In February, the Socialist coalition joined the opposition to vote down the bill in the committee stage. When Parliament adjourned in June, the unpassed bill expired.

The Vatican's lawyers are expected to produce many legal arguments to back its claim that it is entitled to exemption by law.

But they face the increasing pressure in Italian political life to break the spiritual, political and economic grip of the church.

Canon Latimer believes the movement toward unity will hang fire unless the churches are involved at the grass roots in discussions on concrete proposals leading to organic union.

"I am convinced that we must abandon the old idea that it takes too long to explain to the people all the details and steps being taken," he said. "If the unity we seek is the unity of persons, then its manifestations must be where Christians meet as persons—the local congregations. We must keep them informed in a way they can understand so that they will be involved responsibly in the ultimate decisions."

Witnesses Attend Meet

One of a series of North American family convents opened in Kamloops Thursday and local residents from the congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses attended. Spokesman for the local congregation, L. Dowler said that young and old looked forward to the information to be presented as a theme of good news for all nations will be considered during the four-day meeting.

"A great deal of emphasis will be placed on the role of youth," said Mr. Dowler. "One of the biggest problems developing in the world today is the attitude of young people to the established order. The resultant violence which is produced by such unrest poses a question as to the balance of sanity of all people. There is much on the program designed to help young persons cope with the unruly, rebellious nature of the system around them."

The Watchtower Society's chief representative in Canada, Kenneth Little of Toronto, will be the featured speaker. Sunday afternoon he will deliver the thought-provoking discourse: Man's Rule About to Give Way to God's Rule.

Mr. Dowler said the subject of the talk indicated the urgency displayed in the Christian ministry of the Witnesses worldwide in seeking out individuals who would like to serve the Creator for eternity.

Other conventions in this series have been held in Chilliwack, Haney and Victoria during the past two weeks.

About 3500 are expected—including delegates from the Kelowna district.

Cardinal Jailed: Now Honored

OTTAWA (CP) — Joseph Cardinal Slipy, leader of the Ukrainian Catholic Church who spent 18 years in Communist prison camps for refusing to cooperate with Stalin's ideas, received an honorary doctorate Wednesday night at St. Paul University.

The cardinal, born in the Ukraine in 1892, was ordained into the priesthood in 1917 and named metropolitan archbishop of the Ukrainian Catholic Church in 1939.

Appointed a cardinal in 1965, he has travelled extensively to countries in Europe and North America.

Church-State Crisis Faces Italy On Vatican-Taxing

ROME (Reuters)—A massive church-state crisis over whether the Vatican owes taxes to Italy faces the interim Christian Democrat government of Premier Giovanni Leone.

Leone held set up the Vatican tax crisis on July 5 during presentation of the minority government's program to Parliament when he said the Vatican must pay taxes on its investments in Italy.

He also said it must pay taxes owing for the last four years while politicians argued its claims for exemption.

The tax and divorce issues are among the most potentially explosive between the Italian state and the powerful Roman Catholic Church—and the Vatican has already indicated it will not submit without a fight.

The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano condemned the move as unilateral and contrary to basic principles of international law but did not explain why.

The Vatican has only 109 acres of sovereign territory which is protected by agreements with Italy. But it owns vast areas of land and property in Italy itself and if it wished to put its shares on the market it could create economic chaos.

The church has persistently refused to disclose the amount of its share holdings, but the previous government estimated them at about $160,000,000.

Politicians believe Vatican holdings are much higher. Former finance minister Luigi Preti said recently the Vatican owed about $6,000,000 in taxes.

The row dates back to 1963 when by coincidence another interim government under Leone exchanged formal notes with the Vatican agreeing to exempt it from taxes on its shares.

The government issued instructions to industries that no tax was to be deducted from Vatican dividends while the exchange was under consideration in Parliament.

But ratification of the exchange never came. Arguments raged for four years between the church-backed Christian Democrats, who supported it, and the rest of Parliament, who were against it.

In February, the Socialist coalition joined the opposition to vote down the bill in the committee stage. When Parliament adjourned in June, the unpassed bill expired.

The Vatican's lawyers are expected to produce many legal arguments to back its claim that it is entitled to exemption by law.

But they face the increasing pressure in Italian political life to break the spiritual, political and economic grip of the church.

Seek Poor, Says Report

UPPSALA (AP) — The churches must look beyond the affluent suburbs and launch a new missionary movement into the ghettos of the poor, says a report to the assembly of the World Council of Churches meeting in this Swedish city.

The subcommittee on urban and industrial mission said in its report that churches still are mainly organized in parishes patterned on village life, despite the great social changes caused by urbanization and industrialization.

Christian congregations usually are middle class—white collar workers and business people—with the number of secure people disproportionate to the poor, whose participation is desperately needed, the report said.

This applies equally to churches in the West, Asia, Africa and Latin America, the report added.

Religious Art Shown

An invitation has been extended by the Summerland Art Club to all amateur and professional artists in the Valley to contribute to a showing of religious art. The exhibition will be held in the St. Stephen's Anglican Church in Summerland on Nov. 1 and will run for two weeks.

The liturgical display may comprise any form: paintings in any medium, masks, sculpture, wall hangings, batik, jewellery, mobiles, wood carvings, embroidery, weaving, pottery, etc.

The only stipulation is that entries must have a religious concept. This may be presented in modern style or conventional manner. All pieces must be original, and no entry fee will be charged.

The invitation is being extended now, so artists will have time to prepare their entries, but in order for the Summerland Art Club to plan adequately, notification should be made now of plans for entry. Entries will be limited to one per person, if space does not allow for more.

Nevada Honeymoon Follows Pretty Evening Wedding

White lilies, yellow snapdragons, Esther Reid daisies and pink carnations, arranged by Mrs. J. Wickenhuis, decorated the St. Plus X Church on July 6 for the evening wedding of Joyce Charlotte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Wagner and Clifford Ronald Ames, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melburn D. Ames of Richmond.

Rev. Father E. Martin officiated at the ceremony, and the bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a floor length gown of white peau d'egyptienne fashioned with a high empire waistline, bell shaped below elbow sleeves and an A-line skirt, bordered at the hem with bands of lace. A star pointed tiara of pearls held her shoulder length lace edged veil in place, and she carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Something old was the bride's veil, something borrowed her tiara, and something blue her garter.

The maid of honor was Miss Marguerite Gay of Westbank and the two bridesmaids were Miss Marilyn Patricia Ames of Rutland, and Miss Lora Keenan of Kelowna. The two little flower girls were Wendy Joyce Dunbar of North Vancouver, and Marcia Anne Wagner of Haney, and the ring bearer: as young Dennis Edward Ames of Richmond.

The maid of honor and the two small flower-girls wore long dresses of green peau d'egyptienne styled on Empire lines with short sleeves, and the two bridesmaids wore similar dresses of apricot peau d'egyptienne.

Acting as best man was Fritz Besslich of Vancouver, and the ushers were Kenneth Yokota of Rutland and Barry Wagner of Kelowna.

At the reception, held in the Okanagan Mission Hall, the mother of the bride received wearing a dress of mauve French georgette with white accessories. She was assisted by the groom's mother, wearing an ensemble of pastel green with white accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white gardenias.

The toast to the bride, proposed by Jack Brow, was ably answered by the groom and the best man gave the toast to the bridesmaids.

A white wedding cake laden with silver leaves and white roses, and topped with a bell centered the white lace cloth on the bride's table and was flanked with white candles. The cake was made by the bride's mother.

Before leaving on her honeymoon to Las Vegas, Nevada, the bride changed to a dress of pink and white polka dots topped with a pink duster. Her hat and accessories were white.

The newlyweds will reside at 8645 Franklin St., Vancouver 16.

Out of town guests who attended the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brandel and Shirley from Grand Forks; Mr. and Mrs. John Brandel, Mr. and Mrs. Don Wagner, Mrs. Ron Dunbar, and Allan Wagner, all from Haney; Miss Diane Wagner from North Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. Tim Hewison from Armstrong; David Storey from Vancouver; Mrs. John McCourey from Winfield; Fritz Besslich from Vancouver; Mrs. Ted Brandel from Trail; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Favali; Mr. and Mrs. E. Commozetto; Mrs. Lorne Biglund and Mrs. Edythe O'Hara and Alta from Kamloops; and Renae Gay, Vivien McCafferty, Judy Copeland, Terri Sanger, Barb Newton, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ames, Bonnie Nishman, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly, Miss Janice Walker, Barbara Edje, Carol Hackman, Alex Foley and Miss Linda Favali, all from Vancouver; and Mrs. Mark Wagner and Sandra from Calgary.

ANN LANDERS

Selfishness Is Often Trait Of The Greedy

Dear Ann Landers: Our 20-year-old daughter met a graduate student at school several months ago. Last weekend she invited Byron to spend a few days with us so he could meet the family and the family could meet him.

My husband and I found him tense, strained, humorless and uncommunicative. We could have overlooked all this since Byron knew he was being "inspected," but we can't overlook his atrocious manners.

The moment the food appeared Byron rushed to the buffet table, piled up a plate as if there were no tomorrow and spilled gravy on the cloth. He didn't look for anyone with whom to enjoy his dinner—simply shovelled in the food and raced back in line a second time.

At breakfast I mentioned this to Alicia and she became incensed. She says manners are not important, that Byron has a beautiful mind and lofty principles and she finds him enormously appealing. Any comment?—BY STANDERS

Dear By: Byron may be appealing today but if she marries him she might find him appalling.

Manners ARE important—and I don't mean which fork to use. I mean being thoughtful and putting others before oneself.

Byron is a pig about food which indicates a high degree of selfishness. That trait may run through his entire personality. I hope your daughter recognizes his bad manners for what they are.

Dear Ann: Ozzie came home on leave last week and I could hardly sleep. I was so excited at the thought of seeing him. His letters were so affectionate. He even sent three batches of pictures.

The first week Ozzie was home he never took me anywhere—just sat around and ate out of the icebox. Also, he never stayed later than 9:00.

I found out yesterday that Ozzie is going with three other girls and his letters to all of us have been identical. I didn't let on that I cared but I am heart broken. I told Ozzie tonight I thought he played me dirty and he offered a solution—his brother.

Ann, I've met his brother and he is a creep. How can I say no without insulting Ozzie? I want to protect our relationship. Please advise.—THELMA

Dear Thelma: There's nothing to protect. Tell Ozzie he needn't provide you with a consolation prize in the form of a brother and that you will find your own replacement. Then do it.

Dear Ann Landers: Our fine young son became engaged to a girl who seemed a little far out but we accepted her as she was his choice.

Several of my friends gave a shower for the bride-to-be and she made a profit of letter than $100. In addition to the $100 she made on the shower, our side of the family gave her some beautiful wedding gifts. She must have cleared over $1,000 in cash and appliances.

Now less than 10 months later they are getting a divorce. What I want to know is this: Is the girl entitled to keep all those gifts? Her people gave very cheap presents. Our side really shelled out the money. They did it for HIM, not HER. Please advise.—FEELING ROBBED

Dear Feeling: The gifts are considered part of the household goods and unless some special arrangement is made in the divorce settlement, the household goods usually go with the house—which usually goes to the wife. Your son should discuss this with his lawyer.

Fund Raising Drive Is Held For C.A.R.S.

At an informal meeting of the Auxiliary to C.A.R.S. held recently at the home of Mrs. D. A. Hindle, Mrs. Susan Meek, public information officer from Vancouver told the members about the drive for funds to complete a single treatment centre for outpatients and teaching facilities in Vancouver.

The medical section of the drive directed by Dr. Frank Patterson already have commenced their canvassing.

"Dr. Patterson has got about 100 doctors calling on about 500 of their colleagues," said J. F. Dewhurst, director of C.A.R.S. public relations, this week. "The doctors feel very strongly about the need of the Centre."

"For the first time in C.A.R.S.' 20 years' existence instead of having space available in half a dozen places around the city we'll be consolidated in one place."

"Besides being a treatment centre for outpatients (those from outside the city staying at the Rufus Gibbs' Lodge), the Centre will provide teaching facilities."

"The latter will be for medical students and doctors particularly interested in arthritis, as well as physical and occupational therapists, as part of their post-graduate training. "With patients being there it will be possible to demonstrate different types of arthritis and treatment available for them," added Mr. Dewhurst. "It also will be a research centre for the whole province, and C.A.R.S. administration."

As an added point of interest Mr. Dewhurst remarked that the new building is part of Vancouver General Hospital's long-term plan. "They're going to build an institute of rehabilitation medicine, right opposite where we've located our new Centre. In that institute we'll be given a certain number of beds for in-patients."

"The canvassing is all being done on a personal basis. General chairman is James O'Hagan."

The campaign committee, which incidentally is still looking for volunteers, hopes to have all its $500,000 raised by Christmas when the Centre opens.

Prizes Awarded at Conclusion Of B.C. Close Golf Tourney

The excitement of the B.C. Close was brought to a head on Friday afternoon when Miss Barbara Renwick of Vancouver won the championship at the 15th hole of the Kelowna Golf and Country Club defeating Miss Marilyn Palmer of Kamloops the runner-up, four up and three to go, before a most enthusiastic gallery.

On the patio of the clubhouse a long table was set out with the trophies and an array of most attractive prizes, and when the finalists came in the players gathered around for the prize award ceremony.

Mrs. H. H. Johnston, Kelowna chairman for the B.C. Close, thanked the competitors for coming to the Okanagan, and said how much she and her committee had enjoyed having them here. She then introduced Mrs. F. A. Walters, president of the B.C. CLGA who in turn thanked the Kelowna golfing committees for the wonderful job they had done and said how much the visitors had enjoyed playing on the beautiful course.

Mrs. Walters then presented the winner's trophies to Miss Renwick and pinned her with the gold B.C.-CLGA pin and, Miss Renwick said a few words complementing her opponent's game and saying how pleased she was to win. She and Miss Palmer were then guided to the prize table by Mrs. Michael Reid and each chose a radio as their prize. Miss Palmer also congratulated Miss Renwick and thanked the Kelowna Golf Club.

Mrs. Susan McCleery, the defending champion, then chose a cut glass decanter for her prize as medalist.

Mrs. Walters next introduced Mrs. R. Sloman, provincial junior chairman, who announced that Helen Marlatt, winner of the championship, had to leave on account of transportation, and she presented the runner-up Joanne Craig of the Beach Grove Club with the silver cup to give to Miss Marlatt. Joanne also chose the prizes for both, and thanked everyone with great enthusiasm.

Mrs. Sloman said the junior team this year would be Helen Marlatt, Joanne Craig, Jan Allison and Holly Botham as spare.

Mrs. Walters then presented Mrs. W. H. Steele, the provincial team chairman, who named the inter-provincial team, Mrs. Gall Harvey Moore, Miss Marilyn Palmer, Mrs. Susan McCleery and Miss Gertrude Beeton.

She then presented the cup to the winning team of the B.C. Close which was won by the Vancouver golf team, Mrs. Gall Harvey Moore, Katie McNamara, Mrs. L. E. Guide and Mrs. H. Cranon.

The winners of the 19 other flights were then called up and chose their prizes, the Kelowna players named being Joan Campbell, who was runner-up in the first flight; Marian Moore runner-up in the fifth flight and Nedra Snelson winner of the 16th flight.

Little Pennie Botham then drew the winning ticket for the money dog convened by Mrs.

R. P. Walrod, and much to everyone's amusement it was won by Bert Tichhurst who won the Ogoogoo Golf Tournament here this year.

Mrs. Walters concluded the ceremony with some very complimentary words about the lovely prizes, the beautiful course and the very successful tournament, and the great event came to a close for this year.

MUSICALLY SPEAKING

To Have Culture Must Travel . . .

With BETHEL STEELE

During the last two weeks this column has had to go far afield for musical nourishment. For the moment Kelowna is slightly inert and since we find it necessary to keep that old furnace stoked if we are to survive we take our live music wherever we can find it.

Festivals are flourishing . . . and in attendance we have run the gamut of contrasts and extremes. We didn't quite make the film festival in Vancouver but we did see the Space Odyssey 2001 with its marvellous camera work . . . imagination and superlative musical score . . . electronic music, thrilling in its impact on the ear and as if that were not enough a Johann Strauss waltz played by my favorite symphony orchestra . . . the Berlin Philharmonic as well as the Richard Strauss "Also Sprach Zarathustra" . . . orchestra unknown. Don't miss this movie whatever you do.

I went down to hear the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra and ran into the musical comedy edition of the Johann Strauss Pledermaus. It turned out to be a gorgeous spectacle but the music itself was a flop since the musical director had no idea whatever as to what goes on between the beats of the Strauss music. The company burlesqued the production while ignoring the fact the play is a satire on 19th century society. The dancing was lovely with the dancers lifting the beat out of the conductor's hands. Madeline Ponich . . . niece of Kelowna's Paul Ponich was a member of the ballet.

The Philharmonic under Antal Dorati was heavenly . . . a feast for the soul. This orchestra has its feet squarely in the style of the three composers performed. The Schubert Unfinished Symphony was lyrical, the Schumann piano Concerto romantic as the orchestra played it but Pressler's piano Beethovenesque in approach . . . the only discrepancy of the evening. The great Brahms First with its mighty last movement was perfection itself perhaps the most satisfying hearing ever.

I came home to the Okanagan Summer School Student Highlight Concerts. My intention was to stay in Penticton for the four days but previous commitments intervened, consequently I heard only the Tuesday night's piano and Musical Theatre concert.

Phyllis Schuldt's piano department of the summer school is an old friend. We enjoy her students because all of them play with a lovely clean finger technique and individual personalities are allowed to flourish. Mrs. Schuldt came off second best Tuesday night due to no fault of her own but because of very poor programming. Her little Chan family shone glowing in the opening piano section as did others in the primary and intermediate piano section. My apologies Phyllis . . . I just got lost after Dana Lordy's Musical Theatre and didn't hear your seniors.

As for the Musical Theatre . . . that was really something. Mr. Lordy is music consultant and pianist for the Canadian School of Ballet and lives in Kelowna. He is a professional musician with roots that are deep in the entertainment field. He is a voice coach with a method based on an understanding of the natural physical functions of the vocal chords . . . his masters degree in music was awarded for his thesis on Science of the Voice. He comes to the Okanagan from Boston and many years spent coaching and as an entertainer well known on the university circuit and the world at large. . . He has been a White House favorite. . . He is a Canadian.

Tuesday night we heard the results of just two weeks work by a group of young people from 10 to 17 with a brace of adults affixed. The music was from the field of musical comedy . . . Oklahoma mainly. The arrangements were Mr. Lordy's and he was a one-man orchestra at the piano. These were no sweetly sweet anaemic breathy little voices as is usual in the teen-ager but voices already using a fine chest tone with a beautifully focused upper register.

There was surprising resonance in the ensemble part singing and each was listening to the other. Already these young people are meeting the demand of musical theatre . . . not just the singing of a song but the performing of it. The singing of Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Child by blind 17-year-old Diane Patterson of Williams Lake was unforgettable in its emotional impact and lovely quality of tone.

It is because of this recognition of the necessity to perform a song rather than just to sing it that makes of musical theatre . . . according to Eric Bentley . . . "a directly sensuous pleasure" and all singers be they recitalists or of the opera genre, should spend some time at the feet of such people as Dana Lordy. As Rex Harrison proved in My Fair Lady his ability to perform his songs without being able to sing them went without saying. He would never have achieved his place in the sun he now holds had he been able only to sing his songs.

The summer school must take a good look at the need to acquire someone to work with Mr. Lordy in the function of stage movement coach who is of his professional stature. The school would do well to build its music department around its musical theatre classes.

And when the word gets around registration will be so large the time element could be lengthened to four weeks instead of three . . . and a proper production staged with the help of the arts and crafts departments. Heavens, the possibilities are legion and exciting. Things could really boom for the school if the board uses its head and nurtures this wonderful "tiger" it now possesses.

Bank Of Canada Approves Interest Rate Decrease

OTTAWA (CP) — The Bank of Canada has put its seal of approval on the recent downward trend of interest rates and strength of the Canadian dollar in international markets.

It announced Friday a cut in the bank rate to 6½ per cent from seven, and the paying off of Canada's remaining $125,000,000 indebtedness to the U.S. federal reserve board.

It also said stand-by credits with the Bank for International Settlements and the central banks of Italy and Germany have been terminated. The stand-bys were helpful in supporting the Canadian dollar during its weakness this spring, but were not drawn.

The bank rate—the rate at which the central bank makes rarely-used advances to the chartered banks as lender-of-last-resort in the banking system—was set at a peak 7½ per cent in March when the world was hit with a gold crisis and there was fear of a run on the Canadian dollar.

The rate was cut to seven per cent early this month after interest rates started to come down in the money market.

Short term interest rates fell rapidly in the last three weeks, and Governor Louis Rasminsky of the Bank of Canada said in his Friday night statement the further cut in the bank rate "was in accord with the decline in market interest rates." Canada has had a long-standing reciprocal arrangement with the U.S. federal reserve system, the central bank of the United States, by which either country could draw up to $1,000,000,000 from the other to support its currency during dangerous times.

Canada drew $250,000,000 of this in January, and paid back $125,000,000 last month. Mr. Rasminsky said paying off the remaining $125,000,000 means there now are no drawings outstanding and the arrangement continues to be available in the full amount of $1,000,000,000 in U.S. funds.

LOW-INCOME HOME
NANAIMO (CP) — Howard Mathews, whose firm won a provincial government-sponsored housing design competition, Friday said his design for a pre-fabricated home should be suitable for people in low-income brackets. Meanwhile, housing experts in Vancouver said prospective home-owners would be no better off as a result of the design competition.

Posties Discontent Seeds Sown A Long Time Ago

OTTAWA (CP) — The seeds of discontent that grew into the current postal strike were sown long ago and identified less than two years ago in a royal commission report.

Mr. Justice Andre Montpetit of the Quebec Superior Court was commissioned in September, 1965, to investigate working conditions in the post office department.

His appointment followed a three-province strike of postal workers the same year, involving about 12,000 employees and lasting a week at most points. On Sept. 14, 1966, he submitted his report which contained 282 recommendations. Titled "Royal Commission on Working Conditions in the Post Office Department," the document has become a key in the demands of the striking 24,000-member Council of Postal Unions.

The council and department do not agree on the disposition of Mr. Justice Montpetit's recommendations. Working conditions remain a vital area in the mediation in progress to end the eight-day-old strike.

Union leaders won't disclose specific working-condition improvements they are seeking in current mediation talks but they spoke freely in interviews on the Montpetit report generally. The royal commissioner also spoke freely in the document: "Except in one or two districts, the attitudes of some supervisors and postmasters towards their employees leaves much to be desired. . . . We heard too often of postmasters or supervisors who consider themselves almost infallible or who, under the pretext of maintaining at any cost their conception of order and discipline, obstinately refuse to change any decisions taken at a lower level."

A post office department spokesman gave this account of the disposition of the Montpetit report's 282 recommendations: Implemented 149; partially implemented 53; rejected by the department, the unions or both 8; under consideration 37 of which 21 were placed in negotiations by the unions; for union action only 13; bargainable under new legislation 22.

WORKERS OUT
NORTH VANCOUVER, B.C. (CP) — About 50 members of the United Steelworkers of America who left their jobs at the Pacific Truck and Trailer plant Thursday did not return Friday. The men said one workman had been told by management he would be suspended if he took 30 minutes off from work to see a doctor.

ROBBER SOUGHT
BURNABY, B.C. (CP) — Police in the Greater Vancouver area Friday were seeking a gunman who obtained $14 when he held up the desk clerk at the Admiral Hotel in this Vancouver suburb.

HINTS TO HOMEOWNERS

Lumps And Bumps Can Be Removed

QUESTION: I'm sure this must have been answered before. But I'd certainly like to know the answer myself, now that it has happened in my home. How can you flatten linoleum which has bulged up here and there. Obviously, there were some un-cemented spots when they laid the linoleum. So it came loose here and there, and easy to trip over.

ANSWER: Make a straight, slice clear across, using a sharp linoleum knife. Other sharp blades are OK but the linoleum knife is far and away the best. Then, with a long, thin blade, such as a spatula, work linoleum cement through the slit, so you can butter it on the underside. When you think you have re-cemented all you can, including the floor too under the loose spots, press the cemented linoleum down and weight it heavily until dry. If any cement oozes up through the slit, wipe up immediately. Near impossible to remove when dry.

USE MILDEWPROOFER
QUESTION: Last fall I removed the canvas window awnings and stored them in the basement. Although I haven't noticed any mildew forming in the folds, how can I be sure?
ANSWER: First open the awnings so there are no folds. Second, treat the canvas with the same type of mildewproof-ing used on sails. Get it at any boat supply shop.

REPLACE OLD PUTTY
QUESTION: What is the method of removing old, dried-out putty and replacing with fresh? I would like to try this myself if not too difficult.

ANSWER: With a pointed beer can opener, or thin screwdriver, work the old putty out. A soldering gun can help persuade stubborn areas. Paint the exposed wood with linseed oil or thinned down, house paint. This is to keep the dry, thirsty wood from blotting oil from the new putty, which would then make it dry out before its time. Final step is to smooth the new putty in place, and once you get the knack of the putty knife, it will go easily and quickly.

REPLACEMENT TILE
QUESTION: I pulled a couple of ceramic tiles off the bathroom wall, as I noticed they were getting very loose. How can I stick them back firmly?
ANSWER: Mostly it's a matter of digging all the residue of the old tile cement off the wall. Otherwise, the replaced tile will stick out farther than the others. Careful chipping with a screwdriver or putty knife will do this. Then simply butter the back of the tile with tile cement and press back into position. Brace it if you can.

WALL FAN PLACEMENT
QUESTION: My stove is against an inside wall. There is an unfinished attic above the kitchen ceiling. Attic has ventilating louvers at each end. Where is the best place for a wall fan to draw the damp cooking vapors and odors outdoors?

ANSWER: If cost is no consideration, a fan in the outside wall would be best, fed by a duct above a range hood. Otherwise, a ceiling fan, directly over the range, will be simplest. Your reasons for wanting such a fan in the first place are very sound.

DROP CLOTH BIG HELP
QUESTION: Please tell me how to clean up a fireplace and hearth which have now become pretty soiled and sooty.

ANSWER: My favorite is still a combination of stiff scrubbing brush, hot water, an old-time mechanics' hand soap containing sand and elbow grease. But it's mighty wise to cover the neighboring territory with a drop cloth or two. When a stiff brush starts flicking dirty suds around, it really flicks.

PROTECT PIANO
QUESTION: When we take a six-week trip next spring, our house will be left unheated. How can I protect my piano against possible dampness?
ANSWER: Unless you anticipate excessive dampness, don't worry. But if you do, I suggest installing a damp chaser inside the case. This aluminum covered, rod-shaped electric heater is widely used to keep damp objects dry. It is very successfully used in pianos near the shore. Plugged into any wall outlet, it very gently warms, dries and circulates the air in confined spaces. It will keep the felt hammers from mildewing, keep the "works" nice and dry. At any good electrical dealer.

ROOTS BOTHER FOUNDATION
QUESTION: I have had trouble with tree roots working into drainage lines and clogging. Is it also possible that tree roots will work into and eventually weaken foundation walls? Ever since hearing a friend speculate on this possibility, I have been worrying about a beautiful big silver maple about 30 feet away. Will it cause damage?

ANSWER: Please relax. Also please leave that beautiful tree as is. Rare indeed is the incidence of tree roots damaging a well-built masonry foundation. The reason roots work into soil lines (through the often unsealed joints) is to get at a source of water. With a masonry wall, there's no such inducement. Or opportunity for penetration.

PAINT AND CREOSOTE
QUESTION: I plan on putting up a white picket fence along the front of our property. To protect the fence posts, I planned to soak them in creosote. But then I was told the creosote would bleed right through the white paint. What do you recommend, if this is true?

ANSWER: True, all right. That is, unless you let the creosote weather for at least a year. Instead, why not treat with one of the colorless, odorless preservatives? Or use metal fence posts?

STICKING CORK
Mrs. M. Patrick of Columbus sends in a useful tip: "If you have a tussle each time you try to pull the cork from an old decanter, antique or oldtime piece of Saran or other clear plastic loosely around the cork. It won't ever stick again."

TAKES FINAL TRIP
GLACE BAY, N.S. (CP) — No. 17, a steam locomotive brought to Cape Breton Island from New York in 1903, has taken its final trip—to the Miner's Museum. The 80-ton engine, first dubbed the Simon A. Fraser, worked until a few years ago at the Broughton mines. Earlier she hauled coal from other pits in the area.

Dief, Thompson Side-By-Side Doesn't Seem Likely Picture

OTTAWA (CP)—It isn't too easy to picture John Diefenbaker and Robert Thompson occupying the same set of benches in the Commons.

But it is going to happen when the new post-election session of the Commons starts, probably in September.

Politics, as the saying goes, makes strange bedfellows. The 1968 election was no exception. Mr. Diefenbaker, deposed as Conservative party leader at the 1967 convention, was re-elected to the Commons in his home constituency of Prince Albert.

Mr. Thompson, who quit as Social Credit party leader in 1967, ran as a Conservative in the June 25 election this time and was elected in his Red Deer riding.

Switching political horses is not unique in Canadian politics. But Mr. Thompson's new alignment has some more-than-usual spice, at least with Mr. Diefenbaker as a member of his new party.

BIG DIVISION
John Diefenbaker was prime minister in 1963, fighting what turned out to be a losing battle to hold a divided cabinet together and to avoid defeat in a Commons vote centred on a big divisive issue—whether Canada should accept nuclear warheads for her anti-bomber missiles.

The result of that vote hinged on Social Credit and Robert Thompson was the Sacred leader.

As Mr. Diefenbaker told it later, and told it often, Social Credit was with the Conservative government at 6 p.m. that February night but turned against it at 8 p.m. after the usual Commons dinner break.

Mr. Diefenbaker insists to this day that it was a telephone consultation between Mr. Thompson and Alberta's Social Credit premier, Ernest Manning, that turned the tide. After the sitting resumed, the government was defeated, Social Credit MPs voting with the Liberal opposition.

In recent years, each time Mr. Diefenbaker brought his version of this event up in the Commons there was a Thompson reply. It would come either at Mr. Thompson's turn in whatever debate was under way or in a special press release.

NOT MANIPULATED
The former Sacred leader always denied that there was any manipulation of his federal party by the Alberta premier and said federal Social Credit had acted as it saw fit and in the best interests of the country. This is where the saw-off stands to this day.

It would be fun to picture the two men attending the same caucus of party MPs, perhaps clashing over what party policy should be.

This won't happen. As a former prime minister and former party leader, Mr. Diefenbaker does not attend caucus. He said recently caucus does a better job of ironing out his thinking when he is not there.

But he will be in the Commons. And he will not be silent about things for which he has a deep feeling.

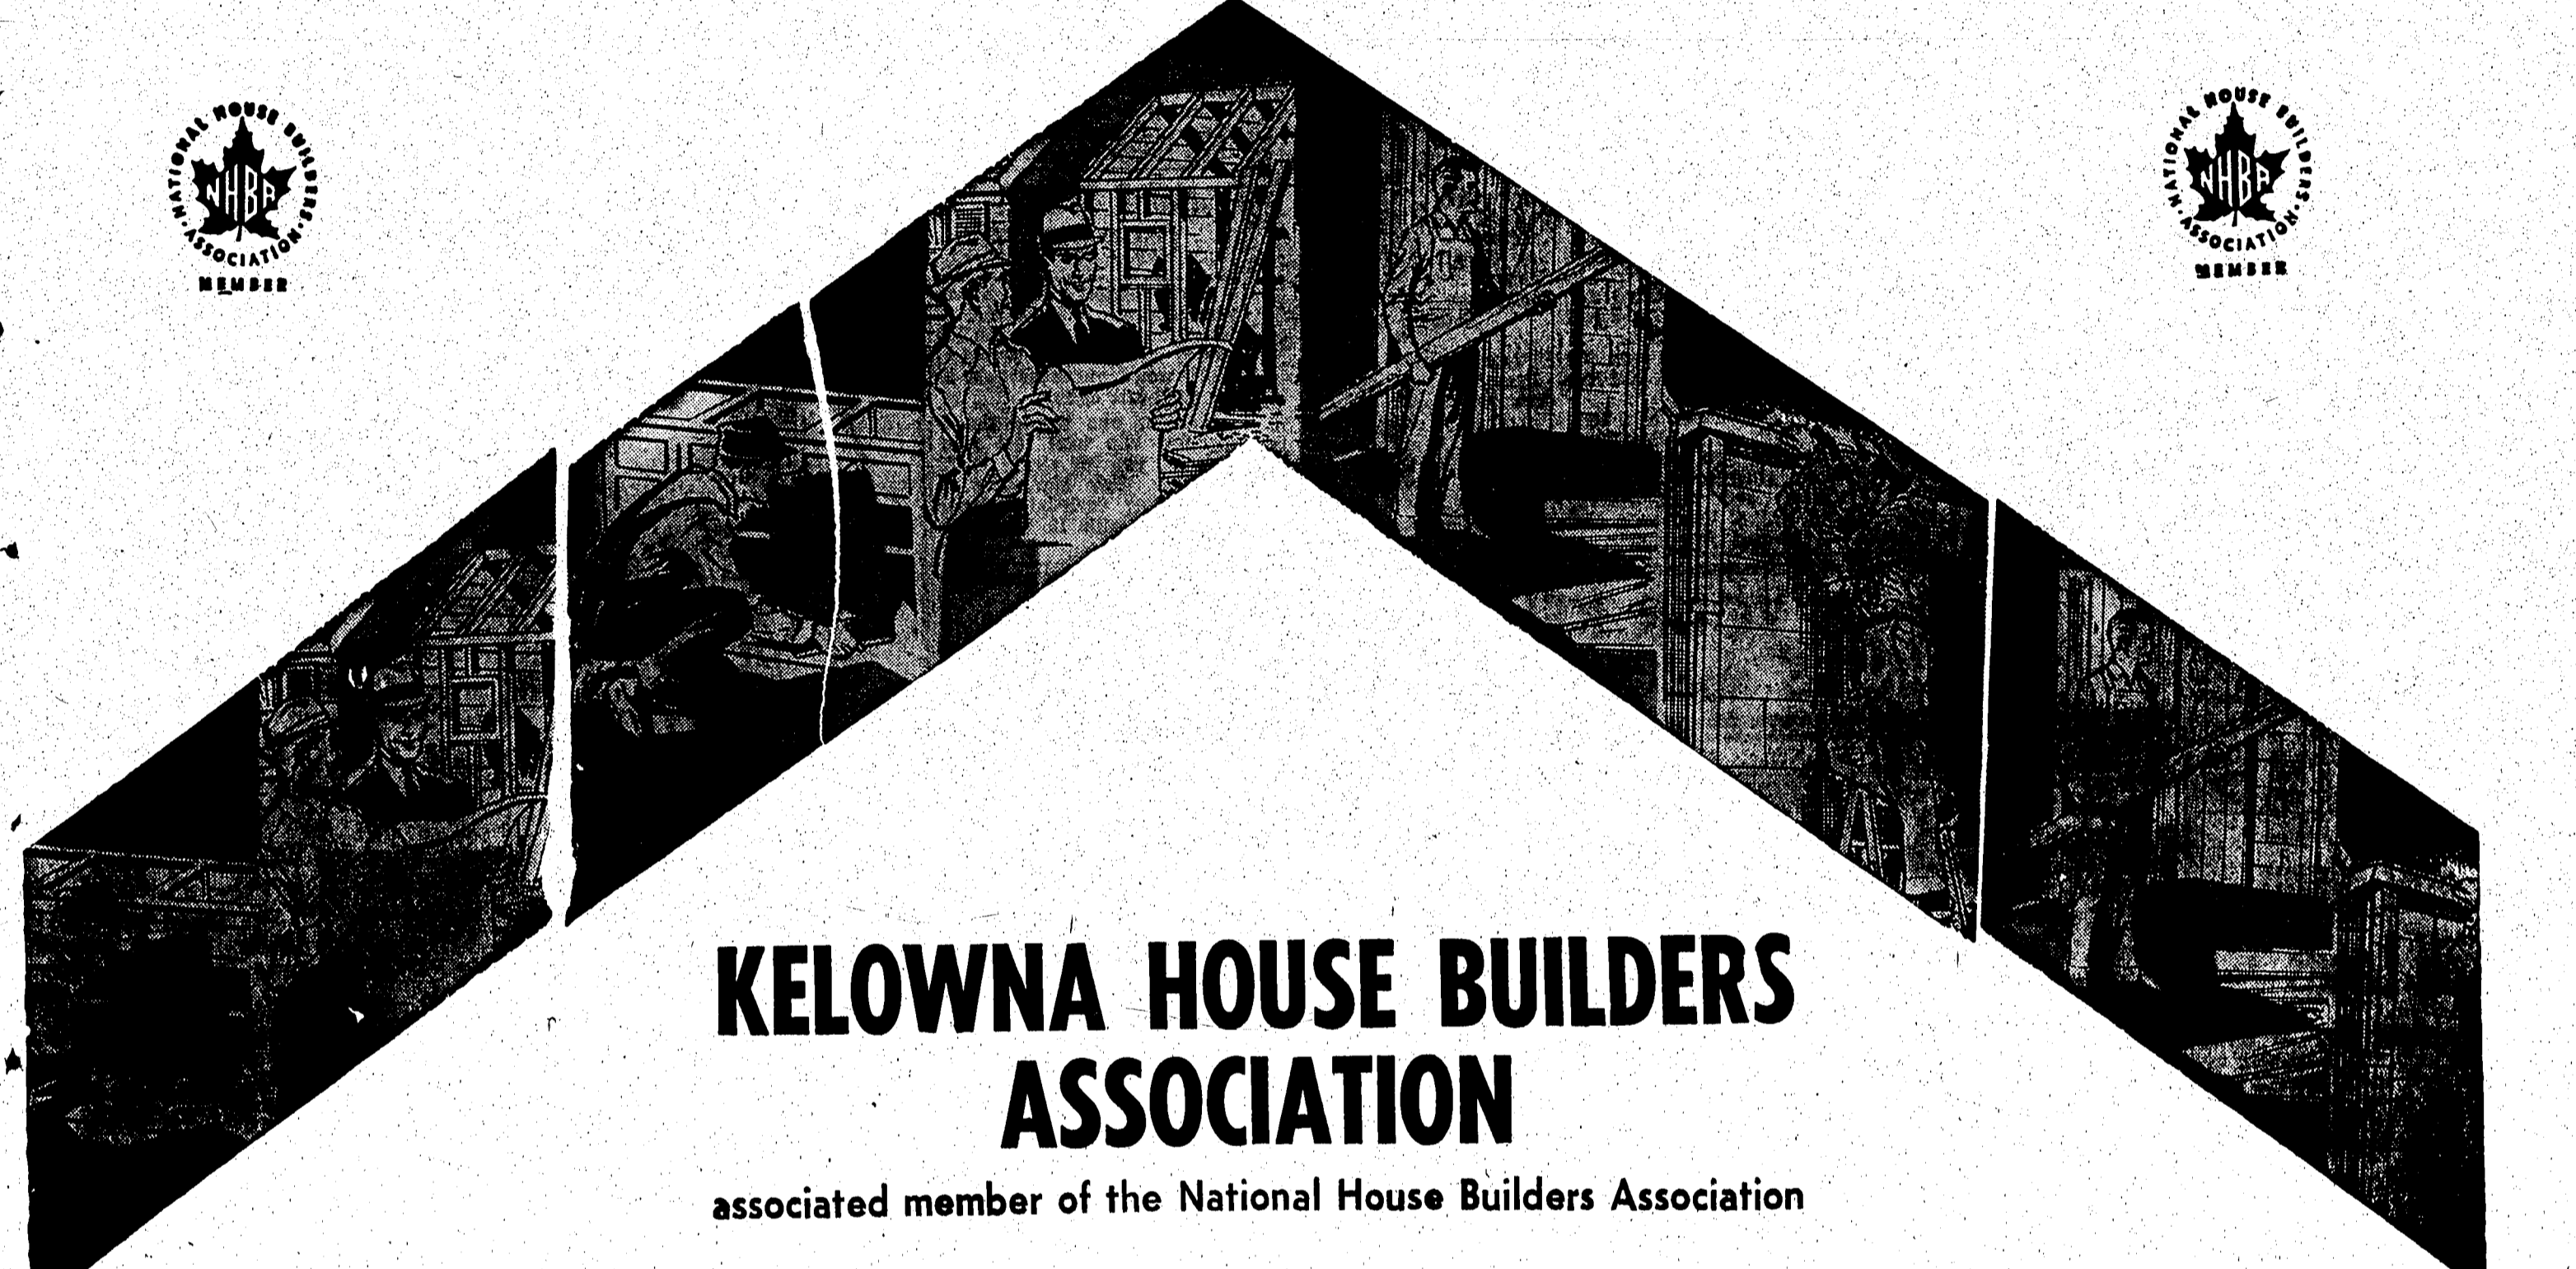

As leader of the Social Credit party, Mr. Thompson used to harp on a need for what he called petty politicking, to be set aside and for the government to get on with the business of running the country.

Mr. Diefenbaker has a feeling that what some people might call petty politicking is the essence of parliamentary government.

He wants to ensure that the rights of any opposition are not trampled under by government and that nothing done in the name of political expediency comes back to haunt the Canadian people.

Even without the caucus confrontation, it could be pretty interesting watching the two strange bedfellows in the Conservative party.

Many Released, Traded As Deadline Nears CFL

By THE CANADIAN PRESS This may be the worst part of the season for Canadian Football League coaches who must reduce their rosters to 14 Americans and 18 Canadians. Numerous releases and trades were announced Friday as coaches struggled to get their rosters in order before the deadline of 3 p.m. next Tuesday. Winnipeg Blue Bombers were most active, making three trades and releasing six players. The Bombers sent back halfback Billy Cooper to Ottawa Rough Riders of the Eastern Football Conference for fullback Gene Lakusik and tackle Ted Collins. All three players are Canadians. Cooper, a four-year Bomber veteran, played out his option last year and tried out unsuccessfully this season with Chicago Bears of the National Football League. General manager Earl Lunsford of Winnipeg also announced import guard Rudy Reschke was traded to Montreal Alouettes of the EFC for the Als' first pick in the 1969 college draft. The Bombers traded defensive tackle-place kicker Norm Winston to Calgary Stampeders of the WFC for rookie defensive halfback John Milen. Both players are Canadians. Cut from the Winnipeg roster were halfback Earl Mayo, fullback Don Pellegrini and guard Dwayne Crozier, all imports; and guard Dave Brown, end Larry Creighton and fullback Chuck Michalski, all Canadian rookies.

Ottawa disclosed that flanker Whit Tucker has signed a two-year contract ending a lengthy dispute about terms and salary. Details were not released. In addition, Laverie Pratte, a line backer from Calgary Stampeders, was signed by the Rough Riders and six players released.

Pitching—Rookie Jerry Koosman, Mets, hurled a four-hitter and struck out eight, raising his record to 14-5 as New York blanked Cincinnati Reds 2-0.
Batting—Hank Aaron, Braves, hit a three-run homer in the ninth inning that gave Atlanta a 5-4 victory over Philadelphia Phillies in the opener of their two-night doubleheader.

Another Record Set With Every Victory

Every time Lyle Hickson and Drew Kitch win they add to their race records at the Billy Foster Memorial Speedway. The top drivers in the C and B modified classes will join about 20 other stockers at 7 p.m. today for a 14-race card, featuring a 25-lap mechanics' chase in B modified cars. Time trials start at 6 p.m. Crowd sizes have improved the past two Saturdays and there are strong indications Saturday night racing will continue during August. The season's average crowd is now 823, with the Saturday night average 809 for three evening race dates. The Saturday average is low because of the 605 figure the first Saturday night, the season's smallest crowd. Figures for the past two Saturdays were 908 and 914 paid.

Renwick New Champion Of B.C. Women Golfers

Barbara Renwick of Vancouver reeled off 17 consecutive pars during the first 18 holes Friday, then went on to overwhelm Marilyn Palmer of Kamloops four-and-three in the 36-hole final of the B.C. Women's Close Golf Championship. Miss Renwick, who defeated Miss Palmer in the 1964 finals in Pentiction, played both consistent and brilliant golf in carding an unofficial one-over par 76 in the morning round of the final at the 6,228-yard Kelowna Golf and Country Club course. Match play scores are unofficial because players are permitted to concede putts. In first flight competition, Joan Campbell of Kelowna lost in her 18-hole final with Dorothy Leighton of Vancouver. Miss Palmer, who won the championship in 1965 and 1966, was plagued by a cool putter and found herself five holes down at the end of the morning round. She three-putted four greens, all resulting in loss of the hole. Miss Renwick played conservative golf the rest of the way and ran her opponent out of holes at the 33rd. Miss Palmer staged a brief rally during the afternoon round but a sudden reversal at the par-five, 12th hole ended any hope of a comeback. Trailing by three, she needed a 25-foot putt for a birdie while Miss Renwick had left herself 12 feet away from a par. But Miss Palmer three-putted and Miss Renwick canned her putt to literally steal the hole. Miss Renwick also won the 13th to restore her five-hole lead. Although unofficial, Miss Renwick's 76 in the opening round equalled the best round of the five-day championship. Susan McCleery and Gail Harvey Moore, both of Vancouver, shot 76s in the qualifying rounds.

Carol Mann Still Leads

TORONTO (CP) — Carol Mann says that a blessing by Pope Paul and a 14-leaf gold four-leaf clover, which she carries in her golf bag, are probably responsible for her success this season.

Miss Mann, winner of six previous tournaments on the women's professional golf circuit this season, carried the clover leaf and the lead into the final round of the $20,000 women's open golf championship here today.

"I'm not a Roman Catholic, although I went to a Roman Catholic school for nine years," she said Friday after shooting a par 3 for a two-round total of four-under 142.

"I received the blessing in Rome in February and my mother gave me the good luck charm last Christmas. I carry it everywhere. It seems to be paying off doesn't it?"

Two strokes off the pace at 145, after a 72 Friday, was Sandra Palmer, a fellow U.S. professional, who said:

"Selection of irons on your approach shots are the secret over this course. The greens are tricky and if you use the wrong club, you can wind up a long way from the pin."

GRIFFIN IS THIRD
Sybil Griffin, also from the U.S., was in third place with 146 going into today's round after shooting a 73 Friday for the second straight time.

Pam Barnett, Jo Anne Prentice and Gloria Ehret were tied at 147, while Clifford Anne Creed, Sandra Spuzich and Judy Kimball were at 48.

Top Canadian was Marlene Stewart Street of Fonthill, Ont., tied with Muriel Lindstrom of the U.S. at 149. Mrs. Street, who tied for second place in the opening round with a two-under 71, took a 78 Friday.

She had been one-over par for the round when her approach shot to the seventh green struck a 10-year-old girl in the stomach. Mrs. Street broke into tears and never appeared to regain her composure.

"After all, golf isn't worth all that much," she said.

The girl, although stunned from the blow, returned to watch Mrs. Street complete her round.

POST DOES BETTER
Sandra Post of Oakville, Ont., the only Canadian woman professional, shot a 73 Friday after a disastrous opening round 79 over the 6,448-yard Bayview Golf and Country Club Thursday.

"I could have done better," the Auburn-haired Miss Post said "I'm going to do better tomorrow."

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♠ 4 ♠ 4 ♠ Dble

Opening lead—king of hearts. Many seemingly hopeless contracts can be saved by keeping a stiff upper lip. Your frame of mind in the face of apparent defeat has a great deal to do with salvaging a contract.

Examine this hand where South is in four spades doubled. He wins the heart lead and plays the ace of spades, only to discover that East has all the missing spades.

At this point the situation looks desperate. Not only is there a sure spade loser, but also a heart, perhaps two diamonds, and possibly a club or two.

But South must try to save what he can from the wreck. Among other things he knows that East has the ace of diamonds, since he could scarcely double without it. Declarer cannot pinpoint the location of the king of clubs, but he hopes West has it.

One of South's objectives is to try to force East to lead a diamond and in that way save a diamond trick. This is not much of a straw to grasp at, but it is better than leading a diamond to the king and observing the sovereign's decapitation.

So declarer stops leading trumps and plays a low club to the jack. When the knave holds, prospects brighten considerably, and when the ace is played next and captures the king, the entire complexion of the hand changes. There is now a good chance for the contract.

On the bidding, it is reasonable to assume that West started with eight hearts, and East, therefore, with one. The blocks now begin to fall into place. Declarer cashes two more high trumps and the queen of clubs. Then he leads a fourth club. If East ruffs, he must return a diamond. So East lets the club win. But declarer pursues his quarry by leading his last trump. This time East must win and return a diamond, so declarer makes the contract, losing, in all, a spade, a heart and a diamond.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW
An excellent Venus aspect stimulates romance, artistic and cultural pursuits; also domestic interests. Plans made now to improve and beautify your home environment should work out very well. A good period, too, for partaking in social activities and making new friendships.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY
If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope promises a fine outlook for this new year in your life. Focus your attention on job and financial goals now since, on August 15th, you will enter an excellent 10-week cycle for capitalizing on present efforts. Progress made before November 1st could, and should, act as a further springboard to further gains during the early part of January, the last two weeks of February, the latter halves of March and May and the entire month of June. Do avoid extravagance during the latter part of September and throughout October, however; also, during the last two weeks of December and the first two weeks of April, when you may face an unexpected increase in expenses.

If diplomatic within the family circle—especially during mid-October and mid-January—you should experience a year of unusual domestic harmony. Best periods for romance: October, next April and June; for travel and stimulating social activities: October, January, April, May and June.

A child born on this day will be endowed with a fine intellect and could succeed in almost any of the professional fields toward which he has a leaning, but will have to curb a tendency to be "bossy" with associates.

THE DAY AFTER TOMORROW
Generous Venus influences continue, so you can mark Monday down on your calendar as a day of great happiness in romance, creative pursuits, whether vocational or avocational, and one of great serenity on the domestic front.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY
If Monday is your birthday, the year ahead promises much ahead in the way of job and financial advancement — not only through your own efforts, but also through the cooperation of influential persons interested in your welfare. These are likely to bestow unusual tokens of recognition and chances of advancement in both occupational and financial matters between August 15th and October 31st; also during the first two weeks of January, in late February, the latter halves of March and May and throughout the month of next June—all this, of course, if you have put forth your best efforts, are cooperative and earn the star-promised benefits.

Personal matters will also be governed by fine influences, as, for instance: Highly auspicious periods for romance are indicated in October, next April and social activities in October, January, April, May and June. Look for fine developments on the domestic front, too, and, even if you have to change your home environment in October, which is a possibility, don't fret. The change will definitely work out for the better.

A child born on this day will be endowed with the qualities required to excel as a literary critic, technologist or entertainer.

Tigers Defeat Baltimore As Crucial Series Starts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Detroit Tigers had some painful moments after Earl Wilson left with an aching leg, but relief was just 13 Daryl Patterson pitches away. The rookie righthander was called to the mound in the sixth inning Friday night against Baltimore Orioles after Wilson and Jon Warden loaded the bases with none out. Patterson struck out Fred Valentine, Brooks Robinson and Dave Johnson on 13 pitches—precisely a 2-0 lead that turned into Detroit's 4-1 victory. The Tigers thus increased their American League lead to 6½ games in the first contest of a three game weekend series with Baltimore. Still more soothing was New York Yankees' 5-0 victory over third-place Cleveland behind Mel Stottlemyre's seven-hit pitching that put the Indians 7½ games behind. Elsewhere, Reggie Smith's sensational game-ending catch saved Boston Red Sox, 2-1 triumph over Washington Senators, Duane Josephson drove in three runs as Chicago White Sox stopped California Angels 3-1 and Minnesota Twins bombed Oakland Athletics 10-4. Detroit was ahead 2-0 on run-scoring fifth-inning singles by Bill Freehan and Dick McAuliffe against loser Jim Hardin, 12-6, when Patterson came on the scene. Boog Powell later homered in the eighth inning for the only hit off Patterson in four innings of relief, but it didn't hurt much by then as the Tigers had scored twice more in the eighth. Patterson, who entered the game with a 1.64 earned run average in 22 games, struck out two more hitters to give him 33 in 42 1/3 innings this season. The loss was only the second in seven games for the surging Orioles. Stottlemyre, 13-7, outduelled Sam McDowell, 10-9, who struck out 10 in his eight innings but had trouble with Joe Pepitone. Pepi drove in three runs with a first-inning double and an eighth-inning single that followed an error by McDowell. Boston's Dick Ellsworth, 9-5, held a 2-0 lead on Smith's run-scoring single in the third inning and Elston Howard's fourth homer in the fourth. But the Senators had one run home and two men on with two out in the ninth. Hank Allen lashed a drive over the left centerfield fence, but Smith leaped, draping himself by the waist over the 7-foot-high fence and reached some four feet into the bullpen to catch the ball. His team-mates mobbed him and many of them called it the greatest catch they had ever seen. Josephson tripled home two runs in the first inning and singled in a third in the eighth as the White Sox snapped a four-game losing streak behind the pitching of Joe Horlen, 8-8, and Wilbur Wood. Minnesota used 11 hits, six errors and seven walks to overcome Oakland's 16-hit attack. John Roseboro drove in three runs with two singles and Ted Uhlaender slapped home two more as Jim Kaat, 8-6, got the victory with relief from Ron Perranoski.

Late Reprieve Helps Braves To Victory Over Philadelphia

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Three strikes and you're out. Well, Atlanta Braves' Felipe Alou wasn't, but Philadelphia Phillies soon were—out of the ball game. With two out in the ninth inning Friday night, relief pitcher Grant Jackson struck out Alou. But catcher Clay Dalrymple failed to handle the pitch and Alou reached first base. Felix Millan followed with a single and Hank Aaron unloaded his 20th homer for a 5-4 Atlanta victory. The second-place Braves also won the second game of the doubleheader 3-2 and struggled to within 1½ games of the National League-leading St. Louis Cardinals, who trounced Pittsburgh Pirates 9-1 and then lost 5-4 in 10 innings. New York Mets blanked Cincinnati Reds 2-0, Houston Astros topped San Francisco Giants 4-1 and Los Angeles Dodgers edged Chicago Cubs 2-2 in other National League action. Philadelphia built its 4-2 lead through eight innings of the first game on a three-run homer by starting pitcher Rick Wise and a solo blast by Don Lock. Atlanta scored twice in the eighth when Joe Torre doubled home Hank Aaron and scored on Tommie Aaron's single. SEALS PHILLIES' FATE Torre sparked a two-run Atlanta second inning in the nightcap when he led off with a double, then sealed the Phillies' ninth straight loss with a homer in the eighth. Richie Allen homered for Philadelphia in the fourth and beat out a punt and scored on John Callison's triple in the ninth. Julian Javier, Roger Maris and Mike Shannon were the big guns in St. Louis' first-game victory. Javier doubled home one run and batted in two more with singles. Shannon singled in two runs and Maris hit a two-run homer. Pittsburgh won the nightcap on pinch-hitter Jose Pagan's sacrifice fly with the bases loaded in the 10th inning. Maris tied the second game for the Cardinals, who had won five straight, with an RBI single in the eighth after Roberto Clemente had given Pittsburgh a 4-3 lead with a home run in the sixth. Jerry Kosman became the winningest left-hander for a season in Met history when he made Cincinnati his 14th victim. The rookie, who has lost five, pitched a four-hitter. Ron Swoboda drove in both runs with a pair of groundouts. Jim Wynn's inside-the-park homer to centre field with two mates aboard in the eighth inning sparked Houston over San Francisco. Jim Fahey keyed Los Angeles' victory over Chicago in the only day game. He tripled home two runs and scored on Zoilo Versalles' fly in the second.

Trade Fruitful For New York

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Eliseu Antonio Vinagre de Godoy of Brazil made an impressive debut in the North American Soccer League with New York Generals. Eliseu, 22, set up the tying goal with four minutes left to give the Generals a 2-2 tie with Kansas City Spurs in Yankee Stadium Friday night. Purchased from the Santos team of Brazil Thursday for an estimated $35,000, he fed Dieter Perau, who fired a 20-yarder for the tying goal. There were two other tie games—Toronto and Cleveland 2-2, Boston and Baltimore 1-1. Atlanta downed Chicago 4-1 in the other NASL game. Kaiser Motaung scored Atlanta's first goal and set up the second by Graham Winston, which proved to be the winner. Tony Gulin gave Boston a 1-0 halftime lead, but Willy Msun, a new player from Ghana, tied the score for Baltimore 28 minutes into the second half. John Daukic scored the tying goal for Toronto against Cleveland at 32 minutes of the second half to stretch the Falcons' unbeaten home record this season to 11 games. With a total of 143, Silverberg was tied for fourth place with

Homeniuk Has Poor Round But Leads Alberta Open

EDMONTON (CP) — Wilf Homeniuk of Winnipeg retained the lead in the Alberta open golf championship Friday despite a frustrating three-over-par 74 during the tournament's second round.

Homeniuk, after shooting a 66 in the first round Thursday, was still two strokes ahead of his nearest competition—Doug Reid of Vancouver and amateur Bob Wylie of Calgary. "I wasn't hitting the ball at all well," Homeniuk said. "The pin replacements were a little tougher and seemed further to the back of the green" than during the first round. After Homeniuk left the course he spent an hour on the practice tee then moved to work on his chipping at the practice green. Reid and Wylie, the Alberta amateur champion, both scored two-under par 69's for 142 totals. Doug Silverberg of Calgary had the lowest round of the day, a 67. With a total of 143, Silverberg was tied for fourth place with Bill Wakeham of Victoria and Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver. Amateur Bob Bradburn of Edmonton scored a hole-in-one on the 18th, a 186-yard par-three hole. Shooting from across a deep, heavily wooded ravine, he used a five-iron to drop the ball on the front of the green where it bounced twice then rolled into the cup. Bunched with three other players at 144 in a tie for seventh was Moe Norman of Toronto, who won the championship in 1966 and last Sunday took first place in the Saskatchewan Open.

Keith Alexander, an amateur and defending champion from Calgary, had a second bad day, shooting a 76 for a 151 total. He was just one stroke under the total needed to qualify for the final round of the 54-hole tournament today. Low professional will receive $1,200 with the rest of the $5,000 prize money going to the next 19. The amateurs are competing for three of the four berths on the Alberta Willingdon Cup team.

Riots May Be All In Head Say Some Leading Medics

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Psychosomatic therapy may be the solution to racial rioting in the United States. Psychosomatic mind-and-body-diseases are those caused or aggravated by emotional stress. Physicians and psychiatrists working in clinics set up in Los Angeles' Watts district after bloody rioting in 1965 say physical disease and emotional stress appear to be much higher there than in other parts of the city. Chief among the stresses motivating rioters, the researchers found, were hopelessness and self-hatred. The cure, they say, is to give the underprivileged Negro reason for hope and to teach them not to hate themselves. This would relieve tension and reduce the physical diseases that cause more stress. Dr. Danis D. Hansen, assistant professor in medicine and psychiatry, says "the higher incidence of disease in Watts is unquestionably due to the greater stresses under which the Watts Negroes live, depths of hopelessness and self-hatred which the average white man can't imagine." To illustrate the power of hopelessness, he told of an experiment with rats placed in a tank of water from which they could not escape. "Within 10 minutes," he said, "all the rats gave up and were about to drown. One was lifted out and allowed to catch his breath, then placed back in the water. He swam for 18 more hours, buoyed by hope, long after the others had died. "Hopelessness played a strong role in the Watts rioting. If everybody who took part in the rioting could have been given a two week vacation at Lake Arrowhead in July—and if they had some hope of looking forward to the same thing next year, there would have been no rioting in August of 1965. "Rioters are really just acting out their resentments. It lets off steam, temporarily, but it is very expensive therapy. "It would be cheaper to apply the psychosomatic approach to give the Negroes more medical and psychiatric clinics to heal their physical and mental diseases and better schools to give him hope that he can get out of the ghetto."
