NEW SIGNS TO GUIDE MOTORISTS

Painting of lanes on the new five-lane highway leading north from Kelowna has been completed by department of highways crews and today they were busy erecting a number of signs to guide motorists. On each side of the road there is a single lane set apart by a yellow line for emergency pull-offs. There are two normal lanes going each way and in the centre of the road is an innovation for left turners. Motorists coming from either direction are expected to turn into the centre lane if they want to make a left hand turn.—(Courier Photo)

Troopers Use Tear Gas In Assault On Viet Cong

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. paratroopers launched a big new operation on the fringe of the Viet Cong's D one and used non-lethal tear gas, a U.S. military spokesman said.

In a major change of policy the field commander had been authorized before the operation to use non-lethal tear gas if he deemed it necessary. The object was to flush out the Viet Cong without wounding or killing non-combatants.

A U.S. military spokesman said the Americans made "significant contact" with the enemy.

Thousands of U.S. troops combed a densely jungled area about 30 miles north of Saigon. Australian forces supported the operation.

B-52 bombers from Guam hammered the area twice before the U.S. ground offensive.

The paratroopers of the 173rd Airborne Brigade landed by helicopter and moved into the Viet Cong area in convoys along Highway 13, near the district capital of Ben Cat.

Helicopters dropped tear gas canisters Dec. 23 and again Dec. 25 in areas where it was believed the Viet Cong were holding U.S. prisoners. The Viet Cong had moved out of the areas and there was no contact.

Non-lethal gas was again used in January against Viet Cong in heavily fortified positions with non-combatants among them. It resulted in what was termed only a marginal success.

The disclosure that non-lethal gas had been used set up a great outcry around the world.

Johnson Said Recovering "Normally" From Surgery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surgeons removed President Johnson's gall bladder today in a two-hour and 15-minute operation. The surgery was pronounced "a complete success" by Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers said the surgery was completed at 9:15.

He said the gall bladder was removed and found to contain a stone. Another stone was found in the ureter and also was removed and Johnson was recovering normally.

The ureter is a tube leading from the kidney for the passage of urine to the outside of the body.

No mention of the possibility of a kidney stone had been made in previous discussions of the president's current illness.

But the president has a history of kidney stones, having had two of them removed over the years.

Moyers said Dr. James Cain informed him that "everything went, in his words, beautifully and as expected."

"The president is resting well in his room."

While both kidney stones and gall stones are formed from materials precipitated out of body fluids, doctors say that ordinarily they don't consider the two kinds of stones related.

First word that the surgery had actually been carried out had come earlier from Joseph Latta, assistant press secretary, who made his announcement at 7:52 a.m.

200 Fishermen Missing In Typhoon

TOKYO (AP)—Six Japanese fishing boats with about 200 crew members were reported missing today in the South Pacific after mighty typhoon Carmen raked the area Tuesday and Wednesday. The typhoon, with maximum winds of more than 100 miles an hour, was east-southeast of two Jima today and moving north.

Fiery Crash Kills Four In California

OROVILLE, Calif. (AP)—A fiery head-on crash inside a tunnel of two private construction trains killed four persons. The collision, 120 miles northeast of San Francisco, apparently occurred when one train failed to pull onto a spur line to allow the other to pass through the single-track tunnel. Both trains were working on the $200,000,000 Oroville Dam project.

Quebec Police Nab Most-Wanted Man

MONTREAL (CP)—Provincial Police announced today the capture of Edwih Yule, 37, No. 1 on their list of 10 most wanted men. He was arrested a few hours after police had captured the third and fourth men on their list, Georges Normand and Andre Daoust. Yule escaped in January, 1963 after being found criminally responsible but insane to stand trial for the rape and murder of a seven-year-old girl.

No Evidence Of Russian "Poaching" Off B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A federal fisheries official said today there was no evidence that Russian fishing vessels discovered Thursday in Canadian water near the Queen Charlotte were fishing.

RICH FLAVOR FOR NEW LAWN

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—When city officials imported rich farm top soil for the new civic centre lawn they got more than they bargained for.

The sproutings seemed long and broad for fine grass, and a sampling proved they were fresh green onions. Hundreds of them are flourishing in the new lawn. The seeds, officials theorize, came with the topsoil.

Indonesian Moslems Hit Reds

JAKARTA (AP)—Young Moslem demonstrators burned the Indonesian Communist party's headquarters to the ground today in a riotous reaction to the leftist coup attempt last weekend.

Several thousand youths staged the raid, ignoring President Sukarno's efforts to protect the Communist party. Known as the PKI and claiming 3,000,000 members, it has been a powerful element in Sukarno's support.

Also ignored was a declaration by the Communists that they had nothing to do with the abortive uprising, led by Lt. Col. Untung, a battalion commander of Sukarno's presidential guard.

The youths, demonstrating in a fashion developed by the Indonesian Communists, demanded dissolution of the party and its leader. They paraded with sheets of "To hell with the PKI" and "Long live America."

Indonesian troops who broke the back of the attempted coup last Friday, cordoned off streets leading to the PKI headquarters and made no attempt to interfere.

The demonstrating youths shouted "Kill Aidit!" and "Disolve PKI." D. N. Aidit is the first secretary of the PKI. He has been out of sight since the coup failed last weekend.

A Jakarta radio broadcast, heard in Kuala Lumpur, said 500,000 persons held an anti-Communist rally in Jakarta's main stadium today. The broadcast said "the rally was held in very tense atmosphere" and "some of the crowd began to shout 'Kill! Kill! Kill immediately!'"

U.S. Rejects Call By French For Two-Way Split In NATO

NEW YORK (CP) — The United States today rejected France's suggestion that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization be divided into a European and a North American structure which would work together in defence of the Atlantic alliance nations.

Wayne L. Hays, head of a U.S. House of Representatives delegation to the NATO parliamentarians' conference, said "France is wrong in its approach" to the reform of the Atlantic alliance.

Hays spoke of the two-pillar structure of NATO which was proposed by the French delegation and said the U.S. objected to this approach because such a set-up would result in a lack of communications.

Under the two-pillar system, the Atlantic alliance would consist of the European countries under one command and the United States and Canada under another, with both groups working together.

Hays told the delegates during the plenary session, "I see no evidence of the French government building the European pillar."

He pointed out France's refusal to admit Britain to the European Common Market and her rejection of a U.S.-proposed multilateral nuclear force.

Referring to French charges the alliance in its present form is under U.S. domination, the American delegate said that under the French proposal the European pillar would be "dominated by one of the partners."

"We have to have co-operation based on as much equality as is possible," said Hays. "You can't have 15 fingers on the trigger if the nuclear war breaks out."

Tanker Hits Boston Ledge

BOSTON (AP) — A 661-foot tanker, with 45 men aboard and a 400-foot gash in her bottom, waited salvage today after striking a submerged ledge in outer Boston harbor.

The U.S. Coast Guard said the Citic Service Baltimore appeared to be in no danger of sinking after riding out a wild and windy storm with gusts up to 60 miles an hour, which whipped up 12-foot seas during the night.

Thousands of gallons of gasoline poured into the sea from the gash which opened 12 of the 32 tanks in the tanker.

The tanker had unloaded much of her cargo at East Braintree and was on her way to Boston when she struck the ledge. She had 238,000 gallons of gasoline remaining in her tanks.

After striking the ledge, the vessel's anchor was dropped and she rode out the all-night wind and rain storm about two miles off shore.

The coast guard sent the cutter General Greene to stand by the tanker, but it was expected she will be towed to safety by commercial tugs.

Dry New York Singing In Rain

NEW YORK (AP)—Welcome rain, described by forecasters as the most important general rainstorm in months in some areas, continued today in drought-stricken northeastern United States.

Stormy weather battered areas in the Carolinas, Ohio and Michigan, with tornadoes, violent windstorms and heavy rain. One man was killed in a twister-which-struck-Ashboro, N.C.

Heavy rain drenched the eastern seaboard, where drought conditions in some areas have reached emergency status.

Parched New York City received 1.05 inches of rain within seven hours before midnight. Rain fell in the Catskills mountain areas where the reservoirs feeding into New York City are located.

Kamloops Boy Saved On Glacier

KIMBERLEY (CP) — Donald Keough of Kamloops was rescued from a 7,200-foot level of a mountain near here Thursday after he slid more than 200 feet down a glacier.

Keough and his brother James had been hunting—mountain sheep when the accident occurred. His slide down the glacier near the Estalia Mine ended when he crashed into trees.

His brother walked seven miles to Wase Lake and telephoned for a helicopter.

Spine were placed on Keough's broken wrist and he was airlifted to Wase and taken by ambulance to Kimberley hospital.

Police said Keough suffered possible broken ribs, a broken wrist and hip injuries.

Slap For Valley At PUC Hearing

Moon Landing Probably "Hard"

MOSCOW (CP)—The Russian space probe Luna 7 reached the moon today but apparently failed to make a soft landing.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, said: "Some operations were not carried out in accordance with the program and need additional development."

The Russians for the first time admitted that the shot was an attempt at a soft landing on the moon's surface which would have meant that instruments would have sent valuable information back to earth.

Tass said: "Most operations necessary for a soft landing were fulfilled during the approach to the moon."

The agency did not theorize on whether Luna 7 may have crashed or been buried in the dust which some scientists think may blanket the moon's surface.

This was the third unsuccessful Russian attempt at soft landing—all within six months.

Observers said the announcement seemed to indicate the unmanned spacecraft crashed into the moon and landed "hard," probably disintegrating instead of making what would have been a historic soft touchdown.

Alternatively, it may have landed softly but was buried in thick layers of lunar dust, making it impossible for ground control to keep contact.

Tass said the scientific instrument package landed on schedule on the moon in the area of the Ocean of the Storms, west of Kepler crater.

Gas Rate Could Go Up Here Because 'Arguments Lacking'

Commissioner Lyle Wicks, of the Public Utilities Commission, Thursday chided Okanagan Valley communities for not appearing before the commission with well-prepared material on the gas rate reduction hearing.

The commission was sitting in Kelowna city hall for the second of three meetings called to hear representations on the Inland Natural Gas Co. proposal to reduce rates to gas consumers over the next three years.

Mayor Edwood Rice of Vernon and Ald. E. R. Winter of Kelowna were at the hearings, along with other representatives of the community.

The first meeting was held in Prince George and that city presented strong arguments that rates should be less for a community situated near the source of supply and higher for those communities further along the pipeline.

Commissioner Wicks said the advertisement was perfectly justified.

"We must listen to representations made to us," he said. "With the representations we have from Prince George we might decide to institute lower rates in that area compared to the Okanagan since we have had no arguments from that area."

Mayor E. R. Bodard of Nelson had a prepared brief on behalf of Castlegar, Kamour, Warfield, Tadmor, Rossland, Trail, Nelson and Grand Forks.

Mayor Rice during the dinner recess of the commission talked to Mayor M. P. Finerty of Penticton and told the commission at the night sitting there would be representations from the Okanagan at the next sitting of the hearing. The date and place is still not set.

Suggestion From Prince George Brings Reduction For Top Users

Inland Natural Gas Co. Ltd. agreed to reduce its rates for high consumers, in accordance with a suggestion by the city of Prince George.

J. D. Taggart, lawyer for the company, applied at the start of the Public Utilities Commission hearing to amend the rates schedule about which the PUC is holding hearings.

The amendments would mean consumers using more than 10,000 cubic feet of gas a month would pay 80 cents per thousand cubic feet, instead of 85, and consumers using between 10,000 and 18,000 cubic feet a month would pay 85 cents per thousand instead of 90.

Mr. Taggart said the company's original plan to leave rates for consumption of more than 10,000 cubic feet per month was an "oversight."

Inland serves customers in the B.C. Interior and North.

A brief from Prince George had said the schedule of rates for which Inland is seeking approval would penalize high consumers in the North, who need gas for heating during more of the year.

"We feel there is merit in the submission by the city of Prince George," Mr. Taggart told the hearing.

J. W. Tomlinson of Toronto, a consulting engineer who drew up the rates schedule the PUC is being asked to approve, said northern natural gas users would save almost 22 per cent over three years if the new schedule were approved.

Mr. Tomlinson said the company is faced with large capital expenditures in the next 10 years, and is dependent on the fluctuating industrial use market to a larger extent than most gas companies.

He said it is impossible to estimate future markets for more than the next year or two, and this "calls for conservatism in changing things."

Under questioning from Ald. E. R. Winter of Kelowna, Mr. Tomlinson said Inland buys gas from Westcoast Transmission Ltd. for slightly more than a U.S. distributor is charged.

He said Inland's B.C. Pipeline would not have come into existence but for the U.S. distributor.

Mr. Tomlinson said original estimates were that B.C. customers would use about 10 per cent of the natural gas produced in the province, but he believes that about a third of the gas produced in B.C. is used in the province.

He said persons who advocate lower rates because of proximity to the source of natural gas are wrong, because the company does not benefit by draining gas from the pipeline close to the source.

Police Uncover Fourth Body In Quebec Gangland Purge

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—A squad of Quebec Provincial Police found a fourth body Thursday in their continuing search for victims of an underworld purge.

The body, covered in quicklime, was in a thickly-wooded area near the village of Ham-Sud, Que., 30 miles northeast of Sherbrooke.

The justice department in Quebec City identified the body as that of Paul Chandonnet, 38, owner of a Sherbrooke snack shop. Justice Minister Claude Wagner said Thursday night QPP investigators are certain that Chandonnet was killed Sept. 27, two days after he disappeared from his home.

Mr. Wagner said Chandonnet played an active role in an arson and false bankruptcy ring and was to have been a witness in cases that are currently before the courts.

In an interview Thursday night, Mrs. Chandonnet, a mother of three children, said her father died last week. "Now they've found my husband murdered." Her father's death was from natural causes.

FACES CHARGES

Chandonnet, formerly of Quebec City, was a business associate of Moise Darabaneer, 43, a businessman who is currently before the courts on charges of arson, fraud, and conspiracy to commit arson and fraud.

Some 36 policemen took part in the search for Chandonnet's body. With them was a man manacled to one of the policemen. Reporters were not permitted to get near the site.

Search On In B.C. Interior For Missing U.S. Plane

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three RCAF aircraft and a helicopter joined the search today for a light aircraft missing with two Washington State men aboard.

The search was centered in the British Columbia interior near Kimberley where the plane was last heard from.

Those aboard the single-engine plane are identified by RCAF Search and Rescue officials here as Eugene Moore, 43, the pilot, and Eugene Ring, 42, both of Bellevue, Wash.

The plane left the Seattle area about 2:45 p.m. Thursday on a three-hour flight to Calgary.

Kimberley airport tower had a call from the pilot who identified himself, but the tower was unable to establish contact.

An RCAF Albatross from Comox, B.C., with a para-rescue team aboard, searched for the last returned to base without finding a trace.

Two Albatross aircraft and a RCAF helicopter from Comox were engaged in the search today in an area bounded by Penticton, B.C. Calgary and the Canada-U.S. border. The third Albatross aircraft was from Winnipeg.

Dr. King Emerges As Victor In Civil Rights Vote Drive

CRAWFORDVILLE, Ga. (AP)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. emerged today in control of the Negro civil rights drive in this small town after a power struggle with political implications.

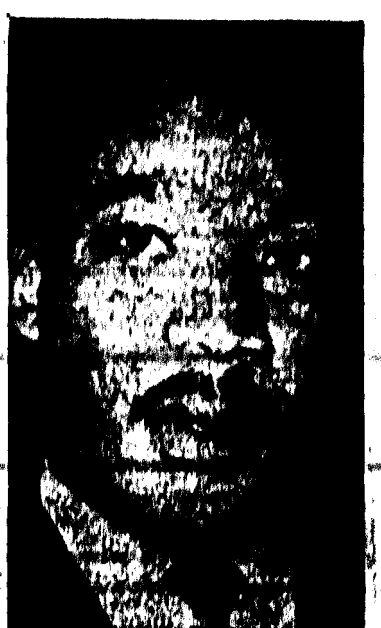

Small groups of Negroes tried once again either to board school buses with white children or block the vehicles today. Eighty state troopers thwarted the attempt. Four Negroes laid on the street but were moved quickly.

Another group tried to run through police lines and one trooper was bowled over but he tackled a Negro youth.

Negroes involved in the Tallapoosa County school integration push voted overwhelmingly Thursday night at a mass meeting to turn control of the movement to King and his Southern Christian Leadership Conference—and to continue demonstrations.

"As far as I am concerned, the movement is out of my hands now," said Calvin Thomas, the local Negro leader, at the mass meeting. "It is now in the hands of SCLC and Dr. King."

In a similar vein, chairman W. E. Watson of the county commission told reporters the dispute is over local control. "Nobody is going to move in any direction until a moratorium is observed, until good faith is shown."

Mr. Diefenbaker said the federal government has denied Quebec support in its investigation into the fraudulent bankruptcies, now linked with mass under-world executions.

Panama's Demands Outlined For Future Of Canal Zone

PANAMA CITY (AP) — Diones Delarosa, one of Panama's negotiators in the talks for a new canal treaty with the United States, made public details of Panama's demands for the first time Thursday night.

Delarosa said Panama has demanded that the existing U.S. regime in the Canal Zone be abolished and legislation be placed under Panamanian control, except for special matters connected with the canal.

Panama also asked services in the one to be provided exclusively under Panamanian authority, except for services to ships, which it wants placed under joint administration with the U.S.

The negotiations started after anti-U.S. riots in January 1966, brought death to 21 Panamanians and 4 U.S. soldiers. President Johnson announced Sept. 24 the U.S. and Panama had agreed to scrap the 1903 treaty and write a new one giving Panama a share in the management and profits of the waterway.

SALVATION ARMY CELEBRATES 100TH ANNIVERSARY

The Salvation Army Child of a Man of Vision

This year of 1965 is the 100th anniversary of the Salvation Army, a living memory to a man of vision, of compassion and of action.

This weekend the Kelowna Citadel is observing the anniversary with special functions. On hand will be the head of the Salvation Army for B.C. and a vast choir of voices.

William Booth, the founder of the movement, was born in 1829 and grew up in an England that was at its lowest ebb.

In the years following the victory over Napoleon, England lay dormant, paying the debt of war. Laws were passed, or were unheard of, the vast underprivileged chafed in ignorance and many appeared their wretched condition with alcohol.

William Booth saw the degradation around him, and, as a born orator with raised fists he uttered the condemnation of sin and from his intimate knowledge of the conditions of the people to whom he preached, his vivid imagination conjured up solutions.

His plan was a practical application of soap, soap and salvation.

His ideas have spread now to a worldwide organization of more than 400,000 followers who minister to the sick, the poor and the lawless.

A far reaching plan was set up for centres of rehabilitation where men could learn the dignity of work, physical cleanliness, the spaciousness and peace of the countryside after the crowded, boisterous cities, a place where men could be brought into a knowledge of One who could break the fetters of the gin which enslaved them.

He envisioned a haven for those who were, "Not so much born into this world as damned into it."

He foresaw the use of waste materials of the city on a large scale. Even the discarded tins, in which the popular diet of sardines came, he foresaw being used for the making of toys on a great scale.

He dreamed of hundreds of workers dedicated to joining a slum brigade to go into the homes of the debauched and dissipated to teach them cleanliness and the care of little children; children's crèches where day care could be given to the children of the streets while their mothers were at work; and a training course in housework for them in off hours.

He wanted a "preventive home for unfortunates."

From children his compulsive passion turned to prisoners and their plight on being released from jail. He called this scheme a prison gate brigade, which would endeavour to find employment for discharged prisoners and reunite them with their families.

Another of his objectives was to bring together employers and workers making known the wants of each to each by providing a ready method of communication.

To the discouraged, the disturbed, the downcast, the doubting, he flung the challenge. "The promises of God are sure if you only believe."

Such was the vision of the man, such is the work of the organization he founded. In all areas of society his ideas are still being furthered.

We salute the Salvation Army on their anniversary. It is a member of Kelowna's community chest.

B.C. Wheels Parks Policy Into Operating Theatre

VICTORIA (CP) — With outdoorists fretting in the lobby, British Columbia has wheeled its parks policy into the operating room.

The government plan calls for wounds to the wilderness but concealment of the scars. However, some conservationists maintain the parks patient stands a good chance of dying.

How does the government plan to put industry into parks without putting lethal maras on the wilderness?

Under a new B.C. Parks Act passed six months ago, a certain amount of surgery is allowed. Surgery, to the recreation and conservation department, means spotting out mineral claims and timber holdings in parks, then waving ahead development.

"You can't throw a man out of his home and you can't toss a miner off his claim," says David Turner, deputy minister of conservation. "It's his livelihood."

PRESERVE BEAUTY SPOTS
But you can't have steamrollers flattening hikers either.

To protect areas of special beauty permanently, the department puts them in quarantine. "Nothing can go in there except little footpaths," says Mr. Turner.

Wilderness beaches and look-outs will be kept screened carefully from industrial development.

Meanwhile construction of industrial roads and plants is supervised by government inspectors.

"We try to keep roads well back from beaches and such," says Mr. Turner.

One of the first parks to go under the knife was 64,000-acre Kootenay State Park in southeastern B.C.

"Kootenay was simply pockmarked with mining claims," says Mr. Turner. "It looked as if it had the measles. So a little surgical work seemed the best thing to do."

INDUSTRY LET IN
Kootenay — an A-class park and therefore unapproachable—was opened to industry by a cabinet order demoting it to B class.

Eight of B.C.'s 2,700 parks now are in the B class. But they are the eight largest, covering about 4,000,000 of the 8,320,000 acres of park in the province.

A-class parks comprise 2,300,000 acres and C-class — small community recreational parks—about 29,000 acres.

The government feels there is room for both industry and nature reserves in the large sprawling parks. But, by law, nothing under 5,000 acres can ever be developed for industry.

"About 2,000 of our 2,700 parks are under that area," says Mr. Turner.

Another section of the Parks Act provides that for each acre of land turned over to industry, an acre from crown reserves must be turned into park.

"We are making a reserve about every third working day," the deputy minister says. "And we have barely touched the north."

While Mr. Turner and his chief, Conservation Minister Kenneth Klernan, exude confidence in the parks plan, criticism has been heavy.

FEARS CHANGES
Among the chief critics is Roderick Halg-Brown, a distinguished conservationist and outdoors author.

"It is not a safe act," he says. "You can vary the holdings of parks as the cabinet wishes." Mr. Halg-Brown says there is no real safeguard against a government turning every applicable park into a class B area.

"We haven't the slightest idea of how the present and succeeding ministers will decide. We need a good strong declaration of policy."

Meanwhile, industry is starting to move. Western Mines Ltd. has begun a major copper development in Vancouver Island's Strathcona Park.

A large commercial resort development is planned in a park on Vancouver's north shore.

In years to come, similar projects may be developed in provincial parks from the Alaska Highway to the Gulf of Georgia.

"But our grand total of parks is going to keep increasing," says Mr. Turner. "I don't think our children will ever have to worry about parks."

Mr. Halg-Brown is less positive. "We may have very good parks," he says. "Or no parks at all."

Binding, Casts Correct Clubfoot

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes a clubfoot? I realize it can be corrected, but has there been any improvement in the method in the last 25 years? How long is the process? Our new baby has a clubfoot.—MRS. A.Y.

There are several theories as to causes of clubfoot, and they all may be correct. There may be further causes that we don't yet know. Whether, in any given case, you can say "This was the cause," is doubtful.

Here are four probable causes. First: Heredity. There are parents, quite normal themselves, who have one or more children with clubfoot. Perhaps the tendency was present, but not very strongly, in the families of both parents. But the combination — well, we can trace hereditary characteristics quite clearly in creatures of brief lives and rapid procreation, like mice, flies and guinea pigs. It isn't that easy with people.

Second: The foot gets tangled in the umbilical cord and is held in a cramped out of normal shape. This might, I dare say, have some hereditary elements. It isn't always easy to be sure whether a new baby has a clubfoot. The odd foot positions and actions of an infant can be suspicious at times when, in reality, everything is normal enough. When the foot is turned inward, it can be especially deceptive. However, if while examining a baby the doctor turns the foot outward and then the foot springs back to the inverted position, that is highly suspicious of clubbing.

Yes, indeed, treatment has been improved in the last 25 years. So has just about everything from taking out tonsils to heart surgery.

The improvements may not have been dramatic, but the results have been encouraging. The old methods of severing tendons or cutting foot joint capsules have been abandoned because they proved unsuccessful.

However, some of the older methods of using casts, heavy bandages and manipulation have given very fine results and the techniques have been refined and improved. Tendon transplants are the answer in some cases, and even more detailed operations on the foot may be necessary.

Two things are important to keep in mind: First: It is a mistake to wait too long, once a clubfoot is definitely recognized. Second: Parents should be prepared for a long period of correction. The youngster may be in a cast for several months. Even after the cast is off, special bindings may be necessary. It is not unusual for follow-up examinations (and treatment, if necessary) to continue for 10 or 12 years.

The final results, though, are usually very satisfactory.

Dear Dr. Molner: About two years ago I had a hysterectomy. Recently I took up bowling and a friend said this was the worst thing to do as it would cause adhesions. Is this true?—MRS. B.C.

No, quite the contrary. Adhesions, if they are going to form, start shortly after the surgery. Exercise does not cause adhesions. In fact, early exercise may help minimize formation. Your friend was misinformed.

"Save-A-Goose" Plan Carries On

EDMONTON (CP) — Continuation of a three-year conservation experiment to bolster Alberta's apparently dwindling goose population depends on the late hunting season which opened in September.

Wildlife experts hope the success of transplanting 141 young Canada geese to deserted lakes in central Alberta will be shown by aerial surveys during the early part of the season.

The geese were trapped by field men of Ducks Unlimited (Canada) on lakes in northeastern Alberta and shipped to waters south of Edmonton where geese had not been nesting.

"We're not sure why they haven't been using these lakes," says Dr. George Mitchell of the Alberta fish and wildlife department which also was involved. "But they do seem suitable for nesting."

"The idea was that if we put some of these young birds on them they might develop a homing instinct for that lake or an adjacent slough and make a home of it."

On some of the stocked waters, "the birds did appear again the next year. But we don't know if they are breeding or nesting. Next year we hope to be able to ascend it."

The experiment began in 1963 when lack of water dried up sloughs and caused fear of depleted waterfowl population. Poor breeding years followed in 1964 and this year.

"We know we can't really stockpile a game," says Dr. Mitchell. "But if we can ease the pressure one year we may be able to realize a better return in a bad (breeding) year."

Estimates of waterfowl population in Alberta in 1964 and 1965 show a sharp, statistically, drop from the long-time average. The 1965 daily bag limit on mallards has been cut to three from four.

And provincial wildlife workers estimate the 1965 breeding population was down 50 per cent from the average. No figures were available.

"We just don't know why," Dr. Mitchell says. "It may be that a lot of birds weren't spotted in the surveys. The estimates may be well out. But there may have been lack of breeding success."

"Sometimes you get so many birds on a lake that it gets to the point where no more nesting pairs can breed."

"Each pair takes an area, a territory and defends it against other birds. No other pairs can breed. The birds are actually controlling their numbers by their behavior."

REDUCE OVERCROWDING
The transplanting also aims to reduce the crush on the heavily-populated lakes in the Brooks area, 150 miles southeast of Calgary, among them Lake Brewster and Louisa and Frisco Lakes.

The geese were trapped in mid-June by canoeists who headed them into net corrals in the lakes. A total of 141 were shipped in crates to other lakes in 1963: 132 last year and 132 this summer.

All were released south of the east-west line through Edmonton which divides the northern and southern Alberta hunting zones.

"We're trying to establish good local populations of geese," Dr. Mitchell says. "The hunting is not necessarily for geese coming down from the Arctic."

"There are lots of local birds shot, particularly in the south and around Brooks in the first week of the season, most of the birds are locals, not from the north."

Mailed Diplomas For Witchdoctors

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Aspiring South African witchdoctors now can get their diplomas through the mail after completing a correspondence course.

On the easy payment plan a three-month course in jungle sorcery costs $60. A diploma "recognized by authorities all over Africa" certifies the holder as a full-fledged Mutu man, the polite name for a witch doctor.

More important is the handy little reference book for any beginner uncertain how to handle his first patient.

It lists various herbal cures for stomach pains, "bones aching," apoplexy, decay of cells, St. Vitus dance and other ailments.

Costing a little extra, a more advanced course reveals some of the ancient tribal mysteries in which unwanted relatives have been known to disappear.

In the shadow of Johannesburg's towering skyscrapers Mutu is becoming big business. Africans pop into a witchcraft store for a new supply of snake-skin, an anti-sickness charm or an over-the-counter love potion.

Mutu dealers only sell the goods. For professional advice you have to go to a recognized witch-doctor. These in turn have specialist consultants, such as "devil chasers." Just at the other end of a telephone.

The big operators climb into the top tax brackets. Sarah Mashele, one of Johannesburg's leading practitioners, runs three late-model American automobiles and a smart modern household. On duty she wears a tribal costume. Off duty she dresses in Paris fashions.

Oct. 8, 1865
Haiti: Christophe, the second Negro emperor of Haiti, shot himself 145 years ago today—in 1820—with a silver bullet and the country became a republic. Christophe was the last survivor of the three leaders of Haiti's revolt against French rule.

Toussaint L'Ouverture died in a French prison, captured by trickery, and Jean-Jacques Dessalines, the first emperor, was assassinated. Haiti had prospered during Christophe's 14 years of rule but his regime was cruel and repressive.

Second World War
Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—Winston Churchill announced the Burma Road to China would be reopened Oct. 17 despite Japanese threats; the E-6's Squadron of American pilots in the RAF was planned; United States citizens in Asia were warned to leave while transportation was still available; British air raid casualties since the war began were announced as 8,500 killed and 19,000 wounded.

Canada's Story
By BOB BOWMAN

It was on Oct. 8, 1645, that one of the most remarkable women in Canadian history, Jeanne Mance, founded the first hospital in Montreal, called Hotel Dieu. The tiny community, always in danger of being overrun by the Iroquois, had only been established two years earlier by Maisonneuve.

There is a fascinating story about how Jeanne Mance got to Canada. Jerome de la Dauvergne, a tax collector at La Fleche in France, had a vision of an island called Montreal and was told to found an order of nuns who would build a hospital there.

While on his way to Paris to try to learn something about Montreal, Dauvergne met a priest, Jacques Olier, who had had a similar vision. From that time on they worked together, and it was Olier who founded the Sulpician order which was granted the island of Montreal.

Their work was enthusiastically supported by a number of rich and devout ladies in France. They formed an organization called the Society of Our Lady of Montreal, and began to search for a suitable person to supervise the hospital. It was not long until Jeanne Mance appeared, and said she had a divine call to serve in Canada. She was thoroughly investigated by the queen, Anne of Austria, and then a rich widow Madame de Bullion put up the money for the venture.

Jeanne Mance was a member of the group that sailed for Canada under Maisonneuve in 1641. She served in Canada until she died in Montreal in 1673. During those years she made three trips back to France to get money and staff for her hospital.

The Right-To-Shirk?

Portland Oregonian

U.S. senators thought to favor banning "right-to-work" laws are getting the needle from a waggish outfit called the "Affiliated Taxpayers Organization."

ATO, the impish brainchild of a Los Angeles joker, demands the pro-repeal senators also support legislation that would force every taxpayer to join a taxpayers' organization working in his behalf.

The "legislative secretary" of ATO calls himself "Morand More," and he argues that since each taxpayer benefits from the work of groups striving to keep taxes down, there should be an end to any taxpayers' "right-to-shirk" membership in organizations representing him.

"Forcing workers to join unions that represent them, through repeal of Section 14 (b) of the Taft-Hartley Act, establishes a precedent for the ATO Protective Law," Mr. More told the senators.

Further, he complains: "Many taxpayers still refuse to join a taxpayers' organization. Their phony argument is that they have a right to shirk membership in such organizations, even if helped by them. Freedom! This inequity must end! The right-to-shirk must go!"

The ATO may not be the subtlest lobby in the Senate but it does get a point across.

In Passing

"If the inflationary trend continues (and there seem to be indications that it will), it will take from $35,000 to $45,000 to raise and educate a child born today," says a leading economist. This prediction should have considerable effect in slowing down over-population.

The person who practices what he preaches usually doesn't have much time for preaching.

"A person is as old as his legs," says a physician. Of course—nobody was ever born in installments.

It always pays to be honest but from a monetary standpoint it often pays far less than it costs.

Not only do a lot of highways need to be broadened, but due to an increasing number of boats being towed by cars they need to be lengthened.

Many a person who sat around and waited for his ship to come in wound up as beach comber.

Truth is stranger than fiction—and sometimes these days it seems it's also much rarer.

It's such a difficult task for a lot of people to tear themselves out of bed that they're too tired to eat breakfast.

A researcher says a woman's snoring is louder than a man's. Yes, and her denial that she snores is also louder.

Two of the lovely formal evening gowns modelled at Canadiana '65 are shown above. On the left is Mrs. David Williamson wearing an exquisite white gown of shimmering sequins in a tiered waterfall design set off with a shimmering tulle worn on her very smart hairdo, and, at right, is Mrs. Kenneth Talbot modelling a dress of elegant simplicity with a white tulle-trimmed at the high Empire waistline with beaded, and featuring a long, slim, slit skirt of heavenly blue peau de soie. Over her shoulders is an evening stole of white fur.

Against a setting of softly lighted screens and hanging silver balls the models walked down the central ramp on stage and out onto a short ramp which protruded among the front seats. Everyone had an excellent view of all the creations, and the models really superb. Posed and glamorous with charming and fashionable hair styling by Southeast House of Beauty and the Flamingo of Capri, they could all have been professional models with years of experience due to their excellent coaching by Betty Curran, co-ordinator of the show. Jewellery, loaned for the occasion by James Hayward and Son, set off their dresses to perfection with just the right clips, bracelets and necklaces, and the make-up from Dyck's drugs was perfectly applied.

Modelling for the occasion were Irene Adams, Marge Lawrence, Amy Lobb, Audrey Bennett, Babe Capozzi, Betty Curran, Olive Fawkes, Dora Elton, Shirley Peacock, Daphne Talbot, Joyce Wilkinson, Ann Williamson, Dorothy White, Susan Ayndley, Marcia Ferrow and Jamie Brown.

To open the show the master of ceremonies introduced the commentator Diana Ricardo, who thanked the auxiliary for the warm hospitality she had received in Kelowna. The fashion parade then began with three fashionably smart theatre suits. Ann Williamson, wearing a French pouffe, looked just like an illustration from Vogue in a dinner suit of black brocade featuring a white mink collar. She was followed by Babe Capozzi, also leading a Williamson pouffe, and modelling a black brocade model with a three quarter length jacket slightly flared and banded with white mink and the third row of the trio was Betty Curran wearing a suit of plum colored velvet set off with a big pink rose, pink peau de soie piping, and three quarter length sleeves flared from the elbow.

COAT AND SUIT The show continued with a display of fall and winter coats worn over smart basic dresses. Most of the coats featured glamorous fur collars, and some were designed with swinging backs, others on straight lines with slightly nipped in waists and diagonal inset pockets. One particularly stunning coat, modelled by Daphne Talbot, had a large soft Norwegian fox collar, a full swinging back, and was made of the new velveteen material which resembles cut velvet. Another outfit worn by Dorothy White was announced as "Black Magic," had a fur cape collar, and was worn over a two-piece black dress styled with a felt bow at the neck and a subburst design of seaming at the front waistline. The mating of blue and green is a favorite color combination this year, we learned, and camel hair is high fashion once again.

Double-knit and boucle suits followed in jewelled colors, mostly featuring the cardinal look, and after the same delicate lingerie, nighties and negligees in pastel shades and one dramatic black lace number with a flamingo air. Then came girdles with the models holding their faces as they showed the newest creations and made many of the audience ache with envy of their lovely figures.

Day suits were then shown, with new interest in their swinging lacking skirts. It will be delightful to be able to sit down again in comfort during the afternoon. One very attractive afternoon ensemble, modelled by Joyce Wilkinson, featured a poncho cape of charcoal and white checked wool worn over a slim charcoal sheath.

THE CASUAL LOOK Next came the casual look with stretch slims and post-mate sweaters embroidered in whirlpools of colors. One exquisite sweater from Hong Kong was a soft pink wool sparkling with embroidery, pearls, and sequins, shown with matching slims, but eminently suitable to wear with a dressy skirt or even a long formal.

Medical Student Works On Child Killer Disease

VANCOUVER (CP)—A first-year medical student from the University of Manitoba spent the summer here doing vital research into a disease that rivals cancer as a killer of children under 15.

Earl Goodman, 21, has studied more than 200 children and adults to see how cystic fibrosis is passed from parent to offspring, trying to identify carriers of the disease in the amount of salt they excrete when perspiring. Cystic fibrosis is a disease characterized by thick mucus which clogs the lungs and affects digestion. Complications may lead to death if it is not diagnosed and treated early.

Mr. Goodman said analysis of perspiration can help medical researchers make predictions about inherited characteristics of cystic fibrosis. "It makes it possible to tell prospective parents what their chances of having children with cystic fibrosis will be," he said. His supervisor, former Winnipeg Dr. Sydney Francis, said of the student, "He's very independent and seems to have covered the ground required to get very usable results."

Mr. Goodman's work was sponsored by the Canadian Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. Dr. Francis, head of the pediatrics department at the University of British Columbia, arranged to have him work at Vancouver's Children's Hospital.

CARDS MEAN PROFIT The United Nations Children's Fund sold 38,000,000 Christmas cards in 1961 for a profit of $2,400,000.

TOPS IN LUXURY

Luxurious chinchilla combines with the finest of velvet in this sophisticated evening hat designed by Emme. Very dramatic in conception, it is certain to draw many an ad-mirring glance. From the chinchilla headpiece flows a shirred velvet strand that completely covers the back of the head and extends to the shoulders.

ANN LANDERS Father-in-Law's Choice Must Be Accepted

Dear Ann Landers: My father-in-law has been a widower since 1955. He hoped he would marry one of the fine women he has been taking out because he will be 60 years of age.

Last night he brought over a knock-kneed, blonde who wore white lipstick, no eyebrows, and a red dress cut down to her navel. His first words were, "Meet the wife." My husband almost passed out. Finally he said, "Are you Dizzy Doris?" She giggled and answered, "Yes, but you can call me Mother."

Ann, my husband used to go to school with that girl. She is two years younger than he is. He couldn't stand her then and he doesn't want her in our house now. I'm trying to keep peace in the family. Please help me. —BEFUDDLED

Dear B: Since Doris is obviously your father-in-law's choice, Dizzy though she may be, you should both accept her. Keep the relationship on an invitation-only basis. Follow the directions on the jar of salad dressing. "Keep cool, but don't freeze."

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl 17. Last Sunday our preacher's sermon was on teenage drinking. He asked all teenagers to come to the front of the church and swear before God that they would not drink liquor before they reached their 21st birthday.

I do not drink and I don't plan to—even after I am 21—but I didn't feel like going up there in front of all those people. A night four kids who took the oath bought a bottle of whiskey and got loaded after a ball game. I was disgusted with them. They will all be in church Sunday like nothing happened.

This morning my mother said she was disappointed in me because I didn't take the oath. She wants me to do it tomorrow. I don't want to. What is your opinion? —NO HYPOCRISY

Dear N: The only thing about an oath that matters is whether or not you keep it. Some people need an incentive—like a public declaration. Others need nothing except a strong set of convictions.

If you don't feel comfortable about taking the oath, don't do it. From the tone of your letter I'd bet my bottom dollar on you—oath or no oath.

Dear Ann Landers: You won't print my letter because it goes against your advice which is OK for light reading but people can't live by it.

After 18 years of marriage I was bored with my wife, the kids, my in-laws and my Tuesday night bridge game. I met a young woman who made me feel like I had some red blood in my veins. We managed to get together four nights a week. We took some nice little trips.

Some big mouth told my wife. She made it plain she wasn't going to break up our home just because I was off my nut. She said she hoped I regained my sense before the kids got wind of what was going on. After a few months the fire was out. When I told my wife her only comment was, "It's about time."

I know now I'll never step out again. My wife handled it just right. She didn't throw a fit or nag me, she just let me run out my string. Now everyone is happy and no one was hurt. So you see, I DO have a point. Don't LISTEN!

Dear Buster: Yes, you've got a point but if you comb your hair over to the side it may not show.

OK, so your wife didn't slash her wrist. That doesn't mean she didn't agonize plenty. You are lucky to have a woman who had the strength and courage to ride out the storm. Luckier than you deserve.

Twin Girls Born Minutes After Mother's Death
SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Twin girls were born by cesarean-section Sunday—minutes after their 39-year-old mother died of a cerebral hemorrhage. Mrs. Barbara Walsh was stricken at her home in nearby Agawam about 3 a.m. She died in hospital at 5:40 a.m. and Dr. J. W. Morgan delivered the first baby at 3:42 and the second child at 3:43 a.m. Dr. Morgan said the girls "are doing quite well." Mrs. Walsh was about eight months pregnant. Dr. Morgan said that after about five minutes, the lack of oxygen would have killed the infants.

Try Bonded Stock on a friend without letting him see the label

It's the best way to find out what people really think about a whisky: how do they like it when they don't know which brand they're drinking?

If you've tried Bonded Stock yourself, the playback won't surprise you. Bonded Stock is a great Canadian whisky. You can conceal the label but you can't disguise the flavour. It's an extremely mellow whisky with a deceptively smooth flavour.

The other thing that's deceptive about Bonded Stock is its price. But the price doesn't fool people with taste. Bonded Stock's sensible price is a sort of bonus you get for good judgment. And what could be fairer than that?

Brilliant Charity Fashion Show Presented By Kelowna Junior Hospital Auxiliary

By FLORA EVANS
Centre Women's Editor

The Kelowna Junior Hospital Auxiliary are indeed to be congratulated on the brilliant success of Canadiana '65, their Charity Fashion Show, which was presented to a capacity audience on Wednesday evening at the Kelowna Community Theatre.

The show went off with a high professional flair, the constant changes of pace holding the audience interest at all times, and an excellent commentary by Diana Ricardo of Vancouver added glamour to the occasion. David Sparrow acted as MC and the program was provided by Isabel Crelin.

Against a setting of softly lighted screens and hanging silver balls the models walked down the central ramp on stage and out onto a short ramp which protruded among the front seats. Everyone had an excellent view of all the creations, and the models really superb. Posed and glamorous with charming and fashionable hair styling by Southeast House of Beauty and the Flamingo of Capri, they could all have been professional models with years of experience due to their excellent coaching by Betty Curran, co-ordinator of the show. Jewellery, loaned for the occasion by James Hayward and Son, set off their dresses to perfection with just the right clips, bracelets and necklaces, and the make-up from Dyck's drugs was perfectly applied.

Modelling for the occasion were Irene Adams, Marge Lawrence, Amy Lobb, Audrey Bennett, Babe Capozzi, Betty Curran, Olive Fawkes, Dora Elton, Shirley Peacock, Daphne Talbot, Joyce Wilkinson, Ann Williamson, Dorothy White, Susan Ayndley, Marcia Ferrow and Jamie Brown.

To open the show the master of ceremonies introduced the commentator Diana Ricardo, who thanked the auxiliary for the warm hospitality she had received in Kelowna. The fashion parade then began with three fashionably smart theatre suits. Ann Williamson, wearing a French pouffe, looked just like an illustration from Vogue in a dinner suit of black brocade featuring a white mink collar. She was followed by Babe Capozzi, also leading a Williamson pouffe, and modelling a black brocade model with a three quarter length jacket slightly flared and banded with white mink and the third row of the trio was Betty Curran wearing a suit of plum colored velvet set off with a big pink rose, pink peau de soie piping, and three quarter length sleeves flared from the elbow.

Most of the coats featured glamorous fur collars, and some were designed with swinging backs, others on straight lines with slightly nipped in waists and diagonal inset pockets. One particularly stunning coat, modelled by Daphne Talbot, had a large soft Norwegian fox collar, a full swinging back, and was made of the new velveteen material which resembles cut velvet. Another outfit worn by Dorothy White was announced as "Black Magic," had a fur cape collar, and was worn over a two-piece black dress styled with a felt bow at the neck and a subburst design of seaming at the front waistline. The mating of blue and green is a favorite color combination this year, we learned, and camel hair is high fashion once again.

One very attractive afternoon ensemble, modelled by Joyce Wilkinson, featured a poncho cape of charcoal and white checked wool worn over a slim charcoal sheath.

THE CASUAL LOOK Next came the casual look with stretch slims and post-mate sweaters embroidered in whirlpools of colors. One exquisite sweater from Hong Kong was a soft pink wool sparkling with embroidery, pearls, and sequins, shown with matching slims, but eminently suitable to wear with a dressy skirt or even a long formal.

What is new to a fashionist's eye, added a light touch to this picture when Susan Ayndley breezed onto the ramp wearing an Italian sweater trimmed with velvet crochets, a matching tam and blending stretch slims. Marge Lawrence modelled a quilted reversible coat and one model appeared carrying a remarkable toy lion.

FUTURISTIC FASHIONS The first portion of the show was then concluded with the Donat Fashion for 1966, presented to Kelownians by the B&J, and who can say whether or not the models will set wear black and silver space suits and helmets in place of the basic black dress, or have their status as workers marked by the color of their tunics, entertain their guests in gold lame with floating winglike hair interest, or sail pills to burn their complexions into the same color as their cashmere and the commentator suggested? Even the children will wear space suits, she said, and Heather and Peter Birch-Jones certainly looked adorable in theirs.

Mrs. Louis Rampone, president of the auxiliary, opened the second half of the show with a few words of thanks to Kelownians for their wonderful support of the auxiliary which enables them to raise money for the Kelowna General Hospital and thanked the Kelowna merchants for their assistance. A large bouquet is due Mrs. Robert Bleicher, we must add, for the very glamorous fashions presented by Heathers, and to the management of the Hudson's Bay Company for the beautiful display of furs they brought to Kelowna for the occasion. David Sparrow then drew a number of delightful door prizes which were presented to the winners by Diana Ricardo.

SUEDES AND SPORTS OUTFITS The new look in suedes was then presented, with Irene Adams showing a stunning cherry red suit, featuring a high style long tailored jacket with diagonal pockets and a straight skirt. She was followed by Shirley Peacock wearing a smart brown suede flying outfit of military cut featuring silver buttons, and Marge Lawrence modelling a delectable suede coat in a soft moss green.

Sports outfits then demonstrated what the well dressed curler, archer, golfer and skier should wear, highlights being a Robin Hood hat of seal skin for the archer, gorgeously warm and becoming sweaters and reversible jackets for all forms of sport, knickerbocker pants for the skier and sealskin after ski boots. Marcia Ferrow looked very smart in a ski outfit featuring a sweater with a powder blue front and navy back, a matching cap, and powder blue Wagner ski pants. After seeing these truly lovely outfits from Days Sport Shop, we feel that Kelowna sport addicts should be able to hold their own, in appearance at least, with any visitor from anywhere. The hero of the ski slopes was Jamie over-skirt, high waistline and cap sleeves modelled by her Princess.

FORMAL EVENING GOWNS Formal evening gowns concluded the fashion show, and these lovely gowns featured a great deal of beading. One in lime green quilted satin was accented with a huge purple "mum"; a powder puff pink formal of lustre satin with a long Rajah jacket stressing the Eastern influence. A good satin model featured a ribbon lace bodice above the high waistline edged with gold beads and a white beaded gown in a waterfall design with an over-bow effect was worn with a rhinestone tulle by Ann Williamson, to conclude Canadiana '65.

Hours and hours of hard work by the auxiliary must have gone into the making of this fashion show, hours of thought and selection by the merchants whose models were so elegantly displayed, and the brilliant success of the venture was well deserved by everyone concerned as a final conclusion to the evening the auxiliary was met at a delightful coffee party in honor of Diana Ricardo and the charming models, held at the Curling Club.

Swinging party dresses for the younger set were then shown by Marcia Ferrow and Susan Ayndley. One short demure evening dress of lace over tulle with a high beaded waistline was particularly lovely as modelled by our Lady-of-the-Lake, as was an evening dress of rose pink set off with a floating chiffon swimsuit, high waistline and cap sleeves modelled by her Princess.

MANGLED MAXIMS MAKE HER FAMOUS

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Schoolgirl Tessa Tracy's mangled maxims have made her a sudden celebrity.

Tessa, 17, is an attractive blonde long famous among family and friends for cunning puns and fractured phrases like:

"He's nothing but a liar and prefacebricator." "It's so rheumatic to eat by candlelight."

Through the years her mother took notes and recently the Santa Barbara News-Press printed The Collected Sayings of Miss Tessa Tracy. A Born Malapropist.

The Associated Press carried them. Now Tessa's getting letters from appreciative readers from all over the continent. Many echo her style.

A professor of etymology at the University of California sent "best wishes for your continued excess."

Tessa, replying, asked the professor, "Is etymology myology, too?"

An Arizonan wrote her from Phoenix: "I have been so set-up and nervous recently that I think the only real smart elevator for my needs is to describe to you how I feel. I am one of your 'mangled' to Tessa's wit."

She returned the cheque, saying it wouldn't be "honored" to keep it because she didn't "restrain" it.

Argonauts Face Stamps In Only East Game Tonight

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Argonauts, all but out of the running for an Eastern Football Conference playoff berth, are in the lineup when they meet Calgary Stampeders in an interlocking game in Toronto tonight.

The game is the only one in the East until Monday afternoon when the Stampeders move to Montreal to battle the Alouettes while Ottawa Rough Riders are at Hamilton against the Tiger-Cats in a battle for first place in the EFC.

The Argos have only one win in 10 outings and are six points behind third-place Montreal. But Calgary coach Joe Williams isn't taking Toronto or Montreal for granted.

United States Takes Lead In Ryder Cup Golf Tournament

SOUTHPORT (Reuters)—The United States, winning two and splitting one of the morning four-ball matches, gained a 6-5 lead over the British Isles on the second day of the Ryder Cup golf tournament today.

The two countries split the eight foursomes Thursday. Don January and Tommy Jacobs scored a great win for the U.S. after being four down with seven holes to play against Dave Thomas and George Wild.

The Americans took five of the remaining holes to snatch a one-up victory. They fired birdies on four of the final seven holes.

Separate Teams For Germany In Future Olympic Competition

MADRID, Spain (CP)—Separate teams will in future represent East and West Germany in the Olympic Games, the International Olympic Committee decided today.

The IOC decided that beginning at the 1968 Winter Olympic in Grenoble, France, there would be two German teams competing in two different blocks but behind a common flag and with a common hymn.

IOC members also reported the West German team will be known as "Germany" and the other team will have the name East Germany.

Twins Confident After Second Win

LOS ANGELES (AP)—After beating Los Angeles Dodgers' four-man pitching staff of Don Drysdale and Sandy Koufax, Minnesota Twins expressed confidence today they can add nemesis Claude Osteen to their list of victims when the World Series resumes here Saturday.

Halfway to the world championship after beating Koufax 5-1 at Minneapolis Thursday on top of their opening 2-2 defeat of Drysdale, the Twins were even dreaming of a four-game sweep.

What about matching pitches with Koufax?
"I think nothing against Koufax takes the pressure off you," he said. "He's the greatest. Nobody expected me to beat him, so why should I feel any pressure?"

Old Taboo Of Politicians - Education Aid - Popular

OTTAWA (CP) - That old taboo of Canadian politics - federal aid to education - appears to be popular with nearly everyone who counts in the wake of the Bladen report on university financing.

Provincial premiers, university heads and federal party leaders all expressed support for Wednesday's report which called for an immediate four-fold boost in federal spending on universities.

The four-man commission headed by Dean Vincent Bladen of the University of Toronto recommended that federal aid to universities be increased to $239,000,000 next fiscal year and to $500,000,000 by 1970 from $80,000,000 this year.

The report said the 1960 arrangement under which Quebec receives an extra slice of co-operation taxes instead of federal grants to individual universities should be continued.

This met with favor from Quebec's Education Minister Paul Gouin-Lajoie and University of Montreal Rector Roger Gaudry, both of whom felt the "spitting out" formula protects provincial constitutional rights.

Critics heard - However, criticism was voiced by Michel Brunet, president of the 400-member University of Montreal Professors' Association. He said federal aid to education is unconstitutional and totally unacceptable.

Federal grants to universities were non-existent until 1951 because of constitutional problems. The 50-cent per capita grants introduced that year were flatly rejected by the Quebec universities and sparked a bitter feud between Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and the late premier Maurice Duplessis.

Duff Roblin, Manitoba's Conservative premier, accused the Pearson government Wednesday of stalling while the provinces and universities appealed time and again for bigger grants.

Prime Minister Pearson said here Tuesday his government plans to call a federal-provincial conference in the next few months to seek a method whereby Ottawa could boost university aid without interfering with provincial rights.

The Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada, which launched the Bladen study 18 months ago, will submit a brief based on the report to the federal and provincial governments within a week.

Dr. J. A. Correy, association president, referred to the Nov. 11 election and told reporters: "It has been a most incredible spectacle and intriguing prospect to see politicians competing to assist universities."

"Let's see some action," Premier Roblin said. "The federal government has put its own time and again, asking us to wait for the report. Now it is here. There is no excuse for further stalling."

Premier Roblin objected to another recommendation in the Bladen report, however. Appointing a federal minister of higher education would "unnecessarily complicate the constitutional situation," he said.

Liberal Premier Ross Thatcher of Saskatchewan said any extra federal aid to provinces for university operating and construction costs would be welcome. His education minister, George Trapp, said he was confident the federal government would boost its assistance.

St. John's and Mr. Gertje-Lajoie said Wednesday the Quebec government is committed to removing fees eventually. Dean Bladen said at a press conference in Ottawa that federal grants of $150,000,000 this year, rising by $80,000,000 annually, would be needed to wipe out tuition fees. This would not leave enough money for capital and research grants.

LEFT LAW FOR MAKE-UP
John J. Jiras, make-up man for TV's Trials of O'Brien, is a qualified lawyer.

On Saturday and Sunday,
there will be a referee clinic
in the Memorial arena.

Saturday will be dedicated strictly to the theory part of the course, while Sunday will be the day for the practical training to be done.

On Sunday, at 8:30 p.m., the Kelowna Riding Club will commence their annual Westerns and Hunter Jumper Show on the Riding Club grounds on Gordon Road.

The activities consist of stake races, pole bending and hunter competitions and include all classes from junior to senior.

Admission is free and a concession booth will be set up on the grounds.

Also on Saturday, at 8 p.m., in the Community Theatre, will be the Salvation Army's Songster Concert.

There will be many selections on the evening's program, featuring many wonderful spirituals and hymns.

Daily features of the week
are:

Activities at the Boys' Club,
at 346 Lawrence Ave., from 3 p.m. - 5 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. - 10 p.m. each day except Saturday and Sunday. On Saturday the times are 1 p.m. - 5 p.m. and the club is closed all day Sunday.

The Okanagan Museum and Archives association sponsor a display in the museum building on Mill Street each day, except Wednesday, from 9 a.m. - noon and 1:30 p.m. to 6 p.m.
On Sunday, the times are 9 a.m.
- 4 p.m.

Tuesday through Thursday in Centennial Hall, the Kelowna parks and recreation department sponsors a program of checkers, carpet bowling and shuffleboard for senior citizens.
The times are 2 p.m. - 4 p.m.
Each night of the week, there are activities for out-of-shape adults in the auditoriums and gyms of the Kelowna senior secondary school, Dr. Knox senior secondary and the junior high school.

FOUND OWN RAILROAD
SHERRINGHAM, England (CP)—Railway enthusiasts have bought a three-mile stretch of track between Sherringham and Weybourne. They hope to get enough financial backing to set up the "Poppy Line," for pleasure trips along the Norfolk coast.

Veteran Actors Came On Strong Along Great White Way This Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Veteran players are coming on strong this Broadway season.

The Auld Lang Syne lineup includes a dozen stalwarts of more than a half-century experience apiece.

Coincidence, rather than design, accounts for the turnout.

Show sponsors usually favor
Samuel Johnson's testy quip that "superstition lags the veterans on the stage," over Longfellow's hearty notion that "age is opportunity no less than youth itself."

An assortment of eager newcomers will be around, but five new shows have summoned senior performers.

"They're an inspiration to watch," says Garson Kanin, directing A Very Rich Woman, which collects the biggest batch of seniors at the Biltmore.

'EAGER TO LEARN'

"They are eager to learn,
take direction and rehearse as long as you want them to without complaint."

Topping the group is Ethel Griffin, 67. For several sessions Miss Griffin has been one of Broadway's busiest actresses. She bowed on in East Lyons in Sheffield, England, at 3 and vows constant work is the secret of a happy life.

Alongside her in A Very Rich Woman, about a matron who baffles eager heirs, is Ruth Gordon, author and at 66 one of the youngest members of the unretired flock. Miss Gordon, Kanin's wife, arrived on Broadway in 1915 as a moppet in Peter Pan.

Mexico Off-Key
On Royalties Note

MEXICO CITY (Reuters) —
Mexico has been threatened with a musical blockade by 28 countries, including 16 in Central and South America, unless it honors reciprocal agreements on royalties—the fees paid to composers for the use of their music.

The Mexican Society of Authors and Composers has received an ultimatum from similar groups abroad criticizing the society for collecting only 15 per cent of the royalties due to foreign composers for use of their music in Mexico.

The foreign societies proposed, as retribution, to cut the royalties they send to Mexico by 30 per cent and, if this were not accepted, foreign composers might refuse to allow their music to be played in Mexico.

Coming out of retirement for the Gordon play is Midge Kennedy, 71. Her first big hit was Little Miss Brown in 1912. Later
she became a screen darling
alongside Malet Norman, Mae Marsh and Geraldine Farrar.

Larry Oliver, 66, who ran away from home to be a country - fair jockey and reached Broadway in 1938, is also in the show, as well as two other eminent gaffers, Raymond Walburn, 76, and Ernest Truax, 75.

Not far behind Miss Griffin and Oliver is the jangle-vibe list is Estelle Winwood, who appears in Madame Mousse. The lady from Manchester made her debut in 1898, but has been away from the boards since her 1948 triumph in The Madwoman of Chaillot.

STARTED IN 1904

Her leading companion in the new play is Molly Picon, 67, who has been diverting audiences since 1904 when she emerged as Topsy in Uncle Tom's Cabin.

Menaasha Skulnik, also 67, ran away at 10 to join a circus in Poland. He now is preparing for a visit to the Rialto in The Zulu and the Zayla.

Her Brown Eyes Clinically Clear

NEW YORK (AP)—The great
brown eyes that used to drench
the silver screen in sweet admires were glistening with irony.
Sylvia Sydney was talking about herself as if she were somebody else.

"I'll tell you what happened," the familiar voice said, clinically cool. "I got old. And why am I making this tour? Because they asked me, that's why."

Miss Sydney treated herself to a guffaw that echoed around the hotel dining room. At 33, the little star, who was once one of the busiest of all, calls her outlook "negative optimistic."

"I'm not downbeat at all,"
she explains, "but I am a great taker-downer."

There's the matter, for example, of the three roles she undertakes for the National Repertory Theatre Company on a 10-city expedition that ends next April.

The assortment is stylistically wide—a waggish crosby of Eva le Gallienne in The Madwoman of Chaillot, Mrs. Malaprop in Sheridan's restoration comedy
The Rivals, and the chief of chorus in The Trojan Women of Euripides. Essentially, Miss
Sydney insists, they are alike.

It is understandable that the general public must be sometimes confused, irritated and maybe even alarmed by much of the high-sounding talk by critics and artists alike about the meaning and purpose of contemporary painting.

I think in this headlong
dash towards complete insane someone should occasionally speak out and access the situation.

When we see a painting which is black, frame and all, doesn't anyone ask what it is all about?
What is the artist trying to achieve? Or whose leg is he pulling? What is the point of mounting used automobile parts on a panel and giving it a tongue-in-cheek title?

Who is entertained or enlightened by the erotic fantasies of an artist who presents a pornographic exhibition of paintings entitled "Lovers in a Landscape?"

FOUND OBJECT

Who is impressed when a rusty faucet is solemnly mounted on a walnut base and entitled
"Found Object?"

In other words, what the hell is going on?

These are the excesses; indiscriminate, transitory; each new excess crowding out the ones that have gone before. This arrogant attitude betrays the whole concept of art and esthetics, falsifies standards to the point where the public is becoming baffled and hostile.

This can only lead to the retrancement of man and art; the alienation of the artist from society.

And just when people were beginning to think that artists weren't such strange types after all!

GOOFTY

The public is actually beginning to feel guilty if they don't understand what the artist is up to. Many people cover their feeling of inadequacy by pretending to like some contemporary painting and may bolster this pretension of buying one.

Is the paramount virtue in art
now eccentricity? The goofier the better?

I don't answer any questions,
I just ask them.
More about this next week.

On Saturday, at 12:45 p.m., there is Game No. 3 of the World Series. Minnesota plays at Los Angeles, and the Dodgers try to win back a 2-0 game lead by the Twins.

At 7 p.m., the Beverley Hill-billes decide to return to their home in the Ozarks, and banker Drysdale tries desperately to arrange a possum day festival to make them stay in Beverley Hills.

At 7:30 p.m., a brand new family program, Please Don't Eat the Daisies, makes its television debut.

Sunday, at 12:45 p.m., Game No. 4 of the World Series is played with Minnesota at Los Angeles.

At 1:00 p.m., Hank that high school dropout who is trying to make it through college, gets into some more embarrassing situations, as he tries to help out his fellow students.

Monday, at 5:30 p.m., The Shadraks, a Kelowna pop band, appear on the nation-wide show, Music Hop. The vocalist, Rick Messalhem, sings "House of the Rising Sun".

At 8 p.m., Dr. Richard Kimble, an innocent man forced by circumstances to turn fugitive from the law, undergoes more harrowing experiences.

Tuesday, at 8 p.m., The Red Shelton Hour presents Red and other comedians acting in hilarious skits. Also on the show is famous singing star, Bobby Rydell.

At 10:30 p.m., The Public Eye may be seen. This is a program which debates ideas and propositions, sometimes in a panel, but more often in a man-to-man debate.

On Wednesday, at 4:30 p.m., a jockey finds himself in a dangerous position on Magic Boomerang, when he is captured and given the choice of losing a race, or having his family harmed.

Thursday, at 9 p.m., I Dream of Jeannie, presents "G.I. Jeannie". Jeannie gets jealous on discovering that Tony has a new secretary, and tries, through sorcery, to be a better, if not somewhat clamorous one.

At 9:30 p.m., Telescope presents "To Win a Million", a profile of Canadian jockey Ron Turcotte.

On Friday, at 8 p.m., there will be a free-time political broadcast, this week being the Liberal candidate.

At 8:30 p.m., that famous country and western star Tommy Hunter appears on his own show. Other stars of country and western music join him for a very enjoyable hour.

TAKE Five

By BETTY TOOLE

Time is a fleeting thing. A month of bowling has gone by and I haven't been able to decide just what to complain about to the bowling proprietors when the roving's rough — alleys too long—pins glued down—or could it be I just haven't got it. Oh well!

I see some fine games being posted by individuals and teams. This could be an interesting year. Let's delve into the past for a bit and take a look at last year's highlights.

The executive of the K and DFPBA included: President, Jim Kitaura; vice president, Morio Koga; second vice president, John Schuck; secretary, Dolly Bach; treasurer, Lorne Gruber; publicity chairman, Harry Yamanura; financial chairman, Bert Smith; membership and liaison chairman and committee Pidge Tahara, Pat Healing, Joe Weider, Jim Kitaura; Assistant publicity, Gay Toole; permanent statistician, Lou Matsuda.

They did a fine job all around and what's more kept the association in the black. Here are a few of the activities supervised by the association. The 24 game roll-offs for the Western Canada team, also the roll-offs for the Inter-City team.

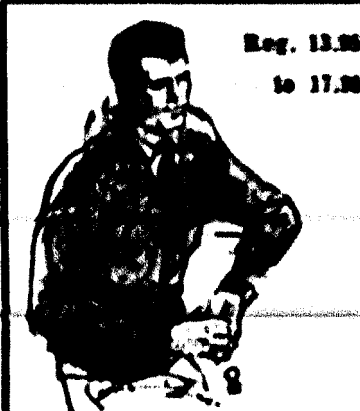

CHAMPIONSHIPS

The western Canada bowling championship was held in Vancouver last year. These finals are always held the Thursday before Good Friday and continue through to Saturday with all the awards being handed out at the banquet. They are hosted by a major city in Western Canada and alternate yearly.

The winners in each event of the championship: ladies, mens, mixed, ladies singles, and mens singles; meet with the eastern Canadian champs to decide the Canadian championship. Also alternating but, between east and west.

TEAM

Last year's roll-off team from Kelowna included: manager, Jim Kitaura; coach, Pidge Tahara and 14 bowlers, Mich Tahara, Alma Gruber, Lorraine Schuck, Georgie Perron, Carol Koga, Helen Forster, Doris Whittle, Tuosh Ihari, Tony Seenger, Joe Weider, Lou Matsuda.

Mits Koga, Bud Toole and Cec Favell. The ladies team placed 15th, men's team seventh and the mixed team was 12th. In the aggregate standings Kelowna was 11th out of 20 centres from the Lakehead to Vancouver.

At the Inter-City Bowling Championship held in Revelstoke, Kelowna was first over seven other centres from the Interior, won three of the four trophies—aggregate, ladies' and mixed. Members of the team which was chosen by Bud Toole were: Georgie Perron, Dolly Bach, Eve Wilderman, Betty Toole, Madeline Wright, Alvin Gladeau, Mary Weider, Nob Yamaoka, Lou Matsuda, Ray Sali, Mits Koga, Rick Turner and Morio Koga. (By the way, the trophies will be displayed alternately in the three bowling lanes in our area).

Kelowna will entertain the inter-city championships in 1968 with ten centres participating.

HIGH SCHOOL

Shortly after the above mentioned championships are held there is the Pepsi-Cola high school tournament for high school bowlers only. The Interior roll-offs were held in Kamloops with Kelowna and district sending 15 teams (75 bowlers).

to this event. The Rutland high school mixed team won out along with the Kelowna secondary high school girls' team. The boys' team event was taken by the Kamloops high school boys. These teams represented our zone in the Pepsi-Cola Western Canada high school roll-offs held in Burnaby. They made a fine showing but didn't quite make it for the championship.

In the Interior masters' tournament held in Kamloops, Mits Koga and Lou Matsuda placed 1st and 2nd respectively. Mits also placed third at the Provincial masters' tournament held in Vancouver in which 80 bowlers competed.

The city roll-offs which were arranged by Morio Koga was won by Gem Cleaners. For the second year in a row they won the Capozzi Cup. The F. Runnals Memorial Trophy, which was new last season, was won by the Alpines.

There were also a number of other tournaments held throughout the Interior at which bowlers from this area made fine showings.

And bowlers, did you know that high game in league play and roll-offs for last year was 418 posted by Jean Bernard? Three cheers for the ladies.

The Paramount theatre has two spine-tingling movies lined up for the coming week, a comedy spy story and an escaped POW film.

Monday, Tuesday, Oct. 11, 12, "Hot Enough For June" will be shown at 7 and 9 p.m. Starred are Dirk Bogarde and Sylvia Koscina.

Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Oct. 13 - 14, "Von Ryan's Express" will be seen at 7 and 9 p.m. and at the Saturday matinee at 2 p.m.

The Kelowna Drive-In theatre will close with the midnight show Sunday, Oct. 10. It will not re-open until 1966.

Saturday, Oct. 9 at dusk "The Courtship of Eddie's Father" will be seen.

Sunday at midnight "The Black Torment" is double-billed with "Crashing Las Vegas".

"Hot Enough For June" is the story of Nicolas Whistler, a motion-bright spy, with a guardian angel hovering over him. He gets involved in a web of laughs, love and intrigue, with sudden death lurking round the corner. Because he can speak Czech he is sent to Czechoslovakia to pick up certain information at a glass factory. He meets and falls in love with Vlasta, also a spy. Life becomes complicated as he is chased by secret police and runs for the British embassy. His problem is how to get back to England and take Vlasta with him.

"Von Ryan's Express" stars Frank Sinatra and Trevor Howard and is a POW camp in World War. The story centres

I'm An Author Not A Spy . . .

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—How to enjoy success without being captured by it: That's the problem met and apparently conquered by John Le Carre.

That is not his name, of course. He uses the pseudonym on his books, which include last year's sensational best-seller The Spy Who Came in from the Cold and the current The Looking-Glass War.

His real name is David Cornwell; he is 34, sandy-haired and well-spoken, a former civil servant in the British foreign service. His literary alias and the convincing detail of his novels of intrigue have convinced some of the more literal-minded that he is a spy.

A television interviewer to accused him during his visit here. Cornwall's reply: "If I wrote a book about prostitutes, it wouldn't necessarily follow that I ran a brothel."

BEATLES SWEEP EAST

BROMLEY, England (CP)—This Kent city's annual carnival was a big success this year because of Kalim Kashid, billed as the Middle East's top pop singer, who sang the Beatles' hit She Loves You, in Arabic. It later turned out Kalim was 32-year-old Vic Rogers, a local musician. But the fans didn't mind and one said, "He sang better in Arabic than the Beatles do in English."

around Colonel Joseph Ryan, an Air Force officer played by Frank Sinatra, who is captured after being shot down over Italy, and sent to a PPOPW camp in Central Italy. Shortly after his arrival all prisoners are put aboard a train bound for Austria, but with the aid of British Major Fincham (Trevor Howard), Ryan and the prisoners subdue their German captors, and then try to fight and bluff their way through 400 miles of Nazi-controlled Italy to the safety of Switzerland.

"The Courtship of Eddie's Father" tells of the efforts of a sensitive six-and-a-half-year-old boy to find a new wife for his widowed father, one who will come up to the exacting specification of both father and son.

As the story unfolds, three candidates appear to be in the running for the role of a new mate for Tom Corbett (Glenn Ford), program manager for a New York radio station. Right across the hall from the apartment occupied by Tom and his precocious son, Eddie (Ronny Howard), lives the blonde, attractive and sympathetic young divorcee Elizabeth Marten (Shirley Jones) who boasts a number of virtues. As a volunteer nurse, she proves of great value when Eddie comes down with the flu. Moreover, she is able to whip up a marvelous pan of fudge.

Then there is Dottie Daly (Silla Stevens), whom Eddie has "picked up" in a Times Square penny-arcade. Dottie has come to New York all the way from Montana in order to acquire poise and self-confidence.

A third contender in the "Courtship" sweepstakes is Rita Behrens (Dina Merrill), sophisticated and beautiful career woman with her eye on a new career—marriage.

"The Black Torment" stars John Turner as Sir Richard Fordyce, in a gripping story of how a series of unnatural events crowd in upon a man until he begins to doubt his reason. Fordyce returns to his estate with a new bride to find himself the object of suspicion in connection with a murder. Heather Sears plays his new wife, who loves yet fears her husband.

SEEK OUT TRUTH

LONDON (CP)—A letter arrived at the ministry of defence addressed to James Bond, the fictional secret agent created by the late Ian Fleming. The writer, a 16-year-old California girl who signed herself "Rena," said she wanted to become a spy and asked for practical advice. Her letter ended: "By the way, are you for real?"

New City Eating Establishment Provides New Entertainment

There is a new establishment in Kelowna, which, in accordance with a famous man in Arizona, U.S.A., can provide a type of entertainment which has previously been unknown in our area.

The place is the Matador Inn, which is situated on the banks of Mission Creek, on the Okanagan Mission, and customers can combine dinner and dancing in increased dining rooms, for a very enjoyable evening.

SPANISH-AMERICAN

The Matador Inn is owned and operated by Jack Comer, Kelowna, who erected the Spanish-American styled building in order to carry on the tradition of Vic Comer, his uncle, who operated a similar place in Wickenburg, Arizona.

Vic was known as the Barbecue King of the West, and the foremost exponent of barbecued foods and when he died, Jack decided that his superb recipes and cooking skills should not die with him.

This was where the idea of the Matador Inn originated and Mr. Comer persevered until it was not only a dream, but a reality.

The Matador consists of two separate banquet rooms, which may be rented for private banquets and receptions and a large licensed dining lounge, which are done in modern Spanish-American, with Red Wood paneling on the walls and decorated with murals and steer horns which originated in the inn in Arizona.

The kitchen is unique in that all the barbecuing is done on a Chinese Barrel Oven, which is fired strictly by apple and cherry wood.

The meats which are cooked there are done so strictly in their own juices, with no artificial flavoring or sauces added, to provide a taste which is distinctly original and tantalizing.

Kenneth Cooper, Maitre D' for the Inn, said that since the Matador Inn held its official opening on Aug. 1, they have been very busy.

"At the rate the reservations for the Christmas season are coming in," he said, "it would be wise for people wishing to use our services for Christmas celebrations to book their reservations early."

"Our services are perfect for banquets and receptions, and if, after dinner, guests wish to get some fresh air, they may step onto the back patio and relax on the edge of Mission Creek."

MENU

"Our menu includes smoked and barbecued meats and poultry prepared in our Chinese Barrel Oven and we feel they are unbeatable for sheer distinctness of taste."

Mr. Cooper said they hope to have live entertainment for a floor show at least once a month during the winter season, with the doors opening at 5:30 p.m. each day.

"The best way to sum up our service at the Matador Inn," he said, "is to quote our motto, which is 'Adventures in Good Eating'."

The bare fact is that we'll keep your car out front in performance.

Red Buttons Has Another Chapter In Odd Story Of Jinx On Oscars

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Vol-umes have been written about the so-called Oscar jinx.

Luise Rainer won two in a row and then was out of the business for years. The explanations are as many as the jinxes. Some of it is due to swelled-head and temperament. Often, an Oscar winner prices himself right out of the business.

Now comes Red Buttons with still another explanation. In 1957 Red, a comic who made it from burlesque to television, found himself out of work. So he asked his agent to get him in pictures—even as a serious actor.

The rest is history. In his first movie, Sayonara, in competition with Marlon Brando, Red's work won the Academy Award for the best supporting actor. "And then I was out of work for a whole year," Red recalls. "I believed then in the Oscar jinx but my case was different." Red didn't overprice himself. He showed no temperament or swelled head. In fact, he was humble.

"But the town couldn't believe that a comic from the borcht belt and Minsky's could make audiences cry.

"Worse, many of the guys who do the hiring here had come up from the same environment as I—the lower East Side of New York.

"I reminded them of days they would sooner forget. Many of them figured my performance was a fluke. They just wouldn't take a comic seriously."

Finally, Red got a part in The Big Circus. Since then, he has done 14 major movies and undoubtedly will get an Oscar nomination this year for his portrayal of the agent in Har-

Roz Says She Counts Her Blessings And Career Goes On At A Good Clip

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I count my blessings that I was never a sex symbol," says Rosalind Russell with a candor for which she is noted.

The explanation helped to make clear why her career continues at a steady clip while those of most of her old contemporaries have faded.

Roz now is in one of those periodic spurts of acting activity that have characterized her career. She just finished romping through what she termed the blakiest of comedies, On Dad, Poor Dad, Mama's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feeling so Sad. Now she is acting in the more economically titled, Mother Superior.

"And what a wonderful combination of roles," she said glowingly over tea at her Beverly Hills Drive manse. "I've always wanted to play a harlot and a nun. Now I get to play both, one after the other."

There are not many stars who could manage both roles with conviction. But the two films mark further advances in the divergent career of Rosalind Russell, whose portrayals in recent years have ranged from a rapacious stage mother (Gypsy) to a Jewish matron (A Majority of One) to Auntie Mame.

The reason she remains in demand? It goes back to the fact that she wasn't a sex symbol.

"I must say I wasn't thankful for it at the time, but I am now," she commented. "I do think the girls who were the sex queens have a most difficult time of it when they are no longer fresh and sexy. Many get very upset about it."

Attendance at the Museum continues high even after the end of the summer holidays. The Museum is now open from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. every day, including Sunday.

Three school classes visited the museum during September. This is just a fraction of the students we hope to attract to the new centennial museum. The chairman and vice-chairman of the museum board, H. E. Robinson and C. W. Knowles, are now looking into the possibility of having the present museum building heated until the end of November, so more school classes can take advantage of the interesting exhibits of district history.

What better way can there be of bringing life into the study of history than examining the very articles made and used daily by our pioneers?

STATES
The visitors' register in the museum now shows we have had visitors from all provinces of Canada except Newfoundland. In addition to the 10 states of the U.S. that were listed by the middle of August, our register shows visitors from Florida, Utah, Nevada, Kentucky, Colorado, Idaho, Iowa, and Wyoming. This makes a total of 18 states in the register.

England continues to be represented numerous times, and in addition we have had visitors from Scotland, West Germany, Sweden, Denmark, the Netherlands, Ireland, Belgium, France and Italy. Australia and New Zealand have sent several visitors, and there has been one group each from the Union of South Africa and from Trinidad.

IMPRESSIONS
What impressions of Kelowna have these visitors from far-away countries received from our Museum?

Many have commented on the clean and orderly appearance of our exhibits, in spite of the lighting that cannot be adequate for most areas. The numerous bright touches of colored backgrounds for displays are appreciated, and the skillfully lettered signs of information bring many favorable words from those interested in knowing the origin of articles on display.

We owe our signs to Miss Linda Berger, assistant to the custodian, who has contributed generously of her artistic ability in many ways.

NEW DISPLAYS
Residents of Kelowna are now represented more frequently in the list of visitors, and we urge all who have not visited our displays recently to drop in soon. You'll be surprised at the many changes and additions, some of which point the way to what we can achieve in the new building.

Marion Morham of Winfield Dedicated to Teaching Art

By FLOBA EVANS

Mrs. A. S. Grigsby, who is well known throughout the Okanagan as Marion A. Morham, artist and teacher of art, came to the Valley from West Vancouver in 1952 and settled in Oyama where she not only designed but helped to build her home. In 1959 she moved to Winfield where she now lives and once again designed her own home.

Mrs. Grigsby studied art in London, England, for seven years, graduating from the University of London with a teacher's diploma, after which she did post-graduate work in sculpture at the University of Durham in the North of England.

Her work has been exhibited in London, Newcastle on Tyne, Toronto and Vancouver, and was included in the collection of paintings sent from Canada to Russia in the "Tribute to Leningrad" in 1944. She also designed and illuminated "The Book of Remembrance" for the West Vancouver War Memorial, which can be seen in the memorial section of the West Vancouver library.

Mrs. Grigsby, who told me that her first and foremost interest is teaching because of her great interest in people, has been teaching art to both children and adults since 1938. For ten years she was connected with the Children's Saturday Morning Art Classes at the Vancouver Art Gallery, and she acted as director of the classes from '47-52. Since coming to the Okanagan Valley she has been actively engaged in teaching Adult Education Art classes as far South as Summerland and North to Salmon Arm.

As a teacher, Mrs. Grigsby said, it is necessary to be up to the minute in the use of every media. Recently she has been working on a number of portraits done in pastel, and at present a collection of her paintings is hung in the Okanagan Regional Library in an exhibition sponsored by the Kelowna Art Exhibit Society. These are mainly water color and pastel landscapes of British Columbia and particularly pleasing to me were two delicate tree studies done in Conte crayon—one in black and red on buff paper, and the other in black and white on grey.

This artist's method of working, she told me, is simply to go out with easel and paints and work on the spot until she has completed the landscape she has chosen, but I gathered her true love is her teaching, which she plans to continue for the Adult Education Classes.

We apparently have FM fans who don't have FM! Actually they're hard-core fans.

They listen to the twice daily "On FM Tonight" bulletin at 12:45 p.m. and 6:45 p.m. on CKOV-AM. When they hear of the FM fare scheduled for nightly serving their appetites become whetted, but, they are rather like the hungry wayfarer with the large appetite for good food who only appears his hunger with imagination as he presses his nose against the window of the restaurant with the food display. Cases like that go back to the depression.

Today, with the comparative balance of reasonable, at least, income for the average person, there really is no need for one to go without FM because of it being out of price reach.

To qualify the latter pertinent illustration, I should hasten to tell you that many people comment about hearing the programs and reading about them in this column.

Too many people however, seem to have the impression that an FM set is some vague and costly addition to their home entertainment equipment. Just isn't so!

FM is simply radio that gives the finest possible reproduction of high fidelity sound.

When radio first came on the scene, it wasn't identified with "Did you hear that AM Radio is on the way?" But when TV came along it was heralded as "TV." Today, TV is TV and that's it. But radio has developed another dimension of finest sound that is best programmed with high quality recordings primarily. For want of identification it is referred to as "FM", shortened technical term for frequency modulation.

LOOK AROUND
To return to the border line FM fan who expresses his awareness of the programs he hears about and reads about but can't enjoy due to the lack of FM; to him we suggest that he become a full fledged listener. Make a check of the district dealers. He'll have the finest combination radio AM-FM-Stereo sets of course at a price to suit.

But, there are also portable transistor AM-FM sets to be had. They are priced from less than $50 at one dealer to just over $100 for an AM-FM two band short wave, 17 transistor, leather upholstered set, with an adapter for AC plug in use in the home to save battery wear.

If that last sentence sounded like a sales pitch, it was only to illustrate the optimum quality and features that can be had in a portable FM functional combination set, and at a price that is reasonable.

FLUMMERS
As to the justification of obtaining FM: it does make for a nice change of pace for home entertainment. It does provide the greatest opportunity for variable musical entertainment, and, it's spiced with some plumb of programs that feature

Guthrie Directs Ottawa Production

OTTAWA (CP)—The Centennial Commission said Thursday Sir Tyrone Guthrie will direct open-air production on Parliament Hill in the summer of 1967.

The production, which will have a musical score, probably will host a cast of thousands in one of the biggest spectacles of the year.

Centennial spokesmen said it will probably run for about two weeks. The government had agreed to the unprecedented use of space before the Centre Block.

Sir Tyrone now is looking for writers to prepare English and French scripts, as well as a composer-conductor for the musical score.

respectively will be the short selections tonight with Leonard Pennario as the performing pianist.

Fritz Kreisler selections will be featured Saturday on "Symphony Hall" which is heard at 7 to 8 being moved back due to Lion's Football broadcast starting at 8. They'll play at Edmonton.

Sunday evening on "Strings and Things" from 8 to 10 p.m. there'll be more interest when the late Eleanor Roosevelt is heard in a special feature collection of reflections entitled "My Husband And I."

Tuesday evening, Oct. 12 on "Comedy Star Time," 10 to 11 p.m. the star will be the catchy humour of Bob Newhart.

FM Theatre on Thursday evening, Oct. 14, "The Roar Of The Presepsaint—The Smell Of The Crowd" will be featured starring the original cast with Anthony Newley and Cyril Richard. It's "a sort of Laurel and Hardy set to music." One of Broadway's newest.

Since badminton is now on stage and tennis is edging toward the dressing room, we are back to Shuttle Talk once more. Now the main course will be mostly badminton with a few side servings of tennis while it is in season.

At the moment I am finding it very hard to concentrate on either tennis or badminton. A psychological drama is unfolding before my eyes. Too, our Sammie kitten, is muzzling Snook, our Marauder-style Chesapeake retriever, in an obvious attempt to answer the question, "Are you my mother?"

The kitten, a personality-parked bundle of fur, was taken from her mother at an early age and at times seems over-come by the urge to find a mother-substitute.

The Chesapeake, a naughty champion of Dog's Rights, long ago declared a hot-war on all members of the feline clan. He has been accustomed since puppyhood to the sight of cats in hasty retreat. His reaction to Too, who finds in him something furry and warm with a wagging tail that is fat game for a pounce, is one of horrified disbelief.

To add insult to injury, it frequently happens that Snook awakens from a sound sleep to find a small, furry bundle cozily ensconced on his back.

This is more than an honest cat-killing dog can take — he has taken to rising abruptly, unconsciously dumping his small passenger on the floor, then tottering off to a secluded spot, no doubt in search of something to steady his nerves.

While Too persists in the belief that she has found the next best thing to a mother, Snook has the look of one trying to convince himself that his cat-haunting powers are not suffering a decline.

Speaking of declines, one would never know that tennis is supposed to be falling into one at this time of year. Sunday, a day blessed by warm sun and fragrant air, saw a host of tennis players out on the courts. It was one of those days when weather and temperature are so perfect that it is almost impossible to stay indoors.

NEW PLAN
The badminton executive met last week and emerged with the first two-month plan for the edification and enjoyment of badminton club members. For the next two weeks badminton players will concentrate on renewing acquaintance with the game which can become quite remote after a four-month lay-off.

Then on Oct. 24 we swing into action with a New Member week (Oct. 24-31) during which time present members will sponsor visitors to the club. Everyone who thinks he might enjoy playing badminton is invited to come to the club during this week.

All visitors will be guests of the club and will play free of charge.

AUCTION
Then on Oct. 30, a party is planned for members and guests and—shades of the past—the ladies will prepare box lunches which later will be auctioned off. To the members of the younger generation who may not know the rules of this game, the highest bidder in each case is awarded both the lunch and a luncheon guest—the lady who prepared the repast.

The accepted plan of operation at box socials, so I understand, is first to ascertain which pair of loving hands packed the box. This last bit of information, supposedly classified, suffers more security leaks than the choice piece of gossip 'confined' to the ladies' sewing circle.

Then an important question must be answered before the investigation proceeds. Is the prospective bidder interested in the lady or the lunch?

COOK WITH LOOKS

If the lady is the object of his attentions, the way is clear. His only problem is to top the bidding. The bidder primarily interested in pleasing his palate faces a more formidable task. After assessing the culinary skills of all the ladies present he must then decide, as further aid to digestion, which lady would make the most pleasant dinner partner — sort of a search for the cook with the looks.

In the days when box socials were almost a way of life, we are told that buying a girl's box lunch was one way for the bashful swim to announce to the world that this was his intended. Bashful swims are now rare birds and the intended goes steadily but I am sure one thing is unchanged.

Box socials will be as much fun as they were in the days way back when.

TOURNETS

Next we have several handicap tournaments scheduled, all to be held in Kelowna. First is the Pettigrew Cup mixed doubles slated Nov. 7. Then on Dec. 12 play will commence for the Butler and Stiel trophies, which are awarded to the winners of the men's and women's doubles competitions. The following weekend, Dec. 18 and 19, will feature the Old Timers' tournament. If you expect this journey to feature the halt playing the nearly blind, unthink!

Many of the 'Old Timers' can play rings around those half their age.

Then for all the young in heart, another party is planned for the evening of Dec. 18, after the first day of the Old Timers' competition. This will be our Christmas party and although we cannot guarantee a visit from Santa Claus it should be a Ho! Ho! Ho! evening — or is it yeh! yeh! yeh!

So, ladies and gentlemen, as you survey the many activities scheduled for badminton club members in the next two months, you have proof-positive that badminton develops the type of individual who is able to work hard and play hard — and thrive!

Survival of the fittest, y'know.

"Pin-Up" Betty Gains Divorce

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Former movie actress Betty Grable was granted a divorce Thursday from bandleader Harry James.

Miss Grable, 48, a blonde singer-actress, was a favorite pinup girl of the Second World War. She and James were married in 1943.

NIMBLE Fingers
by Frances Hatfield

I have been browsing in the "Handcraft Directory" of British Columbia, a small booklet published annually by the B.C. Government Department of Trade and Commerce.

Any craftsman in B.C. who produces work for sale may write to the department and ask to have his or her name included in the next copy. It lists such diverse crafts as totem masks and rattles through the more usual wood carving, weaving and pottery etc. to chair caning and spinning wheel building.

Its 77 pages are tightly crammed with the names of craftsmen whose addresses range from Okanagan Centre to a light house at Clonmore, B.C.

Reading these names and addresses makes me want to jump off on a handcrafters' trip throughout the whole province seeking the people, their homes and work and hearing their own reasons for being craftsmen.

POTTER
I'm told, for instance, that the old Notch Hill potter, Mr. Ehring, who later lived in Vernon, first came to this Valley to farm.

Finding adverse climatic or soil conditions in his particular location he cast about in his mind for another source of income and decided to make pottery, as his father had done before him, in Sweden.

The blue-green glazes he produced on his earthenware on clay dug from his farm, still delight many a housewife in the north Okanagan and a good many people have asked me nostalgically whether I could duplicate these glazes.

The legends of his vigorous personality are many; of small boys appearing at his kiln shed clothing ten cents for a birthday gift for mum and bearing away a fine example of jug or bowl while on the same day a "fashionable lady" might call only to be told sorry that there was absolutely nothing for sale.

GREAT FLAMES

I've heard of two young girls noticing, from a distance, great flames shooting from the Ehring workshop who saddled horses and rode post-mail to warn him, only to find him quietly smoking his pipe and watching the hottest point of his wood-fired kiln firing as the flames shot crackling from the chimney.

I have become a bit of a collector of the "Ehring" tales, so if any of my readers know him or know any associates connected with him I'd be delighted to hear from them.

I'll share one of my best with you today.

A Vernon resident and his wife who were very fond of the Ehring earthenware used to visit the old man each spring at Notch Hill to see his winter output and buy a few pieces.

Every spring they particularly put in an order for six special soup bowls in the favoured blue. But spring followed spring and brown bowls were to be found of their shape but never blue. Finally Mrs. E. complained that she thought it very unoperative of him never to supply her order correctly.

He replied that if she would come at the end of summer she would find blue bowls in abundance because the skies and the lake of summer prompted them but that the leafless woods and dim skies made him produce brown ones in winter and these were all available when the friends chose to call in early spring.

However, the spring or fall finally arrived when the blue bowls were ready.

PRICES
Pointing to one Mr. E. asked the price.

"Fifty cents", said Ehring. Delighted with the economy of the purchase the six bowls were gathered up and three dollars laid on the table.

Storm clouds gathered in the potter's eyes and he growled "Five dollars."

Now just a moment, Ehring, six times fifty cents is three dollars!"

"My dear sir, if you want one of my bowls I say fifty cents. But if you are so greedy as to take all six, then five dollars." Have you an "Ehring" story? Just drop me a line to "Nimble Fingers".
