Fred Ditzel

They were elected at a noon meeting of the junior class in Bomberger last Friday. The year-book's editorial and business heads will choose their staff at a later date.

Justus Bodley '38, class president, was chairman of the election. Mentioning problems of finance, he urged that, wherever possible, juniors remit part of their class dues at this time.

Frederick Ditzel is a member of the History-Social Science Group, is affiliated with the Beta Sigma Lambda Fraternity, is a member of the I. R. C. and Webster Forensic Society, and was an associate editor of the Weekly this year.

Douglas Mertz is also a member of the History - Social Science Group, and is in addition a member of the Demas Fraternity and the Men's Debating Team.

Bassman, Paris Best Matmen, Review of Wrestling Reveals

The grunt and groan art of wrestling, one of the glories of the time of the Ancient Greeks, is a comparatively recent addition to the list of Ursinus extra-curricular activities. The first season of intercollegiate wrestling for an Ursinus team was early in the year of 1930.

Professor Charles A. Carleton, an instructor in modern languages, was the first coach. With a very inexperienced squad, he scheduled meets with Germantown Y. M. C. A., Franklin and Marshall, Gettysburg, Temple, and Lafayette. The season's record showed one victory, the Bears stopping the Bulls, 23-13, which partially made up for a rather decisive defeat at the hands of F. and M., 36-0.

In 1931, under the same tutelage, the Bears won two of their six meets, winning from Germantown and again over Gettysburg. The University of Penn and Brooklyn Poly Tech were new additions to the schedule.

Paris Scores Fastest Pin

The season of 1932 is remembered because of the fastest pin ever made in the history of the school. In the meet with Haverford, a junior, Otto Paris '32, wrestling in the

"Y" Trip To New York

On Friday, April 2, Dr. Daniel A. Poling will again return to the campus, this time for the entire day. In the morning he will address the student body at the Chapel exercises, and the rest of the day will be devoted to individual student conferences, as these conferences will be scheduled ahead of time, those students who wish to meet and talk with Dr. Poling must give their names in advance to Hannah Leisse '38, or Louis Krug '37.

The entire cost including board and lodging in New York will not exceed five dollars.

Editor Announces Formal Ruby To Appear On Campus In May

With the engraving and advertising almost finished, it is expected that the 1937 Ruby will be ready for distribution about May 10. The first 104 pages have already gone to press, and 80 more pages will be ready before Easter.

The Ruby will have a new grain cover. This Caracul grain has never before been used on an Ursinus Ruby, and, together with the eight page scenic section in duotone color, it will lend to an attractive year book. The Ruby, dedicated to President N. E. McClure, and edited by Eugene Shelly, will be arranged formally.

All organizations, which have not yet paid for their group photographs are urged to do so as soon as possible so that current expenses may be met.

Bodley, Hayashi Named To Sports Captaincies

DeWire And Halm Are Elected
Managers Of Basketball
And Wrestling

CAPTAINS STAR PERFORMERS

Justice Bodley '38, and Teru Hayashi '38, were chosen captains of basketball and wrestling last Thursday by a vote of the lettermen in the two sports.

Bodley succeeds Frank Tworzydlo '37, and Raymond Costello '37, co-captains of this year's quintet. He hails from Doylestown, Pa., and has been a star performer at forward for the past two seasons, although handicapped this year by occasionally having to assume the center duty.

Bodley Is Class President

The new court captain also excels on the football field, being an outstanding wingman on the varsity grid team. Besides his scholastic and athletic activities, Bodley has been president of his class for two years, and is a member of the Beta Sigma Lambda Fraternity and the History-Social Science Group, and has been active in various campus activities.

Teru Hayashi, a mainstay of the wrestling squad for two years, was selected to lead that sport.

The newly appointed captain was a second place winner in the 118 lb. division at the Middle Atlantic Collegiate Wrestling Association Championships held at Ursinus on March 6.

Hayashi Head Cheer Leader

Coming from Atlantic City, N. J., Hayashi participates in two other sport activities. He is a veteran cheer leader and he takes care of pole vaulting on the track team. He is also a member of the chess club and is in the Chemistry-Biology Group.

At the meeting the lettermen also elected John W. DeWire Jr. '38, and Charles Halm '38, as managers of the two sports.

INTERRACIAL FELLOWSHIP TO PRESENT PLAY ON WEDNESDAY

Represent Same Group Which Held
Recent Interracial Panel

A powerful peace play "The Terrible Meek" will be presented by the Interracial Fellowship Players of Philadelphia this Wednesday at 7:00 p. m. in Bomberger Hall. This production will be the last "Y" meeting before the Easter recess.

The Interracial Players represent the same group of which the recent interracial panel is a part. Their dramatic presentations are widely recognized as being among the finest amateur productions of their type, and the players travel into several states to fill engagements.

The post-Easter program of the joint "Y's" has been mapped out up to the completion of the term of office of the present cabinets.

PROM AND PLAY CHAIRMEN REPORT COMPLETED PLANS

Chairman John Tomlinson '38, reports that all plans for the Junior Prom on April 9, featuring the music of Alex Bartha and his Orchestra, have been completed. The committee promises something novel in decorations.

The cast of "Kind Lady" is holding nightly rehearsals and the veteran cast is such as to assure a good performance on April 10.

HEDGEROW THEATRE GROUP PLEASES WITH FINE WORK ON PLAYS OF DIVERSE THEME; ENGLISH MARRIAGE LAWS, SAVAGERY, AND MODERN INDIFFERENCE TO WAR ARE SUBJECTS

By Keith Thompson '40

English marriage laws, negro savagery, and modern indifference to war were the various themes of the three plays presented by the Hedgerow Theatre last Tuesday and Wednesday. A great deal of versatility is required in actors who must portray such varied moods in such a short space of time, and the Hedgerow Players proved themselves equal to the task.

On Tuesday George Bernard Shaw's relatively unknown play "Getting Married" was presented. This drama offers no single actor the opportunity to "star", but each role demands good characterization and it is in this sort of thing that the Hedgerow Theatre excels. Their value lies in their ability to play to each other, rather than playing to a star who plays for himself.

"Getting Married" Cast Good

It is difficult under the circumstances to pick out any actor as outstanding, Harry Sheppard as the romantic Victorian old general gave a very humorous characterization, but Alfred Rowe, who took the part of his foolish gentlemanly elder brother, Reginald Bridgenorth, and Fred Nofer as the broad-minded bishop Bridgenorth, were no less praiseworthy. There were times when Henry Jones as the timid young lover, Cecyl Sykes, and his masterful, blushing lady-love Edith Bridgenorth, acted by Catherine Rieser, "stole the show", while throughout the latter half of the play David Metcalf as Hotchkiss, by his passionate superiority complex, Miriam Phillips by her quiescent subdued intensity, as Mrs. George, and Robert Hanley as the coldly proper Soames, led all the others in the illogical satire. A great deal could also be said for Jay Davis as the Jeeves-like Collins, for Nancy Kelsey as Leo, and for Cele McLaughlin, of the beautiful voice, as the general's beloved, Lesbia Grantham. Mable Sheppard as Mrs. Bridgenorth and Patrick Madden as the Beadle also acted their parts well.

The play deals with the attempted fulfillment of Bishop Bridgenorth's prophecy that unless the marriage laws of England are modified couples will draw up marriage contracts without worrying about either Church or State. Shaw has used his characters as mouths for himself, and has given them his usual bitter humor, but the play is a little tedious, despite the actors, and the long single act is not unified enough, nor active enough to hold the audience completely.

Rich Good As "Emperor Jones"

More satisfactory on the whole was the performance of O'Neill's great play "Emperor Jones." This is a one-man drama of primitive emotions, well calculated to thrill and terrify any audience. The choice of Arthur Rich as Brutus Jones, the wily emperor, was a good one. His powerful physique and voice made an impressive, distinguished ruler, while his vitality and intelligence gave to the gripping scenes of progressive barbarianism a realistic and a terrorizing effect.

The clever shadow forests and the maddening drum, broken in upon by the shots of the hysterical runaway, formed a vivid background for Mr. Rich, and the dramatic lighting effects greatly intensified the play. The peak of the production came when Jones fell on his knees praying through a crimson beam of light to the God of mercy he did not trust. Here Mr. Rich gave his sonorous voice full freedom, his half naked body heaved with fear, and with his sobbing collapse came a helplessness of supreme tragedy.

The Emperor Jones is a play for Brutus Jones, but there are other characters to be considered. Mr. Jasper Deeter as the cowardly

AGAIN, WHY COLLEGE?

More than just a few seniors are turning into the home stretch of their College careers with a fear of possible failure tugging at their hearts. After sixteen years of preparation they are ready to step off into the world, and the questions they are feeling are, preparation for what? If they fail to get a job, aren't they far behind non-college men? Will college prove to be a spring-board or a sand pile? And particularly, what are their chances for success?

Half and half, to the last question, answers John R. Tunis, Harvard '11, in his book "Was College Worth While?". Based on a recent survey of the 541 members of his graduating class of 25 years ago, Mr. Tunis predicts that 25 years from now half of us will be disappointed in our life's work!

The book, an attempt to evaluate higher education on the basis of accomplishments and failures of the author's own classmates, repeatedly raises the question, "Is it all worth while?". While the writer leaves that for the reader to decide, there is no doubt as to what he thinks. Worth while for some, the impression he leaves is that College is a poor investment for many more.

Starting with what he calls a fair cross-section of the American college product, Mr. Tunis reveals that while a few have achieved "Who's Who", about 100 are actually dependent upon others—some even on relief! The only note in any way encouraging is his estimated class income average of $4,450—a good living income.

The campus "big-shot" is no sure bet for success, adds Mr. Tunis as he discloses how several of the poorest and relatively obscure boys of his class have become its most distinguished members. Another interesting point is his deduction pertaining to the question of marriage. He says a college man "cuts his chances of unhappiness in two when he marries" a college woman.

Mr. Tunis' "Is College Worth While?", written in a clear and easy style and for the edification of the college man, should have a great appeal to every undergraduate, as well as for the senior on the home-stretch.

TIME MARCHES ON

One year ago as we prepared to take up the editorial pen we likened the Weekly to a fascist state—"a recapitulating unity of an indefinite series of generations . . . As new hands are occasionally entrusted with the guidance only of the state, subjecting individuality to the state as the primary and ultimate goal, so does the relentless toll of time bring a new Weekly staff into office every year."

But today as we lay down the pen we are more subjective in an appraisal of our position. The Weekly then becomes a democracy. Unlike the fascist leader, we readily admit that the Weekly has done more for us than we have for it. Consequently it is with great appreciation that we extend our thanks to the members of this democracy, the faculty, administration, and student body, for the cooperation that has been accorded us during our term in office, and which has allowed us to take advantage of an excellent opportunity for personal achievement.

To the newly elected editor go the sincere wishes for success of the retiring staff. He has already proven himself to be capable, and while the responsibility is great, yet of no less measure is the opportunity for accomplishment.

GAFF from the GRIZZLY

We don't want to neglect the Day students. So here goes—Anybody: "Did you hear the one about Mae West?" "Beattie" Pearlstine: "If it's risque, I don't want to hear it. How's it go?"

Flash! Married men take a holiday! Bodley and Pancoast were seen ping-ponging without the presence of consorts! (Phi Psi had a party.)

Evelyn Huber went on a temporary sit-down strike during Friday's girls' basketball game. Since Jerome insists it was not pre-arranged, Tex plans no protest.

Ursinushots: Joe College Meisenholder returning to original inclination in Doc's back room. Gushard contributing eleven cents (honest he did) toward a pack of cigarettes. Eli Broidy chasing a cockroach off his book before sitting down to study. Army Yost feeling gay at Graber's and annoying Sodajerker Tay.

Demas Brother Monty Weidner '36, while duly thrilled upon Ursinus' crashing of the metropolitan sheets with the Blue Network Ape Review, chose to consider the event a challenge to all Demas, past and present, and exhorted the brethren to "get busy and erase the smudge from the Demas escutcheon"—even by resorting to a "good old-fashioned Demas stag" to rate a five-inch streamer.

Dear "Tay":
I'm glad to hear you entertained Snooks while I was out of town. Shucks, I don't mind, because after all she is our girl friend, yours and mine and Groff's and DeWire's and maybe Woo and Hop, too. Only next time please spend some money on her.

Faithfully yours,

Spider.

P.S.: Thanx again, you heel.

ANCIENT WEEKLIES SHOW THAT OLDEN COLLEGIATES KNEW EVERYTHING WE YOUNG MODERNS RAVE ABOUT

So ping-pong as a diversion is an innovation at Ursinus?

Read the 1902 Weekly and learn that "ping-pong has become an added attraction at Senior Hall".

So the Chess Club is a new organization at Ursinus, a new departure in extra-curricular activities?

This same 1902 Weekly tells us that "chess playing has become quite a diversion with some of the students. At present, the Chess Club numbers 26, and a tournament has already been started".

Much interesting information like this may be gleaned from old Weeklies—for the Weekly is indeed old, 34 years to be exact, and it had a predecessor, the Ursinus Bulletin, a monthly publication dating back into the 19th Century.

A glance at one of the granddaddies of our present Weekly shows a four-page issue with a heading in the same style as the "Ursinus Weakie", occasional pink edition of the Weekly. Advertisements consumed more than half the space in the sheet, fifty-four advertisers proclaiming the merits of everything from pianos to livery stables in this 1902 Weekly.

Sports were featured in this old paper, and for good reason, because the 1902 gridders went through an undefeated nine-game schedule. The Weekly anticipated this successful campaign. Says the sports commentator: "Never do prospects seem rosier, never is material more abundant. All the candidates have varsity tags stuck all over them."

The activities of the members of

And Yahraes now joins the ranks of those who hike and hike and hike, halfway to Reading.

The sun was shining for Eddie Bowns on Friday. And he pitched a lot of hay with that Beaver cutie.

the faculty received much publicity. Concerning the Dean's summer vacation, the Weekly tells us that he "took a carriage trip during the cool days of June, and spent the rest of his vacation enjoying the cool breezes at his home in Collegeville."

Another article tells about a Dr. Crawford, the "man who will lead the upper classmen into the pleasant fields of philosophical thought."

The editorial treats a subject which might still be pertinent. "It might be well if all the students would read the rules of the Library concerning loud talking, taking books out of the Library without the Librarian's consent, etc."

The Schaff Literary Society, too, was discussing in 1902 a question which is by no means yet dead—"Resolved, that examinations should be abolished at Ursinus". After lengthy debate among the members, a decision was reached in favor of the negative.

"Stags" were popular even 'way back when the Weekly was young—but in those days, they were "thrown" by the Y. M. C. A.! Says a 1902 edition, "The first floor of the East Wing (Derr) was the scene of a 'stag' party under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Refreshments—fine time."

"Gaff", too, had its counterpart in "Squibs" in this patriarch of Weeklies. Typical of the "dirt" in style in those days, we read that "several cigars were bought and sold within a few minutes by a hero of the gridiron last Saturday 'way up in New York'". Tsk, tsk!

So we young moderns aren't the smarties we'd like to appear. Fashions may change, expressions may change, but despite one of Dr. Willauer's pet profundities, human nature is constant. These old 'Sinus dandies and their lassies have proved through the mouldering pages of the Weekly files that "everything's been done before"—and long before most of us were even remote ideas!

The question this week:

Do you think Ursinus should offer a course in Sex Instruction?

Gladys M. Barnes '30:

I do not think a course in sex education should be offered at Ursinus or any other college. Such a course should be a part of the physiology course in the elementary schools and discussed openly in biology classes in high schools. Sex education is a problem for parents and teachers to meet and as such should be dealt with as the child develops. I contend that the above treatment of this subject would limit the so-called non-helpful "bull sessions" on sex which are so prevalent in college halls and dormitories.

F. B. Stone '37:

Any course offering practical application to the fundamental problems of life has a place in the Ursinus curriculum. A knowledge of sex is one of the first requisites of adulthood, and objective instruction on the subject would be a benefit to all. It might prove interesting to discover the ignorance and misinformation regarding the question of sex among both men and women on this campus. Because most persons of college age naturally are looking toward marriage and a family as prospective realities, I believe that a course in sex education should be offered at Ursinus.

BURTONS, CHINA SOJOURNERS, TELL OF CONDITIONS THERE

On Tuesday evening, March 9, the International Relations Club at Shreiner Hall heard two talks given by Mr. and Mrs. Burton on conditions in China. The two speakers, who are now advanced students in special standing at Ursinus, were missionaries in the oriental country of which they spoke before entering Ursinus College.

Mr. Burton discussed the changing aspect of communism in the land of long oppression, and Mrs. Burton, arrayed in flowery Chinese garb which she brought back with her, told about Chinese customs and traditions.

Florence Mennies '39:

I think that Ursinus should indirectly offer courses in sex instruction. It is knowledge that is necessary, and although it is gained at the present time through informal discussion groups, it would be more beneficial to have it incorporated in a scientific manner in sociology courses that would cover the subject in a frank and intelligent way.

FRATERNITY ROW

As part of their initiation ceremonies, three campus fraternities sent newly-pledged freshmen on road trips during the past week. Some went in pairs and some alone; each was assigned a number of articles to obtain.

Following is a summary of some of the trips, and the objects requested.

To Atlantic City. Obtain autographs from Alex Bartha, from an announcer at station WPG, from the headwaiter at Haddon Hall. Obtain sand and shells from seashore.

To New York. Obtain signature of young lady in Yonkers, a menu from a Jamaica, L. I., restaurant, menus from the Hotel Taft, the Astor, the Brass Rail; a used card from the Fifth Avenue Library.

To Baltimore and Wilmington. Get autograph of Wilmington chief of police; obtain a 1935 Delaware license plate. Obtain Johns Hopkins catalog signed by registrar; a pennant signed by bookstore clerk.

To Trenton. Get headwaiter's signature on menu of Hotel Stacy Trent. Get autograph of woman proprietor of a beauty salon. Get Peddie School catalog (at Hightstown, N. J.) Others.

To Reading. Obtain one cent's worth of "green-leaves" (spearmint candies) and have clerk sign his name on bag. Climb to the top of the Pagoda, get attendant's autograph.

THE MAIL BOX

To the Editor:

One of the reasons for the students' eternal grumblings and lack of action is perhaps that there is no liberal organization on campus which would permit group discussion and final action. Sororities and fraternities do not, nor should they have, this end in view. There should be an organization which would permit in its membership a fair cross section of the college population, an organization unhampered by faculty supervision, that makes known to those who "control our fate" the temper of the College students.

It is my idea that the organization of a Chapter of The American Student Union is the answer to our current problems. Many other campuses have that and the results have not been negligible.

If you see fit to present this idea to the student body through the Weekly, I will follow this action according to results as you see it. I am in position to obtain all the information we may find necessary.

For the time being I prefer to remain unidentified because of the nature of the proposal.

Easter Program To Be Offered By The Choir Thursday Evening

Owing to the interest shown each year by the student body in the Christmas Candle Light Service, the Choir under the leadership of Dr. Philip has prepared a suitable program of Lenten Passion Music to be presented on Thursday evening, March 18th at 8:15.

This program will not be preceded by a Communion Service as the Christmas Service was, but is designed for the student body as a new distinctive program of the college year calling to mind one of our great religious festivals. The choir will be assisted in their program by an orchestral ensemble, organ, and piano. The continuity, dealing with the Easter story is being prepared and will be given by the college pastor, Dr. Lentz.

This program is also open to the friends of the college and all interested are cordially invited to attend. Due to the nature of the program persons attending are requested to be in their seats by 8:15.

Ruby Keeler says:

"Luckies are a light smoke that treat a tender throat right"

"In a way, it's easier to keep in condition as a dancer than as a singer. Exercise can keep the muscles in shape, but there are a lot of things that can go wrong with the voice and throat. It stands to reason, then, that any actress wants a cigarette that is gentle and strikes the right note with her throat. I started smoking Luckies 4 years ago. They're a light smoke that treat a tender throat right."

Miss Keeler verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. Co-eds Drop First To Beaver Sextette

Outcome In Doubt Until Final Minutes Of Exciting Game

HARSHAW AGAIN SCORES HIGH

Equally as exciting as any men's basketball game, was the Beaver game, Friday afternoon in the Gym in which the Grizzly co-eds suffered their first defeat, 28-24, of the season at the hands of their greatest rival. With this defeat Ursinus loses to Beaver the unofficial title of undefeated champions of the East.

The two teams were so evenly matched that it was a nip and tuck battle throughout both halves.

Ursinus without a doubt had the edge on Beaver during the first half, scoring 13 points to Beaver's 11. So well teamed up was the whole sextet that it would be difficult to choose any one outstanding player.

However, the "U" seniors, Ginna Fenton and Silvia Erdman played tip top in their last big game for Ursinus. As guard, Edna Meyers, held her reputation of being of the best.

It was in the latter part of the second half that the sparks began to fly which finally brought Beaver to the fore. The co-eds were so intent on winning their last game that 3 of the 4 foul goals were chalked up against them. One after the other, Beaver tossed in the pointers with Ursinus unable to keep apace. It was just after Squeaky Von Kleeck tossed in the final goal of the game that the whistle blew, ending the game with the score 28-24 in Beaver's favor.

The line-up:

Ursinus	pos.	Beaver
Erdman	F.	Thomas
Harshaw	F.	Miller
Von Kleeck	F.	Orr
Fenton	G.	Berger
Meyers	G.	Jeffer
Shoemaker	G.	Potts

Points: U.—Erdman 6, Harshaw 11, Von Kleeck 7, B.—Thomas 8, Miller 6, Orr 14. Referee — Mrs. Blanche Brown. Umpire — Leslie Perkins.

J. V.'s Also Beaten

Beaver handed Ursinus a second defeat in the second team game, which ended with the score 28-14.

Unlike the varsity game, it was a walk-away for the visitors from the start. Very few times did the ball remain in Beaver territory.

THOUGHTS TURN TO BASEBALL 'THO SNOW COVERS DIAMOND

But Six Players Left Around Which Nine Must Be Molded

With basketball all tucked away, and baseball just showing its way through the camphor, there's no time like the present to look over the Ursinus prospects for the coming baseball season.

Led by captain Toot Wildonger, the varsity horsehides back from last year include Shad Edwards, Frankie Tworzydlo, Sieb Pancoast, Fats Costello and Harry Zoll. Robbed of his keystone combination and first sacker by graduation, Jing Johnson expects to find his greatest difficulty in filling these positions.

As things stand at present we can expect to see Edwards behind the plate, and Zoll and Gemmel, a promising hurler of last years Jayvees, forming the nucleus of the battery. In the infield Tworzydlo will hold down the hot corner with Power and Epprecht leading the fight for the other three positions.

The outfield will find Wildonger and Pancoast romping at their old positions unless infield material is lacking; in that case Toot may be moved to first base, while Pancoast takes over the shortstop's role.

Other promising candidates are Eshbach, Gurzynski, Meklos, and Murray, all outfielders. Murray, who was kept on the sidelines last year, due to an injured knee, will attempt to make a comeback. In the event that he is able to play, "Jing" expects him to be a valuable asset to this year's club.

BASKETBALL HASH-OVER REVEALS THAT MEN'S TEAMS WON BUT ELEVEN GAMES OUT OF TWENTY-NINE TOTAL PLAYED

Sadly lacking in material and hounded by bad breaks, the Ursinus basketballers wound up a disastrous season by dropping fourteen games in fifteen starts.

The Hashagenites had two strikes on them when they started by failing to find an adequate center. In the emergency Frankie Tworzydlo had to step into the breach. Frankie, though a star performer, at guard, was badly handicapped by size. Although he turned in a creditable showing, he would have been more valuable at his regular post.

First under the wire was the never-ending fight showed by the entire club. Even though they lost game after game, the five scrappiest players on the floor were the men of Ursinus.

Victory Over Drexel

Next to step into the picture of "bright spots" was the first Drexel game, which brought the Bears their only victory, and the season's hero, Angie Vaccaro, whose money shot paved the way for the win. Crossing the line, neck and neck, for the show position were the fine all around playing of Billy Power, and the driving leadership of Fats Costello. Little can be said to add to Costello's fame. Always a driver, Costello never stopped battling for a minute, and, undoubtedly, the Kenmen fought their hardest when he was on the court.

Power Leads Scorers

Power, however, is another story. At the beginning of the season, Billy was an unknown quantity; but not for long. Stepping into a varsity position in the third game of the season, Will went on to prove himself the only consistent shooter on the team, and led the scoring with 84 points.

Combined with Power, Tworzydlo, and Costello, to form the starting lineup, were Jus Bodley and Elmer Gaumer.

Elmer teamed up with Power at forward. Though not a "flashy" player, he turned in a fair season connecting for 20 field goals and twelve free tosses for a total of 52 points. Jus finished up second in the scoring race with 60 points, but still did not come up to expectations. Caught in a prolonged slump, he could not seem to get going and played far below his ability all season.

Coach Kellett's freshman basketball crew made an impressive record during the season just closed. Of the fourteen games which composed their schedule, they were successful in defeating their opponents in ten.

The games they lost were by five, one, seven, and fourteen-point margins to undefeated Brown Prep, Penn J. V.'s., Villanova frosh, and an upset at the hands of Albright Frosh, a team previously beaten handily. After dropping the first three out of four, they registered four and five consecutive victories.

In total points, Ursinus outscored its opponents, 467 to 384, or 33.4 to 27.4 per game.

Keehn Top Ringer

Individually Bobby Keehn was far in advance of his teammates in scoring. He accounted for 152 points via 58 field and 36 foul goals. The rest of the big five ranged at rather even intervals from 84 to 44. Abe Chern had 84, Howard Wise 75, "Shorty" Schirmer 56, and Johnny Wise 44.

"Shorty" Schirmer fitted very well into the pivot position for the quartet of Brown Prep's basket-eers. The passing, shooting combinations clicked in almost every game. Those in the know believe Ursinus will not occupy the league cellar in the 1937-38 season.

SHREINER SEXTETTE LEADING PACK IN BASKETBALL LEAGUE

The co-eds played only one inter-dorm game this week which resulted in Fircroft losing to Clamer 10-21. Maples became a victor by virtue of Clamer's forfeit.

Shreiner still leads with day close behind. The standing is:

	W.	L.
Day	4	1
Maples	3	2
"612"	2	2
Clamer	2	3
Lynnwood	2	3
South	2	3
Fircroft	1	3
Glenwood	0	4

Even though the air is still crisp, our thoughts inevitably turn toward baseball. The major league teams have already gone South to open their practice sessions and some of the larger colleges have begun warming up in indoor cages. In glancing over Ursinus' prospects for the coming season we find that we have only 4 lettermen returning from last year's squad, these being Captain Wildonger, center-field, Shad Edwards, catcher, Sieb Pancoast, left-field, and Frank Tworzydlo, third-base. Freshmen H. Wise, Moyer, Walraven, Snyder, Gorman, Swift, Clark, and Toren have come here with an abundance of clippings in their pockets. Here's hoping that this year's crop of clippings will be even better than last year's.

Wrestling

145 lb. class, pinned his opponent in the fast time of 38 seconds. This is interesting, because Paris, apparently a quite versatile grappler, was pinned during a meet in his freshman year in the equally short time of 55 seconds. The only victory of this season was scored over Haverford.

Otto Paris captained the team in his senior year, the same year in which Herman "Reds" Bassman '36, started his remarkable record. An experienced squad started the season by defeating Temple 23-11. Paris threw the Temple captain, who was the 135 lb. Middle Atlantic States Champion. An odd bout occurred during this meet. The opponent of Hepner, the Ursinus wrestler, had a large time advantage when, with 33 seconds of the scheduled 10 minute match left, he pinned himself by lying on his back and kicking at the spry Hepner.

Bassman Has Perfect Year

Coach Carleton in 1934 was succeeded by Kuhrt Wieneke, former Penn State grappler and coach of athletics at Phoenixville High School. "Reds" Bassman was the only shining light in a dismal season. Bassman had an undefeated year, but the team won only one meet, again over the Battlefield Bullets.

In 1935, Ursinus beat Johns Hopkins 26-6, and was tied by Gettysburg. During this season, Bassman was forced to default one of his matches. This was his first loss since his freshman year. F. and M., Temple, and Lafayette handed the Bears their annual crushing defeats.

Last year Ursinus scored victories over Haverford and Johns Hopkins. Bassman finished his career (during which he was defeated only twice, losing two more, however, on defaults) by winning in the 165 lb. class at the Middle Atlantic Collegiate Wrestling Association's meet.

Hedgerow

Smithers did his best with a part which is greatly overshadowed, and Fred Nofer was a very convincing and terrifying witch doctor. Miriam Phillips was good as the old native woman, and the apparitions which beset the hungry, fear-crazed emperor were well directed. Not only did the actors prove their versatility and intensity, but they gave a performance of "Emperor Jones" which proved them worthy of O'Neill's powerful drama.

The barbarian cruelty of O'Neill is certainly enough for one evening, but it wasn't enough for the Hedgerow Theatre last Wednesday, for they added the civilized cruelty of Edna Saint-Vincent Millay's "Aria Da Capo." Jasper Deeter again appeared, but this time as the satiated Pierrot of Miss Millay's war-allegory. The total indifference of Pierrot and Columbine, acted by the versatile Miriam Phillips, formed an interesting contrast to the bitter struggle of the youths Corydon, Robert Hanley, and Thyrsis, Jay Davis, begun as a game and ended in death, supervised by fate.

"Aria da Capo" Offers Contrast

The play is a gem of dramatic allegory, and demands a thoughtful, highly sophisticated audience. It is doubtful whether an audience should be expected to follow its hidden tragedy and camouflaged bitterness after the straightforward primitiveness of "Emperor Jones". Whether or not these two should have been included on the same program is not for us to decide, however, and it must be admitted that both were well done.

It was an interesting week for those who were able to attend both evenings' performances. The audiences proved clearly that they were very grateful to the Hedgerow Theatre for coming here and providing the opportunity to see good plays well done by fine actors.

Hess To Address Postponed History Social-Science Meeting

Warren K. Hess '31, will address the History-Social Science Group at a meeting to be held on Friday evening, April 2. The group gathering, scheduled for March 12, has been postponed to suit the convenience of the speaker.

Mr. Hess is a graduate of both Ursinus and of the Law School of the University of Pennsylvania. He is now serving his first term in the Pennsylvania House of Representatives and is a member from Reading, Berks County. He will speak on his experiences as a new legislator. An informal meeting, with refreshments, will follow the address.

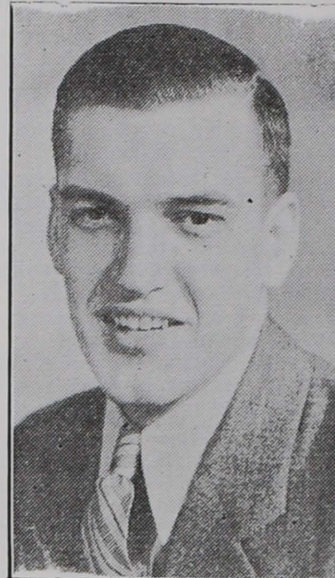

YORK ALUMNI HOLD LARGEST SESSION AND ELECT OFFICERS

On Friday evening, March 12, the Ursinus Alumni Association of York held its annual dinner at the York Country Club, the largest dinner ever held by this association. About seventy-five alumni and friends of the College attended, including a number of prospective students from York and Red Lion. After the delightful dinner during which college songs were sung, led by Gilbert A. Dietz '18, and accompanied by Elizabeth J. Yeates '30, the formal program was announced by Rev. Oliver K. Maurer '21, toastmaster and president of the Association.

In a short business session after this program the York Association elected the following officers for the coming year: President, Dr. Charles B. Heinly '00; Vice-President, Mrs. Emma Huyett Levingood '21; Secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Beck MacBride '30; Treasurer, Samuel S. Laucks '10; Assistant Treasurer, David R. Stephenson Jr. '34.

Among the speakers were President Norman E. McClure and Vice-President Donald L. Helfferich, who presented the achievements of the past year and the plans for the immediate future.

Ursinus Students Participate In Three College Night Programs

Students have been cooperating with the Registrar's Office in meeting College Night appointments in nearby high schools. Since March 1, Ursinus representatives have participated in three such programs in the immediate vicinity of the College.

On Friday, March 5, Ellen McMurtie, Kathryn Keeler, Sara Hallman, Elmer Gaumer, William Wimer and Albert Hill attended the program sponsored by the Norristown high school. They were accompanied by Registrar and Mrs. F. I. Sheeder, Dorothy Thomas, and Dorothy Horne '35. Sara Hoffer '28, of the Norristown high school faculty, assisted prospective students
