Letter from the Editor

Dear Reader,

Thank you for opening this very special issue of Osmosis Magazine! Made in the midst of the COVID-19 pandemic, the 9th issue of UR's premier science and healthcare magazine would not have been possible without the dedication of the whole Osmosis Team. I hope these articles answer some questions you've always had about the world, while prompting new and exciting interests. If you like what you read, do us a favor and share this magazine with your friends and family. In times when scientific news seems to always relate to sickness and death, we can all benefit from learning about more fun and intriguing developments in science and healthcare.

Your Editor-in-Chief,
Ryan Shah
