Four Babies Can Make Claim Of Being Canada's First In 1969

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Four babies, two boys and two girls were born at the stroke of midnight in four Montreal hospitals, giving them claim to being Canada's first baby of 1969.

The sons were born to Mrs. Andre Desparois, at Verdun General Hospital, and Mrs. Michael de Gruchy, at Montreal General Hospital.

The daughters were born to Mrs. Giovanni Vigna, at St. Mary's Hospital, and Mrs. William Moore, at St. Mary's Hos-firmed that the births occurred exactly at midnight.

contenders. The nearest baby born through Caesarean operation to Mrs. Giovanna Foddis

New Attempt Made In Paris To Get Peace Talks In Gear

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Cyrus R. Vance met today with a North Vietnamese envoy in a new attempt to get the stalled Paris peace talks moving. It was the first American-North Vietnamese meeting in two weeks.

Vance's session with Col. Ha Van Lau took place at a secret rendezvous, believed to be south of Paris.

Their meeting at American initiative suggested some shift may have taken place in the attitude assumed by the Saigon government on the tangled problem of the shape of the conference table.

The Saigon government had set itself positively against accepting a North Vietnamese proposal for making the Paris parity a round-table affair. Vance's view this would give the Viet Cong the appearance of independence and equality.

The United States had been ready to accept the round-table offer believing it would have been accepted widely as a symbol of compromise. In recent days Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker has been in contact with President Van Thieu in Saigon presumably going over the concept of Southern allied attitudes toward the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

Hollywood Girl Slain

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The attractive 17-year-old daughter of an actress and a novelist, home on Christmas vacation from college, was found slain late Wednesday at the bottom of a thickly-wooded ravine.

Dark-haired Marina Elizabeth Habe, daughter of Hans Habe of Zurich, Switzerland, and Eloise Harat, was last seen when she left on a date, Sunday night.

"She was definitely murdered," said Police Lieut. Norman Hamilton who was at the scene when the body was recovered. However, she said the cause of death would not be announced until after a coroner's autopsy. Witnesses said there were no visible marks on the body.

No arrests were made, but Lieut. Harold White said an alarm had been issued for a car near the girl's home early Wednesday morning. He said the male driver tried to molest a woman.

The girl's home in the Hollywood hills is located about four miles from the ravine where Marina was found. Officers said the ravine, clogged with thick brush, is off Mulholland Drive, a road known as a lover's lane. Expensive homes dot the hills. Nearby are houses owned by Robert Goulet and Pierre Salinger, a former presidential press secretary.

Chilly Return For Vacationers

NEW YORK (AP) — About 6,000 vacationers returned from holiday cruises in the balmy West Indies today to be met by bitter blasts of wind and the job of handling their own luggage because of a dock strike.

The cruise passengers' discomfort on the windy Hudson River docks was the most obvious effect of the strike by 75,000 longshoremen on the U.S. East and Gulf coasts.

With talks between the dock union and shippers broke off, a long strike was predicted by a union official.

Several Dynamite Charges Found After Shattering Blast

OTTAWA (CP) — An army munitions expert removed dynamite bombs from three mailboxes in the western section of the city today.

Authorities later said the bombs were live, "as live as we are and very, very dangerous." Reports said the first contained four sticks of dynamite, but details of the other two were not available. All three mailboxes where bombs were found are within a 1½-mile radius.

On New Year's Eve a dynamite bomb exploded outside a downtown government office building.

It shattered windows on the first five floors of the nine-storey building, ripped a hole four feet deep in the sidewalk and knocked down power lines.

The latest bomb finds were reported to police by a firm that picks up mail for the post office.

Spokesmen for the RCMP and Commons protective staff said no special security precautions are being taken on Parliament Hill. There are no outside mail boxes on the Hill.

The RCMP was not involved in the investigation of the Ottawa bombings, the spokesman said, but it was watching developments and would assist city police if called upon.

The men found wires leading from three mailboxes to the ground. When the boxes were opened, drivers found the wires

Mother And Six Children Perish In Montreal Blaze

MONTREAL (CP) — A woman, five of her eight children and a niece died early today when they were trapped by fire on the second floor of a three-storey wooden tenement building.

Marcel Beaudoin, 43, an unemployed janitor, managed to escape carrying his nine-year-old son Jean-Claude. Both suffered cuts, bruises, smoke inhalation and shock.

Dead are: Therese Beaudoin, 36, twin daughters Ginette and Rennee, 5, sons Jacques, 7, Sylvain, 6, and Gilles, 3, and niece Denise Boissy, 13, of Asbestos.

Two other Beaudoin children, Maurice, 16, and Pierre, 12, were visiting relatives in Sherbrooke, Que., when the fire broke out at 1:40 a.m. in the Barre Street tenement near Notre-Dame Street.

Police believe the fire was caused by a kitchen stove that blew up in the Beaudoin's flat. William Patterson, 70-year-old retired pensioner living on the first floor, said he was awakened by a child's screams.

"I rushed out to the back and saw flames shooting out from the Beaudoin's place upstairs. I went outside and saw a figure — I think it was Mr. Beaudoin — but his fist through the window. I ran back into our bedroom and woke up my wife. We got out just in time."

The Worst Of Hard Life Over Castro Tells Fellow Cubans

HAVANA (Reuters) — Prime Minister Castro today told an estimated 1,000,000 people that the hardest years of the Cuban revolution lie behind them and the most fruitful are ahead.

Castro, speaking after a 21-gun salute marking the 10th anniversary of the Cuban revolution, said the government is not wasting a gallon of gasoline on military parades today.

Nor were Cubans losing a single minute of work, he told the vast gathering, including delegates from Communist countries, in Revolution Square here.

He forecast there might be no 11th anniversary celebration Jan. 2 next year because all Cubans would be cutting cane to reach the revolution's goal of 10,000,000 tons of sugar in the 1970 harvest.

TOUGH TIMES AHEAD
"We finish 10 years and enter another 10—the hardest years are behind us, the most fruitful ahead," Castro said.

The prime minister, speaking beneath huge portraits of guerrilla leader Ernesto (Che) Guevara and slogans urging Cubans to great efforts in the 1970 harvest, said: "The coming year

Biafra Chief Seeks Truce

UNUAHIA (AP) — The leader of secessionist Biafra, Lt. Col. Ojukwu, has called for a limited truce in the Nigerian civil war to allow delivery of relief supplies and possibly open the way for peace.

Ojukwu proposed in a New Year's Eve broadcast that federal Nigeria and the breakaway eastern region join in a cease-fire and negotiations without preconditions.

He said that despite the 18-month civil war, there is still a wide area of "great mutual advantage" between Nigerians and Biafrans. Peace talks, he said, could cover many subjects including economic relations and the possibility of a Commonwealth arrangement.

Ojukwu said the federal forces have gained no territory since September.

POLICE CLOSED IN

Killing Spree Ends In Suicide

WESTERVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Ralph MacLachlan, a meat cutter who shot and killed his estranged wife and three other persons in a Wednesday night rampage, put a bullet through his head today as officers closed, police reported.

Mrs. MacLachlan, 33, was shot as she and members of her family sat in their home in this central New York village. Her sister Jane Burke Ringrose, 35, and Mrs. Ringrose's 13-year-old daughter Barbara were killed at the same time. The other four occupants of the house were wounded by a force MacLachlan left.

Police said he then ran to the next-door home of Mrs. James Pepper, apparently to try to get the Pepper automobile. Mrs. Pepper's 10-year-old son James was fatally wounded. Mrs. Pepper was critically wounded with shots in the head and spine.

Two other of her children saved their lives by hiding in a closet.
Police said MacLachlan stole a jeep from a service station and began a flight into the rough country of the Adirondack Mountains that sit just above Westerville.
Early today, the blue jeep was spotted by state trooper Dominick DePaola Jr., and Campbell at 10:24 p.m. Wednesday and screamed:

"Three people have been shot and I'm going to be shot next."
Campbell said: "I don't know what happened. She let out a scream and that was the last I heard."
Cynthia Ringrose, a young girl, was taken to hospital with what doctors called multiple wounds. Robert Ringrose was admitted with wounds in the chest. Mr. and Mrs. Barry Burke—parents of the two dead women and owners of the house in which three of the deaths came—also were shot more than once.

Near-blizzard conditions had hampered the search, which was concentrated in a 20-mile radius north of Westerville in one of New York state's snow belt areas. Roadblocks had been thrown up for miles.
In Westerville, a town of about 1,000 residents, word of the slayings spread quickly. Most residents were awake, with lights out. Many who owned guns got them out.
"I'm not going outside," one resident told a telephone caller.
"I've got my gun here and I'm not going outside until daylight," broke a civility in town law and everybody is scared, scared to death."

Prime Minister Ian Smith has indicated he has given up hope for a reconciliation with Britain, saying a breakaway Rhodesia might well play "the final hand" early this year. "It will be a year of decision, a turning point in our affairs," he said in a New Year's broadcast. "We cannot and will not trade our hard-won independence for any kind of external control or for any parliament which does not carry out its functions in the normal and proper manner.

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) — The trouble-plagued liner Queen Elizabeth 2 sailed into Southampton today to a cold welcome. The 65,000-ton Cunarder developed engine trouble during a trial cruise to the Canary Islands and steamed back at half speed of 14 knots. Cunard has refused to accept delivery of the liner from Scottish builders until the turbine trouble is cleared up and work completed on unfinished cabins.

Dr. Blaiberg Plans Party

CARE TOWN (AP) — Dr. Philip Blaiberg, the longest surviving heart transplant patient, planned a dinner party tonight to celebrate the first anniversary of his operation in a South African hospital. "I feel even better than I did years before the operation," said the chubby 58-year-old dentist who received a new lease on life when Dr. Christian Barnard's transplant team gave him a new heart at Groote Schuur Hospital last Jan. 2. Barnard was invited to the anniversary dinner.

Blaiberg said he took a glass of wine Wednesday, his first since the operation. "On that score you're behind me," Blaiberg was told by Rev. Charles Boulogne, the French Dominican monk who is No. 2 in length of survival for heart transplant patients. "I've been drinking for a long time now."

The two men talked briefly in a Paris-Cape Town telephone hookup arranged by a French radio station. Father Boulogne received his new heart last May 12. In New York, the first heart transplant patient of the New Year and two other patients who received kidneys in a multiple transplant operation were reported in satisfactory condition today.

The donor was Dr. Melvin Boigon, 48, a native of Toronto who died of a hemorrhage. Boigon, who had been living in New York, received his medical degree from the University of Toronto. His heart was transplanted into the chest of a 63-year-old patient at the Cornell University Medical Centre in New York and his kidneys were transplanted into two other male patients. Identity of the three recipients was not disclosed.

Except for a crisis that almost required a second heart transplant and kept him in the hospital 118 days last summer, Blaiberg has had a fairly normal life. He drives his own car, goes swimming, attends shows, receives visiting celebrities and several times a week has friends to tea at his apartment.

Cunard has refused to accept delivery of the liner from Scottish builders until the turbine trouble is cleared up and work completed on unfinished cabins.

Czechs Pledged To Make Reform

PRAGUE (CP) — Czechoslovakia's most sweeping government change since the August invasion left the occupied country today with similar leaders still in control and still pledged to press ahead with stalled reform programs.

Premier Oldrich Cernik's new federal government, announced Wednesday, contained no unexpected members. There was no indication that the wholesale reshuffle involved in setting up the new federal system would lead, under Soviet pressure, to a purge of progressives.

Diplomatic observers said the new lineup made no basic shift in the balance between progressives and conservatives. The federal system gives more autonomy to the Czech and Slovak governments but leaves over-all programs in the hands of the federal cabinet.

There were two additions to the cabinet's senior ranks. Jan Marko, 48, a relatively unknown engineer and economic specialist, was named foreign minister. He succeeds Jiri Hajek, who resigned Sept. 19 under Soviet pressure after denouncing the Warsaw pact invasion at the United Nations.

Marko was one of the progressives elected to the Communist party central committee at a clandestine congress soon after the invasion. The other new man is Jan Tabacek, also an engineer, named foreign trade minister. He succeeds Vaclav Vales, who became a deputy premier. One key position—that of speaker of the new federal legislature—has yet to be decided, and there are some indications there may be a battle over the man to fill the post. More than 1,000,000 Czech workers, many of them ready to go on strike to support their demands, insist that progressive Josef Smrkovsky be retained as speaker. Reformers still see the campaign to back Smrkovsky as a rallying point and believe that his removal would be a blow to their cause.

The federation calls for an even distribution between Czechs and Slovaks of the four top posts in the country and President Ludvik Svoboda and Cernik are both Czechs like Smrkovsky.

Communist party leader Alexander Dubcek is a Slovak and the leader of the Slovak Communist party, Gustav Husak, has insisted that another Slovak be speaker of the legislature. The accent through the cabinet was on men known as specialists to shepherd the inflation-troubled economy through a difficult period. Cernik, 47, also is an economic specialist.

There were no changes in the top ranks of the Communist party, which still is headed by Dubcek. The party is the country's most important body and sets the policy the government carries out.

Cernik's new cabinet contains seven senior ministers. Five of them were members of his government that resigned Sunday. They are Lt. Gen. Martin Dzur, the defence minister; Interior Minister Jan Pelnar; Finance Minister Bohumil Sucharda; Planning Minister Frantisek Vlasak and Labor and Welfare Minister Michael Stancel.

Ten-Car Pile-Up Kills Three On P.Q. Trans-Canada Highway

DORION, Que. (CP) — A 10-vehicle pile-up Wednesday claimed the lives of three Montrealers on the Trans-Canada Highway near here and sent four others to hospital. Killed were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Germain, aged 42 and 40 respectively, and Jean-Guy Laporte, 27. Provincial police Const. Gerard Roberge, 28, escaped death in a burning patrol car by crawling through a broken window. He doused flames on his clothes by rolling in a snowbank.

Also taken to hospital were two of the Germains' six children—daughters Carole, 15, and Andrée, 13—and Paul-Emile Pare, of Montreal, a fuel tanker driver. All four injured later were reported in satisfactory condition. The pile-up began after Pare's tanker stalled and he steered it to the side of the road. Following cars driven by Germain and Laporte collided and Const. Roberge stopped his cruiser behind the two cars to investigate.

SLAMS INTO CRUISER — Germain and Laporte were sitting in the cruiser with Roberge and Mrs. Germain standing beside the cruiser talking to Pare when a bus bound from Sudbury, Ont., slammed into the back of the cruiser. The cruiser smashed into the back of the Germains' car, ramming it into the back of the fuel tanker. The tanker's gasoline cargo exploded, showering the two cars with burning fuel.

Germain and Laporte died as a result of the crash but Roberge escaped through shattered windows. Mrs. Germain died under the rear wheels of the bus, but Pare, struck a glancing blow by the bus, was not badly injured. Half-a-dozen other cars skidded on the icy highway behind and crashed into the burning pile-up. No other injuries were reported. Dorion is 23 miles southwest of downtown Montreal.

THOSE WERE REAL WINTERS, BACK THEN

Any old-timer in the city will tell you winters were colder way back then, and living was a lot tougher. Well, here's some visible proof of that. In 1949, Okanagan Lake froze over, the last time this has happened. During that chilly winter, nine years before the Okanagan Lake bridge was opened, ferries had to plow their way through the ice, cutting this long swath of open water. The bulge at the centre of the trail across the lake is where the boats passed. Given to the Courier by R. H. Williams of Rutland, the picture looks down at the west side ferry landing and across the lake to a much smaller Kelowna.

POOR FORECAST

Sunshine Seen As Area Warms

Kelowna citizens are heaving a sigh of relief — a warm one — as temperatures continue to rise, breaking the back of one of the worst cold snaps in the area's history. The mercury began the climb back to almost seasonal temperatures Tuesday after nearly 100 hours of bitter sub-zero weather. The warming trend continued New Year's Day, with a high of 17 degrees reported. The low for the day was 13 degrees. As the mercury climbed back to tolerable levels, life returned to normal in the city — cars started, people shut off their ovens and removed blankets and towels packed into cracks in their houses. Although the weather-man is predicting snow flurries today, the sun peeked briefly this morning through heavy snow clouds that have covered the sky during the cold spell. However, by mid-day the clouds were back. A Pacific storm replacing the area of cold has been credited for the warming trend, which is expected to continue in the Okanagan, with temperatures above the freezing mark possible. The storm however, carries snow.

As Kelowna residents put away their extra blankets and woolen long-johns, service stations in the area report a slow-up in the avalanche of calls from stalled motorists whose cars had died of frost bite. Calls are still trickling in, one emergency road service representative said, but these are from people who never did manage to start their cars during the Arctic weather.

SEEN and HEARD

Kelowna residents, who with the week's snowfall and inclement weather stayed close to home, came out for the annual New Year's Eve festivities Tuesday evening if the traffic along Bernard Avenue was any indication. The downtown was busy with cars and taxis as city residents brought in the New Year with many celebrations in the downtown area.

Although most people like to keep their Christmas tree decorating their living room until a few days after New Year's at least, a few seem anxious to get the evergreens out of their homes. Trudging along Pandosy Street today was a man carrying a still-fresh Christmas tree, bearing the last remnants of the tinsel and decorations. At the other extreme are those families who can't seem to bear parting with their Yule tree and wait until either all the needles have fallen off or the thing takes root in the floor.

Reporters occasionally write some weird things, with deadlines approaching. Their mistakes usually come because their minds are working too fast, quicker than their fingers on the typewriter. The results are often humorous, as in today's weather report, which, before being corrected, said the temperature near Banff was one to two inches below zero.

Automotive men in Kelowna are breathing a trifle slower today in the wake of the cold snap which sent them their busiest few days in years. Motorists can now actually phone a garage or repair shop and get an answer. For many during the Christmas period even contact with a mechanic was impossible. "It was crazy," said one garage operator today, "but now we can see daylight and are just polishing off the remaining cars afflicted by the big freeze-up assault."

SCHOOL SAFETY

Elmer's Success Continuing

Elmer the Safety Elephant is having his say and about 2,700 students in district elementary schools are listening.

Elmer's mouth-piece is RCMP Const. Dave Roseberry of the school patrols, who has known Elmer ever since he originated more than a year ago. Elmer is a friendly beast but like any live animal he can become a little annoyed when someone is injured at local schools. The flag will come down and safety-conscious students will dismay.

Fortunately for Const. Roseberry and the entire district, Elmer's elephant program has proved most successful. Only a few accidents have occurred since Elmer had his say.

Back fall Const. Roseberry goes into district elementary schools and gives the students a talk on safety, and when an accident occurs such as the one at Glenmore this fall he returns for a refresher course.

The program has proved successful, said Const. Roseberry. It was introduced into grades 1, 2 and 3 and all the children are involved. The reason for introducing it to those grades, he said, was so students would have a basis for safety which would be useful in later years. Two years ago the Associated Canadian Travellers decided to sponsor the program. In the spring of 1967 the program was introduced into a few schools and since then its been spreading.

Pentlton, Vernon, Prince George and Kamloops are operating similar programs. Const. Roseberry, pilot of the school patrols, conducts safety talks in the schools.

Each child receives nine pamphlets, including seven of the coloring variety. The pamphlets, printed by the Sunnyvale Workshop, are being distributed to the schools. Half have gone out and the remainder will be distributed during the first week of school in the new year.

The program is largely self-containing, with teachers playing key roles.

The Elmer Safety program originated in Ontario in 1947 when a group of parents and educators decided action was urgently needed to reduce the number of traffic accidents producing injury to children. It was introduced to Toronto on a public service basis by the Toronto Telegram, which fostered its growth during the first decade.

During the first year of the Elmer program in Toronto, the accident toll among Toronto school children was reduced 44 per cent, while motor vehicle registration increased by 10 per cent.

Gradually the program spread throughout Ontario and became known across Canada. To give Elmer national recognition, the Canadian Highway Safety Council assumed administration of the program on the national level.

Elmer's six traffic rules are a result of a study by safety authorities. They include: look both ways before crossing a street; obey all signs and signals; when cycling, play games away from the streets, and walk on the left hand side of the road facing traffic.

Accident-free schools fly the Elmer pennant outside the school. After an accident the flag is lowered, for 30 days if the child is involved in an accident through breaking one of Elmer's rules.

This shows the rest of the school an accident could happen to anyone.

She Expected To Be Winner In Baby Race

Mrs. William McRorie of RR 1, Green Bay Road, had it figured all along but no one would believe her, her husband, her relatives and even her close friends.

Mrs. McRorie, who was convinced she would have the first New Year's baby, made believers of them. Wednesday when she gave birth to a seven-pound, six-ounce girl, the family's first born and the first New Year's baby born at Kelowna General Hospital.

"She said all along, she was going to have a New Year's baby," said Mr. McRorie, "but no one would believe her. I kind of laughed at the suggestion. I don't know how, but she had it figured out."

The baby was expected sometime between Christmas and New Year's but no one but the mother was prepared for the surprise.

The baby arrived at 5:04 a.m. and mother and daughter are doing fine.

The baby, who will be called Heather Louise, along with her mother, will be showered with dozens of gifts.

"As usual the father is almost left out of the gift department, but many of the prizes will help ease the spending burden when the family resumes its home life with the new addition.

From nearly a dozen Kelowna merchants come prizes such as a hair-do for the mother, a pair of stretch sleepers for the baby, two cases of baby food, a pair of shoes, a pair of cuff links for the father, a bouquet of flowers for the mother, a blanket for the baby, a month's supply of milk and a magazine subscription.

Unidentified Juvenile Hurt While Walking Along Street

A local juvenile is in hospital today after being struck by a car on Sutherland Avenue early New Year's Day.

The pedestrian accident was one of a rash of traffic mishaps that kept the RCMP busy as citizens rang out the old and brought in the new.

The juvenile, whose name has not been released, was the only person injured in traffic during the holiday. He is in "satisfactory" condition. Police said he suffered a dislocated hip. Driver of the car was Nik Mason. The accident occurred at 3:25 a.m.

Police investigated the usual family fights during the festi-ties in the city, a stolen car and other minor thefts.

The stolen car, a blue and white 1959 Chevrolet, B.C. license 729-911, was taken at Westbank from Jack Stringer sometime Wednesday night.

Several cars went out of control on slippery roads and struck utility poles. Brian Greer, Kelowna, was driver of a truck that hit a tree at Lakeshore Road and Bluebird Road about 4 a.m. Wednesday. Damage was estimated at $1,200.

A car driven by Dennis Titmanich, Rutland, slid off Belgo Road several hours earlier and struck a utility pole. Police estimated damage at $800.

At 9 p.m. Tuesday a car driven by Gordon Meuth, Albion, struck a utility pole at Winfield resulting in about $500 damage.

A two-car collision on the Carol parking lot, the second within two days, occurred Tuesday at 6:15 p.m. Drivers of the cars were George MacGillivray, Westbank, and Robert Schonberger, Rutland. Damage was about $550.

Total damage of $2,500 was done today at 8:50 a.m. when a car and truck collided in the intersection of Harvey Avenue and Ethel Street. Driver of the truck, which ended on a lawn, was Edmund Morskin, Lakeshore Road. The car was driven by Michael Reid, Okanagan Mission. Police said one of the drivers went through a red light at the intersection.

In spite of usual New Year's celebrations, police did not find cause to arrest anyone and RCMP cells remained empty during the holiday. The same situation occurred during Christmas, although police were ready to offer any prisoner a turkey dinner.

Busy Schedule For New Year

As a convention city, Kelowna will be as busy as ever in 1969, the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce predicts.

Looking toward the new year, Bill Stevenson, chamber manager, lists 10 major conventions or events to be held in the sunny Okanagan, two of them of national interest. The meetings should bring thousands of people during the next 12 months.

Topping the list is the Dominion Drama Festival, to be held at the Kelowna Community Theatre, May 20 to 25. The affair climaxes a year of preparation and acting competitions by theatre groups across the nation. Along with the competing actors will come the CBC, which will make an hour-long color feature of the finals for national network release. Kelowna, as well as the actors, will be in the spotlight.

The DDF finals have precipitated demands in the city for an extensive expansion and updating program at the theatre.

Also of national interest will be the Canadian Junior Golf Championships, scheduled to be played on the Kelowna greens in late August. Top teen-age golfers will be competing in the well-known competition.

And of course, there is the 63rd annual Kelowna International Regatta, which draws athletes, top entertainers and tourists from around the continent and further. As usual, the Regatta will be held the second week in August.

Early in the new year, about 300 delegates from Gyro district four will converge on Kelowna for that organization's annual convention. The dates set are Jan. 31 to Feb. 2.

Next major event on the chamber's list is a convention of the Canadian Mental Health Association, which met in Calgary last year. This national convention will be held March 20 to 22.

On April 19 and 20, the Lions Club district will meet in Kelowna.

May promises to be a busy month with four large conventions. The B.C. Association of Adult Education Directors will hold a convention May 1 to 13. They will be followed by B.C. Bottlers' Association, meeting May 9 to 11.

Taking some relaxation in the city May 14 to 16 will be the Fruit Shoppers' Association, which will hold its annual golf tour here. Ending the month will be a large convention of the B.C.-Yukon Junior Chamber of Commerce, scheduled for May 28 to June 1.

Last on the list compiled to date by the chamber is a convention of the B.C. Provincial Council, Sept. 27 to Oct. 1.

In addition to these listed events, many smaller groups are expected to come to Kelowna for their annual meetings or on special tours or trips.

Apple Harvest Boost Forecast

The value of apple production in the Okanagan is expected to increase to $46 million by 1985, according to a long term outlook report by the B.C. department of agriculture.

Forecast of the production increase was calculated on the basis of current prices and constant dollars, the report says. Comparatively new cultural methods, rather than increased acreage, will be mainly responsible for the gain, the department says.

"The discovery of several spur type McIntosh trees in the Okanagan during the past two seasons could have an important effect on the future of that variety and could be of great value, particularly to the North Okanagan," the report notes.

It predicts that pest control — now a costly, exacting and time consuming operation carried out mainly with the use of chemicals — will be more dependent on non-chemical methods such as predators, parasites, induced sterility and resistant varieties.

Output of peaches in the Okanagan should be doubled by 1985, the report forecasts, while cherries will increase by 65 per cent, pears by 30 per cent, apricots will remain about the same and there will be a small decrease in prune production.

Air freight will play an increasing role in the transportation of at least the higher priced products that have a relatively short storage life, says the department.

An increased Canadian demand for wine is responsible for a rapid gain in grape production in recent years, the report states, and the increase is expected to continue.

From the 7,500,000 pound 1967 production and the estimated 10,700,000 pound crop in 1968, production in 1985 is forecast at 39,300,000 pounds. The report anticipates that 90 per cent of the Okanagan grape production will continue to be made in the south.

The report forecasts that by 1985 the vegetable industry will more than double with all the increase being in the north part of the valley.

"In the North Okanagan, opportunities are believed to exist in vegetable crops for processing such as green peas, beans, corn and asparagus and, in special locations, crops such as tomatoes and lettuce," it states.

"Potato production would increase greatly."

The largest concentration of dairy production is in the North Okanagan and no change in that situation is anticipated.

"South Okanagan production has been declining and is expected to continue to do so," the report states. Milk production increased 10 per cent in 1968 and the trend is expected to continue in 1969 despite about five per cent reduction in the number of shipments.

Production is expected to more than double by 1985 as a result of increased herd size.

Long Distance Calling Busier Than Last Year

Business was up Wednesday from a year ago, the Okanagan Telephone company head office in Vernon reported today.

Operator calls this New Year's Day increased 18.6 per cent from last year, with 715 calls reported, compared with 603 a year ago. Kelowna and district residents made 1,653 direct distance dialing calls, compared with 964 in 1968. This was a 71.5 per cent increase from New Year's day a year ago.

The area involved is Kelowna, Rutland, Okanagan Mission, Peachland, Westbank and Winfield.

Evelyn Tebo, traffic superintendent for the telephone company said she was encouraged by the number of people who were making their calls directly.

"We are encouraging people to dial their own calls," she said. "Kelowna customers are showing they are doing this," with a 71 per cent increase from last year's figures.

Overall increases were shown in the number of calls made by the Kelowna area during the year.

"We are pleased with the increase," she said.

Plows, Sand Trucks Needed As White Stuff Hits Highways

Most highways reported snow, the department of highways said in its road report to 8:30 a.m. today.

The largest snowfall was in the Allison Pass, where six to 10 inches of snow fell overnight. The road had been plowed and sanded, with a "compact snow" road. Highway 97 had about two inches of snow, plowing and sanding was in progress. Kelowna-Beaverdell had two to four inches of snow, plowing and sanding in progress.

Six inches of snow fell in the Monashee Pass, where the temperature was zero. A "compact snow" road was reported and plowing and sanding was in progress. Highway 1 Vernon-Lambly to Cherryville had four to six inches of snow with sanding and plowing. The Fraser Canyon road had three to six inches of snow, a "compact snow" road, plowing and sanding.

A "compact snow" road was reported with slippery sections at Kamloops, at Salmon Arm eight inches of snow, and similar road conditions. Schematic had five inches of snow and similar conditions. Revelstoke seven inches of snow. These roads had been plowed.

In the Rogers Pass from Revelstoke to Golden one to three inches of snow had fallen, plowing and sanding in progress. Golden to Banff gate had a trace of new snow, plowing and sanding. Banff gate to Calgary the road was mostly bare with some slippery sections, and drifting snow at Scott's Lake and Morley Flats. The temperature was one to two degrees below zero.

Motorists were advised to use winter tires or carry chains. In the Rogers Pass, Allison Pass, and on the Kelowna-Beaverdell road, in the Monashee Pass and in the Fraser Canyon area drivers should use winter tires and carry chains.

SNOW is forecast for the Okanagan Friday.

Today should be cloudy with snowflurries; mostly cloudy Friday with snow beginning in the afternoon. Winds should be light, increasing to southerly 20 in the main valleys Friday afternoon, milder. The low to night and high Friday should be 20 and 35. The low and high recorded in Kelowna Tuesday were 13 and 17 with .69 inches of precipitation, compared with 2) and 34 on the same date a year ago.

New Year In Quietly

New Year's was a quiet period for the Kelowna Fire Brigade, which reports only one fire during the holiday.

The brigade was called to a car fire on Tuesday at 6 p.m. However, the blaze was out when firemen arrived at the scene, in the 1800 block Broadview Avenue.

Seven routine ambulance calls were made by the brigade in the past three days.

Mini-Blitz This Month

The Central Okanagan Community Chest hopes to launch a mini-blitz Jan. 20 in a last ditch attempt to push the campaign over the top.

Campaign chairman Mike Roberts said today about 150 canvassers will be needed to contact the estimated 1,400 residents who have not yet contributed. "No canvasser will be asked to make more than 10 calls," he said, "if we get the required number of canvassers."

The drive, which started Sept. 30, has netted $54,107, or 83.4 per cent of the $65,000 quota. Anyone wishing to volunteer for the blitz can contact Tom Finkelstein at 4-8777 or Mike Rudkin at 2-5299.

Bishop Scott In Running

Two candidates have been named for the post of chancellor of Notre Dame University at Nelson to succeed the retiring Chancellor, Most Rev. W. E. Doyle, Bishop of Nelson. They are Dr. Hugh Kelson, a co-chairman of the British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority, and Rt. Rev. E. W. Scott, Anglican Bishop of Kootenay, of Kelowna.

Ballots were mailed to about 1,200 eligible voters in Canada, voting ended Tuesday.

Until this spring, the position was filled automatically by the Roman Catholic Bishop of Nelson. Changes in the university bill of incorporation have amended this policy, said a university spokesman.

Strike Up The Band

After an absence of nearly three years the Kelowna City Band is ready to strike up again. Disbanded in June 1966, the band has been active in recent weeks trying to drum up interest and financial support.

A drive for new members has been conducted and the Kelowna city council has been asked to consider an annual grant, such as the band received in the past. Band director Monty Hughes has announced the first band practice will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the band room of the Kelowna Secondary School.

1968: You're Gone

The year 1968 has passed into history. It was not a year of major world-wide tragedy, presaging bitter black ruin for all mankind. No mad Hitler stalks the international stage, and nobody is predicting a 1930-type depression. But the mere fact that those two reassurances sound so obvious and trite points up again the maddening story of how easy are the opportunities that we are mulling.

The most determined New Year resolution for the ordinary man in 1969 should be not to allow politicians and public servants everywhere to con him into the counter-revolution of falling expectations. In all the developed and truly developing countries, the management of a modern state ought to be an unprecedentedly simple job. On the economic plane, a technical, educational and managerial revolution has proffered our generation the scope for the most decisive surge in mankind's long rise from unending toil to the threshold of comfort and leisure.

In the field of diplomatic affairs, it may seem more controversially optimistic to say that a statesman's role has grown steadily more easy to fill without bumbling. But it is worth hurrying that possibly for the first time in history, none of the great rich nations of the world today either is ruled by an ambitious warlord or looks remotely likely to be ruled by one in the near future. The Russians could go daft and pick a bad one, but more likely they will not. Among the governors of the great rich powers who will have the capability to destroy the world, there is luckily a strong consensus of opinion in favor of not destroying it. The basic reason for this more sober state of affairs, compared with the heydays of Prussia and other warrior states of the past, is almost certainly economic. The people of the great world powers now have a standard of living to enjoy, and they intend to go on enjoying it. Marshal McLuhan has compared our civilization to a man driving a car with his eyes constantly fixed on the rear mirror. The remark has an element of truth. Perhaps because we seem to be moving faster and anyhow, the 1968 stretch of road is not pleasurable memorabilia. In terms of pure knowledge, the pace in most fields is as brisk as ever. The technologist is pressing on but how easy it is to think of 1968 in terms of things we would be thoroughly glad to be rid of. The ineffable tedium that has engulfed the universities, converting them into an absurd nursery parody of revolution. Or President Johnson's gloomy administration, even if its successor may prove no better. And all those dreadful words like participation, communication, coalition, dialogue, meaningful, monetary, viable and super-sonic. Of anguished politicians telling us to keep calm and others trying to stir us up. Of hot air in abundance about pot, pill and pop; of all Stones and Beatles and Monkeys. Of urbanization, squeezes and freezes, pollution, Russian bullying, Chinese cruelty and Argentinian and Spanish impudence.

Apart from learning how to pronounce Ronald Reagan and that trip around the moon, the world made few notable advances in 1968. There were times when we thought we could tell Lee Kuan Yew and Nii Van Ho from Nguyen Duy Trinh, but we didn't stick to it, and it slipped away. Axel Springer, long thought to be an automobile part, briefly sprang into clear identity, but faded back into the limbo with Eugene McCarthy and John Diefenbaker. And Jackie Onassis was branded a public sinner and looked well on it.

Farewell 1968: don't think we aren't glad to know you're gone.

Short Takes

Out of the United States Army Information Office at Fort Bragg comes an interesting bit of information. Each year they do their bit for the Christmas spirit by taking the song "The Twelve Days of Christmas" and giving the current price of each item mentioned. You know, the partridges, the pear trees and all that. Thus, each year, we are indebted to them for a pretty accurate measure of the actual cost of "true love". The Bragg team reckoned last year the twelve days would have cost exactly two hundred and twenty-four dollars and seven cents. Obviously it is quite clear that the cost of loving is rocketing upwards. So far Mr. Trudeau has made no pronouncement on his plans for controlling the situation. He should.

One of the curiosities of the space race between the American and the Russians has been the difference between their approaches to publicity. The Americans opened up the Apollo venture, to maximum public attention; in the event of a failure they were exposed to poor publicity to the extent that their success gave them favorable publicity. The Russians continued to work behind the screen of absolute secrecy. What they plan to do remains a matter of speculation. Even what they have achieved remains in doubt. The American approach is certainly in the national tradition—open, outgoing and occasionally verging on the exhibitionist. It has been suggested that one reason is to keep the American public enthusiastic enough to support the cost of the operation. There may be something in that, but it is true too that Americans believe the public has a right to know and that is a healthy thing.

The Israelis, in attacking the airport at Beirut forfeited much of the sympathy they had enjoyed in their squabble with the Arab states. The airport attack seemed hardly justified as a reprisal to the shooting up of the Israeli aircraft at Athens. The deliberate military manoeuvre against Lebanon will make many people wonder if the Israelis are deliberately trying to provoke another war. In the border skirmishes which seem to occur daily, many will now wonder if Israel is not the aggressor.

Long History Of Pros, Cons Seen In Prohibition Dispute

OTTAWA (CP) — In 1830, Rev. Anson Greene wrote from Toronto that "drunkenness and tipping are crying evils in the land."

Much had been accomplished by temperance groups, "but still there are thousands who are not ashamed to brawl in the streets and stagger in the presence of the sun!"

Prohibition forces were on the move against the alcohol that had flowed unhindered through Canadian life since the fur trade days.

They were building towards a peak, reached 50 years ago in 1818, by which time eight of Canada's nine provinces had gone "dry."

Upper and Lower Canada before Confederation had already reacted to temperance demands by passing a law restricting the method and amount of alcohol sales in areas which elected this by local option.

After 1867, other provinces in the new union asked for similar laws. Prohibition groups banded together in the Dominion Alliance for the Total Suppression of the Liquor Traffic to add impetus to the push.

MATTER FOR PROVINCES
Senator R. W. Scott brought in the Canada Temperance Act in 1878, the first Dominion liquor measure. Passed the same year, the Scott Act provided total prohibition on liquor sales under local option, with the exception of sales for sacramental or medicinal purposes or "bona fide use in some art, trade or manufacture."

Tested in the courts, the Scott Act stood up well, despite an appeal to Britain's Privy Council. But a later attempt by Ottawa to control licensing of liquor vendors ran afoul of the courts, which ruled this should be a provincial power.

Prohibition-minded provinces began to enact their own control laws.

Prince Edward Island on June 4, 1901, became the pioneer prohibition province. In fact, the island had been dry almost continually since the Scott Act days 20-odd years before.

British Columbia brought in a 1910 law allowing prohibition by local option. In the same year Nova Scotia enacted prohibition for the whole province with the exception of Halifax.

The First World War added impetus to the movement.

A growing food shortage in Britain and war-ravaged Europe was used as a potent argument that Canadian grain should go into flour instead of whisky.

QUEBEC STAYS WET
Manitoba went dry in 1916, then Nova Scotia and Alberta. Ontario passed an act prohibiting sale of alcoholic beverages except for native wines.

Saskatchewan, New Brunswick and British Columbia all had full prohibition by 1917.

But Quebec did not. And liquor vendors there had made sure that others knew they were still in business by mailing advertising flyers to the dry provinces quoting prices and offering to ship out their wares.

Prohibitionists wanted this gaping loophole closed.

In 1916, a tough government bill to stop shipment of alcoholic beverages into the dry provinces was passed by the House of Commons.

It said a person illegally sending liquor into a dry area could be tried either at the place to which he shipped it or the place the shipment originated. Reversing the usual tenet that an accused is innocent until proved guilty, it placed the onus on an accused shipper to show that there was no intent that the liquor would be used illegally in the dry province.

MODIFIED BY SENATE
The bill also prohibited any liquor advertising being sent by mail into dry provinces. It got rapid approval in the Commons but encountered rough going in the Senate. In that chamber of sober second thought, the Senate...

The appointed members of the upper house, obviously less responsive to prohibition pressure than the elected members of the Commons, felt it was drastic and unrealistic. They chopped out the clause on advertising and amended

CANADA'S STORY

- Dinosaur Discovery More Vital Than Gold
By BOB BOWMAN
Which would you rather do: develop a mine that produced gold worth $28,000,000 or prove that dinosaurs once lived in the province of Alberta? Those were some of the achievements of J. B. Tyrrell, one of the greatest explorers but little-known heroes of Canadian history. Tyrrell's discovery of dinosaur skeletons in Red Deer Valley is rated as being the most important finds of its kind on the continent because it provided scientists with valuable evidence about the development of the world.
- The gold mine he developed was Kirkland Lake, and if his financial backers had followed his advice they could have added Teck-Hughes which produced gold worth $100,000,000.
- Other Tyrrell discoveries were the largest coal deposit in Canada, at Drumheller, Alberta, and the mineral belt at Flin Flon, Manitoba.
- In addition to those achievements, Tyrrell and his brother James W. explored parts of the northlands that had not been seen for 100 years, when Samuel Hearne made his trip from Hudson Bay to Coppermine River in 1771. They were on such a trip on Jan. 2, 1894, and traveled more than 2,000 miles by canoe and walking on snow-shoes. They were so close to starvation that they had to crawl rather than walk the last miles to Churchill, Manitoba. After resting nine days, J. B. Tyrrell put on his snowshoes and walked 900 miles to Winnipeg.
- How's that for a boy who had long trouble, and was advised by the doctor to live in the woods! He nearly died many times, from disease, starvation, or danger, but lived to be 80, still enjoying life and his daily walks.
- OTHER EVENTS ON JAN. 2:
1820—Supreme Court of Newfoundland was established.
1832—W. L. Mackenzie was awarded gold medal by his constituents after being expelled from Upper Canada legislature.
1877—Grand Trunk engine drivers went on strike resulting in chaotic conditions.
1884—Grand Trunk Railway collision near Toronto killed 31 people.
1895—Privy Council reversed Supreme Court decision on Manitoba Separate Schools controversy.
1901—Merchant Bank became Royal Bank of Canada.
1906—Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company was formed at Trail, B.C.
1908—Royal mint opened at Ottawa.
1920—Canada and U.S.A. signed convention to preserve Niagara Falls.

OTTAWA REPORT

Leo Cadieux Stands Firmly On Ground

By PATRICK NICHOLSON

The Liberal leadership race and the federal election brought fresh characters onto the centre stage and gave fresh opportunities to some familiar characters. But paradoxically the cabinet minister who is earning the most new respect by his authority, and winning the most admiration for his manner, is unique in that he neither sought the leadership nor changed his cabinet role. This man is Leo Cadieux, minister of national defence.

Mr. Cadieux was elected to the House of Commons first in 1962, to represent Terrebonne County, Quebec, the huge tract reaching up to Montreal's backdoor and providing that city's mountain playground known as The Laurentians.

Within three years, with French-Canadian ministers falling like ninepins in Pearson's scandal session, the Quiet Man from rural Quebec was appointed to fill one of the gaps. At first he seemed to have everything against him in his new post as associate minister of national defence. He was still a parliamentary unknown, French-Canadians were in decline in Parliament, defence had been traditionally an unpopular milieu with Quebecers, and Mr. Cadieux had no military record.

WIDE PAST EXPERIENCE
But the man who came to Parliament Hill as a 34-year-old rookie was no stranger to politics, to Ottawa, nor to the public projection of his personality. After graduation, he had joined the editorial staff of Quebec's greatest French-language newspaper, La Presse; during the war he had been drafted to set up the French language army public relations branch at national defence headquarters in Ottawa, then he served as a war correspondent in France, and he had won election to the mayoralty of St. Antoine des Laurentides.

The load of daily administration of our national defence at once fell upon Mr. Cadieux, for his co-minister, Hon. Paul Hellyer, was up to his eyebrows in planning the unification of the armed services and fighting the attendant political battle. Mr. Cadieux "exactly fitted the 'Let's get on with it' attitude of the defence chiefs, and his quiet industrious efficiency quickly won their admiration."

Last year Defence Minister Paul Hellyer moved to the transport portfolio, and Leo Cadieux was appointed to replace him—the first French-Canadian ever to hold that post, although four had held the lesser position as minister of militia long ago.

OUR DEFENCE ROLE
In the new Trudeau government, defence has become one of the storm centres, both in Canada and internationally. Should Canada live up to its moral and contractual obligations? Or should Canada withdraw its troops from the NATO forces in Europe, and pull out of the NORAD defence of North America?

The Quiet Man from rural Quebec has spoken his mind: Canada has an important role to play in the defence of the western world, perhaps by its actual participation rather than by the comparative strength of its forces. "I am mild, but I am not meek, and I accept my responsibilities," Mr. Cadieux once said, and this epigram seems to epitomize his present stance as a great influence in a very delicate situation. In supporting the concept that Canada should not pull out of NATO, Mr. Cadieux appears to reflect the wishes of a majority, though not of all, Canadians.

In an even more delicate situation, Mr. Cadieux has also spoken. As a member of the federal government, he must be a self-proclaimed federalist, not a separatist. Asking what he felt about Quebec's "yes" and "no," he replied firmly to me: "What Quebec people ask for today is equality—nothing else."

From these two examples, it is clearly shown just why Hon. Leo Cadieux has grown into his present status as one of the strong men and most popular men in the cabinet.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Doctor Is Fussy About Shoe Fitting

By DR. GEORGE THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson:
Please discuss the pros and cons of various types of shoes and the effect they have on children's feet—cowboy boots, tennis shoes, sandals, oxfords.

What points should one look for in proper fit? What ill-effects can result from poor fitting?—Mrs. N.T.H.

We're talking about normal feet, aren't we?

For the average healthy child, I don't hold any particular brief for any special type of shoe but I'm very fussy about the importance of correct fit.

Boots, tennis shoes, and sandals, generally speaking, are worn for reasonably short periods, but with them, again, the "important point" is proper fit rather than the type of shoe.

Oxfords? Fine, after the age of two or three years. Before that a high shoe is used because it stays on better. Ankle protection is not necessary.

A rule for proper fitting of shoes is to feel the foot through the shoe. (X-ray fitting of shoes has pretty well disappeared and ought to disappear entirely.)

A shoe should be the width of a thumb longer than the child's foot and the width of a little finger wider. The heel should fit snugly.

The size of children's feet should be checked frequently, because youngsters grow in spurts, and the feet at times can grow far more rapidly than the shoes wear out. Unless you are careful about this, a youngster can be walking around in shoes that don't fit him. Too often youngsters take this stride, curl up their toes, cram their feet into too little space, and don't complain. You have to do the watching for them.

Poorly fitting shoes, principally meaning shoes that are too small, can start a host of troubles; some of which may last all their lives; weak arches, corns, calluses, hammer toe, leg cramps, foot pains, not to mention blisters and such troubles.

The flexible soles of tennis shoes and sandals are well tolerated by a child's foot.

The big point is proper fit. For that, I have found that shoes featuring children's shoes usually now very well-qualified to see that the fit is proper. Just remember to check shoes from time to time and see that they still fit.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How can you tell the difference between flu and an ordinary cold?—J.P.

In severe flu, you're sick enough so there isn't any doubt and fever is present. Severe aches is a common symptom.

In mild cases of flu, there is no positive way to tell the difference, except by very complicated laboratory studies of samples of the virus that is present.

Treatment for mild flu is the same as for a cold.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What would cause a metallic taste in the mouth? I have this almost constantly. Mrs. M.E.D.

This may result from medications, particularly from anti-biotics or iodides. If you are not taking medicines containing these, remember that both elements sometimes are included in vitamin preparations.

Another possibility is interaction between metallic fillings in teeth, sometimes making it a factor; in some cases nervous disorders are involved and sometimes mild sedation solves the difficulty.

ANN LANDERS

Wives Sick Of Sex But Hungry For Love

Dear Ann Landers: I do believe you are getting balmy in your old age. When that pathetic woman wrote that she was sick of sex—she got nothing out of it but frustration and fatigue—and went on to say she has had seven children in 14 years, you advised her to teach her husband to be a good lover. In fact, you suggested Night School.

Take my word for it, Ann, lessons won't help him. The teaching should have been done years ago—by parents who set an example of gentleness and affectionate behavior in the home. I know what I'm talking about because I am married to the same kind of a lummock as the woman who wrote.

We had six children in 14 years and I can tell you there is no relation between the number of children a woman has and sexual compatibility with her husband. This may sound disgraceful but I'm going to say it anyway. I feel like a prostitute. I satisfy my husband's sexual needs in exchange for financial security, respectability and the social prestige that goes with being his wife. Your suggestion that the unfulfilled woman teach her husband how to be a good lover is just plain absurd. These men don't want to learn. They are interested only in satisfying their animal passions.

Period—SICK OF SEX AND HUNGRY FOR LOVE

Dear Hungry: I've had so many thoughtful letters from wives with this same complaint that I am rethinking the problem. More later.

Confidential to Should I Sue?: You could, yes, but my advice is forget it. Suits of this kind are costly and usually they end up giving the sordid story more publicity than it received the first time around. Even a verdict in your favor would leave unconvinced those people who want to believe it.

Local Couple Celebrates 25th

Mr. and Mrs. William Woods recently celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary with a party at their residence at 2137 Pandosy St., Kelowna with many relatives present.

The happy couple were presented with many lovely gifts, flowers and cards and flowers were also received from England. Mrs. Woods was born in Brighton and came to Kelowna in 1916 and William Woods, born at Atherton, England, came here in 1914.

During the afternoon tea, the table was centred with a lovely two-tiered wedding cake made by Mr. and Mrs. Doug Sutherland. The cake was flanked by two cut-glass candle sticks with white tapers. Mrs. Elsie Orsi and Mrs. Lily Buttice, sisters of Mr. Woods, shared the honors pouring tea. The silver tea-pot used, was given to their parents on the occasion of their silver wedding anniversary in 1911.

Leslie Orsi toasted the couple to which Mr. Woods responded. Jack Buttice reminisced about the happy times during the 50 years he has known Mr. and Mrs. Woods. Later on the gathering enjoyed a sing-song together.

Following a turkey supper, another sing-song was enjoyed with Leslie Orsi at the piano.

Chicago Defeats Sagging Detroit

By MICHAEL BENNETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Fans at Chicago Stadium aren't impressed with the size of Pit Martin. He doesn't stand much taller than the Black Hawks' stickboy.

But Coach Billy Reay believes the five-foot, eight-inch centre plays it as big as anyone in the National Hockey League and Wednesday night the 16,666 fans at the Stadium couldn't argue with him.

Martin, who came to Chicago at the end of the 1966-67 season in the controversial three-for-two trade with Boston Bruins, scored two goals Wednesday night to give the Hawks a 4-1 win over Detroit Red Wings.

It was the seventh win in eight games for Chicago and left the club in a third-place tie with Toronto Maple Leafs who thrashed Oakland Seals 7-3. In the only other game Wednesday, Los Angeles Kings and St. Louis Blues played to a scoreless tie.

Montreal Canadiens regained sole possession of first place in the Eastern Division Tuesday with a 4-3 win in Pittsburgh against the Penguins. Detroit clubbed Minnesota North Stars 6-3 in the only other game New Year's Eve.

TIED WITH HOWE

Bobby Hull, with his 24th goal of the season, and Bobby Schmautz scored the other Chicago goals. The goal for Hull left him with only a share of the NHL scoring leadership he has held since early in the season. He and Gordie Howe of Detroit, who picked up a goal and three assists Tuesday night, each have 50 points.

Rookie Rene Leclerc scored for Detroit, spoiling goaltender Dennis Bredjord's shutout bid at 1:55 of the second period.

Meanwhile, the Leafs got two goals from centre Norm Ullman to stay even with the Hawks.

Mike Walton, who missed seven games with the flu, Murray Oliver, Larry Mickey, Ron Ellis and Dave Keon also counted for the Leafs who outshot the Seals 45-26. Charley Hodge was hit for six Leaf goals before

Coach Fred Glover replaced him with Gary Smith. Oakland's Gary Jarrett scored on Bruce Gamble in the first period and Billy Hicke and Ted Hampson added the others against veteran Johnny Bower who took over in goal in the third.

PLANTE GETS SHUTOUT
In Los Angeles, Jacques Plante was at his best, picking up his fifth shutout of the season as he kicked out 31 shots. It was the second time this season that the six-time Vezina Trophy winner has blanked the Kings.

Plante collected his first shutout in St. Louis Oct. 12 when the Blues swamped Los Angeles 6-0. He now has a career total of 68. The tie left St. Louis with 40 points and a nine-point lead on Oakland in the Western Division. The Kings have 29 points and are in third place.

Third-period goals by defenceman Serge Savard and Jean Beliveau gave Montreal the win Tuesday night in Pittsburgh. John Ferguson and Jacques LaPerriere got the other goals for the Canadiens, who now have 47 points, two more than Boston.

Billy Harris, Bob Woytowich and Gene Ubricak replied for Pittsburgh, in the Western Division cellar with only seven wins and six ties in 35 games.

HOLD WIDE MARGIN

Goalie Rogatien Vachon, playing in his first game since he broke a bone in his right hand Dec. 3, stopped only 20 shots as the Canadiens held a 50-21 margin in shots on goal.

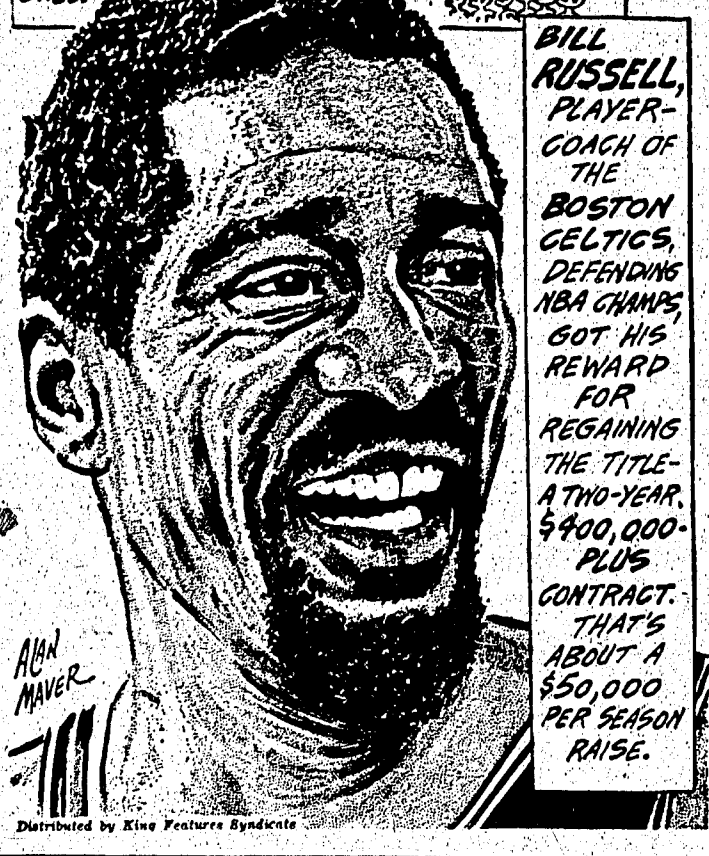

Frank Mahovlich almost equaled Howe's heroics Tuesday night by scoring three goals for the Red Wings. Alex Delvecchio added a goal and four assists to give the line 12 scoring points for the night.

Nick Libbott scored the other Detroit goal. Billy Collins, Bill O'Shea counted for Minnesota.

The split for Detroit left the Red Wings in last place in the East, five points behind New York Rangers. Minnesota is fifth in the West with 24 points on nine wins and six ties, one point behind Philadelphia Flyers.

Penticton Beats Kelowna Bucks

Kelowna's inability to win when needed has all but eliminated them from a chance for first place in the B.C. Junior Hockey League.

A 6-4 loss to Penticton Wednesday may have cost them second place and put their hopes for even a third-place finish in jeopardy. While the Bucks were losing their third game in four starts with the Broncos, Vernon was defeating Kamloops 5-2.

The combination of Kelowna's loss and Vernon's win puts the Bucks three points back of the Broncos in fourth place. They have two games in hand over Vernon but are dropping points steadily while retaining their extra games.

Gene Carr scored three goals Wednesday to lead the Kelowna attack. The fourth goal was added by Larry Lenarduzzi, who also picked up four penalties to retain his league lead in that department.

Penticton scorers were Ed Hays with two, Dwayne Pentland, Ken Conner, Jim Whitlam and Jack Taggart. Taggart, son of Penticton coach Jack Taggart Sr., re-joined the Broncos after a stint with the Canadian National Team. It is not known whether the younger Taggart will remain with the team for the rest of the season.

Carr opened the scoring at 4:06 of the first period giving Kelowna the lead for the only time in the game. Penticton's first goal came at 9:48 of the first frame, when Pentland batted in his goal.

Lenarduzzi provided most of the fireworks with his goal and four penalties. He was involved in a fight with Broncos defenceman Tom Madden, both combatants drawing five-minute majors for fighting.

Lenarduzzi currently leads the league in penalties and has helped Kelowna to a similar position among the teams in the Junior circuit.

The Bucksaroos do not play at home again until Jan. 10 when Vernon comes visiting in a crucial contest. Their next game is Saturday when they meet the league-leading Victoria Cougars in a game at the coast.

Vernon Comes From Behind To Defeat Kamloops Rockets

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vernon and Penticton had New Year's Day victories in British Columbia Junior Hockey League action Wednesday.

Vernon fought an uphill battle the second period and another two in the final 20 minutes. Vernon's goals came from Jack Marsh, Wayne Dye, Gord Merritt, Bob Mayer and Jerry Vachon.

Kamloops scorers were Mary HAVE LONG LIFE. Old timers sometimes weigh 500 pounds and have reached 200 years of age.

Ferg and Don Stanley. The scheduled New Westminster-Victoria game was cancelled because of snow.

REMEMBER WHEN ... Michigan State beat University of California-Los Angeles 17-14 in one of the most dramatic Rose Bowl games in history 13 years ago today—in 1956. The classic at Pasadena, Calif., was played Jan. 2 that year because New Year's Day was a Sunday.

Day Of Football In Bowl Games

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The television sets across the land are cooling today after nine solid hours of New Year's Day college football bowl games.

It was the 100th anniversary of college football in the United States and when it was all over: —Ohio State's Buckeyes had rallied from a 10-point deficit to whip Southern California 27-16 in the Rose Bowl to clinch the collegiate football title before 102,063 fans in Pasadena, Calif.

—Arkansas Razorbacks' wiry defences had upset Georgia Bulldogs 16-2 in the 35th annual Sugar Bowl game at New Orleans.

—Texas quarterback Jim Street had burned a dazed Tennessee secondary with two scoring bombs to Charlie Speyer as the Longhorns trampled the Volunteers in a 38-13 Cotton Bowl rite at Dallas.

—Penn State had taken advantage of a second chance and showed a gambler's disdain for the odds to slip past the Kansas Jayhawks 15-14 in the Orange Bowl at Miami.

The curtain-raiser on all the bowl activity was the Bluebonnet Bowl in Houston, Tex., New Year's Eve when Southern Methodist Mustangs clipped Oklahoma Sooners 28-27.

ELECTRICIES CROWD

The Rose Bowl was the star attraction and it featured USC's fabulous O. J. Simpson in his last college game. He electrified the big crowd with an 80-yard touchdown burst which put the Trojans in front 10-0 in the second quarter.

From there on, however, it was all Buckeye in the 55th edition of the oldest of the bowl games.

"I think that if we had not given up the ball deep in our territory, we would have given up not more than two or three touchdowns," said losing coach John McKay.

Winning coach Woody Hayes put his finger on the victory strategy when he said:

"O. J. broke through for the big one in the first half but we contained him very well in the second half."

The Orange Bowl game ended with a dramatic crash.

With 15 seconds left, quarterback Chuck Buckhart of Penn scrambled from a broken play into the end zone from the three-yard line.

Burkhardt misfired on a pass to Bob Campbell for a two-point conversion that would have won the game for Penn. But Kansas coach Pepper Rodgers had sent in linebacker Rick Abernathy on the play and nobody came out. Penn got another chance and Burkhart sent Campbell crashing in from the one-yard line. "It was my fault," Rodgers said.

"When I put somebody in it's my responsibility to get somebody back out."

Joe Paterno, coach of Penn State, had backed up his pre-game statement that "lies are a waste of time—they don't prove anything," by ordering Burkhart to go for the two-point conversion instead of kicking for a tie-producing one-pointer.

In the Cotton Bowl, Speyer—who weighs a slight 168 pounds—nearly beat star defensive back Jim Weatherford on his touchdown rambles.

CRUMPLES DEFENCE

The ground-chewing foursome of Chris Gilbert, Ted Koy, Steve Worster and Street—which had gained almost two miles on the ground this season—crumpled Tennessee's defence like a cardboard box in the number 33-degree cold before 72,000 fans.

In the Bluebonnet Bowl Tuesday, coach Hayden Fry of SMU said before the opening kick-off that his Mustangs could beat Oklahoma if the Big Eight champs led by no more than two touchdowns going into the fourth quarter.

And that was exactly what happened. Oklahoma led 14-6 at the half and neither team scored in the third quarter. The Mustangs crashed back with three touchdowns on cue to win by one point.

When the Hula Bowl at Honolulu and the American Bowl at Tampa, Fla., are played Saturday and the Senior Bowl at Mobile, Ala., on Jan. 11, the post-season college slate will be cleaned up.

Probably no more heartbreaking scene will come from any of them, however, than that which occurred in the Kansas dressing room in Miami after the stunning last-second victory by Penn State.

An hour after the 77,719 fans had filed out, Kansas linebacker Rick Abernathy sat on a bench, still in uniform, head cupped in his hands and tears trickling through his fingers.

"He was the 12th man on the field," whispered a team-mate. "Leave him alone."

Canucks Start 1969 Right; Beat Phoenix Roadrunners

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League got away to a good 1969 start Wednesday night, edging Phoenix Roadrunners 2-1 before a Vancouver crowd of 5,477 to move into a first-place tie with San Diego Gulls.

It was the only game played.

A scheduled Denver-at-Portland game was postponed to Jan. 6 because of icy streets in the Oregon city.

On Tuesday night, the last-place Denver Spurs entertained a home crowd of 2,342 by knocking off the Gulls 5-4. Cancelled because of snow Tuesday night was a Phoenix-at-Seattle game. Phoenix goaltender Rick Charon played a tremendous game Wednesday, but finally gave up goals in the third period to Bob Barlow and John Goffton as the Canucks kept up steady pressure.

22 IN PERIOD

Charon turned aside 22 shots in the first period alone—compared with only two saves by Vancouver goalie George Gardner—and finished the night with 41 stops. Gardner made 22. Bob Charlebois gave Phoenix a 1-0 lead in the first period. The second period was scoreless, and free of penalties.

On Tuesday night, Denver overcame deficits of 2-0 and 3-1 to outgun San Diego in a rough game.

Gord Vejpravra, Norm Johnson, Wilf Martin, Gerry Foley and Ed Hoekstra shared scoring honors for the Spurs. Dave Richardson scored two for San Diego; Jack Shanfield and Len Ronson one apiece.

Jim Cardiff of San Diego and Randy Miller of Denver drew majors for fighting in the second period.

ALJE REPORTS

New Year's Resolutions

By ALJE KAMMINGA

NEW YEAR'S resolutions are usually made in private, partly I suppose because that makes it easier to break them later.

But by wishing people the best, and being just so about it, you can bring other people's resolutions into the open—whether they really resolved to do anything or not.

Follow?
In any case, here are some wishes for 1969, extended to national, international and local sports figures. For Joe Knapp and Bud Grant: may the new year bring you one more step along in showing the National Football League what a pair of ex-Canadians can do. See you in the Super Bowl next year.

For the Oakland Seals: One game where the ushers don't outnumber the fans.

FOR LARRY JOHNSON, coach of the Kelowna Cubs: let this be the year where everything falls into place, without injuries and definitely with a berth in the Shrine Bowl.

For Bob Brooks: Just one night when badminton and minor hockey fall on the same night. Not even you could get out of that.

Nine city businessmen: Their money.
For the B.C. Lions, a suggestion: Don't play in the Canadian Football League this season. Once every week, rent Empire Stadium and show films of the 1968 season—it would be more interesting and the place would be a sellout.

Bob Gibson: a dream every night of the year where Curt Flood turns around and catches Jim Northrup's fly ball.
For Denny McLain: A dream every night of the year where you re-trace the 1968 season. And may you always wake up just before the World Series.

THERE ARE A thousand more wishes a guy should make but even by now most resolutions are already broken. Even I have to admit I'm dying for one of those cigarettes I never wanted to see again.

And if nothing else, 1969 has already brought us an end to the cold weather.

The Kelowna Bucksaroos of the B.C. Junior Hockey League are about the only people who haven't started the year right. They had to go and blow that game to Penticton Wednesday and drop into fourth place in the league standings.

But the Bucksaroos rallied from a worst deficit last year when they lost their first game of 1968 and went on to remain undefeated nine games in a row to clinch the final playoff spot in the league.

Change Is Name Of Seaway Game

By FRED HAMILTON Canadian Press Staff Writer

Change has been the name of the game on the Great Lakes since the St. Lawrence Seaway opened in 1958, and the greatest change of all may be that first-time sailors no longer get seasick.

Repeated trips to the rail are hardly necessary when travel is on a 730-foot steel island set more than 25 feet deep in the water.

Capt. Harold Miller, 61-year-old master of the 730-foot motor vessel Richelieu, agreed on a recent trip that things have changed since he left his home at Warton in Ontario's Bruce Peninsula more than 41 years ago.

The old vessels—combined passenger-package freighters, shallow-draft canallers, whaleback and stubby carriers—are gone or rapidly disappearing.

In their place ride huge steel monsters like the Richelieu, driven by 14-foot-high engines, and holding in their mammoth bellies the fruits of 55,000 acres of prairie farmland.

SPACE-AGE BRIDGES They move through 1,200 miles of lakes and rivers with the aid of variable-pitch propellers and bow-thrusters controlled from bridges fitted with the electronic guidance devices of the space age.

Men on shore use remote television cameras to watch their every move, and lighted message boards give them direction as the bulk carriers drop 326 feet past Niagara Falls through the Welland Canal.

The locks of the seaway between Lake Ontario and Montreal are shared with strangely-shaped ocean freighters which since 1958 have invaded the fresh-water heart of North America.

And four days after leaving the Lakehead—a trip that used to take almost a week—they belch up their million-bushel carozes of grain before going on almost to salt water to pick up small mountains of iron ore.

Capt. Miller was interviewed on the Richelieu's bridge where he used a lever similar to a car's automatic transmission handle to control a huge engine in the stern one-seventh of a mile behind him.

Life on the lakes will change even more dramatically before he retires in four years, he said.

SIZE LIMITED The largest bulk carriers on the lakes—730 feet long, 75 feet wide—are as big as present canals, locks and channels will permit.

But even larger vessels—ships of 1,000 feet are already on United States drawing boards—are coming. And there are new forms of competition for the millions of tons of grain, iron ore and coal that must be moved annually along the lakes.

"The bigger ones and those foreigners"—pointing to freighters from Tokyo and Amsterdam tied up at Detroit docks—"they'll be the death of carriers like this."

But increased size alone already has created problems enough for officers responsible for the 24 lives aboard each bulk-cargo vessel, he said.

Ships laden with 1,000,000 bushels of grain weighing almost 30,000 tons are difficult to handle in narrow river channels and canal approaches beset by winds and currents and often clogged with traffic.

"It ruins a master's nerves," said Capt. Miller. But he gave no obvious indication of a personal nervous problem as he brought the full length of the Richelieu evenly against a canal tie-up wall more gently than most people can park a car at a curb.

CAPTAIN KEPT BUSY There is little free time to spend in his three-rooms-and-galley quarters because of trouble spots that keep him on the bridge.

The worst ones are the Welland Canal, despite recent improvements along its 28-mile length, and Beauharnois lock in the St. Lawrence system.

Things will be better at Beauharnois when such navigation aids as the TV cameras and electronic signalling devices already used at the Welland Canal are extended to the St. Lawrence, he said.

Microwave, TV, radar, and radio information is soon to be fed into a computer centre expected to be built in the Thousand Islands section near Cornwall, Ont.

Beauharnois already has been improved with installation of a "hydraulic assistance" system, tested at Welland, which uses high-pressure jets of water to help vessels make faster and safer exits from the lock on downward passages.

Some sections of river channel, where the minimum depth of 27 feet is only one foot three-inches below the Richelieu's loaded keel, also causes him concern, Capt. Miller said.

His worry is not for the safety of his vessel but for possible shoreline damage as the wake sweeps out behind its passage through shallow water.

THE OTHER DOW JONES LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Dow Jones isn't much interested in the stock market. He is the 49-year-old manager of the Danfords Corp. plant in Los Angeles and says he didn't become aware of the "other Dow Jones" until he was 14 or 15 years old.

East dealer. Both sides vulnerable. NORTH: ♠ QJ10, ♥ KJ1074, ♦ K53, ♣ 83

WEST: ♠ 8542, ♥ 83, ♦ Q1093, ♣ Q2. EAST: ♠ K73, ♥ 8, ♦ A76, ♣ AJ10754

The bidding: East 1♣, South 1♥, West Pass, North 1♠.

Opening lead—queen of clubs. Declarer can frequently pin-point the location of some or all of the missing high cards by taking advantage of information gathered from the bidding.

Thus, East's opening bid in the present case enabled South to find the right line of play to make four hearts.

West led a club. East won with the ace and returned a club to South's king.

In addition to the club, declarer's potential losers were a spade and three diamonds. While it seemed probable that East had the king of spades as part of his opening bid, it was unfortunately also likely that he held the ace of diamonds as well.

To make the contract, therefore, South not only had to win the spade finesse, but also find a way of avoiding three diamond losers.

Declarer managed to accomplish this by timing his plays perfectly and utilizing the knowledge furnished by East's opening bid.

After drawing two rounds of trumps, he successfully finessed the queen of spades. He then played a spade to the ace and ruffed a club in dummy. Next came dummy's last spade, on which East played the king, but instead of ruffing this trick, South discarded a diamond!

The diamond he discarded was a trick South had to lose in any case, but by giving it up at this point, he placed East in a position where any return would hand South the contract.

A diamond return would make the king a trick, while a club return would be equally satisfying to South because it would permit him to discard still another diamond and ruff in dummy for his fourth trick.

Of course, plays like this require some planning to bring about a satisfactory conclusion, which is one reason why we so often say that it pays to plan the play.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW Mild planetary influences should make Friday another more or less routine day. Don't engage in unfamiliar undertakings and, for the time being, put off the launching of long-range plans. Some surprising news in the P.M. could prove most heartening, however.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that you are currently in a cycle which will be unusually propitious for work requiring imagination and originality—at which so many Capricornians excel. This does not mean that creative workers will experience a series of dramatic successes but, rather, that by capitalizing on their talents and trying to maintain a reasonable pace in their endeavors, they can, by year's end, be certain of the recognition toward which they aim. Their best periods, inspirationally speaking, will occur in June, August and December.

fluences during the first two weeks of July, throughout September, the first week of October, mid-November and late December. For all: Best cycles for financial matters: The weeks between now and April 15th, the last two weeks of July, the periods between September 15th and October 15th and between November 15th and December 15th. It would be wise to consolidate all gains then, and prepare for an excellent 2-month cycle for fiscal expansion, beginning on January 1, 1970.

Personal interests should prosper during most of the year ahead but, unless you determine to avoid it, you may experience some friction in close circles in late June, the second week of September, in mid-October and/or mid-December. Best periods for romance: May, August and December; for travel: Mid-June, late August, early September, and the month between December 15th and January 15th.

Racialism Seen As Real Threat

LONDON (CP) — Arnold Smith says black-white racialism and a backyard mentality are creeping over the world threatening the Commonwealth and other international institutions. "Men everywhere are in danger of losing some of the will and impetus to co-operate on the broad international scale which was a mark of the 1940s and early 1950s," the Canadian-born Commonwealth secretary-general says in a year-end report. His comments, issued today, come just a week before the opening of the 28-country Commonwealth prime ministers' conference, the first in two years. Leaders from 26 of the member countries, all except Kenya and Pakistan, have indicated they will personally attend the Jan. 7-15 meeting, Kenya President Jomo Kenyatta, 79, is too old to travel and will send a deputy. President Ayub Khan has political problems in Pakistan and will send his foreign minister. Informants said that while this may not be spelled out in the official agenda, discussion is likely to centre on such issues as Rhodesia and Nigeria, the need to provide more centralized technical aid to underdeveloping countries, ways of encouraging increased Commonwealth access to educational facilities and a financial program to disseminate more Commonwealth information through Smith's secretariat. "Smith gave no clues in his year-end report on what he expects from the week-long conference, but in an interview he said the meeting will give leaders "a great opportunity to take a hard look at the dangers before us" and to endorse "practical programs" of co-operation. The dangers, as spelled out in Smith's report, are that world organizations have been having difficulty bridging gaps between races and countries. "In the past two years, in many parts of the world, millions of ordinary men and women seem to have become less tolerant of people whose language and culture, skin color or economic level are different from their own," Smith says. Another problem is the growth of a backyard mentality, a dwindling of national horizons through the rise of neo-isolationism. "The credibility gap between peoples and nations has again become a dangerous international phenomenon. We need to face up, soberly and realistically, to these dangerous trends. We must find a way to reverse them." Smith deals in his report with the failures to find solutions to the crises in Rhodesia and Nigeria and to the disappointing lack of progress in the United Nations trade conference—UNCTAD II—in New Delhi last winter. "The credibility gap between peoples and nations has again become a dangerous international phenomenon. We need to face up, soberly and realistically, to these dangerous trends. We must find a way to reverse them." Smith deals in his report with the failures to find solutions to the crises in Rhodesia and Nigeria and to the disappointing lack of progress in the United Nations trade conference—UNCTAD II—in New Delhi last winter. The fire loss was a record high, up $63,800,000 from the previous year. The heaviest loss of life came in November in a coal mine explosion and fire in Farmington, W. Va.

U.S. Fires Deadly During 1968

BOSTON (AP) — Fires in 1968 in the United States killed approximately 12,100 persons and caused property loss of nearly $2,200,000,000, the National Fire Protection Association said today. The loss of life was down about 100 from 1967, but deaths in dwelling fires rose by 100 to 6,600. The fire loss was a record high, up $63,800,000 from the previous year. The heaviest loss of life came in November in a coal mine explosion and fire in Farmington, W. Va.

Black Rod Not Too Amused As Quebec Gives Him The Boot

QUEBEC (CP) — The Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, scorned in the British parliamentary system for centuries, got the boot here today. And, as Queen Victoria might have put it, he is not amused. The parliamentary post of sovereign's attendant became extinct with abolition of the legislative council, last provincial upper house in Canada. Legislation abolishing the 24-seat council and making the legislature a one-chamber "national assembly of Quebec" became effective today. Downed was Maj. Pierre Gelly, 69, one of a handful of black rods in the world. He disagrees with abolition of the council. In a recent interview amid open packing boxes of his bleak basement office, the royal messenger man gave reform-minded politicians a good, gracious, piece of his mind. Maj. Gelly, a lawyer and black rod here for 21 years, said: "The evil wasn't with the legislative council. It was with the councillors. They were too old. The council should have been reformed, not abolished." Black rod, so called because of the ebony staff he carries on ceremonial trips between the upper and lower house, said he isn't sore about losing his great job. "I'm not leaving with any bitterness," said the white-haired gentleman usher. "I'm leaving with a certain melancholy because it's the end of an era." The encyclopedia says black rod has been a sovereign's attendant and an official responsible for order in the British upper house since 1350. But black rod's troubles with the people's representatives in parliamentary history date to the reign of England's Charles I.

India Claims A Space Visit

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — The Times of India says Indian scientists successfully experimented 3,000 years ago with some of the problems now confronting space technology. It says an ancient Sanskrit treatise even described the manufacture of moon rockets. In an editorial, the newspaper says that "even if the researchers at Cape Kennedy refuse to consult our books, there are reports that the Chinese are already drawing on the ancient wisdom of India in their nuclear program." "One Sanskrit volume seized from the Potala in Lhasa (Tibet) is said to contain an elaborate account of the manufacture of astras (rockets) capable of even reaching the moon."

U.S. POLITICS

Ballots, Bullets Black Unrest

WASHINGTON (CP) — Ballots, bullets and black American unrest shaped United States politics in 1968—a wild, improbable, tragic year leading to lukewarm endorsement of Richard Nixon as Republican president-elect.

He will be a minority president, the first since 1912, elected by only 44 per cent of the 72,000,000 Americans who voted. Congress remained Democratic.

Abroad, he inherits the Vietnam quagmire, still seemingly far from settled, the seething Middle East and an uneasy relationship with a tougher-talking Soviet Union, driven by fears of internal and satellite rebellion.

Domestically, there is the prospect of a long uphill climb to satisfy Negro aspirations, to curb crime, check inflation and find enough revenue to meet spending demands pressing in from all sides despite continued economic expansion.

The Democratic party salvaged some pride by making a last-minute recovery that came close to electing Vice President Hubert Humphrey, much closer than forecast.

But possession of the party's soul, and repayment of a debt of perhaps $10,000,000, remained unsettled.

KENNEDY BEST BET
It seemed clear to most observers that Senator Edward Kennedy of New York could have the party presidential nomination in four years by a simple lift of a finger.

Meanwhile, the old guard represented by Humphrey, by President George Meany of organized labor's AFL-CIO, and Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago nominally retained their powers. But the erosion of the old improbable coalition stitched together by Franklin Delano Roosevelt was still considerable.

Hence the plotting for 1972 by segregationist George Wallace, disappointed by the limited appeal of his third-party campaign in the November election but still determined.

For a year that began with high hopes from the so-called New Politics, the ending was frustrating, if not worse. A voting turnout of only 72,000,000 of the 120,000,000 adult Americans—up only 1,000,000 from 1960—underscored the lack of enthusiasm for any of the three candidates.

The events of 1968 had actually begun in late 1967, on the impenetrable note of Minnesota Senator Eugene McCarthy deciding to tackle President Johnson over the Vietnam war.

SCORED MORAL VICTORY
In the March New Hampshire primary, backed by hordes of students, McCarthy scored a moral victory over the president.

Senator Robert Kennedy of New York waited only a few hours, after that bombshell, to jump into the presidential nomination race himself.

March 31, President Johnson conceded defeat on two fronts—on his Vietnam policy by announcing a halt to bombing most of North Vietnam and personally. He would not run again.

April 4, a sniper killed Dr. Martin Luther King in Memphis, Tenn., and fierce outbreaks of looting and burning scarred more than 10 cities including the U.S. capital for the first time. Escaped convict James Earl Ray awaits trial in the slaying.

June 5, in Los Angeles, Robert Kennedy was gunned down in a hotel after winning another primary victory over McCarthy, but while still running behind Vice-President Humphrey. Jordanian-born Sirhan Sirhan awaits trial.

Nixon, meanwhile, who had quietly taken a lead in the Republican sweepstakes, among the party professionals at least, as a loyalist, added to it steadily in a series of primary victories.

NIXON EASY WINNER
At the Republican convention in Miami Beach in early August, Nixon won easily on the first ballot against Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York and Governor Ronald Reagan of California.

In Chicago, a siege town of helmeted police and several thousand mostly young demonstrators primarily opposed to the war, there was bloody violence outside the Democratic convention hall and there were deep schisms within.

McCarthy lost to Humphrey as expected, taking about 42 per cent of the vote. Senator George McGovern of South Dakota had been a late entry as a Kennedy heir.

But the internal dissent, and the outward image created by unrestrained police reaction to the dissenters in the streets, put the party and Humphrey into a hole that proved too deep to escape from.

STUDY HEART DISORDER

GENEVA (AP) — Why are high blood pressure and some heart disorders rare in high-altitude areas? A group of Swiss heart experts led by Dr. Pierre Moret will spend five months in the Andes trying to find out. They want to examine in particular how the hearts of mountain natives adapt to the oxygen-poor atmosphere.

Rutland Lights Win Prizes

RUTLAND — Winners in the house lighting contest conducted by the Rutland Chamber of Commerce were announced by Ab. North, chairman of the committee in charge Monday.

Judging was done during the weekend between Christmas and New Year's.

There were two classifications, class A being house lighting with special effects; and class B, house lighting only.

Winners in the class A were: First—Feruccio Penzin, Rutland Road, who had an exceptionally fine display, with Santa Claus with sleigh and reindeer on the housetop, and trees on the lawn all outlined with colored lights as well as house lights.

Second prize went to John Winter, Richard Road, with an attractive display, and third prize was won by R. Lang, Sadler Road.

In the class B section the first prize went to Marvin Dick, Villa Vista Road. Second prize was awarded to Earl Fortney, Black Mountain Road, and third prize won by A. T. Colvin, Dillman Road.

In addition to the prizes there were a number of "honorable mentions" awarded to runners-up in the final judging, all of whose displays were above the average.

In class A honorable mentions went to Kenneth Monford, Highway 87 and to F. Dick, Black Mountain Road. In class B honorable mentions were awarded to Wendolin Feth, Morrison Road and to Gordon Coles, Dougall Road. The executive of the chamber of commerce is pleased with the result of efforts to brighten up Rutland by means of this contest, for the display of Christmas lighting throughout the district has been "exceptionally good."

De Gaulle Views Year

PARIS (AP) — President de Gaulle Tuesday night surveyed the perils faced by France in the last year and proclaimed his confidence and hope as he looked ahead to 1969.

In a listing of crises facing the world, the iron-willed 78-year-old president included this: "The free conduct of its own national life for the French people of Canada."

In his customary New Year's Eve television address to the French people, de Gaulle said: "Let's bury the devils who tormented us in the year just ending."

"Leave to their accomplices an dithering sadness and disappointment. Because the fact that we have once more happily surmounted the tests gives us the best reasons to be confident in ourselves."

The president said that even if France is not big enough to produce space exploits, it still has a special role to play in solving the world's pressing problems. As he enumerated the problems, he outlined French-sponsored solutions that in the past have been coolly received outside France.

Confessional Parking Not Too Secure

FIVE YEAR TERM PEACE RIVER, Alta. (CP) —

Lloyd Bellrose, 19, of Peace River was sentenced to five years after being convicted here on 14 counts of breaking, entering and theft and one charge of attempted armed robbery.

FEWER TRAFFIC DEATHS LONDON (AP) — The Trans-

port Ministry says traffic deaths fell by one-seventh and serious injuries by one-ninth in the first year of Britain's breathalyzer law. The law, effective since Oct. 1967, gives police authority to test for alcohol on the breath of anyone driving erratically.
