

THIS OTHER EDEN

Exploring a Sense of Place in Twentieth-Century Reconstructions of Australian Childhoods

Kathryn E. Burns

A thesis submitted in accordance with the requirements for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy at the University of Sydney.

October 2006.

PREFACE

The work presented in this thesis is, to the best of my knowledge and belief, my own original work, except as otherwise acknowledged in the text and notes. This thesis has not, in part or whole, previously been presented for a degree at this or any other institute of learning.

An earlier version of Chapter 1 was published under the alternative title “Landscapes of Australian Childhoods: A Regional Comparison of Edenic Imaginings” in the Journal of the Association for the Study of Australian Literature (JASAL) Vol. 4, 2005, pp. 89 – 104.

Kathryn Burns

October 2006.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I would like to thank my principal supervisor, Professor Elizabeth Webby, for her consistent and dedicated support throughout the writing of this thesis. Her availability for consultation, as well as her clear, prompt and insightful comments on my work and constant encouragement has been a major source of motivation and inspiration, and I am greatly indebted to her.

Thanks also to Dr. Robert Jackson who supervised my project during its early years, and showed similar care and commitment. I am also grateful to Dr. Noel Rowe, who supervised my work for one semester while Professor Webby was on leave, and offered helpful advice and generously made time for me.

I am grateful to the University of Sydney and Australian Government for financial assistance in the form of an Australian Postgraduate Award, without which this project would not have been initiated.

I would also like to thank the staff of Fisher Library for their assistance in my research and, in particular, the inter-library loans department, which has been so helpful in procuring material outside the University's collection. This has been an invaluable resource. Thanks must also go to the various benefactors and Friends of the University of Sydney Library for providing the funds to support such an extensive collection of Australian Literature; it has greatly aided my research.

Finally, I must extend heartfelt thanks to numerous other people who have, in various ways assisted and encouraged me throughout this project. I am most grateful to my employers, co-workers and friends at The Pen Shop for their flexibility, understanding and support during busy periods of my study. My husband has been a constant source of strength and grounding during this long project, and his faithful dedication and care cannot be overstated. Additionally, my in-laws and extended family have contributed immensely to the production of this thesis by feeding me, encouraging me and allowing me to completely monopolise the family computer over recent months. Words cannot express my gratitude for their tolerance, love and prayers during this time. Thanks to God for surrounding me with such wonderful people and opportunities, making completion of this project possible.

CONTENTS

Preface	i
Acknowledgements	ii
Contents	iii
INTRODUCTION	1
1. PARADISE LOST: A REGIONAL COMPARISON OF EDENIC IMAGININGS.	19
2. WESTERN AUSTRALIA'S ISOLATION.	40
3. CITY OF LIGHT: THE WEST'S SHIFTING MORAL LANDSCAPE.	54
4. QUEENSLAND AND THE CULTURAL FRONTIER: CLIMATE, ORIGINS AND IMAGINING.	94
5. MAPPING THE SELF: SPACES IN THE QUEENSLAND HOUSE AND THE THEATRICALS OF CULTURAL PERFORMANCE.	119
6. ROMANTICISM AND ANTI-ROMANTICISM: CONTRASTING PERSPECTIVES ON THE VICTORIAN COUNTRYSIDE.	145
7. LOST IN THE CITY: PLACE AND PLACELESSNESS IN MODERN MELBOURNE.	165
8. BY THE SEASIDE: A REGIONAL COMPARISON OF BEACH IMAGES IN AUSTRALIAN CHILDHOODS.	203
CONCLUSION	245
BIBLIOGRAPHY	252