1 Introduction

This report presents the technical details and core methodology of the National Learner Satisfaction Survey (NLSS) 2009 which was conducted by Ipsos MORI Social Research Institute and commissioned by the Learning and Skills Council (LSC). In April 2010, the LSC was superseded by the Skills Funding Agency and the Young People's Learning Agency (YPLA). The LSC's research function was transferred to the Department for Business, Innovation and Skills (BIS). The NLSS is a large tracking survey of then LSC funded learners aged 16 and over. It provides a wealth of data on learners' satisfaction with their learning experience over time including detailed information on key aspects of the learner journey: initial choice and information; support during learning; and benefits of participation.

This is invaluable in that it provides a facility for tracking the way learner satisfaction changes over time, looking in detail at the experiences of certain learner sub-groups e.g. course level, age, ethnicity, and disability/learning difficulties.

While the NLSS highlights broad issues, it however does not reflect specific challenges and priorities of individual colleges or providers.

There have been six national surveys since 2001 (annually between 2001-2004 and 2009). Between 2003 and 2007, each survey comprised of over 43,000 telephone interviews with learners. However, in 2009 the survey included just over 25,000 telephone interviews with learners, because there was no longer a requirement to analysis data by each local LSC.

The survey comprises of three waves, each dealing with a distinct set of modular questions:

- Pre-entry advice and guidance (wave 15);
- Support for learners (wave 16); and
- Impact of learning (wave 17).

A set of core questions are also covered in all three waves:

- Overall satisfaction with the learning experience;
- Overall satisfaction with the quality of teaching and management of learning;
- Advocacy toward the provider; and
- Likelihood to return to learning in the future.

A number reports have been produced for NLSS 2009; a list of these reports can be found in appendix E.

The rest of this document details the technical aspects and methodological approach to NLSS 2009 and covers issues relating to:

- Sampling;
- Questionnaire design;
- Fieldwork and response rates; and
- Analysis and weighting.

2 Sampling

The sample design for NLSS 2009 is unchanged from the 2007 survey to ensure that any observed changes are real changes and not as a result of changes in survey design. The design also ensures robust longitudinal findings for the further education system at regional and local LSC levels allowing for sub-group analysis. However, as mentioned earlier the number of interviews reduced significantly from c. 43,000 to 25,000.

2.1 Sample coverage

As in previous years, NLSS 2009 covers learners in:

- Learner Responsive provision including General FE colleges, 6th form college and other/specialist colleges;
- Other Learner Responsive provision, previously known as Accredited learning delivered by Adult Learning Providers (ALP);
- Employer Responsive provision including Apprentices, Skills for Jobs (SfJ), and Employability Skills Programme (ESP);
- Personal and Community Development Learning (PCDL), previously known as non-accredited Adult and Community Learning (ACL).

School sixth form learners are not included in the NLSS due to difficulties obtaining a representative sample of these learners, Train to Gain learners and those in further education provided by higher education institutions are also excluded.

2.2 Sample frame

Learners were sampled from the Individualised Learner Record (ILR) with the exception of PCDL learners who were sampled directly from local education authorities' (LEAs) records due to a lack of a robust national database of these learners (see section 2.5.5).

The ILR has been used as the sampling frame for all learners apart from those undertaking PCDL since 2002/03. It has the advantage of including names and contact details for all learners along with demographics and course data that can be used to enrich the analysis. Learners who are willing to be contacted for research purposes are also flagged on the ILR, thus avoiding the need to administer an opt-out. Only learners who have consented to be contacted are selected for inclusion in NLSS 2009. These are learners coded a "3" – (learner has only withheld permission to be contacted about courses or learning opportunities) or "9"- (No additional restrictions on the use of this learner's record) for the L27 variable on the ILR (L27 is the variable recording learners' agreement to be contacted for research purposes on the ILR).

2.3 Sample size

The number of achieved interviews in 2009 for each learning system is shown in Table 1.

2.4 Sample preparation

As mentioned previously, NLSS 2009 comprised three waves of fieldwork. Each wave was sampled individually using the latest freeze of the 2008/09 ILR. Prior to sample selection at each wave, the following preparatory work was undertaken on the ILR:

- Removing ineligible learners (i.e. those aged under 16 years using the variable L_AGE, and Train to Gain learners); and
- Removing duplicates (using both variables L01 “provider reference” and L03 “learner reference”);
- Removing learners identified as deceased or seriously injured;
- Removing learners who did not have a telephone number or had a number with less than 10 digits;
- For waves 16 and 17, flagging up the sample used during the previous waves, to ensure the same learners were not selected for subsequent waves.

Once this initial preparatory work was completed, analysis of the learner profile (by local LSC, age, gender, age within gender, prior attainment level, current qualification, attitudes about school, course level, course type, ethnicity, disability, and learning difficulties) was conducted for each system to inform the sample design.

2.5 Sample selection

2.5.1 FE system

Sample was drawn in accordance with the population profile of the ILR.

For FE in Sixth Form colleges, other specialist FE colleges, and general FE, the sample was stratified by the following:

- Local LSC (L_LLSC);
- Then, within each local LSC the sample was stratified by college name (PRV_NAME);
- Gender (L13);
- Ethnicity (L12);
- Age (L_AGE);
- Widening participation (L_UPLF67).

The sample drawn was compared against the ILR population profile to ensure they were broadly in line.

Table 2 shows the number of FE leads drawn for each wave. Note that not all leads were called. The overall ratio of leads was 3.5 to 1 (3.5 leads drawn to achieve 1 interview).

The number of learners drawn in total was 54, 524.

2.5.2 FE delivered by other learning providers (Other LR learners)

A target of 1,836 interviews (612 per wave) was set for FE learners studying at adult learning providers. The sample was stratified by local LSC and ranked by age prior to drawing.

Table 3 below summarises the FE delivered by other Learning Providers sample drawn and issued at each wave. The overall ratio of leads provided was 3.5 to 1.

2.5.3 Employer Responsive

A target of 5,000 interviews (1,667 per Waves 15 and 16 and 1,645 in Wave 17) was set for Apprentices. The sample was stratified by local LSC and ranked by age prior to drawing a representative sample.

As with the LR sample, the number of leads drawn varied by wave. Table 4 below shows the number of leads drawn and issued at each wave. The overall ratio of leads provided was just over 3 to 1.

Additionally, a target of 250 interviews was set for ESP learners and for SfJ learners. As with previous samples, the number of leads drawn per wave varied, and is shown in the tables overleaf. The overall ratio of leads provided for each samples was 5 to 1.

2.5.4 Personal and Community Development Learning (PCDL)

As in previous NLSS, PCDL (previously known as non-accredited ACL) learners were sampled directly from Local Education Authority (LEA) and college returns. This sample could not be taken from the ILR because providers are not required to send through this data as part of their submissions.

A total of 5 LEAs were selected within each LSC region (54 in total) on the assumption that at least 2 LEAs would take part. LEAs were selected according to size (ensuring a mixture of small, medium and large LEAs). Selected LEAs were sent a letter asking for their help in compiling a sampling frame of PCDL learners within their area (a copy of the letter and sampling instructions is appended as annex E). The LEAs were asked to either provide a list of colleges who run non-accredited courses or, if they had the lists available, provide a list of learners attending non-accredited courses within the LEA. If an LEA agreed to send a PCDL sample, a data processing agreement was drawn and signed. Only once the data processing agreement had been finalised could the sample be used in the survey.

A total of 14 LEAs provided contact details for 21,820 learners. Of the leads provided, 4,632 did not have a phone number and these were sent for telephone tracing. A total of 774 leads were successfully traced (17%). The PCDL sample was stratified by region and a random sample of 9,021 learners were selected. This broke down as 3,066 learners in Wave 15, 2,977 in Wave 16 and 2,978 in Wave 17. The target number of interviews per wave was 666 (i.e. a ratio of 4.5 to 1). A quota of 74 interviews per wave was set for each region.

All selected learners were sent an opt-out letter – a copy of this letter is appended as annex E. The letter explained the survey and gave the learner the opportunity to opt out of the survey by phoning a Freefone number. This process was carried out to ensure all parties were meeting their obligations under the Data Protection Act. Opt out rates were less than 2% among this group of learners (157 learners opted out).

3. Questionnaire content

The questionnaire consisted of a set of core questions that were asked on all three waves of the survey. The core questions covered the following areas:

- Overall satisfaction with the learning experience;
- Overall satisfaction with the quality of teaching and management of learning;
- Advocacy toward the provider; and
- Likelihood to return to learning in the future.

In addition, each wave of interviews included a set of modular questions:

- Pre-entry advice and guidance (wave 15);
- Support for learners (wave 16); and
- Impact of learning (wave 17).

Overall, the questionnaire, while remaining partly unchanged to enable comparison with previous years, has changed in some significant ways. The most noteworthy change is the addition of a set of questions from the Framework for Excellence questionnaire, which includes questions about support, information and how well providers listen and act on the views of learners. In addition, new questions were included to gauge providers' support for the religious requirements of learners, as well as support for those with learning difficulties and disabilities. Finally, questions were added to identify learners with Skills Accounts and Adult learner accounts, those who contributed financially to their course and those who received financial assistance, and those who received advice from JobCentre Plus or nextsteps, to enable appropriate sub group analysis.

4. Fieldwork & response rates

4.1 Fieldwork

4.1.1 Methodology

As in previous years, NLSS 2009 was conducted by telephone using Computer Assisted Telephone Interviewing (CATI). This is a system whereby interviewers see the questionnaire on a computer screen and the next applicable question is routed on the basis of learners' responses. This is by far the most cost effective and efficient way of collecting reliable data, given the sample size and geographical distribution. It achieves high response rates and allows interviewers to probe open responses more fully and gain quality responses.

In order to make the survey as inclusive as possible, learners who were unable to take part by telephone were given the opportunity to be interviewed via a proxy, or face-to-face in their home. These were learners most likely to have learning difficulties or disabilities or learners with hearing or speech impairments. A total of 35 learners were interviewed face-to-face and 85 were interviewed by a proxy due to their disability. Depending on the needs of the learners, the proxy or support person would:

- Give learner the confidence to answer the questions themselves (for learners with learning difficulties); and/or
- Act as a translator between the interviewer and the learner (e.g. using British Sign Language), possibly also simplifying or rewording some questions, as necessary.

In addition, learners who were unable to take part because English was not their first language were offered the opportunity to be interviewed by proxy (using a family member or friend to translate the questionnaire for the respondent at their end). Furthermore, where no proxy was available, learners were given the option to be interviewed by interviewers who could speak the necessary language. The languages most frequently used were Urdu (26), Bengali (23), Punjabi (15), Turkish (11), Arabic (10), Somali (10), Polish (8), French (7), Portuguese (7) and Spanish (4). A total of 132 interviews in these (and other less common) foreign languages were achieved.

The data from these interviews were combined with the main telephone data.

4.1.2 Interviewer briefing

All interviewers working on the telephone survey received a full face-to-face briefing from members of the Ipsos MORI and LSC project team covering the following areas:

- Introduction to the project and an outline of the survey objectives;
- Discussion of the nature of the survey audience and implications for fieldwork;
- Procedures for response rate maximisation;
- The questionnaire and guidance regarding any particular terminologies used; and
- Practice interviews, exploring potentially difficult questions.

4.1.3 Fieldwork timing

As for previous NLSS, fieldwork took place across 3 waves. This is due to the NLSS trying to capture learner perception from three different aspects of the learner journey (i.e. beginning, middle and end). In addition, the waves are carried out at about the same time of the year (or as close as possible) so as to ensure comparability over time. In 2009 it was carried out as follows:

- Wave 15: from 17 February to 5 April 2009
- Wave 16: from 6 April to 31 May 2009
- Wave 17: from 1 June to 31 July 2009

4.1.4 Telephone interviewing

The telephone fieldwork was undertaken by Ipsos MORI Telephone which is a member of the Interviewer Quality Control Scheme (IQCS). Members of this scheme are required to follow strict quality control procedures, and are inspected each year to ensure the standards are being met and maintained. Ten per cent of all completed interviews are monitored as standard. This is in excess of the five per cent target set by IQCS guidelines.

4.1.5 Face-to-face fieldwork

The face-to-face fieldwork was undertaken by Ipsos MORI Field department, which has a field-force of around 1,500 interviewers, all of whom are trained to standards that surpass minimum industry quality requirements. Ipsos MORI is accredited to ISO 20252:2006, the international market research specific standard that supersedes MRQSA and incorporates IQCS (Interviewer Quality Control Scheme).

4.2 Response rates

The response rate based on the all contacted and eligible leads with an outcome varies between 75% for FE, 75% for Apprentices, 51% for ESP, 61% for Skills for Jobs, 62% for PCDL and 69% for FE delivered by ALP. These are broadly in line with last NLSS' response rates (aside from ESP and Skills for Jobs, where there is no comparison to NLSS 2007). Full response rate data is shown in Appendix D.

4.3 Coding

All 'other, please specify' answers representing more than 10 per cent of the responses were coded. To code them, a codeframe was derived for each question, based on the most common themes.

5 Data weighting

5.1 Weighting

For the FE system, weights were applied to redress the potential under-recording of part-time courses on the ILR at the point at which the samples were drawn (see 5.2 below). Thus the FE sample was weighted by full-/part-time within LSC.

Data for Apprenticeships, and other Learner Responsive were also weighted by local LSC to correct for differential response rates. Data for ESP and SfJ were weighted by gender and age, again to correct for differential response rates.

The weights applied were based on the October 2009 release of the ILR for 2008/09 – see Appendix B. This was the latest release for the academic year at that time.

5.2 Note on achieved sample profile

It is a requirement that all course providers submit ILRs for their learners. While some providers/courses are able to submit learner details early in the academic year, others are unable to submit their learner records until much later in the academic year. It has become apparent that the profile of learner records submitted changes over the course of the academic year. The records of those on full-time courses (who tend to be dominated by the youngest learners aged 16-18, on A' level type courses) are likely to be submitted in the autumn term. Those learners on shorter, part-time courses (whose profile is older in nature) tend to have their records submitted throughout the course of the academic year. This means those learners whose provider has not yet submitted their records will not be included in the ILR when the sampling is carried out and therefore are not represented in the final achieved sample. This means that the survey data potentially over-represents learners aged 16-18 years and those on full-time courses and correspondingly under-represent older learners and those on part-time courses. For this reason, the FE sample is also weighted on course type (i.e. full-/part-time).

Sampling for the NLSS was conducted as close to fieldwork as possible using the latest freeze of the ILR 2008/09. However, it is important to remember that when the sampling was done, the ILR for LR and ER was by no means a complete database of learners for the academic year.

5.3 Confidence limits

The following grid (Table 7) provides a useful rule of thumb when judging the statistical significance of the figures contained in tables and highlights reports (particularly those for some of the detailed sub groups):

Table 7 - 95% confidence intervals for different expected proportions and sample sizes

Sample size	Expected proportion
	50% or 50%		30% or 70%		10% or 90%
100	+/-	9.8%	+/-	9.0%	+/-	5.9%
200	+/-	6.9%	+/-	6.4%	+/-	4.2%

272 (e.g. ESP learners)	+/-	6.0%	+/-	5.5%	+/-	3.6%
300	+/-	5.7%	+/-	5.2%	+/-	3.4%
400	+/-	4.9%	+/-	4.5%	+/-	2.9%
500	+/-	4.4%	+/-	4.0%	+/-	2.6%
600	+/-	4.0%	+/-	3.7%	+/-	2.4%
700	+/-	3.7%	+/-	3.4%	+/-	2.2%
800	+/-	3.5%	+/-	3.2%	+/-	2.1%
900	+/-	3.3%	+/-	3.0%	+/-	2.0%
1,000	+/-	3.1%	+/-	2.8%	+/-	1.9%
1,500	+/-	2.5%	+/-	2.3%	+/-	1.5%
1,856 (e.g. other LR learners)	+/-	2.3%	+/-	2.1%	+/-	1.4%
2,000 (e.g. PCDL learners)	+/-	2.2%	+/-	2.0%	+/-	1.3%
2,500	+/-	2.0%	+/-	1.8%	+/-	1.2%
4,979 (e.g. Apprentices)	+/-	1.4%	+/-	1.3%	+/-	0.8%
15,724 (e.g. LR learners)	+/-	0.8%	+/-	0.7%	+/-	0.5%

Note this assumes the responses are from a completely unclustered random sample.

Appendix C shows the effect of weighting on the effective sample sizes. The effective sample size should be used for the calculation of confidence limits on all weighted data, i.e. on samples from the FE system, FE delivered by other Learning Providers, Skills for Job, ESP and Apprenticeships. No weighting was applied to PCDL data.

APPENDIX E: Letter to LEAs and sample specification

October 2008

Dear

National Learner Satisfaction Survey 2009: Adult Learners on non-accredited courses.

We are writing to ask for your help with an important research study.

The LSC has commissioned Ipsos MORI to conduct the 2009 National Learner Satisfaction Survey (NLSS). This study provides core measures on learner satisfaction with LSC-funded post-16 provision. It is of key importance in helping education and training providers and the LSC to identify priority areas for raising satisfaction levels by listening to the learner voice.

Learners currently on accredited courses are already included in the 2009 survey but we need your assistance in obtaining a learner sample (name, address and telephone numbers) of adult and community learners on non-accredited courses. It is important that these learners are included in the survey to obtain an overall picture of the sector and provide a comparison to previous studies.

The survey will take place between February-July 2009 and will consist of a telephone interview lasting approximately 13 minutes with a random selection of learners. Neither the LSC nor the LEA/provider will be made aware of individual responses of participants. All responses will be aggregated to produce a national picture of learner satisfaction and available as a separate report for this group of learners.

What help we require from your LEA?

Ideally, we would like your LEA to send Ipsos MORI an electronic list of all adult and community learners enrolled on non-accredited courses in 2008/09, regardless of whether they have subsequently left the course/provider. Ipsos MORI will select learners at random from this list. They will write to these learners, providing them with information about the survey and giving them the opportunity to opt-out of the survey. Annex A lists the information we require for each learner.

If your LEA does not have information on non-accredited learners, please provide us with a list of colleges within this LEA who run non-accredited courses and Ipsos MORI will contact the colleges directly.

Timing

To ensure this group of learners are included in the study, we would like to receive all samples from LEAs and colleges by the end of December 2008. We will write to learners in January, allowing them 2 weeks to opt-out of the survey if they wish.

Data protection

The LSC and Ipsos MORI are required to comply with the Data Protection Act. Annex A provides information on procedures to follow before learners' contact details can be shared (see also: <http://www.niace.org.uk/projects/skies/Briefing.htm>).

Additionally, Ipsos MORI is the first research company in the country to be accredited with the ISO 27001 international standard for data security.

We very much hope that your LEA is able to help us with this study. A short fax-back reply form is enclosed. Please would you complete and return this to indicate your interest in this study.

If you are not the most relevant contact for this query, we would be grateful if you could pass on this letter to the right person within your organisation.

Please contact either Angela Klein (angela.klein@ipsos-mori.com, tel: 020 7347 3473) or Billie Lever Taylor (billie.levertaylor@ipsos-mori.com; tel: 020 7347 3956) at Ipsos MORI if you have any queries about this study or require further information.

If you would like further details of the National Learners Satisfaction Survey and previous findings please access the link below:

Many thanks in advance for your assistance.

Yours sincerely,

Annex A: 2008 National Learner Satisfaction Survey

Data Protection Issues

In order to comply with the Data Protection Act, learners' details can only be shared if they have given permission for this i.e. the following statement needs to be included at the time of learners' registration.

Tick this box if you do not wish to be contacted by the LSC or its partners in respect of surveys and research. The LSC values your views on the education or training which you receive, and will use these to help bring about improvements for learners in England.

Learners' responses to this statement need to be recorded in such a way to allow filtering of responses to take place.

How to compile a list of learners

The LEA sends a database to Ipsos MORI containing the contact details of all the learners on non-accredited courses enrolled in 2008/09, regardless of whether they have subsequently left the course/provider. Preferably, the contact details should be in the form of a spreadsheet including the following fields:

- First name;
- Surname;
- House number and street name;
- Town/City;
- County;
- Postcode; and
- Telephone number (if available).

It would be helpful if the LEA could, to the extent that you are able to:

- Delete any learners under the age of 16; and
- Delete any deceased learners.

If you know of any other issues we may need to be aware of, such as learners who would prefer to be interviewed face-to-face (for example, those with learning difficulties or disabilities) or whose family might not know they are attending a course, please inform us of this when sending the sample. All learners in the sample will receive a letter giving them the option to opt out of the survey.

Ipsos MORI will then randomly select a sample of learners to be included in the survey. After the survey has been undertaken, LSC/Ipsos MORI will destroy all learners' contact details to comply with the Data Protection Act (providers will receive a signed confirmation this has been completed).

Sending the file to Ipsos MORI

You can do this by:

- E-mail if the file is less than 4MB (please zip the file): angela.klein@ipsos.com or
- Post: Angela Klein, Ipsos MORI, MORI House, 79-81 Borough Road, London SE1 1FY.
Please label the disk with the name of the LEA.
- Please password protect the file and telephone Angela with the password separately.

OPT OUT LETTER TO PCDL LEARNERS

Dear

Your views on learning and training: A major survey for the Learning & Skills Council

I am writing to ask for your help with an important research survey.

We have been asked by the Learning & Skills Council (LSC) to carry out a major survey of what people think about learning or training in general and their experiences of the learning or training they have received. The LSC is the organisation in England responsible for funding high quality education and training. This survey is important because it helps education and training providers and the LSC to identify areas for improvement, and ensure they meet learners' needs.

We are contacting you because you have taken part in (or are about to start) a course or class. We are keen to hear your views and experiences of this course or class, even if you have not yet started it, have already completed it or decided not to proceed with it, for whatever reason. Ipsos MORI is a completely independent research company. The data collected for this research will remain strictly confidential - no-one will be able to identify you from the research and the information provided will only be used for this project. We are a member of the Market Research Society (MRS) and, as such, strictly abide by the MRS Code of Conduct (www.mrs.org.uk).

One of our interviewers may call you in the next few weeks to invite you to take part in a short telephone interview about your experiences at a time that is convenient for you. This should only take between 10-15 minutes. I do hope that you feel able to take part in this important survey. However, if you have any questions about this research you can contact Angela Klein at Ipsos MORI (tel: 020 7347 3964), or email NLSS2009@ipsos.com.

If you do not want to take part in the survey please contact Angela or NLSS2009@ipsos.com by 6th March 2009, giving your name and the reference number detailed at the top of this letter, and you will be taken off the list of people that we will contact. Alternatively, you can tell the interviewer when he or she contacts you.

Thanks very much in advance for your help.

Yours sincerely,
