Conference Foreword

The annual Security Congress, run by the Security Research Institute at Edith Cowan University, includes the 12th Australian Information Security and Management Conference. Now in its twelfth year, the conference remains popular for its diverse content and mixture of technical research and discussion papers. The area of information security and management continues to be varied, as is reflected by the variety of subject matter disciplines covered by the papers this year.

The conference has drawn interest and papers from within Australia and internationally. All submitted papers were subject to a double blind peer review process and 16 papers were submitted from Australia and overseas, of which 12 were accepted for final presentation and publication.

We wish to thank all the reviewers for kindly volunteering their time and expertise in support of this event. We would also like to thank the conference committee who have organised yet another successful congress. Events such as this are impossible without the tireless efforts of such people in reviewing and editing of the conference papers, helping with the planning, organisation and execution of the conferences.

To our sponsors also a vote of thanks for both the financial and moral support provided to the conference. Finally, to the administrative and technical staff and students of the ECU Security Research Institute for their contributions to the running of the conference.

Yours sincerely
