

2016

Those Birds in the Fat Large Leafy Tree

Andrew Burke
burkeandre@gmail.com

Recommended Citation

Burke, A. (2016). Those Birds in the Fat Large Leafy Tree. Landscapes: the Journal of the International Centre for Landscape and Language, 7(1).
Retrieved from <http://ro.ecu.edu.au/landscapes/vol7/iss1/5>

This Poetry is posted at Research Online.
<http://ro.ecu.edu.au/landscapes/vol7/iss1/5>

Those Birds in the Fat Large Leafy Tree

Out the back door of this free standing room in the national park of Mundaring magpies' call-and-response calls me outside to watch as they forage for red berries and swing on light branches only to fly straight-arrow-like to a fat limb for security, one continually crying from an open beak as others reply with lyrical phrases, a breakfast concert.

I watch and hear, trying to dismiss a need for names and words of evaluation or distinction.

I search for the delight of a child, no questions, simply experience, enjoyment, as they talk in their tongue, ignoring me.

-Andrew Burke

Andrew Burke is an Australian writer, who has written and published in most genres, from poetry to skywriting. His current titles are available through Walleah Press at http://store.walleahpress.com.au/ANDREW-BURKE-Special-Offer_p_50.html. His Collected Poems is on the horizon.