Introduction

The Children's Plan: Building Brighter Futures set out an ambition to make this the best place in the world for children and young people to grow up. Local authorities, working with their partners in Children's Trusts, have a vital role in ensuring there are measurable improvements in the lives of all children and young people.

The Department for Children, Schools and Families (DCSF) provides a comprehensive programme of support to help local authorities and Children's Trusts to deliver better outcomes for children and young people. Information on that support can be found in "Children's Services Improvement support for local authorities and Children's Trusts: A National Prospectus 2009-10" which is being published alongside this document.

The Children's Services Improvement Framework has been set up to support improvement by allowing local authorities to procure additional high quality tailored packages of activity across children's services.

Any local authority can use the framework using their own funding to procure the services of a framework supplier organisation to meet their own identified improvement needs. External consultants can contribute in a variety of different ways, by providing:

- Specialist skills, knowledge or expertise not available in house;
- Additional skilled resource on a temporary basis;
- Wider experience and a broader perspective drawn from work with other organisations; or.
- An independent view of current issues.

The framework provides a simple and quick means of procuring services and/or skilled individuals at relatively short notice. In setting up the framework a fully EU-compliant tendering process has been conducted and the terms of contract and rates for successful suppliers have been agreed as part of that process.

The Framework

The Children's Services Improvement Framework is broken down into three "Lots". Each Lot covers a different broad area of improvement.

Lot 1: Strategic Improvement

This lot is aimed at providing suppliers who can offer expertise in "top of the organisation" priorities, such as, improving joint commissioning, recruitment and retention and performance management. Suppliers will be able to support a local authority's children's services department to improve, further develop or refine performance in any of the high-level strategic areas listed below:

- leadership and strategic management;
- performance management (covering both service delivery and staff management);
- joint commissioning arrangements;
- strategic/business planning;
- recruitment and retention strategies/workforce development;
- change management;
- project and programme management;
- partnership arrangements/multi-agency working;
- organisational and operational/team structures;
- communication strategies;
- capacity building;
- financial management;
- ability to undertake short analysis of functions within a children's services department (may include for example – efficiency reviews/staff capability and capacity reviews/structure reviews).

Lot 2: Operational Improvement

This lot is aimed at providing suppliers with the expertise in frontline aspects of children's services who would work directly with a local authority and its officers, to deliver a tailored support package to improve performance. This could entail working across a whole children's services department or within a specific service area:

- frontline social work practice – child protection, access and assessment, care planning, supervision, audit processes, fostering and adoption, Looked After Children – attainment and placement balance;
- vulnerable children – which may include issues around social exclusion, NEET, teenage pregnancy;
- special educational needs;
- pupil and parent support services;
- school improvement;
- behaviour and attendance;
- information handling/data management;
- any other service for children and young people, including early years, extended schools, youth service;
- providing consultancy support to include such activities as: assisting local authority officers with improving practice, implementing improvement plans, raising standards, increasing productivity, researching and devolving and embedding good practice;
- ability to undertake an analysis of the effectiveness of functions within a children's services department.

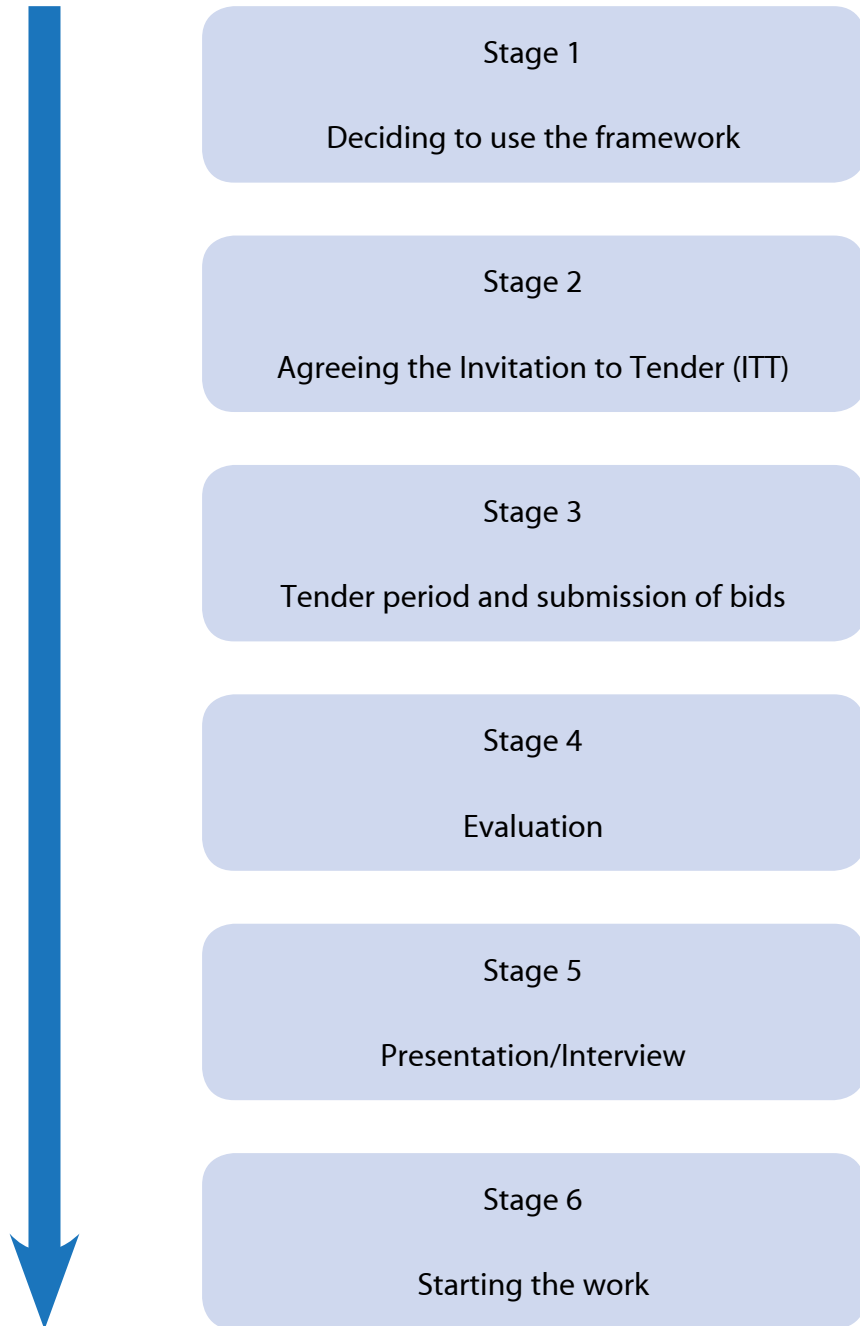

Lot 3: Interim Management

This lot is aimed at providing suppliers who can source individuals able to act as short term interims, independent 'Chairs' of partnership/ improvement/ stakeholder boards and also to facilitate, manage and monitor support from outside/third party bodies.

- Depending on the individual circumstances, this may include:
- providing interim management in critical posts (for example Director of Children's Services, Assistant Directors, Service Managers, Team Managers in social care, members of senior/ middle management team)
- sourcing independent Chairs of partnership/ improvement/stakeholder boards.
- providing a brokerage service, and procurement advice, to support a local authority in setting up and/or managing a contract, arrangement or agreement with a third party;
- providing project and programme management to challenge and support the successful delivery of an identified improvement package.

The Procurement Process

Stage 1 – deciding to use the framework

- Identify the areas that would benefit from external support and decide which lot most closely meets your needs.

Stage 2 – agreeing the ITT

- Ensure the ITT is concise, focused and explicit about requirements.
- Clearly state the evaluation criteria and weightings, including any sub-evaluation criteria, that will be used to evaluate the submitted bids – which should be under the broad categories of experience, capability and value for money.
- Make sure the ITT is sent to all suppliers on your chosen lot.
- Make sure that you are clear about what suppliers need to submit in terms of bid format and length.
- Include a clear timeline including proposed dates for interviews.

Stage 3 – tender period and submission of bids

- Give suppliers long enough to respond. Make sure they understand what your requirement is and are capable of delivering it.
- Allow time for suppliers to contact you to clarify any queries about the content of your ITT. This will mean that they have a clearer idea of what you want, resulting in the bid being stronger and more relevant.
- Anonymise any questions and provide the answers to all suppliers, ensuring any one supplier is not given an unfair advantage by receiving more information.
- Make sure all bids are received by the deadline and are completed as per requirements.

Stage 4 – Evaluation stage

- Make sure evaluation criteria are appropriate. For example, the team proposed and their relevant experience; the proposal and approach to the work; the project management arrangements; how the supplier will deliver the requirements; and value for money. Ensure that the criteria remain unchanged throughout the process as this could lead to challenge or criticism from bidders.
- Hold a moderation meeting to discuss the scoring of the bids to decide which organisations to invite to presentations/interviews.

- Provide comments about the bid/proposed team on the evaluation sheet as you work your way through each bid. This will allow you to provide constructive feed-back to unsuccessful suppliers when you inform them of the outcome of their bid.
- Check references for key individuals involved in bids that are short-listed for presentation/interview.

Stage 5 – presentation/interview stage

- Invite the top 2 or 3 suppliers to a short presentation/interview. These can be very useful to discuss the bids in more detail and to gauge the people proposed for the work. No new evaluation criteria should be introduced at this stage.
- Prior to the presentations, provide each supplier invited to attend with a series of 4 or 5 focused questions you want them to address. These questions should probe for more information about the content of their bid.
- During presentations ask about the proposed team and contingency plans to replace any member in the event of them having to drop out.
- The presentations/interviews should be evaluated as well, with positive comments and examples of where things could have been done better being noted.

Stage 6 – Starting the work

- Before agreeing the final project documentation with a successful supplier, think carefully about the order in which things need to be done to get most benefit from the work the supplier will be doing.
- Request the successful supplier develop SMART project management documentation. Ensure the documentation produced is robust in meeting the requirements of the specification and lends itself to being effectively monitored with clear milestones.
- Ensure arrangements for regular communication between project managers are made clear in the communication plan within the project documentation.
- Agree how progress will be monitored and how the supplier will report back at various key points during the life of the project.
- Agree the process for recommending and making alterations to the planned work.
- Finally, the instructions should make it clear that the work is being commissioned against the terms and conditions that govern the Children's Services Improvement Framework.

Case Studies

Case Study: Hertfordshire County Council

What was needed

External support was required for performance management arrangements for the whole of the Children's Services directorate and to improve priority areas around safeguarding and looked after children. Key areas included:

- front line assessment services;
- ensuring safe staffing procedures and checks; and
- statutory requirements for allocation of cases and timely visits.

What was done

The Children's Services Improvement Framework was used to recruit external support for the areas of improvement identified.

The external support team was asked to assist Hertfordshire in the following areas:

- to provide interim management of fieldwork services,
- to review performance management in Children's Services
- to review the effectiveness of Local Safeguarding Children Board and Children Trust Partnership arrangements
- to review existing to rectify identified failings in the safe staffing processes.

The project team consisted of six consultants and an Interim Head of Fieldwork Services who, between them, provided the range of experience, expertise and proven track record necessary to ensure the most appropriate support to the Council.

Outcome

Support was concluded in April 2008. There was a structured handover from the Interim Head of Fieldwork Service to the new post holder in June 2008. As a result there were rapid improvements in children's social care and more focus on performance management and commitment to ensuring greater consistency in management practice. The 2008 APA now rates Hertfordshire as adequate on safeguarding and good overall.

Case study: Nottinghamshire County Council

What was needed

As part of its self-assessment for its first joint area review and related inspections of its youth support service and youth offending service, Nottinghamshire County Council identified that it required specialist consultancy support in certain service areas to help it prepare effectively for the inspections.

What was done

The Council decided that it required external consultancy input in order to:

- provide high level support at a strategic management level within the children and young people's services department to help prepare for the JAR and also to support the development of a post-JAR improvement plan
- provide additional strategic capacity to develop the Council's work in integrating youth service provision in Nottinghamshire
- help improve the Council's children's social care services, with a particular focus on analysing performance information, relating this to practice issues and working with middle managers to improve consistency of practice and outcomes for children and young people
- carry out an audit of children's social care client case files, with a focus on issues such as thresholds – for new referrals and initiating legal proceedings – and practice standards
- provide intensive managerial support to the youth offending service, ahead of its inspection.

Outcome

The tendering process proved successful in that consultants were engaged for each of the required areas and assisted the Council to prepare thoroughly for its inspections. The inspection outcomes proved to be very successful, with 'good' ratings for the JAR and youth support service inspections, and a broadly satisfactory outcome for the youth offending service inspection.

OPM 252b Gray's Inn Road London WC1X 8XG
	www.opm.co.uk
OPM works to create a positive impact on public services and to achieve improved social result. OPM is an independent, not-for-profit centre, founded in 1989. We became the UK's first public interest company in August 2002 and in March 2006 we completed the process of becoming an employee share-ownership trust. The value that underlies all our work is 'social result'. We see our role as being to support managers and organisations to achieve their own definition of 'social result' and to develop the appropriate capacities and competencies. We are based in London, although our business is conducted throughout the UK and our consultants are themselves based all over England and Wales. We strongly believe in the need to understand local and regional context in order to better support our clients to apply national priorities to their circumstances. Our corporate understanding of communities, policy development, and the way that statutory and voluntary sector bodies work gives us a unique ability to help managers at all levels operationalise policy, while empowering them to develop their own leadership style and confidence in appropriately challenging the status quo. Our work includes organisational change and development, leadership and management development, coaching and strategic counselling, community engagement, communication, public interest research and analytical studies. We run a wide range of long-term leadership and management development programmes, in-house management development, and many open programmes at our London centre and at regional venues. Many of our programmes are accredited by the Institute of Leadership and Management (ILM). We ground all our management and leadership development activity in the policy within which our individual clients work. We have found that our experience and current knowledge of managing in public services enables us to challenge our clients in a way that they find stimulating and highly relevant to their personal and career development.

PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP 80 Strand London WC2R 0AF	 www.pwc.co.uk
PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP (PwC) have a long track record of working with Children's Services Directorates in Local Authorities, Primary Care Trusts, acute and mental health trusts and other areas of devolved government. We have a dedicated Children and Families team and our expertise and experience covers cross-cutting issues which are relevant to all partners providing services to children, young people and families. We have a flexible approach to assisting local, regional and national agencies to deliver against the Children's agenda, based on working with clients and involving them in the work that we do to deliver sustainable change. The services we provide under the Children's Services Intervention Framework include support in areas such as capacity building, performance management and commissioning. We can work in a variety of ways to assist with capacity building. Sometimes this takes the form of providing people with the skills and experience to support particular areas, such as project management or procurement advice. At other times it is focused on enabling the organisation to achieve and sustain improved internal capacity by looking at areas such as structures and organisation, the skills and capacity of middle managers, and the effectiveness of strategic boards. We also undertake service reviews, provide advice and support on the operational implications of change. We recognise that a robust performance management framework enables an organisation to undertake regular monitoring of key performance indicators and to use the data to take appropriate actions. We can provide support by reviewing the effectiveness of existing performance management frameworks and by providing assistance to develop new or more robust frameworks. We also provide training for managers and teams to enable staff to understand performance management information and use it to inform and improve their operational responsibilities.
Commissioning and contracting functions are fundamental to the provision of effective, value for money services. We work with clients to add value to their commissioning practices by supporting organisations in developing and implementing commissioning frameworks that reflect the challenging environment and market changes to all sectors. We can help commissioners to improve their understanding of the local markets for children's services by providing guidance and tools for developing robust commissioning strategies. We are also working to develop commissioning skills at both a strategic and operational level.

Frequently Asked Questions

What is a framework?

Most simply, a framework is an approved list of suppliers. Suppliers listed under Framework Agreements provide access to a wide range of skills and expertise which can be called on relatively quickly. The buyer issues its requirement to all suppliers on the framework who are capable of carrying out the service. The buyer must select the contractor most able to deliver the requirements from this group in a fair and equitable way. This must be through a "mini-tendering" competition.

What are the benefits of using this framework to appoint suppliers?

The benefits of using this framework are: it provides a simple and quick means of procuring services or skilled individuals at relatively short notice; it has undergone a fully EU-compliant tendering process; it consists of a wide range of organisations able to provide high quality services and individuals; and DCSF terms and conditions and competitive individual consultant day rates have been agreed with the suppliers for the term of the framework.

How are suppliers ensuring Value For Money for those using this framework?

All suppliers on this framework have signed up to specified day-rates, for all grades of consultant available, for the four year duration of the framework. In addition to this, when "calling-off" from this framework via a mini-tendering competition, users may find that some suppliers will offer discounted costs for individual assignments. These discounts may be based on the total number of days of an assignment or on the overall cost of the work. It would be advisable to explicitly ask suppliers in any Invitation to Tender/specification document issued at the beginning of each mini-tendering process whether discounts would be applied.

Is there any funding available to local authorities wishing to use the framework?

No. There is no additional funding/resource available for a local authority who decides that they want to use the framework. The local authority would be responsible for paying for all costs involved in appointing a provider, paying for any work undertaken by the successful provider, for managing the contract and for all associated risks.

Can we use this framework to outsource any of our services to a third party provider?

No. This framework has been set up as an improvement framework, with the intention being that suppliers called-off from the framework will undertake relatively short term pieces of work clearly focussed on improving performance in certain areas. The framework was not designed to be used by local authorities as a way of outsourcing any of their functions. That would be beyond the scope of this framework, contravene EU regulations and make the authority vulnerable to risk of legal action from the EU Commission.

Could a local authority wishing to use the framework just pick one supplier from the list and contract with them?

No. In setting up this framework, we made a commitment to all suppliers through our agreements with them that work will be procured via a "mini-tendering" competition amongst all the framework suppliers who are capable of delivering the particular requirement.

Is there any input/advice available to those local authorities wanting to use the framework?

There is the potential, on a case by case basis, for advice and/or input from either the CSA or from DCSF for local authorities intending to use the framework. This could be anything from advice/ input into strategic planning and wider service improvement, to advice on using the framework appropriately.

In instances where a local authority makes use of the framework, would any information about the local authority be handed to the DCSF by the supplier and used to judge performance?

No. When the Children's Services Improvement Framework is used independently of DCSF, suppliers will be contracting directly with a local authority. DCSF will respect that contract and will not expect any information about what work is being undertaken, and how it is progressing, by the supplier. All that DCSF would ask is that the local authority provides feedback on the performance of the suppliers (in confidence) at the end of the contract.

For more details please contact:

enquiries.csif@dcsf.gsi.gov.uk

IMPORTANT DISCLAIMER

The DCSF's role is to award and manage the framework agreements with the listed suppliers and to provide guidance to end users. DCSF is not responsible for any calling-off from the Framework undertaken by any local authority. When a local authority procures and ultimately places an order with one of the Framework suppliers, a contract is formed between the local authority and the supplier. The DCSF is not a party to this contract. Each contract will be based on the standard Terms and Conditions contained in the Framework Agreement. The local authority calls-off from the framework at their own risk.
