LOWLY SPECIES HAS SOME FANS

Considered a delicacy in many parts of the world, the carp, doesn't often find fans in North America. But the expressions of happiness on the faces of the two young Kelowna fishermen above, must be comforting for this lowly species of fish. The youngsters are Gordon Braden, left, and Derek Sehn. The catch was made off a city marina. —(Courier photo)

W. Pakistan Army Moves On Rebels

NEW DELHI (Reuter) — Pakistan military forces have launched an all-out offensive against the followers of East Pakistan secessionist leader Sheikh Mujibur Rahman in five cities and towns of East Pakistan, All-India Radio reported today.

And in Islamabad, Pakistan, a foreign office spokesman said today, armed Indians have infiltrated border areas of East Pakistan. He said the authorities in East Pakistan are "fully alive to the needs of the situations and are taking the necessary steps to meet it adequately."

All-India Radio, quoting reports reaching Calcutta from across the border, said the Pakistani army, navy and air force offensive is aimed at Mujib's followers in the capital of Dacca, the port city of Chittagong and in Comilla, Rangour and Bogra.

The reports quoted by the

LIQUOR-TOBACCO B.C. Ad Ban Applicable To 'Outside' Magazines

VANCOUVER (CP) — The head of a major magazine distributing company said Wednesday he has been advised by the attorney-general's department that the forthcoming ban on liquor and tobacco advertising in B.C. will apply to magazines printed outside the province.

James Grubb, manager of Vancouver Magazine Service Ltd., said he was told the ban, which goes into effect Sept. 1, definitely includes material coming into B.C. for distribution.

During debate in the legislature preceding final approval of the legislation Tuesday, opposition members repeatedly asked Attorney-General Leslie Peterson how the law would be applied to advertising in out-of-province journals.

Without giving a clear-cut explanation, Mr. Peterson said: "I think the provisions in this particular statute must be read in the light that the province

NEWS IN A MINUTE

Penticton Students Play At April Fool
PENTICTON (CP) — More than 200 students of Princess Margaret junior secondary school left school today in an April Fool's Day demonstration. They trooped 20 blocks to Penticton secondary school where they chanted to get the 1,200 senior students to join them. The secondary students stayed put until the fire alarm sounded. Then the building was evacuated.

Strike May Close Port Of Vancouver
VANCOUVER (CP) — The port of Vancouver will be effectively closed down by Monday if the teup of Canada's two major railroads is not settled this weekend, acting port manager William Duncan said today.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two more aftershocks jolted the earthquake-jittery San Fernando Valley today. There were no reports of new damage.

ANYBODY CAN FAKE IT . . . HE ALMOST LAUGHED

Sasquatch Marks April 1
COLVILLE, Wash. (AP) — Sasquatch tracks which have appeared around Colville since mid-February were manmade.

"I just wanted to show that anybody could fake them," says Ray L. Pickens, 30, who also made a 7-foot-4 plywood likeness of the legendary beast.

"It was just wood, painted brown with a little dirt thrown on. I carried it out right behind my house and snapped a picture under the trees."

"I showed the picture around town and had a real hard time convincing people the creature wasn't real. I had a hard time to keep from laughing."

The tracks were cut from 2x10 lumber and nailed to boots, said Pickens, who lives south of Colville in north-eastern Washington.

"I wore the first set just after I made them Feb. 13th. Then the Sasquatch hunters around here started saying there was a family of the creatures. So besides Big Foot, we made a Middle Foot and Little Foot."

The Sasquatch feet measured 16, 14 and 12 inches and each set weighed about 11 pounds, he said.

"I just wanted to name the individuals who wore Middle Foot and Little Foot."

"The stride I made was about 54 inches—not at all

New Mystery In Tate Case

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — The mystery of the disappearance of Ronald Hughes, a lawyer in the Sharon Tate murder trial, has been solved with identification of his body, found in a creek in a rugged wilderness area.

But the cause of Hughes' death may never be known because of the body's advanced stage of decomposition, said Deputy Coroner Merle Peters.

The body was positively identified from dental charts Wednesday after being discovered last weekend by two fishermen.

Peters said an autopsy showed no signs of violent death—no skull fractures, knife wounds or bullet holes. Nor did he suffer a heart attack, the coroner said.

The 35-year-old lawyer disappeared after setting out on a weekend camping trip. He had been representing Leslie Van Houten, 21, one of three women tried with Charles Manson in the seven slayings. All four were condemned to death Monday.

Ulster Chief Visits U.K.

LONDON (AP) — Brian Faulkner, Northern Ireland's new prime minister, flew into London for talks with Prime Minister Edward Heath today, fortified by a vote of confidence from the Ulster Parliament.

Faulkner's week-old government was given the support of Northern Ireland MPs by 27 votes to eight with five abstentions after a marathon 14-hour debate.

The vote was the last of the political hurdles Faulkner had to surmount before getting down to the business of governing.

Prominent dissenters at the climax of debate in the small hours of today were the rightist Protestant evangelist, Rev. Ian Paisley, and his lieutenant, Rev. William Bennett, who demanded tough crack-downs on minority Roman Catholics to preserve Protestant ascendancy.

During the debate Faulkner denied giving secure assurance to rightist-inclined members of his cabinet that there would be changes in the London-inspired reform program aimed at giving Catholics equal rights in voting, housing and jobs.

Faulkner also ruled out a general re-arming of the police, which hardliners have insisted is necessary to quell Irish Republican Army terrorism.

Faulkner was not expected to make any major demands of the British government over law-and-order issues. He appeared likely only to suggest the more than 9,000 British troops in Northern Ireland play a wider role alongside the police in stamping out violence.

Ottawa Hopeful For Agreement In Rail Dispute

B.C. ADVERTISED COCKTAIL PARTY

VICTORIA (CP) — On the same day the Social Credit government introduced legislation banning all liquor advertising in British Columbia, it was sponsoring a cocktail party at Palm Springs, Calif.

In the legislature, Opposition Leader Dave Barrett received no reply when he asked for an explanation of the apparent contradiction.

Mr. Barrett held up an advertising pamphlet which he said had a picture of Premier Bennett on the front and belly dancer "Little Egypt" on the back.

The pamphlet referred to a cocktail party sponsored by British Columbia for the movie premier of Cactus in the Snow.

56,000 Non-Operatives Sign To Give Edge On Engineers

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's major railways and 56,000 non-operating employees today reached a contract agreement which Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey hopes will exert pressure on 7,000 locomotive engineers scheduled to strike Monday.

The labor minister told a news conference that talks will resume at 1:30 p.m. EST in a renewed attempt to head off the threatened national walkout by members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

"I'm sure the engineers appreciate the fact that they have assumed a new responsibility . . . to the point where it would be ridiculous to strike," he said.

Bernard Wilson, assistant deputy labor minister, would be attending the talks between representatives of the engineers' union and the two major railways, the CNR and CP Rail.

Mr. Mackasey left for Ottawa immediately after the news conference to attend a cabinet meeting.

The agreement with the non-operating employees provides for pay increases of eight per cent and seven per cent in a two-year contract, as well as improvements in job security, sickness and vacation benefits.

Members of the eight non-operating railway unions—including dispatchers, clerks, porters, signalmen, communications and maintenance-of-way employees—would receive the first eight-per-cent increase retroactive to Jan. 1.

The seven-per-cent boost would take effect Jan. 1, 1972.

The settlement was in line with an agreement reached last December by the railways and seven shop-craft unions representing 20,000 employees.

The shop-craft group, representing tradesmen such as machinists, electrical workers, plumbers and sheet metal workers, also set for increases of eight per cent and seven per cent over two years.

Dead Sisters Identified

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP) — The bodies of three elderly sisters who lay dead beside their cots in a locked house for about three weeks were identified today as Ethel, Anne and Cicely Wood, who moved to Owen Sound from Toronto nine years ago.

The three, all believed to have been in their 70s, were found by police Wednesday after a Toronto friend was unable to get an answer after rapping a few knocks at the family's door. Police said foul play is not suspected.

Neighbors said the sisters were recluses with no friends or relatives and that they were even reluctant to answer the door.

A brother, Sam, moved with them from Toronto but died in January.

Police said the bodies were found on the first floor of the home, near cots where they slept. Little food was found in the home and two of the three sisters were reported to be semi-invalids.

Results of post mortems on the bodies were expected later today, said coroner Dr. A. N. McDougall.

Members Yet To Ratify Pact

The shop-craft settlement brought the hourly rate for top mechanics to about $4.30 from $3.50 after two years.

There was no immediate estimate of whether the agreement would give non-operating employees, who now earn an average of $3.20 an hour.

The agreement reached early today after an all-night bargaining session must be ratified by the membership of the non-op unions.

Dick Smith, chairman of the non-op bargaining committee, told the news conference that the ratification vote will be taken by mailed ballot. Results were expected in "no more than four weeks."

In addition to the pay increases, the non-op settlement provided for:

- Company-paid life insurance of $4,500 for each employee, up from the present $3,000.
- A $500 paid-up life insurance policy on retirement.
- Weekly indemnity benefits of about $80 a week, up from the present $60.
- Medical and surgical payments by the railways of $11.50 a month for married employees and $5.50 for single employees, except in Quebec where a flat payment of $10 a month will be made for each employee.
- Ten statutory holidays annually, starting in 1972, compared with nine under the previous contract.
- Three weeks of paid vacation after eight years instead of 10 years.
- Five weeks of paid vacation after 30 years.

Calley Verdict Caused Hijack

MIAMI (AP) — A fellow passenger says the white-haired, toothless Latin who hijacked an Eastern Airlines DC-8 to Havana said he was angry over the conviction of Lieut. William Calley.

Passengers and crew aboard Eastern's Wednesday night Flight 039 said after arriving back in Miami early today that a white-haired man stepped from his first-class seat aboard the plane after it left New York for San Juan, Puerto Rico, and began strolling the aisles of the jetliner, working a plastic noise-maker.

Two hours into the flight the man molloned to the stewardess, Hilda Estay, to take a wad of envelopes to the pilot. The

Britain Cuts Interest Rate

LONDON (CP) — Britain relaxed its tight-money policy today and lowered the Bank of England's lending rate to six per cent from seven per cent.

Before the cut the Bank of England's rate had been the second-highest in Europe. Only Denmark has a higher level at eight per cent.

The British bank rate had stood at seven per cent since April 15 last year. Today's move was seen as a bid to stimulate Britain's flagging economy which has resulted in nearly 800,000 unemployed.

Today's cut brought interest levels down to their lowest since the 1967 monetary crisis, which led to devaluation of the pound.

The bank rate is the key to lending rates throughout Britain.

CBC ROW ENDS

TORONTO (CP) — All employees were scheduled to be back to work today in CBC centres across Canada following a brief walkout by television production employees at some centres Wednesday, a corporation spokesman said. No programming was affected.

FORD UPSETS U.K.

A pay raise of 16 to 17 per cent to settle Ford of Britain's two-month-long strike by 48,000 workers, dismayed the British government today. The offer follows a visit to Britain by Henry Ford II, above. The deal shatters the ceiling the government has tried to impose on wage increases. Over the winter months Prime Minister Heath's government withheld strikes and go-slows in vital public sectors of industry—including power and postal workers—to keep pay increases down about the 10-per-cent mark.

Power Fails At Toronto Hospital But It's 'Business As Usual'

TORONTO (CP) — A power failure affecting both regular and some emergency systems was reported in at least one wing of Toronto General Hospital today.

Toronto General officials declined immediate comment but police and spokesmen for other nearby hospitals said no patients had been evacuated.

A spokesman for the Toronto Hydro Electric Power Commission said a special crew was sent to the hospital immediately after the problem was reported.

He said Toronto Hydro is responsible for the hospital's power supply only up to a certain point, where it is taken over by special hospital equipment and personnel.

The police spokesman said he understood the regular power system had failed before midnight and that the trouble in the emergency system was confined to one emergency generator. The hospital would not say how many patients were in the building.

China Attacked At Red Meeting In Spite Of Olive Branch Offer

MOSCOW (Reuter) — China has not escaped sharp criticism at the 24th Soviet Communist party congress despite the olive branch offer to Peking this week by party leader Leonid Brezhnev.

One of Brezhnev's senior lieutenants, Pyotr Mashekov, said Wednesday Chinese leaders are "splitting" on Soviet experience in the creation of communism. This was the sharpest rebuff yet to Peking press attacks on Moscow just before the congress began this week, at which China is not represented.

Mashekov's broadside came just a day after Brezhnev, in a keynote address to the 5,000 delegates, offered to re-establish friendship and good-neighbor relations with Peking.

Meanwhile, late Wednesday night came a report of an incident which could lead to further acrimony between Moscow and Peking. The Soviet news agency Tass said there was a collision Tuesday between a Soviet motor vessel and a Chinese fishing craft in the Gulf of Tonkin off Vietnam.

It said the Russian ship picked up 34 fishermen and

Ottawa's Mission Starts N.Z. Tour

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — Jean Chretien, Canada's minister of Indian affairs and northern development, flew here today from Wellington where Monday he began a four-day tour of New Zealand.

He and his party visited the Auckland Technical Institute in the afternoon and later toured the War Memorial Museum containing a large display of Polynesian artifacts, including large Maori war canoes.

He also met Dr. Pat Hohepa, chairman of the Auckland Maori district council.

Wednesday at Wellington, Chretien told a reception that Canada's former orientation toward Europe is changing.

He said that Canada is taking an increasing interest in the Pacific and pointed out that he was the second Canadian minister to visit New Zealand since Prime Minister Trudeau's recent trip.

Chretien is travelling with a party of 12, including his wife and four members of the Canadian Parliament.

The major purpose of the tour is to study the relations between citizens of European descent and the indigenous Maori—said to be among the most successful examples of harmonious race relations in the world.

There are about 202,000 Maoris, of predominantly Polynesian extraction, making up about 15 per cent of the country's population.

His statements that Canada places great importance on the different New Zealand races retaining their identities has aroused interest among the Maoris who are objecting to the government's refusal to allow their language to be taught in schools.

Chretien is also still reporting data back to earth stations.

The program was planned in advance to cover an 11-year cycle. This would take care of the sun's cycle of quiet and violent activity, as far as sunspots and radiation are concerned, from a start in late 1962 through 1973.

Going on results from past performances, which have generated interest in several countries ranging from Norway to Japan, Canadian scientists are understandably excited.

The program has brought wide response and every bit of excess information is welcomed by the Canadian team that first decided the ionosphere was worth detailed examination.

Canada, With Big U.S. Assist, Sends Up Another Satellite

LOMPOC, Calif. (CP) — Canada, with a big assist from the United States, made it four in a row Wednesday to close out its special space study of the ionosphere, a blanket that affects everything from radio reception to man's ability to live.

A big U.S. Delta rocket lifted the fourth and last satellite, designed and built in Canada for the special ionosphere studies, into a near-polar orbit so perfect that it had Canadian scientists almost ecstatic.

Early checks on the satellite proved it had achieved the desired circular orbit about 750 nautical miles above the earth's surface and that all the basic systems aboard were functioning.

These included extension of the big information-gathering antennas—two 240 feet long and the other 62 feet in length—that are the heart and soul of the satellite. They work on additional information to back up the predecessors.

LAPORTE DEATH

Viger, a 31-year-old insurance salesman, is charged with helping Paul Rose and three other men after the kidnap-killing of the former Quebec labor minister.

The eight charges link him with each of the four men in connection with both the kidnaping and murder of Mr. Laporte.

Rose was sentenced March 13 to life imprisonment after being convicted of non-capital murder in the Laporte case.

Jacques Rose, Francis Suard and Bernard Lortie, the other three accused of kidnaping and killing Mr. Laporte, are to go on trial April 13.

It's Too Soon To Assess Rail Tie-Ups

It's too soon to assess the effects the province-wide rail tie-up will have on Kelowna's economy, a survey of local trucking companies shows.

The tie-ups, which result from book-offs last week by 800 engineers employed by Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways, has halted rail movement in all of B.C. and parts of Alberta.

The engineers' actions were to protest the slowness of contract negotiations under way between the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the two railways for about a year.

As a result of the book-offs, an estimated 6,000 CNR and CP Rail employees have been laid off in the two provinces due to inactivity.

By Tuesday, the book-offs had extended to Medicine Hat, Alta. In Kelowna, CNR laid off 11 men, all either yardmen or clerical staff.

"If the situation continues, more layoffs may be anticipated," a CNR official said.

CN employs about 25 men in Kelowna.

Local trucking companies say it is too early to indicate if there has been an increased volume in road freight being shipped into the Okanagan.

Rail freight destined for British Columbia is being backed up in Jasper, Edson, Edmonton, Calgary and even in Saskatchewan.

One spokesman said his firm has noticed some increased volume in freight being trucked from Vancouver to Kelowna.

He added the food industry, primarily Malkins Products and Sun-Rype Products Ltd., would feel the effect more readily by the walkout.

Those companies, he said, rely on rail transportation to send their products to market.

Another trucking company spokesman also said it was too soon to assess the situation.

"But if it continues, we may be swamped with requests to handle freight."

Meanwhile a spokesman for a third trucking firm said his company has noticed little or no effect by the rail stoppage.

"We have no real connection with the railways," he said, adding most of the freight traffic into the Okanagan comes by truck anyway.

"We are still moving trucks with freight from Edmonton and Calgary and they are reaching Kelowna," he said.

Consensus among the companies is if the walkout continues, their work may become harder as they carry increased freight unless picket lines are established by the engineers.

They add if picket lines do exist, their drivers would honor them.

Meanwhile, both railways announced an embargo on all freight shipments destined for areas affected by the work stoppage.

The embargo, which includes express traffic, applies to all CN stations in B.C. from west of Blue River to Prince Rupert and Vancouver.

This includes the Okanagan.

Symphony Orchestra At Theatre April 4

Kelowna music lovers will have a new dimension in audio entertainment April 4 at the Kelowna Community Theatre.

The 67-piece Okanagan Symphony Orchestra will blend with a 50-member symphony choir in a performance of Haydn's Mass as part of a program that will include Concerto Grosso by Vivaldi, Schubert's Unfinished Symphony and the first movement of Symphony number three by Jean Sibelius.

The orchestra will be under the direction of Capt. Leonard Campin, with the choir directed by noted pianist Joycevelyn Pritchard.

Part of the Okanagan musical scene for the past 12 years, the orchestra will be augmented by 27 members from the Vancouver Metropolitan Orchestra in the current spring concert series which will include performances at Penticon April 4 and Vernon April 3.

Last spring, the Okanagan Symphony Board considered formation of the choir so both groups could perform major choral works with the proper orchestral accompaniment. The board felt local singers would be interested in such a group and that it would add variety to the orchestral program.

The choir came into being in September of last year and practice sessions with the orchestra have been held every two weeks in preparation for the spring program this year.

Conductor of the newly-formed choir, Mrs. Pritchard is a graduate music major from the University of Alberta, and has studied choral singing and techniques. Since that time, she has formed and conducted the Da Camera Singers in Edmonton, which is now a semi-professional group.

Assistant conductor, Herb Klein, is a graduate of the University of British Columbia where he studied education and majored in music.

He is an associate in piano of the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto, and teaches school in Vernon.

Rehearsal accompanist is Edith Parkyn, an associate of the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto, and a member of the British Columbia Registered Music Teachers' Association.

The choir will make its debut with the orchestra at Vernon April 3.

Easter Seal Campaign Starts Well

The Kelowna Lion Club's annual Easter Seal campaign, officially begun March 11, has a total of $1,870 as of last Thursday.

Headed by chairman C. M. Lipssett, the local committee hopes to surpass its $4,000 goal in aid of the British Columbia Society for Crippled Children on whose behalf money is raised each year.

This year, 9,700 envelopes containing the familiar Easter appeal emblems and brochures were mailed to Kelowna households. Contributions to the campaign should be mailed in the return self-addressed envelope supplied.

Last year's drive finished with $3,875, or 125 short of its $4,000 target. Easter Seal officials are confident that deficit won't be repeated this year.

Welfare Office Not Involved

The Kelowna social assistance department was not involved in an interprovincial welfare fraud discovered at the coast, social assistance administrator Tom Hamilton said Wednesday.

Surrey municipal council decided to hire a welfare investigator after their welfare administrator, Wally Merner, said the scheme was uncovered by welfare departments and RCMP in B.C. and Calgary.

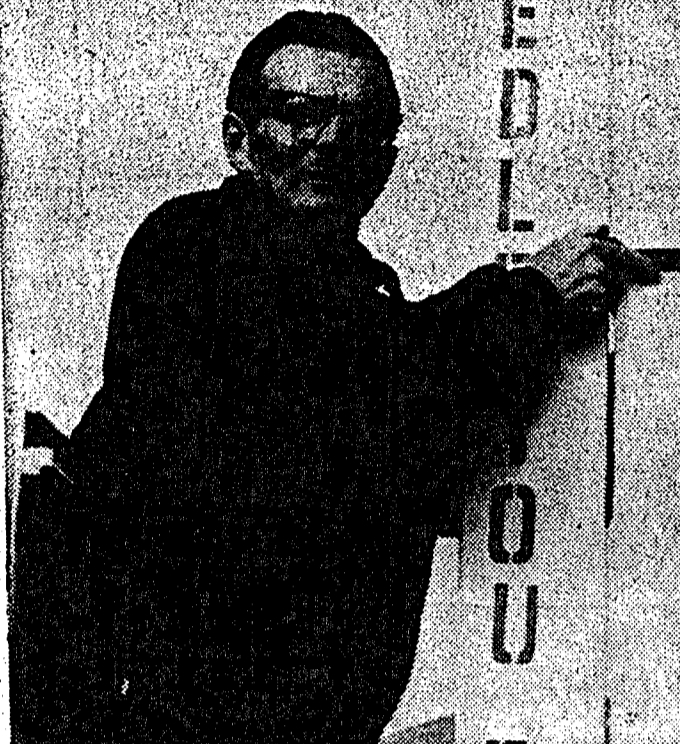

The scheme involved four adults and some children collecting benefits in Calgary, Penticon, Burnaby, Vancouver and Surrey.

The 1,500-pint target for the annual Kelowna spring blood donor clinic is reaching the mid-point as 737 pints have been collected during the first two days of the Canadian Red Cross - sponsored clinic. Since the clinic began Tuesday, 732 residents have offered their blood for donation and 737 were accepted. The remainder were rejected for various reasons. The final day for the clinic is today, with the last chance to donate the precious liquid between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. in the Anglican parish hall on Sutherland Avenue. Adjusting the tally is Herb Sullivan, executive director of the Kelowna Boys' Club.

Dairy Industry Disclaims Mercury Pollution Blame

The local dairy association has disclaimed blame for mercury pollution of Okanagan Lake.

Shuswap-Okanagan Dairy Industries Association general manager, Henry Wiens, said the industry had not added more than 10 pounds of mercury to the lake since SODICA was formed in 1923.

The charges came from Fred Alcock, senior health inspector with the South Okanagan Health Unit, who recently accused the dairy industry of being the major contributor to a pollution problem in the lake he said may prove to be "permanent."

Mr. Wiens admitted a further charge by Mr. Alcock the industry formerly used bichloride of mercury to conduct butterfat tests, but added this procedure stopped in 1968. In rebuttal to Mr. Alcock, he added "but for anybody who is supposed to know his business to say we dumped copious amounts of mercury is totally without foundation."

"If the condition of Okanagan Lake is getting worse, NOCA certainly isn't to blame."

The association, which produces NOCA brand products, represents about 85 per cent of the Okanagan dairy industry.

Mr. Wiens said the bichloride of mercury used was in the amount of two tablets containing three-sixteenth grain of mercury each month per shipment. His 10-pound estimation was based on 5,700 gallons per pound.

"I would say high school chemistry labs probably put more mercury into it than we do," he said, adding agricultural sprays also contained mercury additives.

Fishermen have already been warned not to consume fish larger than three pounds due to pesticide contamination in the lake.

Hiring Policy May Be Unsafe

A city policy of not hiring relative of employees is hampering finding lifeguards for next summer, council was told Monday.

Ald. Gwen Holland suggested the policy should be reviewed, pointing out it was making it hard to get 10-14 lifeguards.

"That's an administrative matter," snapped Ald. S. A. Hojcie.

Mayor Hilbert Roth called it a "good policy which has solved problems in the past. In the long run, everybody will be happier with it."

IN THE VALLEY

Construction is progressing on schedule for about $48 million worth of projects in the Central Okanagan.

Spokesmen for various contractors on the project, ranging from the $30 million Hiram Walker distillery plant at Winfield to a number of schools under construction in School District 23 (Kelowna) say work continues to roll along on target.

Orchard Park, a $13 million shopping centre - commercial complex on Highway 97 remains on schedule, spokesmen for Marathon Realty, developers, say.

Steel was erected on the site in November, and spokesmen say the first phase is to be completed by August.

This includes 250,000 square feet of floor area for Simpsons Sears, Super-Valu and about 45 other tenants.

The second phase, to include a second major department store, as yet unnamed, and a Safeway store, will be completed by September.

Orchard Park, like the other shopping centres developed by Marathon, will be climatically controlled.

Marathon is the real estate arm of Canadian Pacific Railway.

Spokesmen for Douillard Construction, who is building the $13 million federal building on Queensway, say construction is almost complete on the original contract.

They say the first floor is receiving finishing touches and the post office will be moving its downtown sub-station into the premises during the week-end.

The second and third floors are almost complete in the initial construction stages.

Partitions and finishing touches have yet to begin.

Paving and sidewalk construction will be completed when the weather improves, officials say.

Meanwhile, officials at the Capri shopping centre, say new tenants are expected to move into the expanded facilities by May 1.

Wouldn't Accept Top BCFGAs Post - John Bullock

Local orchardist John Bullock expressed surprise Wednesday that he be chairman and acting president of the British Columbia Fruit Growers' Association.

"I don't know where he (Peschek) got my name from," Mr. Bullock said, adding he didn't think Peschek "had anything against Mr. Claridge." He described the BCFGAs head as doing "as good a job as he can." Although present at the meeting he added he would "never be the instigator in upsetting the organization."

During a lengthy address at the meeting organized by himself, Mr. Peschek called for the resignation of Alan Claridge, president of BCFGAs, whom he described as the "official undertaker" for the B.C. fruit industry.

Even if he had the chance, the meeting was not sanctioned by the BCFGAs but had been called and arranged by Mr. Peschek.

Mr. Peschek saw himself as chief executive of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd.

Supporting Mr. Claridge, Mr. Taylor said Wednesday it was a "great shame they should call for Claridge's resignation at this time." He added if growers wanted a change they should go through BCFGAs and not outside.

"We have a democratic organization 3,200 strong," Mr. Taylor said, adding "each one" had a vote. He said he thought Mr. Claridge was "doing a good job."

In his protest meeting speech, Mr. Peschek called for re-organization of the industry and said he was prepared to face prosecution to assert his rights to market fruit outside the industry's central marketing agency, B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd.

Tobacco Ban Has Upset Commission

Current debate on the ban of tobacco advertising appears to have the arena advisory commission upset.

In a recommendation to the city, members said the tobacco advertising which flanks the time clock in Memorial Arena should be removed.

But aldermen, most of whom do not smoke, did not appear that concerned and suggested the city would be imprudent to take the advertising down but continue the use of the clock.

The MacDonald Tobacco Company installed the clock in the arena about 22 years ago and has maintained its service since that time at an estimated cost of $2,000.

Ald. Syd Hodge said leaving the clock up with no advertising would be irresponsible, "we were happy enough to take the clock."

Aldermen voted to receive and file the recommendation with Ald. Gwen Holland casting the only opposing vote.

Not Satisfied With Policy

He told an attendance of about 200 growers that "it smacks of communism" to deny growers the right to dispose of their fruit as they see fit.

Mr. Peschek also outlined a proposal for door-to-door type and warehousing method of selling which would provide apples 50 per cent cheaper to the consumer and increase returns to the grower by 30 per cent.

Contacted Wednesday, Mr. Peschek said he was "not satisfied" with the sales policy of B.C. Tree Fruits, or with its leadership personage in Alan Claridge. He described Mr. Claridge as being "too big and too feeble" to deal with the federal government during a confrontation with Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson at a special meeting at Penticon March 12. More than 1,200 growers and their wives turned out at that time hoping to hear whether a requested federal grant of $3.2 million to cover losses sustained on 1969 apple crops had been granted.

Mr. Peschek accused Mr. Claridge of being the "number one enemy of fruit growers" because he would not ask low growers to question Mr. Olson on the grant issue.

Mr. Claridge, he charged, "decided at the last minute that only delegates could ask the minister questions" and that it was "easy for Olson to deal with" questions submitted by delegates.

Mr. Peschek charged sales methods of B.C. Tree Fruits were "obsolete and old-fashioned" and should be concentrated in a main sales campaign area of towns and cities upwards of 20,000 population, plus "direct" door-to-door sales outlets. He also pointed out there was no representative attendance at the protest meeting from BCFGAs, B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., or Sun-Rype Products Ltd.

Mr. Peschek added growers at the meeting "like the idea" of formation of a committee to approach the BCFGAs in a general meeting with himself as counter-speaker.

"I don't ask for personal support," he said, adding he was seeking "just a little help and support for individual growers and the industry."

Remaining unimpressed with the charges, Mr. Claridge summed up his reaction with, "Mr. Peschek is entitled to his opinions."

Final Fiddler Preparations For Opening Night April 27

Members of the Kelowna Theatre Players are making final preparation for their third annual play, Fiddler on the Roof, opening April 27 in the Kelowna Community Theatre.

Wine Business For Ben Ginter

Prince George brewer Ben Ginter whose entry into the wine business has been finalized with the merger of his brewery with Mission Hill Wines, will now own more than 80 per cent of the combined company, to be known as Uncle Ben's Industries Ltd.

Under the agreement, Mr. Ginter's Tartan Breweries was brought into Mission Hill Wines at a value of 9.6 million shares of Mission Hill.

The outstanding shares of the winery at the time of the merger last August were 430,000.

The winery reported losses of $68,000 in the last half of 1970, according to a financial statement from the winery.

Described as "one of the great works of the American musical theatre," this play has been presented on Broadway in New York since 1964. It is based on stories by Sholom Aleichem.

Harold Pettman will be Toyve, a milkman, Marjorie Flett, a newcomer to the stage here, plays his wife Golde. Several members of the cast have appeared in the other KTP productions, The Sound of Music and The King and I. Howard Young is in charge of the chorus, Harry Kirk of the orchestra, and Dr. Gweneth Lloyd of choreography.

Opening night proceeds will go to the Okanagan Neurological Association. The show ends May 1. Tickets will be available starting Monday at the Bank of British Columbia.

$48 MILLION

Construction Is Right On Target

Construction is progressing on schedule for about $48 million worth of projects in the Central Okanagan.

Partitions and finishing touches have yet to begin.

Paving and sidewalk construction will be completed when the weather improves, officials say.

Meanwhile, officials at the Capri shopping centre, say new tenants are expected to move into the expanded facilities by May 1.

Construction on the program,

Estimated to be between $1.5 million and $2 million, is progressing on schedule.

When completed, the 30,000 square foot project, being built by Capozzi Enterprises Ltd., will encompass a two-storey office building and mail-enclosed stores complex.

Work began in September.

The most diversified construction program is being undertaken by School District 23 (Kelowna), with construction either progressing or tenders being processed for call in April.

Construction is proceeding on KLO Junior Secondary School's main building, which is due for completion in May.

KLO, the largest with $1.1 million, began in July, 1970 and will provide accommodation for 25 teachers and 750 students.

Contractor is Gustavus Construction of Vernon.

At the same time, construction is proceeding with KLO's gymnasium which began in mid-March.

Contractor on the $250,000 project, is Busch Construction, of Kelowna. The gym is scheduled for completion in July.

Another school under construction is Mountainview Elementary due for completion by the end of the month.

It will contain four open teaching areas.

Tenders are due Thursday on a combined bid for three schools worth an estimated $326,000.

Work is to involve additions and renovations at George Pringle Secondary, Lakeview Elementary and Westbank Elementary Schools.

On April 22, deadlines are due on three other schools involving additions to two while the third is new.

Total estimate of the combined projects are $432,000.

Work includes a four classroom addition at Quilley Road Elementary; three classrooms and library expansion at the new Rutland Senior Secondary; and four classrooms and library at the new Rutland Airport Elementary school.

In the planning stages are additions to George Elliot Secondary, Winfield, Wood Lake Elementary. Internal changes at the existing Rutland Secondary School, and a one-room addition at Sunnyside workshop.

At the Hiram Walker Distillery plant at Winfield, project manager Frank Leeder says construction is proceeding on the revised schedule with work about 90 per cent complete.

Arena nearing completion include the maturing warehouse, closed receiving building except for testing; and the manufacturing complex.

The complex includes a still house, fermenting room and grain-handling equipment.

Mr. Leeder said the complex is a few months from completion, with 90 per cent of the work done.

The $30 million project has up to 700 workmen on the contracting firms on the site.

The three-month construction locked during spring 1970 forced the company to revise its construction schedule causing a three-month delay, some of which has been overcome.

Canadian Cancer Society Has Individual Appeal

April is the month in which the Canadian Cancer Society makes its annual appeal for funds to support its work. It might be useful to explain why the Society makes an individual appeal and is not a member of the United Appeal.

Primarily the Canadian Cancer Society is a medical society and not a charitable organization. Although the Society has a broad welfare program for cancer sufferers, the aims of the Society are to provide the best known means of cancer treatment by its support of research. Through this research the Society aims to attain its final goal which is the elimination of cancer from the catalogue of the diseases of mankind.

Unlike other worthy charitable groups which budget on a yearly basis for their various works of kindness, the Cancer Society is committed to long-range research projects involving several years support. It is also involved in the provision of treatment facilities for cancer on a continuing and expanding basis.

Currently the Society has assumed responsibilities in the building of a six storey addition to the British Columbia Cancer Institute in Vancouver which has treated many of our area residents.

When these expanded facilities are completed the Society will then be committed to financial support of the increased treatment program. Then there is the "TRIUMF" project in which the Canadian Cancer Society is participating.

This very advanced program when completed in 1975 will cost approximately $27 million, but it will provide "Meson Radiation" treatment of cancer which shows promise of being the greatest breakthrough towards the cure of cancer since the discovery of the properties of radium itself.

It will be one of only three Meson Nuclear Accelerators in the world, and it is being built right here in British Columbia.

With the program outlined above it can be seen that the financial planning for them must come from a consistent and long-range source of funds. Further, the control of the money must be directed to attain the one aim of the Society, and not dissipated in multiple good works of a different nature.

Another consideration is that the cancer society receives many bequests for cancer research from persons affected by cancer which it might not receive if it were not solely devoted to cancer.

Previously the welfare program of the society was mentioned. This, broadly stated, is that no cancer victim will be denied the best available treatment for any financial reason. This, where required, includes transportation to the cancer institute, treatment, accommodation, and a leisure activity program as well as subsequent supplies of prescribed drugs. This welfare program is not widely known as it is conducted in a quietly discreet manner as befits a medical confidence.

The foregoing is directed towards informing you why the cancer society operates independently and why your support is so urgently needed.

Share Resources

(Victoria Colonist)

A crying need for international understanding and co-operation on practically every subject under the sun is seen daily in the news headlines. The subject today is the sharing of resources.

The United States has been waging a fish fight off the shores of South America for a number of years, and a report comes from San Diego, Ecuador, on the second seizure in less than two months of an American boat harvesting tuna.

Peru, Ecuador and Chile claim territorial jurisdiction of the continental shelf, 200 miles out to sea—a control, incidentally, that Canadian Fisheries Minister Jack Davis would like to have off this country's coasts. But the United States refuses to recognize anything beyond the 12-mile limit.

The South American 200-mile zone happens to be particularly rich in tuna which is the reason the United States ignores the jurisdictional claims.

This results in rather forceful retaliation with claims of strafing by Ecuadorian warplanes in some instances, along with seizure of fishing boats and imposition of heavy fines. In the latest case, the penalty amounted to a levy of $157,740 for fishing 70 miles within the 200-mile zone. In previous cases it has averaged around $35,000.

A relatively cheap way out for the United States fishermen would appear to be the purchase of fishing licences, which Ecuador is willing to issue for $10,000.

But the United States government discourages this by quietly paying the fines. If licences were taken out it would amount to recognition of the 200-mile limit.

The fight is not really over 200 or 12-mile limits or licences versus fines, but the control and exploitation of a natural resource. In this case it is a product of the sea, the tuna fish, which the United States regards as belonging to no one and, therefore, anyone's for the taking. On the other line, Ecuador and her sister countries demand exclusive control of the resource in their declared vicinities.

While none of the South American countries has any large-scale commercial fishery, they are quite adamant on the 200-mile control, and the impasse raises a question on the proper use of world resources in general. If the United States and three basically friendly nations can't come to a rational understanding on tuna, what is the prospect of sharing among all nations of much more vital resources—the water, air and earth itself which is fast becoming essential as the ecological crisis grows?

APRIL FOOL

NDP Plain Frustrated As Its Waffle Group Fringe

TORONTO (CP) — Within every democratic political party there is an element that considers it a greater sin to be elected for the wrong reasons than not to be elected at all.

An entrenched party can afford to humor its fundamental fringe. But for the Establishment of the New Democratic Party, convinced that it is approaching the threshold of power at federal and provincial levels, the existence of the Waffle group is a growing source of frustration.

For at a time when the NDP appears to be easing away from a socialist image, the Waffle group insists that socialism is the road to salvation.

Party organizers, intent on preparing for crucial elections expected within a few months, are exasperated by the insistence of Waffle spokesmen that "the NDP's emphasis on electoral technique must be shifted to the building of a social movement."

The name itself is a gesture of defiance towards the NDP hierarchy.

MANIFESTO REJECTED — When the group's manifesto, for an Independent Socialist Canada, was debated at the party's 1969 convention in Winnipeg, NDP leaders said it appeared to waffle—express itself ambiguously—on such key issues as nationalization of industry and separatism in Quebec.

The manifesto, a call for an all-out effort to build a socialist society, was defeated by a majority of nearly 2 to 1 but the Waffle cheerfully adopted the derisive epithet and fought on.

Since the group has never resorted to the formality of signing up members, its own leaders are unable to estimate its strength. James Laxer, Waffle candidate for the national NDP leadership, says it has a mailing list of 1,200 in Ontario, where the party has some 25,000 members.

It is a Waffle heavily coated with maple syrup. Its leader, Prof. Melville Watkins, became known as an outspoken advocate of economic nationalism when he acted as chairman of a committee investigating foreign ownership of Canadian industry.

The committee, appointed by Walter Gordon when he was president of the Privy Council in Prime Minister L. B. Pearson's administration, recommended measures to compel foreign-owned subsidiaries to "behave as good corporate citizens of Canada" and to encourage increased Canadian control of economic activity.

CALL FOR SOCIALISM

His report, tabled by Mr. Gordon in the House of Commons in February, 1968—but never adopted as government policy—relied heavily on government intervention to protect Canadian business from

ARGUS OUSTED

LONDON (CP) — A Canadian Armed Forces Argus was trounced by a newly-arrived Royal Air Force Nimrod plane in a friendly four-country Commonwealth bid for the coveted Eincastle Trophy signifying supremacy in anti-submarine warfare. The competition was staged over the Atlantic. Officers considered this a surprise win since the Nimrod had been used by the RAF for only four months.

AN INCREASE

EDMONTON (CP) — The sheep and lamb population of Alberta at Dec. 1, 1970, was estimated at 195,000 head, an increase of 23 per cent from the same date in 1969, the provincial agriculture department says.

foreign domination. But its expressed aims were nationalist rather than socialist.

When the Waffle manifesto reached the Winnipeg convention 21 months later, the focus had changed.

"There is not now an independent Canadian capitalism and any lingering pretensions on the part of Canadian businessmen to independence lack credibility," the manifesto said. "Capitalism must be replaced by socialism, by national planning of investment and by the public ownership of the means of production."

In another passage, the manifesto appeared to qualify this objective by speaking of "extensive public control of investment and nationalization of the commanding heights of the economy, such as the key resources industries, finance and credit and industry strategic to planning our economy."

A further limitation appeared in one of a series of resolutions presented in support of the manifesto which described the objective as "selective nationalization of foreign-owned firms in the leading sectors of the economy, for example the key resource industries."

Labelled "ambiguous and subversive" by national leader T. C. Douglas, the resolution was turned down in favor of an administration-sponsored substitute which described "an expansion of public ownership" as one method of reversing "the trend to foreign domination, particularly in new industry and development."

Deputy leader David Lewis, a strong contender to succeed Mr. Douglas at the party's leadership convention in April, led the fight against the Waffle resolution, arguing that its insistence on nationalization would put the NDP "into an ideological straitjacket."

Mr. Watkins, a professor of political economy at the University of Toronto, retorted that it was the administration, not his group, which was waffling on the issue. Crown corporations were essential to roll back the influence of the "American corporate elite."

At the convention that elected Stephen Lewis as leader of the Ontario NDP last October, the Waffle made a notable breakthrough. The Ontario delegates, while rejecting a proposal to nationalize all privately-owned corporations, gave a 20-to-1 majority to a resolution calling for public ownership of energy resource industries such as oil refineries and privately-owned hydroelectric utilities.

Some Worry About Quebec Side

The NDP national council voted against the proposal 27 to 19 at its meeting in January, depriving the resolution of executive support when it is presented to the Ottawa convention. And party leaders began to campaign openly against Waffle policies.

They were even more disturbed by the Waffle's stand on Quebec. "There is no denying the existence of two nations within Canada," says the manifesto. "Quebec's history and aspirations must be allowed full expression and implementation."

A Waffle resolution which did not reach a vote at the Winnipeg convention went a step further, calling for acceptance of "the right of Quebec to self-determination."

Mr. Laxer feels the resolution should not be interpreted as separatist.

"We support the right of Quebec to decide the extent of its relationship with the rest of Canada," he told a recent news conference. "We do not wish to break up Canada but we believe in a civilized approach to this relationship that is not based on the threat of force."

John Harney, another candidate for the national leadership, said the resolution contains "code words" for Quebec independence.

After attending a meeting of the Quebec wing of the NDP which resoundingly endorsed the resolution, he said many of its supporters considered it a call for independence.

FAILURE PREDICTED

Mr. Harney said the Waffle was attempting to gain separatist votes in Quebec without harming the party in English-speaking Canada, and predicted failure.

"In Quebec they won't buy a program that panders for votes in such a way," he said. "They want to vote for a party that is setting out to govern a nation."

Some Worry About Quebec Side

clauses in a Waffle resolution on education, which the Winnipeg convention referred to a committee after an inconclusive debate.

It sought a salary for university students—official NDP policy favors only the abolition of tuition fees—and a limit on the number of non-Canadian faculty members, alleging that "imposition of American approaches and concerns precludes indigenous Canadian scholarship."

HITS BOTH SIDES

The resolution also demanded that students and staff be given the unrestricted right to participate in left-wing political activity and that free research assistance and facilities be offered to trade unions, tenants' associations and co-operatives.

The Waffle's resolution on foreign policy states at the outset that no international peace is possible in a world dominated by imperialism—

"whether Russian or American"—but only one of its 15 clauses relates to Russia: a denunciation of the invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Other clauses demand an embargo on sales of military equipment, nickel and uranium to the U.S. and its allies, withdrawal from international organizations dominated by "U.S. imperialism," denunciation of U.S. policy in Vietnam and maintenance of relations with "nations threatened by American imperialism."

Another clause would eliminate tariffs and import duties on goods from underdeveloped countries while permitting them to retain tariff protection for their own goods.

Here, as elsewhere, party leaders are less-critical of the policies themselves than the anti-American tone of the arguments advanced to support them.

NEWS ANALYSIS

Nixon's Critics Miss Some Items

By PHILIP DEANE

Foreign Affairs Analyst
Democratic senators in Washington want President Nixon to be held by Congress that he has authority to do only one thing in Vietnam: withdraw all U.S. troops by a stated date, regardless of what happens to South Vietnam thereafter.

These Democrats argue that if the South Vietnamese could not hold on to a 15 mile front in Laos, even though they were supported by some three thousand planes and helicopters, then there is nothing the U.S. can do. Defeat has already occurred in the eyes of the world and whether the U.S. wants to confess it or not, is immaterial, according to the president's critics.

Hanging on under such conditions will make no difference in terms of U.S. prestige—on the contrary, the spectacle of the U.S. failing to impose its will on a small Asian nation will be prolonged. The Democrats who want the date for U.S. withdrawal fixed, reject the argument that an American withdrawal from Vietnam will be a signal for Communist encroachments all over the globe.

The examples these Democrats give, however, to support their contention that the acceptance of defeat in Vietnam will not decrease the credibility of U.S. support are not opposite. They speak of losing China in 1949 without consequent loss of power by the U.S., but in 1949 Russia did not have nuclear weapons or intercontinental bombers to challenge the Americans who had both.

All other examples the critics of president Nixon give, refer to Russia's ability to absorb reverses without real loss of power: Russia, they say, for instance, was forced to withdraw her missiles from Cuba in 1962 yet her power was not challenged. This is an uncertain analogy. Russia could only be challenged by the U.S. The U.S. has not shown itself in a challenging mood; some argue that, on the contrary, the U.S. is in a neo-isolationist mood, anxious to withdraw from military involvement abroad whereas Russia is increasing her military involvement abroad—witness the impressive growth of Russian naval power in the Mediterranean and the Indian Ocean.

A superpower bent on extending its military influence and presence can absorb reverses without this leading her opponents to challenge her. But a superpower which seems bent on reducing her military commitments is likely to be pressured each time she suffers a reverse, to make her "retreat" faster.

President Nixon's critics persistently ignore, moreover, the danger to the American rear-guard if the U.S. washed its hands of Vietnam and decided on complete withdrawal even if this ensured communist victory: the South Vietnamese could attack the remnants of the American expeditionary force to prove that they were loyal Vietnamese and thus curry favor with Hanoi.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

WORTH A FIGHT

Sir:

As a former alderman and unsuccessful candidate for the office of mayor of Kelowna, in 1969, I have been particularly careful not to voice my opinions about city council decisions during the past two years.

Any adverse comments from a defeated candidate are always assumed to be pure "sour grapes."

This was brought home to me at a public meeting about a month ago at which the speaker was a landscape architect from Vancouver. I asked what he thought about planned community complex to be built in City Park. He stated that great care should be taken before constructing buildings in park areas, as inevitably, they require expansion.

Immediately, Mayor Roth

was on his feet, accusing me of "getting my political two-bits worth in."

He then went on to try to convince the gathering of the "wisdom" of the proposed plans the city council has unanimously approved for the park.

No matter whether my views will be construed to be "sour grapes" or "politicizing," I feel I can no longer sit back and let the present council forge ahead with this latest plan, without making my feelings known through your paper.

I strongly believe we must keep all the park area we now have and acquire more, as the city is able to afford it. Perhaps some of the present black-top areas in the City Park could be minimized to make more green areas.

There are literally hundreds of elderly people living within a short distance of downtown, whose only glimpse of trees, lawns and flowers, is in the park. It can't be much fun to live in one or two small rooms, on a limited income, with nothing to see out of your window, but car parking areas and sidewalks.

Many of these senior citizens, who have throughout their lives, built this country, spend many happy hours in the park, often their only respite from an otherwise drab existence.

Young people today, are keenly aware of our environment and the grave predictions for its future. When the Save Our Park Action Group distributed petitions against the proposed complex in city stores two weeks ago, the response from students and young married couples was overwhelmingly against the proposed park complex.

It is a rare thing today, when both the young and the old stand together on an issue. Surely when it does happen, it is something worth fighting for.

Sincerely,
DAVE CHAPMAN.

COMMENDATION

Sir:

Town administrators are to be commended for their provision for park and school sites to be developed.

With an awareness of what can be done these and other positive steps will eventually correct the results of "run away" individuality which has struck many Canadian efforts at town building.

Individuality is understandable when there is little or no authority to structure community planning in its early stages.

With rapid population growth in the offing for the whole Okanagan Valley a scientific study on municipal expansion is not only desirable but imperative.

Kelowna is fortunate in retaining the services of Greg Stevens, civil engineer and town planner. A man of integrity and positive understanding his major interest is in preserving and enhancing the beauty of our total area as well as Kelowna.

Sincerely,
MRS. IAN HIND,
CGIT Leader.

TODAY in HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS.

April 1, 1971 . . .

All Fool's Day is said to have originated when King Charles IX of France changed the calendar 397 years ago today—in 1574. Originally the new year began on April 1 and people observed it by giving presents and visiting friends. But with the change of the start of the new year to Jan. 1, folks used April 1 as a time for playing practical jokes—a practice that persists to this day.

1925—The revised Criminal

Code of Canada went into effect.

1916—The United States notified Cuba it would withdraw from military bases in Cuba.

1939—Canada started regular transcontinental air passenger service.

1932—The RCMP absorbed the provincial police of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Manitoba and Alberta.

1923—The first sound films—short subjects—were shown in New York's Rivoli Theatre.

1917—Soldiers killed five civilians during anti-conscription riots at Quebec.

LEGISLATIVE SCENE

Regina MLAs Study Proposal To Impose Labor Arbitration

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Power to impose compulsory binding arbitration in all labor disputes would be given the Saskatchewan government under a government amendment introduced in the legislature Wednesday.

Under the new law heavy fines would be imposed on either employers or employees if arbitration awards are rejected by either side.

An amendment to Bill 2—the Essential Services Emergency Act—would make all employees in the province subject to the binding arbitration.

The legislation, originally passed in 1968 to settle a dispute involving Saskatchewan Power Corp. employees, has been the target of criticism by labor leaders.

Before the Wednesday amendment the act covered only employees in essential services such as electric power, natural gas, water, hospital employees and construction workers.

Now under the amendment the government could prevent businesses from continuing in the province or fine them $1,000 a day while they fail to comply with the terms of an arbitration award.

LIABLE TO FINES
The proposed amendment will make every person who calls, authorizes, counsels or procures a strike or lockout contrary to the act liable to a fine of $1,000 a day for each day the strike continues.

Drinking and smoking were among other topics Wednesday in three of the nine provincial legislatures sitting.

The drinking age was lowered in Alberta, a government-sponsored cocktail party came under fire in British Columbia and Quebec was told its people are sending their money and health up in cigarette smoke.

Opposition parties in Newfoundland, Quebec and Ontario took advantage of the ending of the fiscal year, attempting to embarrass the governments by preventing adoption of supplementary spending estimates. Closure was invoked in the Newfoundland debate for the first time in that province's post-Confederation history.

In Edmonton, the Alberta legislature lowered the drinking age from 21 to 18 from 21. The legislature gives an estimated 60,000 sons between 18 and 20 the right to vote in all provincial and civic elections, to marry without parental consent and to enter into contracts.

In Victoria, Opposition Leader Dave Barrett said the province sponsored a cocktail party in Palm Springs, Calif., on the same day the Social Credit government introduced legislation banning all liquor advertising in British Columbia.

He received no reply from the government when he asked for an explanation of the apparent contradiction.

At Quebec City, Social Affairs Minister Claude Castonguay tabled information which said Quebecers spend a total of more than $247 million a year on cigarettes. As well, smokers had a higher death rate for their age groups and were more susceptible to diseases attacking the heart, lungs, throat and mouth.

The interim supply bill was passed in St. John's after closure was invoked by Premier Joseph Smallwood. The motion limited speakers to 20 minutes for each item on the $99,780,000 bill.

These interim supply bill motions give the governments cash to carry on until approval of the 1971-72 budgets.

The Quebec supplementary spending estimates of $62,477,750 were not adopted until less than 10 minutes before the midnight deadline because of opposition from five Parti Quebecois members.

Saigon's Men Driven Out

SAIGON (AP) — A North Vietnamese regiment crossed from Laos into South Vietnam's central highlands and in a furious assault drove Saigon's troops out of a frontier fire base, the South Vietnamese Command reported today. Continuing an upsurge of offensive action that began Sunday, apparently in retaliation for the South Vietnamese invasion of Laos, the North Vietnamese also unleashed a barrage of 500 rockets against two other artillery bases close to the Laotian border.

Meanwhile, a South Vietnamese commando force returned from an overnight raid on a North Vietnamese base on the Ho Chi Minh trail six miles inside Laos. The 26-hour operation apparently produced only minor results, with the South Vietnamese destroying some ammunition and fuel but failing to engage the North Vietnamese.

Prairie Trains At Red Light

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers has called for a national strike against Canada's two largest railways starting at noon local times Monday, but rail transportation ground to a virtual halt across the Prairies today.

Winnipeg was the last major city in Western Canada to be affected by rail disturbances when the Canadian Pacific Railway announced Wednesday night that westbound transcontinental passenger trains would be halted there.

The Canadian National Railway said their passenger trains which left Toronto and Montreal Tuesday were also to be stopped in the Manitoba capital.

Westbound trains from Montreal and Toronto were to be cancelled today as well as eastbound trains from Edmonton.

Following announcements Wednesday of the proposed strike CNR and CP officials in Montreal said they "have no alternative but to take immediate steps to suspend railway operations" at the union deadline.

The railways said, in a joint statement, they will "continue to handle freight traffic prior to the strike deadline." However, they had been forced to place an embargo on freight shipments to areas in Western Canada already affected by work stoppages.

The railways said a negotiating committee for the 7,000 engineers broke off contract talks with both railways Wednesday and "served notice of a national strike." Salary was the main issue to be settled.

GRAIN HALTED

The book-offs by railway engineers and firemen, which have built up gradually across the West last week, have halted vital grain shipments to China and Japan, caused thousands of layoffs within the railways and in industries that depend on them and forced hundreds of passengers to make new plans.

Saskatchewan experienced its first book-offs Wednesday when Canadian Pacific engineers in Regina, Saskatoon, Moose Jaw, Wilkie and Wynyard walked off their jobs.

The 75 locomotive engineers employed by the CNR in Edmonton voted Tuesday to strike by noon MST today unless the negotiating improved nationally.

Joseph Louis Arthur Beaudin, 35, and Mona Grace Petty, 27, have been remanded to May on similar charges between May, 1970, and February of this year.

Police allege the women obtained welfare payments in Burnaby and Surrey at the same time and Beaudin was receiving aid from Vancouver as well as Surrey.

Orchids Enhance Nuptials At Christ Lutheran Church

Baskets of daffodils and chrysanthemums graced the altar of Christ Lutheran Church, Kelowna for the March 20 wedding of Erika Gassner of West Germany, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gassner of West Germany, to Udo Wittneben of Casa Loma, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gunther Wittneben of Victoria, B.C.

Rev. Edward Krempin conducted the late afternoon ceremony. Given in marriage by her uncle, John Kuales, the bride chose a gown fashioned of dotted Swiss cotton on empire lines with long full sleeves gathered into wide cuffs. A small floral headpiece held a floor-length veil of silk illusion veiling. She carried a cascade bouquet of mauve orchids.

SWISS COTTON
The matron-of-honor, Mrs. Richard Person of Kelowna wore a yellow dotted Swiss gown fashioned on similar lines, and junior bridesmaid Karen Person of Kelowna and Debbie Hahlweg of Vernon wore short dresses of the same yellow material.

The flower girl, Angela Person of Kelowna also wore a short dress of yellow dotted Swiss cotton. They all carried bouquets of mauve orchids and yellow bows were tucked into their coiffures.

Richard Person of Kelowna served as best man and ushers were Bill Schenk of Vernon; Peter Person of Kelowna and Peter Heyning of Kelowna served as master of ceremonies for the reception which followed at St. Michael and All Angels' Anglican church hall.

Receiving the guests was the bride's aunt, Mrs. John Kuales who wore a beige wool lace dress enhanced with a corsage of mauve orchids.

The bridegroom's mother chose a turquoise dress for the wedding. Mauve orchids completed her ensemble, also.

Orchids also decorated the

May 1 is Action Target For Big Sisters Of Area

May 1 has been set as target date for action for Big Sisters of Kelowna and District. During preliminary organizational meetings, referral forms and constitutions of Big Sisters of Vancouver and Big Brothers of Kelowna have been adopted to meet the needs here for a Big Sister movement.

The Big Sister movement is made up a volunteer group of women who are actively interested in providing a personal relationship to girls of all races and religions. These volunteers are aware of the importance of a continuing consistent contact. After filing an application the prospective Big Sister is interviewed by a social worker and it is from this appraisal that the Big Sister's potential is determined. Her interests, hobbies, the age of the Little Sister best suited to her, the type of girl who will respond more readily to her, and if necessary, religious beliefs are taken into consideration when allotting a Big Sister to a Little Sister.

The original referrals are made through social agencies. The girls' social workers consider that the girls they refer, need and can benefit from this type of personal relationship with a woman who can be a real friend to them. For some girls there is a preventative focus to this relationship, while others are already in difficulties. The referring social worker is available for help to the Big Sister in her understanding of her Little Sister's specific needs.

MEET EVERY WEEK

To achieve this aim Big Sister and Little Sister meet each week, spending three or four hours together. How this time is spent depends upon the girl's needs, wishes and available spare time. Perhaps it is visiting the Big Sister in her home where the Little Sister is made to feel like a member of the family; perhaps it is a shopping expedition, or a visit to the library, museum or an evening of skating, or a walk, or a drive, but however the time is used, the Big Sister is trying to get to know the Little Sister, is offering companionship, and is trying to help her to experience a fuller and more complete life.

ANN LANDERS

Keep Shades Drawn For Dress Up Game

Dear Ann Landers: Last May my husband asked me if he could wear one of my house-dresses while painting the kitchen. He said it would be more comfortable. I said "O.K." He did look awfully cute and I told him so. Ever since that time he has been wearing my dresses and wigs and makeup when we are alone. He has asked me to call him Linda when we "play girl friends," as he calls it.

I can truthfully say I don't mind. The only thing that bothers me is that he is prettier than I am. If we went out in public he would get more whistles. Yesterday I read an article on sex deviation. It said men who enjoy dressing up in women's clothing are transvestites. I do not consider my husband abnormal. He is very manly in every way. He just happens to enjoy playing this little game. Is there anything wrong with it? I'd like your opinion—Happy Woman Who Loves Her Husband.

Dear Woman: My opinion is of no consequence. The only thing that matters is what you think, and apparently you think it is just fine. If you and your husband enjoy "playing girl friends," it's nobody's business. Just make sure the doors are locked and the shades down. And say hello to Linda.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a secretary who shares a lovely apartment with two airline stewardesses. Last night the lights went out suddenly. We knew it was a fuse because two of us were ironing, the electric coffee pot was on, and when I plugged in the mixer to make cookies the whole place went dark.

I went down and told the landlord. He very nicely said he'd put in a new fuse if I would accompany him to the basement and hold the flashlight. To make a long story short, he made a pass at me in the stairwell and I belted him in the chops. I cannot get over the

LONDON (CP) — Crocodiles are the sexiest creatures on earth, says London's Institute of Psychiatry. Rameses, a two-year-old croc, had a miniature set of gonopods immersed in his tank with an electrical stimulus beamed between them. After "wearing himself out" swimming across the beam, Dr. Bert Campbell said: "He smashed the old belief that lower-order creatures are not sexually conditioned."

Eric Bishop
A Funny Man

By LORNE WHITE

You have to laugh at Eric Bishop. Not because he's a former sports editor, which some may think is a good enough reason in itself, but because he, says and does funny things.

Tuesday, he and his Victoria Cougars of the B.C. Junior Hockey League lost their best-of-seven Coastal division semi-final series to the Chilliwack Bruins, four games to one, which had everyone (except Bishop and the Cougars) breaking out in smiles.

You see the Bruins finished more than 50 points behind the "powerful" Cougars in the standings, and never beat the first-place Victoria club in 13 games during the regular season. In fact they dropped a 13-0 game in Victoria Oct. 21, and a 13-1 decision as late as Dec. 19. They, along with Kelowna Buckaroos, shouldn't even be in the league said Bishop. That, today, sounds like a funny thing to say.

MIDWAY THROUGH THE SEASON, the Cougars were flying high, and Bishop, the owner-manager of the club was at his best as far as building up his team's ego and pinning down the rest of the league.

He was in his glory, talking about all the National Hockey League scouts humming around the Memorial Arena, looking at his boys.

Hockey men such as Danny Summers and Jimmy Skinner of Detroit, Russ Kowalchuk, a former Kelowna Packer and now scout with the Minnesota North Stars, and "Tiny" Thompson from Chicago, were all, he says, impressed with his "kids," particularly Bruce Cowick, Ted Plowe, Dale Pennock, and Ed Forslund.

He had so much talent, he suggested he would like very much to help the less fortunate such as Chilliwack, Kelowna and possibly New Westminster by giving those teams players on loan.

He felt rather strongly that some of the younger Cougars, namely in the Junior B organization in the city could be of assistance to the have-nots.

ON EXAMPLE WAS DAVE MAYNARD, a junior B goaltender, who was finally sent, on loan, to none other than the lowly Chilliwack Bruins. Maynard, Bishop had predicted, was outstanding in the Bruins' net, and obviously was the one the Chilliwack organization was building the team around—back to front.

The funny thing about the situation was that although Maynard was the sparkplug to the Bruins' resurgence, coach Ove Litchfield put Lee Holm, used sparingly since Maynard's appearance, in the nets in two games of the semi-final series and the 19-year-old Estevan native shut out the highest-scoring machine in the BCJHL and stopped 31 shots two days later in the fourth game of the series.

Another amusing aspect was that the Cougars, with all that talent Bishop was talking about, had to resort to picking up three of their junior B players for the final three games of the playoffs, Ron Poole, Jim Wilkinson (played in Kelowna three games), and Wayne Hendry, all members of the B.C. Junior B championship Victoria team.

WITH THE UPSET OF THE Cougars and Bishop being upset, one has to look at the Victoria owner's move in early February, when out of the blue he up and fired the winningest coach in the league, Ron Maxwell, and decided to take on the additional duties of coach himself.

His all-star players, all 16 of them, rebelled and walked out of a team meeting following the announcement to protest the firing.

Although the Cougars held an eight-point lead over second-place Vancouver Centennials in the BCJHL, Bishop said the team had deteriorated since the beginning of the season, and a change was needed.

With the rebels refusing to play for their irate owner, he was forced to hire a new coach, and chose 48-year-old Mike Shabaga, a veteran in the hockey wars who was coach and general manager of Swift Current in the Western Canada Hockey League before resigning both posts early in December, apparently after a dispute with club directors.

THE CHANGE SEEMINGLY didn't affect the team's play—they kept on winning, and by healthy margins at that.

Talking to members of the Cougars after the conflict, they indicated that they still thought their actions were the right ones and said Maxwell was the man they would prefer to play for.

We're not saying the players, who obviously didn't give their best efforts in the playoffs, were continuing their rebellion, but at least their devastating loss to the Bruins might make Bishop think twice—a junior hockey team meeting should be just that, not a dictatorship or strictly an employer-employee relationship.

Bishop, who purchased the Cougars for $50,000 before the 1970-71 season, after being turned down on a bid to buy the Kelowna Buckaroo Hockey Club last July, has been raving about getting into the hockey, specifically the WCHL.

He said earlier this year, "This (Victoria) is too good a hockey centre to remain in the minor leagues."

Victoria may be too good, but Bishop is where he belongs—in tier two—the minor leagues.

And that's funny!

EAGLES FLY TO PEEWEE CHAMPIONSHIP

The Kelowna and District Minor Hockey Association's peewee championship went to the Eagles Saturday, when they downed the K of C 5-3 in the final. John Hempseed led the attack for the winners with three goals, while Ray Moore and Brad Bates picked up one each. Mike Woods with two and Tom Zubot were the

Frazier Willing To Have Rematch But Wants A Tuneup Fight First

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Joe Frazier says he is willing to meet Muhammad Ali in a return match but wants a tuneup fight in between.

Frazier, in a taped television interview, said he plans to fight someone else within four or five months. He also said he thinks Ali, whom he outpointed in their title fight here March 8, is better than he was four years ago.

In Chicago, Ali said "there will be a rematch."

He made the remark in an hour-long speaking appearance at Chicago State College where he told students he is "almost busted" after collecting $2.5 million for his title fight with Frazier.

"I was paid $2.5 million, but the white man in Washington took $1.5 million from me the next day," Ali said.

"New York state put a lien of $389,000 against each of us, and that left me $620,000. Then, I had to pay my trainer, sparring partners, expenses, hotels, airplanes and everything, so I came out with about $450,000."

"Then I had to buy my home, furnish it, landscape it, and take care of my mother, father and brother . . . and when I break it all down, I'm almost busted."

Extravaganza For Two Days

The largest physical education display ever attempted in Kelowna will take place at the Kelowna and District Memorial Arena; Tuesday and Wednesday, at 7 p.m.

With such a large number of schools (25) and students (1,500) participating, it has become necessary to conduct this Centennial event for two days.

The Kelowna and District Physical Education Teachers Association is organizing and preparing the wide and varied program. Each night of the program will be completely different in content and schools participating.

Both nights, the program starts with an Olympic-type procession. From then, the action is non-stop.

Highlights of the Tuesday evening program will be:

1. A mass dance produced by Martin, Gordon and Graham Elementary schools.

2. A demonstration of soccer and floor hockey skills by A. S. Matheson Elementary.

3. Tumbling from Bankhead Elementary.

4. A mass display of many activities by Central Elementary.

5. Volleyball skills and games by the elementary school champions—Wood Lake.

6. A fast moving tumbling and vaulting display by Dorthea Walker Elementary.

7. Ballroom dancing by George Elliot Secondary School.

8. Square dancing by Kelowna's newest secondary school, KLO.

9. An entertaining variety program by Dr. Knox Secondary School. This display includes exciting dance routines, gymnastics, rugby and track and field.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT Wednesday the fast-moving show continues with many excellent displays:

1. The Southeast Kelowna and Mission Creek complex open the program with a variety of activities including rhythmic, football, basketball, fitness testing and tumbling.

2. Glenmore Elementary continues this interesting program with a variety of activities found in many elementary school physical education programs—dancing, floor hockey, basketball and soccer.

3. In a three-ring circus, Quigley, Peachland and Lakeview Elementary Schools combine to present an interesting program of vaulting, pyramids and tumbling.

4. In a number that promises to be one of the top highlights, South Rutland presents a lively and informative program on track and field, wrestling and most gymnastic activities.

5. Basketball will not be forgotten as the top elementary and secondary teams in the district demonstrate their abilities.

6. Square dancing and round dancing will be presented by Rutland Secondary.

7. The finale of the show will be performed by Kelowna Secondary School. Their highlight will be the displaying of various lifetime sports and how they are being taught in most of our secondary schools.

Each night a band from Kelowna and Rutland Secondary School will entertain audiences.

It all boils down to two interesting and entertaining evenings of activity. Everyone is urged to attend and support this worthwhile community activity.

Round Table Trap Shoot

The fifth annual Kelowna Club Round Table trap shoot will be held at Sportsman's Field in Kelowna, Saturday at 1 p.m.

This is a fun trap shoot for men and women, even those who have never shot trap before. After qualifying rounds, a high and low shooter will be paired up for two events, so everyone has a chance to win.

There will be trophies, money and prizes for high qualifying lady and man as well as for three other events.

Entry fee is $11, which includes targets, prizes and prize money, for the four events.

Goalkeeper's Performance Advances Cents To Finals

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—A near-perfect goalkeeping performance by Lionel Trudell swept Vancouver Centennials to a 2-1 victory over New Westminster Royals here Wednesday night and a berth in the coast division finals of the B.C. Junior Hockey League.

... superb

Centennials, victors over Royals in the best-of-seven league quarter-final series by a 4-2 margin, meet Chilliwack Bruins for division honors in another best-of-seven series starting in Vancouver Friday. Bruins reached the finals by eliminating Victoria Cougars.

The coast winner will meet the interior division titleholder for the league championship. All the scoring in the game was concentrated in the second period with Centennials tacking a 2-0 lead on goals by Mike McCarthy and Jim Chapman before Gerry Vachon scored the love Royal marker.

But it was Trudell who broke the hearts of Royals and a turnout of 1,765 fans. Royals, who fought to the final whistle to prolong the series, fired a 53-shot barrage at the Centennial netminder. Only one evaded him.

FULL GOALIE
In the final minute of the game, Royals pulled goalkeeper Terry Richardson for an extra forward. Six times they roared in on Trudell, firing close-in shots that appeared sure goals.

Each time Trudell managed to get a pad in the way. Royals outshot Centennials 53 to 36.

Vancouver opened the scoring at 7:08 of the second period when Chapman intercepted defenceman Barry Bleakley's clearing pass from the corner and slipped the puck to McCarthy, who was standing unguarded in front of the net. McCarthy fired a rising shot from 15 feet out gave Richardson no chance to save.

Chapman scored what proved to be the winner 39 seconds later, tipping in a drive from the point by Tom Kelly.

Trudell had no chance to save on the only shot that escaped him, a deflection by Vachon on a shot by Mac McIlhargey.

SUMMARY
First period: No scoring. Penalties: Sweating V 16:20.
Second period: 1. Vancouver, McCarthy (Chapman) 7:08; 2. Vancouver, Chapman (Kelly, R. Gaston) 7:47; 3. New Westminster, Vachon (McIlhargey, Margetta) 17:03. Penalties: Nordin V 9:40, Murphy V 14:58, Craig N 17:54.
Third period: No scoring. Penalties: McIlhargey NW 1:02, Nordin V and Vachon NW 16:25.
Shots on goal by:
Vancouver 15 12 9-36
New Westminster 13 19 21-53
Goal: Richardson, New Westminster; Trudell, Vancouver.
Attendance: 1,765.

Fools Bet Against Soviet Union

GENEVA (CP) — Only an April Fool or a senile bookie would bet against the Soviet Union winning the 1971 world hockey championships as they near the final whistle, but a little luck and a lot of goals could put the silver and bronze payoffs up for grabs.

The Russians were virtually unreachable as they skated today against Czechoslovakia in a rematch of the clash that put the only blemish on the awesome Soviet record. The Czechs held the eight-straight-time champions to a 3-3 tie the first time they met in the double round-robin tournament.

The Soviets have 15 points from eight games and a goals total of 69 for the 16 against Czechoslovakia has 11 points from eight games in which they have scored 35 goals and given up 16.

The Czechs look good to capture the second-place silver medal in the six-country playoffs, although either Sweden or Finland has an outside chance to sneak in if the Czechs fall apart in their last two games. Czechoslovakia's comfortable goals margin would have to overcome, too.

The Swedes, upset 2-1 by lowly West Germany Wednesday, have the toughest going in their quest of the third-place bronze medal.

HAS SCORING EDGE
They were tied with Finland on points—nine apiece after eight games—heading into a crucial game between the two teams today, with the Finns still hot after a 7-3 romp over the United States Wednesday. Sweden has the edge in the scoring department, with 24 for and 26 against compared with 28 for and 36 against for Finland.

But there were the makings of internal troubles in the Swedish camp.

Swedish coach Arne Stromberg said after the loss to West Germany: "I'm sorry to say it but I think my team plays with no heart."

And he said he was investigating press reports that four of his players were in a nightclub "until the early hours" before the game.

LITTLE LEAGUE REGISTRATION

Boys between the ages of eight and 12 as of July 31, 1971, wishing to play Little League or Farm League baseball this year must register Saturday, 10 a.m. to noon.

Boys living north of Harvey Avenue register at Kelowna and District Memorial Arena; boys living south of Harvey Avenue register at the Elks Hall, 3000 block Pandosy Street.

Registration fee (not compulsory) is $3.

Each boy must be registered by a parent or guardian, and MUST bring a birth certificate.

All boys who wish to play this year must register, even those who played last year.

This year two Little Leagues and Farm Leagues will be operating. Boys living north of Harvey Avenue will play at Recreation Park, Boys living south of Harvey will play at Osprey Park.

IN THE NHL WEDNESDAY

Our Line The Greatest—Hodge

By NICK FERRIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

"I suppose I'm prejudiced but I think our line has to be perhaps the greatest hockey line." Ken Hodge said Wednesday night in one of the year's best understatements.

Hodge had just collected three assists to set a season record for points by a right winger—104—as Boston Bruins dumped Montreal Canadiens 6-3 in National Hockey League action.

In other play, Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings skated to a 2-2 tie. New York Rangers nipped Chicago Black Hawks 4-2. Buffalo Sabres walloped Pittsburgh Penguins 6-4. California Golden Seals beat Minnesota North Stars 4-1 and Vancouver Canucks and Los Angeles Kings played to a 2-2 tie.

It was Hodge and his linemates, centre Phil Esposito and left winger Wayne Cashman, who paved the way for the Bruin win at Montreal.

Hodge's three points enabled him to break the previous mark of 103 set by Gordie Howe, veteran Detroit Red Wing winger, two seasons ago. Hodge has 42 goals.

EACH GOAL A RECORD

Esposito, who sets an NHL record for most goals in a regular season each time he scores and another each time he gets a point, notched his 70th and 71st goals for 145 points.

Cashman collected his 21st goal and two assists lifting his point-total to 77.

Each time one of the three linemates gets a point, it's another NHL record for most points in one season by a line.

"I can't give them enough credit," Hodge said of his linemates. "We play so well together, and we all seem to complement each other's style of play."

"I'm just glad we won," said Esposito. "It has been a really good year for us."

The Canadiens, who meet the Bruins in the Stanley Cup quarter-finals starting April 7.

umped to an early lead when John Ferguson scored with the time just 59 seconds old.

Esposito scored less than four minutes later with the Canadiens two men short and Dallas Smith at 13:04 with the Bruins a man short to give Boston the lead they never lost.

The Bruins got two goals to Montreal's one in each of the next two periods.

Defenceman Bobby Orr, who had been used only on power plays and to kill penalties in the Bruins' previous four games—all of which they lost—returned to regular duty at Montreal and helped set up Esposito's first goal to gain his 133rd point, second to Esposito in NHL scoring.

At Toronto, Howe celebrated his 43rd birthday by picking up his 1,808th regular-season point when he assisted on one of Detroit's two goals.

Howe, nearing the end of his 25th NHL season, holds records for the most goals—785—and most assists—1,023—for regular-season play, as well as many others.

The Red Wings led 2-0 after 40 minutes but the Leafs came back to tie the score with goals by Jim Dorey and Dave Keon in the final period.

Before the start of the game, Howe was honored by the Leafs who presented him with a silver tray during a brief centre-ice ceremony.

"Nothing's definite about next year," said Howe when asked about plans to retire after this season. "It depends how I feel."

At New York, the Rangers snatched a 1-1 third-period tie with two goals 40 seconds apart by Vic Hadfield and Rod Gilbert.

Eddie Shack notched three goals at Pittsburgh as the Sabres built up a 4-0 lead going into the final period, then beat back a Penguin rally.

The Sabres scored on one of every four shots at Cam Newton, the Penguins' rookie goaltender, while their netminder, Joe Daley, stopped 36 drives.

The Golden Seals banged in two goals in the first period and two more in the second before Minnesota broke Gary Smith's shutout midway into the final period.

Wayne Maki fired both Vancouver goals at Los Angeles. Going into the third period with the score 1-1, Mike Byers put the Kings out in front at 13:30. But Maki tied the game 17 seconds later with his 24th of the season.

In tonight's action, the Penguins travel to Buffalo while St. Louis Blues host Philadelphia Flyers.

Lack Of Spirit Killed Penguins

PITTSBURGH (AP) — For this season, Pittsburgh Penguins are dead-out of the playoffs. Coach Red Kelly lists the blame on a lack of team spirit.

"I didn't realize what the problem was exactly or how deep it was until mid-February," Kelly said. "But I hoped it would change."

Kelly's comments came a day before the Penguins lost 6-4 Wednesday night to Buffalo Sabres as Eddie Shack got three goals.

"We arrived last year because of team work," Kelly said. "But this year it was apparent that the club was going to struggle from the start."

Choosing his words with care, Kelly mentioned no player by name, but it was evident he has been unhappy with the play and attitude of some veterans.

"I know one thing," said backup goalie Al Smith. "I'm not leaving my winter tires behind." Smith gets the feeling he may be traded.

Kelly, with No. 1 goalie Les Binkley out with a knee injury, has been taking a hard look at young Cam Newton who was in the nets against Buffalo.

age pretty much next year," Kelly said. The average age of the Penguins this season is just over 30. Because of a rash of serious injuries, which Kelly refuses to use as an excuse for the Penguins' woes, at least six rookies have seen action.

CRITICIZES OF KELLY
Veteran Andy Bathgate, the most valuable player in Vancouver in the Western League last season, has been openly critical of Kelly.

"I wasn't counting on being here," said Bathgate. "When Red wasn't sure about me after training camp, I should have known what was ahead. I never did get going."

"I don't expect to be asked to training camp," he said. "If Red was counting on me for next season, he would have played me more."

"I don't think I've averaged five or six minutes a game with any consistence."

Kelly's general answer: "When a player puts his personal gain above the team's, it hurts everybody."

"Team spirit is a fine instrument we're tuning. There's not much time for the lack of it. It can get out of tune so fast and become discordant."

Swoboda Happy In Montreal After Trade From New York

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ron Swoboda was always popular and sometimes controversial in a New York Mets uniform.

After he contributed to the 1969 World Series victory over Baltimore Orioles, Swoboda's stardom nose-dived like his head-first catches and the outfielder never hid his displeasure about manager Gil Hodges.

Well, he's not complaining anymore after his trade Wednesday to Montreal Expos.

"I can tell you he's happy now," Montreal Expos general manager Jim Fanning said after acquiring Swoboda and minor leaguer Dick Hacker for outfielder Don Hahn.

Montreal manager Gene Mauch is happy, too.

"I'm very glad to have Swoboda," said Mauch. "He represents right-hand power, and he'll help us against left-hand pitchers."

After Swoboda's 400 average and hard-to-believe catches helped clip the Birds, Hodges continued to platoon the right fielder in the 1970 season. His bench-sitting sparked several Swoboda outbursts, including the baseball cliché: "Play me or trade me."

Swoboda, 26, a right-handed hitter who has been with the Mets since 1964, has a lifetime batting average of .242.

In another trade, Montreal sent outfielder-infielder Jimmy Qualls to Cincinnati Reds for outfielder Stan Swanson. The Expos also trimmed their squad to 29 by sending infielder Angel Hermoso and pitcher Bob Reynolds to Winnipeg Whips of the International League and placing pitcher Jim Britton on the disabled list.

Minnesota Twins released two well-known and injury-plagued right-handers—Dave Boswell and Luis Tiant. Boswell, 28, plans to try out with Detroit Tigers and Tiant, 30, with Boston Red Sox.

Drive Begins Against Cancer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor Tom Campbell of Vancouver joined other mayors on the lower B.C. mainland Wednesday on proclaiming April as "conquer cancer month." Volunteers start house-to-house canvassing in the province today in a drive to raise $600,000 as the B.C. and Yukon division share of a national objective of $6,770,080.

PROFIT REPORTED
VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Automobile Association has ended its first year in the auto insurance business with a profit of more than $28,000, Association President R. J. Hastings reported at the annual meeting of the organization here Wednesday night.

NEW APPOINTMENT
KINNAIRD (CP) — Carl Lochlich, 56, former mayor of this West Kootenay community situated 20 miles north of Trail, has been appointed justice of the peace for Castlegar - Kinnaird. The appointment was made by order-in-council and was announced Wednesday.

AWARD REDUCED
VANCOUVER (CP) — General damages of $53,500 awarded by a B.C. Supreme Court jury to Robert and Judith Finney was reduced Wednesday to $27,480 by the B.C. Court of Appeal, which held that the award was excessive. The action arose from an auto accident in West Vancouver in March, 1969, in which Mrs. Finney was seriously injured.

LOW BID
BURNABY (CP) — Sceptre Dredging Ltd. of New Westminster was the low bidder for the dredging of Burnaby Lake to provide a 2,000-metre rowing course for the 1973 Canada Summer games when tenders were opened here Wednesday. The Sceptre bid was $260,653. The games will be held here Aug. 1-14, 1973.

DAY IN JAIL
VANCOUVER (CP) — Vents Beaumais, 24, of Toronto was sentenced to a day in jail and placed on probation for two years Wednesday after pleading guilty to cashing worthless cheques and obtaining transportation by false pretences. He was ordered to pay $209 restitution. The crown withdrew a charge of public mischief arising from a report to police by Beaumais that a cheque for $1 million Swiss francs, worth about $236,000 in Canadian funds, had been stolen from him.

Vancouver Plan Okay

VANCOUVER (CP) — The controversial Four Seasons hotel-apartment development proposed for the entrance to scenic Stanley Park in Vancouver has been given the go-ahead by the National Harbors Board.

Leases covering 10 acres of water lots were signed by the board in Ottawa Wednesday, one day after a four-hour city council hearing on the project. Critics of the development claim it will mar the park entrance as well as contribute to traffic congestion.

Ald. Ernie Broome, a supporter of the scheme, said he was pleased that Ottawa approval has been given. It had been delayed pending council action on the $40 million plan.

"It's about time all of this stalling was stopped," he said. Mr. Broome said he expects a start can be made on the project by June.

An opponent of the project, Ald. Harry Rankin, said he still intends to pursue his proposal that the development be put to the electorate in plebiscite form before any go-ahead is given.

The development will include a 600-room hotel, three 33-storey apartments, three nine-storey apartments, townhouses, a 30-boat marina and commercial facilities.

It will cover 14 acres, including the 10 acres of water lots.

GIVEN THE BOOT
LONDON (CP) — The city's 600 policewomen have been given the boot-on duty. The girls were told by police chiefs they will wear regulation boots on the beat; not the hob-nail kind, but a fashionable knee-length style with a zip.

British Business Pleased With Bold Budget Decision
 LONDON (CP) — A warm welcome from business and dashes of cold water from the political left were the expected reactions Wednesday to the Conservatives' tax-slashing budget designed to pull Britain out of her economic doldrums.
 Anthony Barber, chancellor of the exchequer was both praised for his temerity in taking a vast gamble Tuesday with further inflation and accused of stinginess toward low-income Britons.
 In the first Tory budget since 1964, Barber gave the country its biggest tax cuts in many years and outlined the century's most radical reforms of the basic tax structure. The tax reforms are to take effect in 1973. New reductions announced by the 50-year-old treasury chief to a surprised Commons added up to £680 million ($1,700 million) a year. Coupled with personal and corporation tax cuts he announced in a post-election mini-

B.C. Hydro NDP's Campaign In Full Swing Ups Rate And Resolutions Overshadowed
 VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Hydro has increased electrical power rates to 20 large industrial customers by 12.5 per cent effective April 1, it was announced here.
 The increase, announced by Dr. Gordon Shrum, Hydro chairman, will mean an additional $1 million a year in revenue for the Crown power utility.
 In addition, Dr. Shrum said, Hydro has given a two-year notice to a group of large bulk power users of rate increases effective April 1, 1973. The notice was necessary because of contract terms.
 He said there was no increase for general commercial and residential power users and no boost in natural gas prices.
 Last spring, the traditional time for announcing power rate changes, Hydro boosted its charges between 13 and 20 per cent for residential users.

OTTAWA (CP) — With all the publicity being focused on the leadership campaign, little public attention is being given to New Democratic Party policies — which will be allotted more discussion time than the leaders when the party holds its convention here next month.
 With the campaign in full swing for the leadership, the nearly 500 resolutions being submitted from local riding associations and member organizations are well out of the spotlight this time.
 This is in sharp contrast to the 1965 convention in Winnipeg when there was no leadership contest, and policy matters represented the over-riding issue.
 Also, the Winnipeg convention created more excitement on policy issues because each resolution was processed through open workshops that could be packed by certain elements or factions within the party.
 This time, all the resolutions will be processed by a 60-member committee, appointed by the party's federal council. They will eliminate, condense, rewrite and approve until the resolutions are boiled down to manageable proportions, perhaps 50 to 70 of them. Then they will come before the 2,000 official delegates for a decision.
NO WORKSHOPS
 There won't be any workshops here. Instead, 14 hours will be devoted to policy discussion by the full convention.
 Many of the resolutions submitted by local associations are similar, and the committee will be expected to eliminate duplication and produce single resolutions that cover the various viewpoints.
 This will not be difficult in areas where there is obvious unanimity, such as advocating an end to the Vietnam war, the establishment of day-care centres and more open abortion laws.

MANY THEFTS
 ST. LOUIS (AP) — City firemen have found it necessary to batten down the hatches whenever they leave for an alarm. The empty firehouses are easy pickings for burglars. Fire Chief Denis Broderick said there have been 20 thefts since last summer, including some expensive color television sets, tools, and clothing. Last Thanksgiving, men from one station returned to find their Thanksgiving dinner stolen.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Lump In Armpit Mustn't Be Squeezed

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have had a cyst in the lymph gland in the centre of my armpit. Throughout the years from time to time I have been able to squeeze it and pus comes out of it.

Not long ago I really squeezed it until it hurt. The next day the area was quite sore, and because it had become such a lump, I squeezed it again. This time pus and blood came out of it.

This scared me and now I wonder if I have really done damage to myself. I'm afraid of cancer, of course, and wonder if what I did can cause cancer.

After a week the lump is still there but some of the swelling has gone down.—Mrs. F.M.

You make no mention of having seen a doctor, so I take the liberty of wondering whether some of what you say is guesswork. That is, how do you know the cyst is in the "lymph gland"?

If it is in the gland, then you'd better have some very specific diagnosis, because that could be significant. And dangerous.

More likely, from your letter, I would suspect that the cyst may be in a sebaceous gland in the skin, which is quite a different matter. (The lymph glands aren't the only glands in the armpit!)

Was what you squeezed out of it really pus—or was it instead the waxy, whitish sebum produced by a skin gland?

On the next-to-last squeezing, you probably broke down some of the tissues and perhaps started a minor infection (a major infection would have flared into more trouble than you had.)

My advice: quit squeezing the thing. It will just fill up again in time—and someday, in the squeezing process, you may start an infection that will really give you some miseries.

The probability of cancer is remote although not impossible.

Since the gland has been filling and discharging for years, you can expect it to keep on doing so—and perhaps getting worse, certainly not better.

So have your doctor take a look, with a view to removing that annoying sebaceous gland, if my surmise as to its identity is correct. Naturally, if there is any sign of cancer, he will investigate accordingly, but in all probability you'll thus put an end both to the nuisance in the armpit and the worries in your mind.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Do we keep the same blood type we were born with? Or does it change throughout the years?—T.Y.

It remains the same throughout life—except that in certain unusual cases there may be an apparent, and temporary, change—as after a transfusion of blood that does not precisely match.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: After having used a pressure cooker for years, I am now concerned because I have read that "steam pressure cooking depletes both enzymes and vitamins in foods; minerals, too, are washed and evaporated away." Can you advise if this is true?—L.B.V.

I think somebody is misinterpreting something, but I'm not sure who. Steam pressure cooking uses a minimum amount of water, and minerals, as well as the A, B, and D vitamins, would be in the liquid, which can be used as gravy.

The heat could destroy enzymes and vitamin C, although the loss of vitamin C has been shown to be less than when cooking in an open pan. Anyway, vitamin C is more readily provided by citrus fruits and vegetables.

Pressure cooking also tends to make meat more tender, and I see no valid reason for not cooking by that method.

QUEENIE

By Phil Interlandi

"Let's see if I have this straight, I'm to walk in when you buzz, trot when you shout, and run like blazes when you bellow. Right?"

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Mar. 21 to Apr. 20 (Aries) — Don't fret at delays in work projects. Some matters take longer to "jell".
 Apr. 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Take advantage of day's many potentials with your usual eye for the opportune.
 May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Your ingenuity heightened. Get in on anything that will bring goals closer.
 June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — You may gain a little here, lose a little there, but the overall picture is good.
 July 24 to Aug. 23 (Leo) — Don't be satisfied with mediocrity. Make the most of your talents and know-how.
 Aug. 24 to Sept. 23 (Virgo) — Some unusual manoeuvres in our area. Don't get involved even if you are intrigued.
 Sept. 24 to Oct. 23 (Libra) — Excitement and anxiety could be detrimental to achievement. Be contained.
 Oct. 24 to Nov. 22 (Scorpio) — Enthusiastic acceptance of your original ideas by superiors a morale booster.
 Nov. 23 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius) — You can expand a bit now. Practically all business/financial activities favored.
 Dec. 22 to Jan. 20 (Capricorn) — Don't scatter energies. Keep your highest goals in mind and aim straight.
 Jan. 21 to Feb. 19 (Aquarius) — A good day. Especially favored: Romance, creative and domestic concerns.
 Feb. 20 to Mar. 20 (Pisces) — Gratifying recognition for past efforts should spur still higher ambitions.
 Astroscops—Some adverse influences will affect personal relationships during the morning hours. There will be tendencies toward aggressiveness and combativeness on the part of some, so steer clear of those who have been a source of irritation in the past. Late day aspects will launch a three-day period of unusual harmony.

Opening lead—six of spades.

Psychology—the art of reading the other fellow's mind—has a great deal to do with success or failure in bridge.

Consider this deal where South, trying for a slam, wound up in an awkward contract of five hearts. West led the six of spades and East cashed the A-K before shifting to a club.

This last play by East was based on the fear that if he led a third spade South (holding the A-K-9-6-x-x) would ruff with the six, and when it held the trick declarer would know that East had the Q-J-8 and would pick them up by leading trumps from dummy towards the A-K-8.

South was so delighted by East's failure to play a third round of spades that, instead of trying to figure out why East had shifted to a club, he promptly cashed the A-K of trumps to go down one.

This was a psychological error on South's part. He should have reasoned that East was bound to know from the bidding that West could not have the ace of clubs, and that East's shift to that suit at trick three was therefore based on some other motive.

East's reasoning was likewise faulty and he was lucky indeed to find South's so bereft of psychological know-how that he was able to see through East's shallow scheme of defence.

East should have made the simple and reasonable assumption that his partner had the six or nine of trumps, in which case a spade continuation would render declarer's cause absolutely hopeless. This was not a far-fetched possibility, since South's bidding work almost surely not have been affected by the presence or absence of either of these cards.

MUSEUM NOTES

Spring, Summer Catalogue Of 1912 Very Interesting

By PRIMROSE UPTON

Browsing through the spring and summer catalogue for 1912 at the Kelowna Centennial Museum is a delightful occupation. Working with a number of these pioneer items every day makes them familiar — but the prices are not.

Imagine a gramophone, oak cabinet, fitted with exhibition sound box, flower horn — ebony finish with gold stripes, nineteen inch belt, and 200 needles, all for $30. Collectors' items now, but a regular household extravaganza in the good old days.

Canisters of well known name teas sold for 10 pounds for $2.75, and up to the high price of $6.50 for the very finest Golden Tipped Orange Pekoe. An intriguing brand is the choicest gunpowder tea — "a particularly choice new season's first crop, myoune green gunpowder, possessing a truly rare flavor — all this for 45 cents a pound."

MANTEL

A complete mantel with all the trimming could be bought — one of these is called an all-round mantel, suitable for any room in the house. Made of quarter-cut oak in golden oak finish, fitted with bevelled plate mirror, choice of tiles for facing, and hearth-facing tiles ready to put up, and complete with coal or gas grate. Also advertised at remarkably low prices are andirons, spork grates, fenders and curbs.

Wardrobes, chiffoniers and bureaus seem to be sold fairly consistently, made in the golden finish oak. Brass and iron bedsteads with ornate designs on foot and head boards were obtainable, as well as the less ornate types of bedsteads, and the very uncomfortable folding camp bed which always ended up after a few years looking and feeling rather like a lumpy wire hammock.

Harnesses for horses and oxen, buggies, demerats, delivery wagons, road wagons, road carts are there with all the trimmings, including dust-proof axles which could be installed. These were guaranteed for 1,000 miles, and certainly were probably highly necessary.

Farm machinery such as gang plows, cultivators, discs, prairie and brush breakers, and scrapers and ploughs are all shown. Hard to realize in this day and age of mechanized farm machinery that these pieces called for strong muscles and common sense on the part of both man and beast.

Right in present style are the hairpieces, clusters and wigs — only in those days wigs were called transformations. Tongs for marcelling and curling look very like the present day one, only nowadays they use electricity.

There are kid curlers, featherweight hair wavers, and a fascinating thing called a hair puffer "profuse puffs can be made in very short time by use of this puffer and pine."

A little inconsistency arises in the corset section. To the corsets, designed to control all contours, could be added a darts-less ventilated bustle — "gives fine contour to flat figures, the feather edge defies detection; made of strong cambric, hair filled."

These, and many more articles, utilitarian and frivolous, are described and well illustrated in black and white, in this old Catalogue.

Giesen Heads Photographers

Hans Giesen, of Revelstoke, was re-elected chairman of the Okanagan zone of the Professional Photographers Association of B.C. Joan Sloan of Penicton was again named secretary.

Guest speaker at the meeting held in Paul Ponich's studio in Kelowna, was Dennis Cannon of Vancouver, a Kodak technical representative. He spoke on effective marketing for the portrait studio using slides with his talk.

Lisle Pope was the other representative from Kelowna with members attending from Kamloops, Oliver, Vernon, Penicton and Revelstoke.

Soccer Meeting Scheduled Friday

RUTLAND — There will be a general meeting of the Rutland Juvenile Soccer League Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Murray Room, Centennial Hall.

At the meeting there will be an election of officers for the 1971 soccer season.

In addition all those who have not yet registered to play juvenile soccer may do so at the meeting.

A full report of last year's operations will also be given at the meeting.

The general meeting will also be open to any suggestions for improving soccer in the Rutland area.

The soccer league will also be looking for help in coaching, refereeing, transportation, and field keeping.

Irrigation People Back Resolution

British Columbia irrigation districts are backing a resolution calling for a more equitable cost-sharing formula in developing upstream storage works in the Okanagan.

The resolution received a near-unanimous approval at the B.C. Association of Irrigation Districts annual meeting held last week in Vernon.

The existing financing formula is equally split three ways among the federal and provincial governments and agriculturalists using the waterworks system.

The resolution points out the upstream reservoirs benefit others in the form of flood and pollution control and feels these additional beneficiaries should be paying part of the costs.

T. R. Carter, manager, Southeast Kelowna Irrigation District, said growers are becoming dissatisfied with the old one-third, one-third, one-third formula and want a change.

"They (the growers) want a different cost-sharing formula presented."

"When the original ARDA (Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Association) scheme was proposed, it was never envisaged it would expand the way it has," he said.

Allan Claridge, president, B.C. Fruit Growers' Association, said growers feel they are paying the direct shot while others pay indirectly through payments from the provincial and federal governments.

"It's certainly hard to argue proper water control isn't of equal value to a community as roads," he said.

"Agriculturists are bearing an undue portion of the total costs."

"I'm not blaming ARDA or the government — they could not see what would happen in a few short years," he said.

NEW DRESS
DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — A new dress code adapted for female employees of the Dayton police department specifies, among other things: The bottom of dresses must be no shorter than a point equidistant between the top of the knee and the bottom of the front hip bone. A seven-member committee of female employees will check any complaint.

Pringle School Newspaper Describes New Additions

WESTBANK (Special) — The George Pringle "Traffic", came off the press again with news about the new addition to the school.

There will be a new 'lab' with facilities on a par with others in the school district.

There will be two complete science rooms connected to each other by a storage room. Table type desks with a single shelf for books — and all equipment will be in tote bags on shelves around the lab, walls and in the storage room. It is hoped the area will be well used and that students will approach with the proper attitude. The old science rooms will revert to classrooms with renovation completed this summer.

EXPANSION
The future for the expansion in the industrial education field is improving every day. As summer approaches plans for the new shop become a reality.

If the new shop is built by the fall it is hoped the following classes will be given: Industrial education eight, woodwork nine, metal work nine, electricity nine, power mechanics nine, construction eleven (woodwork), mechanics eleven (metal work), and drafting.

The grade nines and tens will have two more courses to choose from.

Drafting is open to both boys and girls, which is basic drafting up to the complete house design.

With the addition of the new metal shop a greater number of subjects can be given. The students can make their choice and get involved in a profitable project.

The new art room will be a welcome addition. For years the students have been crammed into a cozy room now the staff room.

The new room will be larger in size and have much more space for storage, a large sink area, instructor's table, a new kiln and potter's wheel.

No longer will they need to look and listen to make sure home ec. privacy is not invaded by some unsuspecting male. There will be dressing rooms with doors in the new sewing lab. Traces of food on cutting tables will be a thing of the past. Sewing machines will be safe from food bubbling out of pots and never again will sewing students be tantalized by the lingering food odors left by the cooking class. Chances of falling headlong over a maze of electrical cords will be pretty slim.

Each machine will have a floor outlet of its own. No more will claustrophobia overtake them as the machines are moved strategically apart. The teacher's desk will be inconveniently placed for dumping purses, pencil cases, books or what have you onto.

Food people will no longer find stick pins in their favorite dishes or in the unsuspecting sink. No longer will irons be cooling on cupboard tops where girls want to work. The substantial cutting tables will be replaced by sociable tables more suitable to dining.

NEW LIBRARY
Construction on the new library starts at Easter and will be completed for the 1971-72 school year. The size of the library will be 44'x40'. It will have eight study carrels and four tables, making a total seating capacity of 60. The tables and carrels will be in such a position that the library will be able to accommodate seminars for small classes, mini-courses and discussion groups. Instead of book shelves the library will have book stacks and revolving wire stands for the pocket book. The library will also have an office.

The music program for next year is likely to be the best yet. A brand-new band room will be constructed in the area where the portable is now, to be completed by September.

Proposed features for the new band room will include, carpet, risers, air conditioning, acoustic walls and practice rooms.

Next year the courses offered for anyone interested in music will include: band nine, band eight, Band 10-11 and 12, Choral 10-11 and 12 (this includes learning folk guitar), stage band and concert band.

This year the band has many activities including: trips (Vancouver coming) and Vernon. Concerts—old folks in Kelowna dances, stage band, concerts, parents and elementary schools. fund raising, chocolate bar drive, bake sales, clinics, for saxophone and flute.

Next year the concert band will be getting new uniforms.

The ever increasing students will soon create another room shortage and Hari Tom, editor of Traffic thinks that instead of spending vast sums on schools, why not create a place for the youth in society in which they can take part and learn the functions of society first hand. He says there is much work to be done in the world. Students in this way could use the schools for labs and theoretical work as well and society for practical application and observation. This would lessen the stress on the school extension programs and offer a better education to the student who can visualize what he learns and be a help in social situations such as hospitals and community affairs.

The students do not like the shift system and like the semester system best as they get their subjects over in half a year.

EXTENDS CONTRACT
TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Symphony contract of conductor and music director Karel Ancerl has been extended to the end of the 1974-75 season. Addition of a new three-year agreement to his original contract, which has a year to run, follows recurring speculation Ancerl would go to the United States, where there is a shortage of top-level conductors.
