23rd Homecoming November 8

Eastern Maroons Invade The Hill Next Saturday

Homecoming will again be celebrated at its peak when the Hilltoppers and the Eastern Maroons add a new page to their football classic next Saturday afternoon at the Western Stadium. Dating back to 1914, this gridiron series is one of the oldest, cleanest, and hardest fought rivalries between any two state colleges.

The Toppers will go onto the field as heavy favorites, but past performances have well proven that all records and press notices can be tossed out the window when these two squads lock horns.

Maroons defeated in '41
Remember 1941? The unbeaten Maroons rolled into Bowling Green as overwhelming favorites and left on the short end of a 27-30 score after leading the Hilltoppers 20-0 at the halftime. If that wasn't spindling enough you will recall the great game of 1948, when again Eastern came in for Homecoming as the favorite and before the Maroons had discovered it was a contest. "Slim Jim" Pickens had shot two aerials into the arms of Jewel Browning and with the extra points tacked on by Tom Montilli, they were on their way back to Richmond, behind 14-13.

For more nerve-racking evidence of what can happen when Western and Eastern meet on the gridiron, go back just two years. Not one of the 5,000 fans who packed the Stadium for the 1950 Homecoming tilt will ever forget Jimmy Peix's last-second pass to Max Stevens which tied the score 13-13. Butch Gilbert split the uprights with the boot for the extra point, which again sent the Maroons back home tasting defeat.

Have met 24 times
Over the years, the Hilltoppers and the Maroons have played each other 24 times. Western has emerged victorious 18 times and Eastern, 6 times. The Red and Grey piled up their victory skin over the Maroons before World War II. In the 18 meetings prior to the discontinuance of football at both schools because of the war in 1942, Western had won 15 times and Eastern twice. Since the war the Toppers have won two games and the Maroons four.

Eastern opened their season this year with a narrow, but impressive win over the University of Toledo, 7-6. Spotting Marshall two first period touchdowns, they went on to win their second game, 26-19. After erasing Murray 10-0, the Maroons lost

Sherrill Chosen Senior Sponsor

Mr. L. R. Sherrill of the Biology department was recently selected by the senior class as their faculty sponsor to succeed Joseph M. Howard, who resigned at the close of last school year.

Mr. Sherrill came from Springfield, where he participated in football and basketball while in high school. In 1931, he entered Western and was a member of Western's Hilltoppers his freshman and sophomore years. After graduating from Western, he went to Jeffersontown High School where he stayed nine years as coach and science teacher. While at Jeffersontown he attended summer school at Indiana University. He received his Master's degree in Zoology in 1943.

In 1944 Mr. Sherrill entered the navy. After his discharge in 1948 he came to Western as an instructor in the Biology department.

His hobbies are sports and shop work. He has served as Western's official scorekeeper in basketball.

Aptitude Tests Given College High Seniors

John S. Harris, counselor from the local employment office, and Victor Shoemaker, from the state office of employment service, gave general aptitude tests to all the seniors at College High last week.

The test measures ten aptitudes which make up twenty occupational fields of work, and covers fifteen hundred specific jobs. The purpose of the test is to help seniors find the fields of work to which they are best suited.

The counselor will come back to the school and interpret the test to each senior individually, then encourage him to find out about the field in which he has high aptitude before deciding what to prepare for in life.

Appointments Announced For Army ROTC

Appointments have been announced by Lt. Col. George H. Sibbald, professor of military science and tactics of the Western Army ROTC for 1952-53.

George E. Sauer of Louisville, Ky., a senior military student at Western has been appointed battalion commander and will serve with the rank of cadet lieutenant colonel.

Other appointments are as follows: Major—William F. Tate and Noel L. Patton. Captain—William L. Bennett, Joseph D. Stokes, Joe H. Melton, Jr., Maurice R. Vincent, Gordon W. Crawford and Robert I. Pate.

First lieutenant—Henry D. Wilson, Robert A. Leach, John H. Coleman, John N. Harris, Jr., Joe R. Dougherty, William E. Worley, Raymond T. Nutter, James I. Pedigo, Robert C. Wallace and William Y. McKenzie.

English Prof. To Attend Meeting Of Folklore Societies

Having been appointed a member of the arrangements committee of the American Folklore Society, Professor D. K. Wilgus of Western's English department is now making preparations for the joint meeting of the American Folklore Society, the Mississippi Valley Folklore Society, and the Kentucky Folklore Society. The meeting will be held at Lexington in the spring. Mr. Wilgus is secretary of the Kentucky Folklore Society.

The chairman of the arrangements committee is Professor Richard M. Dorson of the history department of Michigan State College. The other member of the committee is Professor Thomas D. Clark of the history department of the University of Kentucky.

It will be recalled that Mr. Clark spoke to the student body in chapel at Western last year.

Meet Gwenda Davis, From Wales, Great Britain

By Mary Dean Pedigo

It is fascinating to live across the hall from Miss Gwenda Davis, from Wales, who is teaching English at College High. I feel like the luckiest girl at Western when I am invited to her room for a cup of tea and she starts relating to me her trip to America and the things she finds different here.

Miss Davis left England on August 5, on the Mauretania and arrived in New York August 11. There were about twenty exchange teachers on the Mauretania and eighty more arrived in New York the next day on the Queen Mary. These teachers are now teaching in thirty-six of the forty-eight states.

"The sky-line of New York looked very familiar," said Miss Davis after seeing it several times in movies at home. She was fascinated by the tall buildings and the dress shops in New York. "All of us were struck by how smart the people dressed in New York and by the mixture of races and people," remarked Miss Davis. While in New York the group did all the tradition-

Homecoming Festivities To Begin With Student Parade

Preliminary Homecoming festivities will begin a week from tonight with a parade downtown which will precede the combination pep rally, bon fire, and fireworks display on the baseball field.

Climaxing Homecoming will be the football game between the Hilltoppers and the Maroons of Eastern. This OVC tilt is scheduled to begin at 2:00 p.m. Saturday afternoon, November 8, in the Western Stadium. Many events are planned both before and after the game.

The parade will assemble at 6:30 p.m. on 15th Street in front of Cherry Hall before going downtown and around the business district. The whole group will then come back to the baseball field for the pep rally.

The band and the cheerleaders will be on hand for all the festivities and remarks will be heard from the coaches, the captains, and some Hilltopper fans. The twelve candidates for Homecoming Queen will be presented with their escorts. A gigantic display of fireworks will complete the program.

Homecoming Dance
The Homecoming dance will follow the parade.

Four Concerts Are Scheduled

The Bowling Green Community Concerts Association ended the most successful campaign in its history Oct. 11. The program of this season will be one of the highest quality ever presented in Bowling Green.

James Melton, America's favorite tenor, as announced, will open the series on Thursday, November 6.

The Jaroff Don Cossacks Chorus, consisting of 32 singers and dancers, will present the second attraction. The Chorus is one of the most colorful and most popular attractions in American concert going. Their fabulous precision, infectious spirit, and varied programs have endeared them to a million people.

The third concert will present Ricardo Odnoposoff who recently returned from his first tour of Australia. Mr. Odnoposoff established a new record last year by giving 115 recitals in one season and appearing as guest soloist with 37 leading orchestras. The date for Mr. Odnoposoff's performance will be January 15.

Mme. Monique de la Brucholierie will give the last concert on February 25. She is a sensational French pianist whose American debut last December brought her three successive concerts as soloist with the New York Philharmonic Symphony and a sold-out Carnegie Hall recital.

al things: they saw Radio City, the Empire State Building, and other things.

From New York, the group went to Washington. "The place was just beautiful," was Miss Davis' opinion of Washington. The President spoke to them on the American way of life and on ways they could adjust themselves to the new situations.

The young Welsh girl arrived in Bowling Green, Aug. 30. The one thing that she likes best about Bowling Green is that the people are so kind and friendly. She is always talking about how beautiful the country-side is and how glad she is that she came here instead of going to a bustling big city.

I asked her about the differences in their food and ours. Here are several different points she told me. Sugar, cheese, butter, and other items are still rationed in England. They don't have as much variety in fruits as we have. No cake mixes are on the market; so she plans to send some to her family soon. "The low the pep rally. The dance will be held in the gymnasium beginning at 9:00 p.m. with music furnished by the Red and Gray.

Several of the college organizations have planned breakfasts and luncheons for the alumni. The College Heights Herald breakfast will be held at Ferrell's Drive-In at 8:15 a.m. Both the Western Players and the music department plan breakfasts at 9:00 a.m. at the Helm Hotel and Archway Inn respectively. The Leiper English club will hold its luncheon reunion at 12 noon at Ferrell's Drive-In.

The Homecoming Get-together Chapel will begin at 10:30 Saturday morning in Van Meter Auditorium at which time many alumni will be given the opportunity to speak. The candidates for Homecoming Queen will again be introduced with their escorts and final votes will be cast.

Bands To Appear
During the half of the Western-Eastern game, which will begin at 2:00 p.m. in the stadium, both the Western and Eastern bands will appear. At this time the queen will be crowned in a fitting ceremony. The Pershing Rifles will furnish a guard of honor for the new queen, her attendants and the escorts.

The game will be followed by a feature Homecoming reception at the Kentucky building at 4:00 p.m. The three dormitories will hold a general open house and reception for alumni.

The "W" club dinner will begin

Glee Club To Appear On T-V

The APROTC Glee Club under the direction of Mr. Robert Pearson of the Western Music faculty is making tentative plans for several engagements in and around Bowling Green for the Fall Semester. The Glee Club plans to give concerts in Gallatin and Nashville, Tenn., Owensboro and Bowling Green, Ky. The highlight of the semester will be a television appearance over WSM-TV in Nashville around Christmas. The Glee Club is composed of a nucleus of old members and a fine group of freshman all of whom have good voices. Specific dates will be released later concerning these performances.

Librarians Attend Meeting Of Archivists At Lexington

Miss Margie Helm, librarian of the College library, and Mrs. Mary Moore, librarian of the Kentucky library, attended the sixteenth annual meeting of the Society of American Archivists held at the University of Kentucky on October 27-28.

Among the principal speakers were William H. Townsend, Lexington historian, representative of the Kentucky Historical Society, and Dan M. Robison, state librarian and archivist of Tennessee.

Other speakers heard were Emmett J. Leamy, National Records Management Council; Henry E. Edmunds, archivist with the Ford Motor Company, and Herbert A. Keller, McCormick Historical Collection.

Flash Fire Fatal To Child

A flash fire swept through an apartment in Veterans Village here Wednesday morning, Oct. 22, burning to death a nine-month old son of a Western student.

Victim of the tragedy was Steven Edward Griffis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Estil Griffis of Brownsville.

A Negro maid, in charge of the baby and an older child, was outside when the fire broke out and was unable to re-enter the building.

Earl Duncan, another Western student who resides nearby, was burned about the face when he attempted to break through the flames to rescue the child. His burns were not serious.

Firemen were also unsuccessful in reaching the baby, who was dead by the time the flames were beaten out.

The apartment in which the Griffis' resided was one of four in the same building.

Neither of the parents were at home when the fire broke out shortly after 10:30 a.m. So rapidly did the flames engulf the structure that it was all over within 20 minutes.

The father of the baby is a graduate student at Western and is teaching. The mother is employed by the Bowling Green Manufacturing Company.

Using the Veterans' Club of Western as a co-ordinating agent, many individuals and organizations in Bowling Green have made generous contributions to the Griffis fund.

Chemistry Dept. Professors Attend Society Meeting

Dr. C. F. McNally, Dr. Ward Sumpter, and Dr. Glenn Dooley, of the chemistry department, attended a meeting of the Nashville Section of the American Chemical Society in Nashville on October 15. Sixteen students from the chemistry department were also in the party.

The speaker was Dr. Kari Hagar of the Guided Missiles Laboratory in Huntsville, Alabama. Dr. Hagar is a German who helped develop the V-2 rockets used by Germany during World War II. He discussed the relationship between chemistry and the development of guided missiles. He showed several films, including some captured from the Germans, in which was depicted the launching of the V-2 rockets.

The Membership of the Nashville Section of the American Chemical Society is made up of approximately 160 chemists from the colleges and industries of Nashville and vicinity. Dr. McNally is chairman-elect of this group, and will automatically take over the chairmanship in January.

Birds I View

By MARTHA WADE

Did you know that five girls operate the College Heights-exchange switchboard? There is an important job and I think you will enjoy meeting them.

The first one I interviewed was Helen Vanover, a junior elementary education major from Owensboro. She likes to hike, read, try on hats, and pick out melodies on the piano. Her primary ambition is to spend a week in Paris. She is an active member of Bowling Green's First Baptist Church and is devotional vice-president of the Executive Council of the Baptist Student Union there. She also belongs to the College Chorus and the Education Council. She and a friend have also taken it upon themselves to scrub the statues in the garden below Snell Hall periodically. (They use soap, water, and a scrub-brush.)

Tall White was my next victim. Her real name is Taletha and she hails from Henderson. She is a freshman social science major who likes to swim and read—especially poetry. Her strongest dislike is liver, and then she muttered something about the cafeteria. Her ambition is to be a professional Girl Scout worker. At present she is a member of the Stickers History club. She worked a year as a telephone operator before she came to Western.

Betty Branson is a junior from Louisville. She is a physical education major who likes to cook and go to the movies; however, knitting is her hobby. Her heartiest dislike is washing dishes. She belongs to the Physical Education club here on the campus; and her ambition is to be a social worker or a program director.

Rita Lynn Woods is from Corbin. She is a junior, a home economics major, and a member of the Iva Scott club. She particularly likes everything about Western. Her ambition is to be a good home ec. teacher.

Doris Reese is the fifth and last, and when I asked her nickname she said she would never tell. She comes from Morganfield and is a sophomore language area major. She enjoys roller skating and going to ball games but has no strong dislikes. She is an active member of the Church of God in Morganfield but attends the Baptist church when she is in Bowling Green. Her ambition is to be a good teacher and live in a foreign country for at least one year.

A Privileged Duty

The Junior Chamber of Commerce has recently issued posters stating, "Vote as you please but do vote." If you have visited the library for the past few days, you may have noticed the signs. To those students who are of age, these posted signs are reminders of a privilege that is ours as Americans.

The right to vote is part of the heritage that makes up this vast country and government we call a democracy. As is so often said, today's youths hold a privilege and responsibility. Vote as you

Kentucky Building Campus Adorned With Rare Trees.

Students who are interested in trees of a rare type should see the two Ginkgo trees in front of the Kentucky Building, and the two Coffee trees in the rear.

The Kentucky Library has recently acquired a rare and interesting booklet on the Ginkgo tree, which states that "the Ginkgo tree is a tree whose ancestors were among the first forms of tree life which appeared upon the earth, a masterpiece of nature."

The Ginkgo tree has a history found in the wonder book of the rocks. There is proof in the rocks that it was also connected with the first land plants which appeared on the earth; a type of vegetation now extinct.

Long ago this tree lost its wild nature, and today it is unknown in the forests of the world, except in China; even there it exists chiefly as a landscape tree, planted to guard temples and other sacred places. "There are noble, broad-branched specimens in the neighborhood of the temples in Tokyo, fully one hundred feet high, with tall, massive trunks, six or seven feet in diameter."

The first record of this tree is from Japan, by Kaempfer, in 1699. Later it was introduced into Holland, then into England. It was brought to the United States in 1794, by Alexander Hamilton. Early in the eighteenth century, Henry Clay received three Ginkgo trees from a collection of oriental plants brought to Washington by an embassy returning from China. Mr. Clay sent these three trees to Kentucky.

In the parks and lawns of Louisville there are thirty or more large Ginkgo trees.

One of the Ginkgo trees this year bore fruit for the first time at the Kentucky Building.

RAREST OF TREES

The Kentucky Coffee tree, which is one of our rarest forest trees, belongs to the locust family. The exceptionally large beans are from one to three feet long and sometimes up to two feet wide. The flowers are small, although the flower spray is large. These form into seed pods that are very similar to the common locust. The ripe seeds were used in Revolutionary Times as a substitute for coffee—hence its name. The range of the Coffee Tree extends from New York to Nebraska but nowhere is this species common.

In 1793 President James Madison wrote to Thomas Jefferson: "The Kentucky Coffee trees in this neighborhood are too young to bear for some years. I will do all I can to get the seed for Bartram from Kentucky as soon as possible."

When Western began its work as a college in 1908, there were sixteen regular teachers on the College and Training School faculty.

Book Marks

By E. Garr

The College Library, in honor of the publication of the New Revised Standard Version of the Bible, has on display various editions of the Bible found in the library.

On display are the following:

THE HOLY BIBLE, including the OLD TESTAMENT, Volumes I and II, Revised Standard Version, Thomas Nelson and Sons, 1952, and the NEW TESTAMENT, R.S.V., 1946.

A large BIBLE with two translations in parallel columns, the King James and the Revised Version of 1881-85.

THE BIBLE, an American translation, THE OLD TESTAMENT, J. M. Poynter edition. THE NEW TESTAMENT, Edgar J. Goodspeed, University of Chicago Press, 1935.

THE BIBLE, designed to be read as living literature (the King James Version in modern form).

THE SHORT OXFORD BIBLE, edited and abridged by G. W. Brier, G. E. Caird, and N. Micklem, Oxford University Press, 1951.

THE BASIC BIBLE, E. P. Dutton and Company, Inc., New York, 1950.

THE NEW TESTAMENT (a new translation for the Roman Catholic Church)—R. A. Knox, Smead and Ward, New York, 1945.

THE DARTMOUTH BIBLE, an abridgment of the King James Version, with aids to its understanding as history and literature and as a source of religious experience, Roy B. Chamberlin, Herman Feldman, Houghton Mifflin Company, 1950.

LETTERS TO YOUNG CHURCHES, a translation of the Epistles by F. B. Phillips from England, 1948.

The library has several Bibles in foreign languages. Among these are HEBREW OLD TESTAMENT, A GREEK NEW TESTAMENT, NOVUM TESTAMENTUM LATINE (Latin), DAS NEUE TESTAMENT (French). Among the display is a page copied from a Putenberg Bible (German), the first book ever printed, the date being about 1456.

Other books displayed which are of interest to the Bible student are the following:

THE MODERN READER'S BIBLE, edited by Rutherford G. Moulton; a CATHOLIC DICTIONARY, edited by Donald Attwater; THE LITERATURE OF THE OLD TESTAMENT, J. A. Bewer; HOW TO READ THE BIBLE, Edgar J. Goodspeed; ARCHAEOLOGY AND THE BIBLE, George A. Barton; THE BOOK OF MORMON, translated by Joseph Smith, Jr.; SCIENCE AND HEALTH with Key to the Scriptures, Mary Baker Eddy; THE LITERATURE OF THE NEW TESTAMENT, Ernest F. Scott; THE WESTMINSTER STUDY EDITION OF THE HOLY BIBLE containing the Old and New Testaments in the authorized (King James) version, and THE KORAN, translated into English from the original Arabic, by George Sale.

Among the interesting books on display is EN JACOB, a handsome set of books given to the College Library by Jake Pushin, Bowling Green, in memory of his brother, EN JACOB, legends of the Babylonian Talmud in ten volumes, was revised and translated into English by Rabbi S. H. Gillick, 1916. It is in two parallel columns, Hebrew and English.

The library is pleased to see the thesis of Dr. T. O. Hall, A. B. '24, being used by the students in the Education department. The thesis was his Ph. D. dissertation written at the University of Kentucky. It was published in the Kentucky Educational Bulletin in July, 1943, with the title, "The Effectiveness of Secondary School Curricular Offerings in the Occupational Activities of Graduates Who Do Not Attend Accredited Institutions of Higher Learning."

Dr. Hall is a former superintendent of schools at Greenville.

Musical Notes

By MARTHA WADE & BILL BLACKWELL

Western is glad to welcome the Eastern band, which will participate in the Homecoming activities next weekend. The Marching Maroons will appear in both the pregame and half-time shows. William Traverter is the director. The Western band will entertain at a get-together following the game.

Ann Duke and Kay Mason have been selected to sing soprano solos in the Messiah which the Western Chorus will present in December. Bass solos will be sung by Charles Ball and William Miller. Other soloists have been tentatively chosen and will be announced later.

It seems the Western Music Ed. club is trying to keep the offices of secretary and treasurer in one family. Last year Helen Lawton was the secretary and her husband Gene was treasurer. This year the jobs went to sisters Catherine and Marcia Winfrey. Western is planning a big band

Day tomorrow. So far 12 high school bands from this area have accepted an invitation to participate in the half-time show. The Western band will be host to the high school musicians following the game.

Mrs. Nellie Gooch Travelstead, a member of Western's music faculty, has been giving a series of informal coffees on Sunday afternoon for members of the faculty. Sunday, October 12 she gave the most recent one to compliment the wives of three new faculty members—Mrs. William Lawton, Mrs. E. J. Groom, and Mrs. Jesse C. Hendrick. Each of these coffees has been held at Mrs. Travelstead's home, "Travelogs," on the Barren River Road. Jim Poteet was selected by the vote of the band from five candidates to replace Ed Bridges as drum major. We are looking forward to you and Jim Olliges to lead us through a successful season. Good luck, Jim.

By BOB RICHARDSON

Mid-term test time is just around the corner, only a few weeks away. I was made aware of this the other night when one of my roommates fell prone across the bed muttering something about planning to jump into the nearest convenient ravine. My other room-sharer was deep in a chemistry problem, trying to figure out what water is composed of. As for me, I read that last necessary passage in French, closed my book, and suddenly realized that nearer than mid-term tests is Homecoming.

For those of you who may wonder what this Homecoming business is about, here is a quick, resume of that wonderful Saturday of November 8. Best of all, Homecoming happens on Saturday. That means that the heavier theories of calculus, the weighty worry of figuring out the reasons behind history, and such, may be forgotten for this day.

Starting early Saturday morning, breakfasts are held by the various clubs and organizations. Don't try to take them all in, but do go to your favorite club or organization's breakfast. Of course, if you have the stamina and appetite, and a membership card, you may try to partake of each one.

At 10:30 a.m. a special chapel is held. This is a must, for here you will not only hear an excellent program, but see many of your old friends and associates. At noon, those organizations that have not held a breakfast will meet at various places for their luncheons. This is truly a day of good eating.

Best of all, perhaps is that exciting game with Eastern. You can bundle up your favorite friend or blonde and cheer your head off for the boys playing the game. Late in the evening take in the Shadow Hop which winds up a glorious and folksy day on the campus.

The dream will burst Sunday afternoon when you again must remind yourself that the next day is Monday, and just a few weeks off are mid-term tests.

The Herald office has received a letter from Roger and Mary Ruth Sumner asking how the Big Red is doing and how they may be able to receive copies of the Herald to keep up with this year's news. To Roger who is stationed at Robins Air Force Base, Ga., and to Mary Ruth teaching school in Mason, we would like to say that the Big Red is doing a bang-up job of ball-playing. Also, to you two graduates of last year and to others who may be interested in subscribing to the Herald, the subscription address is: The College Heights Herald, Western State College, Bowling Green, Ky.

A ring was recently found in the College gym and has been turned in to the Herald office. The school initials on it are "LG". If you are the unlucky person who lost it, just drop by the Herald office, second floor of Van Meter, and it will again be yours for the asking.

Brick-Bats And Bouquets

At the Senior class meeting held Friday, Oct. 24, Mr. Leslie Sherrill, sponsor, spoke to the class about enthusiasm on the part of Seniors. He said the Senior should lead the Hill in school spirit for all activities. His subject of enthusiasm may be carried over to all classes.

This year we have one of the most spirited and interested group of students that we have had in some time. They have responded to most of the activities here on the Hill. So far this year, chapel programs, football games, and other social events have been attended wholeheartedly by most of the student body. Those who have not as yet entered into the spirit and life of Western are urged to do so, for a student's college life is only as active and pleasant as he makes it.

Homecoming is just a week off; it is hoped that all of the Hill will respond to the feeling of fellowship that will be ours on Nov. 8. Pitch in and make this the best Homecoming ever. You'll find that once you have entered the circle of events, your enthusiasm will continue for most of your college year of 1952-53.

It's Double Or Nothing For These Students

By Nancy Atkinson
It is double or nothing for the six sets of twins who are wandering around on the Western campus among the 2,173 other students this year.

Wilbur and Douglas Daugherty served three years during World War II and are now juniors majoring in elementary education. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Knox Daugherty of Morgantown.

At the first glance Wilbur and Douglas look alike, but once you know them they are exceptionally different—mostly because they do not dress alike.

Jean and Joan Stevens, identical twins, are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. James Stevens of Bowling Green.

They seldom dress alike, but you are sure to know Joan when you notice her dimpled cheeks. Graduates of College High, they are now sophomores majoring in elementary education.

James and John Fox, guards on the Western freshman football team are identical twins from Marion. Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey L. Fox taught their sons to dress alike and at the same time taught them to like the same things. Each thinks it is convenient being a twin.

Lanycie and Royce Foraythe are sons of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Foraythe of Uniontown. They are junior, agriculture majors and are members of the Cherry Country Life club and the Prop and Wing.

Since they dress alike, the only mark of difference is Royce's being left-handed while Lanycie is right-handed.

Ronald and Donald Thornberry, Russellville, are sons of the late Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Thornberry of Lewisburg. They are freshman physics majors, minoring in mathematics.

They dress alike and like the same things. Only their friends can tell them apart, but if you wish to know which is which, just remember Ronald is left-handed and Donald is right-handed.

Judith Carol and David Randall Williams are the daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Williams of Poole.

There is no resemblance in these two since Judith has the darker hair and David is the taller. They like to do the same things although they never dress alike.

They have a brother, Bruce, who is now a senior industrial arts major.

Russell H. Miller Attends Speech Clinic

Representing Western as Director of Little Theater, Mr. Russell H. Miller attended the Speech and Drama Clinic sponsored by the Department of University Extension in the Department of English at the University of Kentucky under the direction of the Kentucky Speech Teachers Association. The clinic for the state of Kentucky was held at the University of Kentucky on October 10 and 11.

Mr. Miller appeared on the clinic's program, which consisted of the arrangement and discussion of the State Speech Festival to be held at the University of Kentucky on April 13 through 15.

The program was under the direction of Chloe Gifford, who is an assistant in the Department of University Extension at the University of Kentucky.

'The Heiress' Is Challenging Play

The Western Players' fall production of Ruth and Augustus Coetz's "The Heiress," adapted from Henry James' "Washington Square," was presented in Van Meter Auditorium last night. In every department "The Heiress" was one of the most challenging selections the Players have presented. The gripping dramatic material is in excellent taste. It presents the plight of a girl, rich in money and nothing else... she could buy everything she wanted—except the things that meant the most to her. She needed love so desperately, she did not dare believe the young sophisticate who sought her hand was a fortune hunter until it had been proved through bitter experience.

In the cast the sensitive girl who turns cruel and bitter when she is jilted by the man she loves was played with feeling and understanding by Alice Allen. James B. Jones as the tyrannical father who cruelly destroys his daughter's only chance for happiness; and Jerry Cochran as the mercenary suitor of a plain girl he's all too ready to jilt when her father threatens disinheritance, carried the male lead effectively. As the heiress' romantic aunt who tries to further the heroine's match with the opportunistic kiler Jean Topmiller created a character both lovable and amusing. Ann McKeel, Phyllis Blake-man, Lynn Miller, Catherine Hopper, Sam Fletcher, and Marion Chesnut rounded out the competent cast of players that told "The Heiress" story.

The play presented many problems in stage decor in the recreation of Dr. Sloper's fashionable home in New York's Washington Square of a century ago. The directing hand of Russell H. Miller was seen in the handsome mounting that made "The Heiress" one of Western Players' most elaborate productions. Settings by Hal Gomer caught the spirit of the period and the mood of the play. Coordination of backstage efforts by Shirley Risher as stage manager and Joan Soete as script assistant were largely responsible for the efficient handling of details that made "The Heiress" another "constructive experience" for all the Western Players who had any part in it and an enjoyable dramatic experience in good theater for all members of the audience.

Nineteen Western students gave their lives in World War I.

Army ROTC Has New Staff Member

Sergeant First Class Edgar McGranahan has joined the staff of the Army ROTC as a clerk-typist. Sgt. McGranahan replaced Corporal Andy Overby on June 24 of this year. He was originally slated to go to the R.O.T.C. Detachment at Murray, Kentucky.

Sgt. McGranahan was born April 9, 1926 at Louisa, Ky. and graduated from Chattahoochee High School, Chattahoochee, W. Va., class of '44. He has been in the Army since that time, serving in the European theater during World War II and in Panama from 1948 to 1950, recently returning from Germany after a stay of eleven months.

Mr. L. T. Smith Attends Meetings

Mr. L. T. Smith, head of the Industrial Arts Department, attended a meeting of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association, Friday, October 3 in Birmingham, Ala.

Art Dept. Head Visits In Europe

Miss Ruth Hines Temple, head of the Art department, spent the latter part of the summer abroad in many places of unusual interest.

On August 8, at 12:00 noon, she departed from the shore of Montreal, Canada, on the Canadian Pacific ship "Empress of France". After sailing for 1,000 miles up the St. Lawrence river, viewing the many picturesque hamlets, she reached the open sea. Upon reaching the Northern shores of Ireland and catching a glimpse of Scotland, Miss Temple again took to the open Irish Sea, bound for Liverpool. From Liverpool she traveled by train to London, where she spent the night at the famous Hotel Piccadilly, which was a five minutes' walk from historical Buckingham Palace.

The next noon Miss Temple flew in a giant B. E. A. plane from London to Paris. She found this famed town of enchantment to hold still the same pert, fast, sophisticated beauty of the years.

The next day she visited Borbison and Fontainebleau, and on Monday she joined a small group for a touch of famous chateaux in the "Valley of the Loire". Visit to Chambord, Chaumont, Blois, Langeais, Amboise Chenonceau, Azoy-le-Rideau, Sully-Sur-Loisnu, and others brought into focus the pattern of royal living in the 1600's. Other trips included Portiers, Anguleme, Perigeneux and Bourges. Chartres was revisited as one would visit an old friend. A day in the caves at Lascaux with their prehistoric paintings was a fascinating experience.

Next Miss Temple made a quick trip to Brussels, then to Ghent and Bruges to see the Van Dycks and the Memlings. She spent the next day cruising the Channel from Ostende to Dover, to see the White Cliffs.

Three days in England completed the trip. On these days she managed to include a trip to Windsor, Stokes Poges, and Hampton Court. A peaceful Sunday was spent in Ely with its beautiful cathedral.

A cold return trip on the ship was met with rough seas until she disembarked in quaint old Quebec. Here she enjoyed the Plains of Abraham, the touring of the Chateau Frontenac, and a journey out to St. Anne-de-Beaujeu.

This trip enabled Miss Temple to see in a relatively small area, some choice places and objects of art. At one and the same time she said it gave her new inspirations and ambitions.

Mrs. Robert N. Morris, the former Mary Elizabeth Galloway, who received the A. B. from Western in 1944 and the M. A. from Peabody in 1947, is now librarian at Florida Christian College, Tampa, Fla. Her husband is attending the University of Tampa.

G. G. McLemore, B. S. '49 of Princeton, has entered the University of Indiana to do graduate work on the Master's degree in chemistry.

Raymond A. Humphrey, B. S. '51 of Cumberland, has entered the Ohio State University to do graduate work on the Master's degree in chemistry.

Plans Call For Opening Of Student Union Bldg. In February

Present plans call for the opening of the new Student Union Building by the first of February, according to a recent announcement by college officials.

Contractors who are working on the building at the present time hope to be through by the first of the year. All work on the building is progressing at a rapid rate, and from all indications this new addition to Western's campus will be one of the most beautiful buildings on the Hill. When the Student Union Building is completed, it will mark the end of a long-realized dream of all Westerners.

The Student Union Building will complete the inner circle on the summit of the Hill. It is constructed in line with the J. Whit Potter Hall, Van Meter Auditorium, the Library, Cherry Hall, and the Cedar House. The style of architecture is so designed as to conform to the other buildings on the Hill.

The first or ground floor will house a modern cafeteria, complete in every detail to take the place of the one now in use.

Also located on this floor will be a snack bar for the convenience of the student body. A glazed tile wainscoting skirts the entire first floor, backed by a white plaster wall.

The second or main floor will be devoted entirely to recreations activities. All of the school dances and parties are to be held there instead of in the gymnasium as is the present policy. This ballroom is so designed that different parts of the room may be closed off to furnish individual rooms. Then when a large area is needed, such as for a dance, these partitions are pushed in recesses set into the walls. The entrance to the terrace is from the ballroom. Rooms designated for club and class meetings are located on this floor. The wainscoting and all of the trim for this floor is of stained birch.

Terrazza floors, a combination of granite chips set in concrete and polished to a high gloss, are used entirely throughout the building. The ceilings are of an acoustical fiber board composition. Telephone booths are easily accessible for use on both floors.

The landscaping for the building is progressing in line with the other construction under the supervision of R. C. Woodward, superintendent of buildings and grounds. A large driveway will be built connecting to the old driveway by the Cedar House; it will curve in front of the Student Union Building and will be wide enough to furnish parking places for a limited number of cars. Walkways will connect with the ones now in use so as to make the building easily accessible from four different directions.

If the present structure does not provide adequate facilities, it is so designed and constructed that another floor may be added if the occasion should arise.

Mrs. Nelle G. Travelstead spent the summer vacation in Athens, Georgia, is visiting her son, Chester Travelstead, who is an associate professor in the education department of the University of Georgia. She observed summer classes which were in session at the music department. She also attended a workshop and a summer concert by the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra.

Education Council Elects Officers

The first regular meeting of the Education Council, of which Dr. Bert R. Smith is sponsor, was held Tuesday, October 21, in the Kentucky Building.

The following officers were elected for the first semester: president, Helen Hardy; vice-president, Virginia Ficus; secretary-treasurer, Earl Hunter.

Following the election of officers a motion picture, "What Greater Gift," was shown. Produced by the National Education Association, this film is distributed by the Kentucky Education Association.

One hundred and twenty-six members were present.

Refreshments, consisting of homemade cider and doughnuts, were served.

The next meeting will be the third Tuesday night in November at which time pictures for the Talisman will be made. Dr. Mary I. Cole will sponsor the next meeting.

Boys Dorm Has Governing Body

Potter Hall boys agree that the Potter Hall Council is the best governing system which the dormitory has had.

The council, which was formed last year soon after the opening of the school term, consists of ten members, two councilmen from each wing of each floor who are elected by a popular vote, and one advisory and non-voting member.

The purpose of the council is to represent each person and his interest in the dormitory. In case of violation of the house rules, the individual may ask the council to meet and judge his case.

The council functions on a demerit system. Each house rule has a certain number of demerits in value. Demerits are awarded by vote of the council members after hearing the case. Ten demerits will cause any resident to be asked to move from the dormitory.

This year's members are Bill Griffin, Dick Compton, Robert "Bubber" Simpson, Willard Price, Harold Buckingham, Manuel Wilkerson, Joe Murphy, Bob Steinberger, Jim Olliges, Luke Quinn, and Ed Rutledge, advisory and non-voting member.

A graduate of Western, Sergeant Bugg entered the Army in March, 1951.

The Combat Infantryman Badge for excellent performance of duty under enemy fire in Korea recently was awarded to Army Private Aubrey C. Walker.

Private Walker is a member of the 2d Infantry Division, which gained fame in some of the hardest fought battles of the Korea war. He attended Western before entering the Army in October, 1951.

Private Mark M. Coloton is now serving with the 25th Infantry Division in the Eastern Korean sector.

Pvt. Coloton, a cannoner in Battery B of the 8th Field Artillery Battalion, arrived in Korea on Aug. 11, 1952.

He attended Western before entering the Army last February.

Lt. Col. Page H. Brownfield, AB '37, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warner C. Brownfield, of 1648 Compton Rd., Cleveland Heights, has been appointed to the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kans.

The 10-month course began Sept. 3, with Maj. Gen. Henry I. Hodcs, school commandant, giving the opening address. A total of 598 officers, representing every branch of the U. S. Armed Forces and 29 foreign nations, is attending.

Colonel Brownfield served in Europe during World War II. Among his decorations are the Combat Infantryman Badge, Bronze Star Medal with "V" and Two Oak Leaf Clusters and the Purple Heart for wounds received in action.

Cpl. Joseph M. Talley, a former Western student, is now serving in Japan with the 24th Infantry Division.

The division, which was the first American unit to see combat at the outbreak of the Korean war, is now a part of the security force helping guard the Japanese islands.

Corporal Talley entered the Army in April, 1951, and arrived in Japan last month.

Lt. Col. Roy S. Kelly, B. S. '39, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Lee Kelly, 1229 College street, has been appointed to the Army Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kans.

After leaving Western, Colonel Kelly attended Purdue University until he entered West Point Military Academy, receiving his degree from that college in 1941. He received the Master's degree in Engineering from the California Institute of Technology.

Upon the completion of overseas duty in World War II, Colonel Kelly was an instructor in West Point for four years immediately preceding his appointment to the Army Command and General Staff College.

Lt. Col. George A. Bone, has been named G-1 (personnel) officer of the 45th Infantry Division in Korea.

Colonel Bone served in the Pacific during World War II and was stationed at Fort Benning, Georgia, before his present assignment.

He is a graduate of Western.

Cpl. Sam S. Boyd of Cadiz, Ky., recently left Wurzburg Military Post to return to the United States for separation from the Army.

A 1946 graduate of Trigg High School, Cadiz, and 1950 graduate of Western Kentucky State College Bowling Green, he was a school teacher at Round Lake, Ill., before entering the Army in November, 1950.

Maj. Robert E. Vick, whose wife, Geneva, and sons live in Greenville, recently arrived in Korea and has been serving with X Corps.

He is now assigned to the G-3 (operations and training) section of the X Corps. Major Vick was commissioned in 1942. He fought during World War II in campaigns in New Guinea, Leyte, and Luzon. He was awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action and the Bronze Star Medal.

He attended Western, receiving his law degree from the University of Kentucky at Lexington.

Private William D. Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orb Taylor, of Route No. 3, Marion, recently arrive in the Far East and is serving with the 1st Cavalry Division.

Private Taylor, a former student at Western, entered the Army in February of this year and was stationed at Camp Chaffee, Ark., before his assignment overseas.

Maj. Herman C. Park, Central City, is the new administrative officer of Wurzburg Military Post in Germany. He was graduated from Western in 1937 and was twice wounded while serving with the 80th Division during World War II.

Kentucky Building

The Kentucky Building, has attracted 548 visitors during the last three weeks. This figure does not include the numerous parties and receptions that have been held there during this time. The visitors are from different towns and counties of Kentucky as well as from the various states.

Visitors have registered from 56 towns of Kentucky and from at least 12 different states.

The Kentucky Building also attracts students from other schools. Among these school groups within the last three weeks, four counties of Kentucky, Allen, Monroe, Warren, and Simpson, have been registered.

New Art Club Elects Officers

Paul Koenen was elected president at a meeting for the organization of the Art club held Friday morning, October 3.

Other officers, elected were Lorene Caudell, vice-president, Norma Williams, secretary, and Charlotte Mears, treasurer. The club elected joint faculty sponsors, Miss Ruth Temple, head of the art department, and Mr. Ivan Wilson.

A name has not yet been chosen for the club, but it was decided that the club would hold regular meeting on the first Monday of each month at 7 p.m. in the Kentucky Building.

The purpose of the club is to give those people who are interested in art an opportunity to partake in more activities that pertain to art; to help create a fellowship among those who are interested in art; to promote art on the campus and in the community; to represent and promote the art department; to encourage everyone to realize the art department; to encourage everyone to realize that art is living, and not a dead thing found only in museums.

This club is open to anyone having any interest whatsoever in any phase of art.

The club's activities for the future have not been definitely decided upon as yet, but some suggestions given at the last meeting were a masquerade ball, field trips, student art exhibit, dinner for club members, and perhaps the sponsorship of a speaker.

THESE HANDS ARE PRICELESS!

They protect the American way of life . . . our homes, our freedoms, our future.

These Hands, sensitively trained to respond acutely to the commands of an alert mind and courageous heart, are the hands of a United States Air Force Pilot.

The skillful touch of these hands attunes the blasting speed of modern jet aircraft to effective missions in discouraging any enemy. These hands are supremely capable of flying and fighting these machines with devastating effect.

These Hands belong to young, spirited American men (not supermen) who desire to live unmolested in a free America . . . who want to enjoy the same rights and opportunities open to all real American people.

These Hands belong to our sons—yours and mine. Youths who must decide today how they can share in defense of our nation and also better themselves. To insure greater chances of their success, today's college men should be encouraged to complete their education and then serve their country best by enlisting as Aviation Cadets in the U. S. Air Force.

There is the choice of becoming either a Pilot or Aircraft Observer. After graduation as Second Lieutenants in the U. S. Air Force, they wear the silver wings of flying executives and begin earning nearly $5300 a year.

These Hands represent a man ready to qualify for this tremendous task because he is between the ages of 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in excellent physical condition, especially eyes, ears, heart and teeth. He possesses at least two years of college and the inherent urge to fly.

These Hands shape the destiny of America . . . the difference between our survival and oblivion. The U. S. Air Force needs the hands, the minds and the hearts of young Americans who desire to make the American way a greater way of peace and happiness for all.

Quartet Sings On Chapel Program

At the request of President Paul L. Garrett, a quartet of four talented young men sang in chapel on Wednesday morning, October 1. Curtis Watts, Clarence Tucker, Bob Moore, Jay Wilky and their piano accompanist, Charles Ball, came originally from Madisonville. The latter three now attend this college.

All of the men had played together in their home town, and they took the third place honors in this year's State Fair.

The singers opened their program with two spirituals, "Breathe on Me" and "Peace in the Valley". Then, as is customary with quartets, they sang a "barber-shop" number, "You Had a Dream". This was followed by their imitating the Four Aces in singing, "Tell Me Why" and "I'm Yours". For their closing numbers, they sang "Swing Down Sweet Chariot", and "Rock a My Soul", the last being their own swing version.

A loud ovation followed their performance, during which the student audience called for another selection. The young men returned to sing the chorus of another spiritual as an encore.

Mr. and Mrs. John Newton Smith will live in Yugoslavia, were Mr. Smith is to be attached to the United States Embassy.

Mrs. Smith, the former Eleanor Pearce, AB '38, was the winner of the Trustee's Medal in 1938.

Gordon Wilson, Jr., BS '47, MS '49, University of Kentucky, was separated, on September 22, from the Army Chemical Corps where he has been serving as a teacher. Mr. Wilson returned to his position as an instructor in chemistry at the Duluth Branch of the University of Minnesota.

Second Lt. Roger Sumner, AB '52, and Mrs. Sumner, AB '52, are now making their home in Macon, Ga., while Lieutenant Sumner is on duty at Warner Robins Air Base.

Mrs. Sumner, the former Mary Ruth Page, is teaching in the fourth grade at Macon.

Lieutenant Sumner is a former Herald reporter.

Sam Short, BS '52, is teaching and coaching at Fulton. Mr. Short is a former varsity football player and a reporter for the Herald.

Second Lt. Rip Gish, AB '51, is stationed at Quantico, Va. Lieutenant Gish, a former Western basketball player, plans to play for the marines this coming year.

Eleanor Whittinghill, Life Certificate '21, was recently given recognition by the Kentucky Home Demonstration Agents Association, for outstanding services. Miss Whittinghill is a candidate for the Grace Frysinger Fellowship Award, which is given each year to only one home demonstration agent in the United States. The award pays for a months study of Extension problems in the other states.

Norris Branson, BS '52, is employed with the Ideal Dairy Company of Evansville, Ind.

Tommy Beard, BS '51, is now attending the Southern Baptist Seminary in Louisville.

Etta Watson, BS '51, MS '52, is teaching physical education at Mainland High School in Daytona Beach, Fla.

Clays Higginson, AB '52, and Margaret Simons, BS '52, are teaching at Erlanger. Miss Higginson is teaching art in all of the city schools and Miss Simons is teaching in the science department.

Mildred Burns, AB '51, is teaching in the St. Elmo High school, at St. Elmo, Ill.

Alma Jones, BS '52, is teaching the fourth and fifth grades in the Louisville school system.

Nona Glenn, AB '28, is teaching Latin in the public school at Carmi, Ill.

Roscoe C. Drake, BS '42, received the M. A. degree from Ohio State University in August.

Second Lt. Harold Fuqua, AB '51, was a recent visitor on the Hill. Lieutenant Fuqua is stationed at Fort Campbell.

Clarese Miller, BS '52, is teaching in the South Haven, Mich. Public School system. She is teaching music to approximately 1000 grade school children, as well as working with both a junior high school boy's glee club and a junior high school girls' glee club of 65 voices. She is also directing a mixed choir of 50 voices from which a small Inner Choir is chosen. Other duties include work with several small ensembles and teaching a class in conducting.

Robert J. Francis, MA '34, received the Ph. D. degree from Ohio State University in August.

Second Lt. Bobby McGuire, BS '51, MS '52, University of Kentucky, is stationed at Camp Pickett, Va.

Joe Seward, BS '51, is employed at the Atomic Energy Plant in Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Daugh Hargett, BS '51, MS '52, University of Louisville, is working toward the Doctor's degree at the University of Tennessee.

Western Grad Receives Copy Of Stuart's New Book

When Jesse Stuart's newest book, "Kentucky Is My Land", came out recently, Mrs. Mae Dixon, B. S. '30, M. S. '32, was one of the first to receive an autographed copy.

Mrs. Dixon is Stuart's most recent biographer, and the only one who has written specifically about his educational contributions. The biography is in the form of a thesis which was required for her Master's degree in education. The thesis, which is spoken of by Mrs. Dixon as "one of my greatest pleasures in college," and by Mr. Stuart as reading "like a novel," was bound by Harvey Dixon, the author's husband.

Mrs. Dixon chose Jesse Stuart for her subject after studying his works in the Kentucky literature class, and after reading "The Thread That Runs So True." Although he is most widely known for his prose and poetry, his biographer recognized his great contributions to education. Of his 450 speeches in forty-four states about two thirds of his talks have been on education.

Mrs. Dixon, who is now teaching at Penile School in Jefferson County, at first felt that there was a great loss to her profession when Mr. Stuart no longer taught, but she realizes now that he can reach more people through his speeches. Mrs. Dixon is proud that Kentucky can produce such great men as her subject.

The first line of the preface of her "Jesse Stuart and Education" establishes her purpose thoroughly. "The purpose of this study is to bring to the attention of the public the educational life and contributions of Jesse Stuart," she says.

It took about a year to complete the goal she aimed for, working from four in the morning until time to go to school. The push, dreams, and ambitions that she read in Stuart's work helped greatly in completing her job. Mr. Stuart's comment on the thesis was, "I'll say one thing, she dug up material that I didn't know I'd written. She really tied that thing together. You ought to read it. That Mae is really a worker."

Most of Mrs. Dixon's material came from the Pi Sigma club in Louisville, the Courier-Journal Library, the Kentucky room of the Louisville Public Library, Miss Frances Richard's Kentucky Files, and the Kentucky Library.

The biographer also wrote to Dr. Edwin Mims, Stuart's professor at Vanderbilt, and much material was received from Jesse Stuart through letters.

The biographer of course first asked permission from her subject before beginning her project, and when he learned of her interest in him, he invited Mr. and Mrs. Dixon, to spend the KEA week-end of last school year as his guests at W-Hollow, Stuart's home in Greenup County.

The educator and his biographer spent the week-end going through his personal files and discussing the thesis. Mrs. Dixon says that W-Hollow is one of the most peaceful and enjoyable places that she has ever seen.

As her writing progressed, "the pieces fitted together like a puzzle." Joe Creason, feature writer of the Courier-Journal, managed to get some old photos of Stuart from the Courier, and with these Mrs. Dixon placed a few that she and her husband took while at W-Hollow, using them throughout the book.

Mrs. Dixon is trying to make a complete collection of the books that Stuart has had published. There are fourteen altogether but some are out of print. His first book was "Man With the Bull-Tongue Plow," published in 1934.

Mr. and Mrs. Dixon, who now live at 4364 Southern Parkway in Louisville, were graduated from Fairdale High school together in 1940. They were married June 19, 1943, and out of the past ten years, Mr. Dixon has spent three in the Coast Guard.

At Western, Harvey majored in industrial arts and Mae majored in elementary education and minored in English. Harvey is working on the Master's degree at Western during summer schools.

Mrs. Dixon taught at Center

Street school, Bowling Green, while working on her Master's degree. She was president of the Faculty club there in 1951-52.

Both were also members of the Education Council while at Western. Last October, Mrs. Dixon was elected to the Third District Education Association, being chosen a member of the KEA planning board.

Mr. Dixon, a member of the Arts and Crafts club during his stay at Western, is the only person who has ever held the office of president three terms in that club. At present, he is teaching shop at Southern High school in Louisville.

Mrs. Dixon, who was Mae Dittbenner, had a 2.9 standing in the graduate class.

539 Students Aided By Loans

According to the presentation of the treasurer's report by R. H. Seward at the annual board meeting of the College Heights Foundation on October 8, five hundred and thirty-nine deserving students at Western received loans totaling $14,297.50 from the foundation.

During the past five years, the foundation has loaned $100,969.25 to 4,564 students. Since the fund was established in 1923, 12,343 students have received $285,611.32. Repayments over the twenty-nine years have totaled $388,087.52.

Directors whose terms expired that night were re-elected to three year terms. They are J. P. Masters, Mrs. H. R. Matthews and Charles R. Bell. James M. Hill of 1659 Chestnut street was elected to fill the vacancy created by the death of Dr. John H. Blackburn, and George D. Duncan of Franklin was named to fill the unexpired term of Laurence B. Pinn, who resigned.

Other members of the board include Dr. Paul L. Garrett, Dr. C. C. Howard, Gaston Coke, Charles L. Taylor, Sam H. Allen and Sterrett Cuthbertson.

Mr. Seward was re-elected to his thirteenth term as executive secretary-treasurer. James L. Hall was re-elected manager of the College Heights bookstore for his twenty-fourth year.

Religious Emphasis Week To Begin Nov. 3

Religious Emphasis Week will begin Monday night with services at 8:30 in the Little Theater. The speaker is the Rev. Dr. King Vivion of Louisville.

The theme to be carried out in all the meetings is "Christ—Yesterday, Today, Tomorrow, Forever."

The program will consist of four chapel services at 10 a.m. Tuesday through Friday in Van Meter. Dr. Vivion will speak at each of these sessions.

Dr. Vivion has an outstanding record as an educator and clergyman. He served as pastor of the College Church at Texas A&M from 1919 to 1924. Then for two years he was pastor of the First Methodist Church, Jacksonville, Tex.

Born in Missouri, and the son of a Methodist minister, Dr. Vivion is a graduate of Drury College, Springfield, Miss., and Southern Methodist University. He has also done graduate work at the University of Chicago.

Dr. Vivion has been active in various aspects of public service such as the board of trustees of Martin College, the American Red Cross, and the Salvation Army. He was a delegate to the World Council of Churches in Amsterdam in 1948.

Evening meetings will be held in the Little Theater Monday through Thursday nights at 8:30. The Tuesday evening session will be a seminar on "Love, Courtship and Marriage" led by Dr. Vivion. The program on Wednesday and Thursday nights will be a panel discussion and a symposium led by local ministers and student workers.

Noon-Day Devotions will be conducted each day at 11:55 a.m. by Dr. Vivion in the Little Theater.

Seminars will be held in Cherry Hall on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday at 4 o'clock. A discussion of "Can we believe the Bible today?" will be led by Dr. Earl A. Moore in Cherry Hall 103. "What are the benefits of becoming a Christian on this campus?" led by Dr. Angus N. Gordon will meet in Cherry Hall 102. Students interested in discussing the question "Is Christianity practical in my chosen vocation?" will meet in Cherry Hall 119. Their leaders will be Judge G. D. Milliken on Tuesday, Mr. W. B. Kerr on Wednesday, and Dr. Richard F. Grise on Thursday.

Dorm sessions will be held on Monday night at 9:30 in West Hall Tuesday night at 9:45 in Potter, and Wednesday at 9:30 in McLean Hall. During these sessions Dr. Vivion will discuss questions asked by the students attending.

Personal interviews with Dr. Vivion will be arranged for any student who wishes them.

Dr. Paul Terrell Principle Speaker At Council

Dr. Paul Terrell, head of the department of geography at Western, was one of the principal speakers at the International Council of Geography Teachers held in Washington, D. C., during the summer.

The only speaker on the program who represented a college, Dr. Terrell spoke on "Pulpwood in the South." Other speakers were from Duke University, Clark University, Columbia University, the University of Wisconsin, the University of Nebraska, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Dr. and Mrs. Terrell were accompanied by Miss Mary Marks, a member of the Geography department.

Western Art Dept. Shows Carlin Exhibit

This month the Art department presented an exhibit of twenty-two choice watercolor paintings by James Carlin, and donated by Miss Grace Pickett of New York City. Mr. Carlin, of Belfast, Ireland, has received many outstanding awards from some of the most distinguished and recognized organizations in the country, such as the American Watercolor Society, Audubon Artists, Montclair Art Museum, Esamagundi club, and the Allied Artists of America. Mr. Carlin's work shows evidence of crisp color set to perfect lines and shadings.

The Art department has planned other cultural treats for this year, with many exciting ventures into art in various fields of specialization.

"The Gallery," in Cherry Hall, Room 306, will be open at all times for the showing of the exhibits.

Western Players Adopt Seasonal Workshop Project

After a very entertaining program presented by Mrs. Jennie Upton on the recordings of "The Cocktail Party" by T. S. Eliot, the Western Players adopted as their seasonal project, the student workshop.

The workshop is to be in the fashioning of one act plays, which are to be given under student direction.

Alice Allen, the president of Western Players, will have charge of presenting the first of such plays on Dec. 10. Sanford Cox will direct the second play on Jan. 14 of next year. These plays will be a part of the Western Players program at their regular meetings.

The Western Players decided on this type of student workshop in the business session of October 9 held in the Kentucky Building at 7:00 p.m.

Western Plans Small Music Ensemble Programs

Western is again this year emphasizing a small ensemble program to enrich the music department and the college as a whole. Five ensembles are now practicing regularly, and several others are in the planning stage. Each of these ensembles receives college credit and is supervised by a faculty member.

The brass sextet, which was organized three years ago, is now composed of Howard Nicar and Charles Tedder, trumpets; Norama Ruble, French horn, Frank Mitropoulos, trombone; Martha Wade, baritone; and William Link, bass. Dr. Hugh Guaderson is director of the group.

Donald McMaha, assistant band director and woodwind specialist, directs the woodwind quintet and the two clarinet quartets, Walter Green flute; Gene Lawton, oboe; Brian Scott, clarinet; James Jensen, bassoon; and Norma Ruble, French horn, are members of the woodwind quintet. The two quartets name Brian Scott, Caesar Ricci, Jon Henry, and James Jensen as members of the first; and Jeanne Warren, Jim Poteet, Jo Anne Dent, and Bob Kuss as members of the second. These three ensembles have been established for several years and are often asked to appear publicly.

Robert Pearson announced the formation of a small vocal ensemble, the Madrigal Singers. A group of the same name functioned several years ago but was of similar nature to the present A Capella Choir. This organization is composed of Ann Duke, Kay Mason, Helen Lawton, Pat Yeiser, June Mitchell, Phil Stromowsky, Mr. Pearson, Charles Ball, Jim Henry and William Miller; and present plans are for it to sing madrigals only.

Three other ensembles are also busy making music—The Barbettes, a girls' quartet; the Red and Gray dance band; and the Hilltoppers, a male quartet. However these are not regular college courses and receive no credit though the Barbettes is directed by a faculty member.

Piano Dept. Head Travels In Europe

Steven Barwick, head of Western's piano department, spent the three summer months traveling, sight seeing, and studying in Europe. He sailed for a two weeks stay in London on the French Lines' Ile de France June 4. While there he studied with Claudio Arrau; next he spent a week each in Holland and Belgium. For the next month Dr. Barwick established his headquarters in Paris, taking time to visit Madrid, Barcelona, Seville and several other cities in Spain, as well as the tip of North Africa. While in Austria he visited Vienna and Salzburg, and he also took time for a one day trip to Munich, Germany.

Dr. Barwick attended concerts of the opera in many of the cities he visited, most important of which included the opportunity to attend part of the famous Salzburg Festival. He sailed for the States on the Libertie and returned to Bowling Green in time for the beginning of the fall semester.

Western Expecting Another Tough Game Tomorrow

While the Western Hilltoppers were absorbing their first defeat of the season at the hands of the Tennessee Tech Golden Eagles last Saturday night in Cookeville, Tennessee, a powerful Delta State football squad was smashing a good Murray State team down in Cleveland, Mississippi, tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 p.m. this same Delta State is scheduled to clash with the Hilltoppers in the Western stadium, and from all indications the game should be a toss-up.

It looks like a battle between a powerful Delta running game featuring Jim Ratcliff and Western's fine passing attack with Jimmy Feix at the controls. Neither team is limited offensively and a high-scoring game is predicted.

Toppers in good shape
The Toppers came out of the Tennessee Tech game in good physical condition and should be at peak form. With their passing attack effectively stopped for the first time this season in the game with Tech, the Toppers' running attack showed its potential, and it is expected that the home fans will be seeing more of backs John Sowers, Gene MacFadden, Max Stevens, and Willie Watson, than in the past two home games. Delta State can expect to see Feix throwing the ball, too, according to reports from the Western coaching staff. Head coach Jack Clayton accepted part of the blame for Feix's below average passing exhibition against Tech by explaining that in practice there had been little time devoted to the aerial game.

Delta State, in beating Murray 23-19, scored four of its touchdowns on the ground and the other on an intercepted pass. Western fans can expect to see a lot of the aforementioned Ratcliff, who tallied three touchdowns in the Murray game. Other Delta performers to watch are Paul Prestage, a fine defensive back and Clarence Wilkinson, another good runner.

This game could prove to be the hardest fought of the season for Western, as Delta State matches the Toppers in experience and depth. Be sure to come out and help the boys start another victory string.

Toppers Win Over N. E. La. State 42-27

Western's unbeaten football machine was off to a flying start against Northeast Louisiana, sputtered a little; then winged into high gear to record their fourth successive victory of the season by a decisive 42-27 score.

Veteran quarterback Jimmy Feix once again ignited the powerful Hilltopper offense by throwing eight straight completed passes early in the game. With less than six minutes gone in the first period, he set up the first touchdown with a 50-yard aerial to Halfback Max Stevens who carried the ball to the Northeast Louisiana 13-yard line. Gene MacFadden then took the ball over for the game's first score. Whitey Sanders' first of six successful conversions gave Western a 7-0 lead.

A second touchdown came minutes later when the accurate-tossing Feix hit Stevens in the end zone from seven yards out. Sanders' conversion brought the score to 14-0 in Western's favor, and the rout was apparently on.

Louisiana comes back

The spirited Louisiana outfit was not to be taken that easily and within approximately two thrill-packed minutes they countered with two scores of their own to tie the game. Their first score came after a 70-yard sustained drive featuring the running of halfback Press Berry, who was in the Hilltoppers' hair all night. No sooner had the crowd settled back in their seats than a Feix aerial fell into the hands of a Northeast Louisiana defender and Western's back was once again against the wall. Seconds later DeLore raced into the end zone and the score was tied 14-14.

Toppers lead at half

The anxious Hilltoppers settled down in the waning minutes of the first half to drive deep into Louisiana territory from where Max Stevens scored his second of three touchdowns for the night. Sanders

Tech Hands Toppers First Loss Of Season

The Western Hilltoppers, after four straight wins, and high hopes of the greatest season of any Topper team, went down to defeat last Saturday at the hands of Tennessee Tech, 21-13, down in Cookeville, Tennessee, virtually deciding the Ohio Valley Conference title in football.

Western still has hopes of a great year, however, with four games remaining on their schedule including two in the conference with Eastern and Murray. Mathematically the Big Red can still at least tie for the championship, but it is all up to Middle Tennessee State. The 7 play Tech on November 27, the last game of the season, and if they should win, the title would develop into a tie providing that Western remains undefeated in the conference.

Western knocked off Middle Tennessee in the first game of the season 33-19, and so there appears little chance of a tie for first place. The first quarter of the game last Saturday found the two teams pretty well even. The ball stayed between the two 30 yard lines for the whole period.

Then with a little over a minute gone in the second frame the first break of the game came to the Golden Eagles. With Western trying to develop a few drives into a march the blow came when Charles Parris, a sophomore, intercepted a pass thrown by Jimmy Feix and carried it to Western's 21 yard line. After being held to a loss on the first down, Paul Satterfield, another sophomore, carried the ball over from the 3 yard line and the Eagles were out in front 7-0.

The Hilltoppers held onto the ball for the next seven minutes and finally had to punt from the opponents 40 yard line. A few minutes later the Golden Eagles were on the Western six yard line on first down. It took them three plays, but it was finally pushed across and the Toppers were behind 14-0.

A few minutes later Western saved a third touchdown by intercepting a pass in the end zone. That put the ball on the 20 yard line and from there the Big Red moved 80 yards to their first TD. Max Stevens was the man to carry it over from the six yard line. The score was 14-7 and the Toppers were back in the ballgame.

Western was marching again with four minutes gone in the fourth quarter when an intercepted pass set up the last Tech touchdown. The Hilltopper defense held them for three downs within the five yard line, but on the fourth down the Eagles gambled and a pass was completed into the end zone from the one yard line for the score.

It was still a fighting team that received the kickoff with a little over five minutes to play, and the game virtually wrapped up. It took the visitors nearly all of the time left to score, but they finally did from the two yard line as John Sowers powered his way into pay dirt with six seconds remaining in the game.

Intramural Football To Be Scheduled

Frank Wallace wishes to make it known once again that he is taking charge of an intramural football program this fall, and wants all men who are interested in playing some intramural football to contact him immediately so that he can draw up a tournament schedule.

Diddle dora has been talking some of entering a team this year, and it would be interesting, to say the least, to find out just how good the basketball players are in football. We know they are good in basketball, but it would be too bad if they were to run off with a football championship, too.

Somebody should be able to get an outfit together that can whip the roundballers. Potter Hall should be able to find some former high school stars that would like another chance to play. Maybe a couple or three teams can be gathered together to enter the tourney.

Whether it be from Potter Hall or an independent team, everyone should be interested in the program and take part in it. See Frank Wallace, and get a team together to play some football for yourselves this fall.

New Sports Group Elects President

Fatty Thompson has been elected president of a new sports group at College High. The organization is known as the Girls Athletic League.

Other officers are Mary Dixon, vice-president; Terry Ann Mayes, secretary; and Evelyn Hosterman, treasurer.

One of the purposes of the club is to assist in the cheer section for College High sports. The league will award letters to its most active members.

Former Student Is Air Force Base Cheerleader

Myra Mitchell Androski, who was a cheerleader at Western last year, is now one of the cheerleaders for the football team of Sheppard Air Force Base. She has also been elected Sheppard Belle.

Myra's husband, A-2C James Androski, is an instructor in Hydroaules Branch at Sheppard.

Cheerleaders Elected
Martha Sue Fuqua and Patricia Graham were re-elected cheerleaders at College High last week.

Serving with them will be new comers Mary Dixon and John Earl Schneider.

'Tops In Sports

By TOD OLIVER

There was only one thing that kept the Western followers to Cookeville, Tenn., from having a perfect trip. That, of course, was the fact that the Hilltoppers lost the game.

Last Saturday afternoon two buses and several cars, carrying over 25 people, left Bowling Green to meet again at the home of Tenn. Tech. where they immediately proceeded to take the town. Actually, it was a gentlemanly crowd that wandered eventually to the football field along about 7:30 for the game.

When you think of some of the things that might happen in a situation like that, and some of the things that do happen at some other schools, it is evident that Western can be proud of the students who represented us at the ball game.

At 7:30, with the game not starting until 8:00, the Hilltopper contingent started cheering and the yelling didn't really stop until about 10:30 when the ball game was over. It may have died down some late in the fourth quarter, but that was because of a lot of lost voices.

It was reminiscent of the same game two years ago when some 40 or 50 people traveled to Cookeville, and out-yelled the whole Tech crowd. That game was the first one that found Western students lining up before the game so the team could run through on to the field. The present day Western was more or less started in that game, and for the rest of that season the spirit was high, but the Topper crowds have lost some of their kick since then.

Another dampener to the recent Cookeville trip was the closing of the door, to Western students, of the Beacon Restaurant after the ball game. A hungry bunch of students closed in on the restaurant shortly after the game was over, but the manager had been forewarned and had closed the door before anyone got there. Although he was talked to, argued with, and virtually pleaded with, he just wouldn't open the door. Everyone was fed eventually however; so no one starved.

If you have ever noticed the style of Jimmy Feix's pass, or watched the Washington Redskins' great passer, Sammy Baugh, you can't help comparing them. One of the reasons could very well be that Jimmy has always idealized Baugh, and has tried in every way possible to follow in his footsteps.

Lots of cruel things have been said about football. The sport that causes millions of Americans to fill hundreds of stadiums, in every section of the country, each Saturday afternoon, from the last week in September to the last week in November—has certainly taken a beating.

Somebody better come up with the right answer to all problems before long, or the sport will be butchered with restrictions. One suggestion has been made by Bob Zupke, former coach at the University of Illinois. Mr. Zupke thinks that perhaps if only seniors were allowed to play varsity football, the chances are that a potential player will think twice before going to a college just to play football. It is a little harsh, but it's something to think about.

Western's defense had troubles last Saturday night, but a sidelight might be brought forth on the second and third touchdowns scored against them.

Both times the Eagles had the ball just inside the ten yard line on first down. And both times an offside penalty against the Toppers put the ball just inside the five yard line. Their third TD came on a pass play which could have been thrown from the five as well as the one yard line, but the other came on a plunge that just barely inched over the goal line. Had it not been for that penalty the defense might have been able to hold, and it would have been a different ball game all the way around. There's that word IF again.

Although the team bus got back to Bowling Green about 3:30 on Sunday morning, some of the players were still in Marvin Satterly's room at 4:15, quietly discussing the game and as players will do, were trying to figure out the reasons for the downfall. They were certain of one thing, and that was the fact that Western had been well scouted by the Eagles. Jimmy Feix felt that maybe too many plays had been run through the center of the line against Northeastern Louisiana the week before, because Tech sure had those holes plugged up last Saturday.

The Eastern Maroons come to town next Saturday to help us celebrate our Homecoming. The game, however, will wind up the week-end celebration, except for the annual dinner, at the Helm Hotel for the "W" men of past years and the Shadow Hop in the gym at 9 p.m.

The celebration will start on Friday night with a snake dance starting at the stadium and winding up out on the lower practice field which is always a high affair.

Where the snake dance may go is anyone's guess, and how long things will last is the same way, but no one wants to miss any event that has to do with Homecoming.

Anybody can be a good winner, but it takes a great man to be a good loser.

SUDS SAYS:

Homecoming at Western Brings many a thrill,
With good friends together,
Good times on The Hill.

Organizes Girls Athletic League

The Physical Education department of College High is organizing a Girls' Athletic league.

The aim of this association shall be to promote interest among girls in athletic activities, health, and sportsmanship.

Any high school girl who maintains a "C" standing in her grades is eligible to participate in this program. Awards are given through a point system.

The officers are Pattye Thompson, president; Mary Dixon, vice-president; Terry Mayes, secretary, and Evelyn Hosterman, treasurer.

The Physical Education department of College High will put on a program for the P.T.A., November 3. Approximately 75 students will participate in the program.

third extra point closed the half with Western leading 21-14.

The third period saw the Toppers clinch the game with two touchdowns before Louisiana could score. Max Stevens added the first through the center of the line from one yard out, and Ray Nutier skirted the end for the second. Sanders followed each with successful conversions, and the game was beyond recall for the hard-fighting Louisiana crew.

A.A.S. To Attend

Several members of the Arnold Air Society Squadron will attend the Societies' National Conclave which will be held in Los Angeles, Calif., November 28 and 29. The men selected to fly to the conclave are Dicky Galloway, Squadron Commander from Elizabethtown, Ky.; Robert Archibald of Heidelberg, Germany; Rice Gregory of Owensboro, Ky.; Rodney Givens of Boston, Ky.; Joe Teberek of Chicago, Ill.; and Bill Crenshaw, Owensboro.

Frank Wallace To Head P. E. Club

Frank Wallace was elected president of the Physical Education club, at the club's first meeting of the year, October 16. He will preside for the school year of 1952-53.

Other newly elected officials are: Sonny Yates, vice-president; Joan Fisher, secretary; Clara Lilly, treasurer; and Willard Price, sergeant-at-arms. Ted Hornback, department head, was chosen as the club's faculty sponsor.

The club is organized in the interest of P. E. majors or minors.

At present, the club is sponsoring the election of this year's Homecoming Queen, and will be in charge of the coronation service next Saturday afternoon, between halves of the Topper-Eastern game.

On hearing the news of the declaration of World War I in 1917, all Western students gathered in chapel where that day several hundred students volunteered for military service.

salads and sandwiches here are awfully mixed up," she remarked. "In England we never have a bacon, tomato, and lettuce sandwich; we just have a bacon sandwich or a sandwich with just tomatoes on it. What does she think of hamburgers "through the garden"? Well, I wondered too; so I asked her. She had never eaten even a plain hamburger until she came over here, but she likes them. She's about as fond of hamburgers now as she is of corn on the cob, another first on her list. They don't have corn in England. She says it's almost an obsession with her.

In her teaching, she finds many things different from what they are in England. One thing, the children here are more ready to express their ideas and more friendly and helpful. These children would appreciate the shorter class periods they have in England and especially the variety, since the same class periods are not followed every day in England. However, there the student takes the same subjects until he is sixteen, and no one ever graduates until he has gone three or four years to a university and has taken an examination. Anyone who does not go this far has not graduated; he has quit school.

Well, it's 9 p.m. and the sun's setting in England; so I'll go home, leaving you with this glimpse into the life of one of the most interesting and fascinating people I have ever met. I hope that this glimpse into her life has aroused your curiosity enough that you will want to know her and find out for yourself what an intriguing person she is.

at 7:00 p.m. in the Helm Hotel. Final detailed plans were to have been made last night at a special meeting, according to Monie Beard, vice-president.

Officers of the "W" club and members of the Athletic Committee have been in charge of many of the plans for the weekend. Willard Price, Todd Oliver, Bubber Simpson, Duane Harper, and Bill Ploumis are "W" club officers. Members of the Athletic Committee are L. T. Smith, chairman; Kelly Thompson, Arch Bennett, Miss Florence Schneider, E. H. Canon, Dr. C. H. Jagers, and Dr. J. L. Stephens.

The final event of the gala weekend is to be the Homecoming Show Hop which will begin at 9:00 p.m. in the Western gymnasium. Music will again be furnished by the Red and Gray.

Hans Christian Andersen, author of children's fairy tales, is said to have disliked children.

Combs Heads Association

Steve Combs, of Franklin, was in charge of the Music Educators meeting that took place Oct. 27 in conjunction with the third District Educators meeting.

A luncheon and brief business session was held at the Archway Inn with 22 members present. The group reconvened at the Music Building at 2:15 for a business meeting and general discussion on music problems.

During the meeting it was decided to form an association of all music directors in South Central Kentucky, to be known as the South Central Kentucky Music Educators Association.

Officers elected were Steve Combs, president; Conley Taylor, Central City, instrumental vice-president; Elmo Barry, Greenville, vocal vice-president; Mrs. Lucile Brown, Lewisburg, secretary-treasurer. The Association decided to have a monthly dinner meeting the first Sunday in every month.

The rest of the meeting was devoted to a general discussion on elementary music, folk dancing, and marching bands.

Mary Byars Nominated For Liberty Queen

Mary Frances Byars, College High senior, has been nominated for Liberty Queen by the senior class.

Miss Byars will write a 25 word speech on why we should vote. The speech will be read over the radio to determine the winner of the Liberty Queen contest.

Political Election Held At College High

A political election was held at College High this week, everyone was required to register on Tuesday in order to vote.

A political rally was conducted Wednesday in the Little Theatre with speakers from Mr. Tommy White's speech class. Julius Rather and Bill Short represented the Republican party, and speaking for the Democratic party were Charles English and Jerry Hornback. The candidates were elected by popular vote rather than electoral vote.

Voting was conducted in booths at the high school. The seventh grade, after being in charge of the voting, is endorsing voting machines and campaigning for them in Warren County.

Mr. Garrett's social science classes were in charge of the registration. The seventh grade core curriculum class made posters for the campaign.

Request Made By "W" Club

The "W" club requests that all students on the Hill who have won letters at their various high schools would please refrain from wearing the letters here on the campus.

Eastern Maroons to Tenn. Tech, 29-14. A 20-20 tie with Morehead gave them a 3-1-1 record for their first five games.

In the Hilltoppers first four games this season, they won over Middle Tenn., Evansville, and Morehead, but dropped from the ranks of the undefeated when Tenn. Tech handed them a 21-13 setback. In so doing the Tech Eagles cinched at least a tie for the conference title. Should Western beat Eastern, and Murray, and Tech lose to their arch-rivals, Middle Tenn., the Toppers and Eagles would share the crown.

By comparative scores, Western can be picked to win handily over Eastern, but as the past has shown, that type of prediction proves erroneous only too frequently. Last season, for example, the Hilltoppers overpowered Evansville, 41-7. Evansville topped Eastern 7-6. On paper this made Western an overwhelming choice to stop the boys from Richmond, but the Toppers suffered their worst defeat of the season, 31-7, when they met the Maroons.

So the game next Saturday afternoon should certainly produce plenty of action and thrills, if it follows to any degree at all, the pace set in past Eastern-Western Homecoming tilts.

NOSE, THROAT,

and Accessory Organs not Adversely Affected by Smoking Chesterfields

FIRST SUCH REPORT EVER PUBLISHED ABOUT ANY CIGARETTE

A responsible consulting organization has reported the results of a continuing study by a competent medical specialist and his staff on the effects of smoking Chesterfield cigarettes.

A group of people from various walks of life was organized to smoke only Chesterfields. For six months this group of men and women smoked their normal amount of Chesterfields—10 to 40 a day. 45% of the group have smoked Chesterfields continually from one to thirty years for an average of 10 years each.

At the beginning and at the end of the six-months period each smoker was given a thorough examination, including X-ray pictures, by the medical specialist and his assistants. The examination covered the sinuses as well as the nose, ears and throat.

The medical specialist, after a thorough examination of every member of the group, stated: "It is my opinion that the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs of all participating subjects examined by me were not adversely affected in the six-months period by smoking the cigarettes provided."
