LIBRARY CELEBRATES 50 YEARS

WELCOME TO THE HAM-TMC LIBRARY

Welcome to the Houston Academy of Medicine–Texas Medical Center (HAM–TMC) Library. We are a digital-age library about to enter a new millennium, the Year 2000 and beyond. We offer a full complement of services and resources to help you find and manage medical information: the Knowledge Network databases; our Health Informatics Education Center; up-to-date book and journal collections (many of our journals are available in electronic format); and the Jesse H. Jones Community Health Information Service. On page 3 of this newsletter, you will find much useful information about the Library. Each year we publish this orientation issue to welcome new arrivals to all Texas Medical Center institutions.

The HAM–TMC Library was founded in 1949, when the Houston Academy of Medicine and Baylor College of Medicine combined their collections to better serve Harris County physicians and Baylor’s teaching and research programs. In 1954, the Library was moved from Baylor’s Roy and Lillie Cullen Building to its own facility, the new Jesse H. Jones Library Building. In 1970, the University of Texas Medical School was established in Houston, and a unique joint governance structure was created, making the Library the primary information resource for both medical schools and the other institutions of the Texas Medical Center. The Library also serves as the Regional Medical Library for the National Network of Libraries of Medicine, South Central Region (NN/LM SCR). The NN/LM SCR is responsible for providing health science practitioners, administrators, educators, Network members, and consumers with convenient access to biomedical and health care information resources in the five-state region of Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Texas.

GRANTS & CONTRACTS

The following grants and contracts have been awarded to the HAM-TMC Library:

- Houston Endowment for the Jesse H. Jones Community Health Information Service — $50,000
- Friends of the TMC Library for the Jesse H. Jones Community Health Information Service — $100,000
- Rockwell Fund for TEXAS HealthInfo — $20,000
- National Network of Libraries of Medicine, South Central Region (NN/LM SCR) Information Access for Public Health Professionals — $48,814
- NNLM SCR for the Resource Library subcontract — $10,000

BLACKWELL ANNIVERSARY

Elizabeth Blackwell received a diploma from Geneva Medical College 150 years ago, the first woman in America to receive a medical degree. To celebrate this occasion, the NLM prepared an exhibit highlighting Blackwell's education and career. This exhibit, That Girl There is a Doctor in Medicine, was first shown at this year's Medical Library Association (MLA) meeting and then at the HAM-TMC Library to help celebrate the Library's 50th anniversary.

Although NLM's exhibit was returned early in July, library cardholders can read more about the early struggles of women to gain acceptance in medical schools from several books in the collection.

NLM AWARDS PUBLIC HEALTH GRANT TO LIBRARY

The Library has been awarded $48,814 by the NN/LM SCR to participate in a pilot project, Information Access for Public Health Professionals. This is a collaborative endeavor among the Houston Dept. of Health and Human Services, the Houston Public Library, and the Harris County Public Library. The goal of this two-year project is to improve health information service through outreach to public health workers and consumers by achieving the following objectives:

- to develop an aggressive outreach/public relations campaign
- to provide a public health information training program for public health workers
- to design and launch a public health Web page
- to evaluate the pilot project as it progresses

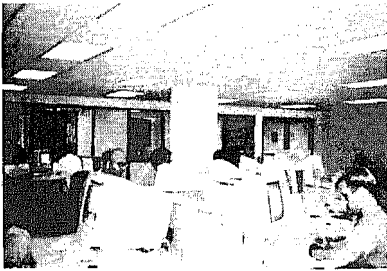

LIBRARY HOSTS SPECIAL CLASSES

HAM-TMC librarians recently taught two classes for visiting physicians from Spain who were taking special course work at Baylor College of Medicine. The Library focused on PubMed, library services and finding information related to their specialty field, oncology. There were a total of 48 participants.

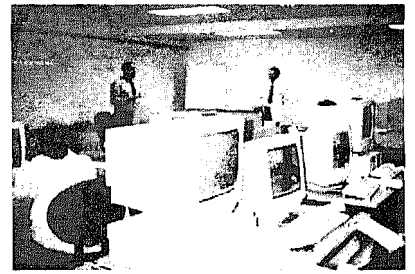

In July, the Library hosted over 300 high school students from the National Youth Leadership Forum on Medicine. The students used the Library's resources to research specific topics in health care. Each summer, the Forum brings together outstanding students from the U.S. and over 40 foreign countries to help motivate them to enter medical professions.
