

Indiana CTSI Research Recruitment Office

Brenda Hudson, MA, CCRP

Indiana School of Medicine – Indiana CTSI

Indiana University – Purdue University Indianapolis

Abstract

The Indiana CTSI Research Recruitment Office was designed to engage and empower the public in health research. We also work to inform Health Care Providers about research opportunities for their patients, develop collaborative relationships with industry and organizational partners and provide support through infrastructure, services, and opportunities to the research community at the various institutions associated with the Indiana CTSI. By working from within the Indiana CTSI, we can help link people with the best resources for research recruitment. Whether you are an Indiana resident looking to participate in a study, a Health Care Provider trying to identify a research study for a patient, a researcher trying to find participants, or an industry partner trying to build collaborations, we can help!