NURSES' ALUMNAE ASSOCIATION BULLETIN

MAY 1963

*We want to walk along together
We want to share the bond
Of Membership.*

We're always tempted to talk about our association in glowing terms and yet, we feel that for the following particular reason, you will be much interested to hear of one of our important pursuits.

It gives me great pleasure to announce to you, that, because of the tremendous enthusiasm for participation in the hospital building fund program, we have undertaken a pledge of $25,000.00 payable over the next five years. The program for hospital expansion, while ambitious, will offer so much more of needed facilities and improvements. An alumnae room, with much needed accommodations will, at long last, become a reality under this program.

The wholehearted participation of all nurse "grads" is, therefore, solicited in helping us to achieve this goal. We know you will want to do your share.

I hope we'll be walking Along together.

BUILDING FUND

May 13, 1963

We are very proud and pleased that the Jefferson Hospital Nurses Alumnae Association has evidenced great interest in the $41 million Building Fund Program that is now underway here. This is the most significant and important expansion program in the 138 year history of this fine old institution.

The Chairman of the Nurses Alumnae Association Campaign Committee is Mrs. Henrietta F. Spruance.

When the membership of your association accepted the plan to contribute $25,000 to the Jefferson Building Fund over a five year period, it demonstrated clearly and strongly the support of the Nursing Alumnae in this vital campaign. This was a heart-warming and extremely beneficial action on the part of your officers and membership.

The deep appreciation of Jefferson's Administration for this generous subscription was expressed in a letter to your President, Mrs. Perma E. Davis from William W. Bodine, Jr., President of the Jefferson Medical College and Medical Center which said in part:

"We are delighted with this strong indication of support on the part of our Nursing Alumnae. This not only materially assists our campaign, but encourages us all and gives us a distinct sense of pride in the accomplishments of another member organization of the Jefferson family.

"Will you please express my personal appreciation, and that of our Board, to your officers and membership for this fine demonstration of your interest in Jefferson."

Of particular interest to the Alumnae are Jefferson's plans for construction of new administrative offices for the School of Nursing and an adjoining office and meeting room to be designed for the exclusive use of the Alumnae Association.

Consideration is now being directed to applying the Alumnae Association's subscription to the cost of constructing these facilities.

In the $41 million Development Program at Jefferson, the sum of $7 million must be obtained from private sources in the Philadelphia area and throughout the nation. The remaining $34 million is to come from Federal, State and city agencies. Naturally, the campaign started at Jefferson itself—among employees, faculty-staff, members of the Women's Board and Nursing Alumnae. In November, 1962, the opening phase of the Jefferson campaign was completed with triumphant success. The non-medical employees of the College and the hospital subscribed more than $103,000 which is one of the finest records made by a similar group of personnel anywhere in the country.

By May 10 a total of more than $3 million in all divisions of the campaign had been reported by Casimir A. Sienkiewicz, General Chairman of the campaign. An able and energetic leader throughout the Winter and Spring months of the drive, Mr. Sienkiewicz is Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Central Penn National Bank. Mr. Sienkiewicz happily reported the following totals on that date:

The Women's Board.....	$265,631 (118.1% of its $225,000 goal)
Faculty-Staff Div.	431,785
Corporate Division.....	282,500 (four gifts only)
Foundations Div.	1,189,186

The Jefferson Board of Trustees and the firms and foundations with which these devoted men are associated have thus far pledged $1,750,000. These subscriptions are reflected in the appropriate Divisions.

This is truly a wonderful beginning for the Jefferson Building Fund, and we are delighted that your Association is playing an important role in this program.

Attention Miss Christina Rogers

Dear Miss Rodgers:

Last September 30th Eva Woolsey Warren, Class of 1934, gave the graduation address to our fourth class at the Woman's College.

Mrs. Warren is a graduate of the Woman's College and from the Jefferson Medical College Hospital School of Nursing. She holds Masters degrees from Duke and the University of North Carolina. She was educational director in the first nationally accredited program in North Carolina. She has served her profession as Treasurer of the State Nurses Association. She is Dean of the School of Nursing at East Carolina College.

Sincerely,

Alice C. Boehret, '42

MEDIOCRITY - not for Nurses

Miss Boehret, graduating students, faculty, guests, I want to express my thanks for this opportunity to participate in your graduation program. I appreciate the honor and privilege of being asked to return to my Alma Mater to speak.

I have selected the title "Mediocrity—not for Nurses." What do we mean by the word mediocrity? Webster has defined it as: halfway up a mountain, of but moderate or low degree of excellence; a middle quality; indifferent; ordinary; average capacity or worth; lack of distinction; dull; unimpressive. Another definition and one that I rather like is: the best of the worst and the worst of the best.

We have entered the new nuclear and space age. As we enter this nuclear and space age, we have to exercise our imaginations to an unprecedented degree. It has been predicted that there will be far greater changes in the next fifty years than in any other similar period in our history. We realize that the world today is already in the grip of a social and economic upheaval. In many aspects of living the "tried and true methods and ideas have already given way to new methods and ideas." The changes are coming so rapidly that we feel in a constant state of confusion and anxiety. What will happen even in the near future, we do not know. What effect will the communication satellites have? What effect will space travel have? At the ANA Convention in Detroit, one of the speakers predicted that within the next seven years man may travel to the moon for a week-end much as someone might now go to California for a week-end. What effect will a United States of Europe have on the world and its people? What effect will the newer advances in electronics have on man? What new and wonderful things may be found in outer space? Not long ago I listened to a man who has helped to teach the astronauts say that he was not so much interested in whether man was able to go to the moon or not, but he was interested in whether there would be a breakthrough, maybe through the study of outer space, in either preventing or curing man of some of the illnesses to which he falls heir.

Electronics and air science are just beginning to have their effect on nursing. What will be the changes in nursing in the future? Who can say. We do know, however, that changes in any aspect of our culture will have a concomitant effect on nursing. We have been told that if we do not accept the challenge that other groups will take over for us.

Leadership is needed today in all phases of life including nursing. Leadership is not a characteristic of the mediocre nurse. We must have responsible and creative leaders. Nurses who are content to look to the past for precedent remind us of the poem:

"The firefly is so brilliant,
But it hasn't any mind.
For it travels through existence,
With its headlight on behind."

We cannot be content to follow or even just keep up. Ideas and practices that were valid for a former age are no longer valid in this new age. Nurses must possess the courage of their convictions and step out ahead in leadership positions and help to shape the destiny for nurses and nursing. Some members of our profession are becoming well known as leaders both within and outside of the profession. These are not mediocre nurses. If you were asked to name some of the nurse leaders of our time, our lists might not be identical, but I am sure there would be some overlapping. Let us name a few and see if we are in agreement. Margaret B. Dolan: The elected leader of nurses. A person who has never been afraid or intimidated. A nurse who is able to analyze situations from a broad background of understanding and experience. The only female appointed by the President of the United States to his new Health Resources Advisory Committee. A native North Carolinian in whom we are justly proud.

On my list is one that you might not select. Helen Nahm—a wise teacher, counselor and leader. More often found in the background pushing others into leadership positions.

Martha E. Rogers—a very vocal person. Some may say that she tends to be radical—maybe so—I am not too sure, but this I do know—she stimulates thinking.

Dorothy Smith and Frances Reiter—nurses who were not afraid to put their ideas of a whole new concept of nursing education into practice.

Thelma Ingles—a brilliant nurse with ideas to spare, and, of course, Mildred L. Montag must be added to the list for it was through her leadership that we have the Associate Degree Programs and the founding of nursing education within the framework of higher education.

Lucile Petry Leone is another who should be mentioned. There are others of course, each making their own contribution in their own way. We may not agree with all they say or advocate. It is up to each of us as individuals to think through the problems in nursing and to make our own unique contributions.

We all need to be leaders. Nurses for too long have been willing to stand aside and let others make their decisions for them. We are at a critical point in nursing. The individual nurse can do little by herself. It is only by combining forces with other nurses that we become strong and our voice can be heard. Our professional organizations provide us with the opportunity to share ideas, make decisions, and implement these ideas and decisions.

What are some of the immediate problems to which we must find answers? First, we must define nursing. The shortage of physicians has made it necessary for nurses to take over more and more activities once considered medical practice. Nurses must have the necessary preparation as well as legal protection when they assume these added functions. Which of the present functions will the nurse relinquish and to whom? The nurse cannot continue to add and add and not surrender some of the activities now considered the functions of the professional nurse. What will the relationship be with the person to whom she gives up those things now considered the work of the professional nurse? When nursing is defined, we will know where we fit into the pattern of health care and we will find satisfaction in work for which we are prepared.

We hear a great deal today about newer types of organization for health care and new designs for health facilities. Can you picture a hospital with moveable pannels for inner walls or one with corridors arranged like the spokes of a wheel? We already have changes taking place in the grouping of patients within hospitals and other health care facilities. Ward managers are being introduced with much success in some hospitals. Anything that influences the design or organization within health care facilities will also affect nurses and nursing. Many of the new designs are not functional. We need to have our own inventive ideas presented when either are being planned.

It has been said that through an intelligent application of sound health knowledge now available, man should have an average life expectancy of from 90 to 100 years or more and that the added years can be productive, happy years—relatively free from disease or infirmities. There is more health knowledge available than ever before, but much of it is not reaching those who need it. Nurses must be teachers of health and help man utilize to the fullest the present health knowledge as well as knowledge as it becomes available. One sociologist has likened the use of the nurses potentials in health and patient care to the elephant with all that mighty strength and brawn pushing a baby carriage. The general population is very receptive to health information and is much more knowledgeable than we sometimes believe. They have a right to expect that health information will be shared with them. Physicians as well as nurses have remained too long in seclusion in their ivory towers encapsulated in hospitals and other health agencies.

When we have a definition for nursing we will be able to identify what a nurse should do and what she should be. Greater uniformity in the educational preparation for nursing will be the result. There will be more emphasis on learning the principles behind the facts because learning is not just for today. It is also for tomorrow. There are too many levels of preparation and too much diversity within each level. Much of the insecurity among nurses is because they do not know what they are. Other problems which must be delt with in the near future are: a supply of qualified teachers in sufficient numbers and with the educational qualifications necessary for effective teaching. General education is learning to extend the influence of its qualified teachers through television, teaching machines, and other measures. Nursing education has made a very small beginning in use of these techniques.

Another problem, recruitment and graduation of qualified students in sufficient quantities to meet the health needs of the people, and another very closely allied to this is economic security for the practitioner of nursing. Let's have more men in nursing. Nursing practice needs the stability that men will give. The young women graduates, marry and raise a family, and quite often stay out of nursing for several years. We would not have it otherwise, but someone is needed to fill the gap while they are away from nursing. And, may I say—and not facetiously, judging from what has happened to teaching, through the addition of men to a predominantly woman's profession, the standards for employment will be improved.

Many of the problems in nursing can be resolved through research. Research can be a challenging adventure. This is an endeavor for nurses with ideas. Someone has well said that only about 5% of the people really think, another 5% think that they think, and the remaining 90% would rather die than think. Nurses and especially those engaged in research must be in the first 5%. They must be able to draw conclusions and make sound judgments based on facts and observations.

A rearrangement of old ideas is not a result of true research. We need brainstormers. Somewhere I read a statement which goes much like this—knowledge without research is like drinking from a stagnant pool, while knowledge derived from research is like drinking from a sparkling running stream. We must not condemn new ideas just because they are new. Through vision and conviction, they may be translated into future truths.

Graduation is the point which you are expected to know the minimal amount that makes you a safe practitioner of nursing. In this ever changing society of ours education must be a continuous process. It is left more or less up to the individual to be self-directing in seeking further education both of the formal and informal type. It is up to you to accept the responsibility to make the most of all opportunities and to strive to become better educated persons.

Nurses must become leaders in community life as well as in professional life, and at the same time find personal satisfactions through enjoyment of work, worthwhile contributions to community life and fulfillment as an individual.

Jo Eleanor Elliott, Nurse Consultant of the Western Interstate Commission of Higher Education and Chairman of the EACT Section of the ANA has said, "IN the future, we have many challenges, many rewards, and many responsibilities . . . Among these responsibilities are: a responsibility for excellence; a responsibility for knowledge—in our work, in our profession, and in our community; a responsibility for courage; and a responsibility for personal and professional growth."

Mediocrity? Not for nurses.

Today is graduation; this is commencement.

Good luck to you all, and thank you.

HOSPITAL REPORT

This past year has, like previous ones, marked another period of advancement for Jefferson both in the Hospital, and in our School of Nursing.

Were you to tour the hospital now, you would find many patient units relocated from the areas with which most of you were familiar. For example, Ward Maternity has been moved from the third floor to the sixth in the Thompson Annex Building, and Women's and Men's Medical Wards from the second floor to the third, and finally to the sixth floor of the Main Building. Men's and Women's Special Wards, divided into Orthopedic, Neurosurgical and Neurology units, moved from the third floor of the main Building to areas on the fourth floor of the Main Building and the Thompson Building. The Gynecological Ward is now located on the sixth floor of the Main Building.

All of these changes were required for the construction of a Rehabilitation Unit which will be opened in late summer of this year. The former Maternity Ward will have thirty-two beds for in-patient care, and the entire third floor of the Main Building will house a new and most modern physical medicine unit for out-patient and in-patient care.

The moving of the ward units resulted in a reduction of ward and private beds. In order to reduce the patient waiting list, we have utilized four of the treatment rooms in the Foerderer Pavilion for a short term, uncomplicated surgical patients. Other measures are being considered in our present facilities, and of course in the wonderful development plans for the future Jefferson.

Plans are also being made for the opening of a clinical research area of ten beds on the fifth floor of the Main Building. The House Staff, the residents and internes, who occupy the east end of this floor will be moved to a new area in the present Physical Medicine Department located on the ground floor of the Curtis Clinic Building.

A few weeks ago, the new Ethel P. Goff Social Service offices were opened on the fifteenth floor of the Thompson Building. These beautifully appointed rooms occupy one former east sun deck, lounge and corridor on this floor. The Social Service Department retains some offices in the Curtis Building which will be redecorated in the near future.

A new office for the Volunteer Services was constructed in the former doctors' locker room on the first floor of the Main Building.

In Nursing Service, a new position was created and filled in July, 1962. This position of a Home Care Coordinator provides for referral of patients to community agencies such as the Community Nursing Service, so that a patient's care may be continued after discharge from the hospital. This service has been highly successful and we hope will be expanded in the near future.

These changes and improvements only highlight the many activities which have taken place for the improvement of patient care at Jefferson during the past year. We have had problems, and non doubt shall continue to experience difficulties not only in the expansion of our facilities, but also in the day to day routine responsibilities.

In spite of the additional staff secured through our fine Visitors Exchange Program, we still are faced with a nurse shortage, particularly in the late winter, spring and summer months. We are planning to offer another refresher program, and hope that all of you who have "retired" will consider taking the course and returning to Jefferson to ease some of the staffing problems.

Our School of Nursing has moved forward again during the past year. The decision of the National League for Nursing to continue the accreditation status of the School for a six year period marked the great strides which have been made in the program. Commendation for the program centered around the increased number of clinical classrooms, the gracious living facilities provided in the Residence, continued educational preparation of the faculty and the addition of more faculty positions, improvement and variations in teaching methods, the many new visual aids for teaching and greatly improved library collection.

Generous gifts from members of our Women's Board made possible the purchase of the highly desirable new visual aids and the many additional reference books for the Library.

The School is participating in the cost analysis of nursing education, a study being conducted by the National League for Nursing. This is a complete analysis of all costs incurred by and for the student program and includes such items as cost of room and board, heat, power and electricity, and salaries of faculty and residence staff. There is an increasing awareness that students in hospital schools are paying only a fraction of the costs through tuition and services. A trend toward more realistic charges to the students is being seen throughout the country.

The students have enjoyed a busy year. The Basketball Team won five out of seven games played in the League, and one player won a trophy for the second highest score made in the season.

The Student Chorus participated in many community programs and is quite famous locally for its talents.

We are proud to report that one student, Jean Little, was elected President of Area #1, Student Nurse Association of Pennsylvania.

Other student activities this year include a "Miss Jefferson" contest, a Minstrel Show, a dinner dance, a Student-Faculty Basketball game, a Student-Faculty Christmas Party, and a Spaghetti Dinner sponsored by the Senior Class.

This report covers only a portion of the activities of the Hospital and the School of Nursing. You can readily understand that it has been a busy year as well as a fruitful one.

We hope that you will all want to visit us to see some of the changes. Please write or call us at least a day in advance of your proposed visit so that someone may be assigned to give you a satisfactory tour.

We hope that we will see many of you during the coming year, and hope that this year will prove to be happy and successful for each of you.

SOCIAL COMMITTEE

The Social Committee attempted to plan functions throughout the past year so that everyone could meet and see each other.

The dinner for the Graduating Class of 1962 was held on Tuesday, April 24, 1962 at the John Bartram Hotel. There was 100% in attendance.

The Alumnae Luncheon which is annually planned for the first Saturday in May, was held May 5, 1962 at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel. There was an attendance of 408.

A very joyous Christmas Party and Buffet Supper was held on Tuesday, December 5, 1962 at the Nurses Residence. Everyone present received a gift from Santa Claus. Miss Mary Ann Stauffer was our jolly Santa Claus.

A Buffet Supper and Auction Sale was held at the Nurses Residence on Tuesday, March 5, 1963. This was well attended and very profitable.

Thanks to all who helped make these affairs a success.

E. Nancy Scott,
Chairman

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

The students at Jefferson are as enthusiastic and hard working as ever. We are coming closer to the realization of a more united student body through the various organizations and activities.

The class of 1965 after entering were oriented to the various activities such as SNAP and the Newspaper in which they have since taken a very active part.

A Big-Sister Little-Sister party was sponsored by the second year class in honor of the freshmen. Students from all classes attended and much fun was had by all.

In December, students at Jefferson showed the true Christmas spirit. Carols were sung, trees were decorated, and a basket overflowing with the spirit of giving was presented by the students to a needy family.

The faculty sponsored a Christmas party for the students which was enjoyed by all.

As is traditional, the Student Chorus inspired Christmas spirit by the singing of carols—this year in the courtyard at the tree lighting ceremony. The chorus continues to participate in community activities.

Early in the year we were very proud to learn that Miss Little was elected President of Area #1 of SNAP. Also, Miss Lonholm was chosen state chairman of the Tiawand Project—an enterprise of SNAP.

SNAP held their first meeting of the year here at Jefferson. Refreshments were served in the recreation room following the meeting.

We are sending two representatives from each class to the National SNAP Convention to be held in Atlantic City, May 10-13. It is hoped the students will gain renewed interest in the organization.

The Newspaper Club again presented the second annual Miss Jefferson contest. The success of the previous contest was such that it was held in McClellan Hall this year to accommodate all those attending. The winner was Miss Haines from the senior class.

The Student Council sponsored Minstrel Show has become another annual event. The Showboat will be presented April 25th and 26th in McClellan Hall under the co-chairmanship of Miss Lingsch and Miss High. This is but another means through which the student body develops its closeness.

The senior class presented a delicious spaghetti dinner in March. It was well attended by students, faculty, and the medical and administrative staff.

We are very grateful to the Nurses' Residence Department of the Women's Board for the many gifts given us throughout the year. They have provided magazine subscriptions, theatre guild tickets and tickets to the Academy of Music. Also, the gifts of albums at Christmas and Easter delighted us and will be enjoyed by future students.

The basketball team played well this season. Miss Reed was presented an award for the second highest score of all the members of the Student Nurse Basketball League. The games were a source of unification for the student body. The cheering students were excellent moral boosters for the team members. Players and cheerleaders proudly wore their new black and blue uniforms provided for them by the Nurses' Residence Department of the Women's Board.

The Social Committee is planning a dinner dance for May 25th to be held at Kuglers. The students are anticipating a very enjoyable evening.

The present officers serving Student Council are:

President	Miss Scriber
Vice President	Miss Shoemaker
Secretary	Miss Zimmerman
Treasurer	Miss Keim
House President	Miss Maguire
Student Nurses Association of Penna. — Chairman	Miss Stabile
Social Chairman	Miss Williams

We thank the Alumnae Association of the School of Nursing for their continued interest in and support of the School of Nursing.

Miss Lucille Scriber,
President

Miss Doris Shoemaker,
Vice President

ANNUAL GIVING FUND DRIVE

Dear Alumnae Members:

It is with great pleasure that I announce the results of the 1962 Annual Giving Campaign with the help of my committee—Mrs. Julia Gaskill McCracken, Mrs. Henrietta Spruance and Miss Margaret Cossman. The grand total from the sale of Cook Books and Annual Giving was $2,835.00.

The Class of 1927 was the largest contributor.

The class of 1947 with members present was second.

The Class of 1942, third.
