spirit of maine achievement award is sponsored by

00:05

00:06

the university of maine college of 00:12

i'm emily kane there are reporters

00:15

there are journalists and there are 00:17

storytellers

00:19

janine pineo remembers the main campus

00:21

and then

00:22
bangor daily news writer who could be 00:24
all three he would come strolling into 00:26
the newsroom 00:27
and he'd sit down and he just get 00:30
started working 00:31
he was so eager to learn and 00:34
to grow as a journalist 00:38
ernie's covered challenging stories the 00:40
penn state abuse scandal 00:42
sandy hook the 2020 presidential 00:44
campaign 00:45
plus energy issues in north dakota you 00:48
know i didn't know him before i ran for 00:50
the senate in 2012
00:52
and all of a sudden we started getting 00:54
calls from reuters of all places 00:57
and it wasn't uh in houston it wasn't uh 01:00
you know in exotic places it was in 01:03
williston north dakota 01:05
so many journalists that i've worked 01:06
with they have the headline written 01:09
they have the lead written and they just 01:10

want you to confirm it 01:12
that wasn't his his mo i never 01:15
worried about quoting any number in his 01:19
news reports 01:20
because i knew they would be right ernie 01:22
scheider's immersive work 01:23
impresses those he covers and his 01:26
colleagues 01:27
he captures the essence of a story 01:30
beyond 01:30
just the facts and a recent example is 01:33
when he was in arizona reporting on the 01:36
the battle between an indigenous group 01:38
and a mining company and then 01:40
over land rights he will read books 01:44
about the topic that he's going to write 01:45
about and this at a wire surface is 01:47 remarkable because 01:49
we operate at a fast pace and we get 01:51
stories out quickly 01:52
and it's a testament to the kind of 01:54
journalist that he is when he's not 01:56

running down a story ernie

01:58

is often running at the alzheimer's drug

02:01

discovery foundation

02:02

we consider ernie kind of the mayor of 02:05

our marathon team

02:06

ernie became involved with the 02:08

alzheimer's drug discovery foundation

02:10

after he found out his grandfather had 02:12

alzheimer's

02:13

so he decided the way he was going to 02:15

raise money he was going to run

02:16

marathons

02:17

and to date he's raised over 20 thousand

02:20

dollars

02:21

to fund science looking for preventions

02:25

treatments and cures of alzheimer's

02:27

those who know him

02:28

trace his character back to his home

02:30

state

02:31

it's the spirit of maine it's excellence

02:34

the passion

02:36

the optimism the get to it-ness kind

02:39

you're empathetic you're incredibly

02:42

intelligent

02:43

and something that we desperately need

02:46

somebody who

02:47

just is so careful about reporting the 02:50

facts

02:52

ernie scheider a reporter a journalist

02:55

a storyteller and our spirit of maine

02:58

achievement award winner

03:02

i want to thank the university of maine

03:03

alumni association

03:05

and the broader university of maine

03:07

community for this year's spirit of 03:09

maine

03:09

alumni achievement award i wouldn't be 03:12

where i am today without my time at 03:14

orono

03:15

where i learned the value of hard work

03:17

dedication to cause

03:19

purpose and inquiry and it's that last 03:22

bit that's helped me a lot is my time as 03:24

a journalist

03:25
inquiry i learned the value of the 03:28
question why 03:29
while i was at orono especially my time 03:31
at the main campus where i 03:32
really enjoyed getting to report on 03:36
all facets of university life i've taken 03:39
the skill sets that i've learned there 03:42
all across my career to graduate school 03:45
to the associated press and now to 03:47
reuters 03:48
where i've got to cover some of the 03:50
biggest news events 03:52
in the united states and really the 03:53
world in the past 10 to 12 years 03:56
all of that links back to my time at 03:58
orono where i really 04:01
discovered myself and discovered who i 04:02
was and discovered the value of being a 04:05
black bear 04:06
the value of why we say it's the college 04:08
of our hearts always 04:11
i was a proud english major at umaine

04:13

and at orono and taking classes with 04:16

harvey kale and so many others

04:18

really helped hone my writing really

04:20

enjoyed taking

04:21

a diverse group of classes across the 04:23

college of liberal arts and sciences

04:26

and had immense and really meaningful

04:28

extracurricular activities whether at 04:30

beta theta pi or residents on campus or 04:34

other student organizations across

04:36

campus

04:37

i'm really proud to call myself a black

04:39

bear anywhere i go in the world and when 04:42

i speak to young people in high schools

04:44

i encourage them to consider

04:45

the university of maine as the great

04:47

place for them to go

04:49

for their college education i as i said

04:52

wouldn't be where i am today without my 04:53

time in orono so thank you very much

04:56

to the alumni association i'm a proud

04:58

black bear

04:59

and look forward to even more deeper

05:01

collaboration with the university

05:02

community

05:03

in the years ahead

05:15

you

The University of Maine in Orono is the flagship campus of the University of Maine System, where efforts toward racial equity are ongoing, as is the commitment to facing a complicated and not always just institutional history. The University recognizes that it is located on Marsh Island in the homeland of the Penobscot nation, where issues of water and its territorial rights, and encroachment upon sacred sites, are ongoing. Penobscot homeland is connected to the other Wabanaki Tribal Nations — the Passamaquoddy, Maliseet, and Micmac — through kinship, alliances, and diplomacy. The university also recognizes that the Penobscot Nation and the other Wabanaki Tribal Nations are distinct, sovereign, legal and political entities with their own powers of self-governance and self-determination.
