DR. BOYD EDWARDS DELIVERS MONTHLY CHAPEL ADDRESS

Noted Speaker Stresses Value of Education and Points Out What it Should do for the Individual

HEADMASTER OF MERCERSBURG

Dr. Boyd Edwards, noted minister and educator, headmaster of Mercersburg Academy, delivered the monthly chapel address last Thursday morning. Through his forceful oratory Dr. Edwards revealed a dynamic personality, blended with a good humour that made his message interesting to the audience. He spoke on the subject of education.

In his opening statements he stressed the value of education and emphasized particularly the fact that education is a blind quest unless one knows how to go about it. Like many other things, it requires a great deal of thought before we can determine the branch we are to follow. "Most of us," he said, "do our thinking after having gone too far."

Quoting one, Dr. Frank, he declared that "education makes a man a democrat to his community, an aristocrat to his work, and a Puritan to his conduct. 'To be democratic,' he said, 'is to be of service to one's fellow-citizens; to be aristocratic is to believe in the excellent; and to be a Puritan is to pursue good things at any cost.'"

"There are five things for which education ought to help: first, to find oneself, that is in order to make the fullest possible use of the mental tools sharpened in the process of education; second, to furnish oneself with the eye that can truly see, the ear that can truly hear, the heart that can soothe and sympathize, and the will to strive, seek, and find, but not to yield; third, to fulfill oneself, to express one's true self in relation to the help of the force of education; fourth, to free oneself, enjoying not an ordinary privileged freedom, but a trained use of right, a freedom which is the result of a self-discipline of the highest order; fifth, to forget oneself, to treat oneself with least concern and to be of service to others; not to sit and coddle oneself, but to advance onward and upward in the face of difficulties, to lead, to inspire, to encourage, and to make the road safe for those who follow.

CO-ED RACQUETEERS

DEFEAT BEAVER 5-0

The tennis lassies of Ursinus experienced little opposition from the Beaver girls, winning all five matches with comparatively low scores. The games were played at Jenkintown last Thursday.

Anne Parry, Beaver's first player proved to be no match for Billie Strickler who with snappy playing won handily 6-2; 6-2. Monty Blew and Dorothy Turner played the only match which required three sets. Miss Turner thru steady, consistent work extended Monty to three sets but was finally forced to bow 6-2; 2-6; 6-2. At the same time Bups Francis was defeating Coral Peters 6-0; 6-1 at "Gray Towers" two miles away.

Rhea Wheatley and "Barney" Barnett speedily won their doubles match 6-2; 6-1. Billie Strickler and Bups Francis followed in their footsteps taking their match with the same score.

Tomorrow afternoon the girls' tennis team will open its home season, playing a return match with Beaver.

BASEBALL LEAGUE

MEETS AT PENN A. C.

The Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate Baseball League held its regular spring meeting at the Penn A. C., last Saturday, "Jing" Johnson presiding. Three Colleges, F. and M., Gettysburg and Albright, were admitted as members of the league. The 1933 schedule was drawn up.

Major Griffiths of Bucknell was elected president of the league for the coming year. M. R. Swartz, Juniata, was chosen vice president, while W. J. Stevens of Drexel was selected to act as secretary-treasurer. This league was organized last year through the efforts of "Jing" Johnson.

The "Weekly" extends its sympathy to Harriet Warne on the death of her father.

INT. RELATIONS CLUB

CURRENT EVENT PROGRAM

The International Relations Club presents a program of current events this evening at 8 o'clock in Room 7. Twelve of the most interesting world questions of the day will be discussed in a snappy manner. If you wish to know just what Ghandi wants, the points of conflict in Ireland, Japan's internal condition, Russia's five year plan, what Hitler is doing—come and be enlightened. This program will be of especial interest to seniors taking the Carnegie examinations.

HARRISBURG ALUMNI

BANQUET LAST FRI. EVE.

Dr. White and Prof. J. H. Brownback Speak to Gathering at the Party House

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED

The Ursinus alumni group of Harrisburg and vicinity held a banquet Friday evening, April 29, at the Party House in Harrisburg. The presiding officer was Elmer T. Undercoffler '22, president of the organization. Elections were held for officers for the coming year. The new president is Rev. A. M. Billman '12, who has recently come to Harrisburg after several years pastorage at McKeesport, Pa. Rev. H. S. Shelley '97, of Lancaster, was elected vice-president, Elmer C. Herber '25, instructor in the Biological Department of Dickson College in Carlyle, was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Dr. White spoke about the need for cooperation on the part of every individual toward preventing this depression from delaying the development of our valued projects. Prof. Brownback showed pictures of the new Science building and talked of the development of scientific training at Ursinus.

Among those present at the banquet were: Dr. J. H. Meminger '84, of Lancaster; E. M. Hershey '00, of Hershey; W. M. Rife '98, assistant superintendent of schools at Carlyle; Mrs. H. H. Farnsler, of Harrisburg; Melba Farnsler '28; Clair Blum '27; Mrs. Blum (Helen Lucas '28); Mrs. Elmer Herber; Rev. Henry Herber '11; Rev. C. P. Weber '95, of Elizabethville, Pa; Dr. Jesse S. Heiges, of State Teachers' College, Shippensburg, Pa; Rev. I. Calvin Fisher, Lebanon; and Mabel Shelley, the daughter of the vice president, who expects to enter Ursinus this fall.

The committee in charge should be complimented for having planned a very excellent program and dinner.

1932 RUBY ON SALE

THURS. IN FREELAND LOBBY

The 1932 Ruby will make its appearance Thursday, May 25. It will be on sale in Freeland lobby. This edition of the Ruby will contain many interesting new features. The beauty of the art-motif lies in its simplicity of design and exactness of construction. It follows no definite theme, but is simply a means of setting-off the material carried throughout the volume.

Since there is only a limited number of Rubies being printed, all persons desiring copies of this year's edition are urged to place their orders at once with John Clawson, Jr., or any member of the business staff.

BEAR RELAY TEAM

LOSES IN PENN MEET

The Ursinus one mile relay team was forced to accept defeat in a fast heat at the Penn Relays Saturday, April 30. This heat, which was made up of the five colleges composing our track conference, was won by Juniata in 3 minutes, 33 seconds.

Bill Steele, Ray Jamison, Mike Cotteta, and Wally Tropp, running in the order named, represented Ursinus. This group ran well, but because of the faster performance this time over other years, failed to win in the prize positions.

CARNEGIE EXAMINATIONS

The Carnegie Examinations will be given to the Seniors, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of this week. These examinations are part of the study of higher and secondary education in Pennsylvania.

BEAR NINE LOSES TO

LEHIGH AND BUCKNELL

Drop Brown and White Game 16-12; on Short End of 8-6 Bison Score. Coates Starts Both Games

HEAVY HITTING PREDOMINATES

Bucknell Game

The Bears lost their fourth consecutive game on Saturday to Bucknell in an eastern Pa. Conference game by the score of 8-6. Jing Johnson in an effort to garner a win shifted his lineup placing Diehl at second, O'Donnell in right field and Paris on third base.

Vetter of Bucknell opened the game by getting a base on balls and Bean did likewise, but Ruch hit into a double play, Diehl to Scholl to Eachus. Hinkle flied out to end the inning.

Shuman, the first Ursinus man up, struck out. Diehl smacked a double and scored when Hinkle erred. Eachus and Lodge then flied successively. In the second inning, Peters and Trudnak were struck out by Coates, but Mills connected with one of Jack's shoots for a home run. The Bears came right back however when Scholl hit a home run.

In the third Coates disposed of the Bisons without allowing a score. Diehl slammed a home run with the has-socks empty to give Ursinus a lead of 3-1. It was not until the fifth inning that Bucknell landed on Coates for 5 runs, the result of two walks, an error, a single, and a home run by Peters.

In the sixth Bucknell scored another on Vetter's long fly. Paris, playing his first game of the current season, slammed a home run over right field with Scholl on base to put the Bears back into the ball game again. In the seventh however the Bisons scored another run. In the latter half of the eighth, Scholl fanned, Paris walked, O'Donnell singled

MONTGOMERY CO. SCHOOLS

TO FROLIC SATURDAY

Ursinus will again act as host to the Montgomery County schools when they hold their eighth annual May Day Festival on Saturday, May 7. Throughout the day there will be many athletic and academic contests. One of the principal events is the high school track and field meet to be held on Patterson Field, while art, home economics, shop work exhibits, and a fashion show will be held in Bomberger Hall. The singing and declamation contests will take place in the gymnasium.

Several thousand participants and spectators are anticipated on the campus. The college, as usual, will join in sponsoring awards for victors in the different contest.

FROSH DEFEAT HILL

The Ursinus frosh baseball team scored their third consecutive victory when they defeated Hill School on Tuesday by the score of 4-2. Johnson turned in his second victory by limiting the Hill boys to 6 hits.

Fisher played a bang up game for the cubs. His sparkling play aided Johnson to edge out of several holes. In the third inning he stole home in a snappy dash and scored standing up. Heck's playing around the keystone bag was nothing short of brilliant, several nice stops being made. Steady hitting in the pinches and heady baseball by our frosh are certainly bringing good results. The pitching has been of unusual excellence also.

Brilliant Junior Week-End Features Gay Promenade and Fantastic Play

Tal Henry's Famous "North Carolinians" On Deck Friday Night; "The Devil in the Cheese", Tom Cushing's Entertaining Play, on Saturday Evening

MANY ALUMNI ATTEND GALA EVENTS

Junior Prom

In a gay, colorful sophisticated setting with stylishly moded couples swaying to the syncopating rhythm of Tal Henry's renowned North Carolinians, the Junior "Prom" closed the formal social season at Ursinus Friday evening, April 29.

The gala social event was staged in the Thompson-Gay gymnasium, transformed by ultra attractive decorations into a ship flying brilliant regatta flags. The Promenade, to the tune of "Fight Ursinus," was the outstanding feature of the evening.

Many alumni were among the guests. White-gold bracelets, bearing the Ursinus seal, were presented to the ladies as souvenirs of a memorable dance.

The chaperones were Dr. and Mrs. George L. Omwake, Prof. and Mrs. J. Harold Brownback, Prof. and Mrs. Gerney, and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Johnson. The members of the committee who made arrangements for the junior "prom" were: Messrs. Harold Fisher, chairman, Charles Gompert, Jack Reese, Alvin Paul, Charles Kraft and Misses: Iris Lutz, Margaret Deger, Charlotte Gross, Gladys Ulrich and Ruth White.

Junior Play

Saturday, April 30, the Junior class presented its play "The Devil in the Cheese" to a large and appreciative audience. This proved to be an innovation because it was a fantastic comedy rather than the usual more serious type of play.

The action was a bit slow at first, but once started there were few dull moments. The scene—a thirteenth century monastery hidden in the mountain fastness of Greece.

Joseph Quigley makes a rare archaeological find.....an old Egyptian amphora with a stopper of mummified cheese, containing the inscription, "Eat this cheese and know Youth." Quigley eats the cheese and releases the genie-like Little God Min, who grants the rich American a wish for his service. Like most modern parents, Quigley is perplexed by the actions of his daughter Goldina—why she prefers Jimmie Chard, a young ship steward to Dr. Pointell Jones, the parental choice. His desire is to see inside his daughter's head. The Little God Min complies and the second act is a veritable "Through the Looking Glass". A strange shift of events finally brings Jimmie Chard into favor with the rest of the Quigley family, so all ends happily.

Clair Hubert, one of the finest character actors at Ursinus was cast in a straight juvenile role, Jimmie Chard, the youthful, impetuous hero. Hubert played the part with his customary skill.

To Floyd Heller and Charles Craft must go the honors of the evening, Heller in the leading comedy role and Kraft as the sleek, oily, villain. Both parts were very well done.

Rena Grim did a fine job with a somewhat inadequate part. She was particularly good in the second act.

With a fine voice James Palm portrayed the part of the rejected suitor, Dr. Pointell Jones.

Chubbock was taken by Alfred Creager. The light comedy role gave ample chance to introduce a cockney accent.

Margaret Deger deserves much credit for her interpretation of Mrs. Quigley, the easily aroused mother of the heroine. Her wild demonstrations were very realistic.

Alfred Alspach's silver make-up was the sensation of the play. His clever acting of a rather absurd part was very fine.

Anthony Ziccardi was Constantinos, right-hand man of Petros. He fitted into his part very well. Eugene Miller with a squeaky voice and haggard look showed Mr. Quigley's future vision of himself.

TRACK TEAM TO MEET

WEST CHESTER AND DREXEL

Dual Meet With West Chester on Wednesday; Many Experienced Men on Team

ALVIN PAUL, CAPTAIN

This week will see the Bear track team in action in its first dual meet of the season. Travelling to West Chester on Wednesday, the tracksters will seek to avenge defeat received last year from the West Chester boys. After this meet, Dr. Rubin's proteges will encounter Drexel's representatives on the track at Philadelphia on Saturday.

Led by captain Alvin Paul '33, the events will be filled largely on the basis of the showing of the men in the recent interclass meet. Paul will be entered in the broad jump and high jump events. Besides Paul, Steele and Tropp are probable entrants in the broad jump.

The brunt of the work in the sprint events will be borne by three men, namely—Steele, Tropp, and Jamison. Steele will perform in his specialties, the 100 and 220; Wally Tropp will be entered in the 100 and 440; Jamison is expected to run the 220 and 440.

Mike Cotteta stands out in the middle distance events. The Norristown flash is the team's best bet in the half-mile and mile runs. Running with him in these events will be Covert, Henkels, and Gregory; the first two named in the half mile, the latter in the mile. With Sautter, Sutin, and Hepner entered, the two-mile event will be well supported.

The hurdle events may prove the team's weakest department. At present, Jake Shade gives promise of molding into a capable hurdler. Chet Albright is the outstanding aspirant in the high hurdles. Added to these is Bud Covert, who has shown some natural ability for these events.

Wally Tropp again enters upon the scene in the weight events. Wally will heave the shot and discus, as well as throw the javelin. Other weight men include Levin, Bennett, Alspach, Pole, and Hy Miller. Reggie Miller performs well in the javelin throw. With Elmer Sommers and John Clark entered in the pole vault, the list of entrants is made complete.

MAY DAY PAGEANT UNDER WAY

All committees for the May Day Pageant to be presented on May 14 have their work well in hand. Practically all the women students will be participating in this pageant of dance and color. "The Bell of Kharkov" should prove of interest to the hosts of mothers and other friends of the students who will witness it.

THE RED GODS CALL

At this season of the year particularly most of us are assailed by a seemingly irrational but compelling feeling—the desire to see and get beyond our horizon. Although we know there is seldom any tangible reward for the wanderer and no common sense reason for questing, we involuntarily become “knights of the road.” The soft winds call, the gentle rains whisper, and the fleecy clouds beckon us. Placid lakes, murmuring streams, towering mountains, tumultuous oceans, majestic cliffs stir the imagination and draw us irresistibly.

The world progresses only by adventures in discovery, in ascents and in achievements. It was this restless urge to see and get beyond a horizon which sent the Phoenicians through the straits of Gibraltar in unstable galleys, it was this same dynamic lure which compelled Columbus to brave the uncharted deep while other mariners hugged the shore, it was this resistless call of the wild which sent trappers and pioneers to the fastnesses of the Rocky Mountains.

The instinct to see and to get beyond the horizon is unconquerable, a potent and vital ferment in the lives of such men as Amundsen and Marco Polo. This feeling continues to call men to the Arctic and to the Tropics. They answer the summons though they return poor in tangible rewards. However, they are rich in memories and scientific data. The intangible rewards are the only ones such adventurers in discovery, ascents and achievements expect. They face death and are not afraid.

We belong to a questing race. To deny our heritage is both senseless and useless. The irrational, compelling feeling which animates us today may provide the stimulus for rational, dynamic action tomorrow. In the dramatic language of Boyd Edwards, “The evening campfire becomes but the start of tomorrow's journey.”

THE DEPARTMENTAL HONORS REGULATIONS

On page 78 of the new College catalogue are found the requirements for departmental honors. There are three regulations specified.

One rule seems to work a hardship on some students. The purpose of honors work is to give an adequate outlet to those exceptionally proficient in a certain branch of study. It is to give the brilliant chemistry student a chance to continue further in his quest for knowledge.

Granted, there must be strict regulations governing the pursuance of honors work. However, it is stated that “a student must have maintained a grade not lower than C in any course previously pursued after the first year and must maintain an average of B while he is pursuing his work as a candidate for Departmental Honors.”

The latter restriction is amply justified and should be maintained, but the former seems to work an injustice in many instances. Should a man who intends to make chemistry his life work and is going to continue the study of that subject in graduate school be deprived of the privilege of doing honors work because of a D in Latin or Ancient History?

There must be a standard, but should not the faculty be able to decide a case like this, a case in equity, or right about the law? Our suggestion would be that each case involving an aforesaid condition be considered separately and that a student be not penalized for something which is entirely out of his line of work. Let the faculty judge whether each applicant for honors is fitted to take the special work.

If the faculty would see fit to adopt this policy, much good would result from such action.

PROF. BOSWELL TALKS ON UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE

Professor Boswell spoke on unemployment insurance at the weekly meeting of the Y. M. C. A. last Wednesday evening, in Freeland Hall lobby. Prof. Boswell explained the place of unemployment insurance in modern economic thought.

The speaker first outlined the causes of unemployment and the business cycle, showing that they can probably never be wholly removed. In order that the undesirable effects of unemployment can be reduced, centralized planning and unemployment insurance are a necessity. This insurance will not only save the worker from want but will also prevent further unemployment to a great extent by distributing the buying power, Prof. Boswell maintained.

Sigmund Romberg's “Student Prince” will be seen by a group of Ursinus students next Wednesday evening. The trip is being sponsored by Jeanette Douglas Hartenstine.

DR. BOYD EDWARDS SPEAKS AT BROTHERHOOD BANQUET

Dr. Boyd Edwards was the speaker at a banquet of the Brotherhood of St. Paul held in the upstairs dining room last Wednesday evening. He chose as his topic, “What is Religion?” Dr. Edwards stressed the necessity of living and expressing one's religion in one's own way. Dr. Omwake, LeRoy Burkhardt '32, Donald Ottinger, '32, and Jacob Weaver, '32 were called upon for a few remarks.

WENNER ELECTED PRESIDENT

Jerome Wenner, '33 was elected president of the Brotherhood of St. Paul for the coming year at a meeting of the organization held last Monday afternoon. Louis Mitchell, '34 was chosen as vice president, and Pierce Smith, '35 as secretary-treasurer.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW DISCUSSED BY ENGLISH CLUB

The life and works of George Bernard Shaw were discussed by the English Club last Monday evening. Three papers were presented, the first regarding his life by Margaret Miller '32; the second on “Widower's House” by Gladys Stenger, '32; and the third on “Arms and the Man” by Eleanor Mengel, '32. The latter play was presented here four years ago by the senior class as the annual senior play.

Dr. Smith made some comments on the works and tendencies of Shaw. He said that Shaw is criticized mainly because of his frankness. Dr. Smith mentioned two plays as being outstanding, “Major Barbara”, and “Too Good to be True”, which is now playing in New York City.

The remainder of the evening was devoted to taking care of necessary business. Applications for membership for the coming year were submitted and received the consideration of the Club. Four students have been selected, and if approved by the Faculty, will be regularly admitted to the Club in the near future.

Y. W. SING

New songs were learned and old ones repeated in memory at a Y. W. Sing held last Wednesday evening. Due to inclement weather, the Sing was held in the Y room. Ruth White '33, Sara Phaler '34, and Iris Lutz '33 lead the songs consisting mainly of camp numbers and “old favorites.”

The Tower Window

THE Class of 1932 is to be congratulated on the distinction which it enjoys because of the large and important part it is having in the study of higher and secondary education in Pennsylvania. This study was undertaken five years ago under the joint auspices of the Association of College Presidents of Pennsylvania and the State Department of Education, each of which appointed three representatives to a joint commission which was granted authority to solve, if possible, serious problems existing in the fields of high school and College education. This commission found that it could do little unless first a study should be made that would bring out necessary elementary data. For this it was felt that expert service should be gotten.

As a result of the Commission's action a service of much higher order and of vastly more extended character was secured through the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. It happened that this Foundation was interested in the same problems and was ready not only to finance the work but to furnish the workers. Thus it came about that this study was instituted.

The plan was to get not a cross-sectional view of education but a longitudinal view—that is, a continuous and cumulative record of the progress made by large numbers of high school and college students throughout their entire course. The classes graduating this year (1932) from the colleges in this State have taken the most important part in the Study. At vast labor and expense, the Foundation has from time to time offered various kinds of tests and has evaluated and interpreted the results, while the colleges, on the other hand, and especially the members of the 1932 classes have supplied the data.

The concluding exercise of the Study takes place this week. The seniors (class of 1932) have been excused from academic duties in the regular course for three days—Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in order that they may once again take their part in prosecuting of this large undertaking.

The Study has already attracted wide attention. Colleges elsewhere, in large numbers, have applied for the same tests and examinations, and a direct outgrowth is the endeavor now being made by the American Council on Education at Washington, through a nation-wide experiment, to develop thoroughly sound and reliable tests for measuring mental ability and progress.

Some of the practices already appropriated in many of our colleges that are the direct product of the Pennsylvania Study under the Carnegie Foundation, are the rise of objective examinations and tests along with the subjective and discursive examinations hitherto exclusively employed, the guidance and care given to students outside of classroom as in the system of Freshman Counsellors in operation at Ursinus, improved means of keeping student records as suggested by the new record folder on which the records of the Class of 1932 are being kept for the use of the Carnegie Foundation, the substitution of longer units of study for semester courses, and comprehensive examinations at the end of the college course for determining fitness for graduation.

The "progress reports" published from time to time, by the Carnegie Foundation constitute a most valuable contribution to current educational literature.

FROSH GIRLS TO ENTERTAIN UPPERCLASS CO-EDS IN GYM

An old Ursinus custom will be observed tomorrow evening. The Sophomore and upperclass girls will be entertained by the Freshman girls at the gymnasium.

The "get-together" is scheduled for 7:45 and it is hoped that many will attend as the Freshman are working hard to arrange entertainment for their guests.

Sweaters, and sports wear of a similar kind will be very appropriate for this "sail" upon the waters blue.

A good time is "on deck" for the "co-eds" but the "eds" must be left at home.

"THE BELL OF KHARKOV" MAY DAY PAGEANT

It is early dawn in the Russian town of Kharkov. The chilly gray shadows are gradually overcome by shafts of sunlight which spread to every corner of the square. Soon a babble of voices marks the entrance of the merchants. They arrange their stalls and prepare for a day of unusual business for this is May Day and a holiday crowd is already assembling. They are a noisy, happy lot manifesting a very special gaiety.

Everyone is awaiting the May Queen-to-be. The time is spent in laughing, joking, dancing, and gossiping. Now there is a check to this wild gaiety, attention is focussed upon the town elder who has arrived escorted by the most prominent citizens of the town. An announcement is being passed along among the people. Then a burst of music hushes the voices and a procession causes staring eyes and an awed silence. It is the May Queen-to-be and her court, arrived for the coronation. The people set up a shout and throw flowers in their path while they parade about the square and take their places by the throne. The trumpeter demands silence. All kneel and two little children advance to crown the Queen with a garland of flowers. Everyone listens expectantly for the bell to ring. Silence. A murmur of impatience has begun when suddenly the bellman rushes in crying, "The Clapper is gone."

The people rise dumbfounded and chatter in small groups. Such a thing has never happened before. No one can explain it. The town elder consults with the bellman and finally the trumpeter calls all to attention while the elder announces, "People of Kharkov. The clapper has been stolen. A hundred dratmas to the finder, if he returns it before sunset so that the May Queen can be crowned." The festivity is turned to pandemonium.

Small groups of searchers set out in different directions. But not being immediately successful, they become discouraged and return to Kharkov. Only the bellman continues the hunt. Finally, he wearily sits down to rest. Along comes a little shepherd boy, whistling, who on seeing the bellman stops to chat. The latter tells him about the lost clapper and of his futile search. The boy gives him water and invites him to his home where he can rest and then get help in his search. They turn toward the village of the Vedniahs, the old man leaning heavily on the little boy's shoulder.

The shepherd women are preparing the noonday meal while the men amuse themselves with games and dancing. Some of them rush out to meet Dagvar, the shepherd boy, and the bellman. Dagvar tells the bellman's story. One of the men describes a cloak he found by the roadside and calls to his wife to bring it. The bellman examines it and then throws it aside while the people gather in a group to discuss the unusual and mysterious theft. A black figure quietly slips in, takes the cloak, and leaves unseen. Dagvar discovers the cloak is missing. The people look around for it but in vain. The men then set out in search of the cloak.

The next scene is a quiet spot in the woods. The searching party enters. They halt and the bellman sinks down exhausted. Music accompanies the entrance of two troubadours, a group of players and a juggler who leads a tame bear. They entertain the Vedniahs who inquire if they have met any strangers on the road. Yes, they have passed men who wore brilliant cloaks and journeyed toward a neighboring village. They all continue the search except Dagvar who stays behind with the old man who is too tired to continue the search. However, the bellman can not endure the suspense so he sends Dagvar to look for the men.

The troubadours have led the Vedniahs thru the forest to a secluded spot along the highway where they lie in ambush. Soon the party of thieves comes into view. The thieves put up a strong fight and altho outnumbered are gaining an advantage when Dagvar and the bear appear. The little bear breaks loose and dashes in among the legs of the thieves. In the ensuing mix-up the Vedniahs take the thieves captive, all except one who runs away with the clapper. But he is soon overtaken and brought back. The party triumphantly turns back to the village.

The bellman is sitting alone in absolute despair. At sight of the captors all fatigue and despair leave the old man. He rises quickly with the sole purpose of returning the clapper before nightfall, begging Dagvar to return with him and claim the reward. The boy's father give his consent when he learns that the troubadours are going to Kharkov.

What a contrast is the scene in the square now to that of early morning. Only a few people remain. The court of the Queen-to-be has finally given up in defeat and is about to leave when they see the bellman and his friends approaching. Quickly the people gather and while they all wait expectantly the old man takes Dagvar to the town elder and then dashes off to ring the bell. Shadows lengthen. The trumpet sounds and all kneel again. The children stand by the Queen. Loudly the bell rings and its triumphant note is echoed in the faces of the people.

Calamity has been averted. There will yet be festivity. The Queen is crowned and the square rings with cheers. Dagvar is rewarded by the town elder and then presented to the Queen. The townspeople dance around the May Pole. The grand procession led by the Queen winds about the square and then towards the town hall where a feast set for everybody will fittingly close this almost disastrous day.

Keep a Regular TELEPHONE Date with Home

HERE'S ONE FACT proved beyond a doubt! More and more telephone calls from campus to home are being made each month.

The reason's not hard to find!

Try it yourself, just once! Call up Mother and Dad. You'll not forget the thrill of hearing their voices . . . nor their joy in hearing from you in person. Small wonder if you come back for more . . . regularly, each week!

"Voice visits" with home, you'll soon discover, are next best to being there. They cost so little and give so much. That's the reason for their popularity.

FOR THE LOWEST COST AND GREATEST EASE

Set your "date" for after 8.30 P. M., and take advantage of the low Night Rates. (A dollar call is 60c at night; a 50c call is 35c.)

By making a date, the folks will be at home. Thus you can make a Station to Station call rather than a more expensive Person to Person call.

Just give the operator your home telephone number. If you like, charges can be reversed.

Ursinus threatened when School walked and Paris doubled but O'Donnell ended the game by popping to first base. The Bears will attempt to break into the win column this week when they play Swarthmore and Rutgers away on Wednesday and Saturday respectively.

Lehigh Game

The Bears dropped a weird ball game to Lehigh by the score of 16-12 last Wednesday afternoon. Players and spectators shivered in frigid weather on the Bethlehem field.

The game, the third successive victory for Lehigh, was featured by hard hitting and plenty of run scoring in every inning. The Brown and White used two pitchers, starting with Heller and finishing with Glick, both of whom were met with a shower of base hits.

The Red and Black fared no better, three pitchers failing to still the Lehigh bats. Claude Lodge hit a homer for the Bears while Jack Reese came through with two circuit clouts.

At the University of Kansas undergraduate students are allowed to petition the faculty for the removal of text books they don't like.

At a certain Eastern College an instructor called for notebooks. One efficient student purchased a tattered book from one who had successfully passed the course. A few days later, the instructor, who had been graduated a few years before, returned the book with the comment, "It's a good book, but I can do better now."

A professor at Franklin and Marshall reported the theft of his car to the police when he failed to locate it after an eleven o'clock class. A check-up revealed he had walked to class that morning.

The assisting monks were Samuel Levin, Lawrence Berardelli, Harry Brian and Alexander Kravitz. The cannibals were: Charles George, Richard Schaffer, and William Evans.

Much credit must be given to the coaches, Prof. and Mrs. F. I. Sheeder, without whose untiring efforts the play would not have been a success. On the whole, the play furnished two hours of amusement and was really well done. Thanks are also due the stage hands who designed the elaborate properties.

Members of the string ensemble furnished the music between the acts.

The committee included: Floyd Heller, chairman; Louella E. Mullin, gen. manager; Eveline B. Omwake, properties; Helene Gohs, costume and make-up; Herbert Harris, program; William Buchanan, business manager.

The property committee consisted of Mary Rothenberger, Mary Francis, Mary Brendle, and Ruth White. Costumes: Anne Brady, Jeanette Baker, and Walter Welsh. Stage Hands and electrician: Norman Barr, Clinton Bigelow and Dr. F. E. Klingaman. Prompter: Harriet Warne.
