NUMBER 10.

Keeton Found 'Not Guilty' On Charge Of Shooting Peed

Grand Jury Returns 14 True Bills, Including One Against Hicks

TO HEAR CIVIL ACTIONS

Arthur Hicks, of near Haldeman, was indicted by the Rowan County grand jury Wednesday afternoon, charged with the murders of George Bookok and Robert Stewart at a filling station on U. S. 60 last fall.

Hicks, who claims that he shot the men in self-defense after they attempted to rob him, is being held under a $10,000 bond set in County Court.

A jury trying the case of W. B. Keeton, Morehead, for the shooting and wounding of Joe Peed, found Keeton not guilty after deliberating 20 minutes.

Mrs. Bessie Day, held for the murder of her son-in-law, was not tried Wednesday as scheduled, the case being postponed until next Tuesday.

The petit juries were dismissed yesterday until next Tuesday morning. The court plans to hear civil actions in the meantime.

The grand jury has already returned 14 true bills, and will remain in session the balance of the week.

Other cases disposed of this week are:

Dan Carter, writing insurance without license, died away.

Dave Henderson, assault with deadly weapon, continued first day next term.

Orville Howard, assault, law and facts submitted and fine of $5 and costs.

Wayne Brown, gaming, $20 and costs.

John Hines, bank teller, John Summers and John Alford, swindlers, $5 and costs.

Bill Lane, assault and battery, not guilty.

Bill Lewis, Andy Sturgill, Russell Conley and Powell Ferguson, $10 and costs.

Buck Baldrige, operating automobile while intoxicated, amended to drunkenness, $25 and costs.

Rollie Pence and Ike Rice, maintaining common nuisance, not guilty.

Albert Porter, having in possession intoxicating liquors, $5 and costs.

Paul Pettit, drunkenness, $5 and costs.

Milza Black, breach of peace, not guilty.

Lonnie Davis, assault with deadly weapon, not guilty.

Ed Hall, murder, continued third day next term, with agreement that Judge J. W. Riley will sit as special judge.

Morehead Debaters In Round Robin Tourney

Morehead State Teachers College sent twelve debaters to the Round Robin Tournament which was held at Transylvania College, Lexington, Saturday, February 29th. The six teams participated in eighteen non-division debates. Members of the squad who engaged in the forensic contests were Deog Clark, Flemingburg; Earl Dean, Salvisa; Heltz Hooge, Morehead; Alton Payne, Ashland; Howard Eckles, Huntington, Ind.; Adrian Utterback, Yale; Thomas Rogers, Mt. Sterling; Clyde Burton, Olive Hill; Mary Ruth Wells, Paintsville; Martha Neblett, Jackson; Martha Harmon, Perryville, and Esthelle, not named.

Dr. A. Y. Lloyd, head of the department of history and debate coach, accompanied the debaters.

FISH AND GAME GROUP HOLDS MEETING WEDNESDAY

The Licking Valley Fish and Game Association met last night at the City Hall with a good attendance, and laid plans in furtherance of their work to protect and nurture wild life in this section. It is planned to make recommendations to the Governor for the appointment of a game warden for this district.

The temporary officers of the organization are W. D. Scroggins, chairman, and E. W. Fletcher, secretary-treasurer.

Election Count To Start At 5 P. M.

Results of Kentucky elections in the future will be made known from 12 to 48 hours earlier than under the present delayed vote count under the provisions of a bill approved by Governor A. B. Chandler. The bill amends the Brock-Gilbert election law to eliminate the delayed count provision, but does not change the requirement that all counting be done at the court house with the ballot boxes in custody of the county clerk.

Counting of ballots will start at 5 p. m. on election day, continuing until midnight and beginning again at 8 a. m. the following day. The bill was introduced by Marion T. McCarthy, Webster county representative. Under a Senate amendment, the counting will be suspended on Sunday. The tabulation will begin when ballot boxes from nearby precincts are delivered at the court house.

Funeral Today For Mrs. Martin

Mother of Mrs. Callie M. Calvert Passes

The remains of Mrs. Elizabeth Turner Martin, 82, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lellie M. Hagaman at St. Albans, Va., were brought here yesterday. She was the mother of Mrs. Callie M. Calvert of Morehead.

Funeral services will be conducted this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Lee cemetery. Complete funeral arrangements had not been made as the paper goes to press.

Mrs. Martin had lived for some time with her daughter at St. Albans. Her death was unexpected.

Surviving are her son, Shoush Martin, Ashland; three daughters, Mrs. Lellie M. Hagaman, of St. Albans; Mrs. Callie M. Calvert, Morehead, and Mrs. A. T. Hagaman, Montgomery, W. Va., and her husband, Mr. W. M. Hagaman.

Mrs. Martin was born January 9, 1854, and died March 3, 1935.

John McKenzie Is Victim of Pneumonia

John McKenzie, 63, succumbed to a prolonged attack of pneumonia Tuesday, passing away at his home in West Morehead.

Funeral services will be conducted this afternoon with burial in the Cahull cemetery.

Mrs. McKenzie has his wife, two daughters, Mrs. George Radcliffe, of Louellen, Ky., and Mrs. Clyde Rose, Morehead, and several brothers and sisters of Morgan county.

Mr. McKenzie had been ill for some time, but his condition was not serious until early this week. Hope for his recovery was abandoned Monday night.

Funeral arrangements will be handled by the Barnes-Lane Company of Morehead.

A Few Hints For "Backwards Party"

Those intending to attend the "Backwards Party" at the home of Mrs. C. O. Peratt this evening may take a few hints from the usual procedure at such events:

1. Be sure to wear your clothing backwards. To do this, is a severe breach of etiquette.
2. Don't fall to come to the back door. It might be a good idea to enter backwards in keeping with the event.
3. Don't be backwards about bringing your 15 cents or you're liable to go out the back door, backwards.
4. If there's any refreshments be sure to eat backwards.
5. Do everything backwards—to do them in the usual style would be showing very "backward" manners.

The most "backward" person will be awarded a prize. The competition should be keen.

This party is sponsored by Group Number 2 of the Christian church. The public is cordially invited. The party will get under way at 7:30 this evening.

From 3:30 until 5 this afternoon the same group is giving a backwards party for children at Mrs. Peratt's.

Board Places Final Approval Saturday On New Buildings

Construction To Start As Soon As WPA Work Orders Are Given

STRUCK CO. HAS CONTRACT

The Struck Construction Company of Louisville, successful bidders on the Science Building and the new Dormitory at the Morehead State Teachers College, expect to start work here by March 15, according to an announcement made today.

The Board of Regents at a called meeting Saturday evening, placed their final approval on the WPA loan-grant for the Federal Government of $336,000.

Preparations are being made to get the buildings underway, but they cannot be started until work orders come from the WPA offices. Only WPA labor will be used in the construction.

When completed the Science Building will be one of the most modern in the entire South. Plans for it have been drafted over a period of years, with the result that officials at the institution feel that they have a modern building adequate for all branches of the Science Department at Morehead. It will be built on the old Arthur Hogge property, corner Second street and College Boulevard, which was recently purchased by the school.

The dormitory will be unique in that it will provide accommodations for married couples. The building, costing $181,000 will be placed at the far end of the campus, near the present tennis courts.

Work on both buildings will go on at the same time.

Mrs. S. M. Bradley Holds High GOP Post

For more than a decade Mrs. S. M. Bradley, of Morehead, has been identified with the Republican party of Kentucky in outstanding positions. For eleven years she served as State Central Committee member from the Ninth Kentucky District.

She has later been signally honored by an appointment as committee-member from the State-at-large. Mrs. Bradley formerly served on the Board of Regents of the Morehead State Teachers College and has been identified with social and civic work in Morehead and Eastern Kentucky for many years.

30-Day Extension Given On Taxes

Warning that there would be no further extension of time, Governor Chandler on Saturday extended the deadline for paying State taxes from February 29 until March 31, inclusive. The penalties which would have applied to delinquencies after the close of business Saturday will go into effect April 1, the order read.

Sheriff Mort may said that many people who had paid their taxes asked that the money be refunded until April 1st, but he advised them he had no authority to do this.

The Governor explained his extension order was decided on because of the lateness in delivering some of the tax record books" to sheriffs and because "of the unprecedented bad weather which has closed the market to many farmers for the marketing of their tobacco and other products, thereby causing undue financial distress. The order pointed out that no further extension could be granted because of a statute requiring sheriffs as tax collectors to make their settlements with the State not later than June 1.

3 FROM MOREHEAD AT UNIVERSITY OF KY.

Included in the enrollment at the University of Kentucky from Rowan county are: Asa W. Adkins, Morehead, son of Dr. A. W. Adkins; Sue Lewis Coleman, Morehead; A. L. Lewis (is guardian), and Martha Woodley Hall, Morehead, daughter of Mrs. Myrtis W. Hall.

Board Plans To Improve Conditions On Bus Routes With Long-Term Contracts

Planning to improve the conditions in school bus transportation in Rowan county, the Board of Education in regular session Monday, asked the County Superintendent to submit at the April meeting, specific rules and regulations for busses, bus drivers and bus routes. Superintendent Corbett said he understood the board intended to let contracts for more than one year, so that bidders can provide better transportation facilities by purchasing new equipment for a longer term contract.

The board authorized the superintendent to purchase oak lumber for use in the NYA centers as an experiment in seat and desk making.

Jim Thomas was appointed in place of Tom Dehart, deceased, as sub-district trustee on Open Park. Among other things the board intended to pay consolidated teachers their seventh month salaries and allowances. This rate will be $1,700 in claims. All members of the board were present at the meeting.

200 INCREASE EXPECTED FOR SPRING SEMESTER

Approximately two hundred students are expected to enroll for the spring semester, which begins at Morehead State Teachers College on March 30th. Dean William H. Vaughan announces that sixteen classes will be open to students, including courses in Public School Art, There were five additions to the curriculum during the last two weeks: Public School Music, Selection and Care of Clothing, Personal Hygiene, Games for the Elementary School, and Swimming, Public School Music.

Christian Church Enjoys 'Big Day'

Last Sunday proved to be one of the great days in the history of the First Christian church. Large and enthusiastic audiences were in attendance at each and every service. There were five additions to the church during the day. Two were baptized Sunday night. The church service was led by the pastor, Vision Clarke was the leader. The service was concluded by a sermonette by Dr. Fern.

The "Banner" campaign opened the past week with a bang. The membership and friends of the church have been divided into five groups or divisions. Dr. G. H. Fern is the general chairman of the campaign. The first report was made last Sunday morning at the close of the Bible school hour and the opening of the church service. The large crowd present were on tip-toe during the reports. Division No. 1, Mrs. J. B. Calvert, leader, turned in $16 in cash. Division No. 2, Mrs. M. L. Hays, leader, turned in $10 in cash. Division No. 3, Mrs. Lapping, leader, turned in $27. Division No. 4, Mrs. Ernest Jayne, leader, turned in $30. Division No. 5, Mrs. Hartley Batson, leader, turned in $15 in cash. The first week resulted in $102.39 in cash. The first week of the campaign has proven conclusively that an unusually good time may be enjoyed, men and women added to the membership of the church and the attendance greatly enlarged and increased while raising money for the church. The second report will be made next Sunday at the conclusion of the Bible school period and the opening of the morning church service. All members and friends of the church are invited to be present to enjoy this extraordinary occasion.

Collection of Taxes Good, Sheriff Says

Sheriff Mort may said this morning that between 75 and 80 per cent of the taxes for Rowan County had been collected. This compares favorably with the collections at a corresponding time in 1935.

Delinquent taxes will be advertised for sale a week after the time expires on April 1st, according to the Sheriff.

ADVERTISE GAS FRANCHISE

Carried elsewhere in this paper is the advertisement for the sale of a natural gas franchise through Rowan County, which will be let by the Fiscal court in 1:00 o'clock March 16.

The franchise is being let so that natural gas can be piped into Morehead.

Independent Sells Stock This Week To Lexington Men

W. J. Sample and George Calvert Assume Charge of Newspaper

FORMERLY OF MOREHEAD

A deal was announced on February 29, whereby the Independent Publishing Co., Inc., publishers of the Morehead Independent, was sold to William J. Sample and George Martin Calvert.

The new owners assumed charge of the newspaper on March 1st and will operate it hereafter. Mr. Sample is in Morehead now, but Mr. Calvert will not be in the independent plant for 10 days.

Both of the new owners are formerly of Morehead and have attended the Morehead State Teachers College. Mr. Sample had four years' training at the Morehead institution, while Mr. Calvert, son of Mrs. Callie M. Calvert, of Morehead, is a graduate of the University of Kentucky, and is at present employed at the Commercial Printing Company, Lexington.

Mr. Sample and Mr. Calvert have both had wide experience in the newspaper field. They were formerly connected with the Lexington Herald. Mr. Sample as advertising representative and Mr. Calvert in the mechanical department.

Mr. E. Crutcher, who has edited the paper, will continue with the independent in an editorial capacity.

Council Approves Contract For Gas

L. C. Young Company Will Put Up Money For Pipe Lines

The Morehead City Council in a hold-over session signed a contract with the L. C. Young Company of Lexington for the piping of natural gas into Morehead.

The contract provides that the Young Company is to supplement the $17,000 obtained from the Government, and the city is to pay him from profits derived in the sale of natural gas within the city.

It has been estimated that it will cost $40,000 to bring natural gas to the city limits. It is planned to begin work on laying the lines from the North Fork field by March 15.

130 Send Applications For Bonus Payment

One hundred and thirty Rowan county veterans, eligible for the soldiers' bonus, have sent in their applications according to H. A. Spurlock, commander of the Corbie Post No. 128, who is assisting the ex-soldiers in filing applications.

Mr. Spurlock, who has his headquarters at the Midland Trail Garage, said that approximately 170 had not sent in applications from this county, and urged them to contact him at once.

PAUL KING, 7, DIES AT HOME IN ASHLAND

Paul King, aged 7 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. King, of Ashland, Ky., and former resident of Elliott county died at his home last Tuesday, with spinal meningitis. He was ill only three days.

His body was brought back to Newfound, Ky., for burial. Rev. Logan Woodrife preached the funeral.

Besides his mother and father he is survived by four brothers, Tallmadge King, of Ashland; Billy Madson, John Chise and Ralph at home; four sisters, Mrs. Minnie Parker, of Haldeman; Mrs. Hazel Marie Stewart, Misses Christine and Loretta King of Ashland.

BABY BORN FEB. 29 TO MR. AND MRS. MARTIN

A girl baby born to Mr. and Mrs. Chris Martin of Morehead will have a birthday of Morehead five years, but it was born on February 29. The child barely made its entry into the world on this day that comes but every four years, as it was born at 11 o'clock, one hour before the deadline.

The daughter has not been named. Mrs. Martin was, before her marriage, Mrs. Vester Mauk.

Floyd Gibbons ADVENTURERS' CLUB Hello, Everybody!

"On Jacob's Ladder" By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter.

WELL, sir, here's one of those automobile stories I've been looking for. By golly, I knew they were waiting for me. Why, doggone it, there must be a million good auto adventures in hiding. The field isn't even scratched yet. Half our adventuring today is done in automobiles, and I'll bet most every one of you has a good gas-buggy yarn in mind that you just haven't gotten around to sending me yet.

This automobile yarn is a lulu, too. It comes from George H. Smith, and the trouble George got into, well, gosh hang it, it's almost enough to make a man sell his car and put the dough into life insurance.

Of course, George Smith can't very well sell that bus of his. In the first place he doesn't own it, and in the second he makes his living driving the doggone thing. George has been a truck driver since 1923 and he must be a pretty good one, too, for he drove that old petrol wagon for 12 years without getting into any really serious trouble.

Here Begins the Story of George's Woes. One day, back in 1933 though, George did get into trouble. But I'm not the man to tell you about that. Let George do it!

"I was driving a big freight wagon," says George, "from Boston to Albany. I was getting along fine until just before I got to Pittsfield. Then, coming down a steep hill called Jacob's Ladder, the car seemed to get away from me. I had to grab the hand brake to prevent a smash, and what a racket that brake made. I got her to the bottom of the hill all right, though, and there I found I'd broken the brake shoe on the drive shaft."

"That left me nothing but the foot brakes. Maybe I should have stopped right there and had it fixed. If I had any idea of what was going to happen, I darned sure would have. But lots of drivers got along with a hand brake so I stepped on the gas and took a chance."

Only One More Big Hump to Get Over. George's truck rolled off through Pittsfield and took the steep grade down Lebanon mountain without any trouble. He had left all the step spots in his route behind him now—all except one, and he was coming to that—a small mountain that drops down into the town of Nassau, New York. Just as George rolled over the top of that mountain and had just started down the other side when suddenly his foot brake slipped and the van leaped forward. George grabbed for the shift lever—tried to throw her back into first. It was no use. He tried the brake again, but this time the foot brake didn't work at all. And all the time the truck was gathering speed as it raced down the steep incline toward the bottom.

It's Not the Hill—it's What's Below! It was only four miles to the bottom of that hill, but, as George says, a lot can happen on a four-mile hill, especially when there's a town at the bottom. The truck, by this time, was going faster than any truck ever built to go—swaying from side to side and all but leaving from the road. George made a right turn and negotiated a left—prayed that he wouldn't meet any trucks. Now noises began to flash by, warning him that the town at the bottom of the hill was not far away.

"All I had," says George, "was a horn and a prayer. I dropped down a grade steeper than the rest, with a sharp curve at the bottom. And at the speed I was making I never make that turn."

Crash of Truck Saves Driver's Life. Well, he didn't—exactly. The truck started to dip. George clutched the wheel and held his breath as both his left wheels raised the ground. He braced himself for a fall and then—SMASH—the side of the van hit a tree, tearing half the body from the wheels. That crash had saved George's life. The force of the impact knocked the big truck back on all four wheels again and it caromed off down the last steep grade toward the town.

Ahead of him red traffic lights turned green as he roared through the village of Nassau, his head reaching a good 200 feet over the road. George steered the big van to the side of the road—rubbed his tires against the curb in a vain effort to slow it down. Then he hit a short up-grade and came to a stop on the outskirts of the village.

BRISBANE THIS WEEK

If Five Dictators Unite England Is Feverish Gen. for a Good Gift. Gen. Mitchell Finds Rest. Rome hints that Mussolini and Hitler have arranged a protective treaty with Austria, Poland and Hungary. Five countries under dictators, united against England and France, still experimenting with the idea of a "craze," would be interesting.

Another Brisbane. Also, Hitler will remember that in 1914 Germany thought she had Italy in a "triple alliance"—Italy-Austria-Germany, but Italy didn't stay. Had she stayed, that war might have ended otherwise. That increases Mussolini's bitterness with England trying to cause Italy's defeat by barbarous Ethiopia.

Mr. Eden, young foreign secretary, tells England modern conditions are "dreadfully" like conditions before 1914. England must arm herself to the teeth and have, for final objective, "a world-wide system of collective security which embraces all nations in an authentic way, is unchallenged and unchallengeable."

Countess Barbara Hutton Hawgwis-Revontlow has a new baby boy weighing seven and a half pounds, and twenty million dollars; that in gold at the present price would amount to over thirty thousand pounds. Mrs. Barbara Hutton Hawgwis-Revontlow, as she holds that small baby, its eyes not focused, one small hand holding her finger, whether she would rather have the baby or the $20,000,000, and she will think your question still. She would not take a million millions for the baby.

This proves that all young young women who marries a kind young man may be richer than any "five and ten" heiress.

Gen. William B. Mitchell was buried on the family burial plot in Hallowell, Me., at 10:30 a. m. today.

Having fought all his life against the enemies of his country and the ability of his superiors, he was united peace at the last.

He lies beside his father, a United States senator from Wisconsin. General Mitchell has gone wherever patriotic, brave men are known that opposed him will not follow him there.

At Greenwood Lake, N. Y., a mill-riding race was held 2,000 feet from New York to New Jersey over Greenwood lake, while spectators smiled in derision.

Other spectators smiled when Fulton tried his first steamboat. In Madison, Wis., death masks of Indians, more than 3,000 years old, found in burial ground, lead back to savages of the Beakmo type that hunted mammoths near the beautiful Wisconsin lakes 15,000 years ago.

The world becomes gradually democratic. In King George's funeral procession everybody walked. At his father's funeral, the great all went on horseback, including King George's cousin, the former Kaiser, on a prancing white horse.

New King Edward VIII orders simpler uniforms, less fancy dressing in Buckingham palace. President Lewis, fifty, head of the miners union, plenty of cash on hand, offers William Green, American Federation of Labor, head of a campaign to organize 500,000 men in the steel industry. Mr. Green, a long-time union man, has not accepted the offer. He is more than ready to be for one man to become a tail for the other man's kite.

Dr. Alfred Adler, competent psychologist, says the Dionea quinqueling "should be separated, for their own good." Mothers will wonder how any psychologist could suggest separating a five small angels, Yvonne, Annetta, Octile, Emile and Marie.

Lights of New York by L. L. STEVENSON

The cold cut into the being of Jerry the Grifter he had been little knives. He wasn't much of a grifter—just ragged overcoat he had salvaged from a rubbish can in front of a tenement, an overcoat so utterly worthless it hadn't interested even the lowest second-hand man. Beneath that overcoat was a sweater which was heavy but had many holes. Instead of trousers he wore overalls. The whole he and they were content. He had no underwear. The last time he had gone to the "mummy" for a night's lodging he had worn overalls, and they had retained the underwear. It would keep him warm—or he could sell it and buy more smoke.

He had to get moving. If he stopped, those little knives would reach his heart. He didn't know why he hadn't sold them to do that. True, there would be a much longer forgetfulness than the strongest smoke could bring. There wouldn't be any more sleep in those pants. He'd be getting in fops when passing the door. He'd be getting in fops and gratings when it wasn't. There wouldn't be any more cops either. He'd get in fops and gratings when it was too much trouble. They'd be getting in fops and gratings when it was too much trouble. They'd be getting in fops and gratings when it was too much trouble.

At the next corner he turned. He didn't notice what street he was on—he didn't know any difference because he wasn't going anywhere. Just keep moving so he wouldn't freeze to death. His progress was slow. He didn't know where he had come from. Late. Maybe the night before he had had a dish of stew. He wished he hadn't thought about stew. It reminded him of the window. He had seen windows came into his notice. In them were big brown turkeys, roast ducks with their legs in the air, hams and other things. The windows were miles and miles of sausages. The keenness of his hunger dulled even the thrush of those little cold knives.

If he didn't eat soon, he told himself, he'd drop on the sidewalk. That would be bad. He'd gather him up and take him to the hospital. Then they'd send him to the workhouse. He might get six months. In six months it would be summer. Summer! Trains running out into the fields with meals for the sick. Not his kind of work. The sidewalk took on a curious undulating motion. Dizziness made him stop. Behind him he could see the policeman row after row of big pretzels—and the back of the owner was turned. The hand of Jerry the Grifter shot out.

Not a half block away, a lurch on his arm stopped his cry, gripping him by the neck. A cop had him, a big, solid, red-faced cop. But he wrenched himself free. The policeman was the last of those big pretzels into his mouth. The cop looked at him, then muttered something about not having the heart to catch a starving man. He hooked a note of grub. Still chewing the pretzel, Jerry the Grifter started away. He had something to eat, something to eat. Cops were his man after all. He was the possessor of a half dollar.

At the corner, Jerry the Grifter stopped. "I took four," he told the push cart owner. "So honest you are, I charge you with the venditor, returning 45 cents."

With the coins jangling in the pocket of his overalls, Jerry the Grifter headed for the Bowery. Pence was his. He no longer felt those little sharp knives. Hunger had ceased to gnaw him. The problem of bed and board was solved for the next 48 hours.

"Fingerprint" System to Identify Grass Species. Amherst, Mass.—Miss Elfriede Klauke, graduate assistant in the agronomy department at Massachusetts Agricultural College, is developing a "fingerprint" system by which she already is able to identify many of the 3,500 species of grasses.

Her method consists of a comparison of free-hand cross sections of various varieties and strains of grasses with permanent microscopic slides of known varieties. It is based on anatomical features rather than on external or microscopic features.

Alaska's Forest Area Now 70,000,000 Acres. Just released figures of Alaska's forest are estimated at 70,000,000 acres by federal foresters.

Two national forests, the Tongass in southeast Alaska and the Chugach, near Seward, include 21,347 acres. Average stand is about 25,000 board feet per acre. Most of the forest ranges from 7 feet in diameter, from 90 to 150 feet in height.

NOSE IS IMPORTANT LABORATORY TOOL

Sense of Smell Is More Delicate Than Taste. New York.—Smelling is so useful a practice in the laboratory that the nose has greater reputation as a tool of science. Dr. E. C. Crocker declares in Industrial and Engineering Chemistry, publication of the American Chemical Society.

The sense of smell, far more delicate than the sense of taste, detects one-hundred-billionths of a milligram of a strongly odorous substance such as vanillin diluted in eight of air. Doctor Crocker says. Five billionths of a milligram of artificial musk concentrated in a liter of air is within its range. Keen as the nose is, it does not approach single molecule sensitivity, for the nose perceives the sniff there are 40,000,000 molecules.

"If only one molecule in 1,000 of those sniffed falls on the sensitive area, some thousands are necessary to give a smell perceptible even with the most actively odorous agent," Doctor Crocker explains in a plea for "nasal education." The instrument that can detect a few millionths of a milligram and in some cases less than a billionth of a milligram, of the vapor of hundreds of kinds of organic substances should be used in the laboratory.

Compared to this refinement of perception, the sense of taste which has a limit of about 0.01 milligram, is gross. Valuable to Chemist. "It does not take much argument to convince an organic chemist that his sense of smell is of great value to his work. He is continually reminded by chemists, without a careful appraisal of the matter, give this lowly and despised sense even a portion of its proper credit."

Too little is known of either smells or smelling to render them valuable for scientific purposes, according to Dr. Crocker. He says that because of the lack of adequate language to describe odors accurately is hampering needed research which would make the nose most useful to both scientists and laymen.

The public, meanwhile, is growing increasingly odor-conscious, he points out, and is demanding a perfection in the odors of consumer goods comparable with the great improvements that have taken place in their physical qualities. The quality of cream, beef and miles and miles of sausages. The keenness of his hunger dulled even the thrush of those little cold knives.

Important as odors are both aesthetically and industrially, the present description of odors is wholly unscientific. The qualitative method of the sniffer nearly approaches the maximum possible with the sense of smell and sight.

Among perfume makers, the situation is not much better. A rigid annual education and discipline are requisite in the business. Memorizing the odors of all the ordinary flowers, fruits, and fragrant odors, as well as of vast numbers of pure chemicals, gives a rich background against which in question is projected and compared.

For an analytical system of classification was developed, Dr. Crocker says, even slight differences in defining odors could be expressed. Odors which are classified by a few elemental types, as colors are known in light and the tones in sound. The same system would be applicable to flavor, which is odor plus taste.

Fundamental types of stimuli which excite the taste buds on the tongue have been found to be sour, sweet, salty and bitter. But so such studies have been completed for the sensitive nasal sense, "no larger in area than two fingernails, located inaccessibly high in the nose, just behind and below the eye, a place particularly difficult of access for experiments."

To Move French River to Make Way for Airplane. Nice, France.—The task of moving a river to make way for an airplane is facing French engineers. The mouth of the river near Nice, in the south of France, is to be diverted. For some years the mouth has been gradually silted up, and a delta has been forming under the surface of the water. It is proposed to move the river bed 200 yards to the west, so that the delta becomes dry land. On this will be built an airfield. The moving of the river also will obviate the danger of flooding, which threatens villages on its upper reaches.

Harpooned Hippo Ambushes Boat; Stiff Battle Ensues

Angered because it had been harpooned a few days before, a hippopotamus lay in ambush and suddenly attacked a ferry boat operating on the Mpigiama swamp, a well-known Uganda waterway, near Nakuru. Chasing after charges was made by the infuriated beast, which nearly boarded the vessel, the water being shallow so that it could obtain a foothold. Six natives, armed with spears, fought the invader until the arrival of a European, who shot it amid songs and cheers from the deck of another vessel supplying to the rescue.

Embark on Dangerous Adventure

Party Leaves for Mt. Everest Climbing Attempt

The advance guard of a new expedition (the fifth) to Mount Everest left London recently enroute to Tibet, to prepare for the conquest of the world's tallest mountain. Left to right are: Dr. and Mrs. Noel Humphreys, Hugh Rutledge, leader of the expedition, and J. M. D. Gavin of the Royal Engineers.

The conquest of Mount Everest has long been the ambition of mountain climbers, but thus far has resisted even the most elaborate efforts to scale its dangerous slopes. The intense cold and rarefied atmosphere encountered on the climb make it extremely hazardous, and the rugged contours add to the perils.

It has only been within a few years that the Tibetan monks have permitted anyone to attempt the feat. Fears that the gods would be angered by the intrusion of white men were the reasons given by the lamas.

ORDER OF SALE OF FRANCHISE

By virtue of an order of the Rowan Fiscal Court, made and entered on the 2nd day of March, 1935, I shall offer for sale at the front door of county court house at Morehead, Ky. on the 15th day of March, 1935, at the hour of 1:00 P. M., or thereabouts, for cash in hand the following franchise:

FRANCHISE
IT IS RESOLVED AND ORDERED by the Fiscal Court of this County as follows:

Section One: That a franchise is hereby defined and created and the purchaser thereof or its legal representatives, successors, and assigns be and is subject to the conditions, obligations, covenants and agreements hereinafter contained and is hereby authorized and empowered to acquire, purchase, construct, lease, maintain, and operate in, along, across, under, and across the county, highways, streams, bridges, and public places a system or works for the conveyance, transmission and distribution and sale of natural gas from points either within or without the limits of said county to the county or the persons, corporation, or municipalities, located therein and from or through said county to the persons, corporations, municipalities or counties beyond the limits of this county and for the sale or distribution of said natural gas for light, heat, power and other purposes, to erect and maintain pipe lines, distributing lines, poles, wires, lines, and all other apparatus necessary or convenient for the operation of said system or works in, upon, across, along and under each and all county highways, streams, bridges, and public places in said county and to acquire and hold by law authorized any and all real estate, easements, water and other rights and to take water from the streams of said county as may be necessary or convenient for the operation of said system or works; to use within the present or future limits of said county any and all county highway, streams, bridges and public places as they are now or may hereafter be laid out while constructing or operating said system of works, and to place the pipe lines, poles, wires, lines, apparatus and other structures in, along, under, and across any and all bridges and streams to which this county may grant the authority for the purpose of constructing, maintaining, operating, or extending said system or works as may be necessary or convenient for the proper production or distribution of natural gas in or to said county and to make such contracts for the use of natural gas on such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon by the owner of this franchise and the party desiring to purchase the gas.

Section Two: All pipe lines, poles, wires, and other structures erected under this grant shall be erected so as not to interfere unnecessarily with the travel on such highways, streams, bridges and other public places and shall be erected under the supervision of the Fiscal Court or such other authority as the Fiscal Court may designate. All poles erected under this grant shall be not less than eighteen feet in height and shall be so located so as not to injure unnecessarily any drains, sewer, water pipes, or other public improvements.

WOMAN'S EMOTIONAL LIFE PORTRAYED IN FILM AT COLLEGE THEATRE FRIDAY

"Next Time We Love," which opens at the College Friday, is the portrayal of a woman's emotional life. Margaret Sullivan, star of the Universal production, contributes a performance which adds further proof that she belongs in the front rank of gladiators. Margaret portrays the role of a wife who pursues her stage and screen career while her husband runs down "big news" in foreign countries. Marriage, to the wife, seems to be a constant going and waving hello, until husband's friend comes along and shows her that he loves her.

But the friend is a square, decent fellow. The situations are tense with the wife's loneliness and the friend's tender longing. The husband then comes desperately ill and the wife goes to him in Rome. From that point the story flames to a climax as a blazing Yule log that send sparks magically into the night.

but should any paving, drain, sewer, water pipe, or other like improvements be injured by such location, the purchaser of said franchise shall forthwith repair the damage to the satisfaction of the Fiscal Court or County Engineer.

Section Three: Said purchaser shall indemnify and save harmless the County or Fiscal Court from any and all damages, judgments, and costs, which said County or Fiscal Court may legally suffer or incur by reason of the use and occupation of any highway, stream, bridge, or other public place in said county by said purchaser pursuant to the terms of this franchise, or legally resulting from the exercise by said purchaser of any of the privileges herein granted. Upon suit being brought against the said County or Fiscal Court growing out of the use and occupation by the purchaser of any highway, stream, bridge or other public place in the county, the County Judge shall forthwith notify said purchaser in writing of such suit in order that he may take such steps as he may deem necessary or proper to defend the case, if he so desires, and the right is hereby given to said purchaser to defend any suit that may be brought against said County or Fiscal Court. Section Four: All rights and privileges granted by this franchise are granted for the term of twenty-five years from and after the purchase of same as hereinafter provided.

Section Five: All provisions of this franchise which are obligatory upon and which inure to the benefit of said purchaser shall also be obligatory upon and shall inure to the benefit of all successors and assigns of said purchaser, and the word "purchaser" whenever used in this franchise shall include and be taken to mean not only said purchaser but also all successors and assigns of said purchaser.

Section Six: This franchise shall be in force and effect from and after the time the same shall be granted to the purchaser thereof.

Section Seven: It shall be the duty of the County Judge of this County, as soon as practicable after the adoption of the resolution and order, to sell at public auction to the highest and best bidder the above franchise at the Court House in the county seat of this county on some day to be fixed by him after advertising same by publication once a week for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in this county published in the county seat of this county and in making said sale he shall receive no bid for less amount than the costs of making this order and all costs attending said sale and the granting of said franchise, including the cost of advertising, and he shall report his action hereunder at a meeting of the Fiscal Court of this county subsequent to said sale, and the Fiscal Court reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Tournaments Hold Spotlight in Sports Next Two Weeks

Eight Teams Will Vie For Regional Honors Next Week

Ashland, Olive Hill and Mt. Sterling Probable District Champions

LANE TOURNNEY MANAGER

Eight teams, winners and runners-up in four district tournaments, will vie for high athletic honors at the Morehead State Teachers College next Friday and Saturday as the Fourteenth Regional High School basketball tournament gets under way.

The teams that will compete here will not be known until after the district tournaments have been run off this week. However, judging from season's records the outstanding combinations in the Fourteenth Region are Ashland, Russell, Catlettburg, Olive Hill, Breckinridge Training School, Grayson, Soldier, Mt. Sterling, Winchester and Cammaro.

All of these will not reach the Regional for many of them will meet defeat in the District meets. However, Ashland, Olive Hill and Mt. Sterling apparently are safe bets to appear here next week.

Breckinridge Training School of Morehead will meet stiff opposition in the District tournament at Olive Hill in their first game. Breck meets Allie Holbrook's strong Soldier combination.

Two beautiful trophies are on display at the business office at the college. They will be awarded to the winners and runners-up. Individual gold basketballs and individual silver basketballs will go to the champions and runners-up, respectively.

Clark B. Lane, who has been in charge of two previous tournaments, will manage this year's meet. He will be assisted by Athletic Director G. D. Downing, W. B. Jackson, Bill Hudgins and W. D. Scroggins.

The tickets for these "single admissions" for any one season will be placed at 35 cents—a lower figure than ever before. Reserved seat season tickets, of which there is a limited number, will go on sale early next week for two dollars. There will be no single season reserved tickets on sale, as the season tickets generally fill this section. The season general admission tickets will sell for $1.25. Season tickets will be on sale at the college business office, the Eagle's Nest and possibly other business houses in the city.

Contesting teams will have a representative here Sunday afternoon when the drawings will be held. Time set for all games, and tournament officials selected.

Soldier Team Victor Over Sandy Hook

The Sandy Hook basketball team weakened in the second half and lost to a crack Soldier five, 25-15. For the first half this was an outstanding game, first one team scoring a field goal and then the other. It seemed that they were evenly matched for a while, but C. Adkins was not able to play the entire game, due to an injury made last fall. Adkins was the outstanding player for Sandy Hook, as well as high point man. Houston of Soldier played a good game as did Coach Allie Holbrook's entire team.

Sandy Hook (15) Soldier (35)
Ward 4 F. 6 Ely
D. Skaggs 4 F. 2 Baker
J. Greene C. 4 Kelly
C. Adkins 7 G. 15 Houston
Ray Patrick G. 3 Cline
Substitutes—Sandy Hook: L. C. Frichard. Soldier: Cundiff (3).
Referee: Eddie Kufahl, Morehead.

Breckinridge Tears Grayson By 37-17

In their final game prior to the District Tournament at Olive Hill this week-end, the Breckinridge Training School had comparatively little trouble in subduing a highly-regarded Grayson five on the college floor.

Bobby Laughlin's boys, paced by Long with 11 points and Daugherty who scored 9, ran up a 20-7 advantage at the half, and with numerous substitutes in the game increased the advantage through the latter two quarters for a 20-point victory.

The game installed Breckinridge as the favorite to carry through the lower bracket of the district meet and an opportunity to play Olive Hill in the finals. Breck has come along fast under Laughlin's tutoring and are confident that they can take the Ekay Conference championships.

Norris tallied 9 points for scores honorees Grayson.

The lineup:
Breckinridge (37) Grayson (17)
Tatum 4 F. 1 Womack
Holbrook 2 F. 9 Norris
Long 11 C. 2 Hendrickson
Pritchard 5 C. 3 Wilhoit
Babb 1 G. 1 Pritchard
Substitutes: Breck—Daugherty (9); Fraley, (3); Crosthwaite, Ahles (2); Grayson—Huff (1).

Eagles Lose In Semi-Final Game

A great team flying the colors of Western State Teachers College, Bowling Green, won the K. I. A. C. tournament last week, after defeating Morehead in the semi-finals and Eastern in the championship match.

Morehead advanced to the semi-finals by defeating Union 34-32, but Western's height and superior shooting ability proved too much for the Doyntingmen. They lost 74-38 to the Bowling Green five. This marks the third consecutive year that Western has knocked the Eagles out of the meet. Each year Morehead has met the Hilltoppers in the second game.

Lawrence Carter, Morehead forward, who collected 15 points in both the Union and Western games, was selected on the all-tournament team. This is the first time that Morehead has had an all-tournament man.

It pays to advertise in the Independent. Ask the man who has tried.

Breck Team Rates As Good Bet In District Tourney

Morehead Hi Conceded Chance To Top Grayson In First Game

O. HILL IN EASY BRACKET

Breckinridge Training School is apt to prove the team that registers the major surprise in the District Tournament which will be held at Olive Hill Friday and Saturday. The Breck boys, under Bobby Laughlin's tutelage, have come along in remarkable style, winning their last three games over stiff opposition. They are regarded as one of the outstanding fives in the District meet.

In Long, the Eagles have a high scoring player and a good defensive man. He will be assisted by such players as Tatum, Holbrook, Pritchard, Babb, Daugherty, Fraley, Crosthwaite and Allen, all of whom have shown considerable promise.

Breckinridge and Soldier were both represented at the Regional Tournament last year, the former winning the District title, while Allie Holbrook's Soldier team fought through fast opposition to get to the runners-up spot. One of these teams will be eliminated in the first round of this year's meet, as they play each other. Both will have hard sledding if they win, for they must conquer the winner of the Morehead-Grayson game and one other team to go into the finals, and earn a right to compete at Morehead a week later.

Soldier has a good season's record, but Breck is a slight favorite to defeat them. The winner of this game will be favored to go into the finals.

Morehead High and Grayson tangled in another first-round game. Grayson is picked to defeat the Vikings, but a Morehead victory would not be surprising. Paul Combs has his full strength at this time, and Morehead High stands a chance to advance past Grayson. Hayes, Capdill and Tatum are the Vikings' outstanding players.

Haldeman's team rates better than an even chance to defeat Hitchens and advance into the second round, meeting the winner of the Breckinridge-Soldier game. The Leopards appear hardly as strong as either Grayson or Breck, although they held the latter to a good battle for three quarters in their last meeting.

Olive Hill drew an easy bracket and should go through to the finals with little trouble.

Merchants Capture Independent Meet

Combs' Team Cops Tournament Second Time

The Morehead Merchants basketball team, captained by Paul Combs, made a clean sweep in the Independent Teams Tournament at Ashland last week-end, copying the championship after scoring four victories.

In the first game the Morehead team conquerer Allen, winner of twenty-one of 23 titles during the season, by 43-19. The Merchants then won over Maytown 45-36, Betsy Layne 24-24 in the semi-finals and the Ashland Apes 29-22 in the finals. Combs was the outstanding man in the tournament besides being the high scorer of the meet. His work was little better than that of H. C. Smith, Morehead guard. Stanley Arzen only played one game, but was a star in that battle—the final.

Combs, Smith and Horton of Morehead made all tournament. Other members of the championship team are Pinky Jones, Ed Kiser, Thornton, Ishmael, and W. E. Crutcher, manager. All were awarded gold basketballs.

This makes two years straight that this team has won the Ashland tournament.

Haldeman's Leopards were far from being up to form in losing 17-15 to the Ashland Travelers.

SYNOPSIS

The youthful and comely "Widder" Marcia Howe has as her guest her husband's niece, Sylvia Hayden. A stranger, exhausted, finds her way to Marcia's home. He asks her to hide a package containing jewels and money...

Then she swayed, caught at a chair and shrank into it, her body quivering and her breath coming in gasping, hysterical sobs. The clock ticked on the surt above in muffled undertone, the light faded; the candles burned lower, flickered and snuffed out...

"Thank you, Elissa,—thank you a hundred times a lifetime,—but you do not need to be said. There was nothing more to be said."

But by now she was to outward appearance quite calm. She had not been able to be sure, to banish her pallor or the traces of sleeplessness; but she had her emotions sufficiently under control to talk pleasantly, if not gaily.

That day and the next passed in much the same strained fashion. It was not until the third morning that the barriers between the two collapsed.

Marcia had gone into the living room to write a letter. She sat down before the desk and started to take up her pen when Sylvia heard her utter a cry.

"What's the matter, dear?" called the girl, hurrying into the other room.

As Sylvia came nearer, Marcia bowed her head upon the desk and began to sob as if her heart would break.

"How could he be so cruel!" "What has happened, Marcia?" "Stanley—he has left a check—"

"I did it so gladly—because I loved him. He knew that. Yet he could leave this—pay me—as if I were a common servant. How could he have struck me—a hundred times rather."

The girl took the check. It was filled out in Stanley Heath's clear, strong hand and was for the sum of a hundred dollars.

"How detestable of him!" she exclaimed. "Tell me, Marcia—what happened between you and Mr. Heath? You are so sure of course I know that. But why—why? I have not wanted to ask, but now—"

"I'll tell you everything, Sylvia. I'd rather you say and repeat it all again than could I to myself, but I cannot. I need you to help me, dear."

Marcia unfolded the story of her blind faith in Stanley Heath; her love for him; of how she could neither resist nor control—a love she had known from the first to be hopeless. She confessed how she had struggled to conceal her feelings; how he himself had resisted a similar attraction in her, how at last he had discovered her secret and forced her to betray it.

"Of course I realize we could not go on," she explained bravely. "That we loved one another was calamity enough. All that remained was for him to go away and forget me—return to his wife, his home, and his former life. Soon, if he honestly tries, this infatuation will pass and everything will be as if he had never loved me—except his women. Absence, too, will help."

"And you, Marcia?" "I cannot give anything but love. It is all I have now. Oh, I do not mean to mourn over it, pity myself, make life unhappy. Instead, I shall be glad, thank you, that I can give more to you than I could ever give to any other woman. Absence, too, will help."

"I was a brute! I ought to have shielded you more," the girl cried. "I could have, had I realized. Well, I can get do something, thank heaven. Give me that check."

"What do you mean to do?" "Return it, of course—return it before Stanley Heath leaves town. I'll take it over to Elissa Winslow's now, this minute."

"I wonder—yes, probably that will be best. You won't, I suppose, be allowed to see Stanley," speculated she timidly. "If you should—"

"Well?" "Don't say anything harsh, Sylvia. Please do not blame him, or—"

"I'll write his neck," was the emphatic retort. "Oh, please—please dear—for my sake. I can't let you go if you go in that spirit," pleaded Marcia, "ring with me this minute. Want to see it?"

"I always enjoy looking at jewels," was her cautious retort. Horatio felt of his pockets.

"Where on earth did I put that thing?" he muttered. "Hope I haven't lost it. Oh, here it is."

"Oh, Horatio! Isn't it beautiful?" Sylvia cried. "It fairly takes away my breath."

"It's it on." She shook her head. "It wouldn't fit me. My hands are too small."

"I've a small ring. Here. Put it on." "Well, I suppose I might try to please you. But I know it will be too small."

"She slipped it on her finger. "Why, it does fit. How odd!" "Very odd indeed," he answered dryly. "It reached her hand and set the sun and turned the diamonds so that they caught the light."

"Looks rather well on, doesn't it?" was his comment. "It is a beautiful ring."

Horatio, standing behind her, twice extended his arm as if to gather her into his and then withdrew, deciding the action to be premature.

At length with a determined squaring of his shoulders, he locked his hands behind him and stood looking on while she continued to twist the ring this way and that.

"Well, you've had a fine time?" "Yes, indeed. I may as well put 'em back in the box."

"Yes, dear. You."

"That's right. You really can't see my own. I'm not so bad as I sound." Tucking the check into the wee pocket of her sweater, Sylvia caught her feet and perched it upon her curls.

"So long!" she called, looking back over her shoulder as she opened the door. "So long, my dear. I'll be back as soon as ever I can."

The haste with which she disappeared, suddenly precipitated her into the arms of a young man who stood upon the steps prepared to knock.

"Horatio Fuller," cried Sylvia breathlessly. "Horatio! Where on earth did you come from?"

Her arms closed about his neck and he had kissed her twice before she swiftly withdrew, rearranging her curls and saying coldly: "I can't imagine what brought you here, Horatio."

CHAPTER XI

"I can't imagine," repeated Sylvia, still very rosy and flustered, but with her arms outstretched, "what brought you to Whitos—I really can't."

"Can't you?" grinned Horatio cheerfully. "No, I cannot."

From his superior height of six-feet-two, he looked down at her meager five feet, amusement twinkling in his eyes.

Sylvia, however, was too intent on patting her curls into place to heed his glances and said to him presently inquired: "I wrote you to come."

"Well, at least you led me to suppose you'd like it if I were here," persisted Horatio. "Toward the bottom of page two you said: 'I am positively homesick; and in the middle of the back of page three you wrote: 'I seem very glad I've seen you.'"

"What if I did?" answered the girl with a disdainful shrug. Nevertheless the dimples showed in her cheeks.

"And that isn't all!" Horatio went on. "At the end of page five you wrote: 'Would that you were here!'" Sylvia bit her lip.

"That was only a figure of speech which I called postscript," he said. "Then you didn't mean it when you said you wished I was here."

Horatio was obviously disappointed. "Why, of course I am pleased to see you, Horatio. It's my nice of you to come to the Cape to meet my aunt and—"

"Damn your aunt!" he scowled. "I didn't come to see her. I am not interested in aunts."

"Take care! I happen to be very lonely on this aunt of mine. If she didn't like you, I might get sent home. Don't be harsh, Horatio. I truly am glad you've come. You must make allowances for my being nervous. I haven't met you since you got away at this season? And what sort of a trip did you have?"

"Well, I staid overnight in New York at the Gardners. Mother wanted me to deliver a birthday cake to Estelle, who you may remember, is the master's god-daughter. She's a pipkin, too. I hadn't seen her since she graduated from Vassar."

Sylvia listened. She did not need to be told about the Gardners.

They had visited Horatio's family more than once and rumor had it the elders of both families would be delighted were the young people to make a match of it.

"I'm surprised you did not stay longer in New York," Sylvia observed, gazing reflectively at her white shoe. "New York wasn't my objective. I came on business, you see. Dad gave me two months off so I could get married."

Sylvia jumped. "I was not aware you were engaged," murmured she in a formal, far-away tone.

"I'm not," came frankly from Horatio Junior. "But I'm going to be in fact. I changed my mind when I met this minute. Want to see it?"

"I always enjoy looking at jewels," was her cautious retort. Horatio felt of his pockets.

"Where on earth did I put that thing?" he muttered. "Hope I haven't lost it. Oh, here it is."

"Oh, Horatio! Isn't it beautiful?" Sylvia cried. "It fairly takes away my breath."

"It's it on." She shook her head. "It wouldn't fit me. My hands are too small."

"I've a small ring. Here. Put it on." "Well, I suppose I might try to please you. But I know it will be too small."

"She slipped it on her finger. "Why, it does fit. How odd!" "Very odd indeed," he answered dryly. "It reached her hand and set the sun and turned the diamonds so that they caught the light."

"Looks rather well on, doesn't it?" was his comment. "It is a beautiful ring."

Horatio, standing behind her, twice extended his arm as if to gather her into his and then withdrew, deciding the action to be premature. At length with a determined squaring of his shoulders, he locked his hands behind him and stood looking on while she continued to twist the ring this way and that.

Monograms Make Your Linens Doubly Precious

Varley's the Splice of Life—and monograms, too, for the smartest ones today combine letters in varying sizes. That's why we included four different alphabets—a large, a medium and two small ones—so that you may "scramble" your own. They work up easily and quickly, using a combination of satin, seed and but-tonhole stitches with a bit of cut-work.

Pattern 1126 comes to you with a transfer pattern of an alphabet 3 inches high and 2 inches wide; and two alphabets 1 1/4 inches high; information for placing initials and monograms; illustrations of all stitches needed.

Fire Damages Are Greater Than Flood Losses in U. S.

As a generalization, greater loss is caused by fire than by flood in this country. In 1933, fire losses amounted to $348,897,733; loss by floods, $25,322,410. In 1934, fire losses amounted to $275,632,000; floods, $5,500,000.

While fire losses are constantly high from year to year, the losses by flood vary greatly, being high only in certain years, when disastrous floods occur.

Barrels Hid Noted Papers; Queen's Tears Damp Stains

When Grant Dix visited the Register house at Edinburgh in 1862 he was shown a number of valuable and important state documents, including the list made by Mary Queen of Scots of her jewels and was told that this with many other valuable papers, had been taken to London in the time of Cromwell "and not sent back to Edinburgh" till recent times. These valuable papers were packed in log-hops and suffered much from the damp.

Even if other treasures have failed, don't be discouraged, your draught is authorized to guarantee Cromwell and to return you money if you are not satisfied with results from the next three issues. Get Cromwell right now. (Adv.)

NO TIME TO FAIL

In the opinion of the rulers of stars, marriage is never a failure if there are plenty of children.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchitis trouble, you can get relief now with Cromwell's Cough Remedy. It is a cough remedy that may be brewed and you cannot afford to take a chance with anything less than Cromwell's, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes of the gum-bud. It is loosened and expelled.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for March 8 JESUS AND THE LAWYER

LESSON TEXT—Luke 10:25-37. GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart...

1. How to inherit Eternal Life (vv. 25-28). The lawyer's question (v. 25). The term "lawyer" here means "one versed in the law"...

2. "Who is My Neighbor?" (vv. 29-37). The lawyer's question (v. 29). "Who is my neighbor?" This question reveals the insincerity of the lawyer...

3. To give to those in need (v. 34). Love does not calculate the cost of its actions. Whenever there is the calculation of the selfishness of our love...

Goodness There is an idea abroad among moral people that they should make their neighbors good. One person I have to make good; myself. But my duty to my neighbor is much more nearly expressed by saying that I have to make him happy if I may.
