MOREHEAD TEACHERS COLLEGE BANQUETS FOOTBALL SQUAD OF 1929 ANNUAL CLOSING FEATURE

Large Attendance In Honor of Fighting Squad Marks Official Close of 1929 Season—Toasts to Boys Congratulate Them on Showing Made Under Handicaps—President Payne Speaks for Faculty.

The Morehead State Teachers College was at its best last Monday evening when the school, faculty, Kiwanis Club, and friends turned out to honor the past season's football squad. Twenty-four players were the guests of the school in its annual banquet and it was easily demonstrated that the squad has a great following in season and out of season. The team deserved all honor bestowed upon it and they played the entire season handicapped in many ways and yet came out with as many victories as defeats after having played heavier teams than those who occupied a high place in "football-dom."

Allie Young Hall has been the scene of many social feasts but the banquet Monday evening in the lobby of this building was the most elaborate and enjoyable assembly gathered within its walls. The room was beautifully decorated in school colors and behind the speakers table hung the letter "M" which was beautifully lighted with the school colors. The tables were adorned with cut flowers arranged in colors of the school.

To Have Play At Christian Church

A play, "Two Masters," will be given Sunday evening, at half past seven, at the Christian Church. The characters are as follows: Mrs. Van Horne, a Christian lady of wealth who tries to serve two masters. Mrs. C. O. Peratt Mrs. Stewart, her invalid mother. Mrs. T. J. Trumbo Janet McCrea, a missionary's daughter. Catherine Powers Rachel, Charlotte, Helen Mildred Waltz, Margaret Calvert, and Elizabeth Davis; her college friends. Mrs. C. vonder Witt-Jones, a traveler and lecturer. Miss Humphrey The President of the Culture Club. Mrs. Lester Hogge

Dr. M. E. Staley Leaves For Tampa

Dr. M. E. Staley will preach his farewell sermon in Morehead on Sunday next, and leaves this charge to take up his duties in Tampa, Florida. Dr. Staley has been pastor of the Morehead Baptist Church for the past two years and during his pastorate has built up the attendance and the church property. His leaving is regretted by his many friends in this community. His family has been obliged on account of the health of their son to take up their residence in a warmer climate, which is the reason Dr. Staley is leaving this parish.

Morehead Club Has Christmas Party

The members of the Morehead Woman's Club enjoyed their annual Christmas meeting and party at the home of Mrs. S. M. Bradley on Tuesday night of this week, to which time it had been postponed to accommodate the free show put on by the management of the Cozy Theatre. Mrs. M. P. Davis, Mrs. S. M. Bradley, Mrs. Grace Ford and Miss Mary Griffith were the hostesses while Mrs. Bradley and Mrs. Ford had charge of the program.

Following the business session, at which the members decided to send a box to the Rowan county orphans in the Kentucky Children's Home, Mrs. Bradley favored the guests with two piano solos, Miss Mary Sue Miller sang and Mrs. J. Howard Payne read "The Birds Christmas Carol." A feature of the program was the Christmas poem which each guest was required to write. Mrs. Arthur Hogge received the prize as the best poet.

After the program the Club enjoyed their annual Christmas tree from which each member received a gift, and a stocking full of candy. Favors for the meeting were Club phone directories in which the names of the club members and their phone numbers were listed alphabetically.

Cats Lose By One Point In Wierd Game

A trip through the mud at West Liberty, a battle royal in which they outplayed their antagonists three to one, a pile up of fouls reaching the grand total of 37 free shots for West Liberty and a final score of 22 to 21 in favor of West Liberty after a bit of 21 to 21 in the final minute, these are the net results of the foray into the camp of the enemy, the Cats from Morehead High being the invaders.

Evidently West Liberty was all set to repel the invaders, and they did just that thing. The Cats actually outplayed the West Liberty boys, and if certain things had not happened they would undoubtedly have won by a comfortable margin. But the Cats were given 16 personal fouls and 5 technicals, making a total of 37 free shots for West Liberty. On the other hand the Cats drew only 5 personal fouls on the West Liberty boys and 3 technicals.

A summary of the game shows that the Cats made 18 of their 21 points by field goals and four from free throws resulting from fouls. The West Liberty team made twelve of the thirty seven free shots. In addition William Caudill made three perfect baskets which were not allowed, the referee claiming that they had touched a low ceiling and went out of bounds, before they were through the hoop.

It is not intended to convey the impression that the referee did not intend to do his best. It is evident that he failed to understand the game and the result was in the end only funny. The National Champions themselves could hardly expect to win a game with thirty-seven free shots against them, and the Cats, while good are not national champions. Finney Jayne and Fred Capdill both of whom played a whole of a game throughout the session, were put out on fouls; Prichard and Roy Cassity drew three each; William Caudill had two and Miles one. Through some oversight, Fred Cassity who was in the game only fifty seconds failed to draw a foul.

The Cats put up the best game they have played this season. In fact they played superb basketball. William Caudill scored 13 points although only seven of them were counted. Fred Caudill marked up 5 points and Fuzzy Jayne had 5 to his credit.

The game was stopped three times by the ardent fans who thought it was over and began celebrating, only to be started again and finally finished.

The Cats go to Grayson on Friday night of this week to meet the strong Grayson team who are rated as being one of the coming teams of the section. Haldeman won from Grayson two weeks ago by one point the same week they won from Morehead, but that margin, Grayson, however, at that time was just beginning practice and both teams should have improved considerably in the meantime. As many fans as can do are urged to accompany the team and help take the players. Remember that it is your school, and get behind your own boys.

NEWS TO BE OUT EARLY NEXT WEEK

Our next issue of the News will be published on Tuesday morning, in order to allow the time to get their Christmas without work or worry. News letters should be in the office not later than Monday noon for publication next week.

FISCAL COURT MEETS LAST TIME THIS YEAR

The final meeting of the Rowan County Fiscal Court opened today to conclude the business of the year of 1929. This is the last meeting that will be held by the court, as on January 1, 1930, the entire personnel of the court changes with new magistrates replacing all of the old and a new county judge at the helm.

ANNUAL COMMUNITY TREE AT HALDEMAN ON TUESDAY NIGHT MARKS HIGH SPOT OF SEASON

Event Has Come To Be One Of Outstanding Activities Of Haldeman Community—Program By School And Concert By Band To Be Features—Program In School Auditorium—Gifts To Be Distributed.

Prof. Haggan Has Christmas Party

The Men's dormitory was the scene of a beautiful social function Tuesday evening when the Prof. and Mrs. Haggan were hosts to the eighty-five men who room there. A beautifully decorated Christmas tree brightened the occasion and many of the men expressed themselves as "feeling back home." After spending an hour in social activities delightful refreshments were served.

The "Bearded Twelve" presented Prof. Haggan with a token of appreciation for his labors in making the dormitory home-like to them. Mary Caldwell Haggan was presented a beautiful doll by the men in the dormitory. From the beginning to the end the men had an enjoyable evening.

Everybody in Rowan county and particularly those in the neighborhood when old Santa Claus comes the great annual seasonal event that is held in that community each year at this time, the Haldeman Community Christmas Tree. And this year will be no exception. The plans have been laid, the presents have been bought, the program has been arranged, the tree has arrived, the decorations are waiting, and on Tuesday night, December 24 the kiddies of that entire community will be made the happiest kiddies in Rowan county when old Santa Claus comes down to deliver his offerings to the girls and boys of that community.

The Haldeman Community Tree has become a fixture in the lives of the people of that community, backed by the Kentucky Fire Brick Company. It has also become a fixture for the entire county, as the people of Morehead and other communities as well attend and enjoy the one big get-together of the year.

Each year the Kentucky Fire Brick Company gives a present to each child in the community whose father is an employee of the company. This year as last year each employee must call at the store to secure the cards for their children which entitles the children to their presents. A number of the employees have failed to call for their cards this far. Mr. J. E. Leigow who has charge of the arrangements has asked the school to call this attention to the oversight and to call for their cards at once, as unless the children have the cards they will not be entitled to a present. Employees who have not yet secured their cards should call at the Store Department at once to secure their cards and insure their children's. The distribution of presents will be made at the warehouse and will begin on December 20. This will distribute the work of putting out the gifts over four days and give every one an opportunity to receive his

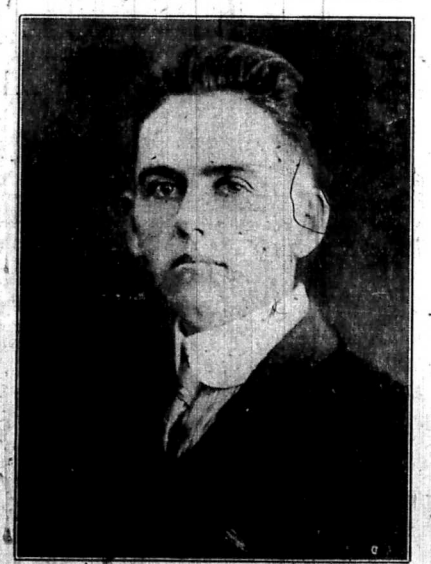

Blue Belles Drop One To Kittens

Springing a surprise on the Ashland Kittens last Friday, the Blue Belles from Haldeman gave the mighty state champions the hardest tussle of the year, when they held them to a score of 18 to 22.

C. B. Cloyd Bids Friends Farewell

Having resigned his work as pastor of the Morehead Christian Church and having accepted a call to the First Christian Church of Fulton, Kentucky I wish to take this opportunity to say a word to my friends in Morehead. I have been in Morehead nearly four years. In that time I have received into the Christian Church about 90 people, most of them by confession. When a preacher has this intimate contact with the homes of a community naturally he becomes attached to a lot of folks whom he comes to love. I have buried many of the older people and some of the little folks and had not a few weddings. These ex-

Capt. T. W. Rose Suffering Illness

Captain T. W. Rose has been seriously ill for the past few days and his death is expected momentarily. Captain Rose has been County Attorney of Rowan county for the past several years, and a resident of the county for many years preceding. He is not only well known in the county, to practically every man, woman and child, but is equally well loved. He has been noted for years for his kindness to people in distress and his many friends await with anxiety news of his return to health.

Marie Barbour Weds O. Howard

Miss Marie Barbour was united in marriage to Orville Howard on Saturday, December 14 at Cattedsburg, according to announcements made this week. Mrs. Howard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Barbour of this city, while Mr. Howard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Howard.

The young couple left last week for their home in Zoe, Kentucky, where Mr. Howard is employed as book-keeper for the Texaco Oil Company.

Mr. Howard is a graduate of the Bowling Green Business University, where he graduated last summer, and has been in Zoe in his present position since that time.

His brother, Lowell Howard who is also a graduate of the Bowling Green Business University is at home at the present time on a vacation. He expects to return to Pryse, Kentucky, in a few days, where he is also employed as Book-keeper by the Texaco Oil Company.

Cozy Theatre Gets Many Presents

The annual free Christmas show at the Cozy Theatre, given to the patrons of the show by the managers, Mr. Hartley Rattson and Mr. H. C. Willet, drew the usual large crowd, so large in fact that they were forced to give two shows that evening. Everyone who attended the show thoroughly enjoyed it, and expressed their gratitude to the management for their thoughtfulness and courtesy.

A feature of the show this year was the collection of gifts for the poor children of the community. Practically every person who attended the show, heeded the suggestion of the management and brought a gift. These were dropped into a barrel at the entrance, and the result was a large barrel and a box filled to the top with presents that will go to make many children of the community who otherwise would have had no Christmas cheer, happy.

The distribution of the gifts will be in the hands of the Woman's Club and the Rowan County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Owingsville Cops One From Cats

The Cats must have enjoyed a night of howling on Thursday for on Friday night they were entirely off-color in their game with Owingsville High School who defeated them after a wierd exhibition of basketball by the score of 17 to 15. The Tabbies were among the also rans, as well as the Cats, dropping the opener to the same school by the score of 19 to 7.

The Tabbies apparently could not get started right and had trouble throughout the game. Owingsville's center stood out in top form, making impossible shots from every angle. Apparently all she needed to do was to shoot the ball and it was good for two points. The Tabbies, however, are still improving, in spite of the seemingly one sided score, and before the season ends will be running in good form. Coach Hobrook has some excellent material, even though it is inexperienced and they are learning the fundamentals of the game.

CECILS RETURN FROM HUNT IN N. CAROLINA

John Cecil and his son, Jack and T. P. Anderson returned the latter part of last week from Asheville, North Carolina, where they had spent a week on a deer hunting trip. They enjoyed the trip greatly and said deer, but were unable to bring them down. T. P. according to reports received the thrill of his life when he saw his first deer at which he fired four times. "Buck fever" kept him from bagging the animal.

HOLBROOK SUFFERS IN AUTO WRECK SUNDAY

J. H. Holbrook was painfully injured about the neck and head Sunday in a wreck which might have proven serious as well. Mr. Holbrook was returning home from Salt Lick when his car skidded off of the road, into a ditch, driving his head against the top of it painfully injuring his neck. He is able to be out but is not able to be about his usual duties.

Morehead and Christmas Spirit

Speaking of the spirit of Christmas, the Spirit of Giving, the spirit of carrying joy and gladness into the lives of those unfortunate children who, through no fault of their own are unable to enjoy the season, the people of Morehead have a right to be proud of themselves for the remarkable gift barrels they filled at the Cozy Theatre on Monday evening. The announcement was made through the columns of this paper once, that the management of the Cozy was giving their annual free show on that evening and requesting that all who attended the show, bring with them some little package, some old toy or article of clothing that would serve to make happy the heart of a child, who otherwise might not be able to enjoy Christmas.

The response was truly wonderful. Instead of a small barrel of gifts, the most expected, there was not only a large barrel full, but a large box full as well. Nearly every gift in both was wrapped in Christmas paper and tied with Christmas ribbon, thus carrying out in detail the thought that makes Christmas the happy season it is. And not all the gifts were old. Many of the great hearted had gone to the stores and purchased gifts, new toys, new stockings, new clothing.

It was the spirit of the old time Christmas that prevailed, a spirit that in the rush and hurry of modern life has more or less been forgotten or overlooked. And as such it is a Christmas to remember. For if this season has a lesson for anyone, worthy of the learning, it is the lesson of unselfishness, the lesson of charity. And it would seem that Morehead and Rowan county have learned the lesson well.

OUTLINES STEPS

IN CURING PORK

The College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky outlines the steps in curing pork, a timely subject for many farmers.

Be sure that the carcass is thoroughly cooled out, as animal heat promotes spoilage. Trim hams, shoulders and bacon neatly. Fat edges do not make good cured products; they should be rendered into lard or made in to sausage.

Put a layer of salt on each layer of meat. Meat may be packed in oak barrels or on a table. If a barrel is used, bore holes in the bottom for drainage.

Allow a ham and shoulders to cure for 24 days to a month. Bacon requires 29 days to cure. Bacon requires one day and a half per pound to cure. No piece to remain in salt for more than 28 curing days. Any day after 28 curing days is a good curing day. Bacon requires 100 days in ideal temperatures.

Remove from salt. Brush off all the crusty layer of salt, wash in lukewarm water, hang and drip several hours. The water should be about 65 degrees.

Smoke with hardwood, hickory preferred, from three to six days or until amber in color.

With small brine, apply sorghum molasses to the flesh side of each piece of meat. Pepper may be used with sorghum, if desired.

Let hang two days before making a second application of sorghum.

Wrap with two layers of heavy paper, tie with cord, and then put in cloth bags. Make insect proof.

Hang in dry, dark smoke house.

LOCUST SET 4 YEARS

AGO IS FIFTY FEET TALL

Black locust trees planted in 1926 on 60 acres of land owned by the Franklin Flotzpar Company in Crittenden county were an average of 15 feet high when recently inspected by Clarence Hill Burrage, forester for the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky.

The purpose of the planting was to grow lime timbers, and also to utilize waste land, and to stop erosion and improve the soil. Mr. Burrage, who was consulted in planning the experiment, was agreeably surprised at the results. Lespedeza and other grasses have sprung up under the trees, erosion has been checked, and soil improvement begun.

The demonstration shows some of the possibilities in tree planting, especially on poor, dry soils, the forester said. There is much land in the state, gullied and depleted as was this Crittenden county land that could be restored and made profitable through timber growing.

NEW CIRCULAR ON FEEDING CHILDREN

"Feeding the Pre-School Child" is the title of a new circular issued by the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky. It contains many valuable suggestions on feeding, as well as suggestions for the preparation of foods and for establishing good food habits. A number of recipes are given. Copies may be obtained free of charge from county or home demonstration agents or by writing directly to the College at Lexington. Ask for extension circular No. 225.

BETTER FEEDING PAYS DAIRY MAN

An instance of increased profits as a result of proper feeding is told by J. E. Ownbey, tester for the Marston County Dairy Herd Improvement Association, in his monthly report to the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky.

During September this farmer fed a mixture of 4 parts of what bran and one part of cotton seed meal. He used what is known as the scap shovel method of feeding. The cost of grain for nine cows in September was $30, and the value of the products above feed cost was $40.

Mr. Ownbey recommended that the ration be changed to a mixture of 4 parts of corn, 2 parts of what bran and one part of cotton seed meal, and hat feeding be done according to production.

This was done, and in October the cost of grain for the nine cows $28, while the value of their products above feed cost was $79.50.

KENTUCKY FARM RADIO PROGRAM

The College of Agriculture will give the following farm radio program over the University of Kentucky radio: What Farm Radio Is, N. R. Elliot; WHAS the week of Dec. 23; Each program will begin at 12:45, central standard time.

LOW TEMPERATURES INJURE BEAN CORN

Kentucky is threatened with a seed corn shortage similar to that of 1918, says Prof. E. J. Kenney, of the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky. His statement follows:

"Corn matured late this year in most parts of the state, and when the below-zero weather spread over the state the grain still carried a large percentage of moisture. Very low temperatures, especially if they occur frequently during the winter, are almost certain to destroy the germination of damp corn. The situation this year as regards both weather and condition of corn is similar to that which occurred in the fall of 1917.

"If last year a wet fall delayed maturity and prevented the grain drying, zero weather visiting the state early in December and again a frequent intervals throughout the winter, the germination of practically all corn, either in cribs or in the field, was destroyed. Seed corn had to be brought into the state from other areas at considerable trouble and expense. Much of this corn was poorly adapted to Kentucky and gave poor results. There is danger that the same situation will occur next spring.

"Most farmers take their seed corn from the crib in the spring, and if several more periods of below-zero weather occurs during the winter it is likely that little crib corn will be fit for seed. In fact, it is not at all unlikely that germination has already been injured more or less. However, if seed ears are selected at once and dried in a warm place, a fair quality of seed may yet be obtained.

"It is worth going to a great deal of trouble to get the seed ears thoroughly dried, even to the extent of hanging them up in the kitchen for a few weeks. It will do little good to hang them up in a cold place now; artificial heat is absolutely necessary in order to dry out the corn and prevent further damage."

New Epoch of Confidence for Railroads

MORE than five and a half billion dollars have been invested in the railroads of the United States during the decade since 1919. This brings the total investment, according to the Interstate Commerce Commission, up to approximately $25,000,000,000.

This great amount of new capital has enabled the Roads to build up their plants to a new state of efficiency. The whole economic life of the nation has thereby been stimulated.

Demands for cars have been promptly met; schedules shortened and effectively maintained; equipment improved; operating methods made more efficient.

A spirit of optimism and enterprise has succeeded the state of despondency that existed when the railroads were turned back to their owners at the close of the war.

Manufacturers are planning with vision for the future. The great progress of manufacturing establishments and industry in general is being matched by the steady development of America's rail highways.

As they are preparing now to handle safely and expeditiously the great Christmas rush of passengers and freight, the Railroads are confident that no other utile-tide service could bring more universal well-being and happiness.

The "DESERT MOON MYSTERY"

By KAY CLEAVER STRAHAN.

CHAPTER I—Sam Stanley, well-informed housekeeper, Mary Ma-

mer wife's twin daughters, Danielle and Gabrielle, are coming the ranch to live, their mother being dead and their father, Daniel Cannellano, who had been the cause of Sam's divorcing his wife, in the penitentiary. Sam has adopted a boy, John, now grown to manhood, and a girl, Martha, twenty-one, physically healthy but weak-minded. Mrs.

Ollie Ricker, Martha's nurse lives with them.

CHAPTER II—Hubert Hand, a wanderer, and Chastwick Caulfield, John's wartime buddy, who is an expert ventriloquist, are the other members of the household. The girls arrive.

CHAPTER III—Mrs. Magin has an uneasy feeling that there is a sinister motive in the twins' presence at the ranch, and her suspicions are strengthened by the girls' mysterious prowling around the place. John becomes engaged to Danielle. Caulfield shows a pronounced liking for Gabrielle.

CHAPTER IV—Gabrielle seeks to win John from her sister, and John, disgusted, tells Mrs. Magin the girl is a trouble maker and he would like to choke her. Gabrielle's actions when she receives a letter from France arouse and mystify Mrs. Magin.

CHAPTER V—Sam learns Canthe garden. Danielle, from upstairs calls to her sister. Caulfield comes back alone. In a few minutes Danielle comes into the living room.

CHAPTER VI—Mrs. Magin finds Gabrielle, choked to death, with tobacco ashes beside her. Despite her terror at the discovery of the body, she realizes that the ashes must be from Sam's pipe, he being the only one calling the household, Caulfield commits suicide.

CHAPTER VII—The coroner's verdict is murder and suicide. Sam finds a note left by Caulfield confessing proves that he could not pipe smoker, and conceals them being he killed Gabrielle, but the ranch proves he could not have done it, and the entire household is under suspicion.

CHAPTER VIII—Danielle shows Mrs. Magin the letter Gabrielle had received from France. It is in code typewritten.

CHAPTER IX—At a conference of all the members of the household it is revealed that the girls came to the ranch hoping to find the proceeds of a train robbery in which their father had participated and which Lewis Bauerment, has hidden there. Danielle tells them she found tobacco ashes on Gabrielle's bag, beside the body and practically accuses Sam of the murder.

It seemed to me that, when Sam's pipe hit the floor, it made poise like dooms, cracking. We all sat still as been more than a minute, but it seemed a long time before John left Danny's side and went and picked up the pipe and handed it to Sam.

"It's all right, dad," he said.

"Not by a d—n a sight it's not all right," Sam came back to his senses vigorously. "But it's interesting—this thing. It is the most interesting anyway. Let me see if I had not told you to get that pipe from Chad to help—and I could have, by telling him it was some joke by which I had of hand—I could have snatched out of the barn, met her and killed her, during that hour. When could I have got the body upstairs though? That's the first missing link. My reason for killing her would be another, but—"

"Say! See here, dan," John cut in.

"You shut up, son. We are waiting to hear the rest of what Danny has to say. Come, Danny can't supply either of those missing links?"

"No," she said, and sighed. It was easy to see that she was plumb tuckered out. "No, of course I can't."

"Sam, you look here—" I began.

"You shut up, too, Mary," Sam said.

Mrs. Ricker spoke. She had her would any more think of telling Mrs. Ricker to shut up, than they would think of telling any other dumb object, that suddenly started to talk to shut up.

Sam said, "Shucks!"

I thought John would be the first to speak. I was mistaken.

It was Danny herself who said, "Make her talk, now, Uncle Sam. Make her talk now, and give her reasons for saying such a cruel, wicked, lying thing."

"Mr. Ricker," Sam put the question very solemnly, "have you any reasons for making this accusation?"

"I have a feeling that she is guilty."

"This," Sam said, sternly, "is no time for feeling, nor for quibbling. You made a serious accusation—straight out. I want your reason, or reasons for making it, and I want them just as straight."

"I have no reasons," Mrs. Ricker said. "That is why I suspect her."

"Ah-ah! Women!" Sam said; and the way he said it, it was the blackest oath he had used that day.

"I think," I said, talking fast to keep Sam from shutting me up before I could get anything said, "that if, in suspicuating an innocent girl like Danny, Mrs. Ricker is simply 'giving in' on her slattern's instigation, she'd better pass it up, for the present, and listen to some plain business sense."

"Gaby came downstairs at four; Danny called after her, right then; so Danny was in the house right then. Gaby went to the rabbit hutch and stopped long enough to give Martha the bracelet. Almost as soon as Martha was in the house with the bracelet, Danny was downstairs with us, cool, collected, and undisturbed. Now suppose that Gaby had come

Save a Long Haul By Bringing Your Tobacco to a LOCAL MARKET

I am prepared to pay you as good prices as you can get in neighboring markets and save you the expense of a long haul. Bring your tobacco to my warehouse in the building formerly occupied by W. T. Baumstark and Co. opposite the Court House.

Our warehouse opened only a few days ago and we are delighted with the patronage we have enjoyed. The farmers who have brought in their tobacco say that they are more than satisfied with the treatment they have received and the prices we have paid.

Give us a Chance to Serve you! An independent buyer who will make you money.

THE STORY

CHAPTER X

A Part of the Past.

SAME PRESCRIPTION HE WROTE IN 1892

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as today. People lived normally, ate plain wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air. But even that early there were drastic plagues and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings. The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice and which he used in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is still a woman's remedy, suitable for women, children and elderly people and they need just such a mild, safe, and effective one.

This prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling remedy because it has not the usual results of purges, but gives relief without headache, biliousness, flatulence, or any loss of appetite and does not create morbid depression, drowsiness, or any other ill effects. "Syrup Pepsin" is the gift, Monroville, Pa., has the right to be proud of.

which is probably not far off in the future.

Mrs. S. M. Bradley gave a brief review as to the early history of football under the topic of "The Board Approves." Mrs. Bradley said that she too would like to see the Morehead school with a splendid athletic field and properly equipped.

Captain Gordon Kershner expressed his appreciation for the loyalty of his men during the past season and Edgar McNabb, who was chosen Captain for the 1930 season said that he hoped to make as good a captain as Kershner and that the school support him as it has athletics the past season.

Coach Downing made a brief talk on the handicaps his men played under but at no time was their courage or stamina below eb. He spoke of the team's loyalty to him and to the school.

The program was sprinkled with peppy songs that fitted the occasion, and lead by Dale Haven, head of the department of music.

Sweaters were presented to the members of the Varsity team Wednesday morning in chapel as they failed to arrive for the banquet.

military or naval forces of the United States between April 6, 1917, and November 11, 1918, for a period of over sixty days. More than a million World War veterans have thus far failed to claim their "Bonus." This is money that legitimately belongs to World War veterans or their dependents. It is in the form of a twenty-year paid-up insurance policy, and is a nest egg for a rainy day or the nucleus of an estate for the protection of the dependents of World War veterans. Each certificate has a cash loan value, in proportion to its face value, two years after date of issuance, which makes it an available fund for emergency purposes. It has already proven to be invaluable in the thousands of cases in which veterans have died, leaving their dependents nothing else.

Where a veteran has disappeared, the claims of dependents for the World War Adjusted Compensation must be filed within seven years after the disappearance of a veteran if the seven years expires before January 3, 1930. The law provides in effect that where a veteran has been absent from his home and family continually and unexplained for the period of seven years, during which time no information of his existence has been received, he will be considered as dead for the purpose of the Adjusted Compensation Act, and, if he did not make application for the Adjusted Compensation, his dependents shall have the right to file application within the seven year period, but before January 3, 1930. Dependents of missing veterans should file application before December 31, 1929, without waiting until the expiration of the seven year period or until the veteran has been declared dead by the Veterans' Bureau.

Every post official is urged to canvass the membership of his Post in search of those veterans and the dependents of deceased or missing veterans, who have failed to file application thus far. It is suggested that wide publicity be given this matter through the press and by word of mouth so that all veterans and their dependents may receive a certain warning to file their claims without further delay.

Application forms may be had from Post Adjutant, Jack Cecil. There are still many in Rowan county who have not filed applications for insurance.

OFFICIAL ENCOURAGEMENTS
AGRICULTURAL STUDENTS
Larger farms, greater use of machinery and electrical power, better marketing facilities, tax relief, and lower production costs will improve conditions of agriculture, according to Renick W. Dunlap, assistant secretary of the United States Department of Agriculture, speaking to the faculty and students of the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky.
He expressed the opinion that farmers cannot expect much higher prices for their products, but must seek larger profits by reducing their production costs. He believes that this can and will be done through the use of more machinery, larger scale farming, better marketing, and the shifting of some of the burdensome taxation from the land.

Mr. Dunlap declared that lower cost of production would do more to make profitable than laws and government help. He is convinced that farmers must organize, as other industries have done, or else continue to labor under a handicap. He urged the students to assist in organizing agriculture when they return to their farms.

The speaker said it is surprising that anything is left of agriculture, considering all that has been said about it in the last few years. No other industry could have survived such a deluge of discouraging talk, he said.
Mr. Dunlap brought a message of hope and encouragement to the 200 young men and women enrolled in the College of Agriculture.
JUNIOR CLUB MEMBERS
WIN AT INTERNATIONAL
Kentucky 4-H agricultural club members won several high places at the International Live Stock Exposition in Chicago.
Miss Ruth Harris, of Campbell county, won first on her school canning exhibit, which she assembled and took to Chicago. Miss Harris was state canning club champion this year, and clothing club champion in 1926.

Three Boyle county 4-H club girls won high honors at the Chicago show. Miss Frieda Egger was first in exhibiting five jars of different vegetables; Miss Ruth Stockwell won first in the canned meat exhibit, and Miss Elizabeth Cloyd placed well toward the top in judging baked foods.
Another Kentucky 4-H club girl to do well at Chicago was Miss Virginia Oldham, of Daviess county, who made an exhibit in window decoration.
Twenty-six Kentucky 4-H club boys and girls won trips to the International Live Stock Exposition.

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS
Graves county farmers have purchased 125 head of dairy cows this year, and three modern dairy barns have been built in the county.
Wolfe county farmers who raised chickens and turkeys are reporting satisfactory returns. Dairying is growing rapidly in the county.
Five new herds of purebreds here-fords have been established in Meade county. A breeder who has been in the business several years has sold $2,500 worth of purebreds this year.
Many Trigg county farmers saved espedeza seed in anticipation of a large average next year.
Five hundred and seventy-six of the 680 junior 4-H club members in Pike county completed their year's work. Twenty local leaders assisted in the work.
Nineteen Lee county farmers who fertilized their own corn land at the suggestion of the county agent report an average increased yield of 11 bushels to the acre, and a profit of $1,343 from 169 acres.
B. A. Lawless, a Russell county farmer produced about $4,000 and $5,000 worth of apples and peaches this year. Most of his fruit was sold locally.

Dainty Salads With A Holiday Touch

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept., U. S. Home Company

WHEN we entertain during the holidays, it's nice to serve foods in keeping with the season. But with so many parties at this time of the year, it is not difficult always to be ready with something a bit different.

Salads that can be served at "company" meals offer an excellent opportunity to add a holiday touch. Special frostings for cakes may be simple, and yet decidedly "Christmasy".

These suggestions for giving an unusual touch to foods are not too difficult for even the busiest hostess to follow.

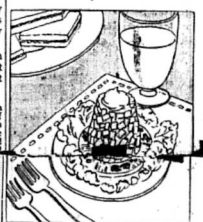

Christmas Wreath Salad—With a sharp knife cut the centers from rings of canned pineapple, so the remaining ring is only about 1/4 inch wide. Place this outside ring on crisp lettuce. Chop the remaining center part of the pineapple and stir in mayonnaise and place a mound of the salad in the center of the pineapple ring. Wash small red grapes, cut in halves and remove seeds. Place the halves of grapes closely together on the pineapple ring to represent berries on a wreath. Cut a maraschino cherry almost in half. Spread out the sections to form a wreath on the salad.

Serve crisp cookies, macaroons, or frosted angel food sponge cake, or nut bread cream cheese sandwiches with this salad.

Christmas Salad—On two heart leaves of lettuce, place one slice of stuffed orange that has been preserved in grenadine syrup (fruits in grenadine syrup may be had in many grocery stores). On the fruit heap one tablespoon whipped cream salad dressing and top with a green grape.

Holiday Salad—For this salad, use white grapes, sliced peaches and pineapple (1 1/2 inch cubes). Skin grapes, cut into halves and seed. On a salad plate place three small lettuce cups, putting grapes in one cup, peaches in another and pineapple in the third. Garnish with sprigs of real artificial holly. Serve with a dressing made by folding 1 cup sweetened whipped cream into 1 cup of mayonnaise.

Ham and Tongue Salad—(A holiday salad for the party where there are men). Shake thoroughly together in a jar, 2 tablespoons pure olive oil, 2 tablespoons pure vinegar, a few drops of onion juice, 1/2 teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper. Pour this dressing over 1 cup cold cooked ham, 1 cup cold cooked tongue cut into thin strips, and 2 cups tiny string beans. Mix thoroughly and allow to stand in a cool place for an hour or more.

When ready to serve, place together a ring of onion and a ring of green pepper on a nest of lettuce, and put a generous helping of the salad into the ring thus formed. Surround by slices of stuffed Spanish olives and serve with the following cooled salad dressing.

Mix 1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard, 1/2 teaspoon salt and a dash of paprika, add the yolks of two eggs, and mix thoroughly. Add 1/4 cup butter and 1/4 cup pure vinegar. Cook over hot water, stirring until smooth and thick. Remove from fire and fold in one stiffly beaten egg white. When the dressing is cold and ready to serve, fold in 1/2 cup whipped cream. Serve this salad with hot rolls and coffee.

Old Time Christmas Dinners

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.
H. I. Heins Company

TUCKED away in a corner of our hearts all of us carry over the holiday spirit from one December to the next — and no other day in the year seems quite like Christmas.

Gifts and a tree are important parts of the celebration, of course; but Christmas essentially is the day for a big, old-fashioned family dinner. Women today are fortunate that a large part of these meals can be prepared in the modern way — by someone outside of the home. Soups, relishes, preserves, mince meat and old-time plum and fig puddings may be purchased ready to use. With their aid, any hostess can serve a savory dinner without those endless days of preparation that were necessary in grandmother's time.

To decorate the dining room, hang holly about the walls, lights and pictures. A bowl of fruit with sprigs of holly stuck in it makes an attractive centerpiece for the table. Bits of holly tied with red ribbon may be put at each place, too.

For the menu, I'd suggest:

Creem of Potatoes
Celery
Roast Turkey or Goose with Stuffing
Mashed Potatoes
Creamed Brussels Sprouts
Fresh Cucumber Relish
Crabapple Jelly
Malaga Grape and Pineapple Salad
French Dressing
Plum Pudding - Hard Sauce
Coffee - Ban Buns

Creem of Potatoes
Celery
Snow Mixed Pickles
Spanish Olives
Roast Stuffed Little Pig
Mashed Potatoes
Baked Onions - Cold Slaw
Apple Butter - Hot Parkerhouse Rolls
Poinsettia Cake or Fig Pudding
With Ice Cream
Christmas Casserole
Coffee

Poinsettia Cake
1/2 cup butter; 1 egg; 1 egg yolk;
1/2 cup milk; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 1/2 cup flour;
2/3 cup sugar; 1/2 teaspoon baking powder; 2 egg whites; 1/2 cup walnut meats, broken in pieces.

Creem butter and sugar thoroughly. Add egg yolks and continue creaming. Add alternately 1/2 cup milk and 1/4 cups flour sifted with 2/4 teaspoons baking powder and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Add 1/4 cup nut meats, and bake in an oblong shallow pan. Cover with creamy frosting.

Creamy Frosting.
Cook together slowly, without stirring. 2 cups granulated sugar 1/2 cup cold water, and 1/2 tea spoon pure cider vinegar. (vinegar always helps to keep frostings fine grained and creamy). When dropped from the tip of a spoon, the syrup forms a long thin thread, that does not shrink and is without bubbles, remove from fire and pour slowly over two stiffly beaten egg whites, stirring constantly. Beat until creamy and spread over cake. With a cord which has been dipped in gold water, mark the frosting into squares. Place a bit of walnut in the center of each square and radiate from it thin strips of maraschino cherries to represent Poinsettia petals.

or her present without the rush that has made it difficult to reach everyone in the past.

It is requested that everyone who has a card, present it as early as convenient, so that all will not wait until the last minute to crowd in.

The program this year will feature music and is being provided by the children of the Haldeman Consolidated School and the Log Cabin Band, a musical organization of local talent which was organized last year. The band consists of 15 pieces and all members are employees of The Kentucky Fire Brick Company. They have been practicing diligently for this program and will undoubtedly surprise their audience.

Everybody in this entire county is most cordially invited to attend this program and Community Christmas Tree. The program and Tree will be held at the auditorium of the High School and will be well worth your hearing.

This is Haldeman's Big Night in the year, and they ask that you and every citizen of the county join with them in spreading Christmas joy and gladness to the little ones of their community. Remember the program and tree will be held on Wednesday evening, Christmas Eve at the Haldeman High School Auditorium.

east:

In a game the outcome of which was in doubt until the last minute of play, the Ashland Kittens marked up their third consecutive triumph of the year last night at the High School gymnasium, beating the fighting Blue Belles of Haldeman 23-18. But be it said for the Haldeman misses that they gave the Kittens as hard a game as they have had in two years.

The fray was fought on even terms during three quarters with the Kittens taking their lead during the second period. After a torrid first quarter showed the visitors setting the pace 5-4 with the Kittens holding a 15-9 advantage at half-time.

One field goal was the best Haldeman could muster in the third and the Kittens were held to three free flings, the final canto opening 18-11.

Last Period Nightmare

That last quarter was a nightmare Adkins and Hicks punctured the net from long range and the score narrowed to 18-15. Captain Young made one of two free tosses for the Kittens and the count was 18-15. Moore fairly fought the ball into the basket from well inside the foul circle. Hicks rang up another from the floor. Barber dropped a crisp in for Ashland and Patterson scored on a foul. The teams were fighting desperately when the game ended.

Miss Hicks, the recharged Haldeman tornado, did more scoring than any other member of either team. Twice she pumped long shots into the hoop and connected one from close range. Three of her five free throws were good, giving her a total of nine points. In addition to leading both teams in shooting she played a swift floor game and was a power on the defense.

Captain Bessie Clise also shone brightly for the Blue Belles, her best work being done on the defense. Another leading performer was Adkins, whose dribbling and passing carried the ball within shooting distance a number of times. She rang up six points to her credit.

Clever Shots

The Haldeman girls used a fast-breaking, dribble-pass system which, with their clever distance shooting, proved very effective. They connected with six floor goals in twenty-four tries. They did not have a single crisp try, the closest goal being made from the foul line. They had two shots, this close in, the rest being well back on the hardwood.

But Ashland must pay a tribute to the Haldeman lassies. They furnished the largest crowd of the season with the most interesting game yet played. They never quit trying and they'll go a long way in cage circles this season.

This is the fourth year a member of the Haldeman Blue Belles have been together and they have developed a great offensive as well as a defensive team. For the past three years the team was coached by Roy Holbrooks at present coach in Morehead High School. This year it is being coached by Prof. Mobley, principal of the Haldeman school.

Owingsville Wins

The Cats opened the game listlessly, like the morning after the night before. They appeared not to know that there was a basketball game on, and not to care if they did know. As a matter of fact they might have been over confident, and then again they might not. At any rate during the first quarter they allowed Owingsville to outplay them and run up a lead that they were unable to overcome later in the game. The first half ended with the visitors enjoying the lead end of the score of 10 to 6.

The second half showed a decided reversal of form on the part of the Cats, although it happened a trifle too late to count in the net result. The Cats actually did their stuff and outplayed the lads from Owingsville by a satisfactory margin. During this half they piled up 9 points to 7 for the visitors, William Caudill being high point man in the scoring. But it was not enough, and Owingsville carried away the game by the score of 17 to 15. The Cats incidentally were not hitting, and missed a number of shots that would have changed the score. The point is that they didn't make them.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Cats have won but two minor contests thus far this season, they have the making of one of the best basketball aggregations in this section of the state. With Fuzzy Jayne, Watt Prichard, William Caudill, Fred Caudill, Roy Cassity, Peck Robinson, Gene Miles, Fred Cassity and Graydon Hackney, to work out and a number of other promising boys to develop, the team shows promise after the holidays when they will be a formidable combination. They have been handicapped thus far for a number of reasons. First they went directly into the basketball season from a strenuous first year football season, which slowed them up considerably. Second they had a number of green men who had to learn the game from the beginning. But chief among other reasons was the fact that the Cats are playing an entirely different type of game from that used last year. This is said not in criticism of the last year team but in explanation. The result of the change in style has been that the boys have had to unlearn practically all they learned last year and at the same time adapt themselves to the new style, a thing that is even more difficult than taking a green man and teaching him from the start.

However, the Cats are fighting Cats, and learning Cats. Within the next few days we predict that they will start their winning streak and then fans may sit and watch them romp through the rest of the season. The material is there and the boys are willing to spend their time in practice, so there is no reason why they should not win the majority of their games after the holidays.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS TO YOU

straight back into the house. I guess every one would agree that it would take her five minutes to get back upstairs. That would have to kill her, and come downstairs, as I've said, collected and undisturbed. Come to think of it, Gaby could not have talked to Martha and got to the attic stairway in any five minutes. At the widest figuring, that leaves Danny about five minutes—

As I had been tearing he would stop. "That's all right," Sam stopped. "But there is no need to draw so long a bow. No need to count minutes on Danny. The note in Gaby's bag fixes her innocence better than all the minutes on the clock could."

"No, it does not," Mrs. Ricker said. "Gaby knew that she had reason to fear an enemy. She probably found that out from the code letter. She may never have suspected that the enemy was her own sister."

"I wish I knew," Sam said, giving Mrs. Ricker a long look, "what you are getting at, Mrs. Ricker. I'd give that," Sam dangled out his right hand, "to know what any one of you was getting at. I think Danny would have to be pretty hard put to it, before she'd invent that story my pipe ashes. See here, did any one else think they saw my pipe ashes around here?"

I imagined I could feel Hubert Hand's eyes boring into me. My face burned. I raised my eyes. Sam was staring straight at me.

"Mary," he said, "you found the body. Did you see pipe ashes there, then?"

My only excuse is, that it takes longer than a minute or two minutes to betray a person who has been your best friend for twenty-five years.

"I said, 'No.'"
"I am going to ask you to swear to that. Somebody get the Bible." Nobody moved. "You haven't caught any of the others in what I was sure was a direct and deliberate lie."

I felt weaker than filtered water. It is one thing to tell a lie, offhand into the free air. I haven't much use for a person who can't do that, when absolutely necessary. It is another thing to put your hand on the Good Book and swear to a lie. I know that I could not do it.

"Martha," Sam said, "run and get the Bible for dad."

Martha seemed to be sound asleep. I did not notice anything queer about her appearance. Mrs. Ricker must have noticed something queer. She jumped to her feet and dashed across the room to where Martha was lying. A shriek went piercing through the house, splintering the air into quivering bits of agony.

Every one was awakened from sleep, cold with the sweating terror of some hideous nightmare, but with only the vaguest impressions of its detail. So it is with me, and that nightmare hour. I can not reconstruct it. It remains, yet, in my mind as nothing but a horror of confusions.

Some of us made desperate attempts with restoratives.

I remember Sam's crying, with his face uncovered like a child. I can hear him saying that he had given her a sleeping powder, had forced it upon her. I can hear, plainest of all, Mrs. Ricker's voice, with all the pent up passions of years breaking forth in torrents of heartbreak.

"My baby. My baby girl. My darling. Mother's life. Mother's heart. Speak to mother. My lamb. My baby."

Her voice again, but cruel now, as she shrieks at Hubert Hand. "Stand there, you beast! Stand there, dry eyed and look at your dead daughter. The child you deserted. The child you ignored."

I remember the feeling of the fresh air as I walked beside Sam, who was carrying Martha, out of the house. I think that it was John who explained to me that the doctor, who had left Telko, was going to meet us on the road, in order to save time. I remember Mrs. Ricker's scream, when—futile, unnecessary horror—Sam stumbled with his burden as he went to step into the sedan.

The doctor, who was younger and more cruel than even a doctor has a right to be, said that Martha had died from a stoppage of the heart, undoubtedly induced by the strong drug in the sleeping powder that had been administered. In other words Sam had killed her. He loved her. How deeply he had loved her, none of us had ever had sense enough to realize.

We had her funeral, and Chad's, two days later. All the people in the valley came. At first, I thought that they had come to honor the dead, and stand by the graves, and watch the faces about me, faces that held suspicion, horror, curiosity, sly faces, cruel faces, eager faces, I did not care to think why most of them had come.

There were only four of us around the table that evening. Mrs. Ricker had gone straight to her room after the funeral. Danny, with no protest from Sam, had left the day before to take Gaby's body to San Francisco.

"You people," Hubert Hand spoke suddenly, to Johanna, Sam and me, "have been awfully decent about not asking questions since the other afternoon."

"Never mind that, now, Hand," Sam answered. "I've known, since the first week you came to the ranch, that there was, or had been, something between you two. You'd been her lover, I suppose. Well, no matter. That's all. I reckon you deserved her, eh? And treated her like a—, generally. And she found a refuge here. And, later, probably, heard that you were in trouble, and sent you a letter and told you to come here. Put you wise about the chess racket. Help you. Made a refuge for you. Women."

"I suppose she slipped poor Martha in, in place of the child she'd got from the orphanage—used the same papers. Well—to keep on repeating myself, mothers do. You and she have both lived straight and acted decent for the years you've been here. If the two of you want to keep on living in this h—l hole, and keep on straight and acting decent, you'll get the same treatment from me you've always got."

Hubert Hand pushed back his chair, got up, and walked to the window. "By G—d, but you're a white man, Sam!" he said. "You're so d—n white that you make every one around you look yellow as sulphur by contrast."

"You've got it doped out right about Ollie Ricker and me. She was twelve years older than I was—always felt like that was kind of an excuse for me. Guess not, though. She was a good enough girl until I came along just of prison, and as rotten as two years in prison can make a kid. That's pretty d—n rotten. She kept me pretty straight for a while. I thought to have married her, and I know it, before the kid was born. But she was so jealous that she made life a living hell for me. I—well, I wouldn't marry her."

"It was her fault that I got sent up the second time for forgery. She talked to a girl friend of hers, and he girl snitched. Up to that time, I think that Ollie Ricker talked more than any living woman. She took a vow, the day they got me, that she'd never speak an unnecessary word again in her life. I'll say she's kept that vow pretty well. I wish to God I'd taken the same vow, before I shot my mouth off about John, the other day."

"You don't think that I did it, then?" I wished John could have seemed less eager."

"On the square," Hubert answered. "I don't see who else could have done it. That makes no never minds I wish I'd kept my mouth shut, on account of Sam—"

"Leave me out of it," Sam growled, "and forget it. Forget the whole d—n thing, if you can. I'm through—I'm a fool. A girl not killed on the Desert Moon ranch. A boy killed himself for love of her. The killer got clean away. So far as I'm concerned, it is going to rest there. I'm closing the book. Soon as I can, I'll sell out the d—n place, lock, stock and barrel."

"That doesn't go for me, dad," John said. "And I think you'll change you mind. I'm not willing to go on the rest of my life with half a dozen people think that I killed Gabrielle. No sir, not with one person thinking it. Here's another thing, dad. Danny honestly believes that, some way or other, you are mixed up in this thing. We can't marry, with a thing like that between us. I guess it doesn't make any difference in the way we feel
