Progress Is Keynote As New Chamber Reviews Past Year

—Galiano Hears Resume

Progress, expansion and consolidation were the keynotes of the past year in Galiano Chamber of Commerce.

President Steve Riddell recalled the term of his office in the chair when he addressed the chamber at its annual meeting on Friday evening, February 3.

Expressing his appreciation of the work of his committee, Mr. Riddell recalled that he had seen the Chamber of Commerce established on the island; he had served during the period of its consolidation and that it was now in a position to achieve some results. All this had developed during his term of office, he commented.

The various committees of the chamber offered progress reports on the many phases of the chamber's activities.

North End Road has been widened during the past year, reported E. Lorenz, and considerable blacktopping has been carried out. The long-sought North End cut-off has not yet been established, noted Mr. Lorenz, but it has been promised for the coming year, as well as still more blacktopping.

EQUIPMENT

Mr. Lorenz added that a large grader and loader are now stationed on Mayne Island for the use of the islands this year.

Fare increase on the Vancouver Island ferry link will only be applied if the Cy Peck is taken off the route and a larger, more suitable vessel takes its place, announced C. Williams, of the transportation committee. Mr. Williams explained that the chamber and its associate groups had experienced considerable difficulty in retaining the summer schedule until January 3. On January 5 former deputy minister of highways, Evan Jones had announced that the 15 per cent rate hike would be subject to this proviso.

A new float has been built at Whalers Bay, reported Mr. Williams and construction is scheduled to start on small boat landing at Montague Harbor later this month.

Publicity for Galiano Island had been sent out as far east as Ontario, reported Mrs. H. D. Barner, chairman of the publicity committee. Dinners and annual picnic were enjoyed during the year, reported Mrs. Barner. She also expressed her thanks to E. C. Ketcham for his assistance during the year.

Mr. Ketcham, speaking as chairman of the civic affairs committee, reported that the new post office had gone into business very smoothly. The rural mail route was extended during the year, he also noted.

The pay telephone station was established at Montague Harbor during the year, continued Mr. Ketcham's report and a number of new telephone circuits have been installed on the island. He also referred to the impressive new sign at Montague Harbor.

Treasurer's report was submitted by H. Pelzer.

Co-operation with other islands has been very close and warm during the year, President Riddell told the meeting.

1,219 Passengers In January

Ferry traffic between Anacortes on the American mainland and Sidney, Vancouver Island, saw a further decrease during the month of January.

While during the same month in 1960, 471 foreign and Canadian cars and a total of 1,714 passengers patronized the Washington State ferry system in both directions, during January 1961 only 363 Canadian and foreign cars and 1,219 Canadian and foreign passengers left Sidney and Anacortes to cross the strait.

Comparing figures compiled for December, 1960, the decrease of the ferry traffic is even more evidenced.

During December there were 522 Canadian and foreign cars and 1,981 Canadian and foreign passengers using the ferry system connecting the United States and Canada.

NINE DAYS' FOOD SUPPLY IN RESERVE

Stockpiled foodstuffs will last for nine days on Vancouver Island in case of an enemy attack.

Sidney Commissioner J. H. Larocque outlined a detailed civil defense report by the department of the provincial secretary at the meeting of Sidney council on Tuesday night.

Magazine At Airport Is Torn Apart As Fill Goes To Sidney

Workmen of the firm of Yaroshuk Brothers Transport B.C. Ltd. of Westview, B.C., are carrying out a contract involving demolition of the old magazine which was constructed by the department of national defence on the south side of Patricia Bay Airport for storage of ammunition during the Second World War. This firm was the successful bidder when tenders were invited recently by the department of transport.

A large quantity of fill which surrounds the magazine is now being trucked away, a considerable portion of it being delivered to the old village of Sidney dump on the southern extremity of the municipality.

When the magazine has been fully exposed, it will be blasted and the concrete remains trucked away.

Water Election Next Week

G. A. GARDNER

C. GANDERTON

Two trustees will be elected to a two-year term on Sidney Waterworks District board of trustees on Wednesday, Feb. 15. The annual meeting of the district will take place in St. Andrew's Hall at 8 p.m. Two retiring trustees, G. A. Gardner and Clifford Ganderton will offer themselves for re-election. A keen attendance is expected in token of severe restrictions imposed during last summer on the use of water and the wide concern currently felt throughout North Saanich regarding a water supply.

IN SIDNEY HOTEL

Expensive Furs On The Hoof At Chinchilla Show Here

Many thousands of dollars' worth of expensive fur garments were running around on the hoof in Sidney Hotel on Saturday. Occupying the banquet room more familiarly seen as the headquarters of Sidney Rotary Club were 139 prime examples of the fur-bearing Chinchilla.

The animals were on exhibition by the provincial branch of the National Chinchilla Breeders of Canada. An eager crowd of over 50 breeders sat in the banquet room while three visiting judges assessed the animals and then proceeded to explain their decisions.

The judges watched the chinchillas and the breeders watched the judges. The chinchillas watched everything, content in the knowledge that even those which missed the top brackets were destined to bring a substantial price when they eventually appeared to grace some evening gown at some time in the future.

"You wouldn't buy those exhibits for $20,000," an official of the show told The Review.

The judges, Bert Owens, of Victoria; W. Atwater, of Vancouver, and E. W. Heldt, of Everett, Washington, illustrated how judging animals could be simplified as they sped through the lists, reaching a prompt assessment of every animal in the show.

A few bystanders appeared to watch the proceedings, but the majority of visitors were, themselves, concerned with breeding chinchillas. Most were from Vancouver Island with a substantial sprinkling of mainland farmers. None were from south of the international line. Show champion was that exhibited by Mr. and Mrs. H. McIntosh of Lulu Island, while the medium color champion was shown by Mrs. E. Hampson and the light color champion by W. Butt, both of Victoria.

Local exhibitors included J. Lee, of Royal Oak, who took six awards; Norman Alexander, of Saanichton, gaining one ribbon and Frank Kirby, of Sidney, with 10 ribbons.

PACIFIC WATERWELL

Wooldridge Flower Carton Well Received By Growers

Warm acclaim has greeted the new flower packaging carton invented last year by Ray Wooldridge of Pacific Flowers Ltd. The carton is expected to cut handling time in half between the packaging of the flowers and their delivery to the retail consumer.

The carton provides for vertical storage of blooms and permits their successful storage in the carton upon its receipt by the retailer.

At the close of the month the "Pacific Waterwell Carton" will be displayed to the rose-growers convention in Detroit when representatives of the industry all over the continent will gain a first-hand demonstration of its function.

The carton is loaded by the grower

TO CANVASS FOR LICENSES

Dog owners in the Village of Sidney who have avoided paying taxes for their pets will be surprised in the near future when an authorized canvasser will call at their homes to sell dog tags.

Village Clerk A. Sharp told the council on Tuesday night that up to date only 18 dogs, including two spayed bitches are registered. Fees are $2 for a dog and $3 for a bitch.

Still Room For More Ladies In Sanscha Fitness Classes

Two weeks ago Sanscha, in an attempt to get the recreational side of the organization off the ground, called for 40 females for a keep fit program.

On the first Friday of the 10-week course there was an encouraging turnout. By the second week they were in operation and Miss Joan McKee, program director of the Victoria Y.W.C.A., who is the physical education instructor for the Sidney group, had the unusual experience of being applauded by the class at the end of the session.

Now the target has been reached, with 40 enrolled, Miss McKee would be happy to see another 50 register. The hard-working Sanscha committee has added its gratitude for the response.

Stores in Sidney and North Saanich will display new Sanscha bulletins on coming programs and announcements will be made in this newspaper.

CADDY COMES OUT TO RELAX AT SIDNEY AND GAINS CONVERT IN SHORT ORDER

Caddy is back to the Peninsula. Not even a sea monster hangs around Victoria when he can relax in the quiet pleasure of the Peninsula.

The near-legendary sea monster was seen out for his morning swim by John Walker, 9025 First St., at about 12:30 a.m. on Sunday. Caddy came to within some 400 yards of the beach, apparently checking up on developments in the area since his last visit.

The observer took him for a log at first. When the "log" moved off to explore the sea around James Island, Mr. Walker realized that he was watching through his binoculars something more active than a deadhead.

Mr. Walker described him as about 20 feet long and a dark brown in color with a hump on the back. Having explored the James Island area, Caddy submerged silently to leave the Sidney waters.

Caddy served two purposes in coming out here. He enjoys a quiet relaxation far from the raucous cries of the city streets and he brought enlightenment to a Sidney man. Mr. Walker had previously discounted stories of Caddy's existence. He has now been converted and any time Caddy stands in need of a champion, Mr. Walker is his man.

GALIANO

Williams To Head Chamber

C. Williams was elected president of Galiano Chamber of Commerce at the annual meeting on Friday evening. He succeeds Steve Riddell in that office.

Following his election Mr. Williams announced that the last council meeting of the chamber had decided to shelve its efforts to close the inner channel to commercial fishermen.

Serving with Mr. Williams are vice-president, W. Rainford; secretary, Mrs. C. Williams; treasurer, H. Pelzer; committee, A. Steward, G. Steward, E. C. Ketcham, F. E. Robson, E. C. Ketcham, A. Carr, I. P. Denroche, G. Sidders and S. Riddell.

Mrs. J. Street called for a vote of thanks to the retiring executive, after which the new directorate was sworn in by Capt. I. G. Denroche.

$2,365 By Marching Mothers

Collections in North Saanich and Central Saanich by the Marching Mothers yielded more than $2,000 for the poliomyelitis and rehabilitation fund.

Directing the campaign on the Peninsula was Mrs. J. H. B. Watson, of Brentwood.

The figure topped last year's level by $500 when a final total of $2,365 was achieved.

Expressing his warm appreciation of the response in this area, Executive Secretary A. G. F. Sutton, of the B.C. Foundation has particularly thanked the 240 volunteer marching mothers who canvassed the district for the campaign.

Brisk Sale Of Licences In Sidney

License plate sales are brisk in Sidney, Village Clerk A. Sharp told The Review. Approximately 600 license plates totalling $20,000 have been sold so far this year.

On all license plates and drivers' license fees the village retains a commission of three per cent. Customers have come from Victoria, Royal Oak, Central Saanich and North Saanich as well as Sidney village.

Council decided on Tuesday night to keep the village office open on Saturday, Feb. 25, to give latecomers an opportunity to obtain their license plates for 1961. Deadline is the last day of February.

Floods Not Yet Solved

—At Sidney

"There is no indication that any immediate action will be taken by the provincial government in the North Saanich and Sidney flooding problem," stated Commissioner A. A. Cormack in his detailed report at the council meeting on Tuesday night.

Village commissioners learned that John Tisdalle, M.L.A., recommended several means of improvement to ease the flood problem in this area in a letter to Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi.

Continuing his public works report Commissioner Cormack told the council that clearing of Brush on Beacon Ave., First St. and Eight St. has been completed. The winter-works concrete sidewalk program also has been finished.

The garden centre at the new ferry compound in the village is beginning to take shape. A water main has been installed there with an off-branch, providing for two outlets.

In conclusion, the works committee chairman stated that approximately 1,000 yards of fill had been dumped and partly spread on the park area. Another 2,000 yards have to be hauled to complete this project.

Aged Picture Of Early Aircraft

It was only wood and wire, but this early monoplane was in regular use by the Allied forces during the First World War. The ancient picture shows Ambrose Readings of Sidney in one of the Blériot planes he helped to build during that war.

Long before the advent of the jet plane, before aviation rose above a few thousand feet above the ground, the name of Blériot was among the giants of the infant industry. Louis Blériot was the pioneer of flying in France and rose to international acclaim when he won the Daily Mail prize for making a channel crossing between France and Britain, in 1909.

The name of Blériot was equally well known to a quiet North Saanich contractor.

Ambrose Readings, who makes his home at 5049 East Saanich Road, made his own way to England during the First World War to contribute what he might to the war effort after having been rejected by the armed forces.

It was a happy decision for the North Saanich man. For the arduous years of the war, in England, he was constantly employed with the company manufacturing Blériot, and Inter, Spad and Avro machines. The Blériot was the pioneer, while the Spad was the still famed military machine with various features specifically intended for aerial fighting. The Avro of that period was a lumbering, heavy bomber.

The Blériot, first machine to come within the realm of the volunteer aero mechanic, was mostly employed as a scout machine during its service in the first war. It was originally equipped with a Gnome 5-Cyl. 75 h.p. engine. This engine was produced during the first war period. A product of the Paris factory of Gnome and Rhone, it finally went out of production in 1921, when the manufacturers turned their attention to automotive and other equipment. The Gnome Rhone armoured motorcycle was in service with the French in my when the Second World War broke out in 1939.

Mr. Readings recalls that each craft was checked out by test pilots from the Royal Flying Corps. To pass the test, among other requirements the plane had to reach an altitude of 6,000 feet in six minutes. Many times Mr. Readings went up with a stop watch in his hand to check the required climbing ability.

There were only few instruments aboard the machines and flying depended entirely on weather conditions.

Later on, when the factory was transferred from Brooklands, Surrey to Addlestone in the same county, bigger flying machines were manufactured with 7-cylinder engines, with greater speed and higher altitude limits.

Only Light Yacht Traffic At Sidney

Yacht traffic in Sidney Harbor was slightly higher than during the same period last year.

In January one Canadian and two foreign vessels cleared customs. In January 1960 there was no yacht traffic.

RAINY, SUNNY AND WARM IS CHARACTER OF JANUARY

January weather was characterized by much above normal temperatures, rainfall and hours of bright sunshine, reports the meteorological office of Saanichton Experimental Farm. The first 15 days of the month were very wet with a total precipitation of 4.6 inches and little sunshine. The last half was relatively dry with 60.3 hours of bright sunshine. During the first half of the month, especially on the 13th, heavy flooding occurred.

The monthly mean temperature of 41.4 deg. Fah., was 4.8 degrees above the 49-year average. The mean maximum temperature of 46.5 deg. Fah. and the mean minimum of 36.3 deg. Fah. were 7.5 degrees and 1.4 degrees above the long term averages respectively. The highest temperature of 55.7 deg. Fah. was recorded on the 11th and 30th, while the low of 26 deg. Fah. was recorded on the 29th.

Rainfall was slightly more than double the monthly average: 19.36 inches as compared to 9.03 inches for the 49-year average. The heaviest rainfall, 2.0 inches, occurred on January 15 and there were 17 days with rain. No measurable snowfall was recorded.

The monthly sunshine amounted to 76.4 hours compared to the 49-year monthly average of 63.2 hours. The average daily sunshine was 2.46 hours.

Agriculturally January was quite favourable. With the mild temperatures cold season crops continued to make slow growth.

Farewell For Active Couple Departing For Edmonton

Hardworking members of the community during the past few years, Mr. and Mrs. B. Mutch have moved from Sidney to Edmonton. They have both been engaged in organizing sporting activities for the youngsters of the district through Sanscha, and P.T.A., and have been most active members of the Royal Canadian Legion and Auxiliary. Mr. Mutch has been the hall manager, and an extremely busy one since the completion of the new Legion Hall, while his wife, elected Sergeant-at-Arms for the auxiliary, has also been responsible for the organizing of the successful smorgasbords held at the Legion, and a very capable member of the banquet catering committee.

Last week, to honor the departing members, more than 50 friends gathered at the Legion Hall for an evening of dancing and singing. Impromptu music was provided by A. Moulton, C. Erickson, S. Erickson and H. Simpson.

On behalf of the members, auxiliary president, Mrs. J. D. Pearson pinned on Mrs. Mutch a corsage, while Legion president, W. T. Green, presented the couple with a pure wool blanket, and wished them success in their new home.

SHOWER FOR BRIDE-ELECT

Mrs. W. Crook, of 1703 Wains Cross Road, was hostess to a shower in honor of Miss Gladys Wedel, February bride-elect.

The varied gifts were brought before the bride-elect in a miniature decorated house. The guests included the following: Mesdames A. Green, W. Goertzen, G. Hochstetter, W. Johnson, C. Janke, M. Payne, D. Rafuse, E. Schockenmair, C. Turner, C. Weatherby and the Misses Eileen and Doreen Crook, Sharon and Coleen Kinghorn.

Flower Show On April 22

Evidence that spring is at hand was shown by the enthusiastic turn out of North Saanich Garden Club members at the February meeting in the Hotel Sidney.

President Mrs. H. R. Townshend was in the chair. The monthly competition was an arrangement of spring flowers with members bringing lovely bouquets of snowdrops, combined with other blossoms.

Winners for the evening were: 1. Mrs. C. F. Hunt; 2. Mrs. H. R. Townshend; 3. Mrs. L. Taylor.

Date for this year's flower show was set for Saturday, April 22. There will be no students' garden contest this year. The winners of last year's trophies will be entitled to retain them until September 20 of this year.

Mrs. M. Watts volunteered to head a committee to enter a floral display in the Victoria Horticultural Society's flower show in the curling rink sometime in June. Mrs. C. H. Joy was introduced as a new member.

A. C. Bain, of Sayward Road, was the guest speaker. He spoke on house plants, and his address proved to be very interesting.

He donated his collection of plants to the club and they were sold at the conclusion of the meeting.

The president conducted a question period and encouraged members to discuss their problems. Coffee and cookies were served after adjournment.

FINAL PLAY FOR CRIBbage FANS AT LEGION HALL

Final evening of play for the cribbage tournament sponsored by the auxiliary to the Royal Canadian Legion, will be held at the Legion Hall, Mills Road, on March 4.

During the past months, these evenings have been held at various homes in the district, and have become so popular that the most recent one held last week had numbered 21 tables of cribbage and five tables of "500".

Last week's winners were D. McGahn, Miss V. Harrison and low, Mrs. H. Brown, with the men's scores set by C. T. Skinner, Bert Wearmouth and low, Cliff Burrows.

Draw was won by Mrs. E. Gummer and consolation prizes by Mrs. McAndrew, Mrs. Brnithwhite, Mrs. Doney and G. Swift.

Keen interest in scores for the last games will be shown, for leading the tournament is R. McCutcheon with a lead of just four points over I. B. Seardfield, followed closely by Fred Allen, and the following four scorers still close enough to win. Playing for first place in the ladies' scoring are Mrs. Fern Moulton and Mrs. Alice Nunn.

VALENTINE TEA AT K.P. HALL

A Victorian Posy will be featured at the Valentine tea in Sidney's K.P. Hall, Saturday, Feb. 11. At 2:30 p.m. the tea will be opened officially by Mrs. Hanley, mother of Rev. Father P. Hanley, pastor of the parish.

Based on the novel by Leonard Wibberley, the film tells how the world's smallest nation, the Grand Duchy of Fenwick, declares war on America so that it can enjoy the "fruits of defeat" imposed by the generous victors. Unexpected seizure of a terrible secret weapon helps Fenwick to win the war. The political satire is produced by Walter Shenson and directed by Jack Arnold.

Church Group Plans Fall Bazaar, Oct. 21

Meeting of the W.A. of St. Paul's United Church was held in the church parlors on Wednesday, Feb. 1, with 16 members present.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. B. Dawson, who is still in hospital, Vice-president Mrs. J. Pedlow took the chair and opened the meeting with a hymn.

The past president, Mrs. W. Palmer gave the devotional reading, "Paul's Letter to the Romans". During the business session, minutes of the last meeting were read and reports of circles received.

Mrs. Palmer was appointed to be a delegate at the presbytery meeting to be held at St. Aidan's Church, Victoria, on February 28.

Discussion took place if it would be advisable to continue with the A.O.T.S. dinners as only nine members were at the last meeting.

Fall Bazaar will be held on October 21, Meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction, after which a no-host lunch was served.

Whenever we advertise "Broadcloth" we specify the basic material content - e.g. "Cotton Broadcloth", "Silk Broadcloth", "Wool Broadcloth". We use the word only to describe a closely woven fabric of a certain type—for example, we insist that a cotton fabric, to qualify as broadcloth, must have no less than 100 x 60 threads per square inch! NOW IS THE TIME

ON Wednesday evening, Feb. 15, the annual meeting of Sidney Waterworks District will be held in St. Andrew's Hall in Sidney.

Since last year's annual meeting there has been a wide interest in the affairs of the district. This interest arose when restrictions were imposed on watering gardens during the summer months and many a lawn was left dry and sere as a result of the drought.

They should be vitally interested and every consumer of water within the district should be in attendance on Wednesday to hear the annual report.

MORE POWER TO HIM

MORE power to Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt. He's most anxious that the name of Esquimalt-Saanich federal constituency be changed.

There's no doubt that Reeve Wurtele's plea is well founded. There could be justification for changing the name to Jordan River-Saanich or Sooke-Saanich constituency.

RECENT investigation into the death of a pedestrian who had been struck by a passing vehicle in the City of Victoria has made headlines for several days.

This problem of the hit-and-run driver is one which has plagued the police all over the world since the inception of the automobile.

Behind the wheel every citizen is a potential criminal. In no other walk of life is the ordinary citizen more liable to find himself in court facing a charge whose essence frequently lies in the fact of his being present at the scene of the accident rather than any willing responsibility for the incident of which he is charged.

Time after time a driver is arraigned for a serious charge as a result of a car accident, only to be acquitted finally after incurring a heavy bill for proving his innocence.

There is only one action the honorable driver can take after an accident and that is to comply with the law and remain on the scene.

Perhaps if the law were amended to provide that the court bear the costs of the acquitted driver, there would be less hit-and-run incidents reported.

TEACHERS' SALARIES

TEACHERS' salaries are under debate not only in Saanich School District but all over British Columbia and in other provinces as well.

In a recent editorial The Lethbridge (Alta.) Herald takes note of these facts and points out that "teachers have advantages that the other professions do not enjoy."

The Herald winds up as follows: "Teachers' salaries have improved a good deal, especially in Alberta, in the last few years, but the spread between them and the other professions is still too large."

"However any further increase in teachers' salaries ought to be accompanied by higher professional standards. There are too many misfits in the profession, and it's almost impossible to weed them out."

BOOK REVIEW

"The Crowded Sky", by Hank Searls. Harpers. 256 pp.

At one time the man in a plane had the sky to himself. When, on rare occasions, he saw another plane he felt an exhilaration at finding a kindred spirit.

Then came the era of modern air transport, with air liners making regular scheduled trips between every city in the world.

This story is based on the rules established in the United States. There are two major characters, a DC 7 and a Navy jet.

Both pilots are fully aware of the rules. Each knows that he must maintain his route and his altitude.

The air traffic control on the ground is the third party to this drama and the reader gains an insight into the manner in which this aerial traffic cop controls his traffic while unable to see any of his charges.

The writer is a former navy pilot. He is also an experienced aviation journalist.

"Toward the Diagnosis of Congenital Heart Disease", by W. Carelton Whiteside, M.D., Charles C. Thompson. 86 pp. $4.50.

This is not a book whose significance here is the reaction of the average reader. It will never be seen by the average reader.

Commencing with "Alpha", Dr. Whiteside explains the book. The arrangement of information, he notes, is not original.

With his final comment, "Omega", the writer expresses the hope that the summary may assist the doctor who uses it to gain some assistance in the field it covers.

To attempt to interpret the pages lying between Alpha and Omega would be pointless on the part of the layman.

In passing it is worthy to note that even the layman can understand and appreciate many of the anecdotal comments interspersed between the medical information.

The book will undoubtedly bring the writer acclaim within his own profession and thereby a degree of distinction to his community.

Another question I would pose to you—Do you really think, no matter who promises what—that the government would be justified in spending so many millions of dollars on a project that is doubtful of need in this area and if finally built will it be a paying venture?

SANSCHA LAUNCHES NEW YOUTH RECREATION PLAN

Directors of Sanscha are taking a close look at the recreational needs of the children in the community. Visualizing Sanscha Hall as a recreational centre of the district, they have launched new plans for offering a substantial program to the youngsters of the district.

Last week they invited Art Burgess, physical director of the Y.M.C.A. in Victoria and Lloyd Henderson, senior instructor, to Sidney for preliminary talks.

In areas such as Sidney, where the "Y" is too far away in Victoria for full use by the youth of the North Saanich area, the combined board of Y.M.-Y.W.C.A. is willing to come out and do extension work.

It may be possible to set up a branch in this area. Sanscha has the building and the Y.M.-Y.W.C.A. the equipment and leadership.

The "Y", Mr. Burgess told Sanscha committee, is not interested in revenue. They would like to see the youngsters make use of the training and equipment that is available.

Mr. Burgess also told the committee that boys living in Victoria have all the privileges of the "Y" for a membership of $10. But it costs the "Y" $38 a year for each boy.

The aim would be a full time program with a director out here and the local boys and girls chosen to be trained in physical education leadership, it was explained.

The date for the free trial run has now been set. On Friday, Feb. 17, the "Y" will be here to handle

SAILS ARE SET Peter Lawson, Third St., will leave with his companion to sail the south seas in a 32-foot ketch, "Bachelor's Delight".

The children are requested to turn up in slacks or shorts, bringing running shoes to put on in the hall. This is important as some fine equipment will be on hand.

The "Y" will be looking for teen age boys and girls to be developed as leaders. The plan, if successful, is to be extended to older children.

To help the "Y" complete program arrangements and to make sure your child will be accepted in one of the limited classes, register early at Sidney Pharmacy, GR 5-1178; Cunningham Drugs, GR 5-1454 and give name, address and age of the boy or girl, before February 15.

All youngsters should bring warm clothing to wear en route home. Sanscha has not yet installed showers.

The "Y" is keeping the program a secret. Don't tell anyone, but a trampoline, which costs $700, will definitely be included.

The date for the free trial run has now been set. On Friday, Feb. 17, the "Y" will be here to handle

FLAGPOLE FOR SIDNEY DOCK?

To show American tourists and visitors that Sidney is the Canadian port of entry on Vancouver Island a flagpole with the Canadian ensign should be erected in the new garden centre, suggested a representative of the Sidney Ratepayers' Association to Sidney council on Tuesday night.

Other suggestions for an appropriate decoration of this centre were the placing of a plaque with the inscription "Sidney-By-The-Sea" or a totem pole. Final decision will be made after completion of the garden centre.

FLYING IN FIRST WAR

Compared with modern standards the air fleets of the three big warring powers, France, England and Germany were small. At the outbreak of the First World War, France had 1,500, Germany 1,000 and England only 100 planes.

Towards the end of the war a bigger and more efficient aircraft, the Spad, was built by Bleriot. The 9-cylinder, 200 h.p. engine of that plane developed a maximum speed of 150 m.p.h.

Equipped with two machine guns, timed to fire through the rotation of the propeller, the Spad gained an enthusiastic following by virtue of its revolutionary design. Many a German veteran fighter pilot learned to his cost the excellent manoeuvrability of that aircraft. Innumerable dogfights high above the ground saw the Fokkers, Rumplers and Spad turning their wild spirals and challenging each other in daring rolls and turns.

Without all these fragile looking planes the development to the most modern jet fighters would have been unthinkable.

NO CRASHES Although Mr. Readings does not recall any fatal crashes at the test flights, he smilingly remembers faked emergency landings somewhere in a freshly ploughed field or in a most convenient pasture, to give the test pilot and the inspector an opportunity to explore the bottom of a spirit bottle.

His four-year stint at the British aviation factory at a close, Mr. Readings received a highly commendatory letter from the company. Among his prized possessions is the Commendation dated April 10, 1919 from The Air Navigation Co., Ltd., Addlestone, Surrey. The address is indicated as being adjacent to the Addlestone Station of the London and South Western Railway. This company has long ceased to trade as such. The company was termed "aircraft manufacturers", contracting to H.M. Government and offering Bleriot and Spad aeroplanes.

Excellent Boxing Matches As Many Clubs Meet On Island

Fulford Hall was filled with enthusiastic boxing fans on Saturday night, Feb. 4 and there was an imposing line-up of Golden Glove holders as well as other Canadian champions taking part in the best exhibition of boxing ever seen on Salt Spring Island.

Vancouver coaches were high in praise of the fine exhibition put on by the boys representing 18 clubs from Vancouver Island and the mainland. The Salt Spring Club was host to the mainland visitors over the week-end.

Dr. Ted Jansch was in attendance. The line-up of boxers is as follows: 85 lbs., Pat Slingsby, S.S.I. won over Seymour, Ladysmith; 75 lbs., Steve Morrison, S.S.I. and Tiger Harris, Ladysmith (draw).

Blasts For Progress

Recent big blasts heard and felt around St. Mary Lake indicate that progress is being made by the highways department on the North End Road under construction.

It is understood that the work will be finished on schedule.

THE GULF ISLANDS

Yacht Race To Start At Scott Point

Scott Point Marina will be the starting point for the 1961 Gulf of Georgia Predicted Log Race.

A trophy, given by the Vancouver Sun in memory of the late Sam Cromie, will be competed for by power boats, under the auspices of the B.C. coast yacht clubs.

The race will be held on Sunday, April 9.

The course will be from Scott Point Marina north to Southey Point, pass the southeast point of Tree Island, through the Dodds Narrows, then out around the end of Gabriola Island through the pass at Entrance Island, and across the gulf to Brockton Point, Vancouver. Total of 57 miles will be covered.

Starting time will be approximately 2 a.m. and finishing at Brockton Point, 11 a.m. The race is being held in connection with Vancouver's 75th anniversary celebration.

All types of power boats will be entered, and will be arriving at the Scott Point Marina on April 8. Each boat calculates its own time in passing the four check points to arrive at Brockton Point at 11 a.m. The winner will be the boat that is closest to its predicted time.

RAVENS PLAGUE ISLAND

Beaver Point Sheep Suffer

All kinds of weird things happen on Salt Spring Island and I suppose they do in most rural areas. The district of Beaver Point, however, is famous for it.

An eagle eating Frank Pyatt's cat outside his door, seemed to be the limit. But now another startling incident alarms islanders.

Ravens are picking the eyes from sheep and lambs as they browse! Mrs. G. Ruckle stated that this is tragically true and that they lost several sheep through these big black birds.

Several sheep have been blinded. Recently a lamb had one eye plucked out and an ewe had both eyes pecked out. The mother sheep had two lambs which she was feeding, and though blind, she carried on and nursed her babies.

The little lambs seemed to learn that the mother was blind, explained Mrs. Ruckle, and they would nudge and lead her to the feeding trough. "It was a rather pathetic sight but they managed very well," she said.

Unfortunately, the ewe wandered off some time later and fell over a cliff onto the beach, where it was drowned. The sheep are attracted to the beach to forage for the seaweed.

Recently Miss Gwen Ruckle, in one of her sheep-herding duties, one day found an older sheep lying on its fat, woolly back, its legs kicking helplessly in the air, unable to turn over.

The mistreated sheep heard Gwen approaching and gave an extra frightened heave, flipping off the bird. The sheep luckily only lost some wool.

The island sheep breeders have to keep a constant look out but the ravens are hard to approach. They are very crafty and can get to the scene of a helpless animal within seconds. Sometimes their harsh croaks lead the farmers to the stranded sheep.

Those ravens measure over two feet in length, with a four-foot eight-inch spread of wing, according to statistics.

It has a powerful bill on a par with the rapacious birds, such as eagles and vultures—who have hooked beaks.

They increase rapidly and on Salt Spring Island they have doubled their number this year.

NEW BOOK SHIPMENT
Salt Spring Island Centennial Library reports that a new shipment of Public Library Commission books has been received. They were put on the shelves for circulation.

From here, the rascals croak and scap among themselves, with an occasional aerial fight with their cousins, the smaller but equally noisy crows. They are really quite clever birds, which can be taught to sing songs, and speak full sentences, with wonderful accuracy. Too bad they have such miserable habits.

Years ago, they were very plentiful in England and they were connected with all sorts of witchcraft and omens. No doubt that they are connected with omens at Beaver Point, at least.

Gwen Ruckle has ideas of "croaking" the old ravens next time they meet—she will carry a rifle in the future when she herds the sheep. That should put a crimp in their ravin'.

REVOLUTION IN A TEA KETTLE

Tempests in teapots are fairly common, but it is not often you find a revolution in a tea kettle.

James Watt did—and the world took a giant step forward, for in his tea kettle Watt envisaged the steam engine that started the Industrial Revolution.

Canada, more than most countries, has benefited from that revolution. Our industrial growth has given us one of the world's highest standards of living. Modern industries depend to a great extent on oil. Because companies like Imperial have made oil available at reasonable prices wherever it is needed, Canadians use oil for more than half their energy requirements.

OUT OF THE MIXING BOWL

Nostalgia Of Growing Old

By MURIEL WILSON

Today I am sad . . . I have just returned from the mainland where I visited little Granny. Little Granny is 90 years old. She has lived through sun and shadow; her life has been rich in love, full of activity and happiness.

Her love encompassed and embraced far more than her family. Her interest in missionary work brought her friends and correspondence from the far corners of the world. As long as her strength lasted she expended herself for others. Her missionary son (my oldest brother) was her pride and joy. Many a new dress or hat did she others. Her missionary son (my oldest brother) was her pride and joy. Many a new dress or hat did she forgo to help the black skinned people of his parish on a far-away island in the Caribbean Sea.

Today her memory hardly goes beyond the four walls of her room in the nursing home where she lives. Hearing almost gone, her eyesight dwindling, and sadder than all is the rapidly dwindling awareness of the world about her. Most clear cut in her tiny world is the lady in white who is her nurse. Sometimes she calls me Muriel and sometimes Marjory (who is my sister).

DRESDEN FIGURINE
There she sits in the big chair by the window overlooking the sea. Her blue veined hands, once so busy in behalf of others, are twisted in the fringe of the big amethyst stole which almost envelops her tiny figure. Her hair, soft and white as the driven snow looks to me like a halo. She looks like a delicate and very precious Dresden figurine, fragile as the wings of a butterfly.

Although memory of yesterday's events are misty she loves to talk about her childhood in her old home in Ramsgate, England. How strange that fragments of events out of the long ago become crystal clear in old age! Her eyes regain some of the old sparkle as she tells me how her younger brothers and sisters (there were 12 children in the family) took turns brushing her father's tall silk hat with a white silk handkerchief (kept especially for the purpose) before church on a Sunday morning. Of listening to her father preach before she was big enough to see over the top of the tall wooden pew. Of hiding her crusts under the curling edge of the tea tray (the youngest always sat next to mother at the table). Of picking pansies out of a neighbor's garden and then because of a guilty conscience hiding under a hedge until after night had fallen while frenzied parents and villagers searched for a lost child. Of a five-year-old sitting on a sunny doorstep and being frightened by a large black cat. Fragments out of the past that I had never heard before.

COUNTS HER BLESSINGS
Sometimes she is disturbed by the consciousness of her failing faculties but she can still count her blessings. She never complains . . . may I grow old like her! She tells me, over and over how good everyone is to her, how good the food, how comfortable the big lounge where every easy chair is a vantage point to see the ships go by. She is full of gratitude for the nurse who gives such sympathetic and loving care to all her charges. Right here is a good place to award an orchid to nurses who look after aged people. I cannot think of my profession that requires so much patience and understanding beyond the call of duty.

Dear little Granny, not only has she been advocate at the gates of Heaven for those in need but she implemented her prayers with practical help. As long as she was able she dedicated her energies to the service of others. It is sad to see her relentlessly drifting away from us. Perhaps we should consider it a blessing that these frail ones are spared the awareness of a troubled world after their strength is spent.

Just the same it frightens me just a little to consider the possibility that one day I too may be sitting quietly in an armchair just watching the ships go by.

W.A. ASSISTS MISSION WORK

Pender Island United Church W.A. held its first meeting of 1961 on January 25, in the Sunday school room of the church.

Work of the previous year was reviewed by the president, Mrs. Norman Jackson and the secretary, Mrs. Reg. Taylor. Plans were made for continuing efforts in these undertakings.

It was noted that a successful strawberry tea had been held in June; and in the fall a clothing drive had resulted in boxes of clothing going to a needy family and to the First United Church, in Victoria.

Several boxes of clothing for Indian families had been placed aboard the United Church mission boat, the M.V. Melvin Swarthout, when the Rev. John Romeril called at Port Angeles, en route to Bamfield, where he is stationed.

Members of the W.A. are presently completing a quilt, which the Rev. Romeril will receive, along with other contributions, when he calls again, in the spring, to speak to the W.A. about his work on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

British Columbia championships among her triumphs last year. She was runner-up in the singles and shared the women's doubles crown in the U.S. National Intercollegiate tourney also.

NEW METHOD TO BUILD POOL

Method being used in the construction of the Scott Point Marina's swimming pool is a novelty on Salt Spring Island.

Western Pneumatic Concrete Co. is here with its equipment. Significant feature of this method is that the concrete is blown through a rubber hose against a reinforced background, without the aid of forms.

The pool will be of white cement with a blue tile rim. It is surrounded by a 10-foot patio. The 20x40-foot heated fresh water pool, which will also have electric lights, will be another of the Scott Point Marina's attractions.

Active Pender Island Group

Annual congregational meeting of the Pender Island United Church was held on Monday evening, Jan. 30, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Brackett. The minister, Dr. Norah Hughes, opened the meeting with a devotional period.

The financial statement was read by the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Gordon Scarff. R. A. Brackett delivered the activity report. Mrs. Elmer Bowerman gave an account of the year's work in the Sunday school, while Mrs. Norman Jackson and Mrs. Reg. Taylor reported on activities and finances of the W.A.

Reg. Taylor and R. A. Brackett were elected elders, the latter for his second successive term. Victor Menzies, R. A. Brackett and Reg. Taylor were chosen for the works committee, to supervise church improvements for 1961.

Reports indicated an extensive program of work was successfully completed in 1960, which saw the church wired, pews varnished and the floor painted. The ceiling of the Sunday school room was lowered and the walls and ceilings relined and painted. Cupboards were built and an oil heater installed.

Dr. Hughes highly commended the various committees for the work carried out, and members were given a fresh awareness of their responsibilities in their community and in the work of the church.

A social hour followed the business session. Refreshments were served by Mesdames Max Allan, Norman Jackson, Reg. Taylor and Gordon Scarff.

Shower At Mayne Island For Bride-elect Peggy Bennett

The ladies of Mayne Island gave a shower on Tuesday evening, Jan. 31, for Miss Peggy Bennett, whose marriage is to take place this month.

The shower was held at Arbutus Lodge and was convened very successfully by Mesdames W. Morson, W. Wilks, E. Odberg and A. Baldwin. The guests had a most enjoyable time in the lounge warmed by a lovely fire in the big open fireplace which gave such a gay appearance to the gathering.

Miss Bennett is a former employee of the B.C. Telephone Co.

When the guest of honor arrived, she was seated in the chair of honor which was appropriately decorated for the occasion and the presents were brought to her in a gaily decked wagon by Dale Odberg. Miss Bennett was kept busy for some time opening her gifts, which numbered about 40 and were passed around the room for all to see. Following this she made a speech thanking all her many friends.

The conveners then completed preparations in the dining room where the long table was spread with refreshments, including a large cake baked for the prospective bride by Mrs. E. Odberg. In the interval before refreshments were served the guests were entertained by a lively round of brain-teaser games.

Movies and candid shots were taken of Peggy opening her presents and later on when she cut the cake.

The bride-elect, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Bennett, of Mayne Island, was born and brought up here. For the past several years she has been employed in Victoria. She is to be married to Donald C. Webb, of Shawnigan Lake, now stationed in Clinton, Ont., with the R.C.A.F. She leaves shortly for Clinton, where the ceremony will take place on February 11.

Local Biological Laboratory Is Fascinating And Versatile

By R. A. ELLIOTT

Nostalgic return to a "bio" class, a peep through the microscope while a drop of water came to life, swarming with single-celled "slippers"; an examination of the minute detail of still-mounted microscopic specimens of animal and plant life, marine and fresh water, was the experience of your reporter this week.

Of all the fascinating and out-of-the-way jobs, or vocations, which ever you will, surely the supply of specimens for biological labs and classes must rank high.

The occasion was a tour of the biological supply laboratory owned and operated by ex-Victoria College, U.B.C. and Toronto University graduate Paul Parizeau. To many of us, biological studies were unknown, or skimmed over as part of a "science" class.

Specimens needed were collected by teachers and students on the rare—extremely so—field days, or gathered by a few enthusiastic kids who showed interest or aptitude for the subject, but rarely had the opportunity to develop it.

Until after World War I biology was confined to medical students and such, and the small group of professional biologists, and the rather haphazard method of collecting one's own specimens or relying on the widely scattered and small firms which supplied them was apparently sufficient.

Since then biology has increased in scope and importance and the collection and preparation of specimens is now the task of specialists.

Now every school has biology classes; universities need thousands of variegated specimens annually and analytical labs demand an ever-widening selection for research.

This demand has created opportunities for such as the Parizeau lab, at present small but steadily increasing both in the number of employees and the field it covers. Not big business in the sense of auto production line but possessing a healthy potential towards growth.

The Parizeau lab doubled its gross during 1953 to 1956. By 1958 the gross had again doubled and 1960's figure shows an increase half as much again. Mr. Parizeau gave a further illustration of growth potential the experience of a friend of his, a native Texan, incidentally.

From a gross of $2,000 in 1955 it rose to $100,000 last year and the business moved into brand new headquarters just outside Toronto.

FROGS
This highly technical, complex business is just managing to stay abreast of the demand. The chief reason for this, apart from the increased numbers of students tackling biology, can be attributed to shortage of trained biologists in the supply end.

It takes several years of intensive study to acquire the knowledge necessary, and not just only for collecting and supplying specimens, knowing how and where to obtain them. Just as important is knowledge of equipment used in this specialized field, the preparation and manufacture of slides.

As an instance of this growth in demand we learned that a few years ago all the frogs, for example, needed locally for dissection and study could be collected locally. Not now. The Parizeau lab imports them from the prairies, and so demanding is the standard set for our humble frog specimen that specially-trained catchers are employed.

While Mr. Parizeau imports a good deal of material necessary he, in turn, has a very healthy export business. Marine specimens, as to be expected are in great demand.

The lab shelves are packed with jars of salt-water weeds, algae, all varieties of shellfish, sea urchins, octopi, and samples of the more exotic fishes, such as the weird ratfish.

Mr. Parizeau estimated that 25 per cent of his exports go to the United States "and it is increasing."

Aren't You Ashamed Of Being Too Fat?

We all are like to be appreciated, admired and envied. Unfortunately overweight persons don't look their best, don't feel their best, and consequently don't act their best. Naturally they aren't often envied. Nothing will help you to regain a youthful feeling and get the admiring glances of your friends quicker than losing those excess pounds. Why wait a day longer to begin losing those burdensome pounds? Go to your druggist and ask for the Naran Plan. In a short time you will notice results or your money will be refunded by the manufacturer.

"My self confidence has certainly taken a boost since losing 15 pounds. My friends all tell me how much better I look. Previously I felt self conscious and ashamed of my appearance. I didn't want to meet new people or go to new places. I now feel better in more ways than one and see that I should have tried the Naran Plan a long time ago."

Era Of Animals Is Gone

Don Campbell is one of the last of the old breed. Growing up with farm animals, he never turned to mechanization and looking back over some 80 years he sees a lifetime of work associated with horses and oxen. His beasts have left the farm in favor of tractors and so has Mr. Campbell. He now lives in retirement in Sidney to reflect nostalgically on the days that are gone.

OXEN EASY TO HANDLE RECALLS RETIRED FARMER

"Oxen are easier to handle and they are steadier than horses," claims Don Campbell of 9774 First St., Sidney, who is depicted with a team of three oxen and one horse, hauling water for a farm at Mervin, Sask., 40 years ago.

The local resident hails from the west coast of Scotland and almost his entire life has been dedicated to farming. Born at Port Ellen, on Islay, off the rugged coast of Scotland, he emigrated to the United States in 1907 as a young man. In Nebraska he worked on a farm until he decided to move to Canada in 1912.

For six months he stayed in Ontario. The wheat province of Saskatchewan became his next home. For some time he homesteaded and still recalls the hardships of early settlers. Long hot days and biting cold winters were his companions for almost 30 years. They were his only companions for he remained a bachelor all his life.

However, the lean, hardy Scotsman endured all the tough trials to become one of the Canadian pioneers who helped to build this vast country. The soil gave him what he longed for. Shortly after the outbreak of World War II Mr. Campbell arrived on the

ScoutNews

A most enjoyable party for retiring Scoutmaster Ed. Mason was held last week, when about 25 members of the group committee and leaders surprised him at his home.

Retiring, after more than nine years of scouting with the Sidney troop, Mr. Mason was presented with a framed photograph of his troop, taken on his last evening as Scoutmaster, and a smart, warm outdoor jacket, that was hoped would "partly convey the warmth of our feelings", said W. R. Orchard.

Jack Crossley of the group committee, outlined Mr. Mason's work and how much it had been appreciated by all parents.

"The sacrifice of time and the work has also been shared by his wife," said Mr. Crossley as he presented Mrs. Mason with a huge spring bouquet.

"It has been a lot of fun," said the guest of honor, "and I certainly got a lot out of it too. The scouting movement always needs assistance, and I hope that everyone will continue their help and support Thore and Doug".

Thore Sharock has replaced Ed. Mason as Scoutmaster, with Douglas Jack as assistant Scoutmaster for the 1st Tsnrdip (Sidney) troop which now has about 25 Scouts, with more due to come up from the Cub packs.

CLUB ACTIVITIES
Badges issued by the Sidney Cub packs during the past week included a "First Eye" for Alan Shillito of B pack, and house orderly and collectors' badges for Arley Hopkins; tenplayer badge for Ian Montgomery, and collector badge for Norman Pearson, all of A pack.

ALLOYING MATERIAL
The unique and important properties which nickel is capable of imparting to other metals makes it one of the most widely used and valuable alloying materials available to modern designers and producers.

We have deep suspicions of bugs, spiders, frogs, octopi and the like but a piece of change of that nature can make anyone stop and take a second look. Our suspicions can change to open and joyous trust for a lot less than that. To our chagrin we learned that the vital contents took a long time to collect and prepare and thus there's no quick way to make a quick buck.

If there is we shouldn't envy it of a young man who possesses the determination to stick with a course of studies for several years and the courage to branch out on their own.

Little Waste In Rabbit Meat And Much Protein

There is remarkably little waste in domestic rabbit, because the ratio of edible meat to fat and bone is so very high.

Here is the U.S. Department of Agriculture's breakdown of the approximate protein, fat, moisture and caloric content of domesticated rabbit meat, as opposed to other meats with which many people may be more familiar.

The percentage of bone in a rabbit is only 10 per cent and an animal of five pounds cooked in a pressure cooker leaves a mere eight ounces of bone.

Following is the table comparing the quality of rabbit meat with other meat varieties.

	Protein	Fat	Moisture	Calories per lb.
Rabbit	20.8	10.2	67.9	795
Chicken	20.0	11.0	67.6	810
Turkey (medium fat)	20.1	20.2	58.3	1,190
Veal (medium fat)	18.8	14.0	66.0	910
Beef (good)	16.3	28.0	55.0	1,440
Lamb (medium fat)	15.7	27.7	55.8	1,420

CAMP SURVIVOR RETURNS TO TROPICS

They lived in the Sidney area nearly three years. None of us got to know them very well. But what we saw of them we liked. This is their story.

Tom and Ann Dineen were born in England. When they met in Manchester they became engaged. Tom, a radio expert, went off to Malaya in the early 1930's to work for General Electric. Ann followed. They were married and lived in happiness and contentment until the clouds of war threatened their good life.

As Tom joined the civil volunteers rumors flew thick and fast. They were told that no matter what happened the women and children would not be evacuated. But by the time they blew up the Johore Causeway, a few days ahead of the yellow tide, a ship took away the women, including Ann and their daughter, Pat.

LAND IN JAVA
Their ship was bombed and damaged, her radius of action narrowed, so they were landed in Java. By stages through Ceylon and South Africa they made their way to England.

Tom survived the nightmare of invasion, landed in a Japanese prison camp at Blakang Mati, a small island off Singapore. There he tottered on the Nipponese high wire, balanced between life and death, for three and a half years.

"He was lucky", said Ann, "he only lost some teeth. The beasts gave their orders in Japanese and if you didn't know what they meant, it was just too bad. The least they did was swing a rifle butt or a shovel handle into your face. So you learned the words quickly or you didn't live. They beheaded prisoners for the most trifling thing. Tom really was lucky."

DEGRADATION
Japanese guards with their oriental indifference to human suffering, set the white prisoners to the most degrading tasks. They were kept on a starvation diet.

Tom seldom talked about those days even to Ann, but once he told her a funny incident. All the snakes and snails, in fact everything that crept or crawled, quickly disappeared from the island. One day the prisoners watched a parrot eating the fruit in a cherry tree. It began to wobble, showed symptoms of intoxication and finally fell out of the tree. Prisoners dashed upon it, one man wrung its neck and before the bird had cooled off it was in the pot.

The prisoners set up their own form of government and tried to organize for mutual protection. Tom, as an electronic and radio expert, told the boys to comb the place and bring any likely scraps to him.

"It took several months," said Tom, "but I had an idea. I told the chaps to pick up anything that looked like radio stuff, bits of telephones, tinfoil from cigarette boxes, any sort of wire. And to keep on looking. One day someone would be lucky and locate a tube from the ruin of a building. I needed a tube above all. And finally when someone came up with a tube, I built a short wave radio."

LONDON AND SAN FRANCISCO
It was only a tiny affair but, marvelously, it could pick up London and San Francisco. Anything closer would be propaganda.

"Tom carried it in his rice pail," said Ann, "in a false bottom with scraps of food on top. If I had known he was running the secret radio in this prison I'd have had a fit. Good thing I didn't know. But Tom figured as they were beheading prisoners for no valid reason, he might as well be caught doing something useful and important."

In those three and a half years Ann received just two cards from her husband. And they didn't tell her a thing.

"I couldn't believe it was his handwriting. It was so carefully formed, even the signature. But I had to make myself believe he was still alive."

It was one trick to make a radio, and quite another to keep it operating.

POWER SOURCE
"The prison had a battery power light system of 50 volts. I would use two pins stuck through the covering of the power wire for a plug-in. And

Experimental Farm Notes

WEEKLY REPORT OF NORTH SAANICH STATION

By R. M. ADAMSON

The new Brussels sprout Jade Cross has been tested for two seasons at the Experimental Farm, Saanichton, in comparison with the standard variety Catskill. As a result of these trials, and of experience by gardeners and growers in this area, Jade Cross has proved sufficiently promising to be included on the recommendations list in addition to the older variety.

As its name implies, Jade Cross is a first generation hybrid, rather than a true-breeding variety. This means that seed of Jade Cross is the direct result of a cross between two parent lines. Since plant characteristics or first generation hybrids will segregate, individuals will vary greatly, and therefore seed cannot be saved from Jade Cross in the hope of reproducing the type and degree of uniformity observed in the previous generation.

VIGOROUS
In common with hybrids of other crops such as sweet corn, cucumbers and tomatoes which have become so popular in recent years, Jade Cross exhibits considerable vigor and a much greater degree of uniformity of plant characteristics than is normally found in most regular varieties. Like Catskill, a variety of Long Island type which has been recommended locally for a number of years, Jade Cross is dwarf in habit, growing to a height of approximately 20 inches, and is early, being about the same season. In trials it has tended to be more productive than Catskill, and yields medium sized, almost globular firm sprouts. It has been particularly free of the tendency to produce "blown" sprouts which is a fault frequently encountered in some varieties.

DIFFICULT PICKING
One fault with Jade Cross is the fact that its sprouts are somewhat more difficult to pick than Catskill. This is partly due to shorter sprouts which provide less leverage for snapping them off, but also because in Jade Cross they have a somewhat more fibrous stem. On the whole, however, the good points of Jade Cross are sufficient to warrant its recommendation for the Vancouver Island area.

Awakening People Of Africa Are Anxious To Learn To Read

In spite of the heavy rains many people attended the annual rally for the Canadian Bible Society on Wednesday evening, Feb. 1, at St. Andrew's church hall. The Rev. Canon F. C. Vaughan-Birch welcomed the many friends of the Bible Society.

After the singing of a hymn, prayer and scripture reading, the meeting was turned over to the retiring president of the local branch, the Rev. G. R. Richmond.

The secretary-treasurer's report revealed that $1,294 had been contributed by the Sidney district in support of the society. This was a very slight increase over the amount raised in 1959. It included two $50 gifts by individuals joining the society as life members.

Members making up the local executive for 1960 were all asked to serve again for the coming year. The plan being followed is for each minister of the participating church groups to serve as president for one year.

The Rev. Canon Vaughan-Birch was appointed president, and Rev. W. P. Morton, vice-president. Mrs. C. H. Parnell was returned as secretary-treasurer.

The other members of the committee are the ministers of the various churches, and other friends of the society, including W. Brown Mrs. P. Foote, Mrs. H. Goodwin, Pastor G. Hochstetter, F. Lines, Mrs. H. Nunn, Rev. G. R. Richmond, Rev. Irene E. Smith, Mrs. A. F. C. Watts, Rev. C. H. Whitmore and Miss D. Williamson.

AFRICA
Frank Martens from the Bible depository in Victoria, told some of his experiences in the distribution of Bibles on Vancouver Island and on the smaller islands along the coast.

The Rev. J. Rymond Tingley, of Vancouver, introduced the challenging motion picture "Footsteps of Livingstone". The Bible Society distributed three million portions of the Scriptures in Africa last year, by use of airplane, automobile, canoe, bicycle and by foot, going right into the heart of Africa.

The African people are either learning, or anxious to learn to read. One man walked 100 miles to get a Bible, only to find that the supply had not yet arrived, in disappointment he asked, "What will I read tomorrow?"

The communists are distributing considerable reading material to those awakening people, in 1960 to the extent of "70 tons a month".

Mr. Tingley reminded the audience that "within the pages of the Bible lies the only hope of the world today", and yet one-half of the world's population still has not read the message it contains. An offering of $110 was received for the work of the Bible Society.

Following the picture, the Rev. Canon Vaughan-Birch and his wife opened their home to the guest speakers, Rev. J. R. Tingley and Mr. Martens as well as to the members of the executive and the wives of the ministers, for a friendly social hour together.

A vaccine that is swallowed like an ordinary medicine is credited by sufferers all over the world with the relief of bronchial asthma, sinus and nasal catarrh. The vaccine, known as Lantigen 'B', is taken a few drops at a time in water. Once absorbed by the mucous membranes of the nose, mouth, throat and intestines, it stimulates the production of "antibodies", the system's natural antibodies, which attack and destroy the germs and build up the body's resistance.

I had the boys scrounge around for the finest wire they could find, wire that was hard to spot. One time I had the antenna dangling over the edge of the verandah and was receiving news when a sentry walked by on his beat, and by the worst luck his bayonet caught in the wire.

Our hearts pounded for the ten minutes it took him to get it untangled and shaken off. Then he went on his way. It gave us the jitters. I didn't operate for a couple of nights after that."

Dineen's service to that camp meant a link with sanity, faint hope of eventual freedom, and the hard core of truth to counteract the propaganda. As a morale lifter, it was perhaps the most valuable asset of all.

ETERNAL REST

At one stage of the nightmare prisoners were to be transferred to Siam. Rumor had it they were going to a rest camp and the pushers got their names on the list. It was a rest camp alright . . . eternal rest. The railway they built is supposed to have taken a life for every sleeper.

But when the long years of suffering and privation dragged to a close and the news began to mirror their dreams, they would not believe the reports Tom handed out. They began to doubt his veracity. One day he rushed to the Senior British Officer with news the Japs had capitulated. The camp went on as usual, guards and Japanese officers acted as though everything was normal. So impassive were they, indeed, that the prisoners began to feel convinced their radio operator had gone round the bend at last. Stubbornly Tom returned to his set, and stubbornly returned to convince his C.O.

that V.J.-Day had actually arrived.

Then the senior officer among the prisoners acted, demanded to see the commandant and told him they knew a surrender had been made. And the commandant finally admitted it.

NEED FOR FOOD

The prisoners thought only of not working. Then they remembered their stomachs and began to demand food. Meat: real food: not slops. They began calling for a showdown. Apparently the Japanese weren't sure how to react. Finally a truck drove into the compound, the tail gate was dropped to release a number of live pigs. Wild eyed Aussies in nothing but breech clouts took after the porkers, and it may have been primitive but the result was a fine banquet.

Eventually Tom and Ann were reunited in England. She had to nurse him back to health for he was emaciated, his teeth missing, his hair gone, his skin a bright yellow.

"I continue to wonder," said Ann, "how a man can get caught in a war, be made to do such bestial things, come back to normal life—and adjust."

DECORATION

The gallant gentleman of Blakang Mati, who had put his head up for auction to help the cause of freedom was decorated with the British Empire Medal.

When he had recovered they went back to Malaya for two years. Pat had to attend school in Australia and the war had taught them that they wanted more than anything to have more time together. So they moved to South Africa, in 1948, where Tom became industrial manager for Phillips Electronics Limited. They lived in a pleasant country home 16 miles from Johannesburg, where a second daughter, Mavourneen, was born. It was a strange peace for this pair.

As the political and racial troubles developed and South Africa took its desperate course, they began to wonder at their wisdom in coming to live there. For 10 years they endured the possible threat of violence. Ann always had a baby Browning revolver on her person.

ATTACKED

When Tom's mother, 73 years, came for a visit she followed the tradition of grandmothers and offered to baby sit. This "wonderful person", to use a phrase of Ann's in describing her mother-in-law, was alone with Pat when six natives broke in from the back of the house, stuck a knife in her ribs and brandished a revolver while they ransacked the place.

That decided it. They would move. They began to search the world for a country without racial problems, where politics were in balance, and their choice was Canada.

In 1958 they landed in Boston, drove all through the United States in their Citroen, then into British Columbia. It was natural as day follows night, while they were in Vancouver, to cross the strait and take a look at Victoria. They liked what they saw, dropped anchor and opened a business in Sidney.

They made a lot of friends, this travelled pair, and the highly individualistic Tom Dineen proved to be made of good stuff when you got to know him. It is easier to understand a man of this calibre when one has the whole story of his suffering and privation. Then it's easier to estimate his bravery and strength of character.

As a result of his war, Dineen cannot bear to watch drama on the stage, the films or television. "It is all so futile," he says without explanation.

TO NEW YORK

Just before last Christmas he flew to a New York convention as associate member of Industrial Radio Engineers. When he left this island it was rainy, damp and foggy. At a social gathering someone mentioned an opening of considerable interest in Bermuda, so he flew down for a quick look. Having spent his adult life in the sub-tropics, sunny Bermuda looked very good indeed. The interview was successful. Tom cabled Ann to start packing.

It wasn't until he returned to Sidney that Ann knew they would be flying to another island in the sun. He had to be in harness by the middle of January last and it was a scramble to get ready. Some of their friends became involved in the flap. At 8.45 a.m. on January 10, a whispering giant was to lift them off the runway at Patricia Bay right over the little village of Sidney, so full of happy memories.

Only one thing was missing—their visas—which were necessary for entry. Without these they could be turned back. Which explains why an unshaven, buckskin-clad character made the dash for the Sidney Post Office at 8.25, returned in time to hand them the badly wanted documents as they boarded the plane. And if there are any errors in this story, there was no time to check the facts.

For which I apologize to the new manager of the Bermuda company.

Seriously Injured In Crash

One man sustained serious injuries when a car left Patricia Bay Highway on Reay's Hill and plunged down the steep embankment on Monday night. Driver of the car, Fred Greenhalgh, Tomlinson Road, Saanichton, escaped with minor cuts and bruises. His passenger, Arthur Hafer, 2450 Camelot, sustained severe cuts and internal injuries. He is in fair condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

No explanation was available of the cause of the accident. The late model car left the road immediately south of Keating Cross Road and was a total wreck when it came to rest at the foot of the steep bank.

Mr. Hafer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Hafer, Keating, and formerly made his home in Sidney.

No Manager For Campaign Yet

No campaign manager has yet been named by the Red Cross for the coming drive on the Saanich Peninsula. In Victoria the campaign director is Col. A. D. Murdoch, of Oak Bay.

The campaign for funds will be launched at the close of the month. The Red Cross drive has been endorsed by almost every phase of Canadian life. It has the enthusiastic support of management and labor. Supporting it, Claude Jodouin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, has released a letter for general distribution calling on all Canadians to support the campaign.

Major expense incurred by the Red Cross is that of operating the blood bank and collecting blood throughout the country. Nearly two-fifths, or 39 per cent of the total collected is used for this life-saving purpose.

Ignores Injury

Pender Island man, W. O. Jamieson, 76, is a patient in St. Joseph's Hospital in Victoria suffering from a broken leg. Struck by a car on Monday evening, Mr. Jamieson declined medical aid and made his way to his island home. At Port Washington he found difficulty in using his leg. Returning to Swartz Bay on the next ferry, he arrived in hospital to discover that he had been walking around on a broken leg.
