

Peninsula Clubs In Review

PIONEER SOCIETY
Miss Moses' grace, "For shelter, health, food and friends we thank thee Lord", expressed the sincere, simple lives of our pioneer forebears as members of the Saanich Pioneer Society met for their Annual Banquet in the Pioneer Museum, Saanichton, on Saturday, May 26th.

Every chair was filled and a delicious meal enjoyed.

The banquet was presided over by President Willard Michell. The toast to the Queen was proposed by one of the senior members of the society, Mr.

Lorne Thomson. The toast to the Pioneers was proposed by Mr. Michael Rice who paid tribute to the pioneers who laid the foundations for the life we enjoy on the peninsula at the present time.

Mr. Cuthbert Brown, a member of a pioneer family of Nanaimo, replied to the toast, mentioning ways of life enjoyed in the early days on the Island.

Mr. Lawrence Hafer thanked the ladies of St. Mary's A.C.W. for the work they had done in providing such a splendid dinner.

President Michell spoke of the newly-formed "Arts and Facts"

Association which now is sponsored by the Federal Government so that the members are now able to buy tools and equipment for the restoration of old farm machinery and household appliances — this with the idea of keeping up the interest of retired men in the district, who in turn can train younger men in the art of restoring the machinery.

Mr. Michell and his helpers in this programme have twice been shown on the national news in recent months and once on a programme from the C.B.C.'s Vancouver studio.

4-H BEEF CLUB
Public speaking eliminations have occupied Peninsula Beef Club members this Spring with Mrs. D. Mutrie, public speaking director as judge.

Monica Rache and Debbie Callander were chosen to represent the Club in the district finals and Debbie Callander took first place in the senior events, Monica Rache placing second in the Juniors.

In the Island eliminations, Debbie placed third.

A car wash in Sidney raised money for the club on March 31 and the club combined with South Malahat 4-H members to work on the animal display at Easter in a Victoria shopping centre.

The club also delivered flowers to the Veterans' Hospital on Easter Sunday and entertained the veterans. "It felt good to do something for someone who has done so much for us" said Kevin Kennedy.

Karen Varley, Monica Rache and Debbie Callander took part in a 4-H intermediate camp later this spring and the whole club participated in the Jaycee Fair on May 14.

Kenzie, Ben and Wayne Cuthbert placed well in the events and the Club received four first place awards, two seconds and three thirds. Standing in the ring, the Club entries received one first, five second place prizes and four third place awards.

T.O.P.S.
The weekly meeting of the Sidney Take Off Pounds Group met at 7:30 p.m. Monday evening in the basement of the Town Hall. There was an excellent turn out of members, plus many new faces.

Name tags were made and a group discussion was held. Now that summer is here, wouldn't you like to be a loser? Phone Linda Logie — 656-2096 or Del Jackson, 656-4819 for information.

PUBLIC TURNOUT POOR FOR PARKS DAY
Parks committee chairman Jack Hamilton told Sidney council on Monday that attendance at the Recreation Commission's Parks Day on Sunday had been poor.

Approximately 70 people attended the event, he said, but most of them were recreation workers and parents of children participating in a demonstration.

PRINCIPLE REJECTED

This statement is to be interpreted as meaning that the current market value of land is not to be the criterion for justifying a change in use.

GOALS

- To conserve the region's non-renewable resources, including land with enduring value for agriculture, forestry, or recreation.
- To preserve the varied and interrelated biological systems of the area, including plant, animal, fish and bird life.
- To maintain the natural beauty of the region.
- To provide for a variety of residential opportunities, differing in character, location, and density of population, so that people have an effective choice of environments for living.
- To ensure that people have basic services, including water supply, means of waste disposal, and transportation facilities, at an economic cost.
- To provide residents with a variety of employment opportunities which are consistent with other goals.

PRINCIPLES

- To base decisions relating to land use on objective studies of the land's fitness for different purposes.
- To leave opportunity for decisions to be taken on land use questions which cannot be anticipated today.
- To intersperse employment opportunities with and adjacent to residential areas.

Brentwood Notes

Thursday members of the Brentwood Women's Institute enjoyed a tour of Kiwanis Village in Victoria. Afterwards they were guests for tea at the home of one of the Institute's friends, Mrs. Dorothy Moody of Rockland Avenue.

Mrs. E. G. Woodward of Grise Lane has as her guest Mrs. Joyce Mason from Pietermaritzburg, Natal, South Africa, who is the Past District President of Pietermaritzburg. Mrs. Mason came to this district from Toronto where she has been staying with her son and his wife and their baby daughter. On Wednesday, May 30th, Mrs. Mason and Mrs. Woodward will go to Nanaimo where Mrs. Mason will show slides of Natal and give a talk on Institute work there to members of up-Island Institutes.

THE JACK SCOTT COLUMN

SLAP AND BANG

A reader of this column who is a fellow lover of small sailing boats has sent me a newspaper clipping of nearly 10 years ago with this paragraph underlined in red pencil: "If the trend continues the day isn't far off when we'll have nautical traffic cops in control of boating for pleasure and every quiet cove and waterway will know the menace of the sea-going Sunday driver." Not bad, if I say so myself, as a bit of insignificant prophecy, for my prediction has come all too true.

All across Canada the authorities are cracking down on dangerous drivers behind the wheels of the water-borne version of hot rods. The warnings are falling to right and left that the summer ahead could be our grimmest year in drowning casualties.

The "trend" that I wrote about 10 years ago is more than that now. Pleasure boating has gone through a revolution because of the improvements and the stepped-up horsepower potential of the outboard motor. Go to any marina on salt water or fresh water and you will see gigantic parking lots for souped-up water-bugs, frail plastic hulls propelled at speeds that are bound to make a few widows ere the summer ends. The grand old sport of boating has clearly fallen on evil times. Certainly the prospect of traffic patrols, some already in operation, is cause for gloom.

Ordinarily I'd concede that anything that attracts people into the sun and to the water playgrounds with which this country is blessed would automatically be a good thing.

But even a cursory investigation reveals that the great majority of the new boat-owners are novices who have the joys of yachting all mixed up with a desire for more knots-per-hour than the next one.

It is not so much recklessness that even protected waters demand respect if they're to be enjoyed safely.

The idea, encouraged by some of the motor and boat manufacturers, that taking to the water is just as simple as taking to the open road is, I fear, lining up some highly likely candidates for Dave Jones' Locker.

The simple fact is that the potential of excessive speed, which is threatening to make boating a pursuit of thrills instead of a pursuit of relaxation, can turn the grandest of pleasures into a fatal one, as we saw only too graphically last summer. The present disciplinary action and the warnings are simply the prelude to a wider recognition of that.

To those who've never owned a boat before and are contemplating buying one I'd tell them to look for comfort, seaworthiness and reliability and to forget all about how fast she'll go.

I'd tell them to look at every boat in terms of what will happen to her if she hits a deadhead or runs into those surprisingly sudden and unexpected storms that so often hit the most serene of waterways.

I'd urge them particularly to investigate the small and reasonably-priced sailing boats that, with a five-horsepower outboard as auxiliary, seem to me the best of all combinations for those of us with moderate means.

Sailing gives what the slap-bang, hang-on-for-your-life bombs can never give.

Under canvas, embraced in the whim of the wind, a man gets that affinity with the elements, the tranquillity and unhurried invitation to enjoy the sun and the water, the true pleasures of being afloat.

Go to any bay where small boats are berthed. Size up the people you see coming and going on craft of all descriptions. And you'll find that what I say is true, that there's more fun at five knots than at 30 and that the difference between the water as a gentle friend or a cruel enemy may be determined by the hand on the throttle.

SAVE RAILWAY MEET TONIGHT

A meeting tonight in the headquarters of Citizens Association to Save the Environment (CASE) 6002 West Saanich Rd., will rally support for the E. and N. Railway which, members feel, is faced with possible extinction. The planned removal of railway agents, announced recently by the C.P.R., could be the first step in the phasing out of this railway, says Derek Mallard, CASE president. The Association suggests that the government take over the E and N. and develop it with municipalities to provide economical seven day-a-week transportation between Island communities, cheap excursion rates for people (particularly senior citizens, student classes, etc.) interconnecting bus and mini-bus services to ski hills and other places of local interest. "Railways of this type make environmental sense compared with our private automobiles," says Mallard.

DRUG BRIEF

Saanich Peninsula School Board will debate in committee-of-the-whole a brief on drug control submitted by Nanaimo Chamber of Commerce.

LOWER ADVERTISING PRICE REFUSED BY SIDNEY

The town of Sidney will purchase a quarter-page advertisement in the second annual B.C. Indian Olympiad program, at a cost of $75. And they won't attempt to get a reduced price on a half page, even though alderman Wilkie Gardner said such a reduction was available.

Alderman Gardner first opposed the idea of any ad in the publication at all; then told council he had discussed an advertisement for his store with the Olympiad's representative, had managed to have the price for a half page reduced to $100 from $125, and confirmed that this reduced price would be available to the town.

The explanation, however, followed his earlier statement: "I don't feel taxpayers' dollars should go toward this."

Alderman Peter Malcolm introduced the motion approving the $75 expenditure, saying he did so "because there are a great number of Indians living among us."

Stating that the several Indian groups on the Peninsula contribute a great deal to our economy, Malcolm said he considered the expense a public relations matter, rather than simply advertising.

It would be different, he said, if the event were being held in some other part of the province, but it will take place on lower Vancouver Island.

The Olympiad is being organized by the Songhees recreation commission and participants in the event may go on to a National Indian Olympiad later in the year.

More Peninsula People

Mrs. D. Campbell, Resthaven Drive, spent several days in Vancouver last week, the guest of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. T. Laycock.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Chappuis, Fourth St. Mrs. A. B. Smith, Weiler Ave. and F. A. Campbell, Lochside Drive attended the Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters convention in New Westminster last week.

PENINSULA TENNIS SCENE

BY T.J. IRELAND Instruction classes for all categories have now commenced under the auspices of the Saanich Peninsula Tennis Club, (S.P.T.C.). The first session for housewives was rained-out, but enthusiasm is very high and sessions will pick up again today, Wednesday from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Saturday sessions were good in terms of enthusiasm but rather disappointing in terms of numbers attending. It was disappointing because the whole fee structure, being reduced to the absolute minimum, requires 8 or more persons in attendance each hour. Anything less than that requires subsidizing from Club funds and those funds can only be described as minimal.

Every consideration is being given to help those who are seriously interested, but it may be necessary to revise the instruction concept if this week's sessions fail to pay their way. Tuesday and Thursday evening get-togethers are proving very worthwhile and it may be necessary to start earlier than 7:00 p.m. if everyone is going to get a chance to play. It is not for this writer to preach "court etiquette", but it is perfectly understandable that frustration will follow when the courts are taken up for more than a reasonable length of time by persons playing "singles", while other would-be players sit on the side-lines.

One must necessarily assume that the culprits are beginners who have not yet learned that a "doubles" game is every bit as good as singles, and to some people even more fun. To those culprits, I can only say "Try it, you'll like it" and you won't need an Alka-Seltzer either.

While the main source of information for this column comes from the S.P.T.C., I am sure that there are other sources that could supply additional information and make this a truly complete picture.

Grants Approved In C. Saanich

Central Saanich has budgeted for a total of $1,077 in intermunicipal grants this year. Salvation Army will receive $250; Goodwill Enterprises for the Handicapped $250; Queen Alexandra Solarium $140; Gr. Victoria Association for the Retarded (Springwood) $100; G.R. Peakes Clinic for Handicapped Children, $300; Community Council $19 and share of Intermunicipal Committee expense $18.

Other grants approved by the budget committee included $1,700 to the North and South Saanich Agricultural Fair, $250 to Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce brochures, $150 to Claremont school track, $200 to Victoria Symphony Society and $250 to the Silver Threads Centre, Sidney. Victoria Day Celebrations will receive $260 and the Farmers' and Women's Institute Hall (Chamber of Commerce) $185, Brentwood Community Club $451, Poppy Fund $40, Sidney and North Saanich Xmas Party $75 and Central Saanich Firemen's Association $50 and Greater Victoria Little League Championships $100.

MEET CANCELLED

A meeting of the four school Boards of Greater Victoria including Sooke and Saanich has been cancelled because of insufficient items for the agenda. The meeting was to have been held on Salt Spring Island and Trustee Gordon Ewan said cancellation was a "slap in the eye." Ewan received no seconder for his motion that the president of the four-board association be written in protest.

WELLINGTON, PILLAR OF STATE
 Four years ago, Elizabeth Longford published the first volume of her life of the great Duke of Wellington. Subtitled "The Years of the Sword", it ended in his 45th year with Wellington's victory over Napoleon at the Battle of Waterloo in 1815. Now, in Wellington, Pillar of State, Lady Longford concludes the biography, taking him through the political years - as cabinet member, Prime Minister, and elder statesman - up to his death in 1852, some months after his 83rd birthday.

The two volumes together are a masterly achievement, and the author has brilliantly fulfilled the dual aims of the historical biographer: to present the man and the world in which he lived. After Waterloo, Wellington hoped that he had fought his last battle. But when a military hero retires from the battlefield, what is he to do next? This is the question to which Lady Longford addresses herself in this second volume. "A hero for life", Wellington might well have settled for being no more than that - the revered Iron Duke. But his own view of himself was less adulatory. In the last years of his life, he allowed himself to be helped across Hyde Park Corner. To the man who assisted him, he said, "I thank you, sir". And the answer came, "My lord, I have passed a long and not uneventful life, but never did I hope to reach the day when I might be of some assistance to the greatest man that ever lived." To which the duke replied, "Don't be a damned fool!"

Lady Longford presents the story of the political man with exemplary skill, making clear how well Wellington's role required of him a complex balancing of the interests and whims of Lords, Commons, monarch and fellow politicians. He had the further burden of being a national monument, receiving both the idolization and the criticism that are the fate of such institutions. But the individual is very much in the book as well: his haughtiness, his need for affection.

His family life was complex and full of scapegrace relations. His marriage was unhappy - his wife, Kitty, was far too plain and unintelligent for him; their affection reasserted itself only a little while before her death in 1831. He always needed to have attractive, clever women in whom to confide, but Lady Longford rejects the idea that any of them were his mistresses, although quite a few were anxious to become his second duchess.

In some respects, Lady Longford is within the tradition of these beautiful, aristocratic admirers. She is at home in politics, sensible, loyal to the duke, yet able to keep him in perspective. He was the great defender of his country in wartime; in the years of peace that followed, he was a pillar of the state, sometimes obtuse, but more often, in his own way, serving Britain's best interests.

Wellington, Pillar of State is now available from the Sidney - North Saanich Branch of the Regional Library.

HEAVY LOAD BAD FOR CYCLISTS

Cyclists contemplating camping trips should not attempt to carry more than 20 pound back packs suggests the B.C. Safety Council. They should also limit their trips to 25 miles.

Slipstream from trucks and other hazards can make cycling for those pedalling under heavy loads extremely unsafe.

These facts come from Derek Mallard, cyclist and CASE president, who says the Motor Vehicle Branch has a cyclist's manual under consideration.

OFFER CONSIDERED

An offer by Central Saanich Chamber of Commerce to give the former Farmer's Institute hall on East Saanich Rd. to the municipality for $1 has been referred to subdivision and zoning committee.

"I knew this would happen someday and I am very sorry to see it happen" remarked Mayor A.M. Galbraith. The Mayor did not enlarge on this statement.

Chamber member Gordon Ewan who attended Council meeting in order to answer any questions, has arranged to meet the zoning group next week.
