COUNCIL AWAITS LAND BILL DETAIL BEFORE CONSIDERING RE-ZONING

FARMLAND PROTECTED SAYS CLERK

'Wishy Washy Delaying Tactics' Claims Landowner

Speaking somewhat in understatement, North Saanich Mayor Trevor Davis told Council last week that there was "no question Dr. Hartmanshenn feels strongly about this matter" — referring to a letter from the lady regarding a re-zoning application she had submitted some time ago.

In the letter read to Council, the Doctor claimed that another four months delay had been added "to the eight years of frustration" she had experienced since her thirty acre farm was "arbitrarily declared through zoning to be in non-conforming use."

Dr. Herta Hartmanshenn had applied to have her property re-zoned from residential 'B' to rural, in order that it could remain farmland — even after her death.

Accusing the Council of procrastination in dealing with her request, the Doctor wrote that she suspected "that all this time the planners hoped I would give in to economic pressures and their dream of a 30 house subdivision would come true."

"If Council hopes that my renewed request will die a natural death..." she continued, "I can assure (them) that this will not be the case."

"I have documentary proof that all my briefs, appeals, applications, petition presentations at public hearings have for eight years been either refused or ignored."

"No longer am I willing to be put off. I now demand a definite answer, one way or the other. But I can assure Council that if their decision again should be a denial of natural justice, if behind the doors attempts again make it impossible for me to preserve this beautiful farm the way it should be preserved, then Council will have a fight on their hands."

"Wishy washy delaying tactics will no longer be tolerated by me," the letter concluded.

During debate on disposition of the letter, municipal clerk Ted Fairs said that the land is protected as farmland under a Provincial Government order-in-council approved last Fall, and expressed the opinion that it would still be protected under Bill 42 when it is passed by the Legislature.

After a tabling motion, presented by alderman Doug Boon, was approved by council, Dr. Hartmanshenn was given permission to address the meeting.

She claimed that council's excuse — that they were waiting for information on how the land would be effected by Bill 42 — was not valid.

"You never acted on my original application," she said, claiming that her re-zoning application had been presented to Council before the Provincial Government had announced their proposed land legislation.

Municipal clerk Ted Fairs said after the meeting that any re-zoning by North Saanich Council would have little effect on the property — mentioning again that it would be protected by Provincial Government action.

As well, he said, the land is taxed as farmland — and would continue to be as long as it is used in its present manner.

The only material difference he could cite would be that one acre subdivision would be allowed under residential 'B' zoning — while a two acre minimum applies to rural zoned land.

The allowable, non-conforming use could continue after the owner's death, he said, and could even continue if the land were sold — as long as the present use of the property continued uninterrupted.

At the conclusion of discussion Monday evening, Mayor Davis assured Dr. Hartmanshenn that Council would consider application when the details of Bill 42 are known.

Water Supply From South

Ald. Percy Lazarz of Central Saanich has been elected head of the Saanich Peninsula Water Commission which includes representatives from all Peninsula municipalities and water districts.

At a meeting on April 17, the newly-formed organization accepted the principle of meeting future water needs by bringing in Greater Victoria water resources.

An ad hoc committee set up to look into practical details of financing and engineering will report back by the end of May.

Two members from each water district or municipality will report to secretary Bob Gibbs of Sidney Waterworks District who will organize a working committee.

Hugh Curtis MLA attended the April meeting which is the result of discussions organized by Curtis earlier this year.

Soccer Saturday

One of the last chances to see a lively Juvenile Soccer Game will be this weekend - Saturday, April 28 - at the soccer fields at the Airport Industrial (East) Area at 2 p.m.

The Peninsula Div. 8 team, the Falcons, coached by Dennis Varga, recently won the lower Island Consolation Cup and on Saturday will host a visiting team from Port Coquitlam.

THREE PERSONS WERE TAKEN TO RESTHAVEN HOSPITAL as the result of two accidents at the corner of Beacon Avenue and the Pat Bay highway on Thursday afternoon. The first collision took place near the centre of the intersection, when this station wagon collided with a pick-up truck while turning left across the highway. A second, less serious collision occurred moments before this picture was taken, while police and volunteer ambulance attendants were attempting to extricate an injured passenger from the station wagon.

SIDNEY RESIDENT CREATES MARINA FOLLOWING YEARS OF SINGLE HANDED DREDGING

Indian Midden Unearthed

BY JOSHUA PERLMUTTER
Marine Editor of the Sidney Review

Some men would have given up after the first week: others with more fibre to them might have lasted six months or even a year but Wally Jeune went the whole route. It took him six years to make his marina site ready for operation.

It also took him some 900 trips to sea in a leaky scow filled with 80 yards of hardpan and mud. In order to begin dredging up this material he first had to build his own dredger, converting an old power shovel; he also devised a giant knife like device to cut through the hard pan. He also worked entirely alone.

Once, when the scow began to take on water he stayed up 2½ days pumping hourly to keep it afloat. "After that," said Wally, "I just couldn't stay awake any longer, so I dumped the load right back where it came from."

'Copeland Marine', located in Tsehum Harbour next to the Royal Victoria Yacht Club Outstation will allow berthing for some 80 to 90 boats. It is named after longtime Sidney resident Walter Copeland.

When asked what it felt like to scoop out the final shovel full of mud and debris from the bottom of the harbour Mr. Jeune replied: "It was a tremendous relief. I'd finally done it! The equipment was worn out. I was lucky to get the job finished with it."

At one period during the operation a giant Vancouver based steam dredge set up quarters in the same harbour in order to dig out the Westport Marina basin. "It just ate my heart out to watch the huge shovel at work," said Mr. Copeland.

Mrs. Margaret Jeune has assisted in the project by teaching at Sidney Elementary School. "She's supported us the last little while," grinned Wally, who has also commercial salmon fished in past summers to provide additional funds for the marina.

One side result of the six year dredging operation has been the unearthing of an ancient Indian midden. "Museum officials tell me it could be one of the oldest in the area," said Wally. "They are very interested in the site."

FESTIVAL OF THE ARTS A GREAT SUCCESS

Special to the Sidney Review
BY BEA BOND

The recently completed five-day Festival of the Arts in School District No. 63 was adjudged very successful with plans already being formulated for next year. The program began as one performance at McPherson Theatre in 1971 and grew to two evenings last year. The Board feels this Festival allows parents and residents of the district an opportunity to view the cultural program conducted in the schools and gives students an opportunity to perform before fairly large audiences.

Much of the success was due to the active participation by so many in the School District, from the Board of School Trustees, to principal-accompanists teacher-conductors, and hundreds of parents responsible for at-

Extra Hour

Daylight Saving Time begins on Sunday! For the summer months, we will enjoy an extra hour of daylight, as the country swings into Daylight Saving Time. But it will cost us an hour of sleep on Saturday night, as, before we retire, we set our clocks ahead one hour.

It's easy to remember, if you think of the old saying, "Spring ahead - fall back", and put clocks ahead now, and set them back one hour at the end of October.

PARKING PROBLEMS FOR MOTEL OWNER

Harry Keepence addressed Central Saanich Council last week, asking for help in preventing long-term parking of cars outside his motel on Verdier Ave.

Keepence pointed out that employees of Bamberton cement works sometimes leave vehicles alongside his property for as long as a week and ferry travellers cannot even see his sign.

Council agreed that new regulations should be effected and the public works committee will look into better parking arrangements for this congested area.

BANG-UP JOB DONE AT LOCAL MARINA

Some workers get quite a bang out of their job at Conoe Cove Marina. In fact one gentleman was so enthusiastic over his assigned duties that he literally blew a number of wharves apart, sunk a boathouse with a two ton rock and dropped another giant boulder into a 20' fibreglass power yacht.

"He's gone now," said a spokesman for the marina on Tuesday. "The construction outfit putting in a road for us have hired another dynamite team. They let the other chap go."

Webb and Trace, a construction company, have been assigned by the marina to construct a waterside road out the South East wing of their property. Unfortunately, two recent dynamite blasts went slightly awry: the first popping a large boulder through the roof of a boathouse and ending up as added ballast in the power boat; the second, somewhat resembling a miniature Hiroshima, neatly removed two docks and utterly devastated a large boathouse. It was after this second explosion that the gentleman in charge of lighting the fuse was asked to relinquish his duties.

'GHOST TRAIN' AT BRENTWOOD COLLEGE

The Cowichan Valley Theatre Association will stage their third major production of the season at the Brentwood College School Auditorium May 8th to 12th at 8:15 p.m. nightly.

IAIN LANG AND ALISON EVANS in a tense scene from the Cowichan Valley Theatre Association production of 'The Ghost Train'.

This relatively new theatre company, it was founded in 1971 by its producing Director John Getgood, has already gained a considerable reputation by its productions of "The Shop at Sly Corner" and, last November "The Importance of Being Earnest." Now the company has turned its efforts to the comedy-thriller "The Ghost Train."

"The Ghost Train" is a classic of the theatre. Arnold Ridley, the author, became famous through this play, although the author has been responsible for many other plays, film scripts, T.V. shows and has appeared in the role of actor many times.

The play caused a sensation when it was first performed, not only because of its fast action and well defined characters, but also because one of the main publicity aspects of the play concerned the realistic train effects demanded by the script - screaming express trains, mysterious noises, signal bells and a spectacular train crash, to mention only a few. In the original production these effects demanded an enormous backstage crew. Today, electronics assist, but in spite of this technical development the play is still a severe test of efficiency for the backstage people.

The plays opens Tuesday, May 8th, and tickets are now on sale at the Brentwood Motel near the Brentwood Ferry. Seats can be reserved for visitors from the Saanich Peninsula. Telephone 245-3666 (collect). Tickets are valid for any evening of your choice.

tendance of more hundreds of well-groomed children. The first three evenings were devoted to drama presentations, interspersed with musical groups entertaining local stages and ensembles were being changed. The second evening of music at Claremont Senior Secondary School, presented to a capacity audience, was an interesting display of decorum by hundreds of members primary to senior secondary.

District Superintendent Eric Joyce Armour and Madge Scott were named the two princesses for the year. Delicious low calorie refreshments were served from beautifully decorated tables; the thanks of the members going to those who had worked so hard to make the hall and the tables so attractive.

From the first selection, "Edelweiss" by the massed choir, which included primary, elementary and secondary students, the program ran the gamut from rock to religious, Mozart, Australian, Palestinian, French-Canadian, Irish and Hebrew folk-songs. Conductors and accompanists still managed to display such vivacity as to make each presentation appear as entertaining to performers as to the audience. The rousing "Vivoronda" was warmly received, as was the Dixieland Band sound of "Hootenanny" ably performed by the new Claremont Band.

The finale of massed choirs and Claremont Band, performing "Born to be Free", so enthusiastically guest-conducted by the Director of Instruction, left the audience with a feeling of elation and pride in all the performers, young and old, and sincere appreciation to all responsible for the presentation of this year's Festival.

A Reply

Mr. Barry Mather, M.P.
 Wakefield, P.Q.

Dear Mr. Mather:
 We received your letter of April 17 and are pleased to reply, as requested, 'indicating our thoughts'.
 From your years as a columnist with the Vancouver Sun, we assume you are aware of the great volume of unsolicited mail that is directed to newspaper offices. Each morning's delivery brings us at least a medium-sized stack of often colorful envelopes: from the public relations departments of various charitable organizations, business firms and — most of all — different levels and departments of government.
 Occasionally, this mail contains something we feel might be of interest to our readers, and we include it in our news columns.

Less often, yet often enough, the morning post brings a bit of unintentional humour; such as the large, brightly printed envelope that arrived recently from Information Canada - with no contents (we still wonder if they might have been trying to tell us something).

Once in a while a piece of mail arrives that, for one reason or another, raises our ire; and the missive we received from you on Monday falls clearly into this category.

Actually, the letter itself did not contain anything to which we take serious exception: your desire to become the Canadian Buchwald is an admirable one, and Ottawa could easily provide as much scope for satire as Washington. Nor do we object to the price: three dollars a week is reasonable enough for this sort of material. Even your list of satisfied customers followed the usual trend for such sales letters, although we felt the use of your elected status in the signature was somewhat indelicate.

Indelicate, however, is a far milder than the one we'd apply to use of a House of Commons franking machine to effect delivery of your sales pitch.

Barry, we sympathize with the difficulties you must experience in getting by on the meagre $26,000 you receive as a Member of Parliament, and the obvious need to supplement this with a bit of free lance writing.

But we draw the line at use of our tax dollars to help you achieve this end.

As a member of the party that popularized criticism of so-called 'corporate bums', perhaps you would consider extending this philosophy to other fields.

The Simple Life

It is refreshing to note the increasing popularity of such simple leisure-time activities as sailing, hiking, rowing and canoeing.

The trend, which began with a back-to-the-earth movement among young people some years ago, reflects a common disenchantment with the noise, the rush and the artificiality of suburban life.

So much of our time is spent commuting in heavy traffic, being deluged unwillingly with TV commercials and resisting pressures to increase our living standards by acquiring more and more material possessions.

With the constant struggle to keep abreast of rising costs, it is satisfying as well as soothing to find recreation which depends on muscle power rather than gasoline or electricity. Not only is this easier on the ears but also ecologically sensible in the light of predicted fuel shortages, which will make the operation of engines impractical for any but the wealthy.

The recently announced rationing of gasoline in Los Angeles is regarded by many as an ominous indication of what lies ahead for North America.

But for those who take the time to listen to the gentle splash of oars in the water or the chuckle of the sea beneath a well-trimmed sailing hull, this particular problem fades into insignificance.

In fact, at some point in our headlong pursuit of "progress" the inhabitants of this earth and North America in particular, may pause to find that the greatest satisfaction of all may be found in the world outside their back door.

PENINSULA POLICE NEWS

One accident followed another at the intersection of Beacon Ave. and Highway 17 on April 19 and three people went to hospital after collisions in which vehicle damage totalled $4,100.

The first accident involved cars driven by Gary Easton, 1005 Westpoint Place, Victoria and John Milloy, Abbotsford, head as his passenger, Mrs. G. Wright of Winnipeg. Milloy made a left turn off Highway 17 onto Beacon and collided with the car driven by Easton who was northbound on the Highway.

All three were taken to Resthaven Hospital and Milloy has been charged with making a left turn when unsafe to do so and with driving without possessing a license.

While the R.C.M.P. constable was directing traffic at this time, a car driven by Patricia McAllister, Victoria ignored the policeman and obeyed the lights, colliding with a westbound car driven by Olive Mahoney coming out of Beacon Ave.

An accident on McTavish Rd. on April 20 at 3 p.m. caused no injuries but resulted in $2,000 damage. The vehicle driven by Walter Staub, 8210 Alec, hit the rear of a car driven by Ross Tremblay, 1375 McTavish as the latter turned into the driveway. Staub has been charged with following too closely.

Thomas P. Newell, 10070 Fifth St. Sidney hit a deer while travelling Highway 17 at 7.50 p.m. on April 18. The car sustained $500 damage but the deer disappeared.

RCMP found a Beretta semi-automatic revolver lying on Highway 17 near Weller

THE JACK SCOTT COLUMN

THAT TV QUESTION

Today's little effort will concern the effect of excessive television viewing on family life and if it's not one of your problems I congratulate you.
 I'm on the subject because a humor reader has written me a humorous account of the nightly debates and arguments in her nest that are caused by her differing viewing tastes of all parties.

"From the moment we sit down after dinner there is disagreement on which programs to watch," she explains, "and sometimes we argue right through until the late movie." How, she wondered, was this domestic problem solved in our house?

My reply to the lady, which I now realize was unforgivable flippant, was to suggest that anybody who watches that much television is in imminent danger of turning into a vegetable and that the problem might resolve itself by so deadening any values of selectivity or discernment that the family eventually will look at almost anything, including their navels, with complete passiveness and detachment.
 This could solve their problem and ruin their lives unless, of course, they'd prefer being turnip-people.

 It was just a week after this unhelpful reply that I chanced on a much more sensible and scientific approach which, while it does not solve the situation, at least demonstrates what we're up against out here in the wates of televisionland.

The warning is contained in an article by Dr. Joost A.M. Meerloos, the noted psychiatrist and social psychologist, who has decided that "the technical box of Pandora has unleashed forces that man can no longer control."
 Dr. Meerloos sees television as a wedge that's being driven between parents and their children and you don't need to be a psychiatrist with a funny name to see that.

According to this authority, automatic, lifeless tools, have come to substitute for the parental function of taking care and giving affection. Visualizing a home such as that of my correspondent, he saw in it "little true exchange of affection, little warmth, little kissing, little spirited conversation," a place in which "words were merely as a medium for commands. "The children do not laugh at Dad's sallies—they laugh at Dick Van Dyke. They do not worship Mother—they worship Mary Moore."

 As I read that I was thinking of a neighbor of mine who, with his entire family, is really, completely, hopelessly hooked on television.

One night recently the set broke down or burned out from sheer exhaustion. He confessed to me that it was a harrowing experience. They were all embarrassed and ill at ease with each other, having forgotten how to communicate. Finally, in panic, one of the children turned on the radio, cranked up the volume, and they all sat there looking at the radio.

It was this father, as you may have guessed, who passed on to me Dr. Meerloos' report.

Television, as Alfred Hitchcock has recently put it, has become like an automatic toaster. You press a button and the same thing always pops up.

The trouble is, I think, that few of us have realized this, that we constantly hope that if we wait up angel-food cake and, in fact, once in a long while it does. But the rest is dreary, clobbering to the senses, habit-forming, full of false and sickly attitudes to life and, worst of all, a completely painless narcotic. Its total effect is a kind of negation of living for all ages, all mentalities.

 Ideally, a family should do without it entirely and yet there are always things coming along (that Tennessee Williams special or the Cousteau series, for example) that are magnificent.
 About all you can do is to work out some sort of compromise within a family and make it a rule that some nights there is to be no TV at all so that you may meet each other again just like real, living people.

ANNUAL CANVASS

The annual door-to-door canvass of the Sidney-North Saanich Branch of the Canadian Bible Society, will begin again this year on Canadian Bible Society Sunday, May 6th. With the co-operation of the church congregations of this area, we will be looking toward a greater contribution to the World United Bible Societies and local work in Canada.

In order to carry out commitments and the expanding obligations to the people of the World, each canvasser will be soliciting public help in the translation, publishing, and distribution of Bibles. The accomplishments to date, which must be expanded and retained, are: scriptures in 1500 languages, world distribution in 1972 of 175,000,000 bibles (2½ million in Canada) and 2½ million in 1973, the blind, new citizens, Canadian Armed Forces, seamen, plus our native Indians and Eskimos. One and a half million dollars is required this year from people in Canada.

Anyone wishing to assist in this canvass should contact Mrs. C.H. Parnell, 718 Ardmore - 3rd; 656-2448. On May 3rd the organization meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Parnell - all canvassers are requested to be in attendance.

Garden Expert Wants To Help

An 87-year-old horticulturist is looking for ways to pass on his knowledge to young people.

A.B. Randy, 9743 West Saanich Rd. says that people must learn to keep themselves and stay off welfare. In his own way, the Italian-born farmer has already been helping by teaching Cool-Aid people to grow vegetables properly.

A former Victoria resident, Randy has lived in North Saanich for only a year but his family is well known on the Peninsula. During the term of office of Lt. Governor Ross, the Randy farm supplied Devonshire cream to Government House.

An expert in his own field, the horticulturist needs help in organizing his assistance to others and has written Donald Munro M.P. for Saanich-Esquimalt in this regard.

Meanwhile Randy says "if anyone wants to learn, they are welcome to my place. I will tell them what I know."

Trusty Viscount Makes Last Trip

Special to the Sidney Review
BY PAT MUNSON

On April 28, the familiar purr of the Viscount planes will be heard over Victoria International Airport for the last time.

Air Canada is withdrawing the turbo-prop planes which have been in service on this coast since January, 1961 and retiring almost all of them from service. Only three of the 11 Viscounts in Canada will still be used, these will go to Ontario and the others will be scrapped or sold, ending an association with Air Canada which began in 1955.

One pilot who has been associated with Viscounts since 1957 is Capt. John Scott who regrets the disappearance of a plane he describes as "the hottest thing in the sky."

"It's a pilot's airplane" says Scott, explaining that the craft is capable of flying at 25,000 feet although on coastal runs, it maintains an altitude of 3,000 or 4,000 feet. The plane has great reliability and in its long history of commercial use, accidents are almost unheard of.

Design work for the first Viscount began shortly after the end of World War II, and was based on the belief that the revolutionary new gas-turbine engine, until then thought of only as a power-plant for ultra high speed military aircraft, was adaptable to the post-war needs of the airlines.

The two great firms of Vickers-Armstrongs and Rolls-Royce which produced many world-beating aircraft including the Spitfire, were asked to design the airframe and engines for the original Viscount 630 which took to the air in July 1948.

The four Rolls Royce Dart propeller turbine motors combined the basic principles of jet propulsion with the tested efficiency and economy of the airscrew.

Many of the Viscounts in Air Canada service have covered at least eight million miles (they cruise at 300 m.p.h. and the number of hours flown averages 28,000). Although the engine are as smooth and reliable as ever, the "skin-life" of the fuselage is coming to an end however and the planes will be flown, at the end of this month, back to Winnipeg maintenance shop for the last time.

"Air Canada was the first North American company to use the Viscount" says Scott who as senior coast pilot is visibly upset by the coming change. Like his colleague, First Officer George Ortwein, Scott will retrain on DC-8 aircraft but both will have to accept a demotion in the process.

An Air Canada official says the Viscount has been phased out by the introduction of bigger, faster jets. The Victoria-Vancouver run is being switched to 96-passenger DC-9 jet planes for three services a day with Pacific Western Airlines expanding their Victoria-Vancouver connection to seven flights a day instead of the usual four.

One of the Air Canada DC-9 flights will link Victoria with London, Ontario for the first time, leaving the Island at 10 a.m. and calling at Vancouver, Edmonton and Winnipeg enroute arriving in London at 7:55 p.m.

Heart Disease -- Number One Enemy -- Heart Fund -- Number One Defence.

Pictured on one of its last visits to Victoria International Airport is this Viscount airliner which carries 48 passengers. The planes are the remainder of a fleet which replaced DC-3 craft on short-range, inter-city routes. First Officer George Ortwein and Capt. John Scott, pilot, (left right), confess to "a great affection and respect" for the Viscount.

Adult Students Complete Project

HOME COMFORT is displayed in interior shot of the camper built by Adult Education students.

The fourth truck-camper to be built by night school students has fathered a number of home-built campers during the 20-week course arranged by Saanich School District Continuing Education.

Instructor Bob Fennell, owner of Fennell's Trailer Supplies says that most of the 10 students who built this holiday home during his two-hours-a-week course, have completed their own this winter.

Valued at $3,900, the camper accommodates four people and has a four burner stove, frig, pressurized hot and cold water system and toilet. The unit will be offered for rent this summer by Fennell.

During construction, the students, many of whom were new to plumbing, learnt how to install carpentry, wiring and work with aluminum sheet metal. The upholstery only was done professionally -- because home sewing machines cannot handle the thicknesses of material.

Those taking the course were Ed Olson, Walter Calvin, Bob Hughes, Ron Cunningham, Owen York, R.W. MacMurchie, Alan J. Robertson, Dunc Gurton, George Green and Tom Askey.

MENTAL HEALTH CENTRE TO HOLD OPEN HOUSE

The Saanich Mental Health Centre has extended an invitation to the residents of the Saanich Peninsula and Gulf Islands to attend an Open House to be held at the Centre, on the afternoon of Tuesday, May 1st from 2 - 4 p.m.

Dr. John Wood, the Centre's Director said that the Open House was being held in observance of Mental Health Week, May 1st to 7th, and that the local branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association would be helping with the arrangements.

"This is an excellent opportunity," Dr. Wood said, "for the general public to visit our Centre and meet with our staff. We are hoping that a great many people will drop in during our Open House and become better acquainted with the services we provide to the community."

"We are pleased," Dr. Wood continued, "to hold the Open House during Mental Health Week which is designated annually by the Canadian Mental Health Association and observed across Canada. The C.M.H.A. has been an active force for over 50 years in developing community programmes and activities which are directed at the treatment and prevention of mental and emotional illness."

The Saanich Mental Health Centre is located at 4514 West Saanich Road, just past the Royal Oak Shopping Centre.

GRADUATE OF A TRAINING COURSE held on the Peninsula last Fall, Sidney R.C.M.P. constable Mike Clarabut got his first opportunity to put his motorcycle training into practice over the Easter long weekend — on a machine borrowed from a mainland detachment. The local detachment expects to have partial use of their own motorcycle during the summer months (it will be shared with two other lower Vancouver Island offices). Obviously enjoying his new mode of transportation, Mike said that the motorcycle made ferry traffic patrol much easier.

Parkland School Problems Overcome

Parkland junior-senior secondary school is beginning to assume an intriguing shape as it rises on on the McDonald Park Road site in North Saanich.

Lands and building superintendent Bryan Shaw said this week that most problems have now been ironed out and that key utilities such as sewer, heating, ventilation, power and water supply will be installed within the construction schedule which calls for completion of the school by September, 1973.

Following the meeting with Sidney Council two weeks ago, School District personnel have continued to work on the problem of paring sewer installation costs. The Kiwanis Village low-cost housing project is also involved with the sewage installation, first tenders for which were much higher than engineer's estimates.

Shaw said this week that by redesigning the "head" of the system which will be located on North Saanich municipal property adjacent to Parklands, and installing a gravity connection for Kiwanis Village, cost have been pared to a realistic figure.

Original estimates were in the $45,000 bracket, and the low bid of O.K. Paving for $55,407 which has now been accepted by the Board means that by agreement with Kiwanis, this organization will pay 15 percent ($8,321.05) leaving a bill of $47,085.95 for the School District to foot.

Sidney's cruising fleet has long since scattered over the horizon and 'Rainbow' alone is in the Mexican mainland town of Puerto Vallarta. The trip down from San Diego was fast with good winds and following seas. We spent a great Christmas in Bahia Santa Maria with two other cruising boats and replaced the traditional turkey with the local speciality of lobster. The coast of Baja abounds with this delicious seafood and the fishermen who work the rocks and rugged beaches are only too willing to barter for cigarettes and 'Playboy' magazines.

Our festive mood was undampened by the deteriorating weather and even the rain on Christmas Day did not prevent our exploring the beach and watching the raging surf. We should have been more watchful, on Boxing Day the barometer started falling and suddenly the wind had shifted around and our pleasant calm anchorage turned into exposed lee shore.

The rocks which had given us so much pleasure now became our enemy and the surf which had been fun to row through in the dingy boiled madly. Our first experience of a storm was about to commence. The glass fell like a stone and the rising wind at five in the morning got us up to secure the boat for what was to come. Gusts to 60 knots and with waves sweeping our bows the manila anchor rode stretched from 3/4" to 1/2" and made us wish for nylon.

For twelve hours we sat and prayed, all three boats fighting to survive together in their plight and yet alone against the sea with no one in a position to help if an anchor gave. Calm came at last with us exhausted but eager to depart to the safe open ocean. The realization of having everything that you own completely at the mercy of nature is a very sobering prospect and both Evelyn and I were conscious of our good fortune.

For Twelve Hours We Sat And Prayed...

Soon underway, 'Rainbow' headed south towards Cabo San Lucas on the tip of Baja. Our twin genoas pulled strongly with a stiff breeze and the boat was moving along at a steady 5 1/2 knots. The steering vane assisted the sails and Evelyn and I were able to relax and read and enjoy the pleasure of being underway again. Two days later 'Rainbow' rounded Cabo Falso and pulled into the frequented anchorage of San Lucas. The last day of 1972 passed by and with much celebration the New Year was heralded in amidst blazing sunshine and 85 degree weather. Although crowded with friendly

Last summer Roger and Evelyn Miles set out in their historic sailing vessel 'RAINBOW' determined to fulfill a dream of cruising the oceans of the world under sail. To date they have successfully navigated south as far as the waters of Mexico and yachts all endeavouring to delay our departure we sailed northward with our new crew member Cliff - Evelyn's brother who had joined us for the tip to the South Pacific. Cruising north against headwinds decided us against the Sea of Cortez and consequently we were soon headed for Mazatlan and the mainland. A pleasant reunion with Dale and Betty Nordland on their boat are presently readying their little ship to cross the Pacific Ocean. They are bound for the Marquesan Islands, one thousand miles to the east of Tahiti. The following article is a graphic account by Roger of their experiences to date.

'Agean' began our stay in this exciting town. We found markets abounding with tropical fruits, huge papayas, mangoes and avocadoes the size of footballs. The blaze of colour and overwhelming aromas left us speechless. Soon the boat was filled with every conceivable fruit and a mountain of coconuts and bananas appeared in the cockpit. Fresh daily produce, cream to stand a spoon in, milk, cheese and fresh meat were all available. We never opened another can from our first visit to the market.

Cliff developed an interesting disease which kept us hopping and him too!! Great strides were made by the ships' doctor in the art of giving injections and although Evelyn and I could happily have stayed another week Cliff was ready to be away from the source of his bug. Puerto Vallarta received us two weeks later after we had stopped in many of the beautiful bays and anchorages between the two ports.

This town will be the scene of feverish preparation and painting before 'Rainbow' is urged southwestward first by the northerly winds and then the trades which are to carry us into the South Pacific and the group of islands known as the Marquesas in French Polynesia

To us Mexico is a land of shining beaches fringed with swaying coconut and banana palms, hills merging with mountains covered with lush growth which will leave forever memories of this beautiful sailor's paradise. The inhabitants are not yet spoiled and cruising boats are received with hospitality and friendship long since dead in North American ports. It's changing fast and is noticeable in the Tourist Towns along the way so get moving you sailors of tomorrow, the world is growing smaller daily and soon paradise will really be only a dream.

Arts And Crafts Show Will Feature A Variety Of Talents

GUEST ARTIST WILL BE NELL BRADSHAW

Mrs. Dave Barrett, wife of the Premier of B.C., will officially open the twentieth annual Saanich Peninsula Arts and Crafts show and sale on May 5 in Sanscha Hall.

The two day show will feature the work of guest artist Nell Bradshaw, known for her paintings of totem poles of West Coast Indians.

Convened by Marion Hansen, assisted by Susan Lapham, this year's show will also include a special display of paintings selected by professional artists Prof. H. G. Glyde and Dr. Annora Brown from works done by Saanich Peninsula Arts and Crafts members. A hidden auction will also take place.

Demonstrations of many crafts and paintings in oil and water-colours will take place on both days of the show, including participation by: Jeanne Sheppard - pottery, Brian Travers-Smith - water colour, Doris Watton - batik, Fred Priddat - oil painting and other media, George and Gillian Mackie - pottery, Patrick Lewis - miniature wood carving, Arnold

Eisenberg - glass blowing, Michael Rougier - wood sculpture, Patrick Macarthy - metal sculpture, and Kit Mawhood - rug hooking.

Four door prizes have been donated by area artists and tea will be served by the ladies committee of Sanscha. Admission to the show is 50 cents.

Founded in 1951 by a group of artists interested in holding workshops together for their own enjoyment and for the purpose of stimulating interest in the practice of arts and crafts, the group there would be a mutual benefit from association with professionals in the society.

A street show held in the early 1950's predominately featured paintings, but the crafts of pottery, weaving, batik, enamelwork and macrame have become increasingly popular and will make up a large part of the current show.

DISPLAYING DOOR PRIZES for the Saanich Peninsula Arts and Crafts Show and Sale, to be held in Sanscha Hall on May 5 and 6, are Susan Lapham - holding a wall hanging donated by the Hand Loom and applying a steady hand to an attractive wrought iron candle stand donated by

Marion Hansen; Jeanne Sheppard holding a bowl which she made and donated; and Ardath Davis - who donated one of her beautiful watercolours. Guest artist of the show will be Nell Bradshaw, best known for her paintings of West Coast totem poles. (Review Photo by Mike Crossman)

REAL ESTATE

Are Real Estate Agents Necessary?

JOHN BRUCE SIDNEY REALTY LTD.

All of us in the real estate business have more than once met someone who was doubtful about the value of the services which we Realtors render to the public.

Well, I suppose when you get right down to it, nobody really needs a contractor to build a house, either, for there is no reason why each home-builder couldn't order all the materials he needed, then hire the carpenters, bricklayers, plumbers and other tradesmen.

Yet the vast majority of people building a house will go to a contractor. Why? Because he has the contacts, ability, and — most important of all, perhaps — the know-how to get the job done with the greatest efficiency, which means a saving of time and money.

The Realtor performs a similar sort of service, centered on the selling of the house.

Certainly it's possible for any intelligent person to transact real estate without a Realtor. But isn't such a person trusting to luck if he hasn't the necessary contacts, the time, and experience in judging property values?

Like the contractor, a Realtor will save you time and money — and perhaps from making a costly mistake. See you next week.

Nineteenth Century Temperance Hall May Disappear

Special to the Sidney Review
BY BEA BOND

One of the main historical landmarks in Central Saanich is in danger of extinction, unless members of the community show a definite and constructive interest in it.

Possibly some of the newer residents have few details of its history and if they become aware of its potentialities, they may be able to join with longer-time residents in an effort to help preserve this building.

I refer, of course to the old Temperance Hall, probably better known now as the Women's Institute Hall. In just what year a Temperance Society was originally formed is rather vague, but it is known that in the early 1890's, meetings were held in different homes in an effort to dissuade young folks from partaking of intoxicants and the evil results therefrom! So very concerned and sincere was this group that a parcel of land at the corner of Central Saanich and East Saanich Roads was obtained and a hall built by volunteer labour.

In 1894 an Indenture was made and William Mitchell, Alfred Gale, Andrew Stewart and Harry Tanner were named as trustees. Anyone wishing to rent the hall could only do so on the understanding that no intoxicating drinks would be served or consumed on the premises.

As is the case today, other clubs and organizations were forming in the district, causing a diversion and the membership of the Temperance Society dwindled. Mr. William Mitchell was the last surviving trustee and prior to his death, he gave the executors of his estate instructions to transfer the Temperance Hall to the South Saanich Farmers' Institute and the South Saanich Women's Institute as joint owners.

For years, the Women's Institute had an interest in the building because, in 1919, they contributed $450 towards the building of the annex.

In 1949, in accordance with the wishes of the late and last trustee, W.D. Mitchell, the Hall became the property of those aforementioned and became known as the Institute Hall, but is still the Temperance Hall to the real old-timers.

Since 1913, the South Saanich Farmers' Institute has held meetings to assist the farmers in North and South Saanich and relieve the Agricultural Society of the responsibility of attending to the economic welfare of these farmers' problems.

In the same year, the South Saanich Women's Institute was formed. Both groups held their meetings in the Temperance Hall and, in addition to performing the usual functions and duties of their own organization, they assisted the Farmers' Institute in their social functions and raising funds for general purposes. They have also been responsible for the ladies' section of the Agricultural Society.

As membership in each organization declined and original members found it increasingly difficult to find volunteer labour or funds for the upkeep of the Temperance Hall, it was transferred to a local group of business men for their meetings. The Central Saanich Chamber of Commerce also has had its ups and downs, as far as active membership is concerned and it, too, finds it simply does not have the resources to maintain and operate the Hall.

At its last meeting on Tuesday, April 17th, the Central Saanich Chamber of Commerce resolved to dedicate the entire premises to the public for public use in perpetuity, under Municipal auspices. If this proposal is not acceptable, then the only remaining alternative appears to be to demolish the building and yet another historic landmark will have passed into oblivion, except perhaps for an unob-trusive plaque to mark the site.

Like any aging member of the community, the Hall finds the years have taken their toll — foundations need strengthening; plumbing and electrical installations need up-dating; a new roof is a must. There are still many good years in it yet, as a meeting place for community activities and, when the new hospital is located nearby, could be a necessary adjunct: an ideal spot for wedding, anniversary celebrations or dances, with the nearest large hall being at Sidney.

RAQUETS SWING IN C. SAANICH

Interest in tennis is on the upswing with at least 70 members registered in Central Saanich Tennis Club and tennis courts on the drawing board for Parkland School in North Saanich and Mt. Newton High School in Central Saanich.

Tom Ireland, president of the Central Saanich Club which was formed about six weeks ago says that Tuesday evenings at Centennial Park courts have been established as the rallying point for members and would-be members.

The newly formed club is still ironing out "knotty problems" of instruction clinics for juniors and those who are new to the game. Central Saanich Recreation Commission has organized two sessions of instruction for those who can play basic tennis on May 6 and 13 from 2.30 to 5 p.m.

Victoria pro Gordon Hartley will give the Saturday afternoon lessons which are described as a "crash" course, sanctioned by the B.C. Lawn Tennis Association. Recreation director Norma Sealey says that the lessons cover points normally taken in an eight-week series!

Sidney Recreation Commission has asked the Central Saanich Club to help with instruction for indoor sessions in Sidney and Club president Ireland will meet with Central Saanich Recreation commission early in May to discuss a proposal in line with its objectives "to provide tennis opportunities for all players and would-be players."
