OLE MISS RIFLE RANGE

Facilities can go a long way in broadcasting the position a program holds in the eyes of those around it. One can look at the facilities that encompass an athletics program to get an idea of the goals set for that sport.

At Ole Miss, the construction of a multi-million dollar rifle range and multi-purpose facility, in conjunction with the City of Oxford, says a lot about Ole Miss and the City of Oxford's commitment to the sport of rifle.

It's not the first time the "town and gown" have come together to provide a facility for use by both groups, nor will it be the last. Ole Miss and the city joined forces to build Oxford-University Stadium/Swayze Field in 1989.

Vision and attention to detail have been the focus of the Ole Miss Rifle Range, which is located inside the Patricia C. Lamar National Guard Readiness Center. It sits approximately 10 minutes from campus at the intersection of SR 7 and Sisk Avenue adjacent to the Oxford Conference Center.

The range is one of the premiere rifle facilities in the United States, setting the standard for shooting facilities across the country.

Completed in 2004, the range features a 12-point shooting range and serves the needs of the Ole Miss rifle program with a team meeting room and locker room. Electronic scoring targets provide quick and accurate scoring for the competitors and the facility also boasts an arms room for storage and an observation area for spectators.

MARSHA BEASLEY

RUN DOWN

Eight-time NCAA Championship coach Marsha Beasley has taken the Ole Miss Rifle program to new heights in three seasons at the helm.

Beginning her Ole Miss tenure in 2016 after a decorated coaching career at West Virginia, Beasley guided the Rebels to a program-record score of 4687 on Jan. 19, 2018 at Alaska Fairbanks. Remarkably, Ole Miss has produced the top nine aggregate scores in school history, and 18 of the top 20 scores in the past three seasons.

She was named the College Rifle Coaches Association National Coach of the Year and Great America Rifle Coach of the Year after leading Ole Miss to program-bests in GARC regular-season finish (third) and total wins (seven) in 2017-18.

Beasley began a three-year term in September of 2019 as a member of the NCAA Rifle Committee. She will work with the committee to further develop policies and procedures governing the administration and conduct of the NCAA Rifle Championships and verify qualification of teams for the championships.

In Jan. 2019, the Rebels reached No. 7 in the CRCA rankings – their highest ranking since their sixth-place finish at the 2006 NCAA Rifle Championships.

Beasley has coached two NCAA individual qualifiers: Alison Weisz and Kamilla Kisch. Weisz became a four-time qualifier and two-time All-American, both once under Beasley's leadership. Kisch qualified for Nationals as a freshman, joining Weisz as the only Rebel rookie to do so. The two also sit first and second in the Ole Miss record book for air rifle (Weisz: 597, Kisch: 596) with the help of Beasley.

The Rebels have found success in outside competition during the Beasley era. Weisz earned a national title for air rifle at the 2017 USA Shooting National Championships, and a spot on the USA National Team. She also earned a silver medal at the 2018 competition. Randi Loudin secured bronze in smallbore in 2017 and 2018.

Beasley has coached five GARC Honorable Mention athletes in three seasons. Weisz received a Second Team All-GARC nod for air rifle in 2016-17.

The success has carried over into the classroom as well under Beasley's watch. A combined 27 student-athletes have been named CRCA All-Academic, SEC Academic, or made the SEC First Year Honor Roll. Abby Buesseler earned GARC Scholar-Athlete of the Year for both 2017 and 18 under Beasley's tutelage.

Beasley comes to Ole Miss from Morgantown, West Virginia, where most recently she served as a volunteer coach for the Mason Dixon Junior Rifle Club and the West Virginia Junior Marksmanship Program.

From 1990-2006, Beasley was the head rifle coach at West Virginia leading the program to eight NCAA National Championships. In her first year as head coach, the Mountaineers won the first of four consecutive NCAA titles (1990-93) and repeated the feat from 1995-98.

At WVU Beasley also coached eight individuals to NCAA national titles and 27 student-athletes earned 67 NRA All-America honors during her tenure. Four team members competed in the Olympic Games after leaving WVU.

Success at WVU under Beasley carried over to the classroom, as 25 student-athletes were named All-Academic 55 times by the Collegiate Rifle Coaches Association.

Beasley's coaching awards include US Olympic Committee Coach of the Year (for Shooting) and West Virginia Sports Writers Coach of the Year (all sports).

A graduate of East Tennessee State University, Beasley later earned a Master's in Sport Management at West Virginia. She competed in smallbore and air rifle while in college and as a member of the U.S. National Team.

In addition to competing and coaching, Beasley has been a leader in the sport. She drafted the bylaws to create the Mid-America Rifle Conference (now GARC) and was a staff member at the (then) national governing body of shooting (the NRA) and the Atlanta Committee for the Olympic Games. She also served 17 years on the Board of the Civilian Marksmanship Program.

Beasley is married to Carl Flowers and they have a daughter, Tavie, and twin sons, Aaron and Daniel.

JEAN-PIERRE LUCAS

RUN DOWN

Jean-Pierre (JP) Lucas, a nine-time All-American and member of the five-time reigning NCAA Rifle Champions, West Virginia University, joined the Ole Miss rifle program as assistant coach in 2017.

During Lucas' two seasons, Ole Miss has fired an incredible 17 of the program's top 20 scores in program history. Under his tutelage the Rebels shattered the previous school with 4687 points on Jan. 19, 2018 at Alaska Fairbanks.

He was the GARC Assistant Coach of the Year following his first season at Ole Miss after helping Ole Miss earn the most wins in program history (seven) and best GARC finish (third).

The Rebels have earned five All-GARC Honorable Mentions during his tenure.

Success has found its way into the classroom as 17 student-athletes have been named CRCA All-Academic and another 22 have made either the SEC Academic or First-Year Honor Roll. For the first time in Rebel Rifle history in 2018-19, the entire team filled both the CRCA and SEC academic lists.

Prior to Ole Miss, Lucas, a native of Speers, Pennsylvania, held the honor of being the first tryout freshman to earn a spot on the WVU rifle team under Coach Jon Hammond. In 2014, as a redshirt freshman Lucas competed in the Great America Rifle Conference Championships placing third in smallbore (587) with a final score of (441).

As team captain for both the 2015-16 and 2016-17 seasons, Lucas led the Mountaineers to two NCAA Championship titles. During his collegiate career he earned All-American honors nine times, including NRA First Team Smallbore and CRCA Second Team his senior year. Other accomplishments include finishing in third in smallbore (583), and fifth in air rifle (593) at the 2016 GARC Championships.

"I am very happy to have JP Lucas become part of the Ole Miss rifle program," head coach Marsha Beasley said upon Lucas' hiring. "JP was an exceptionally hard worker in college and was successful at the highest level of NCAA competition. As a five-year member of the team that won NAAs each of those years, he has an excellent understanding of what it takes to win. He was a two-year captain, which is significant. He comes highly recommended by his coach, Jon Hammond, who credits JP's leadership and continual management of small problems as key factors in the WVU Rifle Team's success.

I know JP will bring the same energy, commitment and focus to his work at Ole Miss. Over the last three years, I had the chance to observe JP when he coached various camps at WVU. He is very knowledgeable and is able to communicate the technical aspects of rifle very well. He is passionate about shooting, but at the same time his leadership style is easy-going and positive. He will be a huge asset for us and I look forward to working with him."

Lucas has been successful in open competition as well. He placed 2nd in the Men's 50-meter 3 position final at the 2016 National Championships.

Lucas has represented team USA in multiple World Cups and international matches such as the 2014 Bavarian Air Rifle Championship in Munich, Germany and the 2015 ISSF World Cup in Seoul, Korea.

"One thing that I always pride myself on is my work ethic. I will do whatever it takes to put my team first and work with Marsha and the Ole Miss staff to create the best team we can," Lucas said.

"I was lucky enough to be a walk on to the West Virginia University team. At that time, I was just trying to make the team and everyone on the team pushed me to not only try to become one of the best shooters on the team, but to become one of the best shooters in the country. I think that's something I can take and apply it to any aspect of life, not only in coaching, but in all life aspects. It's not all just about trophies and materialistic things, but what it takes to get there. It's the hard work that pays off and hard work is what really separates the good shooters from the best shooters. It's about how bad you want it and what you're willing to commit to."

Lucas graduated an Academic All-Big 12 and CRCA All-Academic student from WVU in May of 2017 with a Bachelor of Science in Petroleum & Natural Gas Engineering. When he's not at the range, Lucas enjoys outdoor activities such as fishing and hunting.
