

Remarks and Messages

S. Georgia Nugent

1-18-2021

Martin Luther King, Jr. Gospel Festival

S. Georgia Nugent

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.iwu.edu/nugent_news

Part of the Higher Education Commons

This Article is protected by copyright and/or related rights. It has been brought to you by Digital Commons @ IWU with permission from the rights-holder(s). You are free to use this material in any way that is permitted by the copyright and related rights legislation that applies to your use. For other uses you need to obtain permission from the rights-holder(s) directly, unless additional rights are indicated by a Creative Commons license in the record and/ or on the work itself. This material has been accepted for inclusion by faculty at Illinois Wesleyan University. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@iwu.edu.

©Copyright is owned by the author of this document.

MLK Gospel Fest
Georgia Nugent Remarks
January 18, 2021

Good evening-and welcome to the 2021 Gospel Fest! Illinois Wesleyan is especially proud to have been hosting this event for 31 years.

I have a very personal appreciation of the Gospel Fest. Last year was my first year to experience it, because I was new to Illinois Wesleyan. I was SO struck by the tremendous energy in the room. And I also want to say how touched I was by the warm reception of this community to a newcomer.

It is really regrettable that we can't gather together in Westbrook Auditorium this year and feel the electricity of coming together. But we have learned to be creative with these online solutions, and I'm confident that we will still have a positive and uplifting experience of music making and celebration, as we honor the legacy of Dr. Martin Luther King.

These are difficult days for our democracy. By coming together in this gathering, I believe we are doing what is most necessary for the future: appreciating our common humanity and our common aspirations for a better world.

I hope that you enjoy tonight's program. Thank you for joining with us.