ABSTRACT

The research entitled “Analysis of the Effectiveness of Maritime Security Cooperation in Combating Illegal Fishing between Indonesia and Australia 2015-2019” is a research that focuses on analyzing the effectiveness of maritime security cooperation related to illegal fishing that is very detrimental to both countries as well as a vehicle even as an investor for other transnational crimes. Based on the analysis of research conducted with a qualitative descriptive method that uses the concept of maritime security and the theory of international cooperation effectiveness. The cooperation carried out by Indonesia and Australia provides an overview of the policy steps and interests of each country in mapping maritime threats to safeguard the most important assets of its maritime area. Maritime security cooperation between Indonesia and Australia in tackling illegal fishing has had quite a positive impact, with one of the factors is the joint patrols between agencies related to the guarding of maritime borders in which the level of illegal fishing activities in the Indonesian EEZ and the Australian Fishing Zone experienced a decrease in the number of illegal fishing crimes and an increase in the number of fishery stocks in each country.
