ARE YOU GUILTY?

Once again students and others are subjected to that rigorous ordeal known as mid-year examinations. This event is attended with several evils. It is sad to relate that the greatest one seems to be that of "cribbing" or letter cheating. There are two ways to treat this subject, one is to pass dents * * * I judge it to be mutual over it lightly or ignore it, and the other is to expose it and if possible cure it.

That there should be so little honor among college people as there appears to be can hardly be credited but a close observer in an examination room can not fail to find suspicious movements on the part of entirely too many partments of Dramatics and Music, persons. Here is one reason for the statement that, "marks do not mean which co-operate with the Departments anything"; marks certainly do not mean anything if they can be secured simply by a judicious reference to hidden papers while the instructor's gaze seems to be riveted in another direction or by a few hushed whispers to the next person. No wonder some people are "attending Ursinus country club." Ursinus College is no country club for an honest student and no one but a cribber could make such a statement. If a student should steal a sum of money, no matter how small there is little doubt but that the same person would be called to the Executive office and informed that his presence as a student at the institution would no longer be desired, yet the same individual can go in examinations and steal and cheat and be called to the same office and faculty members made an address in graduated with honors.

There are three types of students, students who do not "crib," students who will "crib" on occasion and in certain cases, and those who "crib" all ers. The reception to the students the time. It is the latter type that we wish to see eradicated from our was very enthusiastic during their classes. That any should think it dishonest to be guilty of this act is highly absurd and ridiculous in the American students on the Unitheir minds. That is because they are dissonest. College is no place for this versity Trip Around-the-World has type of person. Now that the issue is stated an attempt should be made to try and rec- program of welcome and education to tify the situation. Cheating in examinations is not always the professor's fault, some possibly do not realize that they are the victims of their own fairness in allowing a too great reliance upon personal honor, and even at the best it is very hard for a single man in a large room to watch every individual, besides a person who has to crib will be very careful that he or she will not be caught. It is not the duty of the teacher to act as a policeman. The only cure for the evil lies with the student body. The honor system is a failure and would only result in a "cribbers' paradise." A definite strong sentiment among the students themselves is the only cure for this condition.
