Ursinus Campaign is Lengthened in Norristown

Workers at Conference Designate $60,000 as Goal in Drive

The Norristown Community Campaign for Ursinus College was formally opened last Monday night at the Valley Forge Hotel, when a hundred guests gathered at the invitation of the Executive Committee to consider the needs of the College. Judge John Faber Miller, President Judge of Montgomery County, was the toastmaster of the occasion, and in his polished style presented the various speakers with most appropriate introductions. President Omwake told how Ursinus needed Norristown and how, on the other hand, Norristown needed Ursinus. He pointed to the fact that the College was only fifteen minutes from the borough of Norristown, and held out the hope that in a few years busses would be carrying students from Norristown to Collegeville, carrying the local college students to and fro each day.

Bayard M. Hedrick, the former campaign manager, was present and he was next called on. In his enthusiastic way he told of the economic value of the College to the community and urged that the community support the College in the present effort. Dr. Edwin C. Broome, honorary alumnus and superintendent of the Philadelphia public school system, was the closing speaker. He pointed out that there was a difference between bigness and greatness and stated that Ursinus had no desire to be big but was well on its way to becoming great. He spoke highly of the work of Ursinus College during the past years and prophesied a glorious future with the objectives of the campaign realized.

After the banquet the workers were divided into seven teams and the names of the prospects who were to be canvassed were distributed among the teams. The captains of the various teams are: Team No. 1, J. Tyson Forker, of Frey and Forker; Team No. 2, Walter Wilson, city ed.

Men's Glee Club Sings at Banquet in Valley Forge Hotel

Miss Hartenstine's Singers Appear in Behalf of Financial Campaign

The Ursinus College Glee Club made their second appearance in Norristown this season when they sang at a banquet given to the prominent citizens of Norristown, in behalf of the Financial Campaign at the new Valley Forge Hotel on Monday night. Again the club was directed by the much heralded leader, Miss Jeanette Douglas Hartenstine, and was accompanied by the talented Miss Ehly.

Upon arriving at the hotel some of the Glee clubbers immediately made themselves at home by writing letters to their sweethearts as is generally the custom among those making their initial appearance in a first class hotel, others delving into huge luxurious divans awaiting the hour of the feast. The appearance of the Glee Club at the banquet was only known between courses when selections were rendered from the regular program, the rest of the time being spent in devouring the palate-tickling delicacies set before them. The hall (being decorated with Ursinus banners) was ideal for singing and the shrimp salad must have worked wonders on the boys for they gave a fine account of themselves in rendering such numbers as: The Laughing Song, Song of the Jolly Roger, Plainsman Song, Stars and Stripes Forever, Swedish Melody and the Campus Song.

1927 RUBY STAFF SELECTED TO USE HISTORICAL THEME

The motif for the 1927 Ruby has been selected and its development is well under way. A "Historical" theme will be the principal point of departure and will be given most important consideration in the development. The traditions and historical facts upon which the institution was founded should make an interesting collection of articles for a "Bigger Ursinus" annual every student will be interested in these facts.

The editor and manager have selected their staffs and the actual work will soon begin. All the members have not as yet been selected because the editor hopes to keep in line with the precedent set by the editor of the '26 Ruby who solicited the aid of the Underclassmen. The main purpose of selecting members from these classes is to give them the privilege of getting a better understanding of the publication of a year book. Thus they may profit by the experience of their predecessors. The members from the two under classes will be selected in the near future but the present working staff consists of:

JOINT Y. M. & Y. W. C. A. SECURES REV. McKEEHAN TO LEAD WEEK OF PRAYER

Feb. 8, 9, 10, Set Aside by Christian Organizations for Annual Event

The combined Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. are rapidly completing arrangements for the Week of Prayer. Although this is customary with these organizations, the plans indicate something bigger than has heretofore been attempted at Ursinus. Beginning with the 8th and continuing thru the 9th and 10th of February, this event will take precedence over all other campus activities.

Hobart D. McKeehan, a prominent clergyman of Huntingdon, Penna, will have charge. He is a young man of wide experience and international repute. He is listed in the "Who's Who in America" of 1924-25 as, born in 1897, student in both the University of Valpariso, Indiana, and the University of Dublin. In 1919 he received the degrees of B. Committees Are Appointed to Further Plans for Gala Affair

The Valentine Fete Committee and the chairmen of the various committees met in the Library room last Tuesday evening to select the members of the committees for the affair which will be held at the College on Saturday, February 13th. The Fete promises to be the most elaborate ever held at the College. Whole hearted co-operation of students, faculty, townspeople, and alumni will make it a success. The interest already shown points to an outstanding affair which will begin at four o'clock and will continue until eleven.

Mark Saturday, February 13th on your calendar. Plan to spend the afternoon and evening in Bomberger Hall, enjoying the Fete.

ELWOOD PETERS '26 IS FORCED HOME BECAUSE OF ILLNESS

The Weekly regrets to announce that Elwood Peters, '26, was forced home recently on account of illness. Mr. Peters is Business Manager of the Weekly and a prominent member of the Senior class. He holds various positions of responsibility on the campus in addition to his relation with the paper and is also an assistant in the biology laboratory. He expects to enter medical school upon graduation from Ursinus.

In his absence the managerial duties of the Weekly are conducted by the assistants, Lloyd Enoch, '27 and Eugene Rousch, '27.

The staff joins with the remaining student body in wishing Mr. Peters a speedy recovery and an early return to resume his studies at College.

MEN'S DEBATING SCHEDULE IS ANNOUNCED BY MANAGER

The Men's debating season will open on the home floor on February 12 with Bucknell. The negative team composed of Harman, Kirkpatrick, and Straley will oppose the affirmative from Bucknell. This is a hard contest and it is hoped that a large crowd will be in attendance to back up the men in their initial appearance on the rostrum. The team coming from Bucknell is an experienced trio having defeated Lafayette in their first contest of the season.

The affirmative team will make its first appearance in Bomberger on Feb. 19 against Juniata. Three days previous to this the result of the second contest in which the members of the negative team will have participated will be known. This contest will be held at Waynesboro, Pa., where they will oppose the affirmative men from Juniata.

The negative team will meet strong opposition on the home floor on February 22 when they will argue the League question with Elizabethtown. They will meet a strong team in this aggregation because their negative walloped the Ursinus affirmative and (Continued on page 4)

DR. WILLIAM FORD DELIVERS IMPRESSIVE ADDRESS TO STUDENTS IN BOMBERGER

Prominent Minister Preaches Here on "Possessing Your Possessions"

On Tuesday at 11 a. m. the sermon for the month of January was delivered in Bomberger hall by the Rev. Dr. William H. Ford, of Philadelphia. Dr. Ford is very prominent as a pastor in the Methodist Episcopal church and is superintendent of the northern district of that church.

After the singing of a hymn the scripture was read and prayer offered by the Rev. Dr. F. D. Lawrence, of Norristown.

After introduction by Dr. Omwake, the speaker announced his text, taken from the seventeenth verse of Obediah. He paraphrased it as, "Possess your possessions," and gave numerous applications and illustrations according to his interpretation. He asserted that the difference between having a possession, and being the possessor of one's possessions is vital and comes into prominence every day. One of the most valuable bits of information he brought to the the students was a definition of education, according to Dr. Charles Heims, former Professor of Physics at Dickinson College: "Education is not encyclopedic knowledge; it is not the possession of some great degree. The educated man is the man who knows where to go for what he wants when he wants it."

Dr. Ford presented a very modern, but widely-accepted idea of the Christian life. "Christian life is possession, not repression. Do not think of the things you must give up to be a Christian, but think of the many joys and blessings it will bring. A man who is saturated with the love of God need not fear to do things that may be criticized as worldly. Christian life enlarges the vision and broadens life; it is not narrow." Red and Black Five to Oppose Penn Saturday

Coach Kichline's Bears Prepare For Struggle in Phila.

After an enforced period of inactivity, due to the intervention of the annual mid-year examinations, Coach Kichline will take his two flying quintets to the Sesqui-Centennial City, Saturday where they will step out of their class to meet the strong University of Pennsylvania five. This game points toward being the major attraction on the Bears' schedule this year and should be one of the best games of the year.

Last year the Bears led the Weightman Hall five at the end of the first period but were unable to maintain this lead during the second half and were nosed out of victory by a few points. This year Ursinus can boast of a veteran combination with plenty of reserve material. The fact of the matter is there are two teams of practically equal strength who afford a problem of just which combination should start. With five consecutive victories, including Osteopathy, Albright and Delaware the team was forced to accept defeat from the fast Swarthmore five in a close but loosely played game. It is believed that this defeat should be the necessary incentive for the team to go down to Penn and give the best exhibition any Ursinus team has given in Weightman Hall in many years. If this isn't an Ursinus year, there never was one.

Penn has a strong representative five this year but it is far from championship calibre. The team at times has been showing flashes of brilliancy but it is not consistent. Coach McNichol with his abundance of material seems to have difficulty in finding a smooth working combination. After a brilliant start at the beginning of the season the Penn aggregation went into a slump and were defeated by Dickinson and Princeton but made a strong comeback at New Haven when they defeated the strong Yale five after several shake-ups in the line-up. The Quakers are captained by the veteran Davenport, a former York Collegiate Institute star. In this youth (Continued on page 4)

Girls' Basketball Team Loses to Beaver College in Opener

Visitors' Forward Shows Skill in Defeating Ursinus Sextette

On Tuesday afternoon the girls' basketball team opened the season in a game with Beaver College, which resulted in a victory for the visiting team.

Both teams played a spirited game throughout and high hopes of victory were aroused when the girls held the lead for a short time. However, they were unable to maintain it, and the game ended 44-35.

The center of attraction during the entire game was Beaver's right forward who showed remarkable skill and unusual accuracy in shooting baskets. To her goes credit for 38 out of the 44 points scored for Beaver.

Mary Schaeffer and Esther Hedrick, the two new members on practically a veteran squad, showed splendid co-operation, and the "U" team promises to be the right combination for a successful season.

The line-up:
Ursinus Beaver
Cornog R. F. Shafer
Carl L. F. Hoy
Hedrick Center Kripes
Waltman S. Center .. De Game
Fritsch R. G. Cross
Johnson L. G. Ried
Substitutions—M. Schaeffer for Waltman, Winger for Fritsch.

FOLLOW THE TEAM TO PENN

Next Saturday night the Red and Black five will battle the fast Penn quintette in Weightman Hall, Philadelphia. It will be the most difficult game on the Bears' schedule this year and should prove to be a close contest as both teams have manifested great strength in preceding encounters.

In the light of experience gained from previous basketball contests with Penn we can rely upon the prediction that the game will be a most thrilling one even though it is a case where a small college is battling against a large university in the face of overwhelming odds.

The slogan of students on the campus and alumni in this section of the state throughout the coming week should be, "Follow the team to Penn." If we can show by our presence at the game that we are supporting the team to our utmost extent and make the players feel that we are firmly back of them they are bound to register results of which all can be justly proud. This game will be played at a time, between semesters, when both students and members of the faculty have a splendid opportunity to journey to Philadelphia to witness the battle. Alumni, also, will be privileged to see two fast combinations in action.

The team is doing its part; it is up to us to perform our duty. Demonstrate your fidelity by being present at the game. Penn can be beaten and the Quakers will be beaten providing that you give your whole-hearted support to inspire the athletes with a spirit that brings victory. Watch the team!

CLASS ABSENCES

Every year the question of cuts for absence from classes is raised among the students and others and is the cause for much vehement discussion being attacked from various viewpoints. Not only is this issue debated at Ursinus but it occasions wide-spread considerations on college campuses throughout the country. For a considerable length of time a feeling has been prevalent that the present system has certain defects and needs correction. It is too strict and does not give the students enough liberty to realize the relation between scholarship and class attendance.

Some individuals would advocate that the system should be based entirely upon scholarship. That among upper classmen those students who attain a certain grade of work in their classes should not be compelled to attend every recitation unless they desire to do so as long as they maintain their high standard of scholarship. The individual professors could use their own judgment and jurisdiction in censuring any students who would attempt to take an undue advantage of this privilege.

Then again, from another viewpoint, students rightfully protest the idea of receiving cuts in classes when they are representing the College in certain extra-curricula activities. In such cases students are not excused from classes and are compelled to take extended examinations in the event that they are over-cut. For example, if students are upholding the standards of the College in athletics, in debating, or in journalistic endeavors and thereby are unable to attend all classes, some professors deliberately refuse to excuse such students for their sacrifices in behalf of the institution and in some cases require them to undergo extended examinations at the end of the semester. This, in the estimation of the writer, is totally unfair, for invariably the individuals who represent Ursinus in these strenuous lines of activity are the very students who should be subjected least to additional class room labor.

Such conditions are not fair. They do not give proper credit nor do they render justice to the hard-working student who has the interest of the institution at heart and endeavors to further its cherished traditions in extra-curricula work. In practically every instance the student who is forced to be absent on that account would not consider the idea of deliberately absenting himself from recitations.

Something should be done. Certainly, some consideration should be shown by the authorities for those individuals who freely sacrifice their time and effort in behalf of the College in various outside activities. The present situation needs to be revised in some instances. Consider the matter from an unbiased viewpoint and conclusions will show that a change is necessary.

Furthermore, the Weekly earnestly solicits various viewpoints from students and faculty members on this subject. Co-operation among the faculty and undergraduates is desired and interchange of ideas is appreciated.

WOMEN TO ENTER INTERCOLLEGIATE DEBATES

The month of February has already been called to our attention because it will bring the resumption of a neglected, but once popular feature—the Valentine Fete. The same month will also bring a feature entirely new in the history of Ursinus. For the first time the women students of the College will contest in intercollegiate debate.

Just about a year ago permission was granted by the faculty to organize a Women's Debating Club and present results indicate that the Club is well on the way to success.

Four debates have been scheduled for this year, duals with Bucknell and Temple and single debates with Juniata and Cedar Crest. Candidates for our teams will be chosen from any class and membership in the Club is by no means a pre-requisite.

It is doubtful whether, in the ordinary course of events, any of us realize all that this participation in debate implies. It is one of the biggest strides toward broadmindedness which could be taken. This is true not only in the fact that debating in itself cultivates this quality, but in the more impressive fact that our women students are now seriously interested in topics of worldwide importance and mean to make their knowledge thorough enough to meet the opinions of women in other institutions. It is just one more step toward the "Greater Ursinus."

We may not have the "stuff that wins" this year, but there is no better time than the present for starting to acquire it. "He alone is the loser, who fails to try."

NELSEN SCHLEGEL '23 WRITES LETTER FROM HOLY LAND

Former Weekly Editor Relates Fine Experiences as Missionary

Nelsen Schlegel, '23, at one time editor of the Ursinus Weekly, now a teacher in the American University in Cairo, Egypt, has written a very interesting letter to his former pastor, Rev. A. C. Thompson of Tamaqua, Pa. The letter is dated August 19, 1925 and a summary of it is given in the following paragraphs.

The tour of the Holy Land began in Joppa where the reputed house of Simon the Tanner is said to be. The harbor of Joppa proved the most engrossing object about the town and he describes it as being well protected but possesses few other essentials. A dangerous reef lies close to the wharf and vessels must discharge the cargo on the shoulders of men who wade through the water to the pier. The traveler crossed from Joppa to Lydia and the plain of Sharon. Lydia, Ludd, is a railroad center and was the scene of some fighting in the World War.

Upon journeying to Jerusalem the vale of Sarek was traversed and Samson's country noted for its wildness. All the hills on the road to Jerusalem appeared to be barren wastes and desolate. Three hours is the time required to ride from Joppa to Jerusalem. The land outside of the walls of Jerusalem abounds in colonies. Some such as the Greek's have tasteful houses and seem to be well kept. A person going to Jerusalem would probably be disappointed if he expected to see a beautiful country for the reverse is true. Mr. Schlegel visited the Temple area and was impressed by beauty of the mosque there and the naturalness of the scene. He does not attempt to describe the Temple save the Dome of the Rock. Upon this rock Moslems say Isaac was sacrificed. The prophet ascended from it and the angel Gabriel restrained it, his five finger prints on the rock are regarded as proof. The atmosphere of the place is religious and impressed the missionary intensely.

The Garden of Gethsemane was visited three times. Two churches are built there and seven olive trees claimed to date back to Christ's time are guarded by the monks there. In succession the Mt. of Olives, Bethany and Bethpage were visited. The experience of treading over the same ground as Christ and viewing the same sights he saw inspired the missionary to try to live the life he lived. He visited many tombs, cut into solid rock and reputed to contain the bodies of many Biblical characters. Bethlehem formed not the least interesting spot on the trip. The population is 8,000. The Church of the Nativity is located here and Greeks, Roman Catholics, and Armenians have chapels and they are the scene of many conflicts.

Jericho is now a ruin and the Jordan flowing nearby is uninteresting. He then ends with a short talk about Bethany and therupon closes a very interesting and engrossing letter.

OPPORTUNITIES ARE OFFERED FOR U. S. STUDENTS ABROAD

The Institute of International Education has issued a pamphlet listing the many opportunities for American students in foreign universities. Many of these are backed by liberal fellowships, the financial stipends being sufficient in some cases to provide entirely for the expenses of the students. The opportunities presented will be of interest alike to undergraduates and graduates of Ursinus. The pamphlet may be consulted in the Ursinus College Library. Alumni can obtain information by writing to the Weekly.

The Tower Window

ONE of the finest appeals ever made in behalf of Ursinus College was heard by the guests assembled at the dinner opening the Financial campaign in Norristown a week ago. It was the address of the presiding officer of the evening, the Honorable John Faber Miller, president judge of Montgomery County. Judge Miller, with characteristic insight, set forth the cardinal features of Ursinus, the increasing need of the intellectual and moral forces which the institution embodies for our times, and the advantage which Montgomery County enjoys in having a college of this type already far advanced in its progress toward complete efficiency. His appeal for the support of the citizens of Norristown in the present effort was sincere and effectual.

One almost envies Judge Miller's ability in public speech. His thought runs clear and his ideas are held in complete control being released in logical order and given emphasis commensurate with their relative importance. His diction and style are superb. Deliberate enough to permit his hearers to follow his thought and yet moving on promptly without repetition, his ideas crystallize in beautiful and often brilliant forms. A rich vocabulary permits a discriminating use of words and the avoidance of sameness even in the expression of similar ideas.

I mention these things not in praise of the Judge whose ability is well recognized, but rather to point out the value of trained ability in thinking and speaking. While natural gifts go far in the making of the orator, it is remarkable what ability may be acquired in the art of speaking, as is illustrated in the classic instance of Demosthenes. It is an art which should be cultivated to the utmost extent by college students. In the literary societies, the debating clubs, and on the dramatic stage, there are golden opportunities for the exercise of the student's powers of expression. Whatever may be one's prospective life work, he should neglect no opportunity to train himself in the art of speech. Perhaps as good a place as any in which to develop ability in expression is the regular class room work of the college. The professor may well be patient with the student who struggles with his ideas and hesitates in search of words in which to set them forth.

It is always worth while to wait for a thought in order that it may come forth beautifully clothed.

Ruth Epeheimer, '27, Alumni Editor of the Weekly, holds the distinction of having won the prize for the past two consecutive years.

The rules governing the contest this year are as follows:

1. The competition is open to all students who are earning their way in part by serving in positions under the Bureau of Self Help.
2. The essays must contain from 3000 to 5000 words and must be submitted in typewritten form on paper approximately 8½ x 10½ inches. Authority must be cited for important quotations or references in an appendix.
3. The essays are to be presented without the name of the writer on or before May 1, 1926 at the Treasurer's office where they will be numbered for identification and forwarded to the judges.

ALUMNI NOTES

Please send some information about yourself and other Ursinus graduates to the Alumni Editor. All news is greatly appreciated.

Western Reserve University in a School of Applied Social Science, announce two courses by Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph. D., '09, on Home Education. One course treats of the education of children of pre-school age, and the other deals with problems of children of age six to twelve.

Dr. Edwin T. Johnson, of Hilltown, one of the oldest practitioners in Bucks County, died recently after having practiced medicine forty-five years. He was a student at Ursinus College in the early eighties and later graduated from Jefferson Medical College. He was one of the founders of Grandview Hospital, Sellersville, Pa.

Dr. William S. Long, '09, surgeon for Elks' Clinic for Crippled Children, at Reading, Pa., and a member of the staff of the Reading Hospital, died on Sunday night, January 17. He was stricken with influenza while at the Reading Hospital on Thursday, January 14, and grew slowly weaker until his death.

MEN'S STUDENT COUNCIL GRANTS FROSH PRIVILEGES

At a meeting of the Men's Student Council held last week it was agreed upon that Freshmen will be privileged to use the front entrances to all the buildings on the campus during the second semester. This action comes as a result of the football victory of the Frosh over the Sophomores last fall.

The Council also passed a motion permitting all Freshmen to be excused from running errands and other duties during the mid year examinations excepting the collection of mail in the dormitories and answering the telephone in Freeland Hall. Action was furthermore taken that regular Freshmen regulations be suspended from Friday, January 29, at 3 p. m. until the opening of the second semester, Tuesday, February 2, at 9 a. m.

The tribunal also made a special appeal to all the men students to cooperate in maintaining quiet and order in the dormitories during the period of examinations.

THE MAN WHO COUNTS

It is not the critic who counts; not the man who points out how the strong man stumbled, or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat; who strives valiantly; who errs and comes short again and again, because there is no effort and shortcoming; who does actually strive to do the deeds; who knows the great enthusiasm, the great devotions, spends himself in a worthy cause; who at the best knows in the end the triumph of high achievement, and who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat.

Dr. Wm. Ford Delivers Address

The importance of being an individual, rather than being molded to the likeness of another, was brought out and, assigned as contrary to God's wishes.

"The fact that there are five hundred seventy two million people in the world who profess to be Christians is often wondered at. The cynic asks 'Where are they?' We laugh at this, but on the other hand we learn by it. If every Christian were to reflect the possession of Jesus Christ in his life, a millennium would come and the cynic would disappear."

The speaker raised the question as the little boy in Henry Van Dyke's 'Fisherman's Luck,' 'Whose world is this?' It is God's world, not the Devil's, but we can enjoy it. God gave it to us as our inheritance. He has put us here to live our lives, grow a character, and make it a more decent place for our successors to live in."

The address was closed with Christ's prayer for us as found in John 17, and the exhortation that "it isn't our business to know where the sandbanks are, where our lives may be wrecked, but to know where the crimson stream is and to keep in it."

Rev. McKeehan to Lead Week of Prayer

M. at the Reformed Theological Seminary in Lancaster and continued graduate work at the University of Oxford, England.

By authorities, Dr. McKeehan is one of the outstanding young men of the American pulpit. In 1923 he preached in a number of English pulpits and at Oxford in behalf of the Anglo-American good will movement. Later he acted as delegate of the Reformed Church at the World Council of Churches at Zurich, Switzerland. Thus far in his career he has had charges in High Point, N. C., Dallas-town, and Huntingdon, Pa.

He is the editor of a volume of Great Modern Sermons, author of 'The Patrimony of Life,' and his sermon, 'The Radicalism of Jesus,' is included in J. F. Newton's 'Best Sermons' 1924. This author speaks of him as 'at once a focus of fellowship and a prophecy of unity.'

The following are some press and personal comments of distinction:

"McKeehan is one of the greatest of America's younger clergymen."—The Manchester, (England) Guardian.

"He is a Prophetic Voice."—The Oxford (England) Times.

"A great speaker! He has 'the gift.' His style surpasses even that of his distinguished cousin, Professor Mahaffy of Dublin."—Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, D. D., LL. D.

"Mr. McKeehan's style and methods are reminiscent of the Gungahill-Hillis School—picturesque, imaginative, and marked by a rich, colorful vocabulary."—Mr. Fleming H. Revell, Publisher, New York.

Campaign Extended in Norristown

itor of the Times-Herald; Team No. 3, George F. Sinclair, of the People's Sanitary Dairy; Team No. 4, Lloidy T. Wandress, of the Norristown Register Co.; Team No. 5, Nelson P. Fegley, attorney-at-law; Team No. 6, Jacob Schorr, president of the Norristown Merchants' Association; Team No. 7, Ralph Lanz, of the Lanz Jewelry Company.

Splendid work has been done by these teams and at the first report meeting on Friday night last, $12,000 was turned in. Since the workers felt that the time in which to do the work was too short, it was decided to extend the period for one week. The next meeting will be held on Wednesday night in the office of Joseph D'Andrade, 501 Penn Trust Building. This meeting has been called for 7.30 o'clock. The final report meeting will be held at the Valley Forge Hotel on Friday evening at 6.30 o'clock. This will be a dinner conference. All the workers are planning to have their prospects seen in the interim and their reports turned in on time.

The Norristown workers took as their goal in the campaign the sum of $60,000.00. This will be sufficient to provide for one complete floor in the new science building.

Men's Debating Schedule Announced

their combined teams the following night walked away with a triangle including Albright and Muhlenberg.

Susquehanna has been added to the list of opponents and will meet the affirmative team at Selinsgrove on March 4, in a single debate. The following night however the same team will travel to Lewisburg to take a whack at the Bucknellians on their home floor. Temple always gives the "U" teams a strong fight and on March 11 will battle a dual with the two combinations when the affirmative will be seen in action at home.

A tentative arrangement has been made with Muhlenberg. A dual is expected with them.

One of the crowning events of the season will be a single debate with a team representing Lebanon Valley College. This is the first time a team from Ursinus has opposed one of their teams. The crowning feature lies in the fact that the debate will be broadcasted from a station in Philadelphia. Patrons of both institutions will have the opportunity of hearing their representative forensic talent.

Red & Black to Oppose Penn Sat.

lie the possibilities of the Penn team. He can play forward or guard with equal facility and is one of the flashiest players in intercollegiate circles. If Mr. Davenport can be subdued the Bears should growl in victory. Goldblatt, a veteran guard, was chosen a member of the All-Intercollegiate five in his favorite position last year and is upholding his reputation this year. These two individuals are the nucleus around whom Coach McNichol builds his various combinations. Lindsay and Sheer have been playing an excellent brand of basketball. Others who may break into the line-up are Chapman, Connell, Ramage, Lewis and Lukawitz.

Since their defeat at the hands of Swarthmore the Bears have been hard at work getting in shape for the Penn game despite of the examinations and when Kichline sends his men on the floor Saturday they should be ready to give Penn a grueling battle if not a lacing. The varsity has been working on a system of play especially adapted to Penn's system of defense. Much time has also been spent in speeding up the passing and accuracy. Captain "Gip" Sterner is leading his men by his fine example of floor work which is beyond reproach. Hoagey is playing a flashy brand of basketball but has been off color in the last contest, however should be in fine shape for the Penn game. Kern is primarily an offensive player and is an excellent shot and Bigley a consistent and hard working forward should be able to replace any of these men without weakening the combination. At center there is Derk who plays a roving game covering the whole court. He seems to have found his eye for the basket and judging from practice he should register against Penn. Newcomer is a very capable understudy, but lacks experience. At guard there is the veteran Evans who can always be counted on when Ursinus plays Penn. W. Moyer has been showing flashes of brilliancy and should start the game with Evans. Clark, a veteran and Roehm will be ready to step into the fray at any time. Coach Kichline can practically start any of the ten men mentioned and have a strong representative five on the court.

The Penn team displayed remarkable strength last Saturday night when they defeated the Army tossers in a most thrilling extra period game.
