MGR. EHLMAN COMPLETES

1923 BASEBALL SCHEDULE

Includes Four Colleges Not Played by Local Baseball Teams in Recent Years

Manager Ehlman gives food for thought in announcing the 1923 baseball schedule. He has arranged a very attractive sequence of games. Two omissions are to be noticed in comparing the 1923 schedule with that of last year: Lafayette and Princeton, with which institutions arrangements could not be made, do not appear on the schedule. On the other hand, four new names appear on the list. They are the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy, the University of Pennsylvania, the University of Western Maryland and Lehigh University. In looking over the schedule it will be further noticed that it is a very "stiff" one and will doubtless test the mettle of the team, which everyone believes, from casual consideration, will be the best one that ever represented the old "U".

The schedule is as follows:

Apr. 7—College of Osteopathy at Collegeville
Apr. 12—U. of P. at Philadelphia
Apr. 14—Villanova at Villanova
Apr. 21—Rutgers at New Brunswick, New Jersey
Apr. 18—Drexel at Collegeville
Apr. 25—Delaware at Newark, Del.
Apr. 28—Dickinson at Collegeville
May 3—Georgetown Univ. at Washington, D. C.
May 4—U. of Western Maryland at Westminster, Md.
May 5—Washington College at Chestertown, Md.
May 9—Albright at Collegeville
May 12—Haverford at Collegeville
May 16—Lehigh at Bethlehem
May 19—F. and M. at Lancaster
May 23—Swarthmore at Swarthmore
May 26—P. M. C. at Chester
May 30—Lebanon Valley at Annville
June 2—Muhlenberg at Collegeville
June 9—F. and M. at Collegeville.

SCHAFF LITERARY SOCIETY

Schaff presented a miscellaneous program of very creditable character on Friday evening. It is unusual for a program of this nature to have so much literary effort expended upon it, and the realization that miscellany no longer means or necessitates cheap fun or unprepared and valueless numbers is to the merit of all the performers on this occasion.

The expedience of preparedness and its gratifying results were typified in the uniformity of execution thruout the evening, and even elders could learn from the more verdant members what was never so clear before. It is often to the discredit of program committees that special ability keeps the possessor out of all other modes of literary expression. Each member should be given several unlike subjects upon which to work, since that is the only method which develops well-rounded literary experience.

An address on "What is Love?", by Mr. Cook, was one of the outstanding numbers. The serio-comic treatment of the subject was unexpected but instructive. In a recitation Miss Alger gave evidence of fine ability. A sketch, led by Mr. Deitz, was well performed, drawing the audience to a high pitch of excitement and leading to a climax quite true to life, perhaps. Other numbers were of equally good quality and were:

Vocal Solo—Mr. Paine.

A Musical Skit—Miss Hinkle, leader.

Paper—Mr. Brachman.

Piano Solo—Miss Stevenson.

Gazette—Mr. George, editor.

A performer can receive no fairer tribute than the attention of the audience and the audience, on the other hand, is benefitted only when attentive. The feeling of mutual consideration and interest is not hard to cultivate and its blessings are manifold. Friday evening gave evidence of the truth of all this.

RED AND BLACK TEAM BEATS P. D. C. IN THOMPSON CAGE

Philadelphia Floormen Hold Local Dribblers to Close Score

On Wednesday, January 10, the Red and Black quintet defeated the Philadelphia Dental College floormen by the score of 31 to 27.

From the initial shrieks of the referee's whistle up to the final moments, the game was very closely contested and several times tended to become rough. Three men reached their limit in personal fouls.

Ursinus was the first to score, when Evans shot a foul. A minute later the score was tied when Chapman made good in his first free attempt for the visitors. During the remainder of the first half the game was "nip and tuck." For the home team Kern made two field goals, while Evans and Wismer each made tallies. Dental College appeared to have the "edge" on the Ursinus five at the end of the first half, having scored five field goals and six fouls. The Dental College started the second half in the lead by the score of 16 to 15. The Red and Black quintet then seemed to have taken a new lease on life and steadily gained a considerable lead on their opponents. The team work during this period was much improved, altho at no time was the smoothness and co-operation, which had characterized several former performances, noticeable.

ATHLETIC LETTER MEN FORM AN URSINUS VARSITY CLUB

Wismer, Wikoff and Smith Elected Officers of New Organization

On last Monday evening all the athletic letter men in the College got together and officially organized the Ursinus Varsity Club. Two weeks before the Christmas holidays these men convened and a committee was appointed to draw up a constitution. This constitution was adopted on Monday evening.

The club is composed of all wearers of the "U" in football, basketball and baseball. It was not formed with the intention of being exclusive and confining its efforts to those who are members of the club; but its aim is to help the school in every way possible, but particularly along athletic lines.

According to the constitution the captain of that sport which is in season automatically becomes president. Basketball being in season at present makes R. Wismer president of the club. Wikoff and Smith were elected vice president and secretary-treasurer respectively.

We bespeak a great future for this new organization.

MIXED CHORUS PREPARING FOUNDERS' DAY PROGRAM

To Present Historical Florentine Masque by Maurice Hewlett

The concert for which the mixed chorus has been rehearsing will be given on Founders' Day evening in February with assisting artists secured by the Ursinus Woman's Club. The first part of the program will consist of a Florentine Masque in which historic characters of the city of Florence, such as Dante and Michael Angelo, will appear on the stage, while a musical accompaniment with running interpretation will be sung by the college choir.

The masque is a revived dramatic form which interest in pageantry has made popular today. The charm and romance of famous poets and painters of old Florence animates this masque by Maurice Hewlett and the spirit of the poetry is intensified in Ernest Kroeger's music.

During the second half of the program the entire chorus will sing several groups of songs and conclude the evening with a stirring number called Liberty—representing a dramatic scene laid in ancient Rome.

URSINUS TWENTY YEARS AGO.

The Audubon Science Club met and heard papers by I. M. Rupp, '03, H. S. Gottshall, '04, Peters, '03, and Frederick, '05.

An article entitled "Vacation Relaxation" by Miss Marion Spangler, '03, appeared in the issue of the Weekly.

Dr. Good addressed the Y. M. C. A. on the subject of missions.

In the editorial column of the Weekly appeared a statement to the effect that the women of the college were not getting sufficient exercise. As an illustration of their poor physical condition the writer makes the following statement: "After a game of 'jenkins up' a girl remarked that it was a good bit of exercise. It was exercise of a mild kind, but it was brisk enough to tire this girl out. It was quite evident that she was not alive to her bodily interests as she might have been."

The groups organized and officers were elected.

J. H. Poorman, '03, was elected president of the Athletic Association. R. F. Wismer, '05, was elected to fill a vacancy on the Athletic Committee.

Rev. Dr. Lentz to Preach.

The Reverend E. W. Lentz, '96, D. D., will be the preacher at the services of the annual week of prayer to be held under the auspices of the Christian Associations of the College early in February. Rev. Dr. Lentz is well known among the clergy of the Reformed Church, being pastor of St. John's Church in Bangor.

REVEREND DR. JAMES I. GOOD ELECTED TO HONORARY POST

University of Papa, in Hungary, Honors Distinguished Theologian

Rev. James I. Good, D.D., LL.D., professor of Liturgics and Reformed Church History in Central Seminary, Dayton, Ohio, and professor of Church History and Missions at Ursinus, has been elected an honorary professor of theology of the University of Papa, Hungary. A beautiful diploma of his election has been forwarded to him.

Dr. Good has attained great distinction among the Reformed churches of the world in recent years, having traveled to Europe annually for the past decade or more. He is now considered the foremost American theologian taking part in the affairs of European Churches. Of Dr. Good the "Quarterly Register" for November, 1922, makes this comment: "Since the days of Dr. Schaff, and to go even further back, since the days of John Dury, the old apostle of Church Unity from Scotland, there has not been a Presbyterian friend to our weak and threatened churches comparable to Professor Good of Philadelphia." This has been further justified by Dr. Good's latest trip abroad, when, during last summer, he surveyed the situation in Lithuania, Czecho-Slovakia, Hungary and Jugo-Slavia. In Holland he came in contact with influential leaders of the Church and then spent some time in France before returning to America in September.

This new recognition comes as a well earned honor to Dr. Good.

Attends Luncheon at the College Club

Mrs. Allen attended a luncheon given by the Directors of the Bureau of Occupations to the Deans and Advisers of Women in the colleges and high schools in the vicinity of Philadelphia at the College Club on Saturday, January 13. This Bureau seeks to cooperate with colleges and schools in directing students to find occupations suited to their natural abilities and qualifications.

There is no duty we so underrate as the duty of being happy. By being happy we sow benefits upon the world, which remain unknown as ourselves.—Stevenson.

RUSSIAN CATHEDRAL QUARTET TO APPEAR TO-NIGHT

Third Number of Entertainment Course in Bomberger Hall This Evening

The Russian Cathedral Quartet, which will be heard in Bomberger Hall this evening, is one which has found a notable place in the hearts of America's music loving people. It is composed of Nicholas Vaslieff, tenor, boy soloist at the Alexander Nievski Larra in Petrograd; Nicholas Wasilensky, tenor, boy soloist at Christ Church Cathedral, Moscow, and selected in open contest as the finest tenor in all Russia; Alexander Kandiba, baritone, soloist in the Imperial Russian Cathedral in Petrograd, and winner of baritone honors from the late czar; and Mikhael Bataeff, basso-profundo, soloist in Sinodalny choir in Moscow and a member of the Russian Imperial Opera.

These four men were chosen by the Russian Government as the best singers in all the great country of Russia. They came to America to present to the American people the native songs and great cathedral anthems of the country. Anyone who has heard them can, and will, say "Be sure to hear the Russian Cathedral Quartet if you have the opportunity, for it is worth hearing."

During the past summer the quartet traveled with the Swarthmore Chautauquas on their Eastern circuit, scoring great successes daily before large audiences in Pennsylvania and New England. The program rendered consists of native songs, with appropriate costumes, and a number of cathedral anthems. It presents the greatest of all music of an oppressed people.

ZWINGLIAN LITERARY SOCIETY

That there has been an enormous decrease in the number of ships in the United States and that the United States at present is in need of more commercial ships, were some of the points which won for the affirmative side of a debate held in Zwing Friday evening. The debate, "Resolved that President Harding's plan for the Ship Subsidy Bill Should be Adopted by Congress," was upheld on the affirmative by Messrs. Kirkpatrick, Roehm and Hunter while Miss Frutchey and Messrs. Rutter and Yaukey contended that his plan should not be adopted. It was a keenly contested debate and all the speakers held their audience thruout the whole period.

The following numbers concluded the program. A mixed octette under the leadership of Miss Achenbach and Mr. Boyer; a piano duet by Misses Muschlitz and Hoover and the Zwinglian Review, read by Miss Pegely.

The attendance of the society was very poor.

Editorial Comment

Someone has said that the primary aim of a college should be to produce leaders of thought and of action. With that end in view colleges make special efforts to send out graduates with the mark of sound character and of high moral worth. It is a recognized fact that the people who are to be teachers, preachers and leaders should be, first of all, ladies and gentlemen. To be all that the world requires of the college graduate is, we admit, a hard task and necessitates pretty much of an uphill climb. But society is not wrong in demanding what it does of what we call a privileged class.

To meet such requirements as are inescapably placed upon us it must be that the period of training we undergo here should be of such a character that it will develop the best that is in us and eradicate that which is mean and undesirable. "The end of education," says Emerson, "is to train away all impediment and leave only pure power." The college student who looks upon his opportunity in the proper light will know that he is engaged on a serious piece of business. He will recognize what things are impediments and what things are helpful to himself and to those with whom he has to live. One who attends an institution like Ursinus and does not realize the meaning of that for which the college stands is not a true son of Ursinus because he does not represent in a proper sense the ideals and traditions of the institution.

We take pride in the fact that Ursinus expresses as its primary purpose the development of character, but we lament the fact that such an idea meets with a derisive laugh on the part of some who want to be "smart." The spreading of a spirit that is altogether distasteful and decidedly immoral can be considered nothing but an effort to appear "smart."

Culture which is evidenced in the vilest kind of language, in profanity of the most evil sort, and in the obscenity that would be beneath the morals of a bar room, is not the mark of a gentleman. Among college men it is not only wicked but most emphatically disgraceful. A contest which is meant to determine just how foul-mouthed individuals can be is a direct antithesis to what is gentlemanly.

Just a few quotations from the pen of that great modern essayist, Dr. Frank Crane, are in order here:

"It is not so much that you shock religious people as that you disgust decent people, that we object to it (profanity)."

"Nowadays anybody who swears is set down at once as being coarse and vulgar."

"Swearing means weakness. You will notice that forceful men, whose words carry weight, use simple, plain words."

"Even if you want to hurt anybody's feelings, or insult anyone the worst way, use plain English; it hurts much more than curses."

This is not a sermon. It is simply to indicate that this kind of "smartness" has no right to exist as a part of education. We want our campus to be a decent place on which to live. And we want our dormitories to be as clean as our homes. If you would speak properly there you should have enough respect for your fellows to speak properly here. It should be remembered that "to abstain from swearing does not mean you are a sissy. It simply means you're decent." F. N. S., '23

One-half the training received in college is that to be gotten from extra curricular activities. This work has an undeniable value to the men who wish to develop themselves to the greatest extent. On the other hand, too much time is wasted by many who cannot resist the force of popularity and the glory which is attached to extra curricular work. Some students, instead of loading up their curriculum with electives offered in the college catalog, fall prey to this glory and attempt to do too much. There is not one college student, on the other hand, who could not well attempt to take some active part in at least one phase of work other than that designated on his schedule. When a college graduate enters into his life work it is imperative that we have some initiative, either natural or developed, as a result of his training.

There are men in college ranks who seem to have an unlimited amount of ability and of personality. These men aspire to positions of prominence on the campus, but when they have risen to them, alas, they do not have the ambition or the willpower to carry them. They have the "goods" but refuse to use them. We have observed others who possess less ability and yet they always carry out what is given to them to do because they have the willpower, and they use that which they possess. We might well ask, does not the man who uses what he has, even tho it be but little, make more of a success of life than the man who has wonderful mental capacity and fails to realize it or even, if he does, refuses to use it?

Where can the blame be placed for the slowing up of our college organizations at the present time? We might well look at the heads of them, and we find men of ability holding the positions in the majority of cases. Do these men use that which they possess? If they do not, would it not be much better to have men in their places who would work to the best of their ability.

Then we also find men who are really ambitious and who want to care for all that is placed upon them, but they have taken too much. They always feel that they are not doing their share if they refuse, yet, if they would, the work might be given to someone who would have more time. Some men on our campus seem to have an unlimited capacity for work and can hold up their studies regardless of all the offices bestowed upon them. But there comes a time for reckoning. Each man must attempt to estimate his own capacity. We are constantly facing the problem where a man takes a position, not realizing that he cannot master the situation, and by comparison another who gets no recognition whatever just because his ability is underestimated.

Again we repeat the question, do the best men hold the important positions on our campus? Too often we allow society spirit and personal friendships to enter into elections. But this is an old topic. Solutions have been offered, but still it remains unsolved. We will leave it to you, but we are going to do our best to lift our organizations out of this morbid state.

We offer the suggestion that those who are now in office gather the loose reins together and hold them tight, so that our organizations from this time forward will be full of life and vigor. W. R. S., '23

Y. W. C. A.

"Life Service" was the topic of the Y. W. C. A. meeting which was led by Grace Trout, the chairman of the life service committee, on Wednesday evening. The topic was one which is often talked about, but is sometimes nothing more than a "catch phrase." A good definition of the word service—the performance of work for the good of others—was therefore appropriate at the beginning of the talk. "There are many more ways of giving life service than on foreign fields, tho this is probably the best known way," declared Miss Trout. He renders most service who serves in God's name, no matter where he may be.

The meeting being the first of the year, an appeal for missionary funds was made by Helen Achenbach. She explained that the exact destination of the missionary quota of the Y. W. budget is not specifically designated, but that a request would be made to place it in the hands of the Reformed Church Mission Board. The Ursinus alumni in foreign fields would then profit by such contributions. A hall canvas for pledges will be made during the coming week.

President Frutchey announced the anniversary of the Ursinus Y. W. on March tenth at which time most of the former presidents of the Association will be present.

S. V. Conference at Drew

The annual conference of the Eastern Union of Student Volunteers will be held at Drew Theological Seminary at Madison, New Jersey, over the week end of February 9, 10 and 11. All those who are interested should see F. Nelsen Schlegel for particulars.

Malvern Buchanan, ex-'24, writes from Ohio State University that the Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity house there, which was partly destroyed by fire just before the holidays, is again habitable, tho the two lower floors, where most of the damage was done, are undergoing complete remodeling. "Buck" has been living at the house since September.

Y. M. C. A.

A regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. was held in Zwing hall on Wednesday evening. The leader was Lewis Smith, '23.

Mr. Smith contrasted two scripture passages, placing Romans 12:1 against 2 Corinthians 5:14. He sought then to prove that it was the constraining force of Christ, rather than any reasoning power, which has been responsible for many of the great movements of civilization. With the parable of the Good Samaritan as an example he showed how the man who had fallen among thieves was saved by the constraining force of sympathy in the heart of the man from Samaria.

Stories of the achievements of such great missionaries as Robert Moffat, David Livingstone and William Carey further proved the point that it is something deeper and more spiritual than cold reasoning that makes men great forces for good and successful exponents of Christianity. With these thoughts as a background, the speaker's concluding words, "We need that constraining force and then we can accomplish something for humanity and do something worth while," brought the challenge to renewed endeavor forcefully to the fore.

The speaker at the meeting on this Wednesday evening will be Dr. Tower, of the College faculty.

Gives Concert in Philadelphia

H. R. Howells, '23, assisted by Miss Hoenle and Miss Eva Howells, gave a concert at a meeting of the Ministerial Association of Philadelphia and New Jersey on the evening of January 8 in Philadelphia. Miss Hoenle and Miss Howells will be remembered as having taken part in the singing of "The Incarnation" before the Christmas recess.

The Weekly is in receipt of a letter from Central Seminary on the back of the envelope of which we note, first, a column of texts, and second, two columns of figures headed "We" and "They," which all seems to indicate —?—. What a broadening influence the Seminary must have!

Seven Reasons for Life Insurance Career

LIFE INSURANCE is founded on the highest ideals.

It is capable of yielding a good income and the satisfaction of accomplishment.

It offers opportunities for real leadership.

It brings insurance salesmen in close association with big business and big business men.

It requires education in business methods, law and finance.

It is a field for workers, not shirkers.

It is an alluring and practical calling for men of dynamic energy.

Yaps From a Huddle

Heavy, heavy, what hangs over? Why, the Yaps. For two days they have been hanging heavily over our editorial head. Our mind has been a blank—just like the famous picture of a nigger in a coal pile on a black night. As we recall it, this is a symphony in black and white—without any white.

But, as we weren't saying, mid-years approach apace. One more week and then the grind. The appearance of the schedule on the bulletin board has aroused in many breasts a flutter of anticipation. Ain't nature grand?

We understand that one of the Faculty has recently unbosomed himself of a remark that seems to us to be just a trifle overdrawn. He said that Nature intended us all to be graceful. Perhaps she did. Of course, trees are always graceful, and most animals are. Because of the greatly increased use, by man, of his brain, instead of his brawn, his muscles have lost their fine adjustment, and so he is awkward. But to say that Nature intended us to be graceful is to deny the truth of what our eyes see down in the Field Cage once a month. (Please take this paragraph seriously.)

We heard a new variation of the never-ending Pat and Mike story, the other day. Pat asked Mike who he thought the greatest living Jew was. Mike thought a while. Then his eye was caught by a fleet of motor trucks that were passing. "Begorra, Pat, it must be this guy, Max Weight."

Along the same line, only in reciprocating action is the one of the two Jews, Abie and Ikie (of course). Abie, as in the above parallel, asked Ikie who the greatest living Irishman was. Ikie promptly replied that it must be Pat. Pending.

Just at present, our reading of current events is being sadly neglected. But we are doing enough of it to understand that Europe is in a mess. Just as we never could distinguish one thing from another in an Irish stew, so we resign all hope of making head or tail of the activities in the Old World.

France has again jumped into the limelight by seizing the Ruhr basin as indemnity for the non-payment of the war debt. Great Britain is standing aloof. The United States has withdrawn her troops from Germany as a tacit protest against France's action.

Turkey is proving herself a thorn in the side of this badly harassed bit of the cosmos. It is like a schoolboy whose teacher has a bad case of boils. He knows that the teacher won't try to lick him because of the boils, and so he does just about as he pleases.

Speaking of Europe having boils, she does have a beautiful crop of them. From an economic point of view the situation seems pitiful. If present tendencies should come to a head in a war of any magnitude, the whole carefully wrought structure of present day economic relations would inevitably collapse like a house of cards. And then a hundred years of poverty, of struggle, and of misery until "normalcy" can be lured back.

But America has her boils as well as Europe. The Ku Klux Klan has stirred up a bit of trouble with its crazy animosity toward the negro, the Jew, and the Catholic. If the Klan itself is not responsible for the outrages which have been perpetuated lately in the South, then it is indirectly responsible. Its inflammatory teachings have aroused the lower class of people, the flotsam and jetsam, to a realization of "what is necessary for the good of the country."

Then these people, the lowest of the low, take the law in their own incapable hands and try to show their betters how the country should be run. If the Klan had nothing worse than this indirect guilt to answer for, it should be absolutely condemned as a vicious institution, without a minute's hesitation.

"Every day in every way, I am growing better and better." A euphonious slogan, a magnetic personality, and a clever rehash of old principles: there you have Emile Coue. For centuries the witch-doctors, faith-healers, and pow-wow doctors have used the same psychological principles. Auto-suggestion is merely pow-wow in a full dress suit.

However, far be it from us to detract from M. Coue's popularity, because there is just a chance that he may do some good. To have in mind the idea that one is growing better, will tend to make one act better. That is clear to the most superficial psychologist or "ethicist." And so we say let him rave on, perhaps he will help a world sadly in need of it.

"A very simple test of true love is this: When you people are in love try not to say foolish things. If you succeed, you are not in love."—Catawba College Courier.

Kindness is catching, and if you go around with a thoroughly developed case, your neighbor will be sure to get it.

HOW TO WIN

Life is just a game to play—
Play it!
When you have a thing to say,
Say it!
Do not stammer "if" or "but";
Courage takes the shortest cut.
When your task is hard to do,
Grit your teeth and see it through.
Life is just a prize to get—
Get it!
If the stage is not well set,
Set it!
Men of mettle seldom find
What they're looking for behind.
Fate is passing down the street;
Follow it with nimble feet.

Rev. Will Houghton, pastor of the Baptist Church in Norristown, gave a very instructive talk at the regular weekly meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society in Trinity Church on Sunday evening.

We understand that the 1923 Ruby, after innumerable delays, has finally gone to press. It is hard to determine just when the book will be ready for distribution.

We are requested to announce that the report of "Red" Drennen's matrimonial alliance was not authentic.

K. Long, '24, will admit, if you ask him, that he, too, played "Postoffice" when he was young. "But," says he, "when I became a man I put away childish things."

The great civilizing influences in America were the Bible, the Fourth Estate and the Winchester rifle. Today its the fox-trot.

Why did "Bill" Reimert go to Norristown on Sunday night?

Bisbing rose for breakfast this morning, thereby turning over an entirely new leaf. We hear that he had all his lessons prepared for the day. Congratulations, Johnny!
