Reviews Present World Situation and Opportunity For Service in Unchristian Lands

Dr. Samuel Zwemer, of Cairo, Egypt, editor, lecturer and citizen of the world, addressed the student body of the College in Bomberger Hall on Tuesday evening. Having spent most of his life in the countries of the near East and having recently travelled extensively in Europe and America, Dr. Zwemer was able to sound a WIND=UP CAMPAIGN FOR powerful appeal to the students; for as he said, it was to them that the world looks for the betterment of its present condition.

Speaking on the Present World Situation in Relation to the College Student Dr Zwemer said: "The world is undergoing constant shrinkage thru cept that opportunity and overcome rately stated. the obstacles that are inevitable in such a situation should make its ap- be at the College, altho the fifteen peal to all young manhood and wo- members of the Committee will form

LOCAL BATTERS BREAK EVEN IN WEEK'S CONTESTS

Drexel Beaten 8-2; Rutgers Wins 7-5 After Eighth Inning Rally

With "Sammy" Eckerd on the mound, pitching his first game of college baseball and the excellent support of the varsity, marred only by two negligible errors, the local nine took the measure of the Drexel Institute players on Patterson field, Wednesday afternoon. The score was 8-2. Both teams were handicapped by the intense cold and rain which fell during the first six innings.

Ursinus started scoring in the first inning when Faye came home after a single, a steal and Smith's hit over second. Neither team crossed the plate in the second frame, but in the third Faye and High each marked up a tally with the aid of two pretty sacrifices on the part of Smith and Forrest Dager, of Philadelphia, prov- and the fifth was like the third for Ursinus, Faye and High scoring again. Let every one rise, throw out their respective chests and strut! Some one has made mention of the cheering at the recent baseball game. The cheer came toward the end of the game when Ursinus changed pitchers. Before and after that soul-stirring event all the cheers were jeers, most of which were directed toward the visitors. One of the players fell into the ditch at the west end of the field, and except for the usual gasps from the face. female element in the stands, not a sound was uttered. Tomorrow marks the close of the administration of the present Women's Student Council which will then be released from office in order that the newly elected officers and members may serve for a few weeks and benefit by the advice of the old before the beginning of next semester. During the past year the Women's Council with Mary Gross at the head has met with remarkable success in every way. The retiring members are to be congratulated for their efforts. Mistakes there were, to be sure, but none were of sufficient gravity to mar the record.

Actual revision has not yet taken place, altho work has been started toward that end. No better leader could have been chosen than Miss Helen Groninger, and it is no more than fair that she should have the whole-hearted support of the student body both male and female as she embarks on her career as chief executive.

It would be well to bear in mind that if the students are desirous of a change in the constitution of the Council, which they evidently are, they must co-operate in every detail with those whom they have put into office. The Council is but an organ of the student body. It can function with the rest of the oragnism, but not without.

The Ursinus Weekly takes this opportunity to extend well wishes to the new staff of The Lafayette, who took over publication of the paper last week. The Lafayette has long been a sheet par-excellence, both in content and make-up, and under the the new staff should continue the good work. Lafayette as a college is to be congratulated on the selection of Herbert R Brown to the editorial chair. As a literary man, Brown has few equals in collegiate circles; as a debater he rank among the best; as a student he is a dangerous rival to all striving for honors in his college. And as for manly qualities-there are none that he does not possess. With such leadership, The Lafayette cannot help but succeed.

Again we extend felicitations!

Campaign for Library Building

An appeal will be made to the alumni who have not as yet made subscriptions. About thirty per cent. of the living graduates fall within this class. As the erection of this memorial building is an all-alumni undertaking, it is hoped to have everyone represented on the list of contributors. Further, an appeal will be made to all who have already subscribed to add such sums to their present contributions as will make up the balance needed, so that when the Alumni gather on June 9th to dedicate the building, they may have the satisfaction of doing so with all the costs provided for.

Ursinus Bows to Rutgers

After holding a four run lead for Eckerd served up four balls eight innings, the Ursinus nine in quicker than words can tell, went high in the air and before they came back to earth had allowed the New Brunswick team to dent the rubber at home plate six separate times. Needless to say the game was lost, for Collegeville High Wins From Scrubs Flitter, Wismer and Faye were easy and Faye advanced to second. A sacroit sportsmanship between the schools. Sellers got a base on Ross' error and scored on a sacrifice fly to center Quillen struck out. Hagen singled field by Wood. Two runs were shoved over short, scoring Sasek. Sukin was across in the next inning by Wismer

For Rutgers the eighth inning tells the story. Beatman, Benzoni, he of All-American basketball fame, and rificed and Moyer went to third. Ross singled. Butcher walked, Mallory doubled, with the result that three runs came in. Wood at this point was excused from active service and Eckerd was sent in to quell the disturbance. He succeeded in fanning Cautinn but unleased two wild pitches which enabled Butcher and Mallory to score. Elsesser then cracked a homer to right field, which should have been an easy out for Flitter. Platt and Beatman were easy outs. The inning was over, but the game was lost. Fate played a leading role on this day and the Collegeville lads had to accept defeat. Delaware will be met Wednesday and with the defeat still lurking around will probably mark the vengeance of a team that will strive to show that the better team always wins.
