

Collin College

DigitalCommons@Collin

Passport to the World

Academic Affairs

4-20-2017

Normandy: Then and Now The People and Places 70 Years after D-Day

Tony Airhart

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.collin.edu/passport>

Recommended Citation

Airhart, Tony, "Normandy: Then and Now The People and Places 70 Years after D-Day" (2017). Passport to the World. 22.

<https://digitalcommons.collin.edu/passport/22>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Academic Affairs at DigitalCommons@Collin. It has been accepted for inclusion in Passport to the World by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@Collin. For more information, please contact mtomlin@collin.edu.

Passport to the World

Normandy: Then and Now
The People and Places 70
Years after D-Day

1 – 2:15 p.m.
Thursday, April 20

Central Park Campus, Pike Hall

Professor Tony Airhart will take the audience on a journey through the scene of one of World War II's major turning points, as it may have been on D-Day and as it looks more than seven decades later. From the iconic Omaha Beach and Utah Beach to Juno Beach and Sainte-Mère-Église, Normandy has grown into a popular French vacation destination, but signs of the epic beach landings and battles can still be found if you are looking.

The people in Normandy recognize and are grateful for the impact the American and British soldiers made on the war. Their gratitude is not limited to the anniversary celebrations, but is instead passed down from generation to generation.

Professor Airhart is a professor of physical education at Central Park Campus.

The event is FREE and open to the public.

For more information, contact Dr. Dallie Clark at dclark@collin.edu.

