Carter Speaks In Brownsville

By OSCAR GARZA

President Jimmy Carter arrived in Brownsville aboard Air Force 1 about 9:35 a.m. Nov. 1 and made his way down International Bld. waving to his supporters. According to CIA, close to 5,000 Democrats came to listen to the message of the President. "I am the first president to visit Brownsville," Mr. Carter said. The crowd then chanted "We want Carter, we want Carter."

After being introduced by Congressman Kika de la Garza, Mr. Carter talked about Pan American University Brownsville President Arnulfo Oliveira and his struggle for education. He acknowledged the late PAU-B president's wife and said, "The Democratic party has always strived for a good education because we want to expand knowledge. All Reagan believes in education is that they have to abolish the Department of Education," Mr. Carter said.

In addition, Mr. Carter wants to get national health insurance off the ground because "health programs are needed in the Valley."

But the topic that brought the most applause was the fact that Mr. Carter has appointed more Hispanics to senior cabinet posts than any other president. "We have also appointed three times as many federal judges than all the presidencies combined," Mr. Carter said. He went on to talk about Brownsville native judge Reynaldo Garza. Mr. Carter had wanted to appoint him to attorney general, but Garza did not take the post.

He also stressed that agriculture is important to him because he is also a farmer. "Ten million tons of grain are being shipped to Mexico, and I want foreign trade to boom," Mr. Carter said. He also said that he and Congressman Kika de la Garza would help the shrimpers.

"The Mexican-American vote is very important and we are in a time of decision," Mr. Carter said. He went on to say, "Reagan is trying to put himself in the mold of a Democrat." He said that the GOP candidate is not quoting famous Republicans, but famous Democratic presidents. "Maybe in 20 years, the Republicans can say good things about Jimmy Carter's second term," Mr. Carter said.

Mr. Carter sparked the crowd when he said, "Dime con quien has y te dire quien eres." His audience started chanting again, "We want Carter, we want Carter."

After closing his speech, Lt. Governor Bill Hobby gave Mr. Carter a white stetson hat. The President then left the Valley as he had to make three city stops.

Visions Wins Booth Competition

Visions, PAU's art club, was awarded the first place prize of $75 for the haunted cave booth at UCPC's Carnival of the Great Pumpkin Saturday night.

ROTC and the CAMP Alumni Association tied for second place with each organization receiving $50. ROTC sponsored a marriage/divorce booth and CAMP presented The Devil Went Down to Georgia. In addition, third place ($25) went to the International Student Association which sold a variety of international foods.

"The haunted cave booth was very real-like," commented Joe Peralez, vice president of student government and judge for the carnival. "You could tell that it was well-organized and that a lot of work was put into designing and creating it." He added, "Also, all the members of the organization were actively participating in the booth."

Other judges for the booths were Belinda Godines representing UCPC, David Zuniga from administration and Jerry Baldwin from the Alumni Association.

According to Debbie Thomas, UCPC coordinator, overall, the carnival was a success. "We had a great turnout," she said, with approximately 35 organizations represented.

Although there were no costume competition due to lack of entries and no remote radio station booth as planned, two bands, Tumbleweed and Jest, provided entertainment. "It started earlier this year too," Debbie said. "People started arriving at 7 and the carnival was still going strong at 11."

She added, "At one point I'd say there were maybe 2,500 people there. It was really crowded." Larry Garcia, UCPC president added, "You could feel the excitement because the carnival was more compact."

Candidate Visits McAllen

Amidst cloudy conditions and cool temperatures, Republican Vice-Presidential candidate George Bush flew in on his 727, making a campaign stop in McAllen Oct. 30. Bush arrived with Gov. William P. Clements at Miller Air Field about 9:30 a.m. and Bush met with reporters there.

"We are not taking anything for granted, we have to continue to work hard," Bush said. He went on to say, "The citizens have been under represented with Carter as president and that is explained in his economic programs."

Bush said that he was pleased with Gov. Ronald Reagan's debate with Mr. Carter. This reporter asked him the importance of the Texas vote and Bush said, "Democrats have taken the people for granted and we have to break the solid south stronghold President Carter has." He wants to help put Mexican industry on this side of the border.

In another interview with reporters at McAllen High School, Bush said he supported ERA. Governor Reagan is against this amendment. "I am for reappealing discrimination rights against ladies," Bush said. He went on to say, that "Jimmy Carter's record should be reviewed and experience should not get him elected."

He wants to provide federal funds for aliens to get a free education because "I think everyone has the

PAU To Utilize Priority

Registration will once again be available to students wishing to utilize it for the spring semester. According to Mrs. Hull of the computer center, an estimated 6000 students will pre-register. The deadline to apply is November 19.

Students should meet with an adviser in their department to work out a schedule. The schedule will then be sent to the right to an education." "We have to stop the numerous government agencies Carter has set up because we have to spend money more efficiently," Bush said. Another question this reporter asked was how significant the student vote is and Bush commented, "I am disappointed with 18 year olds not getting out to vote with the opportunity they have."

computer center for processing. "The most difficult task in priority registration is to fit the schedule to the students request." Said Hull. Each form should have a first and second choice for the computer to choose from. Each class has a unique number, so unless the wrong number is written down, it is not possible for the computer to error.

The most common error in priority registration is a

Bush then headed for his speech to the McAllen students and got the crowd going with his persuasive speaking ability. According to some, they changed from Carter to Reagan just because of the speech by Bush.

After his two-hour stay in McAllen, Bush headed for other Texas cities in hopes of changing the minds of many die hard Democrats.

Registration

clerk error, said Hull. "Sometimes the forms are sent to the computer room incomplete." In this case, the student will have to register at the regular time.

Priority registration is most convenient for students who work and must have their schedule set up to meet their work schedule. Without this method, it would be difficult to work and go to school at the desired time.

Bronco Days Applications Due

Bronco Days have been set for Nov. 20-21, according to Daniel Miller, chairman of the university & community affairs committee. All organizations planning to participate in the games have till Nov. 13 to submit their applications. Applications have already been distributed to organizational mailboxes at UC. Forms can be dropped off at the PAUSA office.

The Mad-Mexican of KBFM-104 will be the master of ceremonies for the presentation of the Bronco Queen Candidates during the games and at the dance. Applications for Bronco Queen can be obtained at the student government office. The deadline for entry is Nov. 12 by 4:30 p.m. Campaigning will commence on Nov. 13 at 9 a.m. till 8 p.m. on Nov. 20. Coronation of the queen will be at the Bronco Days dance which will feature the Tumbleweed Band at the snack bar on Nov. 21 and general admission will be $1 per person. All queen candidates are to meet with the election commissioner on Nov. 12 at 4:30 in UC-318.

To allow students to participate in the Bronco Days celebration, Dr. J. C. Nichols will dismiss third period classes on Nov. 20. A coordination meeting will be conducted on Nov.

18 in the School of Business Auditorium, BA-110 during activity period. All organizations planning to participate in the games must have one representative present at this meeting. All rules and awards will be discussed.

"The success of Bronco Days depends on the students, faculty and organizations participation," said Dan Miller.

Activities on Nov. 20 include a sack race, cow chip toss, cigar smoking, egg toss, root beer chug, tug of war, whip cream pie eating and the three legged race.

These games will take place in front of the Science building. On Nov. 21 there will be a jalapeño eating contest and a beer chug in front of the snack bar.

Council Plans Greek Week

Plans are currently in the works for Greek Week, PAU's yearly tradition for campus sororities and fraternities, and according to Nori Gonzalez, Greek Council president, the event is scheduled for late February or early March, although a definite date has not been set.

Greek Week is a friendly competition between the Greek organizations. "It's just a way for them to get together," Nori said. The week usually starts off on Sunday with a relay or marathon and then each day a different game or activity is held.

In the past, activities have included pingpong and pool competitions, volleyball and softball games, singsongs and picnics. "We also have a penny nominating contest for Greek God and Goddess," she added, with funds donated to the March of Dimes.

Fraternities participating in Greek Week are Tau Kappa Epsilon, Phi Kappa Theta, Kappa Sigma, Phi Sigma Kappa and Phi Kappa Tau. In addition, Delta Zeta and Kappa Delta will join in the activities. This year a third sorority, Alpha Gama Delta, may also participate as well.

Faculty Votes For Core

By an overwhelming margin (187-34), the faculty of Pan American University has voted to upgrade the standards for all undergraduates enrolling in the 1981-82 academic year at the Edinburg institution.

Dr. J. C. Nichols, vice-president for academic affairs, announced that this action concluded more than two years of study and deliberation, and that the vote will result in several changes in the basic requirements all students must meet in order to successfully obtain advanced standing and take upper level courses in the various major fields offered by the university.

The addition of a mathematics requirement for all students is one of the primary changes adopted by the faculty vote. Present requirements make it possible for students to avoid mathematics by concentrating on foreign language and laboratory sciences.

Along with the addition of mathematics to the general education requirements of all students, the university has imposed the requirement that a set of "core" courses be completed before students may enroll in junior and senior level courses. The core adopted by the faculty vote consists of six semester hours of freshman English, six semester hours of American history, six semester hours of government, and the three-hour mathematics requirement.

Students who do not successfully complete the core requirements with a 2.0 grade point average by the time they have attempted 60 semester hours of college work will be restricted to enrolling only in those courses.

Under the new policy, students must also achieve a grade of C or better in each of the freshman level English courses before they will be considered to have successfully met general education requirements.

In addition to the core courses, students will also be required to complete 12 hours of coursework in two of three areas, science, mathematics and foreign languages, as well as six semester hours of sophomore English, four semester hours of physical education activity courses, and 12 semester hours of free electives.

It is expected that the addition of these new requirements will help improve the quality of education obtained by PAU students while allowing the university to continue to meet its commitment to the students of the region by maintaining an open admissions policy at the undergraduate level. Dr. Nichols also said that concurrent with these changes was an increased effort on the part of the university in the areas of remedial courses, tutorial programs, learning centers and academic advising and counseling services.

In addition to the changes in the undergraduate program, the selective admissions requirements for the university's graduate program have also been upgraded to become effective in September 1981. Dr. Nichols suggested that all potential graduate students contact the admissions office of the university for information concerning these revised standards.

Committee Selects Who's Who

The Who's Who Committee of Pan American University has selected 43 students from the Edinburg campus according to Dr. Gilberto de los Santos, dean of students. Dr. de los Santos added that seven other students were selected at the Brownsville campus.

Over 100 students were nominated at both campuses together, and 96 of those nominated were from the Edinburg campus. Dr. de los Santos said that the names selected were to be sent to the national office of Who's Who in Alabama. This office would then give the official word of who was selected by sending out press releases.

Last year only 17 students were nominated from the Edinburg campus and seven from the Brownsville campus said Dean de los Santos. "We are very happy to have gotten so many more students this year," de los Santos said. He said that the committee has been more selective and deserved much credit for their hard work in selecting the students.

This committee is composed of a representative appointed by each of the deans on campus and someone appointed by the director of Health Related Professions. The president and vice president of the Pan American University Student Association were also on the committee.

Dr. de los Santos said, "The criteria for evaluating nominations is based on the student's scholarship ability, participation and leadership in academic and extracurricular activities, citizenship and service to Pan American University, and potential for future achievement. Students should have a 3.0 GPA and have earned at least 60 semester hours before the fall of the 1980 semester. Graduate PAU students are eligible."

UT On Campus

Students interested in careers in medical technology may attend an informational meeting today at the nursing building.

A representative of the School of Allied Health Sciences, University of Texas Health Science Center at Houston, will lead conferences and discussions from 10:30 a.m. to noon NB-123.

Subjects to be discussed will be curriculum, applications, and admissions for the program in medical technology and other allied health programs.

LRC Initiates Broadcast System

In two weeks, the closed circuit television message system will commence, according to Daniel Alvarez, director. The telecasts will be broadcast from the Liberal Arts, LRC, Nursing Building and the UC center, where television sets have been set up. Messages will be from the office of student affairs.

Because of the damage from hurricane Allen, Alvarez said, "we are taking it one day at a time." Some of the camera lenses got too much moisture in them. At this time, one camera is out.

Professional Dance Group To Perform

The Dance Theater of the Southwest will perform on the stage of the Pan American University fine arts auditorium at 8:15 p.m. today.

The dance group from Denton was incorporated in 1973, and has performed and taught in art centers, universities and museums throughout four Southwestern states. The company was aided in building its repertoire by grants from the Texas Commission on Arts and Humanities.

The performances include original works created by the company director, Sandy Combest, and its members, as well as many original works set exclusively for the company or outstanding dances by well-known choreographers of national reputation.

Tony Vela, adviser to the University Center Program Council, which sponsors the appearance of the dance group at Pan Am, said local dance teachers "are encouraged to send their students to see this strong, professional dance company."

A reviewer for the Dallas

Morning News commented that the group "has unusual seriousness marked by meticulous attention toward technique . . . this is a company worth seeing!"

General admission ticket price for the event is $3; faculty and staff of PAU and dance groups, $2.50, and PAU students $2 with PAU identification card.

November Interview Schedule Set

Various companies and school districts currently are setting up job interviews for the month of November for Pan American University students and alumni.

Romulo Martinez, director of the Office of Career Planning, Placement, Testing and Cooperative Education, said students should visit the office in University Center room 116 to sign up for job interviews and to learn of any changes in the interview schedules.

Interviews on Thursday, Nov. 6, will be with Ford Motor Credit Co., for business majors in management, accounting, finance and marketing; R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., marketing, business and management, and the Brownsville Independent School District for majors in elementary education and bilingual, and secondary in all areas, especially science, mathematics and English.

On Friday, Nov. 7, the Brownsville school district will still be interviewing, as well as the Texas City school district for elementary education; bilingual, all levels; secondary, all areas.

Representatives of the San Antonio Independent School District will be present Nov. 11 to talk to majors in elementary education; bilingual; special education; generic education, and all levels of art, music, health and physical education. The district also is seeking secondary teachers in biology, business education, chemistry, English, health and physical education, mathematics, physics.

Interviewers on Nov. 12 will be the San Antonio school district again and the Federal Bureau of Investigation will be seeking December graduates in all majors.

Also interviewing on Nov. 12 will be the Harlingen Independent School District, for elementary and special education, all-level art, health and physical education, and music, and secondary in all areas. Edgewood Independent School District (San Antonio) will talk to majors in elementary education, bilingual, special education, generic education, and all areas of secondary education except French.

Representatives of the Bell System will be present Nov. 13 to talk to majors in business, mathematics and computer science for jobs nationwide involving design, research and development, production, and training program. Joske's of Texas on the same date will talk to all majors, with business majors preferred, as executive trainees for positions in merchandising, store administration, control and operations in San Antonio, Austin, El Paso and Corpus Christi.

Nov. 14 interviewers will be from Xerox, primarily for business majors, but also will talk to anyone interested in a sales training program for the Valley and Laredo areas.

Paul G. Veale and Co. Representatives will be present Nov. 18 to talk to accounting majors, and McAllen Independent School district will interview for majors in elementary education, -bilingual, special education, generic education, and all-level art, music, health and physical education, and secondary in all areas. The McAllen school district also will interview on Nov. 19.

Nov. 20 interviews will be with the Rio Grande Council, Boy Scouts of America, any major, for an associate district executive, McAllen, unless filled by that time. If the position has been filled, associate or district executives will be needed where any vacancy exists. Humana, Inc., hospital operators, also will interview on Nov. 20 for bachelor of science in accounting or finance or master of business administration.

Interviews Nov. 21 will be with Uni-Lab Corp., for majors in business, psychology, management or marketing, and Getty Oil Co. of Tulsa, Okla., will talk to accounting majors.

The U.S. Marine Corps representative will talk to anyone interested in officer programs, all majors, on Nov. 24, 25 and 26.

'The Awakening' Movie Review

By SANDRA BARBOSA

She died and was entombed at the age of 18. Hatred of her was so fierce that all record of her was erased for all time. Her burial place was marked with a warning of doom to those who dared to set her free from the dark depths. Kara, the unnamed, has been waiting for 'The Awakening.'

Charlton Heston is Matthew Corbeck the archaeologist whom Kara possesses as her savior. He is driven by a blinding desire to awaken the great Egyptian queen spoken of in an old diary. Mr. Heston's body oozes oceans of sweat from the sheer exertion he puts into his very convincing role.

Starring as Corbeck's daughter, Margaret, is Stephanie Zimbalist. She is the child of Matt and Ann Corbeck born on the day Corbeck opened Kara's sarcophagus. Lying dormant within her is Kara's soul, waiting until Margaret's eighteenth birthday. From that day forward, the evil sealed up over the ages is unleashed full force. Although new to motion pictures, Miss Zimbalist does an outstanding job as the confused and frightened girl fighting for her life.

Seasoned actresses, Susannah York and Jill Townsend play Margaret's step-mother and mother respectively. Both bring a credibility to their roles that only years of reputable work could achieve.

'The Awakening' is the story of Kara, a long since dead Egyptian queen who killed thousands in revenge of her father's incestuous rape of her. She was considered absolute evil by her subjects who believed her to have magical powers only for destruction. She fights from the grave for her rebirth sending those who would stop her: off cliffs, balconies and under moving trucks.

Kara is waiting for her awakening, but she will not be kept waiting much longer.

Reagan Wins By Landslide

It was not even close . . . GOP presidential candidate Ronald Reagan soundly defeated incumbent Democratic President Jimmy Carter in the annual four year shoot out for the highest position in the United States.

According to polls, the election was too close to call throughout the entire campaign, but when election day finally came, Reagan took Mr. Carter's strongest Southern states to claim victory. The National Broadcasting Company called a Reagan victory as early as 6:15 p.m.

Reagan, the oldest first term president at 69, went over on the electoral count of 279 with Missouri about 9:44. Before that time, Mr

Carter has already conceded victory to the Republican party. Mr. Carter said, "I can't stand here and say that it doesn't hurt—the people of the United States have spoken, and, of course, I accept their decision."

The former California governor controlled the Carter stronghold, his Southern States, and that eventually led to the President's doom. Mr. Carter only controlled his own state of Georgia and Vice-President Walter Mondale's state of Minnesota. Mr. Carter also took the District of Columbia. In addition, Reagan held a five million vote lead in the popular vote by 51 percent to 41 percent for Mr.

Carter. The independent candidacy did not have the influence some had hoped for. John Anderson, running in that party, had to struggle to get the five percent of the vote in each state in order to be funded by the Federal Government.

The handling of the hostage situation and the rising unemployment and inflation may have been the downfall for Mr. Carter. Ironically, Mr. Carter lost his chance for his second term for the presidency on the anniversary of the day American Hostages were captured at the Iranian Embassy. Also, the misery index, the combination of unemployment and inflation, was at 20 percent, but when Mr. Carter started his first term, it was only 12.5 percent.

Although the Republicans won nationally the Democrats took the Valley positions in all four counties in many hotly contested races.

The Valley did not follow form like the rest of the country as they gave Mr. Carter a substantial lead over Reagan, but the State of Texas did not follow. Texas went to Reagan by some three million votes and it was an important state because when Reagan took Texas, Mr. Carter then conceded victory. The national senate races were also controlled by the Republicans.

Students Awarded Scholarships

The two recipients of the Cano Coors Scholarships for the 1980-81 school year are Kevin D. Plyler, a graduate from PSJA and Silvia C. Calderon, a graduate from Sharyland High School.

Plyler is the son of Mr. and Ms. Howard Plyler of San Juan and was graduated with a 90.4 grade point average. He is a member of the national Honor Society, Mu Alpha Theta and was the Chess Club president during high school.

Calderon is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Calderon of Mission and was graduated with a 92.5 grade point average. She is a member of band, stage band, vice president of the National Honor Society, member of Student Council and senior class treasurer.

Both recipients were awarded $500 scholarships to Pan American University for the 1980-81 school year.

Eddie R. Cano, founder of the scholarships and owner of Cano Coors Distributing Company in McAllen, is a strong advocate for creating opportunities for students. The scholarships are very unique in that students were administering the entire process for the rewarding of the scholarships. Cano approached Alpha Kappa Psi, a professional business fraternity at PAU, with the idea of administering the scholarships. The Theta Rho Chapter enthusiastically accepted the proposal and created a special Cano Coors Scholarship Committee, chaired by Roy Billman. Cano made only three restrictions for the scholarships: 1) Only graduating high school seniors would be eligible; 2) They must attend a high school in Hidalgo and Starr Counties. 3) They must plan to attend PAU and seek a degree in the field of business administration.

All other requirements and conditions were left to the committee's discretion. The eligibility criteria set forth by Theta Rho placed less emphasis on financial need and placed more toward leadership and achievements. High school counselors in the local high schools were notified and sent application packets to forward to interested high school seniors. The net result was a collection of 31 applications, all of which were evaluated by the Cano Coors Scholarship Committee and based on a point system were narrowed down to five applicants. The final two recipients of the scholarship were selected after comparing the merits of the five applicants.

CHECK FOR BUSINESS SCHOOL--Miguel A. Nevarez, right, vice-president for student and university affairs at Pan American University, presents a check for $500 to Dr. Jerre E. Gratz, interim dean for the PAU school of business administration, on behalf of the Caterpillar Tractor Co. of Peoria, Ill. Dr. Gratz said the money will be used for scholarships, faculty recruitment, and operating expenses. Caterpillar recruits Pan Am students as employees through the Office of Career Planning, Placement, Testing and Cooperative Education.

Mexican Pianist To Perform

The Division for Inter-American Affairs and International Education at Pan American University, in cooperation with the Mexican consulate in McAllen, the PAU Music Department, the Universidad Valle del Bravo, Reynosa, and the PAU Sociedad de Alumnos Mexicanos, will present the Mexican pianist Kurt Groenewold in concert Friday in the PAU Fine

Arts Auditorium at 8 p.m.

Groenewold has represented Mexico in various concerts and festivals sponsored by the Secretaría de Educación Pública, the Academia Cultural, and the Secretaría de Relaciones Exteriores. In addition to representing his country in different countries, Groenewold has several records to his credit and has appeared on radio and television in Mexico. His classical music records have broken record sales in Mexico.

Groenewold has taught at various schools and is at the present teaching Music History at the famous Colegio de México in Mexico City. The concert will be presented free-of-charge to PAU faculty, staff, and students, and to the public.

Flutist To Perform

The Pan American University Music Department will present the first concert of this season's Faculty Artist Series Monday 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Recital Hall. The soloist will be flutist, Harold Worman. He will be assisted by Dr. John Raimo, pianist.

Worman makes frequent solo appearances not only at Pan American University, but also throughout the South Texas area. He has performed as soloist with the Pan American University-Valley Symphony Orchestra and at the National Music Camp, Interlochen, Michigan, where he is a member of the faculty.

Worman is a long-time faculty member of Pan American where, in addition to the flute, he teaches clarinet and saxophone, having played these instruments professionally

Faculty Nominates Senate Candidates

Faculty from the various schools will nominate candidates for the Faculty Senate for the 1981-83 term during the first week of November.

The nominees must be "full time faculty members below of administration level of department head and dean plus one year of service," Dr. Charles J. Ellard, associate professor of Business Administration, stated.

Twenty-five senators actually represents eight schools in the Faculty Senate. There is one senator for each 28 faculty members included in a school.

After nominations are made, Clara Buitenbos, secretary of the Faculty Senate, will handle the ballots by mail during the two following weeks. They can sent to her office at BA-222D.

Volleyball Invited To State Tournament

Playing in the same tournament as rival St. Mary's, a team that has beaten Pan American University women's volleyball team three times this year, may determine whether or not Pan Am can advance to the finals in the TAIAW Division II in Georgetown beginning today and continuing until Nov. 8.

Following the announcements that Pan Am's women's volleyball team would be attending their first ever Texas Association Interscholastic Athletic For Women Division II State afternoon practices.

"If we stay together and don't get upset," said team captain Irma Flores, "we can win. We want to win, not just for the two seniors on the team, but all the girls want to win. We've got the team and we've got the coach. Coach Bass helped us believe we would get in and even though we didn't think we would, it still has to be the best thing to happen since I've been at Pan Am."

St. Mary's Invitational. "To win this year's tournament we'll have to play error free," said Head coach Kelly Bass, "No mistakes or serving errors. We'll have to play hard,

"Coach Bass helped us believe we would get in and even though we didn't think we would, it still has to be the best thing to happen . . ."

An excellent tournament record and a seven match winning streak during the regular season may have clinched the tournament bid. A fourth place finish at the St. Phillips Tournament; first at the Laredo Junior College Tournament; and a second place finish at the St. Mary's Invitational.

Broncs Battle U. of Windsor

After beating three U.S. college basketball teams last season, the schedulers for the University of Windsor Lancers have gone berserk.

They have scheduled seven games in the U.S., all against major universities. So the Lancers could have their hands full. They went 12-7 in Canada last year, but were 3-9 against easier American schedule, to finish 15-16 overall.

This time around, Nick Grabowski, the new coach, plays his first seven against U.S. powerhouses.

Maybe there's a method in his suicidal schedule. The Lancers finished second to Calgary in the Ontario University Athletic Association. The gruelling early tests may toughen the Lancers for the conference race inside Canada.

However, Windsor must do it with all-native Canadian talent, even though the University is located right across the Detroit River from Detroit, Mich.

And that first game will come Nov. 10 at Wayne State in Detroit.

Then the Lancers attempt a bruising three-game invasion of Texas. That's three games in three nights. They go to the Super Drum at the University of Texas in Austin, where the Longhorns are well nigh invincible. Then they visit, the next night (Nov. 14) Pan American University at Edinburg, 300 miles south of Austin.

To climax that Texas swing, the Lancers jump to Rice University in Houston, nearly 400 miles from Edinburg, the following night, Nov. 15.

As if that Texas trip wasn't enough, the Lancers fly back to Michigan to meet Central Michigan, the University of Michigan and the University of Detroit, all before November ends.

The Lancers have some experience, some muscle and some height to try to salvage something from those first seven games, south of the border.

the three big men are 6-7 Stan Korosec, 6-6 Jim Mollyneau and 6-6 Jim Harris, all solid physical specimens.

Brian Buttrey, a 6-3 187-pounder from Regina, Saskatchewan, gives the Lancers some prairie-province aggressiveness. Buttrey transferred in from the Regina Cougars of the tough Great Plains Conference. The only western man on the Windsor team, he is aggressive and quick.

Phil Hermanutz, a 5-11 guard, averaged 12 points as a sophomore. He can keep defenses honest with his outside shooting. Brian Hogan, even shorter at 5-9 makes up for his size with quickness.

Other than those two peppery guards, all the Lancers are 6-footers or better. They have good medium height in the 6-6, 6-7 range.

Coach Grabowski took over as head man this season, a one-year appointment, when Dr. Paul Thomas took sabbatical leave. Grabowski is no stranger to the program, having been assistant coach here for 12 years.

Grabowski earned All-City and All-Michigan honors at St. Andrews in Detroit during his high school days, then played for the University of Windsor.

"Coach Grabowski feels the season will be successful, and that fans will be treated to hustling, rigorous, disciplined basketball," said Windsor's sports information director, Bill Bridgeman.

After their rugged U.S. schedule, the Lancers could cut a large swath in Canada.

Tickets Available for Bronc Tilts

"Ninety-one percent of the Bronco basketball reserved tickets have been purchased," according to Kelly Bass, Athletic Business Manager.

Bass stated, "There are 600 seats available and usually 500 to 550 seats are purchased by businessmen, winter Texans, and basketball fans."

According to Bass, "Reserved basketball seat

tickets may be purchased until the first home game on November 14, although reserved tickets may be purchased after the first game."

Anyone wishing more information may contact: Bass, at 381-2224 or Mini Serna at 381-2221 or Dee Dee Rodriguez at 381-2222, Monday thru Friday from 7:45 to 4:15 p.m.

Girl Cager Contests Announced

Coach John McDowell hopes we can get 110 percent out of every player on the team," as the Pan American University Lady Broncs prepare to begin their basketball season here Saturday afternoon.

The Lady Broncs will open their 19-game schedule at 4 p.m. Saturday against Schreiner College from Kerrville. No admission will be charged at the PAU Field House.

A member of Division II in the TCLAW, the Texas Commission on Intercollegiate Athletics for Women, Pan American competes in this division against several junior colleges, such as Schreiner, as well as senior colleges like Texas A&I, Texas Southern, Texas Lutheran and St. Mary's.

The Lady Broncs lack height but have some experienced shooters.

McDowell hasn't named his starting lineup yet, saying, "We're still shuffling five veterans, a freshman and a walk-on; we haven't come up with the right combination."

Sylvia Garza, 5-foot-3, from Roma, and 5-5 Kim Mynatt of Laredo probably will start at guard. The inside spots are between 5-8 Ritz Gonzalez, Mercedes; 5-7 Tammy Judd, McAllen; 5-10 Sonya Salinas, Hebbronville; 5-6 Carmen Garcia, Rio Grande City; and 5-6 Liz Longoria, Raymondville.

The other players include 5-4 Telly Sitarek, 5-4 Bertha Chavana, 5-8 Dina Gorena, 5-7 Stella Cantu and 5-foot Mendiola twins, Idalia and Imelda.

Introducing

The Pan American Basketball Broncs

Curtis Glasper 6'6" F

During this season, Curtis Glasper occupies a key position up front. Last season, he averaged 9.1 points, 6.9 rebounds and earned himself a spot in Pan American's all time record book when he connected on 54.6 per cent of his field goal attempts ranking him No. 7. Glasper also led all Pan Am's regulars in his ratio of steals to turnovers. Glasper grabbed 33 steals while committing just 38 turnovers in 710 minutes he played.

He came to Pan American a year ago as the youngest Bronc basketball player. When the 1979-80 season started he was only 17. He didn't turn 18 until last Dec. 22. Although Alan Martin remains the youngest man on the Bronc team, Martin looks likely to play much more as a sophomore and he could develop into a starter by the time he's a junior. He averaged a 2.4 point game and less than one rebound, but he was the only player who never missed a free throw all season, going 2 for 2 at the line.

Alan Martin 6'7" C

This season, Head Coach Bill White figures to experiment with Mike Carroll at both point guard and shooting guard, and the Broncs will be counting upon Carroll for firepower as well as the sharp passes heads up defense that characterized his 1979-80 performance. Last year, Carroll scored 10.3 points per game and collected 236 assists plus 48 steals in a 19-9 season for Pan Am.

Mike Carroll 5'11" G

When Thad Wilkinson scores his first field goal for Pan Am, this season, the Bronc bench is likely to explode. The reason is that Wilkinson played for the Broncs all last season without making or even attempting a field goal. Then he was a freshman; now he's a sophomore who promises to contribute more, thanks to his year's experience that was spent mostly watching and learning. At 6'1", Wilkinson has the skills to play NCAA basketball. He can shoot and he probably will be getting the go ahead.

Board Names New President

Dr. Homer J. Peña vice-president of business affairs, was named president of PAU-Brownsville by the Board of Regents at a meeting held Nov. 6.

Dr. Peña is succeeding Dr. Arnulfo Oliveira, who died Oct. 18 of a heart attack. "He was the most qualified man for the job," said Dr. Ralph Schilling, PAU president.

Dr. Peña received his B.A. in chemistry from Pan American College in 1958, his master of education from the University of Houston in 1978.

In addition to being a math instructor for many years, he has served at PAU as assistant director of admissions, assistant professor of math, registrar and Administrative Assistant to the president, as well as Vice-president of business affairs.

"I have always wanted to serve here at the university," he explained, "and I hope I can continue the work that Dr. Oliveira started at PAU-B. I am looking forward to working with the educational institutions in the area."

As for Dr. Peña's open position, Dr. Schilling concluded that it would be discussed at the next Board of Regents meeting.

Committee Head Named

Dr. Ernest J. Baca, dean of the school of science and mathematics, has been named head the screening committee by the board of regents at their Nov. 6 meeting. According to Frederick A. Von Ende, coordinator of policy planning, "Just under 100 applications have been received," for the position of PAU president. Regents also approved the sale of Weatherford International; Incorporated stock. Proceeds from this sale are to be placed in an endowment fund and be designated as the J.C. Looney scholarship fund.

The regents agreed with three recommendations made by Gov. Bill Clement's office concerning expenditure of monies from the Business School Excellence Fund, but rejected recommendation A, suggesting that $58,324 be paid into the state's General Revenue Fund, unappropriated.

A total of $58,324 had been budgeted for the partial payment of salaries in the business school, but some of the funds were used to pay a salary supplement to Dr. Ralph Schilling, president, and for a regent's meeting in Dallas. Pan Am has received word from the state auditor's office that its action "does not constitute a violation of the law, nor does such an action exceed the legitimate scope of the board's authority."

Tim J. Weaver, audit manager for the state auditor's office, voiced his opinion that the board of regents "Has the authority to approve budgets and similarly has the authority to modify budgets despite the original budget, the faculty salary appropriation remains a lawfully available source for faculty salary expenditures."

The regents decided to study the matter further and discuss it more fully later. Regent Billie Pickard of Raymondville said she felt the money should be returned to the state. Regents Dr. Rodolfo E. Margo of Weslaco and Ricardo H. Hinojosa of McAllen agreed with her, but other members of the board voted to keep; the money at Pan Am. A total of $49,000 of the amount has been returned to the Business School Excellence Fund, Dr. Schilling said.

Board members looked over a selection of brick for use in the new three-story administration building soon to be under construction. A decision was made to keep the present St. Joe brick from Louisiana.

Dr. J. C. Nichols asked the board to begin considering the construction of a building to house the science department's animal facility, which is in presently the science building. Such a building, plus equipment would cost approximately $421,000. He was asked to bring an updated report form the architect to the next meeting.

Also approved was the purchase of a visual aid system for enlarging prints at a cost of $2,425. It will be placed in the LRC for use by visually-handicapped students.

The next meeting of the board of regents was set for Tuesday Dec. 2.

Holidays, Finals Approach

With the holiday season nearing, most Pan American student are filled with mixed emotions. Excitement about Thanksgiving and Christmas is dampened by final examination tension.

Thanksgiving holidays are November 27-29, inclusive. December 11, 12 are dead days and limited departmental exams. Finals for evening classes are December 11-17, inclusive. Finals for evening classes will be held during regular class time. Finals for Saturday classes will be given on December 13 during regular class time. Bronco Days Forms Due

Final preparations for Bronco Days, scheduled for Nov. 20 - 21 have been completed according to Dan Miller, chairman of the University and Community Affairs Committee, and all organizations planning to participate are urged to submit their applications no later than today in UC-314.

"A penalty of three points will be subtracted from team points for all late entries," he said.

In addition, he reminded all organizations to send one representative to a coordinating meeting on Nov. 18 in BA-110 during activity period to discuss rules and awards.

Campaigning for Bronco Queen candidates begins today and will continue through Nov. 20. Candidates will be presented during the games that day in front of the Science Building.

Activities will include a sack race, cow chip toss, cigar smoking contest, egg toss, root beer chug, tug of war, whipped cream pie eating contest and a three legged race.

Third period classes will be dismissed to allow students to participate in the Bronco Days celebration.

A coronation dance will take place Nov. 21 in the snack bar from 8-12 p.m., at which time the Bronco Queen will be crowned. Tumbleweed will provide entertainment and KBRM-104's Mad Mexican will serve as master of ceremonies.

Tickets for the dance can be picked up in UC-205. Admission will be $1 with a PAU I.D.

Biomedical Director Named

Alfonso J. (A. J.) Alamia, Jr., has assumed the directorship of a newly created biomedical sciences program at Pan American University, according to Dr. Miguel A. Nevarez, vice-president for student and university affairs.

The biomedical sciences program will assist up to 100 academically-talented students from low-income families to study for the biomedical sciences professions.

Alamia will work with ninth grade students from the school districts of Pharr-San Juan-Alamo, Edcouch-Elsa, La Joya, Edinburg, McAllen and Mission. He teaches evening courses in the school of social sciences at PAU. Prior to his employment as director, he was employed as assistant superintendent for the Rio Grande State Center for Mental Health and Mental Retardation (MH/MR) at Harlingen.

His other work experiences include psychologist and director of quality and standards for the MH/MR Center, Montessori teacher, psychological examiner and evaluator, assistant director of teachers for the Dallas Parent-Child Development Center, director for residential living for South Texas High School, and he has been a special consultant to the U.S. Office of Education.

Alamia earned his M.Ed. degree from PAU in guidance and counseling and a bachelor's degree from the University of Dallas, majoring in political philosophy and philosophy. He has a major in emotional disturbance and a minor in educational administration and is a Ph.D. candidate at the University of New Mexico.

Alamia resides in Edinburg with his wife, the former Diana del Toro, and three children, Liza, nine; Jennifer, two and a half, and Janelle, one and a half. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Alfonso J. Alamia, Sr., of Edinburg.

Campus Issues

Posting Grades

During each midterm of the semester, students are asked whether they want their grades posted. Students selected at random were asked "What is your viewpoint on having to sign a waiver for grades to be posted," and "do you think grades should be posted?" When grades are posted social security numbers, rather than memos are used.

IRENE LUNA,
McAllen,
Sophomore

"It makes no difference how many of the other classmates will know your grade. I don't think it is really necessary."

EDDIE EDWARDS
Corpus Christi
Beginning Freshman

"It is alright about the waiver because it's your choice and as long as it's by your social security number this is the best way."

DIONICIO VECCHIO
Pharr Sophomore

"I am glad the student has a chance of a choice. I am for posting of the grades, because it takes a while to get the your grades in the mail."

Health Services Offer Immunizations

"Immunizations are an important faction of the Health Services Department, and too many of the students are not up to date in their records of their immunizations," said Dora Castillo; RN for Student Health Services.

"If we were to advertise for the students to come in and receive their immunizations, then we would surely have an over fluctuation of students in the office seeking their aid. Instead, we check their rerecords as they come in for treatments. Then we tell them that they need a certain immunization," said Castillo.

During the fall semester of 1979, there were two definite cases of tuberculosis on campus. Due to this, a wide range of students who were supposedly contacted by these two cases were asked to come in to the Health Services office and receive a TB test. Since that time, the Health Service Department has initiated a program to immunize as many students as possible against such diseases.

During the summer semester of 1980, a total of 1,099 students were immunized. "When I first came here three years ago, there was an approximate seven percent of the students adequately immunized. Through this program, we have upgraded that percentage to near 20 percent," says Castillo. And we hope to increase it steadily as the program progresses."

It is stressed by the department that all students who wish to receive aid from the Health Service Department, must present an identification card stating that they are presently attending Pan Am. "We have had people come in off the street with colds, or who want some sort of service, but who are not attending Pan Am. They either have a brother, a sister, a wife of a cousin who is attending the university that referred him to the department," said Castillo. "If the student doesn't have an identification card for some reason or other, then he is requested to go to the registrar's office and to bring back some sort of pro-

Interview List

In addition to the November interview schedule that was published in last weeks issue, the following are scheduled:

On Nov. 17, Georgetown University Law School Center Washington will interview graduate students.

Nov. 18, Alvin ISD will interview those interested in elementary, bilingual, secondary and other education areas.

Also on Nov. 18-19, Crystal City ISD representatives will interview individuals interested in the areas of Pre-kindergarten (spanish/english); Kindergarten (bilingual); Elementary education (bilingual); Secondary English teachers (remedial reading); and Math curriculum coordinator Title I/Migrant program.

On Nov. 21, Booth Fisheries from Brownsville and Matamoros will talk to any bilingual accounting majors.

Nov. 24, San Antonio ISD will have interviews for elementary and secondary teachers.

Romulo Martinez, director of the Office of Career Planning, Placement, Testing and Cooperative Education, urges all students to drop by their office regularly to check on any changes in the interview schedule.

Applications Available

Pan American University has again been invited to participate in Mobil's "A Week in the Business World," according to Romulo Martinez, director of career planning, placement and testing. The student selected will have all expenses paid while spending a week in New York City.

Students will have an opportunity to see career opportunities, watch how a large corporation functions and find out what the education requirements are. Also, what the employment procedures are, a chance to learn interviewing techniques and talk to employees of who

"I feel this is a golden opportunity to explore the world of business and is also a chance for students to meet high ranking executives in a corporation," said Martinez. Students interested should come by immediately to the placement office to pick up forms and have them ready as Mobil's Representative C. A. Reinke, will be at the placement office Nov. 19 from 8:30 a.m.

-12:30 p.m. Requirements are that the applicant be a sophomore and majoring in business. The trip will take place on April 13-17. Applications are also available at the School of Business -220.

December Concert Schedule Set

The Pan American University-Valley Symphony Orchestra in cooperation with several Valley Churches is preparing a special pair of concerts for the December holiday season. The concerts designed around traditional Christmas music will be performed by the orchestra on Dec. 12 at 8 p.m. at the Mary Hoge Junior High School Auditorium and again on Dec. 13 at 3 in the afternoon at the Fine Arts Auditorium at Pan American University in Edinburg.

Orchestral works from secular and sacred works associated with Christmas will also be included on the program.

The concerts are presented by Pan American University in cooperation with the South Texas Symphony Association. The program for Dec. 13 has been scheduled for 3 p.m. in response to numerous requests for an afternoon performance. Last December's matinee was performed to a capacity crowd in the PAU auditorium. Tickets to both concerts will be available at the door for $2.50.

Professor Presents Paper To Council

Dr. Mark Glazer, associate professor of anthropology, department of behavioral sciences, presented a paper on Valley folklore at the Pacific Council of Latin American Studies meeting earlier this month in Laguna Beach, Calif.

The paper discussed the collecting methods utilized by Dr. Glazer and the Rio Grande Folklore Archive, and exemplified Valley folklore through a folk personage of major importance and complexity, La Muerte or Death.

The complexity of this personage ranges from folk beliefs to magic, and to folktales, Dr. Glazer said. It is, for example, believed that if a person encounters La Muerte that this person will die, and candles which represent her are utilized in regaining one's lost lover. It is, however, in folk tales that this character gains dimensions of major importance for Valley lore.

Dr. Glazer said there are four types of tales where this personage is found. Three of these are of European and one of Aztec backgrounds. The European tales include (1) Death Up a Tree, where death is stuck up on a tree and therefore no one dies on earth; (2) Death is Just, death treats everyone equally whether rich or poor and therefore deserves admiration; (3) Godmother Death, in which Death helps her Godchild's father to become a famous healer. He eventually disobeys her and dies.

The story which has an Aztec background is a narrative in which a man encounters a siren, e.g., La Matlasiwa, and is eventually killed by her. This story has been transformed to modern realities by having, usually, truck drivers encountering La Muerte or Death in stories with strong sexual overtones but usually no deaths at the end.

The Pacific Council of Latin American Studies is a major association in Latin American studies. This year's meeting was attended by scholars from universities from all parts of the United States.

Director Advises Students

Keeping in touch with as many employers as possible is the key to finding the right job, according to Romulo Martinez, director of Career Planning, Placement, and Testing at Pan American University. "Seniors should come by the Career Placement Office to look at the appointment book which lists all employers coming to PAU," Martinez advises.

Martinez stresses the importance of attending as many interviews as possible and encourages students to explore a field out of their major. Students should be asking employers what courses to take, what sort of job experience they prefer, and what sort of extra-curricular activities they encourage. Seniors should compile a portfolio of credentials which includes a data sheet, a resume, transcript and letters of reference.

Two hundred employers were brought to PAU last year. The interview dates are usually posted on campus bulletin boards, but Martinez advises students to check with the Career Placement Office as some interviews are planned too late to post.

"We believe a student shouldn't wait until their senior year," Martinez said. "Students should be attending Career Day and talking to employers beginning in their freshman year." The Career Placement Office has literature that students may use to read up on companies they are interested in.

Class Of '55 Seeks Missing Members

Twenty-eight persons are being sought to participate in the Feb. 7 reunion of the Class of 1955 of Pan American College, now Pan American University.

The reunion will be held in connection with the annual Homecoming celebration scheduled Feb. 7, 8 and 9 on the Edinburg campus. The '55 group will have a banquet on the night of Saturday, Feb. 7, in the university ballrooms.

Members of the planning committee are Eustolia Perez, Dan Sanfilippo and Lucille Fraim. They asked that anyone knowing the whereabouts of the "missing" persons call the PAU Alumni Association office, 381-2500.

Those being sought are: La Vada P. Akridge; Aida Barrera, Lorraine E. Bruneman, Carl Detweiler, Earl Diehl, Guadalupe T. Esparza, Rozella Ferguson, Patricia Fitzgerald, Beatrice Ida Garza, Nerea Garza, Lois Hopkins, Myrtle Lindero, Ma. del Refugio L. Ramirez and Beulah Mason.

Also: Andreina Muniz, Francis Parrott, Gloria Jean Perry, George Pool, Hermelinda Saenz, Maria E. Saenz, Maryan Stagg, C. J. Stansberry, Corene Stanford, Elizabeth Storey, Estella Valdez, Hazel Weatherby, Ella Duke Whiteley and Mary Louise Wolfe.

Movie Review

By SANDRA BARBOSA

Eric Binford's mind can no longer hold back the anger, frustration and sadness life has thrown at him. Since he is too shy to fight back physically, his mind takes over. It causes Eric to blackout and become other people who can take revenge.

'Fade to Black' is the story of Eric Binford. He lives with a woman who refuses to admit she is his mother, but instead has Eric call her Aunt Stella. His boss and his co-workers treat him like a moron who cannot do anything right. The girl whom he likes does not show up for their first date.

Eric finally cracks. He kills his aunt in a fit of anger after his failed date with a Marilyn Monroe look-a-like. The accident causes Eric to take his revenge.

Artistic masterpieces can only describe the characters into which Eric transforms himself. As Dracula, Eric stalks a prostitute who made fun of him. When she falls and impales a fence stake through her neck, he savors her blood. Hopalong Cassidy guns down a punk co-worker in a gun fight while the mummy frightens the boss into dying of a heart attack. Each costume along with the makeup is better and better than the one before.

Dennis Christopher plays the frustrated Eric Binford. Having won rave reviews for his part in the movie 'Breaking Away,' Christopher continues to show the outstanding versatility that has made him an acclaimed actor. His role in this movie was so convincing that it left several audience members in tears at the end.

Co-starring with Christopher is Linda Kerridge, a newcomer from Australia. She recently appeared on NBC in the movie 'Diary of a Young Comic,' but 'Fade to Black' marks her debut in American motion pictures.

Her part in the movie is made realistic by her incredible likeness to the late Marilyn Monroe. As Marilyn O'Connor, Miss Kerridge is a struggling model who finds Eric attractive.

Even though they like each other, Marilyn and Eric just cannot seem to get together. This causes Eric to lose the last strand that holds him to sanity.

The movie gets bloody at times, but the focus on Eric is played up more. 'Fade to Black' is the story of Eric Binford's life and the tragedies that cause and come from it.

'FADE TO BLACK'--Dennis Christopher portrays Eric Binford in 'Fade To Black.' Eric wears his Humphrey Bogart outfit while he watches old movies.

LRC Displays Paraphernalia

A display featuring slides, costumes, props and other paraphernalia from past theater productions at Pan American University is currently featured in the lobby of the PAU Learning Resource Center.

Elaborate costumes from the restoration play "Country Wife" are being shown as well as posters and news clippings from past and present productions.

The display kicks off this year's new "Live and Lively" season for the PAU theater department. Productions this season include Ben Johnson's "Volpone", Nov. 19-22; the Katherine Hepburn Film Festival, Dec. 10-12, and "The Mikado", Feb. 18-21, all in the fine arts auditorium.

The display will continue through December, and may be seen during library hours.

OPPORTUNITIES WITH THE VICTORIA PUBLIC SCHOOLS

The public schools in Victoria, Texas, will have a limited number of vacancies for the 1981-82 school year. Interviews will be conducted on the Pan American University campus at the placement office on November 19. Interested parties should contact the placement office for an interview time.

The Victoria schools have a good salary schedule, provide free hospitalization and life insurance, and offer excellent facilities in which to work.

Physician Likes Young People

"You've got to understand young people and you've got to like to associate with them."

These are the words of Dr. Theodore I. Gandy, who is in contact with young people as medical consultant to the Student Health Services at Pan American University in Edinburg. His work in health programs took him to South America and Egypt before he retired and moved to the Valley.

In 1975, Dr. Gandy retired as director of student health at the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee, a school of 28,000 students. He developed the health services there from those of a physician and two nurses to a full staff and health care facilities including x-rays, an infirmary and laboratory work.

When he came to the Valley, he looked in at Pan Am to see whether he could help, and was asked to improve health services at the university, which at that time had only a nurse and part-time help of a psychiatrist. Dr. Gandy sees student patients Tuesday and Thursday afternoons and Wednesday mornings, but is on call 24 hours a day. Two nurses are on duty each school day.

Student health service is designed to take care of acute illnesses, he said, such as sore throats, influenza and ear infections. More serious cases are referred to their private physicians, or sent out for further treatment and hospitalization if necessary. The service also provides various injections to prevent diseases, such as diphtheria, tetanus, and oral polio vaccine. Health education is a very important part of the service too, Dr. Gandy said.

Dr. Gandy feels that giving reassurance that a condition, whatever it might be, is not serious "can prevent what could be a very major mental block. It gives them help in carrying on their studies."

He said the students are assured that "everything is absolutely confidential. We are very free and frank. We give the facts and try not to moralize."

Dr. Gandy said many of the students have problems at home, but they can talk out their troubles with the doctor and the two nurses, Mrs. Dora Castillo, health service coordinator, and Mrs. Sandra Middlebrook, staff nurse.

"To my knowledge; we haven't had a suicide in the course of the center. They can come in and talk, and we stay with them until we can help them," he said.

The two nurses "are invaluable part of Student Health Services in working with the students. They are charged with carrying out health education, giving counseling and emergency aid, administering skin tests and injections," he added.

PAU officials are distressed over the fact that Dr. Gandy is contemplating retiring from the health service. "We are very concerned," said Dr. Gilberto de los Santos, PAU dean of students, "because he will leave great void. He is a very dedicated man. He sees the students as individuals and has helped hundreds of them."

Dr. Gandy hopes that the service some day can be expanded to provide X-rays, laboratory work, and more equipment, and that it might be able to provide medication for students who cannot afford to have prescriptions filled elsewhere.

The PAU physician obtained his M.D. degree from Howard University in Washington, D.C., in 1929 and went into private practice in Detroit. He then became chief surgeon for the Cerro de Pasco Copper Corporation in Peru, at 14,500 feet above sea level, in 1935. He directed the medical program for 20,000 copper mine workers. He then joined the International Petroleum Company in Talara, Peru, in that company's industrial health and safety program.

During World War II, the U.S. government called on him to help with the health programs in the Amazon basin, which was then the principal source of supply for natural rubber. He became director of the Amazon program of the Institute of Inter-American Affairs, and helped establish health centers and services for the control of leprosy and malaria. He then moved to Chile, and was country director of all programs for the institute for 10 years, helping to combat tuberculosis and the high infant mortality rate.

His next job was in Egypt in 1953, where he worked in health care programs for five years for the U.S. International Cooperation Administration. He established the Egyptian-American Joint Committee for Public Health, in cooperation with the U.S. and Egyptian governments. His next appointment in 1957 was in Cairo as liaison manager of the Sahara Petroleum Company, and also was medical director, dealing with transportation of food and water across the desert.

Returning to the United States in 1958, Dr. Gandy became medical director for the total health program for employees of the Nordberg Manufacturing Company in Milwaukee. From there, he went to the University of Wisconsin to be director of student health from 1968 until he retired in 1974 and moved to the Valley.

During the time he lived in Chile, Dr. Gandy was presented the Order of

Faculty Members Appointed To Board

Professors John Abraham and Sister Marian Strohmeyer have been appointed to the Board of Directors of McAllen Methodist Hospital. Both Abraham and Strohmeyer are members of the Pan American University faculty, Division of Health Related Professions and active in Valley and community health affairs.

Abraham has been very active in the promotion of medical technology education at the local state and national levels. Mr. Abraham's dedication to the improvement of health care is demonstrated by his active participation as a member of the Sub-Area Council for the South Texas Health Systems Agency.

Sister Strohmeyer has been involved in the development of programs enhancing health care for a number of years. She directed the Health Planning Advisory Committee for the Lower Rio Grande Valley Development Council prior to coming to Pan American University. She presently serves in the Sub Area Council and Project Review Committee for the South Texas Health Systems Agency.

Archives Draw National Attention

The American Folklore Society Archiving Section Newsletter has asked a Pan American University professor to write an article on his methods of collecting and classifying folklore materials.

Dr. Mark Glazer, associate professor of anthropology at Pan Am, recently read a paper at the American Folklore Society meeting on the collecting and classification methods used in the Rio Grande Folklore Archive in PAU's department of behavioral sciences. The techniques drew the attention of the American Folklore Society Archiving Section in being both innovative and research-oriented.

Dr. Glazer said the Rio Grande Folklore Archive has been developed on the basis of a lore collection survey and has 22,215 items. All but 223 of these items are from Mexican-American lore. The archive was established July 30, 1977, in the PAU department of behavioral sciences and is research-oriented in its methods of collecting and classification.

Dr. Glazer said collecting is done on questionnaire forms, such as riddle-collecting forms and folktale-collecting forms. Different types of folklore are collected each semester, such as riddles one semester and proverbs another. The survey yields about 3,500 items a semester, he said.

Four archivists are currently working at the archive with three more to be hired in the next few weeks and another two later, Dr. Glazer said. The collection will be computerized early next year through a grant from the National Science Foundation and a grant from the PAU Research Council. Dr. Glazer said this will allow the archivists to do detailed work on demographic and contextual information and "will also open new possibilities in folklore research."

Dr. Gandy lives in McAllen with his wife, Betty, a native of Argentina, whose father was in the British Diplomatic Service. She was reared in Chile, and was visiting a friend in Cerro de Pasco, Peru, when she and the doctor met. They were married in 1937. Mrs. Gandy is a member of the Pan American Round Table of McAllen and the McAllen Garden Club.

THE BRONCS ARE BACK--The basketball Broncs are back, and Pan American University's ballclub will open its season at 7:25 p.m. Friday in Edinburg against the University of Windsor, Canada. Kneeling are Assistant Coach Kelly Bass, Curtis Glasper, Thad Wilkinson, Mike Carroll, Kim Owen, Rueben Cole and John McDowell, the other assistant coach. Standing are Trainer Jim Lancaster, Robert Kirby, Tim McGrath, Paul George, Kenneth (Apple) Green, Mark Frazier, Alan Martin, Clinton Cobb and Coach Bill White.

Tip-off Time Change

Basketball fans who faithfully show up at 8 p.m. Friday to watch Pan American's University's season opener will get a big surprise:

Pan Am has switched the starting times of all its 15 home games to 7:25 p.m.

White Shadows Players For Possible Line-up

A year ago, the Pan American Broncs began their season by blasting Simon Fraser University of British Columbia by the decisive score of 117-85.

First games, particularly international ones, can be deceptive. If the Simon Fraser game score last year raised hopes of a high scoring Broncs team, the starting lineup remains uncertain, though nine different Broncs have cracked the first five lineup during intra-squad scrimmages. Who actually starts the games this season probably won't matter much; the Broncs look well balanced.

Having nine men who are potential starters illustrates that PAU has more depth than usual.

To meet the firepower potential, White can choose among eight lettermen and four newcomers as he experiments with new lineups. Four senior starters will return as will four other lettermen plus a former redshirt who practiced with the Broncs last season but is just now eligible to play as a junior, and three promising newcomers.

The entire concept of who starts and who doesn't may not matter this season. Sometimes the Broncs have stuck with same five starters all season as they have done the last 10 years under three different coaches. Other times, just six or seven men were judged good enough to start.

because the Broncs figure usual into the minutes to weave more men than played column.

hopes proved unfounded, the Broncs never scored more than 91 points in the 19 games they won and the nine they lost.

However, the Broncs may get some idea of comparative firepower because the U. of Windsor Lancers will visit the University Saturday night.

Introducing The Pan American Basketball Broncs

Rueben Cole could play all five basketball positions, a versatility few men can match. Cole actually will be playing three or four different sports at times for Pan Am this season. A pure shooter, Cole might find a spot at shooting guard, yet he leaps so well, he could play up front too. Cole averaged 6.9 points and 2.3 rebounds and finished the season shooting 50.3 per cent.

His statistics show an average of 4.7 points and 2.1 rebounds. He was erratic at times his junior year, but when Paul George was hot, he was the team," says one scouting report. "He's a big play man, who makes the flashy sort of plays which can be good and bad. But he can give the team a definite lift."

Next to a big man, what every basketball team needs most is a "glue man." Nearly always, the point guard performs this role. He runs the offense, directs traffic, passes to the open man, restarts the play when something goes wrong. Just as important, he generals the defense. he tries to prevent enemy fast breaks and if he is caught as the 1 during a 2-on-1 fast break, he does his best to break it up without fouling or allowing a goal.

"(Tim) McGrath is a fundamentally sound player who can play two spots up front," says one scouting report. "He's a good passer, an unselfish team player who like to win. He doesn't shoot much but if you lay off him, he can beat you." McGrath averaged 5.7 points and 5.9 rebounds which seem small, but McGrath showed his true worth in other department boasting 89 assists which ranked third on the team behind the two regular guards.

Cross Country Team Compete In District 6 Championship Run

"If we ran up to our absolute maximum, we might make it as a team," said head cross country coach Jimmy Skaines of the 10,000 meter run at the NCAA District 6 Championships in Georgetown Saturday. "We'll try to run like a stalk of bananas--all in a bunch. We've had a good cross country season. This meet could make it a great one."

Up to 15 teams and more than 100 runners, all from NCAA Division I universities in Texas and Arkansas will compete. The top three teams, plus the best four individuals not on the qualifying teams will advance to the NCAAA Nationals on Nov. 24.

Pan Am's team never has qualified for the NCAA Nationals in cross country, however, Skaines has coached three individuals to the nationals: Juan Garza, Eddie Guzman and Chris Storm all made it during the 1970s.

The Broncs have hopes at Georgetown because in October they upset Texas, Texas A&M and Texas A&I to win the Westlake Invitational near Austin.

"The Arkansas Razorbacks are definitely the team to beat," Skaines said, "They have won District 6 for six years in a row, and they just won the Southwest Conference easily. The other top teams have been Baylor, Houston and Texas."

Pan Am's best time so far in the 10,000 meters belongs to Peder Poulsen from Sweden with a time of 32:25.

The other Bronc runners Saturday will be Richard Garcia, Ricky de la Cruz, Magnus Carlegrim, Armando Reyna, Mario Sanchez and Paul Vega.

LADY BRONCS--The Pan American University Lady's Basketball team started the season with a win against Shrimmer College 71-51. The team, however, established a 1-1 record Monday night when the Texas A&I team stole the game in the last seconds of the game 62-58.

Former Students To Speak To Pre-Law Society

A panel of three former PAU students who are now practicing attorneys will address the Pre-Law Society. The panel will meet Nov. 18 during activity period in LA-101.

The panelists include George Almaraz-University of Houston Law School, Ciro Ochoa-St. Mary's Law School and Scott McLain-UT Law School. They will speak about their experiences in law school and the discipline necessary to be a law school student.

Professor Presents Illustrated Lecture

Professor Hubert J. Miller the Department of History will present an illustrated lecture on the José Escandón colonization project of Nuevo Santander, which today includes the Mexican state of Tamaulipas and Laredo to the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

The lecture will be the second in a series sponsored by Laredo Jr. College and devoted to the history of the Laredo area. The lecture will focus on the work of Escandón during the late 1740's and early 1750's during which time Escandón founded most of the settlements in Nuevo Santander. Historians of Mexico's northern frontier have characterized the work of Escandón as one of the the greatest colonization expeditions in the western hemisphere in terms of the number of settlers and towns founded.

PE Club To Meet

The Health, Physical Education and Recreation Club will meet today during activity period in PE-112. The club picture for the yearbook will be taken and then will be a discussion on the state convention in San Antonio next month.

Bronc Bulletins

Journal Accepts Review

A book review on China's four modernizations by Kuo-Wei Lee, Political Science Department faculty member, had been accepted and will appear in the August 1981 issue of The Journal of Politics, a leading journal in political science.

Dr. Lee's article on Behavioralism In American Political Science appears in the December 1979 issue of The National Chengchi University Journal. The article reviews the development of behavioralism in American political science discipline, then analysis the action oriented post-behaviorallism. The author points out that post-behavioralists have been absorbed in the main stream of political science-behavioralism, and the main lines of development in the political science will continue.

Special Poetry Contest

A $1,000 grand prize will be awarded in the special poetry competition sponsored by World of Poetry, a quarterly newsletter for poets.

Poems of all styles and on any subject are eligible to compete for the grand prize or for 49 other cash or merchandise awards, totaling over $10,000.

Says Contest Chairman, Joseph Mellon, "We are encouraging poetic talent of every kind, and expect our contest to produce exciting discoveries."

Rules and official entry forms are available from the World of Poetry, 2431, Stockton, Dept. N. Sacramento, California 95817.
