Wednesday 3rd July

Venue: UNDA NDB11-101

12:30pm – 1:30pm

Presenter:

Ms Ariadne Goring (Atlantic Fellow for Social Equity, Melbourne University)

Abstract

Ariadne Goring, Atlantic Fellow for Social Equity with Melbourne University, will share her experience of the Atlantic Fellowship program and explore what it means to be a social change leader in these times of uncertainty, complexity and ambiguity. Together we'll discover what we bring to the table that enables or hinders change and reflect on what it means to empower voice, treaty and truth in a way that unites us with ourselves and others as a pathway towards a healed nation.

Biography

Ariadne has been a part of the Kimberley Land Council team for the past 20 years, with extensive experience in cultural and natural resource management, land rights and Indigenous governance. She is passionate about collaborating with diverse stakeholders to deliver innovative Indigenous owned enterprises that nurture people, country and culture. During her fellowship year, with Atlantic Fellows for Social Equity, Ari explored the opportunity to build a global network that connects people and communities passionate about placed based economies.
