We are pleased to present the eleventh volume of the University of Massachusetts Occasional Papers in Linguistics (UMOP). This volume contains eleven papers dealing with current issues in Chinese, Japanese, and Korean. The idea of compiling such a special volume arose when we were preparing for the Workshop on Oriental Linguistics held at UMass/Amherst in May 1985. Some of the papers in this volume were presented at the workshop and others were not. All the papers submitted for this volume were reviewed, in keeping with the editorial policies of this series.

We are extremely grateful not only to the contributors but also to more than twenty fellow linguists who kindly acted as reviewers.
