ABOUT PEACE AND CONFLICT STUDIES (PCS)

Peace and Conflict Studies (PCS--ISSN1082-7307) is committed to interdisciplinary explorations on conflict resolution, peace building, humanitarian assistance, and other alternative mechanisms that seek to prevent and control violence. PCS is also interested in articles focusing on social change and nonviolence: sustainable development, ecological balance, community revitalization, reflective practice, action research, social justice, human rights, gender equality, intercultural relations, grassroots movements and organizational transformations. Manuscripts may address various human experiences, social issues, and policy agendas that are connected to the research literature, practice, and experiential learning in the fields. As a semiannual academic journal, PCS is published in both print and online formats (<http://shss.nova.edu/pcs/>). The online version contains author names and their paper abstracts. Views expressed in articles and other contributions that appear in PCS may not necessarily reflect endorsement by the Editorial Board or Staff. PCS provides opportunities and forums for dialogs over various ideas, assessments, recommendations, and critiques.

Peace and Conflict Studies is indexed and/or abstracted in Peace Research Abstracts Journal, Public Affairs Information Service, Sociological Abstracts, ERIC, Psychological Abstracts, PsychINFO, Political Science Manuscripts, International Political Science Abstracts and Worldviews.

About the Authors

Elena Bastidas is an Assistant Professor of conflict resolution and environmental studies in the Department of Conflict Analysis and Resolution at NSU. She earned her Ph.D. and M.S. in food and resource economics with a specialization in agricultural development and gender analysis from the University of Florida. A native of Ecuador, she was a co-principal investigator of a John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation grant for training and capacity building in the protected areas of Ecuador and Colombia. She has been involved in conflict analysis and resolution via the conservation of biodiversity and development. Email: bastidas@nova.edu

Lee-Anne Broadhead is Chair and Associate Professor of political science at Cape Breton University in Canada. She is the author of International Environmental Politics: The Limits of Green Diplomacy (Lynne Rienner, 2002) and has published widely on peace and security issues, as well as on the social and political consequences of globalization, in such journals as British Journal of Canadian Studies, International Journal, Canadian Woman Studies/les cahiers de la femme, Peace Magazine and others. She previously taught in the Department of Peace Studies, University of Bradford, U.K. Email: LeeAnne_Broadhead@cbu.ca

Sean Byrne is Professor and founding Director of the doctoral program in peace and conflict studies, and founding executive director of the Arthur V. Mauro Centre for Peace and Justice at St. Paul's College at the University of Manitoba. He has published in the areas of third party intervention, ethnic conflict analysis and resolution, and children and conflict. He is a co-recipient of research grants from the USIP and SSHRC to explore the role of economic assistance in building the peace dividend in Northern Ireland. Email: Sean_Byrne@umanitoba.ca

Michael R. Fowler is Associate Professor in the Department of Political Science, and former founding Director of the Muhammad Ali Institute of Peacemaking and Conflict Resolution, University of Louisville. Email: michael.fowler@louisville.edu

Carlos Gonzalez is one of the founders of The Foundation for the Conservation and Protection of Natural Resources of South of Valle del Cauca Department (FUNECOROBLES). He is a recognized leader of the community of Robles and his accomplishments include the coordination of projects in the areas of education, community construction of knowledge, management of wetlands and organic farming. He also coordinates planning process of natural resources with the communities of Timba, Robles, Chagres, Quinamayo Y Villapaz, south of Valley del Couca and north of Cauca department.

Ankica Kotic is a Lecturer in the Faculty of Psychology, University of Rome “La Sapienza”. In the period 2006 - 2008 she was a Senior Marie Curie Research Fellow at the European Research Centre, Kingston University, U.K. In previous years she worked as a Research Fellow at the European University Institute, Italy, where she was involved in a number of large scale research projects. Her research concerns the issues of immigrant integration, inter-group relationships, stereotypes and prejudice, and the process of reconciliation in post-conflict societies. Email: anna.kotic@uniroma1.it; anna.kotic@gmail.com

Sara Parker, Ph.D. is a Lecturer at California State University, East Bay, and Program Coordinator of undergraduate humanities and sciences at California College of the Arts. She spent eight weeks in Vukovar, Croatia in 2005 studying and researching post-conflict reconciliation. Her dissertation and prior work has examined the increasing popularity of truth commissions over the last several decades; her current research focuses more specifically on adaptive uses of the truth commission model. Email: sara.parker@csueastbay.edu

Jessica Senehi is Assistant Professor in the doctoral program in peace and conflict studies, and Associate Director of the Arthur V. Mauro Centre for Peace and Justice at St. Paul’s College at the University of Manitoba. Email: Jessica_Senehi@umanitoba.ca

Pauline Tennent recently completed an M.Sc. in the global movements, social justice and sustainability program at the University of Glasgow. She now coordinates the Canada-European Union HRSDC student mobility program in the Mauro Centre. Email: Pauline_Tennent@umanitoba.ca
