

Hieroglyphics: the NSU University School Literary Magazine

Volume 18 Mosaic

Article 57

5-1-2012

Tale of Bron-Y-Aur

Alexandra Pushkin
NSU University School

Follow this and additional works at: http://nsuworks.nova.edu/uschool_litmag

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Citation

Pushkin, Alexandra (2012) "Tale of Bron-Y-Aur," Hieroglyphics: the NSU University School Literary Magazine: Vol. 18, Article 57.
Available at: http://nsuworks.nova.edu/uschool_litmag/vol18/iss1/57

This Poem is brought to you for free and open access by the University School at NSUWorks. It has been accepted for inclusion in Hieroglyphics: the NSU University School Literary Magazine by an authorized administrator of NSUWorks. For more information, please contact nsuworks@nova.edu.

Tale of Bron-Y-Aur
by: Alexandra Pushkin

Through dark wood
and evergreen leaves,
where the trees once stood,
lies a path where the wind weaves
and carries your name,
past the sun and the moon
and down that country lane, singing that same old tune.

It carries your soul,
it brings your smile,
it keeps Mother Nature whole for the longest while.

A great story many times told,
with the wind your spirit goes.
Even when you grow a little old,
or your tail wagging slows,
your dim eyes will shine through all those trees and your song, so fine,
will be carried in the breeze.