

Boise State University

ScholarWorks

The Idea of Nature Public Lecture Series

Interdisciplinary Explorations

2-17-2022

Weather Report: The Climate of Now (Flyer)

Terry Tempest Williams
Harvard Divinity School

Thomas Cole (1801-1848). View from Mount Holyoke, Northampton, Massachusetts, after a Thunderstorm - The Oxbow. 1836. Oil on canvas, 51 1/2 x 76 1/2 in. (130.8 x 193 cm). Gift of Mrs. Russell Sage, 1908 (08.228). The Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, NY, U.S.A. Photo Credit: Image copyright © The Metropolitan Museum of Art. Image source: Art Resource, NY

Interdisciplinary
Explorations

The Idea of Nature

PUBLIC LECTURE SERIES
SPRING 2022

Thursday, February 17, 2022 • 6 PM

This lecture will be held virtually by Zoom.

REGISTRATION REQUIRED:

To register, email ideaofnature@boisestate.edu and a Zoom link will be emailed to you before the lecture.

“Weather Report: The Climate of Now”

Terry Tempest Williams

Author and Writer-in-residence at Harvard Divinity School

What used to be small talk is now survival. Talking about the weather is at the heart of where we are and who we are becoming in this climate crisis. When we hear that the world is on fire, those of us living in the American West understand this not as metaphor but fact. Terry Tempest Williams will address this moment in time as we think about what it means to live and love with a broken heart. Now is the time to face the what is, not what once was as we find the strength to not look away. Finding beauty in a broken world is creating beauty in the world we find together.

College of Arts and Sciences
College of Business
College of Education
Department of Philosophy
Environmental Studies
Graduate College
Hemingway Literary Center
Osher Lifelong Learning Institute
School of Public Service

