and . . .

An INVITATION TO CALLERS The West Coast Caller's School is proud to present a Special 5-Day

CALLER'S COURSE

Lee Helsel, veteran caller, recording artist and member of The Sets in Order American Square Dance Society's Hall of Fame, has been an outstanding caller-coach and conductor of Caller's courses for many years. His return to Asilomar this Summer as director of The West Coast Caller's School will provide a limited number of qualified men and women the opportunity of learning the art of calling under the best possible conditions. The various techniques of calling will be presented and each caller-participant will have an opportunity to call for personal evaluation. Size of the class will be limited so that sufficient time will allow for individual coaching. Other members of the Asilomar faculty will assist with lectures, etc.

Those accepted will be considered as participants in the regular Asilomar Program and will take part in the first two dance sessions each morning and the evening party dances. During the balance of each morning and the entire afternoon the callers will be at work in their own classroom.

Send for the free, illustrated brochure and application form.

Dear Editor:

Thank you so much for publishing our letter in the January issue of SQUARE DANC-ING. The callers who used the 75 Basics only and did such a fabulous job were Jack Livingston, Lucille Graf, Don Hanhurst, Bob Jaffray, Deuce Williams, Kip Garvey, Ed Fraidenburg, Dana Blood, Allen Ogilvie, Stan Burdick, Dick Leger and Dick Fleming. It's surprising how many of the "latest and greatest" were called – but all directional so that all could dance them.

Dear Editor:

The Terceira Twirlers are on an island 800 miles off the coast of Portugal. Dennis Scott is our President and Dick Clements is club caller.

. . . The tour on this island is between fifteen months and five years so we have people leaving at all times. Also it is possible to go Stateside at any time. We want to keep our square dancers on the top of everything new and what is going on at home. There is a slight problem of new dancers not realizing how big square dancing is and that there is more than one club in one area. Telling them does some good but (Please turn to page 47)

FLASHES FROM THE NATIONAL: Latest figures received from the folks at Salt Lake City indicate that over 8,750 square and round dancers have registered for the big event... Local hotels and motels apparently have not realized the urgency of sending out room confirmations and as a result the rumor has spread that there are no rooms available. This is definitely NOT the case. A great many rooms are available within a 21 block area of the Salt Palace. Bus service will also be supplied for those staying at locations not in close proximity to the Convention Hall.

POSTAL RATES DUE FOR ANOTHER HIKE? Now may be a good time to write your Congressman. Postal rates appear to be scheduled for another increase. A rumored 127% increase in Second Class Mail could have an effect on square dance magazines as well as on other publications. An increase in First Class and other rates will work hardships on clubs and associations in their efforts to publicize forthcoming events. Your interest will help to hold the line.

BEER COMMERCIAL UPDATE: At press time no definite word on stand to be taken by Jackson Brewers relative to their already produced but not yet released square dance commercial. Rumors that they may deep-six the whole thing have not yet been confirmed. Those wishing may write to Chairman of the Board, Mr. Ben D. Sisson, Jackson Brewery, 620 Decatur Street, New Orleans, Louisiana 70130.

SCHOLARSHIPS 1973: If you're interested in making application for a scholarship to a callers' college, better get your request for information in now as applications are being received and processed at the present time.... There are a number of callers' courses scheduled for this coming summer. Here is the list of those we have been apprised of:

July 15-19. Dance Ranch, Estes Park, Colorado July 15-20; Aug. 5-10. Promenade Hall, Merrillville, Indiana July 22-29. House of Roth, Clementsport, Nova Scotia, Canada

July 22-27. SIOASDS Asilomar, Pacific Grove, California

July 22-27; Aug. 12-17, 19-24. Cal Golden, Hot Springs, Ark.

Aug. 19-23. Brundage-Johnston, East Hill Farm, Troy, N. H.

TRAINING MATERIAL

By JAY KING

LEARN REAL HASH CALLING

With the Jay King method, you'll get results the first day whether you've been calling 10 weeks or 10 years! Learn hash calling via book or tape.

The method is taught in THE FUNDAMENTALS OF HASH CALLING, 275 pages, 39 chapters, hundreds of diagrams. Takes you all the way. You'll find yourself moving ahead faster than you thought possible.

$8.95 postpaid ($9.95 in Canada)

The same method is also taught on four tapes, available on cassettes or 7-inch reels. A booklet with complete diagrams accompanies each tape.

Cost of each tape is $5 95 postpaid.

TEACH NEW DANCERS

This professional teaching manual is for both neophytes and experienced teachers. Lessons progress logically from the known to the new. Teach 10, 30, or even 50 lessons. Teach 20-40-60-even 100 basics. The material and teaching techniques are in the book—all between one set of covers. Order HOW TO TEACH MODERN SQUARE DANCING (253 pages).

$8.95 postpaid ($9.95 in Canada)

KEEP CURRENT AND KNOWLEDGEABLE

Jay King's monthly notes, HASHING IT OVER, are the most useful and usable ever devised for today's club caller. Each issue has workshop material; challenge material; a "Top Tip" built around a theme; zeros and equivalents; discussions of square dance topics in "The Hash House"; a Caller Clinic; varied presentations of standard material; and diagrams of all new figures.

$9.95 for 12 monthly issues

IMPROVE SKILLS AND TECHNIQUE VIA TAPE

Caller training sessions on the following subjects (each numbered item represents one tape): 1) Zero Movements and Equivalents; 2) Fitting Figures to Singing Calls; 3) Set-Ups and Get-Outs; 4) Two Ladies Chain Rules; 5) Patter and Timing Development; 6) First Night of Class; 7) Caller Clinic Tape (containing parts of #1, #2, #3 and #5).

Cost of each tape is $5.95 postpaid (Mass. residents add 3%)

FIVE-TIP TAPES FOR DANCERS AND CALLERS

I've taped over 100 tips as an aid to callers on how to teach and workshop new material and how to get variety from club level figures. These tapes are also of tremendous value to dancers who want extra home practice. You choose any five tips from the list and I'll send you a reel or cassette that has on it the exact five you've chosen. Send for complete list of available tips.

Cost of each Five-Tip Tape is $4.95.

It has been reported that such a dragon is lurking in some club corners at this very moment. Oddly enough he goes by the name of "set-up squares." Unfortunately his fire already has scorched many at dances where he has appeared but fortunately it has served to alert others to his danger.

What is meant by a set-up square? This does not refer to eight persons who during an evening decide they would enjoy dancing together and so arrange at such and such a time to fill out a set. No, indeed. There is nothing casual about the set-up square. This group finds itself together on purpose. The least offensive (if that is possible) is the group of eight (or groups of eight) which goes to a dance or a festival together and never, never dances with anyone else. They deliberately walk onto the floor together in eights. They by-pass squares which indicate the need for more couples.

Then there is the trend in some areas to preprogram an evening from one night to the next. Dancers, with no interest in mixing at all, decide who they will dance with, when they will dance with them and where on the floor they will meet. They let others know, generally in no uncertain words, that they are not welcome in their square.

What is happening as a result of this? Most obvious is the fact that friendliness and interaction among everyone attending a dance is not only missing but a certain grimness and a definite separation exists.

Why have these set-up squares come into being? There are several possible explanations. Let's take a look at some of them. At times, when beginners or newly graduated square dancers venture forth into the shiny new world of club and hoedown dances, they may feel a bit timid. Concern about knowing all the movements or fear of breaking down a square may tend to keep them together. However, we question that this truly leads to set-up squares. The vast majority of the square dancing populace tends to look brotherly upon the neophyte and more often than not enjoys helping out in a square; offers to split up partners and encourages newer dancers to join in a square during the evening. Logically, of course, a new dancer will not leap from his sixth night of beginning class into an experienced club and expect to be taken under everyone's wing but he can look forward to club dancing when he is ready for it.

Another possible explanation of set-up squares is the group that travels together from one club to another or to a large square dance event. Feeling comfortable with one's friends may unconsciously dictate a desire to stay together. But what a wonderful world of new friends awaits them if they'll only be willing to take that first step away from their own square of acquaintances and into that set across the hall. Literally thousands of close friendships have had their beginning in this very manner. A dancer may need to take himself by the mental shoulders and shake himself out of a sense of comfortable lethargy so that he will literally extend an arm out from the shoulder and shake hands with someone he's never met before and ask if he'd like to square up. As the well-worn phrase goes, "Try it; you'll like it."

Standardization Enters In

There is yet another reason for many set-up squares and it is a term that all callers know well and one which dancers should not overlook. That word is standardization. When dancers learn to dance they should be able to square dance anywhere in the world. Modern public address systems, fast transportation, square dance publications have made us one large family. For years and years, dedicated square dancers have worked so that people may dance together regardless of where they meet. When individual callers or individual dancers take it upon themselves to teach or to learn square dance figures in some fashion other than that accepted by the majority of dancers, clubs, callers and associations, they are making a getting together of all dancers difficult. In addition they are setting themselves apart. Some people like to do this and they are kindly called extroverts. Some people don't know any better and they are kindly called sheep. Some people do know better and they cause problems.

A familiar set-up square on some floors is made up largely of people who do figures differently. Notice the word differently—not better. As a defense, other square dancers have started setting up squares so they can dance figures in the style accepted and taught by the vast majority of the square dance world.

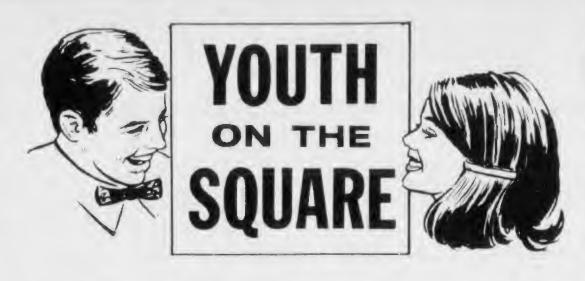

While it is true that some callers go along with this practice of setting up squares, the majority do not. They are faced with a serious problem—how to overcome the situation without offending many of their dancers and, yes, without offending some of their fellow callers. In many cases the caller feels that he is hired just to call a dance and it is not his prerogative to tell dancers how, where, and with whom they should dance.

As they conduct beginner classes, part of the callers' responsibility is to allow the dancers to experience the fun that is square dancing; to express that square dancing is a friendly activity; to teach that it should never be exclusive. It must be discouraging to have these friendly and fun-loving dancers leave the shelter of the class and see them fall under some misguided influence with the result that they forget all of this careful teaching.

In some areas callers have used mixers during the middle of the evening, after the squares have been set up and a few figures have been called, to separate the dancers. Another suggestion is the use of Contras. It should be a simple matter for a fairly experienced caller to move the dancers from squares into Contra lines.

Those who reject the practice of setting up squares sometimes feel that the caller has abdicated his responsibilities. It is their feeling that a caller can and should voice his opinion on this or any other practice which he feels is detrimental to the activity. After all, he is a leader. Perhaps a re-education of all dancers in the beliefs of the true spirit of square dancing should be a four-fold obligation among callers, dancers, club officers and associations.

How does your club stack up in regards to set-up squares? Already there have been recorded the demise of some clubs due entirely to set-up squares. Fortunately groups experimenting with such squares are in the minority but what a shame to lose one dancer, let alone several clubs, to a fire-breathing dragon. Interesting to note is that said dragon dissolves when plied with friendliness, interest beyond self, concern for all, cooperation and joy. Don't let him stay around your club.

JUNIOR JAMBOREE

Over 200 boys and girls from a dozen elementary and junior high schools in Orange County, California, participated in a Level 1 Jamboree at the Dysinger School in Buena Park in December. This dance, the first of its kind in California, was the direct result of an extension course in Physical Education taught by Bob Ruff. Teachers in this class learn how to square dance and learn how to teach the Level 1 album of The Fundamentals of Square Dancing to their classes. In preparation for this Jamboree they taught the first side of this record. Everyone was able to enjoy an evening of square dancing without additional instruction. Callers were Bob Ruff and Jack Murtha, creators of the Level 1 album, and Dale Neely, class member who learned his first call in this class. Musical entertainment was provided by California High School students Craig Corey, Chris Hopkins and Jeff Ruff. A special demonstration of Level 2 movements was given by three squares of one of the participating schools, directed by their teacher, Mr. Greg Noonan. The Fundamentals of Square Dancing records are produced by the Sets in Order

VOX SALTATOR: THE SQUARE DANCER SPEAKS UP

DON'T DISCOURAGE THE NEW DANCER

By John Gordon, Beaver, Pennsylvania

We are second year dancers and thoroughly enjoy the activity as a hobby and a clean healthy exercise. We happen to be fortunate in that our responses are relatively quick. However, in any class you will find a percentage of dancers who will move ahead while others learn at a slower rate and will experience difficulty in moving on to an intermediate level of dancing. One can't help but form some very fine friendships through a complete season of dancing once or twice a week and dancing ability should never interfere with nor diminish these friendships. Granted, it is much more fun to dance with good dancers, but we have seen people refuse to dance with certain other couples and have witnessed the spectacle of people leaving a square when another couple joined that square. A few more lessons on etiquette might go a long way to remedy such a situation. Even a refresher course for a few of the older dancers along these lines might be in order.

Square dancing is a challenge, both mentally and physically. Reflexes and reactions in individuals differ just as do personalities. Some are just not capable of going on to higher levels of dancing, nevertheless the recreation, enjoyment and, yes, the challenge is there for them at fun level. Those who complain and want to discourage new dancers, albeit in the minority, should pause and reflect on their own learning period, remembering their frustrations and the help they received from other dancers. My suggestions for those who don't like to dance with lower level dancers would be to form a new club, possibly on an invitational basis, where they can dance at the level they prefer. But keep up the Saturday night dancing because we can all learn something from someone. To the beginners I would say, "Don't be intimidated by these people regardless of their manners, as they are a small minority and, generally speaking, square dancers are among the finest group of people with whom you may become associated."

LET'S SIMPLIFY - NOT COMPLICATE

By Charles Smith, Ormond Beach, Florida

Personally I am "fed up to the cills," as are many of my fellow dancers, by the constant introduction of new and complicated calls. Also, we're frustrated by the efforts of some callers in changing the basics with so many difficult variations that we are confused and disgusted by such tactics. If persisted in, this may cause many of us to believe that "we don't know nothin'" about square dancing—even though we may have danced for years. When some of these new calls are introduced callers will walk the dancers through once—possibly twice—and then expect them to execute the new calls with no further assistance. To complicate them even more, it may be weeks or even months before the callers use these new calls again. And by that time most dancers have forgotten them. When new calls are introduced, what most dancers need is enough repetition of the instruction-or drill, if you please-until they can be danced easily and without groping and trying to remember the sequences.

If one or two couples in a square do not know how to dance the call, regardless of how simple it might be, none of the square will be dancing—no matter how high level the others may be. For my part I get no pleasure in standing still because some couple or couples in the square are unfamiliar with the new calls. It may be fine to introduce new calls now and then but for the love of Mike, let the caller drill the dancers until all can execute them easily and with pleasure. I write this with 11 years experience in square dancing. Even so we do not consider ourselves "high level" and if we were it would mean nothing in dancing unless every couple in our square was also "high level." We dance for fun—the friendships and the therapy we enjoy are extra bonuses.

So, if square dancing is to be promoted let's simplify—not complicate—this fine recreation. This can be done by emphasizing the use of the basics with a minimum of new, challenging calls. If callers persist in confusing us with such calls and with inadequate instruction we may be compelled to join the army of dropouts, forget square dancing and switch to some other recreation which is more fun—and less frustrating!

THERE'S MORE TO SQUARE DANCING THAN MEETS THE EYE

By Irving L. Breakstone, M.D., Miami, Florida

Square dancing provides a relationship not to be found in any other setting. It gives a couple the need to cooperate with other couples and individuals with one another in order to achieve a common goal. The physical contacts involved are minimal and the relationships can be as warm or as distant as each person prefers to have them. They can be carried outside the area of square dancing or kept strictly within it. The regularity of attendance and the group goals demanded by square dance clubs and associations are, in my opinion, highly beneficial to both members of the couple.

You know for yourself how many times you have felt too tired to get in the car and go to the square dance and have felt truly energetic by the time the second or third tip was over. While it is true that in some clubs competitiveness and segregation of some squares from others isolate new members or poorer dancers, the emphasis is more on the help each can give the other in feeling at home and improving his own dancing. The frequent use of such words as "paws" and "taws" helps to maintain the gender role of each in the marriage as it does in the square dance.

The exercise involved in square dancing activates many depressed people. The similarity in dress prevents much of the "topping" we see in our social lives, resulting in as near the utopian social equality as mankind has yet approached.

DANCING LEVELS—SYMBOLS OF STATUS

By Norman McLeod, Oakland, California

In our American society there exists a high degree of competition for life's benefits. Each of us climbs life's various plateaus in stages, and in these stages of climbing we acquire status. When enough status is acquired a person tends to feel inwardly that he has "arrived," and subconsciously or not, he also tends to "look down" on other people who have not. To other people, this same successful person often appears as a snob.

So it is with square dancing today. Beginners' classes are still the most fun, for the individual as well as the caller, but then that beginner graduates into the parent group and right away he is confronted with complications born of club frictions, unrest, wariness and artificial friendliness which the new dancer sees through in a minute. He finds there are different levels of dancing, and almost immediately he discovers that challenging new material is the "in" thing. He hears other dancers whispering against their club caller because not enough new stuff is being done; he hears of other callers and other clubs that are highly successful because of their high level programs. He hears of this or that hoedown, of the ones that were the most fun because of the new figures that were introduced. From every side he listens to comparisons, to complaints, and inwardly he feels quite strongly his own insufficiencies as a new dancer. So he presses, he tries too hard, he takes his dancing very serious, and sooner or later he realizes that square dancing, for him, is no longer fun. Unless he is the type that thrives on challenge and competition, he quits. He is not to be blamed, for one of the reasons he entered square dancing in the first place was to get away from the fierce competition in his every-day life.

When my wife and I first entered the square dancing world, as beginners, there was an almost magic slogan in use at that time: "Square Dancing is Friendliness Put to Music." Indeed, it seemed to us that it was. Our beginners' class was a ball, and the Saturday hoedowns and the annual May Roundups were high peaks in fun and sociability.

I don't know when it all started, this current trend toward more challenge, or high level, or whatever you choose to call it. Nor do I understand why it is needed, because square dancing was fun the way it used to be. But it is here, for good or bad, take it or leave it. I fear many dancers are leaving it.

NEW MATERIAL IMPORTANT

By Jack Igel, Rochester, Minnesota

Having read several articles recently which criticized the introduction of new material, I feel that a word supporting new material is in order. I would like to preface my remarks by first saying that I do not believe that the majority of the new material should ever be used with the "average club level dancer." Most of the new figures fall into a class of material suitable only for the "workshop/challenge dancer." The whole point I am trying to make is that a caller must use discretion in the selection of material he uses.

We hear the argument that we are losing dancers because there is too much new material and they can't keep up. I think we need to look at the dancers we lose; are they the ones who come regularly? In most cases, no, it is the dancer with very irregular attendance! I'm not saying that we should ignore them, because we need them too. What we need to do is ask ourselves why they don't attend regularly. Probably the biggest reason they don't come very often is because they are not having fun. Club leaders and callers must work to make people want to come. They must work to make square dancing fun and interesting for everyone in their club. We can't go happily along thinking that square dancing is fun and that will take care of everything. Mixers, games, parties, special functions are all ways of adding something extra to a night of dancing. The caller must select his material to meet the needs of the group. What it all boils down to is that we can't take our fun for granted. I think there are two things that contribute much more to the demise of dancers than new figures—club leaders and callers who insist on ten, twelve, fifteen lessons as being adequate and an instructor not showing a figure from "all positions."

To stifle new figures would be like sticking our head in the sand and saying that the car manufacturers will never change the style of their products (we'd still be driving Model T's). All one has to do is look back ten years and count the good club level basics in use today that did not exist then to see that we must continue to explore for new things—"nothing stands still anymore." Callers must use judgment in the choice of new material and dancers have an obligation to let a caller know if they like or dislike a new figure. We often hear complaints about dancers cutting up in a square, etc. The reason is probably because they are looking for something different or are bored. It seems that we stand a greater risk of losing our three and four year dancers for lack of variety than our new dancers for no variety.

VACATIONS 1973

Despite the fact that thousands of enthusiastic square dancers have "discovered" the pleasures of a square dance vacation, there will be many thousands this year who will be finding out for themselves for the first time what personal enjoyment lies in one of these weekend or week-long square dance happenings. At one time in the early days of square dancing there were only a few of these institutes and their emphasis was on caller-training. In the early 1950's it became apparent that not only callers, but dancers as well, would enjoy the fun of spending a few days or a week with other square dancers under ideal conditions. Today's vacation institutes are located in some of the world's most picturesque locations: A resort area in the Canadian Rockies, beside a lake in Michigan, tucked in among the pines on the white sandy beach near Carmel, California, etc. The emphasis on these get togethers is fun and friendship with evening party dances, daytime workshops, after parties, good food and most frequently outstanding housing accommodations. Topnotch callers and teachers from all over the world of square dancing add to the attraction. If you haven't experienced the fun of a square dance vacation, look over this list of more than 60 institutes scheduled for 1973. If some sound just right for you, why not send for a brochure and additional information. You'll be glad that you did.

A History of Square Dancing

Direct Ancestors (Part IV)

The reproduction of dance cards in last month's series gave us an indication of the programs in use at balls during the 1860's. This month Author Ralph Page continues with some of the actual dances in vogue. The names of the various figures are in French, followed by the English translation.

What was that first "set" like? Compared to present day square dances, it may not seem too interesting. Compared to the dances done in a square formation of the previous century, it was indeed an eye-opener. The calls were French. Why not? It was a French dance done in Paris! Thanks to Prof. Hugh Thurston, of Vancouver, B.C., here they are (with a translation from Zorn's "Grammar of the Art of Dancing").

LE PANTALON

- 1. Chaîne Anglaise-Right and left over and back
- 2. Balancez a vos dames—Balance partners (in those days, a rocking step to the right, then to the left)
- 3. Tour de Main-Partners join both hands and walk in a small circle around to place
- 4. Chaîne des dames-Ladies chain over and back
- 5. Demi Queue du chat-Half promenade across the set
- 6. Demi chaîne Anglaise—Half right and left back to place

The same to be repeated by the two side couples

L'ETE

- 1. En avant deux de vis-à-vis-First gentleman and opposite lady advance and retire
- 2. En arriere—The same two cross and change places, passing from the right to the right
- 3. Chassez et dechassez—The same two go off each on the right side and immediately return on the left
- 4. Traversez—The same two recrossing, regain their places. The gentleman then sets to his partner, and his partner to him (see Pantalon, No. 2)
- 5. Chassez et rechassez—Same as in part three
 - 6. Retraversez-Same as in part four
- 7. Balance a vos dames—Each couple takes both hands and turns around in their places; in regaining which, they leave go of hands
- 8. Tour de main—Both couples join hands with partners and walk in a small circle around to place

The same to be repeated by the six others. Frequently this whole figure was repeated from the beginning

LE POULE

- 1. Les deux de vis-à-vis, main droit et main gauche—Couples one and three cross over without turning partners, all giving right hand to opposite in passing. In returning, all give left hands to opposites and pass, retaining left hands, and give right hands to partners, forming a circle in the center of the set (ladies' hands being crossed and the gentlemen's apart)
- 2. Balancez quatre sans vous quitter la main

 The two couples balance in place
 - 3. Demi Queue du chat-Same two couples promenade across the set, turning to face center in opposite couple's place

4. En avant deux de vis-à-vis-The two couples walk toward opposite couple

Dos-à-dos—Same two couples dos-a-dos with opposite

6. En avant quatre—The same couples retire to place

7. Demi chaîne Anglaise—The two head couples return to place with what is now known as a "right and left thru"

The same to be repeated by the other couples in turn

LA TRENIS

- 1. Chaîne des dames-Head two ladies chain over and back
 - 2. Balancez a vos dames-As in Le Pantalon
 - 3. Tour de main—As in Le Pantalon
- 4. Un cavalier et dame en avant et en arrière-Couple one walk forward and back
- 5. Idem en avant-Gentleman one and partner walk again, leaving lady one beside opposite lady. Gentleman one returns to place
- 6. Traverse-Croise a Trois—The two ladies cross over to opposite place while gentleman one crosses over between them. The two ladies and the two gentlemen are now face to face

7. The two ladies chassez-croise, while the gentlemen figuré devant, and all come to their place as in five

8. The first lady goes to the left of the gentleman opposite, makes a single balance to her own partner and finishes with a Tour de main with him.

The same to be repeated by the six others
La Trenis was named for a famous dancer, Trenitz, who is said to have originated it in the year 1800. It is not found in any works prior to that time and it was soon omitted in most places, to be replaced by one known as Les Trois Crochets or The Three Hooks. It was danced in so many places and became so popular that dancing masters felt obliged to teach it. Here is its description according to Zorn:

1. Un couple en avant et en arrière-Couple one walk forward to center of the set and return to place

2. Les Trois Crochets—Lady one walk in a circle around her partner and returns to place, while gentleman one does a two-hand turn with the opposite lady in the center of the set, after which they remain in the center of the set facing partners (circle is sometimes danced without joining hands)

3. Balancez-chasse — Two head couples chasse four steps to the right, then to place with four steps

4. Tour de main à vos places—Two head couples turn partner by the right hand into original places

The same to be repeated by the others in turn

The music for the early quadrilles was seldom original — written especially for the dance. It was some ten or fifteen years before that came about. Operatic and popular tunes of the day were strung together, and even the works of great composers were not beyond being made use of to dance quadrilles. The clever "Bologna Quadrilles" on themes from Rossini's "Stabat Mater", which were published shortly after the appearance of that work, is an example. The plates of these quadrilles were destroyed on the publishers learning the source from which the author (popularly supposed to be J. W. Davison) had obtained the melodies. Hans von Bulow wrote a set of quadrilles on airs from Berlioz' "Benevenuto Cellini" and the quadrilles of Musard are almost the only exception; they may even lay claim to some recognition as graceful, original musical compositions.

Steadily and surely alterations creep into every dance form. The quadrilles were no exception. The steps and figures of the early ones were simply too difficult for any but professional dancers to master easily. In the "L'ETE" figure, it was absolutely necessary for the ladies to hold out their skirts with hands in the exact position taught by the dancing master, point the toe and chasse across from side to side, each figure in its turn being danced with the same careful attention to regulation steps. All of this required more room than could usually be found in most ballrooms of that day. The balance in a circle of the third figure-LA POULE-soon became a "balance in a line" figure. An improvement? Perhaps. It is a matter of individual opinion.

In this country the dance soon became known as the "French Quadrille" or the "Plain Quadrille." The sequence of figures was fixed and therefore memorized. They increased in popularity, at least in the cities, despite the

ALL AROUND YOUR LEFT HAND LADY

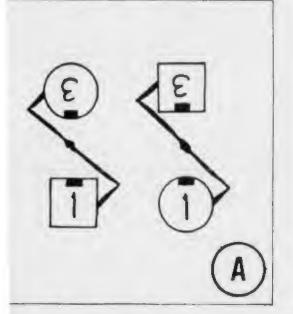

This is the first part of a two-part movement. While the men move forward and around their corner in a clockwise direction, the ladies, having faced their corner, move forward in a clockwise loop around the corner. The man and lady make a continuous clockwise loop moving forward and around each other while keeping right shoulders adjacent. COUNT: 8 steps will allow comfortable timing.

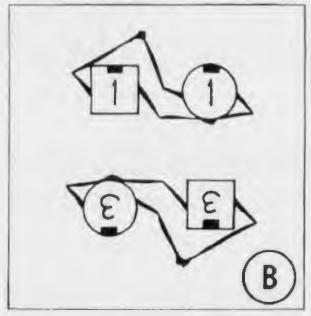

SEE SAW YOUR PRETTY LITTLE TAW

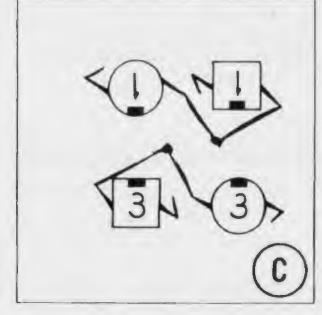

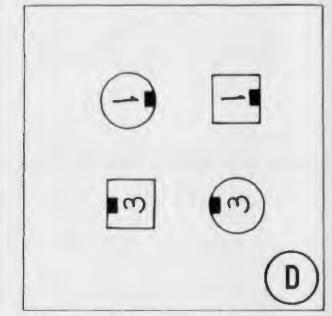

In the second part of the two-part action, men move forward and around partner in a counterclockwise loop. At the same time the ladies, having faced their partner, will make a counterclockwise loop around him with left shoulders almost touching. All return to their home position to follow the next call. The man and the lady make a continuous counterclockwise loop moving forward and around each other while keeping left shoulders adjacent. COUNT: Figure 8 steps as being very comfortable.

TAKE A GOOD a feature for dancers LOOK Barbara and Joe discuss an easy one this month —Right and Left Roll

BARBARA: In looking back over this column for a year or so we notice that there is a pretty good balance of easy and difficult material. In our opinion this is good because while we like variety, we don't depend entirely on new movements and sometimes an old and familiar movement with a new twist can be fun.

JOE: Not long ago we ran into Right and Left Roll and, just as the name implies, it turned out to be a simple extension of a right and left thru, so that with only a word or two of caution from our caller, we were "off and running" with no difficulty.

JOE: That's right. Taking it step by step, it starts with two facing couples (A) who give right hands to each other and pull by. Giving a left to their partner (B) they do a courtesy turn and just as the courtesy turn is nearing completion (C), the man releases his right hand from the small of his partner's back. Then he releases his left hand and the man and lady each do an independent left face turn so that the man is standing directly in front of his partner (D).

BARBARA: As we said in the beginning, this is an easy one but the men have to remember to disengage that right hand in plenty of time before the independent left face quarter turn. Both dancers need to keep in mind that the courtesy turn must be completed and the couples facing each other prior to the independent turn (roll) or the result could lead to a situation where the dancers will end at an angle and out of position.

JOE: Just in case you caller-types would like to give it a trial you'll find examples on page 43 of the Workshop section.

Barbara and Joe appreciate the many suggestions for movements to be featured in Take A Good Look. Although it may not be possible to use all of these, your interest is welcome. Primarily, Barbara and Joe are looking for those movements that have symmetry, are smooth and danceable, and that are being done in a number of areas. They appreciate suggestions on movements that may have a trouble spot which can be clarified through their conversations and the diagrams. Often Barbara and Joe have been introduced to a movement one time and never hear of it again. For this reason they try not to use calls "hot off the press" but wait until they have been proven.

PARLIAMENTARY LAW NEED NOT BE STODGY— PART VI

By John and Lorraine Melrose

This month we wind up our look at parliamentary procedure, particularly as it might apply to square dance club or association meetings, by covering some miscellaneous questions. These topics may be ones you'll find yourself faced with sometime as you stand behind a gavel or rise from the floor to make a point.

Question: What should be done in a meeting when a subject is getting out of hand and seems to be splitting the group? The president could say that he will appoint a committee to look into the matter and to report at the next meeting, if there are no objections. In making such an appointment, the president should see that the committee represents both sides of the matter. Or, a member from the floor could move to table the motion, refer it to a committee, postpone definitely or postpone indefinitely (the latter motion will act to kill the whole idea).

Question: What do you do if you pass an order of business or motion at a meeting and later find that the motion is wrong or that the action should not be carried out? If this is discovered at the same meeting, someone who voted on the prevailing side (whether it is yes or no) must move that the item be reconsidered. This permits the body to correct an erroneous, hasty or ill-advised action or to take into account added information or a situation which may have changed since the taking of the vote. This generally must be done within the limits of the meeting and allows the original matter to be debated again and voted upon.

Question: Can more than one person have the floor at a given time? When two or more persons rise to claim the floor at about the same time, the member who, in the Chair's judgment, first rose and addressed the Chair, is entitled to be recognized. A speaker may be interrupted for a question on a point of order, question of privilege, point of no quorum or call for the orders of the day without his consent.

Question: Are there other books than Robert's on parliamentary law? Yes, a number. One is Demeter's Manual of Parliamentary and Procedure. Another is Gleason's Parliamentary Digest recommended for the beginner or for quick reference. In addition, organizations such as The League of Women Voters publish short reference guides on parliamentary law.

Our thanks to John and Lorraine Melrose for the time and research put into this project. Any square dancer wishing additional information about parliamentary procedure may contact the Melroses direct at 25 Alegra Court, Walnut Creek, California 94598.

REACHING OUT FOR IDEAS

So you've been appointed Refreshment Chairman, Special Events Chairman, or some other such position in your club! Probably your first reaction is to look around with a dazed expression, wondering where to start and with the realization of the awesome fact that you are in charge. The rest of the folks on your particular committee will be looking to you for suggestions and ideas. Where do you go and what do you do to find these ideas and suggestions?

If you're the creative type and your mind is full of any number of original schemes and plans you've got it made. But suppose you are unable to come up with any ideas—what then?

Of course, you talk to others who have been in your present position, seeking advice and help. You try to remember what other clubs have done in the past that could be used. You read all the square dance publications available. But still you are not satisfied—there must be something new, something a little different, some place where you can get a glimmer of an idea that might be put into practice:

One of the often forgotten sources for information is the public library. You can find material on almost any subject on the library shelves and the local librarian is always ready to aid in locating books and magazines which might be of help.

Check with the service clubs in your area (Rotary, Kiwanis, Elks Lodge, American Legion, etc.) for ideas that they have used for refreshments and special parties. And church organizations and Girl Scouts, etc., are often in a position to offer suggeseions.

Although the information you may uncover will not be directly related to square dancing, there is a good chance that it can easily be adapted to fit your particular situation and needs. Just a germ of an idea can be developed and expanded until it becomes the very thing that mosts your requirements.

that meets your requirements.

If you are looking for something different, something out of the ordinary that has not been done in your club, try reaching out to other areas not related to the square dance activity. You may come up with an idea that will earn you the reputation as the "best chairman" your club has ever had. You could also be reappointed for a second term!

SOLVING THE BABY SITTING PROBLEM

Like everything else in today's world, the cost of hiring a baby sitter has increased to the point where young married couples with families are being forced to forego most of their recreational pleasures, including square dancing. Paying a baby sitter's fee over and above the cost of the activity itself can become too much of a burden on the already strained family budget.

Some couples have partially solved the problem by "sitting" for non-dancing friends or neighbors in exchange for their services on the square dance night. Another plan in use is that of sharing the baby sitter. Two or three couples get together, gather up their offspring and leave them at the home of one couple, where the sitter takes charge of the youngsters and the parents are free to enjoy their club dance.

In the case of club dances held in schools, church facilities or halls where a separate room is available, one sitter is engaged to watch over the children and the fee is then shared by all of the parents utilizing the service. There is an added advantage in that the parents are near at hand to take over in the case of an emergency.

We have also heard of dancers and callers who have purchased campers or motor homes in lieu of the family automobile. They are able to take the children to the dance, leave them in the camper or coach where they have television available or can do their school homework in private and quiet surroundings and are also able to retire to their own bed when the time arrives.

Ideas and suggestions such as these are important for the simple reason that the young married people are needed in the square dance activity. It is the young who will perpetuate square dancing.

Here are two ideas for square dance calendars to be used as ready reminders of dances.

The first is put out by the Barn-Burners of of Camarillo, California, and is designed primarily for the club's members. 4¼" x 5¼" in size, it lists the club name, location and regular meeting nights on the first page. This is followed by the entire schedule of callers for 1973. Each following two pages is a monthly calendar with ample box space under each date for a person to write in reminders to himself. The club dances, on every 2nd and 4th Friday, are printed into each monthly calendar with the name of the guest caller appearing that night. At the end of the booklet several pages are left blank for notes. Advertisements from five local establishments are listed on the back cover which undoubtedly covered production costs.

The second idea was featured in Around the Squares, bi-monthly publication of the Okanagan Square Dance Association in British Columbia. They have used the last page of their 8½" x 11" mimeographed newsletter as a dance calendar for events in the area during a two-month period. They suggest that the page be removed from the newssheet and hung up

BADGE OF THE MONTH

Combining two well-known symbols of square dancing with the outline of their state, the Gold-N-Silver Squares of Knox-ville, Tennessee, have designed an artistic and attractive badge.

Appropriate to the club title, the two linked squares are depicted in gold and silver. The silhouettes of the dancers, familiar to all readers of SQUARE DANCING, are centered in black. The individual club member's name is added along the southern border of the state.

SQUARE DANCE DIARY by a square dancer

IS EVERYBODY HAPPY?

By Evelyn Scott, Prince George, B.C. Reprinted from Canadian Dancers News

On READING ROUND DANCE REVIEWS in several recent dance publications we are struck with the frequency of the words "International," "Ballroom," "English," "Contemporary," etc., used to describe movements in current round dance routines and we wonder just where this will lead us.

We were first attracted to round dancing because we found it told us exactly what to do and when to do it—no improvisation, no guessing. We also liked the complete absence of the competitive aspect which is so strong in ball-room dancing. Using the basic steps we learned in round dancing, we were not only able to enjoy a night's square dance to the full, we were able to acquit ourselves reasonably well at "social" dancing.

In the beginning, many square dancers balked at having their evening cut into by this round dancing. But gradually more and more people discovered that they were growing to like the change of pace it offered. As round dancing gained in popularity, clubs were formed where only round dances were taught and programmed. With more time devoted to teaching and learning new rounds, a need for more difficult and challenging routines developed. Combinations of basic steps were used, and syncopation and breaks in standard rhythm patterns offered more variety. Choreographers tried to invent special "gimmicks." However, there are only so many "gimmicks" and combinations you can use so they had to tap other sources for steps and movements to make their dances unique enough to appeal to a more and more fastidious clientele. What richer field than ballroom dancing?

Round dancing has drawn from so many areas to become what it is today—the folk dance, the Latins, and, of course, the ballroom. We like to think it is a melding of the best of all types of couple dancing. We would not be happy, however, if one of them became predominant, causing this delightful form of dancing to lose its individuality and character. We believe this is happening and that ballroom dancing is exerting an ever-growing influence on round dancing.

If all round dance teachers were familiar with and capable of teaching International Ballroom steps and if the majority of dancers were eager to learn them and have them incorporated into round dance basics, we would applaud even though, perhaps, it is not quite what we wanted. But, unfortunately, just the opposite is the case in many instances. Even a teacher with an excellent background of ballroom dancing will not always achieve good results because many round dancers tried ball-room dancing first and did not like it. Watch a floor of dancers doing one of the new routines using International steps and you will often see as many variations as there are couples. This does not necessarily reflect adversely on the teacher. Many dancers simply cannot cope with these more difficult demands.

Publication in the Round

The Grapevine is the official publication of the Round Dance Council of Indiana. Sally Murphy is editor of this comparatively small, mimeographed newsletter, but its average six pages is filled with dates and news of round dance affairs and specials, organization notes, lists of rounds taught during the month, and the cues for the Round of the Month. Once a year, in the December issue, results of a poll for the Top Ten square dancers rounds and round dancers rounds are published.

To solve this problem, round dance clubs are divided into a multitude of levels: basic, fun, square dance, round of the month, intermediate, advanced, challenge. Round dancers have become very level-conscious. Basic, fun, square dance, and round of the month club members are timid about visiting or attending any group above their level while intermediate, advanced and challenge club dancers (and

Charlie and Nina Ward, Toronto, Ontario, Canada

A FTER HAVING MET AT A COLLEGE DANCE where they danced up a storm, Charlie and Nina Ward were later married, produced four sons and gave a fair amount of their lives to church and community with scarcely any dancing at all.

Twenty five years later, in 1960, a sequence of events seemed to conspire to plummet them into a dancing life. First, they were taught a Cha Cha basic at a house party, fooled with it a bit at home, became excited and knew that they would have to take some dancing lessons. Second, they witnessed an exhibition of the Quickstep. Third, Nina met Margery Vanstone at a "keep fit" class and fourth, the Vanstones cajoled the Wards into learning one square dance as part of a PTA program. While practicing the square dance the Vanstones demonstrated a round dance and Charlie and Nina have never looked back. Once introduced to round dancing, Charlie lost all interest in ballroom dancing.

regrettably, in some cases, their teachers) speak with scorn and contempt about the lower levels. And we worry because round dancing is not getting a warmer reception from the average square dancer!

It is said we can't see the forest for the trees. Perhaps we do not realize just how greatly round dancing is being influenced by the ballroom movement. Let us illustrate. A few years ago we would never have found a "fishtail" or a "spin turn" in anything but a more difficult round dance, yet today they are accepted in rounds of the month. A few years ago, any advertisement for competition in our activity would have been turned down by our leading magazines as out of character, but en
(Please turn to page 61)

The Wards began teaching rounds about five years ago. According to Charlie, Nina would gladly pay people to allow her to teach them to dance. To her, happiness is teaching three nights a week, at the three levels.

Charlie has served as treasurer for Toronto and District Square Dance Association and they have handled publicity for the group for several years. They would like to square dance better—Charlie and Nina do what they call "round dance level squares" and Charlie does a few singing calls, to the amusement of their competent square dancing friends. Recently they have been invited to conduct workshops on dancing technique. In this area they feel that they make their most useful contribution.

In spite of the fact that they have written a number of rounds (Moonlight and Roses, Canadian Quickstep, Adore, Blue Mood, Maria Elena, etc.) they feel that there are far too many routines written and fret at the pressure to keep up, even moderately, with the rest of the country. It is their belief that dancers lose the opportunity to really learn to dance because of this.

Charlie and Nina are enthusiastic about the participant aspect of round dancing. They truly believe that dancing is one of the loveliest of the arts and that round dancing has an important role to play in the American dancing scene. As dance history will continue to be written, round dancing will be credited with preserving, modifying, adapting and teaching the best of our dance heritage, in their opinion.

·Chapter twenty-five

Workshopping

By Bob Page, Hayward, California

The term "workshop" has meant different things to different people located in different areas around the square dance world. A workshop, in its simplest definition, is a learning period within the framework of the dance activity itself. In contrast, a club "party night" where no instruction is given, is not considered to be a workshop.

In one respect the beginner is pretty much in a state of workshopping until he has developed a square dance vocabulary and knowledge that will get him through an evening of square dancing without having to be taught any additional basic terminology. All areas do not have what they call "workshops," but whether the name is there or not, the fact is that the workshop idea does exist with square dancers everywhere. An entire evening of square dancing can be declared a "workshop night" or a portion of a regular club evening can be designated as a "workshop period."

The prime purpose of workshopping is to keep dancers abreast of what is being danced in the area and to serve as a "refresher" in the matters of styling and improving one's ability in the movements he has previously been taught. There are, basically, three types of workshops in the square dance picture. There may be variations of these three, but generally speaking, all workshops may be grouped into one of the following categories.

Workshopping to Catch Up

First of all, let's examine the point where the workshopping commences in the continuing training and development of a new square dancer. His first six months to a year in the activity is spent in a learner's class. Upon graduating, the next step for the dancer is to join a square dance club. When possible this would be a group dancing in an intermediate level with a certain amount of workshopping (review of material already learned plus the possible introduction of new material) included in the regular program. When possible the program should be aimed at the new dancers, with at least two tips per evening devoted to additional instruction in the form of workshop sessions. This would mean that the caller either teaches something new or reviews something the dancers have already been taught in order to increase their skills in dancing a particular basic.

During the workshop portion, great care should be taken in selecting the new material to be presented to the dancers. The very first consideration should be in selecting material that cannot be danced with calls the new dancers already know. Of equal importance is the fact that the movement to be workshopped should be compatible with existing movements being danced in the area.

Regardless of the type or level of the workshop, one very important thing is often overlooked by many callers. When workshopping a movement — whether it is one of the old "tried and true" variety or something brand spanking new, the caller should give the dancers the opportunity of dancing that particular movement or figure from every conceivable setup, position and sequence. It is not too difficult for a dancer to learn a pattern from one particular position or facing direction. However, when the movement is used from an "unusual" setup the dancer is apt to forget the "rule" of that particular movement and the square falls apart. So the caller's best admonition to himself is to teach in depth.

In workshopping there is an untold wealth of material to be used by simply looking at all possible variations. As an example: How many ways can Peel Off be done and from how many positions? If a caller spends the necessary time to organize his program for the workshop portion he will find that he does not have to depend on new terms and new movements. Good new movements are few and far between and certainly a new one cannot be taught every week with the hope of retention on the part of the dancer.

One other point should be emphasized regarding the club made up of newer dancers, where one or two workshop tips per evening are included. These tips should be used, not only for teaching new movements, but for increasing the dancer's ability. Therefore, workshopping can be a very important phase of the new dancer's experience, which can often make the difference in his becoming just an average dancer or an "excellent" dancer. By "excellent" reference is not to the number of movements a dancer can do, but how well he can dance each movement he knows. This is the time for the caller to make sure that each dancer understands the movement he is being taught, that he understands its "traffic pattern" and recognizes whether or not it flows smoothly. So that he will become a good position dancer, it is important that he knows how each movement starts and how it finishes. In today's choreography, position dancing is a must!

In the movement being taught, the dancer must be completely aware of how to get comfortably from point A to point B which, in this case, would be the completion of the movement. Of equal importance is the fact that the dancer knows where he is and which direction he faces when he reaches point B. To be more explicit, this means that when the dancer arrives at point B he must be facing properly and in the correct position to start the next figure. In many instances if the dancer is turned a quarter out of position it may be impossible for him to move into the next sequence of calls. So, in fact, a workshop session geared to newer dancers serves the prime purpose of clearing up any of the "rough edges" that may be hangovers from the learning period. This is also the occasion to emphasize timing to the newer dancer and its importance to him as he becomes a more accomplished dancer. Timing, remember, is the number of steps it takes a dancer to move comfortably through a basic, starting at point A until he reaches the completion of the movement at point B. If all of these factors are taken into consideration by the caller during the workshop period, then the dancer's ability will increase and he stands a good chance of becoming a smooth dancer, knowing how to adjust to the timing of contemporary square dancing.

An Entire Evening of Workshopping

There is another type of workshopping that is quite popular and equally successful. Existing clubs whose members have been dancing for a number of years frequently devote an entire evening to workshopping. On these particular nights the caller may plan the program to bring out some variations on movements the members have been dancing. Or he may decide to devote the evening to teaching a new movement. If his goal is to present a new experimental movement, the caller should keep in mind his first consideration of selecting a promising movement that cannot be danced to already existing calls. Of course, with this experienced type of club membership he is in a position to use more difficult material.

Some clubs may decide to designate themselves as workshop clubs. Literally, they may call themselves the "A to Z Workshop" and their advertising may carry the statement, "Dance with the A to Z Workshop every second and fourth Tuesday." With this type of group the programming may be changed somewhat from the groups that introduce a single new experimental movement during the evening. The word "workshop" in this instance probably means that the club has members who expect two or three (usually new) movements or themes to be introduced during the meeting period. This does not imply that the movement must necessarily be difficult. The challenge comes while presenting dancing that can be created around a single simple movement. A caller can provide a fairly complex pattern while workshopping such a movement.

When introducing a relatively simple movement to a group of highly experienced dancers, the inclusion of other movements of a more complex nature will serve the double purpose of presenting material that is new and of maintaining the interest and challenging the ability of the dancers. In other words, the callerengineer, when using a simple movement, adds to it by using unusual traffic patterns and builds into the workshop tip of known movements the new and perhaps not too difficult movement. This tends to create a fairly stimulating workshop dance, bringing in something new and yet by the use of familiar movements constructing a challenging figure that will keep the dancer on his toes during the entire phase of the program.

Third in the Workshop Family

Finally, there is the workshop for the most experienced dancer. This type of workshop is usually designed to be of a closed nature, bringing in dancers of equal experience and ability, thereby allowing the callers to "let out all the stops." Workshops in this category are also designed to fit a certain pattern. One caller, when planning for this type of workshop, may teach six or seven separate movements new to the group in one evening, using this particular method to create a sense of "challenge."

The same type of workshop may be planned differently by another caller. He may select a limited number of experimental movements, established basics or gimmicks, which he will work over thoroughly during the course of the workshop. In this instance he will inform the dancers that they won't necessarily have to retain the knowledge gained from this particular workshop. Instead the idea will be for the participants to enjoy it for this one particular evening. He cautions them that if he uses these movements again in the future he will again, at that time, instruct the dancers in their use. In planning this type of evening the caller will devote much care in selecting the material.

Which Plan is for You?

Since there are many different types and levels of workshops, the ideal situation would be for each dancer to find the type that best suited him. The very word "workshop" used on today's square dance program seems to have a certain drawing power — perhaps snob appeal. The word "workshop" is used to describe many square dance functions strictly for the purpose of advertising. Whatever the reason, when the word "workshop" is used in advertising a dance it frequently gives the erroneous conception of the caller possessing undeniable rights to teach in any way he desires. This is often misleading and sometimes does more harm than good. In the end result, a workshop is nothing more than teaching; the same type of teaching that one might find in a beginners class. However, because of the magic in the word "workshop" the caller, while attempting to raise the dancer's ability, sets out to attract the dancer to a workshop session. Instead of saying, "We are now going to teach some new material" he says, "We are now going to call a workshop tip." This apparently sounds more appealing to the dancer who has already gone through a year of "learning" in beginners class.

A caller desiring to set up a workshop program, whether to improve the dancing ability in his area or simply to attract more dancers through the name "workshop," is constantly faced with the prospect of gathering good, workable workshop material. Today's caller has unlimited access to quantities of square dance material. There are national magazines which have in each issue a section devoted to the caller. In addition, there are a number of caller note services which can be subscribed to and which are a source of up-to-date information. Unfortunately much of this material is needless and awkward and the problem arises when callers take unproven material of this type directly to their clubs and call it to unsuspecting dancers without taking the time to test it carefully for body mechanics, flow and just good intelligent choreography. This practice has been known to "clobber" the dancers on more than one occasion. Doubtless it is through thoughtless use of unproven material that numbers of dancers have become disenchanted with the activity, discouraged with their seeming inability and frustrated at this type of dancing.

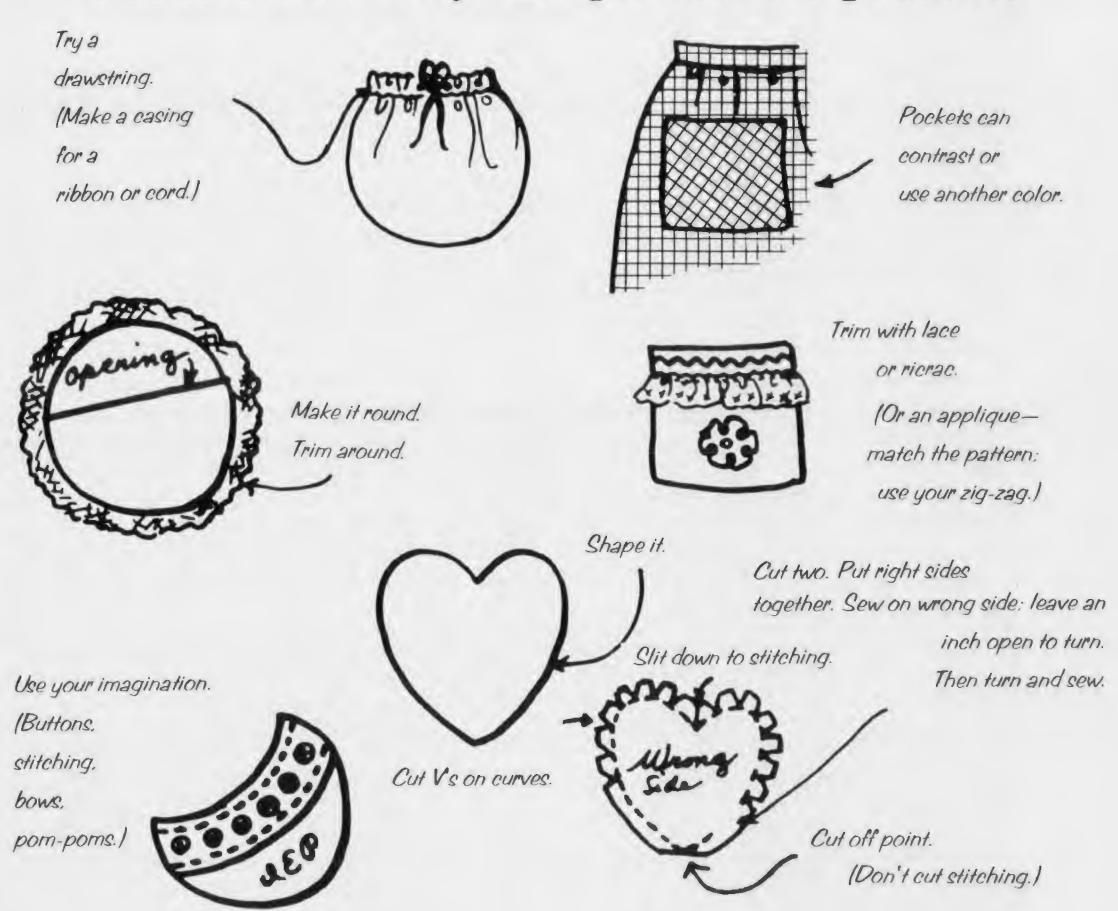

It doesn't hurt to repeat over and over that every effort should be made by the caller to be especially selective in the material he chooses to introduce to his dancers, whether in regular program dances or at his workshop sessions. The simple fact that something is new is certainly no basis for feeling that it is "good," and if a caller is to have a workshop it should be with the thought in mind of improving not only the dancing ability, but the enthusiasm and attitude of the dancers.

No two callers call exactly alike and no two callers teach and conduct a workshop in the same way. Because he is an individual, each caller should decide what he can do best and if he finds that he can work out his best program in a workshop that keeps people happy and returning for more, then he apparently has a successful approach to conducting a workshop. He will discover that the conscientious caller is not one who tries to throw every new movement "in the book" at his workshop dancers, but after choosing his material carefully, takes an in-depth approach to his program. Using two or three good movements and incorporating them into a well planned program, inserting just enough complexity to stretch the dancers' ability to a point of excellence they never before experienced, should be his goal. Helping to create smoother, more considerate and better all-around dancers is the caller's major purpose in presenting a workshop program.

Ladies on the Square

Pockets are Pretty and pockets are practical

Here's some additional ideas on how to treat pockets on a square dance dress. (See February 1973 Square Dancing.) These are suggested by Ida Percoco as shown in PROMENADER, Long Island Square Dancers' Federation magazine of November 1972.

Rainbow Stroll

A T ONE TIME the square dance scene was literally bursting with exhibition groups. Virtually every area had its "Shooting Stars," its "Levi's and Laces" or its "Dancing Dudes and Dolls" of whom it was justifiably proud. These groups of well-rehearsed, easy to look at dancers appeared at festivals, conventions, anniversary dances and in front of many non-square dance groups to the "Ohs" and "Ahs" of the spectators.

Those who called for these "teams" were indeed a special breed of dance engineer-choreographer. Their main concern was not necessarily to find movements that were difficult or particularly challenging, but to create patterns that flowed smoothly and were appealing to the eye of the spectator.

purposes or for general dancing enjoyment.

The Rainbow Stroll provides a pleasurable pattern for the dancers as well as a kaleido-

Because square dancing is not basically a spectator activity and is geared almost solely to the pleasure of the participant (which is undoubtedly as it should be), much of the contemporary material was found to be completely unsuited to attracting the eye and the interest of those who came to watch. On the other hand, some of these unusual combinations of stars, lines and circles were ideally suited for the audience-viewer. Strangely enough, many of these patterns originally created for the non-dancing spectator became standard square dance fare. Everybody began doing the patterns. In some instances they lost their novelty and were done as a matter of routine. Sometimes, as in the case of the Grand Square, the necessity of moving and turning to the phrase of the music was completely lost.

Some of these "traffic patterns" still exist today (Ladies Center the Gents Sashay; the Grand Square, etc.) and because of a present interest in exhibition groups we will occasionally cover pictorially, in this section, movements that can be used either for exhibition purposes or for general dancing enjoyment.

scopic effect for those who may be watching from the balcony.

Starting from a square (1) the eight dancers move forward and in toward the center of the square (2). On the fourth step each dancer turns his back on his partner and faces his corner. With the man's right hand he takes his corner's left hand and both face out (3). The dancers move two steps out toward the perimeter of their square.

As they approach the rim they do a frontier whirl (4) and start back in toward the center once again (5). Each dancer with a new partner is ready to repeat the action, moving forward, turning to face the new corner and then moving toward the outside (6) to once more do a frontier whirl.

This whole action is done four times until the dancers are once again with their original partner. Or the movement can be done twice, followed by a ladies grand chain or used in any number of combinations to fit the overall pattern.

In doing a "gimmick" like this with regular square dance groups, the participants should be cautioned to move with the music. The pattern is only satisfying to the dancers if they work together.

This pattern as an exhibition number is particularly pleasing to an audience seated in a balcony or at bleachers above, where the spectators are looking down on the action. If you would like an additional picture series of possible exhibition numbers, please let us know.

ND NATIONAL SQUARE DANCE CONVENTION

SALT PALACE SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH

JUNE 28, 29, 30, 1973

A DVANCE REGISTRATIONS CONTINUE TO FLOW in at an unprecedented rate for the 22nd National Square Dance Convention to be held in Salt Lake City, Utah, on June 28, 29, and 30, 1973.

Some are asking, "Will there be places to stay?" The Housing Committee reports that there are many motels and hotels that are not listed on the back of the registration form because only those that would or could set aside 20 or more rooms are listed. There are many others in the area that will be utilized.

Are you driving to Salt Lake for the Convention? Remember, Utah has many scenic attractions to offer the motorist and now there is an added plus! Snowbird Lodge is a "brand new" mountain chalet normally used for skiing, that boasts of 250 rooms in a magnificent setting. Twenty-two miles from the Salt Palace in beautiful Alta, Utah, gondola rides to the top of the mountains and pleasant strolls through mountain meadows are offered to lodgers.

For Solo Dancers

There are two large and very active solo dance clubs in Utah and they are working very hard to make this convention the one where the single person will be a real part of the activities. Some of the singles have been overheard to state that they felt as if there was something missing at previous conventions for the single dancers and the Utah solo dancers are determined that there will be something extra at Salt Lake City.

Here is the special solo agenda:

1. Solo Trail-In Dance, Wednesday, June 27.

2. Solo Get Acquainted Breakfast—anytime from 8:00 to 10:00 a.m. Thursday, June 28, at the RhineHaus, 1518 South Main Street. Price is $2.35 per plate, including tax and tips.

3. Solo Afterparty. 12:00 Midnight, Thursday, June 28 on the 3rd floor of the Salt

Palace.

4. Solo booth on the 2nd floor of the Salt Palace.

Dennis Knight and Annabel Byrd, Directors of Solo Hospitality, request that you plan to attend the breakfast, but please let them know so the restaurant can plan accordingly. Write to: 75 West 250 North #64, Clearfield, Utah 84015.

But that isn't all! Those who know the Utah solo groups are aware that there will be many little surprises because they know what "they're thinkin'!"

About the Youth

The youth are sure that Utah is the Place to Be in '73 and are already registering in droves. Such outstanding groups as the Mavericks of Seattle, Washington, and the Lamar Dudes and Dames of Lamar, Colorado, will be "doing their thing" at exhibition time. These are shows that no one should miss. They are "real cool!" The youth will have their own dance hall (larger than past conventions) with shiny tile floors and the parents can attend if they think they can keep up.

There will be Youth Afterparties on Thursday and Friday nights with special callers. Do you want to participate in the Youth Style Show on Saturday, June 30 at 10:00 a.m.? Write to Fay LeFevre, 968 Colorado Street,

Salt Lake City, Utah 84116.

Don't tell anyone, but on Friday morning at 8:00 a.m. all of the youth should slip away to go on a tour to the Timpanogos Cave. This is a National Monument and it is one of the most beautiful of all the caves in the nation. It is situated at an elevation of nearly 11,000 feet in a setting of lovely mountain scenery with a view of the Utah Valley that is breathtaking. Take a good look while you are there because this is the area where Robert Redford filmed the fabulous show "Jeremiah Johnson." The cost is $4.00, and the Social Committee and Debry-Hilton Travel Services, Inc., will make all of the arrangements and conduct the tour.

If it is your birthday while you are in Salt (Please turn to page 62)

ROUND THE WORLD of SQUARE DANCING

Those with items of special interest should send them to NEWS EDITOR, SQUARE DANCING, 462 No. Robertson Boulevard, Los Angeles, Calif. 90048. Letters will be read and appreciated although time may not allow the personal acknowledgment of each one.

Spain

Madrid Squares hosted their semi-annual pot luck supper on January 30 to mark the beginning of the Spring Class of 1973. Thirty club members provided the "home cooked" food for the 25 guests. Club caller Bill Edwards put the new dancers through a few easy movements to start the evening. Graduation for this class will be April 13 and will be followed on April 14 by a workshop and jamboree.

Germany

Paws and Taws of Bitburg, Germany, are sponsoring the Summer Jamboree in Luxembourg City in the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg on July 6, 7 and 8, 1973. There are tours available in the area and several activities taking place during the day for those who wish an enjoyable summer vacation. Anyone planning to attend are advised to make hotel reservations early at the Holiday Inn, P.O. Box 200, Luxembourg, or through local Holiday Inns by including the code phrase "Square Dance Summer Jamboree." For advance reservations write Mrs. Karon Letcher, 36 CSG, CMR Box 601, APO New York, New York 09132. Cut off date for reservations and registration is June 10, 1973.

Norway

Oklahomans Maurice and Mary Loretta Chaney were active participants and leaders in square dancing during their 24 years of residence in Bartlesville. Because they thoroughly enjoyed that square dancing experience they were reluctant to give it up when transferred to Stavanger, Norway, a little over a year ago. So they initiated a program of lessons and formed a club. The Stavanger Squares continues to grow and this past February a new session of lessons was begun. Membership is truly international, consisting of people from Canada, England, France, Norway, and the United States.

Portugal

Terceira Twirlers of Lajes Field, Azores, graduated 31 beginning dancers in December. The affair started with the candlelight ceremony and then progressed to lighter gimmicks. General and Mrs. Aldrich and Colonel and Mrs. Hornbuckle attended and club caller Dick

Presidents and First Ladies of square dance clubs throughout the Commonwealth responded to the invitation of the Fairs 'n

Squares of Framingham to attend an all day seminar, dinner and ball. The keynote address was given by Charlie Baldwin, editor of the New England Square Dance Caller magazine. Charlie stressed that square dancing is being challenged in a typical 20th Century manner and mindful of his admonition, "I charge you, the leaders, with finding the set of standards of which the present generation will be proud and which will be attractive to future dancers," the couples dispersed into seminar groups. Moderators included past presidents of Fairs 'n Squares and other area clubs as well as representatives from the Eastern District Square and Round Dance Association and New England Councils of Callers and Round Dance Teachers Associations. Following the seminars, dinner was served and the evening was devoted to square and round dancing. Chairmen of this annual event were Bob and Alma Gould

California

On June 30, the Aces and Deuces of Lancaster will hold their Third Annual Square-O-Rama. The event will be held at Antelope Valley Fairgrounds in Lancaster and camper spaces will be available. Feature caller for this popular event will be Beryl Main. Information on tickets and housing may be obtained by writing Aces and Deuces, P.O. Box 806, Lancaster, Ca. 93534. -Sylvia Lackovic

Biggest special event of the year for the Circle 'n Square Dance Club of Yreka is the Gold Diggers Dance, Breakfast and Gold Panning. It will be held June 9 and 10, with dancing on Saturday night at the Fairgrounds, Sunday morning breakfast on Greenhorn Creek followed by dancing in the open air and gold panning.

Fresno is the locale for the California State Convention to be held June 1, 2, and 3. All committees have submitted enthusiastic and favorable reports on the progress to date, with much still to be completed. In addition to the dancing, six panel meetings are scheduled. For further information contact Butch and Thula Carr, 730 Ulloa Street, San Francisco, California 94127.

California dancers are reminded to attend the 1976 National Convention Test Dance at the Anaheim Convention Center on April 15. Dick Houlton will call for the afternoon dance, from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m.

South Carolina

The South Carolina Callers Association became an official organization on December 30, 1972. Jim Cosman was elected President and John Inabinet is Vice President of the new group.

Japan

The 4th Annual Tohoku (Northern) Jamboree, hosted by the Sendai Square Dance Club, was held at the Sakunami Hot Springs Resort during the Thanksgiving weekend. Nearly 250 people joined in the American tradition of square dancing complemented afterwards by Japanese cuisine and hot baths. Australia

The 14th National Australian Square Dance Convention will be held April 21, 22, and 23 at Newcastle, New South Wales. A souvenir recording for this event is available. For information write Brian Hotchkiss, 29 Caldwell Avenue, Dudley 2290, New South Wales, Australia.

Missouri

Square dancing in the Beetheel section of Missouri and North Eastern Arkansas is sparse and the clubs are small. George and Doris Barbre of Doniphan have been hard at work in their attempt to remedy the situation. They have three clubs now and have started teaching a new group, which they hope will develop into an organized club. In addition, they have been teaching four other groups ranging from nine to one hundred miles away.

Oklahoma

One of the largest and most beautiful events to happen in the Midwest will take place April 7 at the Tulsa Assembly Center. Well over 5,000 square dancers are expected to participate in this affair, the Northeast Oklahoma Square Dance Festival. A full program of dancing and specials is scheduled.

Ohio

The 14th Annual Buckeye Square Dance Convention will be held May 4, 5, and 6 at the new Exhibition Center in Dayton. All events will be held under one roof in the downtown area with ample parking and lodging close by. All levels of dancing are being scheduled in the five rooms allocated for the affair.

Memorial Hall at the University of Akron will be the scene for the Akron Area Federation's Spring Fling on April 14. Singin' Sam Mitchell, Bud Redmond, Johnny Davis and Dewey Barry will call for the square dancing. Ted and Lois Mack will handle the rounds.

Texas

On December 8, the Meadowbrook Mavericks of Houston had a full house for the Old Timers get-together. Many former square dancers came just to visit and see old friends—some tried their luck with a little dancing and (Please turn to page 64)

The Caller's Cue-Card System

MAINSTREAM BASICS FILE

A selection from the Caller's Cue-Card System, for the caller who wants teaching sequences and dance material for the movements which are used the most frequently in today's square dancing—in classes, clubs, and open dances everywhere. An excellent starter set for the newer caller, the MAINSTREAM BASICS FILE contains all of the most popular movements from the Caller's Cue-Card System.

Included is a complete beginnner course, plus teaching material and exploratory figures for the most popular movements in today's dancing—more than three hundred different figures, in a file case, all completely indexed for instant reference and easy refiling. Includes all of the following movements:

LEE KOPMAN

Lee began his calling career as a Physical Education Major at Adelphi University on Long Island. After three years of calling Eastern type square dancing and one night stands, he discovered the world of Western square dancing. Seventeen years later we find that Lee has won wide recognition for his original choreography, guaranteed to provide delightful dancing at any level. Considered one of the top Challenge callers in the country, Lee realizes that this type of dancing is only for those who enjoy the stimulation and satisfaction they derive from this type of dancing and are willing and able to spend the time and energy necessary to participate. Lee and his charming wife, Lillith, follow a schedule that averages 25 dances a month. Festivals, Special Weekends, Workshops, and Callers' Seminars round out their program of activities that keep them delightfully busy. Their home is in Wantagh on Long Island and they are the parents of two -son Steven and daughter Felice.

CALLER of the MONTH

Bill Peters - San Jose, California

Originally from New York, Bill, his wife Betty, and their two children now make their home in San Jose, California, where his calling activities currently average from five to seven nights per week. He calls regularly for two weekly clubs, several square dance workshops and one or two annual beginner classes as well.

Although he is based in the Northern California area, he enjoys considerable popularity in many other parts of the country and Canada. He tours frequently throughout the Pacific Northwest and he has served as featured caller at many festivals, council dances, etc., including the Oregon State Festival, Alaska State Festival, Seattle Sea Fair Jubilee, Spokane Salmon Festival, Nelson, B.C. Jamboree, Fresno Square-Rama and the Cup-O-Gold Festival in Sonora, California.

Bill became a staff recording artist for Longhorn Records in 1963. For this first release, "Two Timin' Blues," he not only wrote the dance but the tune as well. Since then he has recorded numerous other singing calls including his current release, "Fire Ball Mail."

In addition, Bill is a well known square dance leader and teacher and he is considered by many to be a recognized expert in the field of caller training. He has served frequently as an instructor/teacher at callers' institutes, seminars and workshops. He is the author of one of the most comprehensive and complete caller training textbooks in the field entitled, "The Other Side of the Mike."

Bill's most recent endeavor is a monthly callers' note service with a new and different approach, which he calls "Choreo Breakdown."

the old saying, "seeing is believing," is true. Out of 62 dancers, only ten have danced any other place.

Mrs. Dennis Scott APO New York, New York

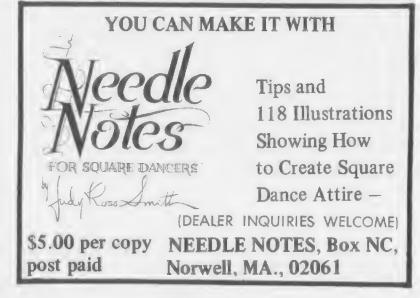

Dear Editor:

Your May, 1971, issue of SQUARE DANC-ING had a cover artist's conception of the entrance signs to a city, with a square dance emblem included. We are very happy to be able to tell you that the Port City Squares in Oswego, New York, erected their very own entrance signs to the four entrances to our city on December 30, 1972, and your magazine was the inspiration for it all.

Bill and Ollie Purvis Oswego, New York

Dear Editor:

When I get SQUARE DANCING magazine I always look at the Fashion Feature first. Enclosed is a picture of a dress that I designed and made for myself. I purchased pink sharkskin for the top and a light beige for the bottom. . . . I bought Western Square Dance transfers from my Tri-Chem lady and liquid embroidered the dancing couples and sayings

For the sake of uniformity we have had to settle on one studio and one photographer for our Fashion Feature. The one disadvantage to this is that we are not as flexible in including models and designers from wide areas across the country. Thanks for your thoughtfulness in sending the picture—this may give others an idea on ways to use Tri-Chem.—Editor turned to teaching. I have two beginner classes going at the present time and consider what I am doing as very successful. But I read all my calls. Needless to say, it is quite a task to read the calls, watch the floor and my turntable. But I have the determination to become a good enough caller to teach beginners. I do not have enough self confidence to try calling without reading the calls, so what do you suggest?

is no reason to refer to written notes. You know more than they do and all you need to do is to transfer your thoughts into "action words." If you have the material well enough in mind and if you know what you want to get across to the dancers, the words will come. You simply instruct in the best way you know possible and your dancers will follow. As they improve, you improve. Certainly you will gain confidence as you call.—Editor

Dear Editor:

We recommend that all round dance terms and basics adopted by SIOASDS be coordinated with the International Round Dance Council and the National Round Dance Panels to arrive at joint agreement and/or mutually acceptable compromises. The objective being a unified set of standards for the good of round dancing. By identifying areas of agreement first, we should find less conflict in compromises on others. Agreements would provide established references to aid and improve communications. A high degree of agreement on the definitions of "steps" and "gestures"

HOW TO USE THE RECORD REPORT

To get the best possible analysis all singing calls are checked and rated by two sources. First, a rating is made by a square of dancers that actually dances to each record. The records are then sent to another reviewer who rates them on recording quality, instrumentation, clarity of commands, and body mechanics. The final "star" rating is based on a consensus of the reports from both. In all cases unless otherwise noted it may be assumed that singing calls are recorded in a medium range. In the case of lioedown the key will be included.

Each report gives an analysis of the record and the dance. The shaded area in the chart indicates the voice range used by most recording companies. By comparing the voice range letters in each analysis with those on the chart, you should be able to determine the record's suitability to your voice. Occasionally a report will be starred (*) in which case you will find the calls reproduced in the Workshop section of the same issue.

Some of the square dance records reported will have rating symbols at the end of the "Comment section. These represent the opinion of the reviewing committee. Symbols used indicate as follows: Average, AAbove Average, AExceptional, AAA Outstanding.

Ward promised to try it out if she could get a square together. Diane came up with about 30 youngsters and the result is the 4-H square dance group of Oroville, Washington. Members range in age from third to fifth graders and they are the only 4-H group in the state. At the present time there are three full squares and they have danced at a number of affairs in the area.

fact that they were both complicated and short. The first difficulty was overcome by giving the dancers printed directions to the quadrilles that were to be danced at that particular ball; playing cards with these directions have been preserved. Country people preferred the simpler contras that lasted much longer. Why bother to learn something which was finished as soon as four couples had done the dance?

The War of 1812 ensured the popularity and development of the square dance or quadrilles in this country. The pro-English New Englanders kept on with the contras, and in-

The "HOW" Book of Square Dance Calling by Bill Peters

The first really complete guidebook and home-study training manual for new or student callers . . .

NEVER BEFORE A BOOK LIKE THIS!

Here at last is a truly in-depth caller guidebook directed primarily to the needs and requirements of new or student callers—or to dancers who have sometimes wondered what it is like to be "On the Other Side of the Mike". Its 347 jam-packed pages have been described by many leaders as the most complete how-to-do-it manual ever written in the field of caller training.

ACCLAIMED BY EXPERTS EVERYWHERE!

I am very impressed...It is a tremendous work...an excellent reference text. LEE HELSEL...It probably contains more good solid information than anything that's been put out yet...your writing style is excellent. JAY KING...It is a fine book and I will take it with me to the callers' clinics I conduct to show the other callers. HAROLD BAUSCH. An invaluable help to the new caller or to the veteran, this collection is a gem loaded with information. BOB OSGOOD deed one of the best, "Hull's Victory", to celebrate the victory of the Constitution over the Gueriere on August 19, 1812, came as a result of that conflict. But the rest of the country refused to do what they called "English dances" and would do little else but the "French squares." The quadrilles were aimed at deportment, the contras at exercise. In the large cities the dancers glided through the latest quadrilles from abroad, with more or less elegance and languor. It was the dancing masters' finest hour and they made the most of this, their "golden opportunity."

The introduction of the quadrilles marked the return to the lilies and languors. The new decorum was soon reflected in the style for women. About 1825, the chemise-gown went out of fashion and petticoats returned and multiplied. Crinoline, an expensive material, was used to stiffen out the skirts. Carrying all this load, the ladies affected a "delicacy" which soon became real.

It was probably in this era-the 1820'sthat we began to "call" the dances. No one

Nevertheless, the one characteristic that we have added to these old dance forms lies in the "calling" of the figures. True, it is not solely an American invention, but certainly we have developed it to a fine art. (ROUND DANCE, continued from page 24)

A Beginners Hoedown was held at the Livestock Exchange building in Omaha on December 6. Sponsored by the Omaha Square Dance Council, Glenn Lapham Emcee'd the program supported by nine Association callers. Over 100 couples signed in and 85% were from the classes in the area. Packets containing square dance information was given to each couple. The Hoedown was such a success that it will become an annual affair.

A new caller to the Omaha area, Dick Hulbert, was introduced at a special Valentine Dance at the Eppley Care Center. The Hulberts are newly arrived from Guam and are stationed at Offutt Air Force Base.

Philippines Pampanga Promenaders of Clark Air Base participated in an enjoyable and satisfying event last November, when they entertained the patients at the USAF hospital. Using material from "History of Square Dancing" from past issues of SQUARE DANCING magazine, President Ernie Conner wrote a script for a one hour review of the history of square dancing. The dancers spent their time and money making costumes and rehearsing while club caller, Roger Statucki, adapted music to the script. A "thank you" letter from hospital staff members contained these comments: "All the patients enjoyed the various skits and commented on the intricate movements and professionalism of the dancers. . . . The evening was very pleasant

The dream of the Single Swingers of Boise has finally come true after two years of planning and hoping. They recently took possession of a school bus for use in traveling to various cities, counties and states for square dancing. The group has named the bus "S.S. Friendship Promenade" and expect to be spreading friendship and promoting square dancing in various states throughout the West.

One trip took place in February, the Crab Feed and Dance at Baker, Oregon. Next on the list will be a trip to the National in Salt Lake City, Utah, in June.

CHIAINEN CIE

AND ADVANCED CLUB DANCING UPDATED 1972 EDITION

The currently popular calls for experienced club and high level dancers.

by Jim Surock

A pocket size (31/4x41/4) 66 page reference book of the rules for the 150 most popular high level calls. Starts where the extended 75 club basics end and contains the new "Experimental 50" and the next 100 most used calls of high level dancing. A must for club dancers; for these are the calls filtering down from challenge into club dancing. If it's called at a dance, you can bet it is one of the calls explained in this book or you already know it. The pocket size and hard gloss cover makes it perfect to take to the dance for that extra confidence.

Price only $2.00

MODERN SQUARE DANCING
SIMPLIFIED

The "How To" Book for Today's Complete Club Dancer

Pocket size and similar to "Challenge" book above, but covers the rules and explanations of the first 75 basics and approximately 60 other calls and commands encountered in club level dancing. An ideal gift for the graduate and the student.

Price only $2.00 or order both books for only $3.50
