

University of Groningen

Thermal-aware job scheduling in data centers

van Damme, Tobias

IMPORTANT NOTE: You are advised to consult the publisher's version (publisher's PDF) if you wish to cite from it. Please check the document version below.

Document Version

Publisher's PDF, also known as Version of record

Publication date:

2019

Link to publication in University of Groningen/UMCG research database

Citation for published version (APA):

van Damme, T. (2019). Thermal-aware job scheduling in data centers: an optimization approach. Rijksuniversiteit Groningen.

Copyright

Other than for strictly personal use, it is not permitted to download or to forward/distribute the text or part of it without the consent of the author(s) and/or copyright holder(s), unless the work is under an open content license (like Creative Commons).

The publication may also be distributed here under the terms of Article 25fa of the Dutch Copyright Act, indicated by the "Taverne" license. More information can be found on the University of Groningen website: <https://www.rug.nl/library/open-access/self-archiving-pure/taverne-amendment>.

Take-down policy

If you believe that this document breaches copyright please contact us providing details, and we will remove access to the work immediately and investigate your claim.

Downloaded from the University of Groningen/UMCG research database (Pure): <http://www.rug.nl/research/portal>. For technical reasons the number of authors shown on this cover page is limited to 10 maximum.

Stellingen behorende bij het proefschrift

Thermal-aware job scheduling in data centers

An optimization approach

door Tobias Van Damme

1. A static mapping for recirculation flows is a good choice in order to capture thermal leakages and construct a thermodynamical model of a data center. (Chapter 2)
2. Integral controllers are sufficient for implementing thermal-aware job schedulers in current-day air cooled data centers. (Chapter 3)
3. Combining projected dynamical systems with integral controllers for thermal-aware job scheduling allows for maximizing the computing potential while safely operating data centers. (Chapter 4)
4. When a PhD student has the choice between going home at the end of the day, or working a few hours extra, the more productive choice is almost always to go home.
5. Combining multiple energy reduction techniques into a multi-purpose controller yields the best results. (Chapter 5)
6. By running easy-to-design experiments and using subspace identification algorithms, it is possible to reconstruct the thermodynamical structure of any data center. (Chapter 6)
7. Theoretical analyses are necessary in a predominantly heuristic based field in order to get a better understanding of the characteristics of good solutions.
8. Having lunch or eating pie is a vital part in sowing seeds of collaboration among colleagues.