Dear Mr. Temianka:

When I received your record this morning, I found that it had been broken in transit. I was never more disappointed in my life. Obviously, it had had extremely rough handling.

My visit with you on the plane was certainly an enjoyable one. For your information, I had never before had an opportunity to see a violin of such historical value as yours.

I hope that everything is going well with you and that we can have another session some time without so much noisy interference.

Sincerely yours,
