URSINUS BEATEN BY SWARTHMORE

Ogden Retires Fifteen Men on Strikes in Loosely Played Game

On Wednesday afternoon, April 19, Ursinus was defeated by Swarthmore on the latter's grounds in a pitching duel between Johnson and Ogden. Although the score, 2 to 1, indicates a well played game, there were several errors made by both teams, and those, in the Ursinus case, proved very costly. Ogden, for Swarthmore, did excellent work in the box, having the local boys at his mercy at all times, and besides holding them to one hit, when Stugart connected for a three-bagger in the sixth inning. He succeeded in striking out fifteen players. Johnson, for Ursinus, pitched a good game, striking out five men, and, save for a few wild pitches at critical moments, should have held his opponents scoreless.

Swarthmore threatened to score in the first inning. Shoemaker who led off for the opponents reached second base when Diemer made an overthrow to Kerr. He was sacrificed to third by White, who was thrown out at first, and attempted to score when Carris hit a ground ball to Barkley at third. Barkley, however, fielded the ball clean and by a perfect peg to Stugart retired Shoemaker at the home plate. Carris was thrown out at second in an attempt to steal.

The second inning proved fatal to Ursinus, when Swarthmore secured their only two runs of the game. Cornog led off with a pretty single and was sacrificed to second by Riffert. Sproul reached first through an error by Barkley. Through a wild pitch by Johnson and a sacrifice by Harry, Cornog and Sproul scored. Ogden fled out to Stugart and the inning was ended.

Ursinus secured their lone score in the sixth when Stugart led off with a three-bagger and scored when Diemer hit to first base. Coach Griffith put in Light, Schaub and Bowman as pinch-hitters in the ninth inning, but none of these men succeeded in hitting safely. Cornog starred for Swarthmore with two hits and a perfect fielding record.

DEATH CLAIMS MEMBER OF BOARD

A. W. Bomberger, an Alumnus and a Member of the Board of Directors, is Summoned by Death

After a long and serious illness A. W. Bomberger passed away last Tuesday at 11.40 p. m. at the German Hospital, Philadelphia, where he had been a patient for about a month. While it was known that Mr. Bomberger was seriously ill, his many friends had hoped that he might eventually recover and that many years might be added to his useful and busy life.

Mr. Bomberger sustained a close and intimate relation to the College. He was born in Philadelphia, but when yet a child his father, the Rev. J. H. A. Bomberger, D. D., became the founder of Ursinus College and the family removed to Collegeville. Here he grew up and secured his early training and collegiate education. He was graduated from the college in 1882. His name was connected with the Ursinus Bulletin as its editor for a number of years. Immediately after his graduation from college Mr. Bomberger began the study of law and in due time was admitted to the Norristown and Philadelphia bars, where he practiced for a considerable time. In the past twenty years he has been in the government service, his last position being that of cashier of the U. S. Mint in Philadelphia, which position he filled with fidelity and courtesy, with high honor and ability.

It was not one only line of activity, however, that claimed Mr. Bomberger's attention, but his versatile mind led him into various pursuits in which he both gained pleasure for himself and rendered service to his fellowmen. He had decided literary ability and some of the best periodicals of the country from time to time published his poems. He was a lover of nature and especially a lover of birds. He had studied their haunts and habits and wrote interestingly about them. As a Christian layman, for many years a Sunday school superintendent, his services were much in demand to make religious addresses. To these calls he responded to the limit of his time and strength.

GOOD DEBATE BY SCHAFF SOCIETY

Affirmative Secures Prizes in Debate on Literacy Test

The fifteenth annual Schaff Prize Debate, held in Bomberger Hall last Friday evening, was of extremely high grade and fully up to the standard set by the Society in this capacity in former years.

The first number of the evening was a very pleasing piano duet by Misses Seiz and Paul, '16. After the invocation by Dr. W. A. Kline, the question, Resolved, "That Immigration Into the United States Should be Further Restricted by a Literacy Test," was laid open to the able defense and vigorous attacks of the speakers. The question was argued, affirmatively, by Messrs. Light, '16, Houck, '19, and Spannuth, '17, and negatively, by Messrs. Smith, '16, Koons, '17, and McKee, '18.

The affirmative discussion was begun by Light, who proved that our country has need for further restriction of immigration. Mr. Houck continued by arguing that the illiterate immigrant is the most undesirable and hence further restriction should be aimed at him. Mr. Spannuth followed, for his side, proving that the literacy test is the most practicable and applicable method of restriction.

For the negative side, Mr. Smith spoke first and proved, by means of history, that the illiterate immigrant is not undesirable. Mr. Koons followed and had for his point that further restriction of immigration is undesirable. Mr. McKee, the last speaker, argued that the literacy test is not a feasible remedy.

After the direct speeches Miss Hyde sang a beautiful vocal solo. The rebuttal speeches followed and were exceedingly spirited. All of the speakers showed skill in attacking their opponents arguments and showed that they had the question well in hand. While waiting for the judges' decision the audience was entertained by several very well interpreted selections on the violin by Mr. Rutschky, '19. The decision of the judges was in favor of the affirmative. The first prize of ten dollars was awarded to Mr. Light, the second prize of five dollars to Mr. Spannuth, and the third prize of two-and-one-half dollars to Mr. Houck.

The Tower Window

AS I HAVE this talk with you, I am speeding home from Garden City, Long Island, where it has been my privilege to attend the sessions of the first national conference of the American Council of the World Alliance for Promoting International Friendship through the churches. This Alliance is the outgrowth of the conference held at Constantine, Switzerland, in August, 1914, just as the war broke out. The sudden breaking up of that meeting prevented only temporarily the consummation of its plans, for the organization of national councils was proceeded with even in belligerent countries, despite the war. It will be news to some that there was held at Berne, Switzerland, in August last, an international conference of representatives of these national councils in which all of the nations at war, save one, were represented. It is significant that these representatives were thus brought together through the agency of the Church Peace Union, an American institution, and through the personal efforts of its representative, an American college professor, Dr. Benjamin Z. Battin of Swarthmore.

The purpose of the present meeting was to make ready through organization and discussion for the American Council to take as active and influential a part as possible in securing a Christian basis for all international relationships.

The conference included over one hundred representative men from all parts of the United States representing various Christian bodies. The quality of the leadership is indicated in the list of speakers which included such men as Wm. H. P. Faunce, Charles S. MacFarland, John R. Mott, Frederick Lynch, Sidney L. Gulick and Robert E. Speer. The intellectual vigor and fullness of knowledge with which great world problems were treated were such as to inspire great confidence.

I was impressed particularly with the magnificent ideals which dominated the deliberations, and at the same time, with the thoroughly practical proposals which were worked out both for the further activities of the Council itself and for the great body of Christian churches which it represents.

Having been obliged to leave before these policies were put in final form as the expression of the Council, I am not at liberty to set them forth at this time without risk of inaccuracy, and therefore, of injustice. From the headquarters of the Council, a widely conducted propaganda of publicity for informing the Christian people of our land, and of the world, as to ways and means of infusing international relations with the Christian spirit, will be carried on. The aim will be especially to make this spirit prevail in establishing the new peace after the present war. G. L. O.

Soldiers by Consent

D. STERLING LIGHT, '16

(Oration delivered at the Pennsylvania Inter-collegiate Oratorical Contest held at Ursinus College, April 13, 1916. Mr. Light was awarded the third prize.—Editor.)

Beneath the iron heel of war, Europe lies prostrate. Her fertile fields are scarred by trench and shell. Monuments which once proclaimed the heights of culture she had attained, now stand as grim witnesses of the depravity to which she has been reduced. Her industries have been crippled and her factories are silent. In the wake of marching armies, death and desolation follow. So great has been the slaughter, that the progress of the war is impeded in some places by the stench of countless unburied bodies. The youth and manhood of the nations have been sent to the front as a sacrifice to the greedy god of war while at home the children and mothers, physically unfit and aged, are exposed to the atrocities of the invader and the pangs of starvation.

Three thousand miles of water lie between us and those scenes of carnage and depredation. Our fields are yielding larger crops than they have ever yielded. Our economic activities continue successful, although naturally disturbed by a war involving half the population of the earth. The sanctity of our firesides has not been violated and our domestic peace is not interrupted by incessant cannonade during the day and prowling airships by night.

Before the war, universal military service was necessary to maintain the military spirit in Europe. Every man, be he mechanic or sculptor, weaver or violinist, swimmer or astronomer, had to be a soldier first of all. The physical qualifications were considered first, to the neglect of skill, craft, competence and talent. The rational in man was subordinated to the animal. This system of compulsory service has made patriotism a mere sham, empty of liberty. For decency and fair play, it has substituted arbitrary authority and the morals of the irresponsible who escape their identity in the common uniform. In this system, individual responsibility, imposed by household, neighborhood, and state, is lost. By it, the military has been set up independent of and superior to civil power. Besides, the maintenance of this system has placed a heavy burden on the backs of the people and has mortgaged the future by burdening posterity with a staggering load of national debt.

Fortunately our lot has been a happier one. We too have spent enormous amounts of money for military purposes, but it must be born in mind that the cost of living is higher in this country than abroad and our soldiers are paid a salary which is not true of the European soldiers. Here no one is forced to be a soldier; only he, who desires it, is trained to be a fighter.

Yet there are some among us, who greatly frightened and alarmed by recent occurrences, insist that our policy is wrong and threatening to our national welfare. The present war and its horrors have distracted their minds from calm reflection and in their hysteria, they say the United States must duplicate European policies. She must maintain an enormous army and navy if she wishes to preserve the integrity of her territory and the independence of her people. But voluntary service will not secure enough men for such an army, we must resort to other methods. Several bills have recently been introduced in Congress urging universal compulsory service or a system of conscription as the only hope of the nation. These proposals are supported by many military officials and certain civilians who might profit through them either by increasing their personal authority or financial gain. In their minds, universal compulsory service is the only alternative. They say that it is just as much the duty of a citizen to bear arms in defense of his country as it is for him to vote. A man should be compelled to render military service to his country because it is his duty to do so. But compulsion and duty are two widely different and contradictory ideas. We render compulsory service because we fear the discomforts resulting from its neglect. We render the service of duty because of our loyalty and faith in the institution behind that service. Faith and loyalty in a country are the vital elements of patriotism. Compulsion is the executioner of faith and loyalty. But the United States has always maintained a policy of voluntary service. She has always allowed her subjects to ply the trades of their own choice. Civil authority has never permitted the military to secure absolute control over the government. One of the things that stirs every American heart is the love of individual liberty. We are bound together in America to see to it that no man shall serve any master who is not of his own choosing.

With these traditional policies and principles, the United States has become a leader among nations and a champion of peace and concord. Her position is envied by all nations. Blind to her own happy position and the miserable condition of Europe, shall she now cast aside her traditional policy? Shall she now deprive her citizens of that freedom of which they have so long justly boasted? Shall she now set up coercion in the place of patriotism? If she does, let her tear down and demolish the Statue of Liberty so that immigrants who flee to this country to escape compulsory service may not be misguided by her stately form.

Editorials

The Easter vacation has ended. It was an ideal one, and all will agree that it was one of those bright oases in ordinary life which release us from all cares and afford us opportunity to unbend and mingle in cheerful recreation with our esteemed friends. We were in need of a stimulus of this sort after a season of hard work at the study table, in order to clear away the cobwebs from our brains, to revive our social natures, and to develop our finer sentiments and feelings of humanity.

But now, that we have returned to our necessary tasks, it remains to be proved how efficiently we shall dispose of them. We have had a rest and therefore should be able to do our work more efficiently than before. The most beautiful and most pleasant season of the year is at our disposal; that season when everything seems bubbling over with life. How are we going to dispose of it? It is a sad tradition that in most colleges there is a tendency on the part of students to cease from all responsibilities before the close of the school year. This has been taking place, not only in classwork, but in the various other college activities. It is a wrong idea and detrimental both to the offender and to the standing of the college. No college is stronger than the student body, since it is the students who make the college, whatever it may be.

It is true that there are many things at this particular season of the year that tend to call us from our work. The call of pleasure and natural desire is a temptation to most of us, but the call of duty should be answered first. By the proper arrangement of our time, all of our duties can be attended to, and there will still be time left for indulgence in the pleasures of the season.

J. S. G., '17.

For a number of years the Athletic Association of the College has held a Valentine Fete during the month of February, the dominant purpose being to secure funds to be used in equipping the Varsity baseball team with new uniforms and other needful paraphernalia. It was customary to hold the fete every other year until last year when the Athletic Committee deemed it expedient to make it an annual event. This year, when the usual time for laying plans for the fete had arrived, it was found that the contemplated dates which had been set conflicted with other important functions which were to be held in the community. It was, therefore, decided to hold it during the month of May, under the title, "May Festival." The date selected is Saturday evening, May 13.

Extensive preparations for the event are well under way. A number of townspeople, as well as those who are affiliated with the College, have kindly consented to act as heads of committees. The appointments have been made mainly from the point of experience and efficiency. At a meeting of the heads of committees held on Saturday evening subsidiary committees were appointed composed of students.

We desire to make an earnest appeal to the students of the College, especially to those who have been selected to serve on the various committees, to give their whole-hearted support to the project, for we realize that only by the concerted efforts of each and every committeeman, working under the direction of the chairman, can the success of the affair be insured. Last year the coöperation on the part of the student body with the heads of committees was above reproach and we are eagerly looking forward to a recurrence of this most desirable feature and feel confident that our appeal will be favorably received. We are not working for any individual but, as a unit, for the ultimate benefit of our Alma Mater. This fact alone should call forth the best that is in us, not to mention the material and social benefits derived therefrom. Let the loyal sons and daughters of Ursinus, members of the faculty, townspeople and friends bear May 13 in mind that you may be prepared to lend your hearty support to so worthy a cause, if not as a committeeman, at least by your presence.

L. F. D., '16.

Y. M. C. A.

At the regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A., held last Wednesday evening in Bomberger Hall, Mr. Max C. Putney, '18, was the leader and made the principal address. The subject for consideration was "If Christ Came to Ursinus."

The substance of Mr. Putney's talk was as follows: "There have been several books written and much has been said about what would happen if Christ were here on earth. We know that when people come to visit us we try to tender them the best reception possible, because we realize that impressions are invariably formed. If Christ should come, we would all be eager to give Him a royal welcome. But He would not care for our welcome, for He can see into the heart, and He would call us hypocrites. If we would so strive to greet Him if He came in person, why not always try to do His will, since He is ever with us as He said: 'Behold, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world.' Assuredly, if we all did this, Christ would find an inspired Ursinus when He came, and He would realize that our welcome was not hypocritical."

After this talk there was a period of discussion, in which a number participated.

Mr. Bomberger's interest lay in Christian service, good literature and music, genuine culture in art and science, and in good citizenship. Among his published works are the following: "A Book on Birds"; "Poems of Christmas and Other Verse"; "Magdalene"; and "Songs of Nature."

The welfare of his alma mater lay near to Mr. Bomberger's heart. This was quite natural, since he was linked to the College as son of the founder and first president, as alumnus, as member of the board of directors, and as the father of a promising son now in college. He was elected to the board of directors in 1898 and served a number of years. He was again elected in 1915 and was at present serving in that capacity.

Ursinus Reserves Win

The Ursinus second string men sprung a complete surprise on Perkiomen Seminary Wednesday afternoon by defeating them 3-0 in an exciting game. Peterson twirled an excellent game for Ursinus; allowing only two singles and striking out ten batsmen. The local boys hit well and fielded almost perfectly, but were careless in base running during the early innings. Will caught a fine game and secured three of Ursinus' seven hits. Score:

Alumni Notes

Thomas A. Bock, '10, Superintendent of the Chester County schools, presented the diplomas to the graduating class of East Nantmael High School.

Charles Fisher, '14, has resigned his position as assistant principal of the Royersford High School to accept the principalship of the Norwood schools. He will study conditions for three years during preparations for building a union high school for Norwood, Prospect Park, and Glenolden Districts. Due to the Eddystone munitions plants, which have caused a great influx of families into these districts, the number of children of school age has so increased in the last few months as to necessitate the erection of new schools.

George R. Ensminger, '14, teaching in South River, N. J., has sent to the WEEKLY the program for the meeting of the New Jersey Science Teachers' Association, Elementary Science Section, to be held in the High School of Paterson on May 6th. One of the principle speakers of the occasion will be A. F. Long, '12, who will defend one of the sides in a debate pertinent to the work of the Association.

Rev. Charles E. Wehler, D. D., '87, of Hood College, delivered a forceful talk before the Young People's Branch of the W. C. T. U. on April 17th.

Many Ursinus Alumni who are pastors of Reformed Churches report, through the columns of The Reformed Church Messenger, very successful Easter Confirmations and Communions. They seem all to have been successful in securing large numbers of accessions for their respective charges.

The annual commencement of the Central Theological Seminary, Dayton, Ohio, will be held April 30-May 4. The program contains the name of Rev. J. M. S. Isenberg, D. D., of Philadelphia.

A beautiful memorial tablet was unveiled in the main auditorium of St. Mark's Church, Lebanon, Pa., Rev. I. Calvin Fisher, D. D., pastor, on April 16th. The tablet contains the names of fourteen persons whose friends subscribed toward this tablet.

The 110th anniversary of the Sunday School of the First Reformed Church, Philadelphia, Rev. Edgar R. Appenzeller, '00, pastor, was celebrated on April 16th. This school is the oldest still extant in Philadelphia.

B. Harrison Kell, '14, has been pursuing his studies for the past two years in McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago, with eminent success. Because of the good record which he made and excellence in scholarship, he has been awarded the Greek scholarship for the coming year.

Among the Colleges

Lafayette proposes a re enforced concrete grandstand for her athletic field. The stand will be modeled after the plan of the present one on Franklin Field, University of Pennsylvania, and will have a seating capacity of 20,000.

Drastic measures have been taken by the Student Council of Dickinson College with reference to the enforcement of Freshman rules. So severe have the penalties been made that a third offense by any Freshman is considered sufficient cause to ostracise him completely from class and college government during the rest of his college career.

Contributions to the amount of $1,275 have been made by the students of Mercersburg Academy for the support of Dr. W. F. Adams, a medical missionary in China. This is the fifteenth annual contribution which the academy students have made in support of Dr. Adams in his project.

Provisions have been made by the class of 1913, Arts and Science, Columbia University, whereby, each year, the member of her football team who attains the highest scholastic standard will be awarded a silver cup. This cup will have his name engraved upon it and will be placed in the trophy room of the university while another smaller one will be given into his possession.

The baseball team of the Mutual Welfare League of Sing Sing Prison has asked for a game with Princeton's nine, and will probably be granted the request if a date can be arranged.

Alumni Field is the name of the new athletic field which Swarthmore is building. It will include space for football, track and lacrosse, and will cost approximately $29,000, not including the grandstand.

Yale University has sixteen graduates in the present Congress.

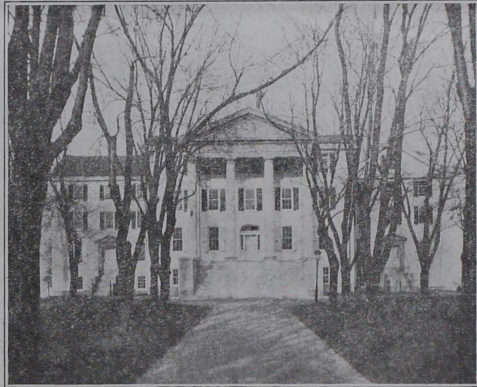

At a class rally of this year's graduating class at Princeton University it was agreed that each member of the class should take out an insurance policy in favor of the University. The policies will be of three classes, all of which will yield their dividends after twenty-four years or at the death of the alumnus. The total amount which the University will realize from these policies will approximate $60,000.

Billy Sunday added a distinguishing feature to the baseball game between Harvard and Johns Hopkins by officiating in the umpire's box during the game. He recorded a score of 12-3 in favor of Harvard.

URSINUS COLLEGE

COLLEGEVILLE, PENNSYLVANIA

Located in a well-improved college town twenty-four miles from Philadelphia. Fifty-four acres of grounds fronting one-fifth of a mile on the main street. Administration building, three residence halls for men, two residence halls for women, president's home, apartments for professors, athletic cage and field-house, central heating plant and other buildings, all in excellent condition. Three new dining rooms and new sanitary kitchen.

THE CURRICULUM

embraces four years of work in the arts and sciences leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science, and includes

SEVEN GROUPS OF COURSES

I. THE CLASSICAL GROUP

This is a course in the liberal arts with special emphasis upon the Latin and Greek languages. It is specially adapted to fit students for the theological schools and for general work in the teaching profession.

II. THE LATIN-MATHEMATICAL GROUP

This group has exceptional disciplinary value and provides a broad general culture. It constitutes an excellent group for students expecting to make teaching their life work.

III. THE MATHEMATICAL-PHYSICAL GROUP

This group includes advanced courses in mathematics and the sciences. It is designed for students who wish to teach these subjects, or who wish to pursue courses in high grade technical schools.

IV. THE CHEMICAL-BIOLOGICAL GROUP

This group is designed primarily for students who expect to enter the medical profession and for persons who wish to become specialists in chemistry and in the biological sciences.

V. THE HISTORICAL-POLITICAL GROUP

This group furnishes thorough preparation for the study of the law, and enables students who expect to teach to become specialists in history, economics, political science and public finance.

VI. THE ENGLISH-HISTORICAL GROUP

This group fits the student for a life of letters in general and offers exceptional advantages for persons expecting to enter the educational profession.

VII. THE MODERN LANGUAGE GROUP

This group affords special advantages to students who expect to enter the field of literature, or who desire to become specialists in teaching the modern languages.
