THE WEEK OF PRAYER

Four Evening Services Held Under the Auspices of Christian Associations

DEWEES F. SINGLEY, President Y. M. C. A.

The Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. conducted a series of four meetings during the past week known as the week of prayer. A large number of the students and professors attended and considerable interest in the work was shown. Several special musical numbers were rendered in connection with the meetings and N. K. Wiest, '17, accompanied the chorus singing on his cornet.

On Monday evening the Rev. A. D. Wolfinger addressed the students. Rev. Wolfinger spoke on the subject of taking Christ with us in our business relationships. Comparison between our call to service and that of Paul was drawn and the need of Christ in our life was shown to be as great in the business world as it is in the ecclesiastical professions.

Jesus is linked up with the life of the whole world. He regulates the planets. He is the Sovereign of the rain, the sun, and the sea. If we would take Him out of the universe in which we live, there would follow immediate extinction of life. Can we then ask what He has to do with our lives?

For Paul this Sovereign had the call of the mission field. He has various callings for us and He never runs out of a job. It is Christ that establishes callings in accordance with the need for carrying on of this work. He holds inseparable connection with a service to which any man is appointed by Him, however menial it may be. God said of Paul, "He is a chosen vessel unto me." This is the object in every life work. Such an object precludes callings in which a man lives a life of luxury at the expense of his soul. If a man cannot live as he ought to live in his profession, he is not called to it.

The new vision that Paul received of relationship to God was what led him to see that he had been standing against his Sovereign, and in a moment he was changed into a submissive servant of God. By devotion to Christ we enter a co-operative scheme for this world's uplift. This new factor, the devotion to the interest of fellowmen is what makes work easy and the burden light. The man or woman who lives for himself never gets enough. The greatest compensation possible will be given to us. The greatest pay does not come in the envelope at the end of the week. Our reward will be that we shall be heirs of God and joint heirs with Christ.

The second speaker of the Week of Prayer was Mr. W. H. Turner, a busi-

VALENTINE FETE SUCCESSFULLY HELD

Athletic Association Assisted by Townspeople Realizes Large Sum

On Saturday evening, February 13, Bomberger Hall was the scene of festivities. The Athletic Committee had completed its arrangements for the grand valentine fete. The fete was a success socially and financially. The English room was used for the supper and refreshments. On the chapel platform were the flower and fancy-work booths, while the hallways were utilized by the tables of cake, candy and punch. In the girls' study room several games were placed while the hallway outside was utilized by "Jack" Mitterling and his "coon," W. A. Brown, '17. This was one of the active places of the evening as Mitterling's barking and Brown's artful dodging amused the onlookers.

The features of the evening were the shows.

The girls' show was held in Schaff hall in which about ten girls participated. The title of the play was "A Business Meeting" and was a travesty on the Faculty Ladies' Meeting. It abounded in local hits and each of the girls portrayed her character excellently. Miss Wiest as Mrs. Omwake presided, Miss Snyder as Mrs. Crow was secretary while Miss Slinghoff as Mrs. Hirsch entertained. Miss Rahn deserves much credit for her work.

The boys' show in Zwing Hall was a burlesque on Romeo and Juliet entitled, "Does Romeo for what Juliet?" The characters were Juliet, Mr. Adams; Romeo, Mr. Deininger; Benvolio, Mr. Thena; Paris and Servant, Mr. Hoover; Nurse, Mr. Harrity. Five scenes were burlesqued including the famous balcony scene and the death of Romeo and Juliet in the tomb. The audience was kept in a state of continuous laughter during the performance.

The chairman of the various committees and the amounts realized by each follows. There are incidental expenses which no doubt will lower the total amount.

Some Points About Southern Colleges For Women

Professor Mary E. Markley, A. M., '02
Agnes Scott College

The close observer in reading the classification of colleges by Dr. Babcock, specialist in higher education, will be struck by the geographical division of the colleges for women in class I. In Pennsylvania there is Bryn Mawr; in New York—Wells, Vassar, Barnard; in the New England states—Mt. Holyoke, Smith, Wellesley, Radcliffe; in the Middle West—Rockford; in the South—Goucher, Randolph-Macon, Agnes Scott. Certainly, all things considered, the South is not without considerable credit to have achieved three institutions of such grade, even if the last two named have only just found a place in the list which must be maintained by actual results and if the last neither by situation nor personnel of student body is strictly sectional. If a similar proportion of colleges for women could be found in the other classes, the South might well be proud; but in class II only a single institution exclusively for women is to be found—Sophie Newcomb Memorial College, affiliated with Tulane University; and in classes III and IV, which are rated as doing three or two years of college work of national standard, less than a dozen have so far found a place. Were it the purpose to confine this discussion to such institutions as are properly labelled and designated by the Federal Bureau, the reader would have a most inadequate idea of the situation because of the inference that there were certainly too few colleges to take care of the girls. Quite the contrary is the real state of affairs. About 145 colleges did not come into the field of vision of the afore-mentioned specialist, either because they fell below his minimum standard for class IV, or because he did not have time to investigate them. In short, there are in the South approximately 160 colleges exclusively for women—the actual number dependent upon the latest birth or death of an institution—ranging from some twenty odd in Tennessee to one in Alabama. Clearly such a condition suggests some questions.

The first difficulty in discussing southern colleges for women, as indicated above, is the indeterminate meaning of the term college. The name is made to cover institutions differing as widely as Sophie Newcomb with an endowment income of $90,000 and a school run for private gain where one woman may teach Latin, English, and Mathematics, and do chaperoning in her spare moments; the word includes Goucher with all its forceful potentialities and an organization which performs none of the duties of a college except to confer the A. B. degree. In her report of Standards of Southern Colleges for Women presented at the ninth annual meeting of the Southern Association of College Women at Nashville in 1912, Miss Colton of Meredith College, presented one list of 35 colleges doing at least three years of standard work, another of 49 including as much as two years preliminary work in their so-called collegiate course, and a third of 55 institutions which must, judging from their entrance requirements, count three or four years of preparatory work toward a degree.

Such a condition is the logical outcome of a general neglect on the part of many institutions to discriminate rigidly between their preparatory department and college. There are reasons, too, why, except in colleges of acknowledged national standards, it has never been easy to make this distinction. The great majority of girls attending southern institutions take more or less work in art, expression, or music. The natural result is that colleges find themselves admitting students under various requirements. Candidates for the baccalaureate degree may have to offer the maximum number of entrance units; applicants for diplomas in art, expression, or music come in with from ten to no entrance credits. Once in, these heterogeneous students create two possible situations: either those with minimum preparation are put into classes by themselves to do preparatory work; or they are grouped in courses with the better prepared girls—in which case work must necessarily drop below college standards. In both situations the same teachers conduct the various classes, whether of inferior college rank or of preparatory grade. The truth of the matter is, that if it were not for the presence of the so-called irregular students and for the double organization, many institutions would be financially incapable of maintaining any college work.

Nor is this the only difficulty that so-called colleges find in separating absolutely collegiate and preparatory work. Until recent years good secondary schools of any type were exceedingly scarce; even now good four-year public high schools in the south are far from common, and feeling against sending girls to such democratic schools is only just disappearing. As a result when a girl goes away from home for her higher education, she may be prepared for college in some subjects and be absolutely deficient in others. When a college class I like Agnes Scott, which naturally draws students of the more ambitious sort, has to condition in Modern Languages 60 in an entering class of 100 is it any wonder that other colleges by courtesy find it impossible to designate a girl definitely as college or preparatory? Indeed it has been pointed out by Miss Colton that literal compliance with the entrance requirement according to the Carnegie Foundation would, in some cases, make freshmen more advanced than the upper classmen in the same institution. Improvement, in the line of preparation is, of course, gradually coming about; but it is slow due to the dearth of college graduates teaching in secondary schools. If all of the meagre 200 women who are graduated every year from Class I colleges in the south were to go into secondary school work it would even then take years to fill all the positions that await them. As a consequence of conditions, the so-called colleges claim, preparatory work must be continued.

THE WEEK OF PRAYER.

ness man of Philadelphia, who addressed the student body on Tuesday evening. He chose "Prayer" as his theme, and gave a very clearly-defined and logical talk on the subject.

He emphasized the fact that many of us have a most inadequate conception of prayer, our environment having much to do with this misapprehension. Prayer is the soul's sincere desire; and yet we frequently think of it as something which takes place at very unusual times. Men of all ages have exhibited this vague impression of prayer. The disciples had associated with Jesus; but that they did not understand the real meaning of communion with Christ is evinced by their supplication, "Lord, teach us to pray."

Today it is not fashionable to be introspective. Our prayer is too mechanical and we approach God's throne not so much for the joy which we may derive thereby, but because of habit and custom which have moulded our lives. We daily substitute contact for communion with Christ, while we are losing sight of the fact that the Holy Spirit can come to us the same as he did to the apostles and prophets if we are only willing and prepared to receive him. The difficulty is that we are unwilling to abstain from those things which retard the development of our spiritual life, and forge that the only true way to open our hearts to Christ is to sacrifice those things which are a hindrance to our communion with God.

The speaker for Wednesday evening was Rev. R. S. Snyder, of Schwenksville. He based his talk on Philipians 2:6-10, which was in part as follows:

In this day of uncertainty when we are confronted with so many great problems of social importance we must also answer one of vital personal importance, than which there is no greater, namely, How are we to succeed in mounting to a higher level, thus making the most of ourselves in the world? This desire for personal betterment is a worthy ambition and can be realized only by following the program of Jesus Christ. Christ was willing to become man thereby sacrificing everything. He became obedient to his Father. He was even willing to suffer death.

For men or women to be of real help in the world they must be willing to sacrifice everything and live a life of true service. Nothing of pride or selfishness can be retained. Full obedience must be rendered to God's commands, regardless of personal ambitions. Only by causing the self to die and be cast down can man realize his full potentiality as a servant of God, and be completely transformed into a beautiful instrument in His hands.

On Thursday evening Rev. Mr. Snyder spoke on "The Lordship of Christ." Again his practical and powerful talk reached his audience with peculiar force. It was based on the text, "One thing thou lackest." In it he said: "A person may say he does not believe one will be kept out of the kingdom because of lacking one thing. But it depends what that one thing is. It may grow to such magnitude that it forms a barrier to salvation. Whilst we must believe in the love of God we cannot fail to believe also in His sovereignty.

"Some people remain in sin because they do not want to 'cut out' the barriers. Their desire for salvation is not strong enough for them to give up some pet sin. The rich young ruler, for example, had culture, morality, purity and reverence, but lacked one thing—the power of surrendering that one thing he loved. This was sufficient to bar him from the kingdom.

"What is our barrier? It may be pride, a stubborn will or a secret sin. Many are too proud to be seen reading the Bible or praying. If the barrier be secret sin, we must tear it out of our lives. We must give our wills to God. We will be of no power in the world unless we do. The chords of Christ must vibrate in our lives. We must submit ourselves to the tune of the Great Harp and be tuned up to His pitch. Then Christ will be lord of our lives and we will be really living."

Editorial

Two of our students are at present quarantined because of mumps. A month ago Fisher, '18, was confined to his room because of mumps. The doctor placed a quarantine on his room and we believe if the fellows had kept out of his room that would have been the end of the affair.

What we need here at Ursinus is a room set aside as an infirmary. It is not necessary to have a trained attendant here at all times, but a special room, fitted out with the necessary appliances should be in readiness in case an emergency arises, and the matter of securing an attendant could easily be taken care of.

We do not anticipate an epidemic, but as chicken-pox is prevalent in town just now it might be well to give the subject of an infirmary careful consideration. It would not require the expenditure of a large sum, but would insure the careful attention which is needful to the sick and also prevent the contagion of others.

C. F. D., '15.

Pittsburg debating includes a team of girls who will meet Geneva College in a contest.

Mr. H. E. Paisley, the president of the Board of Directors of the college, recently suffered the loss of two members of his family. On the day preceding Founders' Day he buried his mother and within the past week he lost a brother by death. The editors of the WEEKLY extend their heartfelt sympathy to Mr. Paisley in his bereavement.

From the Sick Room.

Kerschner, '16, has returned to college and has resumed his active school duties.

Ancona, '15, has returned to his home from the hospital. He is improving rapidly, but will not return to college for several weeks.

Peterson, '18, who has had a severe attack of the mumps, is now out of danger and convalescing. Bahner, '16, whose attack of the mumps was not quite as severe, is improving; and under the care of the attendant we trust both will soon be out.

Godshall, '15, has been quarantined for about a week because of chicken-pox in the family.

Dr. Omwake was compelled to submit to a minor but painful operation this week, but is now feeling much better. He was the recipient of a bouquet of flowers from the senior class.

Prof. Hirsch was obliged to miss his classes on Monday because of a severe cold.

Dr. Tower did not meet his classes last week, as his daughter has the chicken-pox and the doctor has placed a quarantine on the family.

Quartet Will Sing

The third number of the lecture course will be rendered on Monday evening, March 1, at 8 o'clock, when the Metropolitan Grand Quartet will entertain in Bomberger Hall. The price of admission to this concert will be fifty cents. The regular course tickets which contain three numbers still to be produced can be purchased at a reduced rate at the college office.

This quartet comes highly recommended as singers who have reputations as individual artists, each having sung in opera, concert and oratorio. The personal is as follows: Mr. Paul Chase, Lyric Tenor, noted oratorio and operatic singer; Chas. A. Neth, Lyric Tenor, member of Wurtzburg, Germany, Opera Co.; Thos. W. Lane, Basso-Contralto, for several seasons with Shubert and Savage Companies in grand and light opera; John Eberly, Baritone, for seven seasons at the head of the Eberly Concert Companies; Mrs. Willo Page Lane, Pianist.

Washington's Rules of Behavior

Washington Irving writes that it was probably Washington's intimacy with the family of Lord Fairfax, in which the frankness and simplicity of rural and colonial life were united with European refinement that led him to compile a code of morals and manners, which still exist in a manuscript in his own hand writing, entitled "Rules for behavior in company and conversation" Apropos to the day we print some of these rules in this issue of the WEEKLY.

Every action in company ought to be with some sign of respect to those present.

Turn not your back to others, especially in speaking; jog not the table or desk on which another read or writes; lean not on any one.

Wherein you reprove another, be unblamable yourself; for example is more prevalent than precept.

Use no reproachful language against any one; neither curse, nor revile.

Be not hasty to believe flying reports to the disparagement of any.

Speak not injurious words, neither in jest nor earnest; scoff at none, although they give occasion.

Think before you speak, pronounce not imperfectly, nor bring out your words too hastily, but orderly and distinctly.

Treat with men at fit times about business; and whisper not in the company of others.

Be not apt to relate news if you know not the truth thereof. In discoursing of things you have heard, name not your author always. A secret discover not.

When you deliver a matter, do it without passion, and with discretion, however mean the person be you do it to.

Speak not evil of the absent, for it is unjust.

Be not angry at table, whatever happens, and, if you have reason to be so, show it not; put on a cheerful countenance, especially if there be strangers, for good humor makes one dish of meat a feast.

When you speak of God or his attributes, let it be seriously in reverence. Honor and obey your natural parents, although they be poor.

Let your recreation be manful, not sinful.

Labor to keep alive in your breast that little spark of celestial fire, called conscience.

Senior men at Indiana have adopted corduroy trousers as their distinctive dress.

Zwinglian Society

The program on Friday evening was of a miscellaneous nature. Miss Kern played a violin solo which was an excellent opening number. Mr. Glendenning read a very interesting paper on "Labor Unions." The male quartet, Mr. S. Gulich, leader, was well received by the audience. An original story by Mr. Schnatz on "The Adventures of a Field Mouse," held the attention of his hearers. It was well written. The pantomime, Mr. Adams, leader, deserves special mention. It made a decided hit by imitating local characters and scenes. The following numbers were given: Nevin Wiest Fishing; An Interrupted Library Course; "Doc" Kerr having breakfast; Miss Wiest receiving a letter from New Brunswick; Brother Yoch singing, "Du, Du Liegst Mir Im Herten;" Putting out the Fire in Thena's Room; and Taking a girl home from society. The cast included: Misses Kern and Kraft, Messrs. Adams, Deininger, Mulford, Stugart and Sellers. Mr. Fegely followed with a piano solo which was much enjoyed. Mr. Mitterling then delivered a masterful oration on "Labor Unions." An interesting Review was read by Mr. Lamont. Mr. Harrity gave the Critic's Report. The members responded to their names at the roll call with quotations. Mr. Davidheiser, '14, was present and made a few remarks to the society.

Schaff Society

The program which was of a general literary nature was interesting throughout. The numbers were as follows: Essay on Rudyard Kipling by Mr. Hartmanft. This was well written, and read in an interesting manner by Mr Hoover. Mr. P. Dietz read Kipling's "Song of the Banjo." He deserves much commendation for the way in which he presented this difficult selection. The declamation from E. Everett by Mr. G. Dietz was equally well appreciated. In Mr. Richard's reading he showed himself to be a good imitator of the negro dialect. Mr. Yeatts' piano solo was a beautiful selection and well rendered. The reading from Samuel S. McClure's Autobiography by Mr. Kochel was of especial interest, since it showed the struggles with which this now well-known man worked his way through college. Mr. Gobrecht's essay on McClure was both instructive and interesting. Mr. Kichline recited a parody in a very humorous manner. This was followed by a reading from Kipling by Mr. Koons. Miss Boorem then played several pleasing piano solos. The gazette by Miss Miller was the concluding number.

The society was pleased to welcome into active membership Miss Mary Borneman of Norristown, Pa.

A farewell reception was tendered Rev. W. E. Garrett, '99, pastor of St. Luke's Reformed congregation, Braddock, Pa., by the people of his church, on January 28. As a mark of their esteem for their pastor, with whom they part reluctantly, the members of the congregation presented him with a handsome 21-jewel gold watch, and several other beautiful and useful gifts. Rev. Garrett, who served the Braddock church for seven years, began his pastorate in the new Oxford, Pa., charge last Sunday.

Glee Club at Boyertown

The fifth concert of the year was rendered at Boyertown on Thursday evening. The club left college in the afternoon and returned late that same night. The concert was given as the second number on the high school lecture course and proved very entertaining. The audience was large and appreciative, every number being encored, the club responding at one time to four encores. Deininger's monologues pleased the audience as his Hebrew impersonations nearly always do. The minstrel again made a hit and kept the audience in continuous good humor.

The senior class at Bucknell will give $500 toward the improvement of the Bucknell athletic field.

Among the Colleges

F. and M. track men will participate in the Pennsylvania relay carnival in Philadelphia, April 23 and 24. The schools rated with it are Bucknell, Dickinson, West Virginia University, West Virginia Wesleyan, Rutgers, and Lehigh.

The home economics department of the Oregon Agricultural College spent a part of the laboratory periods making hospital garments for the Red Cross Society. Money was solicited for the purchasing of material by the Y. W. C. A.

Nine hundred students at Columbia University earn a sum total of $150,000.

University of Pittsburg will celebrate the 128th anniversary of the founding of the university, February 26.

The University of Pittsburg, with an increase of 1,069 students over the registration of the fall term of 1913, made the largest gain of any of the universities in the United States.

The foreign enrollment at the University of Pennsylvania is 25% less than that of last year, due to the present war.

Gym classes for faculty members have been organized at the University of Michigan, which meet twice a week. The work is proving popular.

Gettysburg and Bucknell will debate this year on the question: Resolved, That the United States Constitution should be so amended as to give the national government more power.

One of the topics for discussion on Alumni Day at Columbia is "Shall the alumni support the movement started by the undergraduates for football at Columbia?"

Johns Hopkins has decided for the time at least, not to become a part of the Maryland State University, which was created by an act of the last Legislature.

The National Inter-Collegiate Prohibition Association will canvass the colleges of the country in search of 3,000 men who will work during the summer against "John Barleycorn."

"Common Sense Leagues" were formed at Columbia, Yale, Harvard, and Trinity. These leagues are opposed to militarism.

Mellon Institute, a part of the University of Pittsburg, has its own endowment. In February it will occupy its new home, the most modern and largest research laboratory in the United States.

A ballot was cast at Princeton in regard to compulsory chapel attendance. The undergraduates are overwhelmingly against it.

THE CURRICULUM

embraces four years of work in the arts and sciences leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science, and includes

SEVEN GROUPS OF COURSES

I. THE CLASSICAL GROUP

This is a course in the liberal arts with special emphasis upon the Latin and Greek languages. It is specially adapted to fit students for the theological schools and for general work in the teaching profession.

II. THE LATIN-MATHEMATICAL GROUP

This group has exceptional disciplinary value and provides a broad general culture. It constitutes an excellent group for students expecting to make teaching their life work.

III. THE MATHEMATICAL-PHYSICAL GROUP

This group includes advanced courses in mathematics and the sciences. It is designed for students who wish to teach these subjects, or who wish to pursue courses in high grade technical schools.

IV. THE CHEMICAL-BIOLOGICAL GROUP

This group is designed primarily for students who expect to enter the medical profession and for persons who wish to become specialists in chemistry and in the biological sciences.

V. THE HISTORICAL-POLITICAL GROUP

This group furnishes thorough preparation for the study of the law, and enables students who expect to teach to become specialists in history, economics, political science and public finance.

VI. THE ENGLISH-HISTORICAL GROUP

This group fits the student for a life of letters in general and offers exceptional advantages for persons expecting to enter the educational profession.

VII. THE MODERN LANGUAGE GROUP

This group affords special advantages to students who expect to enter the field of literature, or who desire to become specialists in teaching the modern languages.

An announcement by the president of the Athletic Association follows:

In behalf of the athletic committee I wish to extend our most profound thanks to these people and to those who assisted them in making the fete a success. Too much credit cannot be given to the people of the town for their generous donations and kindly cooperation. This is merely another expression of the kindly interest of the people of the town in our college. R. L. M., '15.

On Saturday evening, February 27, at 6.45 o'clock the contest to select the representative of Ursinus to the Inter-Collegiate Oratorical Contest, to be held at Lafayette, will be held in Bomberger Hall. Thus far three contestants have announced their intention to compete, Messrs. Singley, Harrity and Deininger. The students and townspeople are cordially invited to attend. The contest will begin promptly at 6.45 o'clock as the hall must be given over to another meeting at a later hour. Those arriving after the speakers have begun will be denied admittance.

On Saturday evening at 8 o'clock the No-License League of Montgomery County will hold a public meeting in Bomberger Hall. Ex-Governor Martin H. Glynn of New York will be the speaker. The students, faculty and townspeople are welcome at this meeting. There will be no admittance to this meeting before 7.40 o'clock.

The inter-group games last week resulted in a victory for the Chem.-Bi. and the Historical-Political teams. The Chem.-Bi. did not have much difficulty in defeating the Mathematical team, 31 to 11. The Hist.-Pol. team was handed a surprise in the game with the Classical team. It was not until the last few minutes of play that the politicians pulled ahead of the preachers and teachers and finally won, 23-19.

Princeton and Rutgers were the first colleges to play football, beginning in 1856. Michigan is the pioneer among the western colleges, and adopted the game in 1878.
