FOOTBALL

URSINUS VS WILLIAMSON

The Williamson hoodoo has at last been overcome. For many years Ursinus has opened the football season with Williamson Trade School, and invariably the boys from Media give us a bad scare. In 1907 they came off the victors, 4-0. Last year Ursinus had a difficult task to score one touch down. And so Ursinus did not feel exactly confident of a walk-over when the first game of the season of 1909 began, Saturday afternoon. But it was not long until all fear had been dispelled, and then it was simply a matter of how high the score should be.

Not often has the weather been so propitious for the opening game. There was a crispness in the air that could not be mistaken for other than a harbinger of fall, and of real football weather to come. The recent rain had left the ground in fine shape, neither too hard or too soft. There was a good-sized, enthusiastic crowd present, the cheering was all that could be hoped for in the absence of a grand-stand, and altogether fortune beamed her brightest smiles on the Red, Old Gold and Black.

The game itself was, in the main, more interesting and exciting than the score would indicate. The Williamson team, spurred on by the hope of repeating past performances, played their hardest throughout the entire game, though they soon realized that they were outclassed. They were entirely impotent to stop the Ursinus attack and were equally weak on the offense as they were unable to make one first down. The only point where they excelled was in kicking off. Reischer, who put the ball in play for the visitors, failed only once to boot the ball, high and far toward Ursinus' goal line. Kerr Thompson for Ursinus was not often called upon to essay his punting ability. The forward pass was used frequently, though not always with success. The ends, Bunting, Behney and in the last five minutes of play Kickline, showed up well. Behney especially distinguished himself by making two touchdowns, one on a forward pass and another by recovering a punt. Gay, K. Thompson, Isenberg and Quay were consistent ground gainers, and the linemen, Douthett, Gerges, the Thompsons and Knauer tore big holes in the opponents' defense.

But there were several decidedly discouraging features from the Ursinus viewpoint. The eleven fumbled consistently. At least two more touchdowns were lost through this fault. It was quite evident that some of the men had not mastered the signals and once there was a general misunderstanding as to just what play was about to be executed and then ensued a free-for-all word scrap among the Ursinus men. They evidently forgot for the moment that when a football player is unable to encourage his teammates he should remain silent, and that it is the Captain's duty to give orders.

Coach Price ran in a number of substitutes in the second half. This was surely a good move, for the promising scrub men deserve plenty of chance to show what they can do under fire. Davis was substituted for West and put up a good game. Kickline was sent in to replace Behney and "Kick" also proved his ability. Yohe and Laucks took the places of Douthett and Gergis and seemed to hold their own. Keyser, who came out for practice Thursday of last week, played halfback during the last half and showed good form, considering the amount of practice he had had. The line up:

HANDEL CHORAL SOCIETY

The Handel Choral held its first practice for the school year on Monday night. Practices will be continued throughout the year, Monday and Thursday nights. The first concert will be rendered in December, when "The Holy City," an oratorio will be offered, with the assistance of several Philadelphia soloists.

Many inquiries have been made concerning the organization. Any student in the institution, or person in the entire surrounding community with a singing voice is eligible to membership. The membership fee for the year is $2.00, without any extra charge for music. Any lover of music, or anyone wishing to cultivate a feeling for the art, will be amply repaid by taking an active part in this work.

Y. M. C. A.

Joseph Yost, '10, President of the Association took charge of the meeting. His theme was the year's text: "But this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind and reaching forth unto those things that are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling which is in Christ Jesus."

He said in part: The work has begun auspiciously and the field is large. There is a great work for us to accomplish. Heretofore there has been a mistaken idea concerning the Y. M. C. A. The prevalent view seems to have been that the Association is for only prospective ministers. The Y. M. C. A. is for every man who wants to live a clean, pure life and no man is broad minded who thinks that the Y. M. C. A. does not contribute to each life something that will make such living possible.

"It is up to us who are now active members to rededicate our lives at the altar of service and help the fellows to appreciate the value of the Association meetings. The meetings this year will be varied. Some out-of-town speakers will be secured and several joint meetings with the Y. W. C. A. will be held. Several new members were elected."

The following appointments have been made for the college faculty—Asst. Librarians, Miss Dunn, '11, and Dunseath, '10; Assistant in Chemistry, Wagner, '10; Asst. Secretary, Miss Helen Poley.

CLASSICAL GROUP REORGANIZES

The Classical Group of the College met for reorganization and election of officers on Tuesday. The result of the election was as follows: President, Maeder, '10, Vice-President, Quay, '11, Secretary and Treasurer, Miss Tegtmeyer, '12; and Representative to the Union, Mertz, '10. The group expects, in accordance with its custom of last year, to hold monthly meetings, in order to arouse interest among the members of this, the largest, yet the most inactive group in the institution.

FIELD HOUSE NEARING COMPLETION

The field house in all probability will be finished within the next week. The plumbing is about all that now remains unfinished and so it is hoped that before the next home game, that with Medico-Chi on October 16, this building which has for many years been greatly needed, will be in use by the football squad.

Pledges to the amount of $127.00 have been paid recently and among them is one of $25 from Mr. F. G. Mylertz, of Philadelphia, who has given valuable assistance in preparing for the erection of the house. The subscribers and the amounts paid follows:

Dr. E. F. Bickle, '00	$20.00
Rev. H. E. Jones	5.00
Rev. E. S. Bromer	10.00
Monroe Kulp	12.50
Gilbert Kulp	12.50
Martin Smith '06	5.00
J. T. Ebert	25.00
W. F. Kern, '02,	10.00
J. L. Roth, '03,	2.00
F. G. Mylertz	25.00
	$127.00

Mertz, '10, viewed the Penn-Gettysburg game on Saturday, and saw "The Man of the Hour" with the Gettysburg team in the evening at the "Walnut."

Wagner, '10, has begun instruction on the 'cello with one of the Philadelphia masters.

Keyser, '10, was in Roxborough on Saturday.

Miss Saylor, '12, is suffering from a severe cat-scratch.

Maeder, '10, has re-organized his Sunday School at Ironbridge for the winter, and has great expectations for a successful seasons work.

Miss Corrigan, '12, entertained Mr. S. S. Tracey, of Norristown, on Tuesday.

EDITORIAL

The opening of our football season has been about as auspicious as the most exacting of pessimists could require. If the pace of the team's work is continued through the fall, the season of 1908, and even that of 1902, will have its glory eclipsed by the brilliance of present achievements.

Comparing figures with last year's results, the team has already made a very material improvement over the 1908 record, which was considered by many to be one of the most remarkable among the colleges of the country. In the first game, with Williamson a week ago, the team added thirty points to last year's score, and their defensive powers were at no time severely tested. On Wednesday the boys played a fine defensive game and held Penn to a 22-0 victory, which is eight points better than last season's score. With the exception of some fumbling, the team has been playing together well. While the forward pass, one of our best offensive plays last year, has not yet been extensively practised, the team could advance the ball at will against Williamson on straight football, and even Penn could not prevent a number of substantial gains. The team's start this fall has been so markedly successful, and general athletic conditions are so much improved over what they have heretofore been, that we feel secure in leaving to the Varsity and to the scrub teams, and to Coach Price, the attainment of the point farthest north in Ursinus football records.

Last fall most of the college men signed their names to a petition requesting that exemptions from examinations be granted in those branches in which the student attained an average of A-. The petition was duly presented to the proper authorities, but no report of any action has, to our knowledge, been made known. This plan of exemption from examinations has some distinct advantages over the old method. It would partially, at least, eliminate the terrors of Exam. week, by reducing to a comparatively small number those who would be required to undergo the examinations. By having brief quizzes at intervals, the work of both professor and students would be lightened by an equal distribution of labor through the year, instead of a grand day and night orgy at the end of each term. Such a procedure would tend also to produce thoroughness of work, as the student, to qualify for the quizzes, would have to review each part of the term's work when it is still fairly fresh in his mind. Material so studied is more deeply impressed than is a whole half year's work rushed pell mell into a disordered mind in a single night. Another point which may be urged in favor of exemptions is that the hope of a reward in the shape of escape from an impending inquisition will most certainly stimulate a high standard of daily work, which after all should be the goal of every college student and professor. Exemption from examination has been tried in colleges, though not extensively, and has proved satisfactory. We know that student sentiment here is in favor of exemption, and we feel that to condemn it without trial is arbitrary. Here is an opportunity for Ursinus to prove herself different from most institutions, and, as matters appear, to the advantage of both student and faculty.

 The regular debate was in order on Friday evening, and the question, Resolved, That all students acquiring a term grade of A-, should be exempt from final examinations in Ursinus College, admitted of much free discussion by the debaters. The Affirmative side, composed of Godshall, '11, Dunseath, '10, and Yost, '10, brought out the following points:
 1. It would eliminate the cheating in final examinations.
 2. It would be an incentive to work.
 3. Students depend too much on final examinations and do not give enough attention to class room work.

West, '12, Keener, '11, and Moser, '10, who defended the Negative, based their arguments on the following points:
 1. Final examinations give a student a clearer conception of subjects.
 2. Professors would have fragmentary knowledge of students' ability, with any other method.
 3. If they are dishonest in final examinations they would be dishonest in monthly quizzes. The Judges decided in favor of the affirmative while the House in its decision favored the affirmative.

The Society was glad to welcome as an active member Mr. Theodore Claus, of Erie, Pa.

ports. Miss Freyer brought out the following points:
 1. Character is the greatest thing in life; done by personal friendship, contact and knowledge of God.
 2. Become a true friend of Christ's.
 3. Virtue conquers sin.
 4. Have a true knowledge of life.
 5. To serve is our duty.
 6. Pick out the hard things in life.

Miss Latshaw's report followed.
 1. Let us share our lives with Christ.
 2. It pays to be a Christian.
 3. We should control our personal relations with other students.
 4. Life is the knowledge of Jesus Christ.
 5. Everything God calls us to do is worth all it costs.
 6. One's work is an expression of one's life.

Some of the speakers during the Conference were Rev. Floyd W. Tompkins, Miss Corde, Rev. J. McDowell, Rev. Albert Ehrigott, Miss Dyer, Miss Florence Fitch, Miss Crane, Miss Scott.

In closing, the delegates urged that several of the members of the Y. W. C. A., attend the Conference next year, as it had been very beneficial to them. A short business' session was held after the meeting, at which reports of the various officers were given.

PENNSYLVANIA 22. URSINUS 0.

On Wednesday Ursinus played what is considered the hardest game of the season. When the eleven lined up against the University of Pennsylvania they realized that they were indeed slim. But Ursinus went into the game with a do-or-die spirit and the best the Red and Blue could do was to score four touchdowns, only one of which was earned.

This is the best Ursinus has ever done against Penn. Last year the game resulted in a 30 to 0 defeat and in 1906 the score was 39 to 0. All things considered, therefore, Ursinus adherents have every reason to feel satisfied with the result of the Penn game.

The contest again made patent several glaring defects, which are hard to account for when it is considered that the offenders are old and seasoned players. The men must take to heart the lessons of Wednesday and put forth the hardest kind of effort to eliminate fumbling and to learn to handle punts. Three times Ursinus fumbled within their own twenty yard line and every time the ball was covered by a red and blue jersey and from that point Penn had little trouble in scoring.

Pennsylvania could gain but little through Ursinus' line and all of her ground gaining was done outside of tackle or around the end. Ursinus worked the on-side kick for good gains and the forward pass was used successfully in several plays. Kerr Thompson and Keyser were conspicuous for Ursinus and Isenberg played a good offensive game.

The men have come through the grueling contest with only a few severe bruises and no serious injuries. Now that the Penn game is a matter of history the squad

H. K. Thomas, '10, and Fogleman, '10, were the guests of Abel, '09, after the Penn Game Wednesday.

Miss Deck, '12, spent Sunday at her home in West Leesport, Pa.

Forty loyal sons and daughters of Ursinus viewed the Penn game on Wednesday, and under the direction of cheer-leader Maeder, did their best to drown the lusty "Penn-syl-van-ia" of their rivals. A number of the Alumni were on hand, and helped the good work along.
