FOUNDERS' DAY

The annual Founders' Day exercises, instituted first last year, will be held this year on February 8. The address will be delivered at 3.00 o'clock in the afternoon by the Rev. John R. Davies, D. D., pastor of the Bethlehem Presbyterian Church, Broad and Diamond Streets, Philadelphia. Dr. Davies will speak on "Socialism." He is one of the ablest preachers in Philadelphia and is especially popular as a speaker on practical topics before gatherings of business men. President Keigwin will preside. Other features of the day will be announced next week.

DAY OF PRAYER

In observance of the regular Day of Prayer services for all colleges, a worship was participated in by the students of Ursinus College and Academy at 11 o'clock, Thursday morning, in Bomberger Hall.

Rev. John Watchorn, D. D., of Lancaster, was the speaker of the day and he chose for his text portions from the sixth and seventh verses of the fourth chapter of Zachariah : "Then he answered and spake unto me, saying, This is the word of the Lord unto Zerubbabel saying, Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord of hosts. Who art thou, O great mountain?" His discourse in brief follows : "You have all heard charges against the integrity and authenticity of the Word of God, and according to some persons it is impossible to harmonize different portions of the Bible which seem to be so contradictory. Such a conflict seems to be presented by the words of the text, which show, first, the presence of a human agency, and secondly of a Divine spirit present at work in the redemption of the world. However, to any one who will put themselves in a spiritual attitude and honestly make the attempt, there is no impossibility in the harmonization of the Scriptures so as to teach the fullest possible lessons in the redemption of the world. "The words of the text reveal the institution and the people of one great truth above all others and the community have a rare oppor- that is that God is not satisfied to tunity to hear one of the greatest redeem and save from sin and inlecturers on the platform and at iniquity, but He also calls us to cothe same time to see a very fine operate with Him in the larger collection of stereoptican pictures, work of the Kingdom of Heaven to Mr. Riis is known all over the help raise others. After a lapse of seven years, the Prince recommenced the work with exactly the same results with the exception that Darius had succeeded to the Persian throne and when the Samaritans appealed to him to stop the work, the voice of God so worked on the great King that he not only refused the order but likewise forbade the Samaritans from interfering and ordered them to help the Israelites with all the building materials they could command."

"This historical story is but an example of a picture that is reproduced minutely in every human life. First there is a desire in the heart of every human being, Christian or Pagan, to erect a temple for himself to worship God. Then arise the difficulties in the way like great mountains and too often does man yield in weakness and lose for the time being the great ideal of worship to God. But the last and greatest phase of the whole picture is the strong arm of God reaching down to earth and drawing the poor, weak sinner to Heaven. The salvation not coming through the might or power of temporal agencies but through the spirit of the Lord of Hosts. In our day and generation probably the greatest sin and difficulty that comes into our way is the mountain of temptation to petty sins such as vanity, pride, conceit, ego. But then at the last we have the Divine assurance that God will not tempt us beyond our power of endurance and that for every temptation there is a way of salvation open."

"Upon this earth we may not all become great according to the standards of man's judgement but we can all, by paying attention to little things that cross our pathway to guide us in the upward life, atjudfiement of God."

Christ from a human standpoint was a miserable failure. "A man of sorrows and acquainted with grief," yet so great was the efficacy of his sacrifice that we to-day owe our hope of an immortaliry through his perfect offering in the sight of God."

DATE OF MAY MUSICAL FESTIVAL CHANGED

The May Musical Festival, the great annual musical event of the College, which has been advertised to take place on May 5th and 6th, will not be held on these dates. The program will be rendered a week later, on May 12th and 13th, in order to accommdate the soprano soloist, Miss Florence Henkel, who has been engaged to sing on those dates at the Mount Eagle Musical Festival, Nashville, Tennessee.

The Mount Eagle Festival is one of the largest Festivals held in the Middle South, no effort being spared to procure the best soloists; their expenditures for soloists alone run high in the hundreds.

This change has been made to accommodate Miss Henkels, who is thus enabled to sing at both Festivals. Our Ursinus audiences will have the privilege of hearing Miss Henkel immediately upon her return from her conquest of the South. Don't forget the dates: Thursday, and Friday, May 12th and 13th.

ACADEMY NOTES

Miss Behrens visited friends in Philadelphia Saturday.

The Academy will no doubt be represented on the track again this year with prospects of even a better showing than last year.

Pownell attended a meeting of his class at Girard College Saturday evening in Philadelphia.

Miss Thomas is still at her home in Atlantic City where she was obliged to go on account of sickness. Weed, Allison, Gilland, Come and Horten under the watchful eye of Mr. West, '12, journeyed to Pennsburg Saturday and played the second basket ball team of Perkiomen Seminary, Considering the practice that the Academy has had the showing was good and they succeeded in holding Perkiotain to the height of glory in the men to 21 points. The score was 21-12.

EDITORIAL

The production of this issue of the "Weekly" has been left, through the temporary absence of the editor, in the hands of his assistants. College activities have been rather inert for the past week, and, because of the mental obsession of the students, due to to the examinations, nothing has happened of interest sufficient to stimulate editorial brain-cells to activity. There have been no further changes in the staff organization during the week now passing into history. Also the old piano continues to serve in our chapel worship. These themes have already suffered much wear in the pages of the "Weekly" and were it not for the fact that the absent editor left us a discourse suitable for use in this column, there is every probability that the paper would have appeared spaced double to aid in filling these four small pages, so quickly read-yet filled with what travail of mind and spirit ! If this issue of the paper contains little news, blame it on those who should have made some, or blame it on the examinations, from spare the editors. They were born without imagination and are not Philadelphia. accountable for the omission.

The Mid-Year Examinations which have just passed have again taught their victims the same lesson that they have taught many of us before, that we cannot honestly pass a final examination, unless we have paid attention to instruction and have studied during the term. With too many of us the examination is the end, and study the means to this end, when study should be the end in view and examinations merely the means of ascertaining if the end has been accomplished.

* * * *

With today, the second term begins. For the student, this is a better time to make resolutions than at the beginning of the year; and our instructors would no doubt be glad to see some made. So, with newness of purpose, let us make a little more effort than we did last term, to "make good."

Miss Rae Condon, '13, spent Tuésday in Norristown.

Y. M. C. A.

The regular meeting Wednesday evening in charge of Heinly was the most interesting and helpful service held this year. The subject for discussion was, "What think ye of Christ ?" The leader spoke in part as follows : "The question we have before us is one of the most profound that one can be asked. This man is the greatest half. that has ever lived. His birth is the beginning of a new era. He have the effect desired, it has established a kingdom of love. He raised the condition of women and children. His life and death and resurrection are historical facts. The remarkable work he accomplished in three years is a marvel as a student in the college for the to all, and no substitute for the resimen and religion of Jesus Christ has yet been introduced."

> The leader and the president then urged everyone to state his personal conception of Jesus Christ. The responses were as follows :

> Yost. He was a man just as truly divine as human and just as truly human as divine. His character bears this statement out. Douthett. I think Christ a man. He appeals to me as the greatest man but yet as only a man. If he is divine I can never attain unto his likeness but if human it is possible for me to become like him.

Beaver. The sweetest name man ever uttered is that of Jesus. His divinity is shown by the influence he has had and still has over the hearts of men, and the fact that he The moribund college orchestra is in the world to day. The way to percieve him aright says Paul, is to accept him.

> Dunseath: Our conception of Christ is often limited to ideas brought up in theological discssions. The best way to give your idea of Jesus is to show what he has done for you. If he is to mean anything to us we must receive his teachings. I like to think of Christ as the Lord.

> Herber: Religion is a part of our emotional nature we cannot expect to reason everything out. Christ has been a guide to me; I have been led to do many things I would not have done but for Jesus and his sublime character.

> Many good thoughts were also brought out by Herson, Keener, Strack and Lauer, all testifying Jesus the Divine Son as the Savior of the world.
