BACCALAUREATE SERMON

The Baccalaureate Sermon was preached Sunday evening by President Keigwin. He took as his text Isaiah 13:12, "I will make a man more precious than fine gold; even a man than the golden wedge of Ophir." He spoke in part as follows:

This statement was made by the prophet to the Babylonians when they were the masters of the world. Babylonia was master of sea and land and was fabulously rich. Her fall came, however, and she learned too late that her wealth lay in her men, and not in her money. She fell, because she could not buy men to fight her battles and do her work. Isaiah, therefore, uttered a true economic statement.

What is a man worth today? Let us take not an exceptional man, but a common laborer. He earns $2 a day, $12 a week, or $624 a year. He is worth this to his family, and to the butcher, the baker, etc., with whom he deals. It is safe to assume that he is worth twice as much to his employer as he receives. This makes the laborer worth $1200 a year. When this man dies or is incapacitated $1200 of the world's income ceases. This is equivalent to the interest on $25,000. Thus we might calculate how much all men are worth in dollars and cents. When some great calamity occurs, the hand and purse are ready and willing to help, but there are greater calamities befalling our land daily that go unheeded.

American mothers become discouraged and feel that they have done little to make the world better, but if they have sent strong sons and daughters out into the world they have enriched their country beyond measure.

America is awakening to the fact that if she is to endure she must conserve the human virtues and keep the race strong and pure men are ceasing to measure an individual by his bank account. It is worth that counts. There is always abundant work for the man who can do things. I congratulate you, members of the Senior Class, on graduating in such an age of opportunity.

At a meeting of the Athletic Committee, the following members of the 1910 baseball team were awarded the Varsity Letter: Captain Isenberg, Pownall, Horton, Gay, West, Starr, Kichline, Palmer K. Thompson, and Lindaman.

JUNIOR ORATORICAL CONTEST

The annual Junior Oratorical Contest was held on Monday evening of Commencement week, and resulted in a close and interesting contention for the honors. Each speaker showed the results of hard practice and careful training, while the orations themselves were of a high order. As usual, the contest proved a good attraction, and Bomberger was filled to its capacity with an enthusiastic and appreciative audience. The music was furnished by Diemer's Orchestra of Pottstown. The following program was rendered:

March, "Fairest of the Fair," Sousa
Overture, "Tancrede," Rossini

AWARDING OF THE MEDALS

BENEDICTION

The Judges, Silas S. Neff, Philadelphia, Prof. Henry V. Gummere, Philadelphia, and Rev. J. Allen Crawford, Norristown, made the awards as follows: first prize, the Hobson Medal, Ernest Erwin Quay; second prize, the Meminger Medal, Charles W. Langner; and honorable mention to Morvin W. Godshall.

CLASS DAY

Out of respect to their dead classmate, the graduating class dispensed with most of the Class Day Exercises. Only the planting of the tree and the handing down of the mantle were observed and these in a very quiet way. Howard B. Keyser, president of the 1910 class, had charge of the exercises and in a neat speech presented the spade to the Sophomore Class, Abraham Gladfelter receiving it for the class of 1912. Henry J. Herber president of the Junior class, received the mantle and closed the brief exercises with an appropriate speech.

COMMENCEMENT

The Commencement Exercises of the College were held on Wednesday morning in connection with the Fortieth Anniversary of the College and the Sixtieth Anniversary of Freeland Seminary. The exercises attracted the largest that has ever been present on Commencement day, and the program of the day was interesting and entertaining throughout. The most pleasing features of the day were the addresses of the Freeland Seminary graduates. An interesting item was the report of the Finance Committee, which showed that $58,000 had been received during the past year, which money will be used for the improvement of the buildings and grounds, and for the endowment fund. The following was the order of the Commencement and Anniversary exercises, with President A. Edwin Keigwin and Mr. Henry A. Hunsicker, for many years Principal of Freeland Seminary, presiding:

Music

Diemer's Orchestra, of Pottstown
Salutatory Oration, "The Curse of the Cities," Henry G. Maeder
Valedictory Oration, "A Vital Problem for the American People," Ernest C. Wagner

Commencement Oration,

The Honorable William S. Bennet
Anniversary Address,

The Honorable Wayne McVeagh

MEMORIAL SERVICES

On Monday morning a beautiful and impressive service was held in the chapel in memory of Edna K. Thomas and Fred M. Fogelman, who met such a tragic fate while boating on the Perkiomen.

Dr. Omwake read the scripture lesson and Prof. Kline followed with a prayer. Dr. Keigwin then spoke briefly. He told of his ability to sympathize with the bereaved families because of a similar incidence in his own life. He said it was not an occasion of disappointment and gloom, but of dawn and light. There is no such thing as death. The breath that God breathes into the nostrils at birth does not give birth to a perishable soul. God draws no line between the Eastern Hemisphere of life and the Western Hemisphere of death. The Bible is the only thing that gives hope, and to it we must go.

And now to the members of the graduating class, I say there is no doubt keen disappointment, but let us take a brighter view. Sometimes when all life's lessons have been learned, and we stand fearlessly before God, armed with the things that our clear judgement has led us to acquire; the things for which we were swept with lashes, yes swept into the entrance of life's dark night itself, yet stand as shining torches in the distance, face to face with the Divine, then we will see how all God's plans are right. So life must go on, and to this end we must wait.

The choir from Trinity church sang "Lead Kindly Light" in a very effective manner, and Prof. Jolls sang "Abide With Me."

SCHAFF SOCIETY

At a special meeting of the Schaff Society the following officers were elected for the next term:

EDITORIAL

If the readers of the "Weekly" will remember, at the beginning of the Base Ball season we predicted the team this year would equal if not surpass the record of last year's successful team. Although at that time the prospects to get a team to keep up the standard of the preceding year were not very bright, yet Coach Price succeeded in shaping up a team which even surpassed that of last year. Out of a total of sixteen games played they have brought victory back to Ursinus eleven times, allowing their opponents to capture the victory but five times. The percentage as we see from this is .688, while the record of last year's team was eleven games played, seven won, four lost, making a percentage of .636 for games won.

The credit for this is due to the Coach and team mainly. We would also like to say that to the student-body an equal amount of credit is due, but we believe that the students have not done what they should have this season. In the first place the students did not have enough interest to watch the team practising during the week and give them encouragement. Perhaps the cause of this in many cases was the many other outside duties which the student had pressed upon him continually. In the second place the students could not be gotten to work on the field to fix it up before the game. Much of this lack of help was due to laziness. At times the managers could not get more than one student to help on the field, while plenty of them were around the tennis courts watching a game or else loafing in their rooms.

But enough of this; we do not wish to spoil this last issue of the school year by a lot of knocking. Let us now give credit to whom credit is due. To the Coach, Mr. Price, belongs much of this credit. Starting out with material from which it seemed impossible to pick a winning team, he in a few weeks rounded up such a nine as has been seldom if at all, seen here before. To the manager Mr. Lindaman belongs the credit of arranging the schedule of twenty-two games. To arrange a schedule such as this, requires faithful attendance to business and some degree of tact. Lastly, to the team belongs the credit of really winning the games after faithful and hard practice. No matter how good the coach is, no matter how good a schedule we have, if the team does not play hard ball all the time the season will be more or less a fizzle. To the credit of the team we can say that they practised faithfully during the entire season.

Now let us look at the personnel of the team. Behind the bat was "Bill" Pownall. When the season opened the team lacked a catcher, but this snappy little player soon filled the position in a manner that deserves great praise. Horton and Palmer held down the pitcher's job in great style. The coach also had to find a new first baseman and he finally selected Gay who in a year or so should be as good as any of them. At second we again find Isenberg, who was also captain. He picked up grounders in his old style and also improved in his batting this year. Starr, at third played a great game all year. His base running was of the thrilling kind. Shortstop was a rather unsettled position at the beginning of the season but West was finally brought in from right field and, considering his inexperience at this position, played a good game. In the field Kichline, Horton, Palmer and K. Thompson all played good games. The substitutes, McNeile and Behney, both played hard when they were given the chance.

Now that this year has been so successfully passed and losing no members of the team by graduation we can look forward to an even more successful team next year.

The Reach Ball

The marvelous pitching records made by present-day slab artists are due in great part to the Reach Base Ball. It is only with a ball as perfect as the Reach that consistent control of intricate curves is possible. The Reach Ball is the only authorized ball of the Great American League, and was the official ball of the World's Series. It is the ball used by the big college teams in championship games—none but the best is good enough, and Reach Base Balls are conceded best by all.

NOTES

Rev. J. C. Mertz, '86, preached the baccalaureate sermon, on last Sunday night to the members of the graduating class of Riegelsville Academy.

The class of 1908 held a reunion and banquet at the Perkiomen Bridge Hotel on Wednesday immediately after the commencement exercises.

On Tuesday night at seven o'clock, the class of 1905 celebrated their first reunion with a banquet at the Perkiomen Bridge Hotel. A large percentage of the class was in attendance, and the affair was a complete success.

The class of 1900 held their decennial reunion at the Perkiomen Bridge Hotel on Wednesday of this week. The reunion was celebrated by a banquet, which was served after the regular commencement exercises.

Dr. C. G. Haines has severed his connections with the college and next year will be at the head of the History Department of Whitman College, Washington.

FUNERAL OF MISS THOMAS

On Tuesday, the closing day of the College year, the last tributes of respect were paid to Miss Edna Kepler Thomas at the home of her parents in Royersford. Most of the students viewed the body of their schoolmate between the hours of 10 and 12 o'clock.

The funeral was strictly private, only the immediate family being present. The addresses were made by Rev. Welker, her pastor, and by Prof. Kline from the college. Mrs. Stover of Royersford sang two hymns which were peculiarly appropriate, and a quartette consisting of Behney, Saylor, Maeder and Lauer sang two selections. The floral tributes were much in evidence; those presented by numerous organizations of the college and especially those presented by the family showed that there existed a deep respect. The pall-bearers were Maeder, '10, Saylor, '10, Jacobs, '12, Behney, '12 and Schellhamer, '12.

FUNERAL OF MR. FOGELMAN

The funeral was held last Tuesday afternoon from the residence of his uncle Samuel R. Ludwig, of Sheridan, Pa. The services were in charge of the Rev. Laudenslager of Sheridan, who spoke in a fitting manner of the deceased. The college was represented by Prof. Wailes who spoke in a beautiful manner of the untimely end of this popular student.

Messrs. R. S. Thomas, Spears, Wagner and Quay sang two selections. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful, showing the deep respect of the many friends of the unfortunate man. The pall-bearers were six classmates of the dead man, Knauer Spears, Wagner, R. S. Thomas, Mertz and Lindaman. At the grave a detachment from Warren Lodge, of which the deceased was a member, performed the beautiful
